SURVEY OF U. OF D. IS RELEASED TO PUBLIC

Report Placed On Sale With Comments By Dr. Hullihen

The report of the commission appointed by the Board of Trustees of the University of Delaware to make a survey of the institution was released for public digestion this week.

Included with the report are comments of Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the university, before the meeting of the trustees last month. The report and Dr. Hullihen's comments are on sale at the business office of the university at a cost of 10 cents.

Following a survey of the university in 1935 by a group of students, the alumni association appointed a committee to give consideration to the findings. In accordance with the association's wishes, the trustees approved a comprehensive survey of the university administration, its scholastic standing, curricula content, instruction standards, and other general activities.

Members Outstanding
The survey commission, consisting of Dr. Frederick James Kelly, Dr. Jacob Goodale Lipman, and Dr. Clarence Williams, was appointed with a view to embodying in its membership men whose experience had made them conversant with the range of activities represented at the university.

Dr. Kelly, chief of the Division of Higher Education, Office of Education, Washington; Dr. Lipman, dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Rutgers University; and Mr. Williams, president of Lehigh University, are among the outstanding members of their respective fields in the United States.

In the summary of its findings, the commission recommended that educational opportunities be extended through the university's own activities and by articulating its program with established universities in those fields for which it may not be able to provide the instruction within its own program.

Urges New Organization
Commending the university for genuine, even notable, progress in the quarter of a century as a state institution, the commission urged a merger between existing organizations at Delaware College and the University of Delaware.

LOCAL MEN ATTEND SESSION

Local Student Reads Paper At Richmond

Several members of the University of Delaware extension staff participated in the annual meeting of the American Association for Advancement of Science held in Richmond, Va., recently.

Among those who attended from the university were: Dr. T. F. Manns, S. L. Hopperstead, Kenneth Kadow, Dr. L. A. Stearns, and M. W. Goodwin. Dr. John Heuburger, formerly connected with the Delaware staff, now associated with the New York State Agricultural Station, Geneva, N. Y., also took part, while A. A. Nikitin, now connected with the Tennessee Copper Company, Copper Hill, Tenn., also presented a paper.

Student Presents Paper

Thomas Laskaris, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Laskaris, E. Main Street, who is a graduate of the University of Delaware, class of 1937, and of the Newark High School, class of 1933, presented a paper on "The Occurrence of Lysis on Certain Crosses of Sphacelotheca Sorghi." Awarded his master's degree at the University of Minnesota where he is doing graduate work, Laskaris is now studying for his doctor's degree.

Other papers presented were: "Relation of Copper Fungicides to Lead Arsenate-Lime and Fixed Nicotine Oil Sprays," given following research work by Dr. Stearns, Kadow, Hopperstead, and Goodwin; "Adherence Properties of Copper Fungicides as Determined by Chemical Analysis and by Catephoresis," Nikitin; "Yellow Caperous Oxide as a Fungicide of Small Particle Size," Dr. Heuburger and J. G. Horsfall; and "The Use of New Copper Sprays," Kadow.

535 Children Cared For By Board During December

A total of 535 dependent and neglected children were cared for during December, Director C. Rollin Zane reported at the January meeting of the State Board of Charities in Wilmington on Monday. The entire board, consisting of Dr. Charles L. Candee, president, Mrs. William S. Bergland, Jr., Thompson Brown, Mrs. Harry Mayer, and Rev. R. Y. Barber, attended.

December financial reports were approved. A total of $5,346.74 was expended in state funds and $1,268.79 in federal funds. A total of $800.01 was received from the Relief Department of the Old Age Welfare Commission and $103.50 from private sources.

Delaware Alumni Groups To Confer On February 4

A one-day conference of various representatives of the University of Delaware Alumni Association will be held in Old College on Saturday, February 4.

Invitations to this meeting have been extended to members of the association's executive committee, standing committees, local club officers, and class secretaries.

The purpose of the conference is to outline to the representatives who attend the work which the association has already undertaken and its plans for further expansion, and also to secure the suggestions and cooperation of these various alumni officers and committees.

Organization And Finances

At the morning session the general topic will deal with the organization and finances of the association.

28 AWARDS TAKEN AT CROP SHOW

Local Entries Featured At Camden Display

With F. Thaddeus Warrington, instructor in vocational agriculture at the Newark High School, leading the field, local entries in the 32nd annual show of Delaware crops made off with 28 premium awards. The show, which was conducted in the Fruitland Grange Hall, Camden, last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday drew one of the largest entry lists of the lengthy series.

Mr. Warrington, in addition to capturing several prizes for his personal entries, stepped into the limelight when Georgetown and Newark tied for top honors in the Vocational Agriculture High School Exhibits. Before leaving his post in Georgetown in August, Mr. Warrington laid the foundation for the Sussex County school's successful showing, then came to Newark to build up a display to equal it. The feat is being hailed by agricultural leaders throughout the state.

Following are the complete results of the show:

An Open Letter

The School Board and Administration
Newark Public Schools
Newark, Delaware

Gentlemen:

You have just recently inaugurated a new system for the noon-hour lunch period in our local school. For the older children, at least, the time allowed for lunch has been cut to 30 minutes. One of the reasons advanced for this shortening of the lunch period is to lessen aimless waste of time at midday. Might we ask a few questions?

When did it become "an aimless waste of time" for parents to prepare a hot, nourishing lunch for their children and give them time to eat it? You teach the children that they should have hot soups, milk, salads, etc., for their noon-day lunch. Are you prepared to offer them these things in your cafeteria? You have not so far. Can you serve them for the same cost as we parents can in our homes? If not, are we parents in the lower income group going to penalize our children by packing a cold, unappetizing lunch in a box? You realize, of course, that our incomes cannot possibly be made to cover the additional expense of lunches for each of our children in the cafeteria. This is in spite of the fact that the school makes no profit on the cafeteria. Please allow us to infer that you gave this very little thought.

When did it become "an aimless waste of time" for parents to train their children to eat slowly and chew their food thoroughly? If we pack lunches for our children or send them to the cafeteria, are you going to provide sufficient supervision to give them this training? No, you are not. Rather you will rush them through as fast as possible because your cafeteria facilities are inadequate and you must make room for the other children. So far, you have not even had sufficient good food available to supply adequately those who have lunched at the cafeteria.

When did it become "an aimless waste of time" for children to relax and slow up for a short period in the middle of the day? Eminent health authorities tell us that we go at too fast a pace and the resulting nerve strain is filling our state hospitals for the insane. Your program is speeding up the child's day until everything is hurry, hurry, hurry. No time is left for the brain and body to have a minute's relaxation. What is this going to do to the nervous systems of our children? You should be helping our children toward better health, but have you thought of that?

If it is "an aimless waste of time" to give just 15 minutes more for lunch in the middle of the day, just what are the children to do with that 15 minutes that you have so considerably saved them? Time is never wasted unless you have some better use that you can make of it. Of course, you have said that the children would have more time to be of service in the home. Do not any of you have children of your own? Are you suggesting that children should occupy every minute of their time either in work or at school?

It is "an aimless waste of time" to give the children 15 more minutes for lunch, but just how shall we describe the extra work made for busy mothers by the necessity of packing lunches for two, three, or four children?

You give, as another reason for the shortened lunch hour, the fact that it will "conform more nearly with the practice of other high schools." Are we incapable of individual action? Can we not think for ourselves? Must we copy some other school's idea without regard to the health and well being of our children? This is a poor excuse. There is no reason to ruin the health, nervous system, and disposition of our children simply in an effort to conform with a system set up in some other community.

This might go on and on, but may we suggest in closing that the faculty and administration of our local school considered their own convenience rather than the welfare of our children when they advocated and put into effect the shortened lunch hour. What are they going to do with their 15 minutes that they have so efficiently prevented from being "aimlessly wasted"?

Holloway Backs Adoption Of 30-Minute Plan

A fight, that started with resonant parents aiming barbs of objection at school officials over the recently introduced half-hour lunch period at the Newark High School, has evolved into a battle of divided parental opinion.

While objectors to the plan were the first to make themselves heard on the subject, a growing group of parents favoring the 30-minute luncheon session has been assembling in defense of the officials who introduced it.

Although little direct action has been taken toward school officers or members of the local board of education, the subject has been rife at club meetings, social gatherings, and in street-corner discussions.

While rival camps of opinion skirmish over the question, information recently disclosed indicates that the Newark High School is among the last of the larger public institutions in the state to adopt a 30-minute luncheon period.

Hailed By Holloway

The move was voluntary on the part of local officials, but it was put into effect barely hours before the State Board of Education had planned to request such a move.

