HISTORICAL CELEBRATION IN NEIGHBORING COUNTY--MANY PROMINENT SPEAKERS

A number of the people from this locality attended the fourth annual commemoration of the Chester County Historical Society held at New London, Pa., last Saturday.

The occasion was commemorative of the founding of several of the old schools and academies that flourished successfully in this country more than half a century ago.

At New London a granite monument was erected on the grounds of the present academy made famous by its many pupils who became prominent in the political, military and financial affairs of the colonies. It was founded in 1743 by Rev. Francis Alison, one of the greatest educators of the time.

Following are extracts from the addresses delivered:

J. B. RENDALL, PRESIDENT OF LINCOLN UNIVERSITY.

"These old schools made some of the most practical men the world has ever known. * * * This was a pronounced Scotch-Irish settlement and they provided for the education of their children. Mind, eye, hand and heart must be trained. The secret of success was the Bible and its teachings. Francis Alison, of New London, was the first Presbyterian preacher to get the degree of D.D. from the other side."

PROVOST EDGAR F. SMITH, U. OF PENN.

"I am present today because of my love for Francis Alison, the great teacher of New London, who was one of the greatest educators in the world. Ten of the signers of the Declaration of Independence (including Delaware's George Reed and Thomas McKean) had been pupils of Alison, as had also Gen. Anthony Wayne, General Peter Muhlenberg, Thomas Mifflin and others prominent in colonial affairs."

PROFESSOR PAUL VANDYKE, PRINCETON.

These old educators played a great part in winning the fame and glory that have come to this nation. I trust that the classical tradition of education is still vital. We cannot rival some nations in music, in art, but we have given government to nations in triumphant march of the democracy, and we occupy the foremost ranks.

Newark Base Ball Team

The effort to arrange a series of base ball games with the Elkton and Elk Mills clubs has resulted in a failure. The attempt had to be given up owing to the lateness of the season.

Newark made an attempt to join the Tri-County League at the time of its organization, early in the spring, but abandoned the idea on account of the League's desire to bar Vic Willis the former National League twirler from the team.

The Newark base ball club made a splendid record during the past season. Out of nearly twenty games played but two were lost. The first of these was played on Decoration Day, when the town team met the College boys who had been in training for several months. The last game was against the Halethorpe Country Club team, of Baltimore, and the game was played in Baltimore. Several records were made during the season. In a game against a Philadelphia club, Southpaw Hogan struck out 19 men, which is probably not only a record for Newark, but the State of Delaware. Geoghegan, another one of the twirlers, pitched a game, allowing his opponents but one hit, and but 28 men faced him during the nine innings. "Vic" Willis pitched most of the games and was not defeated during the season.

while the other nations march behind us. The bark of peace has been launched on the political sea. * * * This is possible because our forefathers loved the schools. The characteristic of the American people is constant idealism—a native trait. The log school-house is a monument more lasting than brass, of universal education. Those early educators gave life to the nation and ensured its success. * * * We have marked obstinacy in clinging to the great ideals. These great qualities survived and bring an undying glory. The Tower of Babel failed and was uncompleted, but the majestic temple of this Republic has been erected by our good sense, good humor, unison in spite of disappointments. This is possible because our forefathers loved the church and the school. Not all is due to axe and plow, but to hyma book and spelling book, and the hearts that taught them. We have demonstrated democracy to the nations, and good government to the world."

EXTRACTS FROM ORIGINAL POEM, BY JOHN RUSSELL HAYES, SWARTHMORE.

Can bills and bonds, can iron and wool and wheat
Render our nation's nobleness complete?

High though their function, yet they have their day,
And yield unto the Spirit's silent sway.

'Tis only education can make great

The destiny and glory of the State;
Beyond the mart she sits in peace serene,
Benignant and august, a deathless queen.

—In this her ancient home, at this high hour,
We come to celebrate her genial power.

What love New London's loyal sons must hold
For Alma Mater never may be told,
Nor yet the reverence and thanksgiving twined

Like fadeless flowers about the heart and mind.
'Twas here they learned as by a second birth
Patience and courage for the trials of earth;

'Twas here that to their youthful souls were given
Foreknowledge of the paths that point to Heaven.