The information came to light in a letter from H. V. Holloway, secretary of the State Department of Public Instruction, dated December 23 and addressed to Carleton E. Douglass, superintendent of Newark schools. The revised lunch-hour

Meeting Postponed

The January meeting of the Newark Board of Education, regularly scheduled for Friday evening, January 13, has been postponed to Monday evening, January 16, at 7:30 o'clock.

Meetings of the board, which are held in the office of Superintendent of Schools Carleton E. Douglass, Newark High School, are open to the public.

plan was announced in a letter to all parents dated December 20.

In his letter to Mr. Douglass, Dr. Holloway stated: "I note with satisfaction that you have already taken into consideration and acted upon a matter which the State Board of Education has requested me to take up with you; namely, the adjustment of your schedule in the Newark Schools so as to avoid some of the very objectionable waits which children have had to suffer, particularly those children who attend the Eden and Christiana schools on buses which also transport children to Newark."

"I have had several complaints about this very trying situation and, therefore, have noted your changes with all the more satisfaction. I hope that you will be able to continue this adjustment in spite of some local objections."

Faculty Comes Improvement

Children, in many cases, according to school officials, have been forced to lose as much as two and one-half hours a day waiting for buses under the former one-hour period for luncheon. In other cases, it is pointed out, children attending rural schools in the Newark district have been forced to spend lengthy periods waiting for buses.

In bad weather, teachers at rural schools have either remained late to keep buildings open in order to protect their pupils who were waiting for buses, or the children remained along the roadside without protection.

BODY TO RECONVENE; G. O. P. IN COMMAND

Interest Shown In Office Row Between Cooch And P. W. Green

A flood of from 600 to 800 bills is expected to confront the General Assembly which re-convened at noon today following a recess of one week. Both branches have perfected organizations and are ready for the introduction of bills. The deadline for the admission of new business will be set for early in February, it is predicted by leaders.

Senator David W. Steele, president pro tem of the Senate, is expected to announce his committee assignments today. He has withheld the list pending the result of the special election in the Second Senatorial District, Wilmington, to name a successor to the late Senator Daniel E. Kelly.

Senator Edward Abrahams, Jr., elected to the vacancy Monday, will likely receive assignments on several of the committees. One of the first undertakings of the Senate today was to seat Senator Abrahams, the Republican candidate who defeated Sigmund Schorr, Democrat, by a margin of 9,311 to 6,471.

House Short Member

There is a vacancy in the House caused by the death of Rep.-Elect J. R. Smith, Maryland. The call for a special election in the Fourth Representative District of Kent County to name his successor is expected to be issued today by Speaker Frank R. Zebley.

The Speaker had intended to issue the call so the election could be held next Saturday, but the week's adjournment forced another delay. It is thought that the election will be held on Saturday, January 21.

Members of both branches of the Assembly are awaiting with interest the result of the feud between Lieut.-Governor Edward W. Cooch and P. Warren Green, chief legislative attorney, over the possession of one of the offices on the second floor of the legislative building.

Arrangement Sought

Mr. Cooch has been occupying the office, but the dissenters were scheduled to confer with the custodian in an attempt to arrive at some settlement.

The trouble over the office has developed the fact that there is actually no one designated as having charge of the legislative building, which probably will be remedied with a bill at the current session.

A report is expected soon from the special Senate committee, headed by Senator Paul R. Rindard, which has been investigating the State Highway Department and the Stockley Colony for Feeble-Minded Children. The committee was named at the special Senate session in December.

With the seating of Senator Abrahams, the Republicans will have a three-fifths majority in both branches of the Assembly. This will enable them to override Governor R. C. McMullen on any measure he may veto.

State Employment Branch Here Opened With Rush

According to F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., manager of the Delaware State Employment Service, 150 individuals visited the local branch office which opened at the Council of Newark Headquarters, 26 Academy Street, Monday.

Miss Alice Kerr, a member of the state staff, is in charge of the local office which will be open every Monday and Tuesday. Of the initial group of applicants, 70 applied for unemployment compensation, 25 entered continued claim for unemployment compensation, 12 filed for employment, and the remaining entered miscellaneous questions concerning the service.

The branch is ready to serve the needs of local employers for factory, construction, clerical, office, professional, and domestic workers, both male and female. The Newark telephone number of the office is 591, while the Wilmington number is 4331.

Press Association To Hold Annual Session

The annual meeting of the Delaware Press Association will be held at Annapolis, Md., on Saturday, January 21, in compliance with an invitation from the Maryland Press Association which will meet there at the same time.

U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings will be the speaker at a joint luncheon scheduled to start at one o'clock, while at the dinner meeting in the evening, Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor will deliver an address.

Graduate Nurses To Hold Annual Meeting Friday

Plans for the annual meeting of the State Association of Graduate Nurses to be held on Friday, were discussed Thursday evening at the monthly meeting of the directors at the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington.

Scheduled to start at 8:30 a. m. with a breakfast for the board, the day's program will include the annual business meeting which will take place in the gold ballroom at ten o'clock.

Dean Marjory S. Golder, of the Women's College, University of Delaware, will speak at the general luncheon, scheduled to take place at 12:30 p. m. in the hotel.

Newark Music Society To Meet On January 31

The Newark Music Society will meet Tuesday evening, January 31 at the home of Mrs. Frederick Ritz, W. Park Place.

Eastern Star Lodge To Hold Bake January 19

Newark Chapter No. 10, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a covered dish supper for members and their friends, on Thursday, January 19, at 6:30 p. m. in the chapter room. Following the affair, the regular semi-monthly meeting will be held at 8 o'clock, with Mrs. Alice C. Abbott, worthy matron, and W. Harmon Money, worthy patron, presiding.

University Drama Group To Meet Friday Evening

The University Drama Group will conduct a business meeting in the Lounge of Old College, University of Delaware, on Friday evening at seven-thirty. It was announced this week by Miss Catherine Ort, secretary. Refreshments will be served.

"Food For Thought" New Board Of Health Column

"Food for Thought" is the title of a weekly column on eating as applied to health, beauty and economy, to be written by Miss Charlotte Spencer, nutritionist for the Delaware State Board of Health, and to appear regularly in this paper. This series of articles makes its initial appearance in this issue of the Post.

Many health and diet columns are available to newspapers from publishing syndicates, from manufacturers of various edibles, and from food fadists. But Miss Spencer's "Food for Thought" column is the only one which will devote itself entirely to the economical and healthful preparation of menus from foods readily available in Delaware.

Food And Beauty

The first article of this series, which appears elsewhere in this paper, explains that "the food you eat greatly affects your appearance, health and vitality." It emphasizes the necessity of a good healthy, properly nurtured body if one is to have strength, beauty, an alert mind and a balanced budget.

"The vitality and sparkle of buoyant health contribute far more to the charm of a beautiful woman than anything which she can buy in a make-up box," it states.

To supplement the material appearing therein, the column concludes with an offer of a series of leaflets describing the protective foods, with especial emphasis on those raised in Delaware. These pamphlets may be had on request.

NEWPORT OFFICERS ELECTED

Meter Repair Problem Faces Town Residents

By Miss Emma S. MacLary
Newport, Jan. 11.—At the annual meeting of the Newport Town Board on Friday night the matter of repair to water meters, which must be kept up by the consumer, was discussed, and residents whose meters are out of order were notified that they must be repaired within two weeks or definite action will be taken by the council.

Town Election

At the annual town election on Monday evening three commissioners were elected to the board, as follows: John M. Benson, Ralph B. Carpenter and Alfred M. Craig. W. Wetherell was re-elected chairman. Other officers elected were Arthur T. Groomer—treasurer, and Charles S. Houli, assessor. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Minerva Fire Company entertained the Newport Town Board on Wednesday evening. The local committee in charge comprised: Entertainment, Mrs. Emily Lucas, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Rawlinson and Mrs. Mattie Walters; Hospitality, Mrs. William Clark, chairman, assisted by Mrs. John Cunningham and Mrs. R. S. Pordham.

Executive Board Session

At the meeting of the executive board of the Krebs School P-T-A, held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Blank, president, plans and details were discussed for the annual party to be held in the auditorium of the school on Friday evening, February 3. The next meeting of the P-T-A will be on January 19, which will be known as "January Organization Night," at which time junior organizations of the town will present the program of entertainment.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Newport M. E. Church was held on Monday evening in the church, with Dr. W. E. Gumbey presiding. Appointments for the ensuing year were confirmed.

Pupils Entertain

The first, second and third grades of the Krebs School held a show in the auditorium of the school on Friday, at which time they displayed many beautiful new toys received at Christmas. They invited members of the faculty, and pupils of other grades to attend the show. The kindergarten children of the Krebs School, with Mrs. A. M. Mann, instructor, in charge is making a study of the Eskimo, and are erecting in Eskimo village in their class room.

The Newport Woman's Club will hold a social on Thursday evening in the club room.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Minerva Fire Company at its meeting Tuesday evening nominated officers for the ensuing year, as follows: President, Miss Eleanor Clark and Mrs. Alvin Ruth; first vice-president, Mrs. William Hendrickson and Mrs. Thomas Galloway; second vice-president, Mrs. A. M. Galloway; treasurer, Mrs. R. S. Pordham.

Progressive Meet

The Young Women's Progressive Club of Newport held a meeting last week, with Mrs. Claude Williams presiding. Plans were made for a covered dish supper to be held January 17 at which time members, their husbands and families will be guests. Mrs. Mildred Willis, chairman of arrangements for supper, and is being assisted by Mrs. Esther Johnston and Miss Margaret Steinbaker. Mrs. Albert Steinbaker is chairman of the program of entertainment to be presented following the supper.

Mrs. W. F. Klund who has been here for three weeks at her home on Broadway was removed to the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, on Sunday where she is now a patient.

Episodes From Lincoln's Life Feature Two Local Programs

High School Audience And Lions Acclaim Unusual Presentations

By Stagehand

Three episodes from the life of Abraham Lincoln, presented Wednesday morning at the weekly assembly of Newark High School students by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Parsons, Philadelphia, were received with sustained applause and unanimous approval by the gathering of more than 500 that packed the spacious school auditorium. The episodes included "The Jeffersons Appeal" by Charles Klein; "The Sleeping Sentinel" by John Hoggland; and "The Perfect Tribute" by Mary Shipman Andrews. Depicting Lincoln in his law office in Springfield, Ill., in 1858, the first episode revealed the Emancipator's love for fair play and his tendency to champion the cause of the down-trodden.

The second episode is laid on a river steamer, the "Ocean Queen," off City Point, Va., March 27, 1865, following Lincoln's conference with Grant, Sherman, and Porter.

It concerns a Yankee drummer boy sentenced to be shot for going to sleep on duty. Lincoln's love for youth, and his sense of kindness and gentleness to the innocent, even in the face of conventions, are clearly brought out in this episode.

In the final presentation, Lincoln's conversation with a wounded Confederate officer who dies in his arms the day following the Gettysburg address, indicates his generosity, and sympathetic tolerance, even to a member of an opposing force.

Previous to their appearance at the high school, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons presented "The Jeffersons Appeal" and "The Perfect Tribute" before the weekly meeting of the

THINE AND MINE

LAURA GRAY

Mary Martin's step quickened on her way from school, as she remembered the dainty little pink silk handkerchief she'd won for a prize at a party the afternoon before.

Mary was seven, a younger member of a large family, and a party was something to be remembered for life.

"Hello, Jim," she called to her big brother who was starting off on his bicycle. "I thought you couldn't go to the picnic because your bicycle needed a new tire."

"So it did, but I took one from Joan's. She can't say anything; she helped herself to my paints, and has kept them at school." He speeded off.

Good Hiding Place

Mary danced on glad she'd thought of a good hiding-place for her darling handkerchief, for in this family one could never be sure that any of his personal belongings were safe. If one of the boys or girls wanted a clean handkerchief, or vest, or stockings, and had none of his own handy, he just took his brother's or sister's. Shoes, books, treasures were all common property.

Indoors, Mary sped to her bedroom—it was hers and Joan's—and lifted the corner of her mattress. She'd thought this a wonderful hiding-place; but the handkerchief was gone! Accustomed as she was to having her treasures taken, Mary's lip quivered, tears blurred her sight. This one handkerchief was precious.

Mary seeks revenge. She opened a bureau drawer and rummaged in a mass of things belonging to three or four of the family. Wasn't there something she could take, in turn—to get even somehow? Nancy's beaded purse! Nancy'd be angry, but that couldn't be helped. Mary pocketed the purse, took the drawer with a push and was going downstairs when

Make Hitler Harmless, Says H. G. Wells

In Great Britain when they want to foresee the future they immediately page the major prophet, H. G. Wells. In America they watch for one of Dr. Gallup's uncannily accurate polls on the public pulse.

The editors of the February issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine have done both, and present sensational stories from both men. The immediate future of the hundreds of millions of people hinges upon the unchecked impulses of a mere handful of men, writes H. G. Wells. "You could be rendered harmless and put away as soon as possible."

The famous British author points to the open record of Hitler, his published speeches, his role in the program going on at the moment, his delusions of grandeur and his form of homicidal mania.

"Possibly they may fall out with one another," writes Wells. "Possibly some daring group may take the risk of a second blood bath. If and when these things go."

In sharp contrast, is the opinion of Dr. George Gallup, who, as Director of American Institute of Public Opinion, has access to vast supplies of information, available to very few men in the nation. "The American nation is changing," says Dr. Gallup. "We—the American people—are moving toward the right, toward a more conservative viewpoint in national politics. The November election with its Republican gains, highlighted the trend. Actually, it was revealed long before then, for the Institute's studies began to detect it in 1937 directly after the sit-down strikes and the President's Supreme Court proposal.

Barring some emergency like war, the pendulum may continue to swing toward the right next year because the public is no longer in a mood for experimentation to the same degree that it was when the New Deal came to power.

"What we are witnessing, and will witness, is a public desire for 'leveling off' in the tempo of change brought about by the New Deal, a desire for consolidating the gains after a period of rapid social adjustment."

"The public acclaimed and supported many of the reforms of the New Deal, watched the administration win blanket powers from Congress, and according to the latest survey, is still for President Roosevelt by a fair-sized majority. But it wants to see the legislative power re-asserted. For example, while a third of the voters say they would have supported all of Roosevelt's measures if they had been sitting in Congress, two-thirds say they would have opposed many of these measures. An equally large majority, more than seven in every ten, think Congress should no longer give the President lump sums of money to spend as he wishes for relief and recovery. They want Congress to exercise greater control over how it is spent."

The old saying "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" certainly applies to what we eat. Our bodies must be constructed from the food which we take in. It is only simple arithmetic that to build a good body we must furnish good materials. The right kind of food can do much toward making us good to look at. It can contribute greatly in keeping our skin clear, our hair glossy, in building and maintaining strong straight bones and teeth, a normal weight, and in giving us an active and vigorous life.

Clear skin and pretty hair depend directly on our diet. Any chicken farmer knows the difference which diet will make in feathers. The poorly fed chicken is often poorly feathered. In people skin blemishes, a sallow complexion without color, scraggly unmanageable hair, and even ragged cuticle edges and brittle nails often respond very quickly to a diet with plenty of vegetables, fruits, milk, whole grain cereals, and dark bread.

The building of straight and shapely arms and legs, of good teeth, good chest formation, a straight spine and firm muscles is definitely a function of what we eat. There are over forty children in Delaware who are so crippled as to need surgery and whose crippling is due to nutritional deficiencies. How many more of us there are whose attractiveness is marred by knock-knees, bowlegs, poor teeth and flabby muscle tone! All of these could have been prevented by proper feeding. There is considerable evidence to show that a change to a good diet will do much to remedy defects already existing in dental structure. Improved muscle tone will be the result of improved nutrition.

Good nutrition will not only increase length of life, but it will also postpone the signs of old age. Laboratory animals on a well balanced diet remain young in appearance over a far longer period than do their twin brothers on a mediocre diet. There is every reason to believe that an investment in good habits of eating will pay a far greater return in preserving the characteristics of youth.

Her best comments were: "It's like a sweetestaking winning," and later: "I imagine a lot of people will think it a mistake to give it to me."

FOOD for THOUGHT

By CHARLOTTE SPENCER
Nutritionist, State Board of Health

Well chosen food is a fundamental necessity for a strong and beautiful body, an alert mind, and a balanced budget. The vitality and sparkle of buoyant health contribute far more to the charm of a beautiful woman than anything which she can buy in a makeup box. There is no better heritage for any child than a well built body with a good bone, tooth, and muscle formation.

The old saying "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" certainly applies to what we eat. Our bodies must be constructed from the food which we take in. It is only simple arithmetic that to build a good body we must furnish good materials. The right kind of food can do much toward making us good to look at. It can contribute greatly in keeping our skin clear, our hair glossy, in building and maintaining strong straight bones and teeth, a normal weight, and in giving us an active and vigorous life.

Clear skin and pretty hair depend directly on our diet. Any chicken farmer knows the difference which diet will make in feathers. The poorly fed chicken is often poorly feathered. In people skin blemishes, a sallow complexion without color, scraggly unmanageable hair, and even ragged cuticle edges and brittle nails often respond very quickly to a diet with plenty of vegetables, fruits, milk, whole grain cereals, and dark bread.

The building of straight and shapely arms and legs, of good teeth, good chest formation, a straight spine and firm muscles is definitely a function of what we eat. There are over forty children in Delaware who are so crippled as to need surgery and whose crippling is due to nutritional deficiencies. How many more of us there are whose attractiveness is marred by knock-knees, bowlegs, poor teeth and flabby muscle tone! All of these could have been prevented by proper feeding. DELAWARE APPRECIATES ITS OWN CONTINENTAL AMERICAN LIFE.

By Edgar Pennington Young

It comes as a surprise to most of us that one of the important products of Delaware is life insurance. For the Diamond State can boast of her own company—the Continental American Life Insurance Company in Wilmington.

Small as compared to the giants in the business, Continental American is nevertheless bigger than about two hundred other life insurance companies in the United States. The company not only has a character of its own, but has written an enviable record for steady growth since Philip Burnet, a native son of Delaware, founded it in 1907.

So soundly did Burnet and the co-founders of Continental American build, that the company name has literally become a household word through most sections of Delaware—besides the substantial business done in ten other states.

According to the annual report of the Delaware Insurance Commissioner for the year 1937 (the latest full year on which his figures are available) 57 life insurance companies sold "ordinary" life insurance in Delaware. These include the very largest companies. Yet his report shows that more people bought from Continental American Life than from any other among the 57. Delaware's own company leads the list for new business sold during the year—and also the list for total amount of insurance "in force" at the end of the year.

These facts are "an open book" to anyone who cares to look them up, and it is with pleasure that we present them here.

Two items in the news, however, are the particular reasons why we take this opportunity to talk about Continental American. One is the report that the company has purchased a site for its own home office building at the corner of Rodney Square, and is now preparing plans for a fine building to harmonize with the governmental buildings surrounding the little park. We believe that the completion of this structure, which will probably be realized sometime in 1940, will be as thrilling to the citizens of Delaware as I happen to know it will be to the officials and employees of the company itself.

The other news item is the remarkable record of Continental American during the year 1938—a year in which life insurance as a whole suffered a mild setback in new business sold. Continental American not only put more business on its books than it has in 1937 by a substantial margin, but it enjoyed the biggest year in its entire history.

One of the things this company is famous for throughout the life insurance world is the development of a special contract called the Family Income Policy. This policy, which is now a part of the "line" of practically every life insurance company, was originated and introduced by Continental American in 1930 as the culmination of the special philosophy on which the company has always operated—"stretching the protective power of the premium dollar."

The Family Income policy, in case of the death of the "insured," pays his family a monthly salary for a definite number of years; and at the end of that period pays them the regular "face amount" of the policy—all for a premium investment of very little larger than the usual type of whole life policy for the same face amount.

Besides its solid growth and the exceptional security this company offers those who insure with it, Continental American is known today chiefly for two things: the Family Income Policy, and the low-rate "Preferred Class" insurance it offers to those whose health, occupation, and general circumstances, are above the average. Whereas the usual company offers no more than one of these select-risk or Preferred Class contracts, Continental American offers a full portfolio of ten.

For these and other reasons, we commend the Continental American to you.

GETTING WORK DONE

It is related of Henry Ward Beecher, the great Brooklyn preacher of the last century, that when a friend once asked how he managed to get through so much work in a day, he replied:

"By never doing anything twice. I never anticipate my work and never worry about it. When the time comes to do a thing, I do it, and that's the end of it."

The formula sounds simple enough, but how many of us can follow it? An exchange contrasts the methods of fussy persons with the concentration and directness of a Beecher, in this fashion:

"The fussy, hurried, worried man is the chap who tries to do everything at once. He dabbles in this and dabbles in that—finishing nothing. He picks up a letter to answer it and lays it down to pick up another letter and fuss with that. He puts the hard work at the bottom of the pile. He leaves a hard job on his desk day after day until it absolutely has to be done and then he rushes it out in such a hurry that it seldom is done right.

"The big things of life are never done by a fussy man. When one is worrying about half a dozen tasks that must be done in the future, he fails to do the present task as it should be done. One task at a time, finished and started on its way before tackling the next task, is a rule that makes for poise and power."

The Kozloff brothers of Reading, Pa., play their cousins, the Goodman brothers, in an annual game of basketball to decide the superiority of the families.

Bleached Bones

In the course of our limited travels, we have seen a number of places, and observed many things. We trod the mountain passes of Transylvania, under centuries of hardwood forests, where Dracula haunts illiterate Wallachian peasants; we have wandered in misty, damp jungles, where dampness and heat hangs immobile, like a hangman's noose weighted with soulless hulks; we have looked down from snow-capped peaks of the Alps upon walls and terraces built by puny Man, to conserve moisture and hold life giving humus; we have eaten of the coarse bread of the Mongol and tasted the grit of Sahara in the greasy palf of the bedraggled Bedouin.

We have seen fertile hills and valleys, where water and soil, the two basic assets of Nature have been treated with respect by sagacious man; and again, we have seen desert wastes, where a conflict between over ambitious Man and outraged Nature, made soil a dead thing.

Barren, desolate, and bereft of organic life, water, soil and organic life. Man's happiness, prosperity and permanence, cannot be assured, promoted or retained, if the generous and very essential balance of this triangle is disrupted. Disturb or abuse one, and, either directly or indirectly, all three are disturbed or abused. The eroded naked hills of China, and the sand-covered cities of Babylon and the Euphrates valley are good examples of what happens to Man, when this eternal, Nature established triangle is forcibly upset by axe or plow.

We Americans, on this continent, enjoy civilization which gives us the highest standard of living ever known in the history of mankind. But according to experts who should and do know, bringing about this prosperity, we have unwisely disregarded and in many cases fully abused, by drainage, deforestation, and improvident selection and methods of cultivation, many sections of our country and thereby upset basic hydrological arrangements, established by Nature for the furtherance and support of biological, physical, and chemical laws and processes.

Of course we have justifications galore, as individuals and as a nation, but the fact remains unless we take immediate and in many cases drastic steps to remedy this waste of our two most essential basic assets, the bleached bones of American civilization are doomed to join those of other nations and civilizations gone before us.

Knowing these things, we became very interested indeed, when President Roosevelt in his speech, opening the 76th Congress, and speaking of governmental expenses and income said, "If Congress decides this is a sixty billion dollar country, then the elimination of enough activities of government to bring the expenses of government immediately into balance with income of government will be necessary." But continued the President, "few million dollars saved here or there in the normal or in curtailed work of the old departments and commissions will make no great savings therefore."

Incidentally, when Tom Mooney went to jail, preparedness was the most important topic of the day. A year later we joined 53 other nations on the scarlet fields of France.

Today, upon his release, and 22 years later, Tom Mooney finds the same type headlines in our press. What will happen next year? Will we have a whole year?

University Plans Three Spring Stage Offerings

The University of Delaware department of dramatics, in announcing the program of plays planned for the spring session at Mitchell Hall, has included such interesting productions as: "It Can't Happen Here" by Sinclair Lewis; a one-act version of "Saturday's Children" by Maxwell Anderson; Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing"; and an original one-act play by a Women's College student.

"It Can't Happen Here" Lewis' dramatization of his own novel, has been named as the second full-length play to be presented this school year by the E. 52 Players. The production will be offered on March 9.

The first act of Maxwell Anderson's "Saturday's Children" and an original one-act play on college life by Sara E. Baldwin, a sophomore at the Women's College, are being prepared for production on the playbill program on February 23. They will be repeated on Alumni Day, February 25, and one of them will be given before the delegates to the third University Dramatic Conference on February 11.

As part of the tentative program for the spring season, the presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing" on April 28 by the E. 52 Players has been announced by Dr. C. R. Case, director of dramatics at the university.

Wearing a red ribbon and a bell, a pet porcupine follows a woman about the streets of Folkestone, Eng.

When asked if peace will prevail in Europe, he sagely replied: "I have no doubts." An elegant, all embracing, and very intelligent reply. Which leads us to believe, M. Masarik is not only a staunch defender of democracy (by proxy), but also an embryo Harry Lauder (May God rest his soul).

It was the Bard of Avon, we believe, who said something about: "It isn't life that matters, but the courage we bring into it." M. Masarik and his ilk showed very little courage indeed, when Gabriel blew his horn last September. And they show less when they run away, leave their people in the lurch, and hoist their discredited standards of foreign capital, oceans away from everything Czech. It seems to us, it is the Czech people, who will have to "forgive a great deal" for the rape and destruction, long before Munich, of their democratic birthright, by the asinine and autocratic policies of Messrs. Benes, Masarik, et al.

Headlines

In our domestic arena we pick the following two news items as the most important of the week: President Roosevelt's speech, opening the 76th Congress, and the pardon granted to Tom Mooney. President Roosevelt delivered a straightforward, yet tactful speech on the condition of the nation, our foreign policy and the future budgetary policy of the government. The address was praised and applauded highly by New Deal Democrats and Liberals, criticized and denounced by Republicans and Conservatives.

The President advanced a very eloquent defense of the Government's spending policy, which involves the expenditure of $17,000 every minute of every hour of every day during the 1940 fiscal year. The National Economy League raised strenuous objections to this policy and resented an immediate balance of our national budget, out of balance for ten consecutive years, is an absolute necessity for bringing back national prosperity and planning business upon a sure footing.

Father Coughlin, the Detroit radio priest, attacked the President's rearmament plans and in a radio broadcast last Sunday, maintained the United States will be destroyed by internal dissensions and decay long before foreign powers have an opportunity to invade her shores.

Father Coughlin maintained the President's claim to alarming international situations is a subterfuge to cover up serious and unsolved domestic problems.

Millions of Americans rejoiced with Tom Mooney upon his release from San Quentin prison in California after an incarceration of 32 years.

Governor Olson who pardoned Mooney, as per his campaign promise, is confined to a hospital with a nervous breakdown.

Mooney was convicted in 1917 and sentenced to death. At the intervention of President Woodrow Wilson on his death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

After his conviction, evidence discovered proved that his trial, because of public hysteria and other circumstances, was unfair and his conviction a miscarriage of justice.

Incidentally, when Tom Mooney went to jail, preparedness was the most important topic of the day. A year later we joined 53 other nations on the scarlet fields of France.

Today, upon his release, and 22 years later, Tom Mooney finds the same type headlines in our press. What will happen next year? Will we have a whole year?

The University of Delaware department of dramatics, in announcing the program of plays planned for the spring session at Mitchell Hall, has included such interesting productions as: "It Can't Happen Here" by Sinclair Lewis; a one-act version of "Saturday's Children" by Maxwell Anderson; Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing"; and an original one-act play by a Women's College student.

"It Can't Happen Here" Lewis' dramatization of his own novel, has been named as the second full-length play to be presented this school year by the E. 52 Players. The production will be offered on March 9.

The first act of Maxwell Anderson's "Saturday's Children" and an original one-act play on college life by Sara E. Baldwin, a sophomore at the Women's College, are being prepared for production on the playbill program on February 23. They will be repeated on Alumni Day, February 25, and one of them will be given before the delegates to the third University Dramatic Conference on February 11.

As part of the tentative program for the spring season, the presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing" on April 28 by the E. 52 Players has been announced by Dr. C. R. Case, director of dramatics at the university.

Noon-Hour

schedule has reduced this difficulty. It is said. Local teachers questioned for opinions concerning the new plan are unanimous in their approval.

"Where our corridors, cafeteria, and assembly hall were mud-houses during the former period of one hour for lunch," stated one local teacher, "now everything moves along in orderly fashion. What is more, the children themselves seem to like the idea of being dismissed for the day at an earlier hour."

Objections Stand

Disasters to the new schedule are adamant in their stand, however. Plans have already been announced to take the question before the January meeting of the Newark Board of Education, while officials of the Parent-Teachers Association have been approved concerning a discussion of the subject at the dinner-meeting scheduled for next Thursday.

The main parental objection advanced so far centers around the fact that numerous children are finding it impossible to walk to their homes, eat lunch, and return to school within the specified 30-minute period. Many mothers are adding the dual objection of packing lunches and having their children eat a cold meal where they have heretofore eaten hot foods.

U. of D. Survey

Evening the conditions on the campus. Prior to the formal presentation of the survey steps had been taken to aid deficiencies, according to Dr. Hüllbrenner's comments made to the trustees last month.

Among the alterations already made or in the process of being made, Dr. Hüllbrenner's comments refer to the combining of small upper classes, the strengthening of chemical engineering, the relating of the School of Education to the whole university, extensive additions being made to the library, the fight for increased salaries of the teaching staff, the still further lowering of expenditures per student, the growth of the physical plant, and the realization of the lack of adequate dormitory quarters.

"HANDS APPEAL" IS AN IMPORTANT BEAUTY FACTOR

MEN notice hands, according to Dorothy Cocks, who advises women to give their hands "Sense Appeal" in the November Pictorial Review.

"It isn't enough," Miss Cocks says, "to merely make your hands look pretty. You must make them sound pretty, feel seductive, smell intoxicating—in other words enchant through every avenue of his senses."

"Bracelets can make your hands sound 'pretty,'" says Miss Cocks. She explains that they make "an expensive clatter" as they slither up and down your forearm. So Miss Cocks recommends jeweled bracelets, celluloid bracelets and wooden ones.

To make your hands smell nice, the article recommends the use of an antiseptic mouth wash to free the skin of ordinary workaday odors. "Then dramatize the sweetness of your hands by touching them with your perfume, the last thing before you leave your dressing table."

To make your hands feel soft and womanish—call upon one of the many kinds of beauty aids readily available: a hand cream or lotion or even a good night cream. As a general thing Miss Cocks advises women to keep their hands out of very hot water as far as possible; but if you must redden your hands with hot water, a liquid powder or a pale tint of foundation cream will put a new complexion on ugly hands in a few seconds.

P. T. A. Supper Meeting

Scheduled For January 19

Plans are being made for the Newark P. T. A. supper meeting, to be held Thursday evening, January 19, in the school cafeteria, at 6:15 o'clock. Paul D. Lovett, program committee chairman, is arranging for entertainment that will be of interest to all.

The supper committee, of which Mrs. A. D. Cobb is chairman, requests that all tickets be purchased before Tuesday, January 16. Members may secure tickets for themselves and their guests from the school office or from Mrs. William K. Gillespie, 13 Center Street. Dr. J. S. Gould, president of the organization, has announced that there will be a short business meeting in the auditorium following the supper meeting.

Social Events Around Newark

PICTURE EDITOR

Miss Kaye Sheehan

A new feature, "Newark Personalities," will start soon exclusively in the Post. Each week a page of pictures taking in those families and individuals prominent in the social, civic, and business life of the community will be used.

The feature is offered solely in the spirit of community co-operation, civic pride, and neighborliness, and not any idea of personal publicity. It is designed merely as a tribute to those who have contributed to and aided the progress of Newark and the community in recent years.

Because so few people have pictures taken recently which are available for use, the services of a nationally known firm of photographers and engravers—Photo Features of New York City—have been employed to take pictures of individuals desiring to be represented in this feature.

Miss Kaye Sheehan, picture editor for the feature who has charge of all arrangements is calling on individuals for appointments for the photographer. No charge is being made for the taking of the pictures and there is no cost for their use in the paper. It is agreed that no picture will be used until a proof is approved by the individual.

The Post hopes that the feature will please the community and that co-operation will be shown Miss Sheehan in her efforts to assemble her layouts.

Good Night

Two little words, two beautiful words.

Laden with gentle delight; What more can you add of good fellowship

Than a cordially bidden "Good night?"

What more can you say to a loyal old friend

From your door as you watch him depart

That will strengthen the bond of ever-spanning years

Than a smiling "Good Night" from the heart?

What words were most treasured by one that you love

When you stood in the moon's waning light

And lingered to whisper again and again

"Good night little sweetheart—good night?"

When baby is weary and tucked safe abed

And smiling lips kisses invite

Might Heaven be near as you bend to respond

As a small voice whispers, "Mummy—good night?"

Prayer, a la Mode

It seems as though we humans are a super-civilized lot.

Content to weed our way alone Until we're "on the spot."

But when affairs "jam up" a bit And just don't go our way

We pity us, and moan, "Poor me!" Then meekly start—to pray.

Don't bother much about it, (That is, most of us)—at all; Until we find we're sadly licked

And "riding for a fall." (Which usually is the net result Of self-conceit) How odd!

So then—we voice a sorry plea, And "pass the buck"—to God.

But, having ridden out the storm By His grace—if you please! We smirk complacently, and fleet The dust from off our knees;

And merrily go our perverse way, As snug as Mary's lamb— Nor bothering to pray again Till comes another jam.

LEARN TO LIVE ALONE—AND LIKE IT, SAYS WRITER

THE wise young woman today will meet her fate, romantic or otherwise, a good deal better if she prepares to meet it alone.

If you follow this course you can't get left—and the teens aren't too early to start on it, says Marjorie Hillis in the October issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine.

"Unromantic as it sounds," writes the famous author of "Live Alone and Like It," "there are women, and some of them young, who have come to prefer these things to keeping house for even the handsomest man."

"They're wrong," of course, she says. "And so is the starchy-eyed bride who tells you that romance is the only thing in the world. The world is full of a great many things, a lot of which are adventuresome and exciting and worth doing. Marriage is one of them, and being an efficient business woman is another. Any lot fate hands to you—important or insignificant—may be one of them. Or it may not. Even marriage, to the young man you want more than anything in life may be a complete flop. And there is nothing flatter in the world than a marriage that flops."

"Suppose the strong-armed suitor comes along," says Miss Hillis. "You'll be just that much more of a person and that much more likely to attract him. That much more likely, too, to make a success of marriage, for not even romance today will stand up under too much leaning. Drooping lilies and clinging vines have faded out of the picture, and not all of even the happiest marriages are immune from the up-and-downs that make it very useful for a wife to know how to work."

"And suppose he doesn't come along? If you follow this plan far enough, you'll have so many interests, and so many men and women friends, and so much fun, that it won't really matter."

HOBBY LOBBY

BY DAVE ELMAN

Mrs. Marie La Salle, of Erath, La., teaches cats and canaries to live together—amicably!

WHAT IS YOUR HOBBY?

WRITE DAVE ELMAN, NRC, NEW YORK

The planting of 1,000,000 flowering bulbs, donated to the New York World's Fair by the Holland government, is now well under way throughout the 390 acres of the main Exhibit Area. The approximate totals of these bulbs, which will greatly add to the splendor of the Fair's landscaping, are: Tulips, 935,000; scillas, 46,000; hyacinths, 11,700; and carnations, 7,000.

In the one hundred 56-passenger intramural buses to be in operation within the grounds of the New York World's Fair, the patrons are to sit back to back along two continuous seats, running the full length of the buses. Each of the two lines of passengers will closely touch high, wide windows affording unobstructed view of the scenes through which they pass.

Sugar Bowl Recollections

Mid-January is hardly the season for discussing football, but one cannot see a demonstration such as that put on by Davie O'Brien, a sterling Texas Christian team, and a mighty outfit from Carnegie Tech in the Tulane University stadium on January 2 without being overcome by an overflow of enthusiasm that forces discussion, regardless of season.

Neither can one visit New Orleans without waxing enthusiastic over the warmth extended strangers by the truly cordial and hospitable people abounding in the picturesque State of Louisiana, including the outland city of Shreveport.

In fact, the Newark delegation which tasted the sweetness of the Sugar Bowl — Dr. E. E. Weggen, Mann, James H. Thompson, P. Allan McClellan, and this department — owes a standing debt of gratitude to Clio and "Windy Liz," the silent partner, both from Shreveport, for a memorable visit in a never-to-be-forgotten place.

Jimmy Walker Plus

It was through Clio and "Windy Liz," following an unexpected acquaintance, that we met Clio's affable husband, Sam, a transplanted native of Lancaster, Pa., Berlyn and her talented husband, Milo; Jackie, and Edith. Well people, those folks in Louisiana, and they show it by entertaining strangers in a fashion which would do credit to royalty.

That better talent abounds outside the entertainment world than it is proven by the beacons of these classic cognomens — Clio and Milo. A woman with more wit, spontaneous humor, and unabating comedy than Clio never lived, while Milo is the type of man about whom volumes are written.

As a deputy attorney general of Louisiana, the latter is literally known to thousands. Possessing the polish of a Grover Whelan, with the magnetic personality of a Jimmy Walker in his heyday, Milo greets his friends as they come — and they come with every step he takes down New Orleans' Canal Street, in the magnificent foyer of the Roosevelt Hotel, or on the bleakest corner of the famous French Quarter.

A newie hails him, then a cabbie. Senator Jim Reed of Missouri all but falls on his neck, and Zeke Bonura extends a large hand in welcome. Quite a man — this Milo.

Visiting New Orleans under any circumstance is a privilege unto itself, and for perfect strangers to happen across people like Clio, "Windy Liz," Sam, Berlyn, Milo, Jackie, and Edith — marking the order in which they appeared — the privilege becomes a rare one in the truest sense of the term.

Cowboy Whoops

No matter what you have read about Davie O'Brien, you haven't read the truth. The lad surpasses description, he's that good. Mere words are insufficient to describe him. He's even better than Dizzy Dean's claims . . . about Dizzy Dean.

Anent Davie's passing ability, they merely hold a needle for him and he threads it . . . But Johnny Hall, Durwood Horner, and Don Looney are "needle holders" above the average . . . And Davie's protection, provided by I. B. Hale and Kl. Aldrich, is something to write home about.

At that, Carnegie's ends knocked hedges out of the little fellow on several occasions, but he merely bounced around like a rubber ball, came up with a pat on the back for his opponents, and was off to toss more passes.

We hesitate to disillusion our Irish friends who insist that their Celtic heroes hail from the bap end of the Emerald Isle . . . But the Texas O'Briens who brought Davie into the world are Orangemen.

Pennsylvania Poles

Although the lads from Fort Worth won the ball game rather handsily, that gang of Poles from Pennsylvania, which performed for the late Andrew's Scotch institution, offered plenty of unexpected opposition . . . Texans were laying bets of 6-1 on the outcome of the game, 18-4 that TCU's margin of victory would surpass Tennessee's, and 15-1 that the Horned Frogs' margin would be greater than any bowl winner of the day. And with takers popping off the special trains from Pittsburgh, a flock of Texans lost their shirts.

Carnegie's line, although outweighed like a lightweight against Carnera, played rings around the Muhls and Condit ran the Texans crazy, despite the early loss of Carnely and Lee, Tech's ace blockers. O'Brien provided TCU's advantage.

Rival bands at New Orleans presented the most unique set-up ever seen at a college fracas . . . TCU's musical array confines its renditions to "swing," which is unusual in itself, while Carnegie's Klitties are the lone outfit of the kind in the U. S.

Having had the good fortune to have seen both Tennessee and TCU during the recent season, we are inclined to favor the Vols as the best team of the year . . . With O'Brien pitching, TCU would score and score plenty, but in our humble opinion, Cafego, Cauffman, and Fox would more than overcome O'Brien in the final reckoning.

TCU had too much trouble stopping Carnegie's running game to even show Tennessee's powerhouse to a walk . . . But that's merely an opinion.

Hen Cagers To Face Teachers Tonight

Newark High School Cagers Suffer Eighteenth Straight Defeat

SHEATS AND ANDERSON BATTLE FOR PIVOT POST

Starter Against West Chester In Doubt; Middletown Athlete, Coming Back After Ankle Injury, Makes Determined Bid For Old Berth

By Bill Fletcher

A bitter struggle for the center spot on Coach Steve Grenda's University of Delaware basketball team is disturbing the usual calm of the Hens' practices this week with Earl Sheats, all around athlete and former regular, making a determined bid for his old pivot post now occupied by Eddie Anderson.

Kept out of pre-season practice of an injured ankle sustained on the gridiron, Sheats was unable to report for workouts until after the Christmas holidays, but since that time, his aggressiveness has caught the eye of Coach Grenda who is going through his initial season as cage mentor.

Far from a polished performer, the Middletown athlete is not as smooth-working a floor man as Anderson, who has started every game thus far, but his defensive work and ability to take balls off the backboard stamps him as a dependable cager.

With two victories under their belts against two setbacks, the Hens will open a series of three games in Taylor Gymnasium tonight (Thursday) when they face West Chester's College. Western Maryland will furnish the opposition on Saturday and Washington College will invade the local boards on Tuesday.

Five members of the Delaware junior varsity outfit are taking rapid strides in improving their performances and it is possible that a few new faces may be seen dotting the Blue and Gold lineup from time to time. Composed of Grier, Parvis, Good, Knox, and Witsil, the reserve team has been putting on a good show in practice and it is possible that they may break into the varsity lineup before the current season comes to a close.

Swimmers Lose Again

Coach Ed Barde's Hen mermen found themselves nosed out in the final event as Rider College nabbed a 39-35 verdict in Taylor pool Tuesday night.

Sporting a three-point margin after eight events had gone by the boards, the Blue and Gold tankmen bowed in the finale, the 400-yard relay, to give the invading mermen the verdict. Bob Monihan, who topped first places in the 220 and 440-yard freestyle swims, was Delaware's outstanding point collector.

Off to a good start in the relay when Frank Holt, who also took second in the 50-yard dash, turned on the heat to give Delaware's second man three-fourths of a pool length lead, the Hens appeared to be well on their way to the initial win of the season, but the margin dwindled quickly and Thomlinson, Rider anchor man, drifted in for the conquest.

Results as follows:

300-yard medley relay: Won by Rider (Goodman, Thomlinson, Osborne). Second Delaware (Stearns, Manchester, Neese). Time: 3:25.4.

220-yard freestyle: Won by Monihan, Delaware; second-Rider, disqualified. Drews, Rider, failed to finish. Time: 2:25.7.

50-yard freestyle: Won by Thomlinson, Rider; second-Holt, Delaware; third-Hecht, Delaware. Time: 24.8.

Diving: Won by Sheridan, Rider (94.3); second-Saltzman, Delaware (88.4); third-Lemlein, Delaware (88.06).

100-yard freestyle: Won by Oxenberger, Rider; second-Neese, Delaware; third-Hecht, Delaware. Time: 58.4.

150-yard backstroke: First-Goodman, Rider, second-Stearns, Delaware; third-Fry, Rider. Time: 1:51.8.

200-yard breaststroke: Won by Kriegl, Rider; second-Manchester, Delaware; third-Lowmshery, Delaware. Time: 3:02.

440-yard freestyle: Won by Monihan, Delaware; second-Foster, Delaware; third-Fry, Rider. Time: 6.5.

400-yard relay: Won by Rider (Osborne, Goodman, Oxenberger, Thomlinson). Second-Delaware (Holt, Neese, Stearns, Hecht). Time: 3:37.4.

HEADIN' SOUTH

"Wild Willie" Wooleyhan

Winner of the 10-mile Labor Day classic at Langhorne Speedway last year and a prominent figure in local motorcycle racing circles, Wooleyhan will leave on January 17 for Daytona Beach, Fla., where he will compete in the 100-mile beach and road race on January 21.

The Daytona course, over which the best riders in the country will compete, is three miles long, half of which is beach and the other half macadam. Wooleyhan will be accompanied by Charlie Lewis, Johnny Johnston, Oscar Grant who will act as pitmen.

Exams For Three Posts In U. S. Civil Service

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations for the positions of supervising inspector, $3,600 a year, senior inspector, $3,200 a year, and inspector, $2,600 a year, in the Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor.

Applicants must have had certain responsible experience in industry or business as an employer, administrative official, or as a recognized employee representative participating in improvement of working conditions; or in a state or federal agency administering labor laws or investigating employee-employer relationships or economic conditions of wage-earners. They must have reached their twenty-fifth but must not have passed their fifty-third birthday.

Applications must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than February 7. Full information may be obtained from C. S. Crompton, secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners at the Newark postoffice.

A diamond cutting laboratory, in which skilled lapidaries will put glittering facets on gems, will be seen in the Belgian Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. It will present Antwerp as the center of the diamond industry. Diamonds worth several millions of dollars are to be exhibited.

SHOULDER MATCH FOR MARKSMEN

Blue Hen Rifle Team To Face Drexel Tech

A forward step in University of Delaware rifle activities will be taken on Saturday afternoon when the Hen marksmen will go to Philadelphia, Pa., to oppose the Drexel Institute of Technology shooters in a shoulder-to-shoulder match.

Six contests of this nature have been arranged by Captain T. L. Waters, a member of the R. O. T. C. faculty, who is coaching the outfit. According to Captain Waters, Saturday's match will be an innovation to university marksmen since all contests held previously have been pistol affairs.

Twelve men will take the trip, but only half of this number will be selected to compete. The students will furnish their own transportation while ammunition will be provided by the military department.

The Dragons will invade Newark for a return engagement on March 4, while Pennsylvania Military College will entertain the Hens on February 4. The Cadets will compete here on February 23. Two matches on a home-and-home basis have also been arranged with the Marksmen's Club of Wilmington. The Hens will invade Wilmington on February 19 while the Marksmen will come here on March 18.

The Blue and Gold riflemen now boast of single victory against three defeats. Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, N. Y., fell before the firing of the Hens while the locals dropped their first three titles by close scores.

Captain Tommy Leach, Seth Eberhardt, Phil Derickson, Ralph Snow and Herman Klotz form the nucleus of the Delaware outfit.

Amateur Skiers Set For Action In Quebec

Amateur skiers in the Laurentian Mountains of Quebec will have to look to their laurels this winter. They will have to compete against some of the world's top-ranking experts at sliding down mountain slopes at breath-taking speed.

The Laurentian zone committee has decided to allow professional instructors to enter the meet this year.

The reason professionals will be allowed to compete is due to the great number of European aces who will be teaching novices in the Laurentian Mountains this winter. The C. A. S. A., last year ruled in favor of open competitions, although leaving the zones the option of deciding for themselves, and the Laurentian zone voted against allowing the pros to compete.

This season, however, they will compete in a special class. Clubs, however, which conduct meets are given the choice of barring the instructors. The Quebec championships will be open tournaments.

Boys who want to learn football from "old masters" will have that opportunity in the Academy of Sport at the New York World's Fair. Free classes in every department of the game are to be taught during September and October by such expert coaches and players as Jim Crowley of Fordham, Mal Stevens of N. Y. U., "Pop" Warner of Temple, Lou Little of Columbia, "Chick" Meahan, Benny Friedman of C. C. N. Y., Larry Kelly of Peddie, Alexander Wojciechowski of the Detroit Lions, and Marshall Goldberg of the University of Pittsburgh.

Tweed Registers Fifth Consecutive Triumph In Local Billiard Scramble

Champion Continues To Top Race; Keeley Goes Down Before Porter

By "Cue Keeley"

Routing Rube Heath by a score of 75-15, Dick Tweed marked up his fifth straight victory in defense of his title in the current class B pocket billiard tournament being conducted at Jimmy Martin's State parlor.

In registering his fifth win last Wednesday, Tweed maintained a half-game margin over Rube Heath, who lucked his way to a 60-59 win over Grover Tennyson Surratt on Monday night.

Morrison, who has won five matches in six starts, was literally handed a victory by Surratt, who was guilty of 26 scratches. Three of Surratt's errors were in succession and cost him 15 balls at a crucial point in the set.

Gula Stops Riley

After Steve Gula, University of Delaware starter, had tumbled Curt Riley, 70-56, on Tuesday afternoon of last week, the Bayard Oscar Perry-Jake (Tiger) Hogan match, carded for that night, was postponed due to Perry's absence.

Clyde Crowe stopped Marty Howard, another Delaware cue artist, 65-51, on Wednesday afternoon, prior to the Tweed-Heath rout. George Keeley, following three straight wins, was handed his initial setback on Thursday afternoon by Frank Porter, 65-37.

Surratt marked up his second win of the series on Thursday night when he outlasted Harry B. Williams.

ERRORS COSTLY

Jack Sanders won his first match in four starts at the expense of Spike Daly Friday night by a 55-to-53 margin. It was Daly's fourth defeat without a victory.

Jackets Unable To Register Victory Since 1936 Season

The Newark High School basketball team is in a streak, an ill one, that started at the beginning of the 1937 cage season with a feat and has continued ever since.

Handicapped by a lack of size, weight, the band of diminutive players, last year, went through a series of fifteen encounters and failed to register a single victory against larger and more experienced opponents. This year, the size has improved somewhat, but the percentage conquests grove smaller.

Starting off with a bang, the Jackets added their sixteenth seventeenth, turnbacks when met A. I. du Pont and Wilmington schools earlier in the season and Tuesday night, P. S. du Pont accounted for the eighteenth back.

The Jackets are heading their register, a single victory against larger and more experienced opponents. This year, the size has improved somewhat, but the percentage conquests grove smaller.

Tuesday night's tilt, with a throughout, saw the Jackets move into the lead in the early minutes of the game, a margin they retained throughout.

The invaders, sporting a planned attack, moved into the lead at the end of the first but at half time, the Jackets shaved the edge down to 50-49.

Walter Crowl, P. S. du Pont, lead the scoring with 14 points, while Toulson, with 11, tallied on seven field goals and George Norris was high for 11 points.

The invaders gained a 12-10 from the field and outscored the quiet 8-4 from the chalk stripe.

In the preliminary contest, S. Junior varsity registered a conquest over Newark's meek Attick and Moody led the quintet's attack with five points, while Toulson, with 11, tallied on seven field goals and George Norris was high for 11 points.

BEGINNING ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF DECEMBER OF each year, the consumption of aspirin tablets which hits low following the exodus of football at the University of Delaware, invariably skyrockets to Empire State Building with the entrance of winter sports.

Aspirin is the cagers are managing their own with a split in the tank situation which, has fallen lower than a cork after an earthquake.

MATTER OF FACT, PROS- of the Hens' copping even a meet are as scarce as gold around a hobo. In other words, the Blue and Gold swimmers expected to hang up anything like a win during the season.

With wins and losses over years gives Ed Bardo, the great many more conquests with backs and so anyone in question the ability of the education department head, only look on the books for the to his criticism.

Initial start against West State Teachers' College, was lost by a single point. Second battle with Villanova, and Gold churners were lost by inches in the final round which decided the issue. On occasions, the Delaware team far exceeded the expectations of their mentor. Both teams, years, have been taken through when Hen water speed were in flower. In other words, the Blue and Gold mermen, victory are below par.

WH BARD, WHO WOULD have fifteen average swimmers five cricketers, merely his shoulders at the prospect of a dismal season. Attacked by illness and lack of the squad is small and the of competitive swimmers most in the sport, which booms year and then drops another, unpredictable. Self-conscious just out of high school, shun in order to keep safely away in the secrecy of low, knows that knock-or legs so the fear of imaginary

ridicule wrecks havoc with Coach Bardo's greatest market for swimmers—the freshman class. Only excellence in performance can cause a young athlete to overcome this fear—and that is one thing a young athlete usually cannot do—go out and break a record.

His interest, kept subdued by the horror of subjecting himself to the eyes of the spectators, usually comes to the fore in his junior or senior year as he approaches maturity. Then it is too late.

WITH THE LOVE OF WATER his only asset, a boy just out of high school, can, in two years, be built into a good competitive swimmer. Most of them wait too long, however, and as a result, as seniors, they manage to cop a few show places or an occasional second.

At the present time, there are approximately ten freshmen playing basketball and about five on the rifle team. What're the rest of them doing?

We're not saying this is the only item keeping the squad down—after all intercollegiate swimming is a lot of hard work and is emphasized at the university much more than it is in the high schools—but the self-conscious factor plays a big part.

BUT DESPITE THE FACT THAT the expenditure of calories is one of the biggest hurdles on the road to swimming success, students at the University of Delaware who have hidden aspirations of performing in the pool shouldn't hesitate for a moment in airing their desire to the coach.

Athletes will have to go a long way before they find a man as pleasant to work under as Ed and a lot farther than that to find one who knows and enjoys coaching the sport as much as the Hens' braintrust.

He's not looking for Johnny Weissmuller or Buster Crabbs, just plenty of material with the desire to swim.

25 YEARS AGO IN REVIEW

January 14, 1914

WEDDINGS

Jackson-Fulton
Mr. Henry Jackson and Miss Hannah Fulton, of Newark, were quietly married in Elkton, Md., Jan. 12th, 1914.

Peel-McCormick
Mr. Archie L. Peel and Miss Mary T. McCormick, were quietly married on December 25, by the Rev. G. L. Smith, at the manse of the Pender Presbyterian Church, Glasgow, Del.

Bedford-Vansant
Miss Edith Bedford and J. Clark Vansant of Strickersville, were married today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Mendinall. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Vansant will reside with the groom's parents at Strickersville.

Heptasophs Install Officers
The new officers of Newark Conclave of Heptasophs, or Seven Wise Men, were installed last week by M. E. Grand Archon William Eby and staff of the Grand Conclave of the State, assisted by Joseph Turner, supreme archon of the United States, as follows:

Chancellor, Stewart Hopkins; M. E. Archon, Clarence D. Grant; Provost, James Dougherty; Prelate, J. H. Roach; Inspector-General, Ralph A. Gregg; Financial Scribe, S. Lewis Cann; Recording Scribe, F. G. Widdoes; Treasurer, F. C. Jester; Herald, Ward Lindell; Wardens, Louis Krapf; Sentinel, William Marrs; Trustee for 18 months, Louis Krapf; Representative, C. E. Porter.

Aetna Elects Officers
At the annual meeting of Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co., held at the Hose House the first Friday in January, the following officers were elected:

President, S. B. Herdman; vice-president, Edmund McPike; secretary, Charles Colmery; treasurer, A. L. Beals; Fire Recorder, George I. Brooks; Chief, E. C. Wilson; Assistant Chiefs, Elmer Ellison, F. M. Lutton; Pipeman, Ira C. Shellenor; Assistant Pipeman, N. S. Worrell; L. E. Hill, Benjamin Donahue; R. Cuff and Wm. Gregg; Directors, C. L. Medill, J. P. Cann, J. H. Hossinger, R. S. Gallaher, and H. C. Herdman.

Personal
Mrs. W. W. Bradley is the guest of Miss Dorothy Mason, Atlantic City, N. J.

Mr. Arthur Maxwell and sister, Miss Vera B. Maxwell, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Maxwell of Magnolia Cottage, near Bell Hill.

Mrs. E. L. Smith has been suffering for the past week from the grip.

Miss West, teacher eighth grade, Newark Grammar School, has been suffering since the Christmas holidays with bronchitis. She is expected to return on Thursday.

Social Notes
Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Whittingham have issued invitations for an "At Home" on Friday, January the sixteenth, when they will introduce their elder daughter, Miss Bessie Whittingham.

Miss Eleanor Harter will entertain on Thursday, January the fifteenth at a "Bridge Luncheon" in honor of her guests, Miss Brewer and Miss Stevens.

Mrs. Murray Gibson and Miss Gibson of Philadelphia are the guests of Mrs. Whittingham.

Miss Brewer of Savannah, Ga., and Miss Stevens of Baltimore, Md., are visiting Miss Harter.

Mrs. Charles B. Evans will be hostess for the Evening Card Club Thursday evening, January fifteenth.

Schools Closed For Fumigation
R. T. Jones is quarantined at his home, Main Street, suffering with Scarlet fever. Mr. Jones had been ill for several days before any contagious disease was suspected. A second case is reported on South College Avenue. The school authorities, as a precaution, closed the High School on Monday and thoroughly fumigated the building. Regular sessions were resumed this morning. The High School teachers, Misses Armstrong and Pennock, who make their home with Mrs. E. C. Jones, are staying temporarily with Mrs. M. C. Kilgore.

False Report
The report that Levi R. Taylor, colored, of Cooch's Bridge, had been left $100,000 by a Mrs. Susie D. Righter of Atlantic City, appears to be a myth. Mrs. Susie Righter, of that city, for whom Taylor worked

HIGHWAYS INCREASE DANGER IN MOTORING

City Streets Do Not Present Problems Of Rural Highways

A study of automobile accidents according to place of occurrence brings out quite clearly the fact that the weight of the auto accident problem lies in the rural districts, rather than the cities and that greater attention should be given to traffic on rural highways if mortality from automobile accidents is to be reduced or even effectively checked.

According to the Delaware Safety Council, the main causative factor of automobile accidents is careless driving. The regulation of traffic in urban centers is becoming more strict and more effective. When a car makes its way through congested city streets and finally reaches open country the person at the wheel is likely, in a very exuberant spirit, to "let her go." The effects of this release from enforced caution are seen in the comparative rates of fatal accidents.

Control Of Accidents
Here is a recipe, issued by the Delaware Safety Council for individual control of accidents:

1. Appreciate the seriousness of accidents and actually desire to prevent them. Out of this will come a sense of personal responsibility for their prevention.

2. Forget all about luck, or fate, or Providence as a possible dispenser of these unexpected mishaps. Accidents are man-made. Believe yourself the master of your own life and have faith in your ability to foresee its dangers and guard against them.

3. Do not consider yourself immune from accidents; realize that your experience may mislead you. All persons are subject to accidents.

Injury Is Result
4. Understand that physical injury is not the accident, but is only one of the possible results of an accident. Appreciate that an accident which produces no injury may result, when repeated, in injury or even death. Prevent, if possible, the accidents, and the injuries will take care of themselves.

5. Persevere. Learn something constructive from each of your own experiences and those of others. Adopt it into your own life. The stakes are high—the results will be worth while.

6. Do not fear danger. Try to meet it unafraid.

7. Remember that life is our most priceless possession—and, next to life, lifetime.

Demonstration Club Meets At Elliott Heights
The January meeting of the Glasgow Home Demonstration Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. L. Lilley, Elliott Heights. The meeting was one of instruction and discussion of subjects for the year. Hostesses for each month were decided upon; leader training meetings were discussed and those particularly interested volunteered to learn the subjects and teach the club members at designated classes.

Among things of interest to be studied and taught were handicraft, which included crocheted bath mats and woven bedroom rugs, coat making, dressmaking, menu selections and lunch-boxes for children.

Some New Yorkers Defrauded
The folly of giving money to so-called good causes without informing oneself as to the worthiness of the cause has been found again and again in recent news item reporting the arrest in Cincinnati of two alleged deacons of the Chaldean church in Asia Minor, who a few weeks ago solicited and received gifts of money from some well-intentioned but unwise persons in this town. The men are not deacons and their credentials are alleged to be forged and the money collected never reached the Chaldean church.

Girl Scouts Complete Work On Health Charts

The younger members of Newark Girl Scout Troop No. 8 have recently completed a health chart contest. The contest, won by Miss Sophie McVey, was under the direction of Mrs. Pauline Ewing, scout leader. The charts were judged for being the most original, most complete and the best kept. They were made in colors to blend with the girls' bedrooms and kept for a period of a month, signed by the individual parents who checked the participants during the contest.

Older girls, under the leadership of Mrs. H. K. Preston, are working on their home nurse badge by making hospital beds, studying the history of nursing, general methods of making a patient comfortable and foods commonly included in various types of diets. Meetings of this group are held every Tuesday at Mrs. Preston's home, Orchard Road.