WEDDINGS

Miss Ada Morgan Pearce and Mr. Joseph Warren Clay, both of Elkton, were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Adra W. Smith, of near Newark, Wednesday, October 11, at 5 o'clock by Rev. J. H. Geoghegan.

Only the immediate relatives of the couple were present. Mrs. William H. Pearce, of Philadelphia, was matron of honor, and Mr. William J. Clay, of Elkton, best man. Lohengrin's wedding march was rendered by Miss Edith L. Pearce, niece of the bride.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Clay left for a trip west. On their return they will reside on West Main street, Elkton.

A telegram has reached town announcing the marriage of Elwood Wollaston, of Washington, and Miss Eva Perry, the popular postoffice assistant of Newark. The marriage occurred in Washington, D. C., last Monday.

Mr. Wollaston is in the employ of L. B. Jacobs, who is constructing a large piece of government work in the mentioned city.

McFALLS—GREGSON.

Mr. Joseph McFalls, of Quarryville, Pa., and Miss Georgianna Gregson, of Newark, were married on Saturday, October 7, at the M. E. parsonage, by Rev. G. T. Anderson.

NEWS NOTES HERE AND THERE

William H. Smith, of Newark, formerly of Elkton, has sold his residence in the latter place to Mrs. H. D. Garrett, of Elkton.

The first meeting of the mission class, under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Cooch, will be held at the leader's home on next Saturday afternoon. All children over eight years of age are welcome.

Company E's crack shots were so widely scattered looking after various private business enterprises last week that it was impossible to get together a representative team from that company. The Newark men consequently failed to participate in the contest for the trophies held at State Range on Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Herbert Watson, of the State Board of Health laboratory attended Court in Sussex county last week.

We are glad to note that H. M. Campbell, who is taking the rest cure, is showing great improvement.

The tongue of the street sprinkler has been taken from the property of Wilmer Renshaw. The prompt return of the same will be greatly appreciated.

The banks will be closed on Thursday, which is Columbus Day—a legal holiday.

The quarantine for diphtheria has been lifted from the home of E. D. Sanborn; also the one for scarlet fever from the home of M. Pinick.

Benjamin Jacobs, of Harrington, Del., father of L. B. Jacobs, died suddenly early Monday morning from the effects of a stroke. Funeral services were held today.

It is believed this season's canning record for the Delaware Peninsula will far exceed any recent year's pack.

OCTOBER 12 FIRST OBSERVED AS LEGAL HOLIDAY

Columbus Day will be observed as a legal holiday in Delaware for the first time, tomorrow.

The Italian societies of Wilmington have united in arranging for an elaborate program to mark the day, and practically all Wilmington has agreed to make every effort to carry their plans to success. There are about 5500 Italians in the city.

Places of business, homes and buildings of all kinds will be decorated, give the entire city a gala appearance.

One feature of the celebration will be the banquet which is to take place at 8 o'clock at the Clayton House at the close of what is expected to be a notable day.

The orators of the evening will be Mayor Harrison W. Howell, Congressman William H. Heald, Deputy Attorney General J. O. Wolcott, L. E. Wales, Charles R. Miller, T. M. Monaghan, Daniel

O. Hastings, T. O. Cooper and A. C. Gray.

The feature of the celebration which will be most widely of interest is the parade. It will start at 2 o'clock sharp from Fourth and French streets, and will proceed to Front, to West, countermarch to Market, north on Market, to Tenth, to Delaware avenue, to Jackson, to Shallcross avenue, to VanBuren street, to Delaware avenue, to duPont, to Eighth street, to Lincoln, to Seventh, to Scott, to Sixth, to Union, to Fourth, to West, to Seventh, to French, to Turn Hall.

Upon arrival at Turn Hall, a reception will take place and after the reception all the invited guests will proceed to the Clayton House for the banquet. Following the dinner, a ball will be given in Turn Hall for the benefit of the Italians down town. The three up-town societies will have a ball at the Italian Democratic Club hall and at the Verderame Hall for the benefit of the Italians of the west side.

Girl Escapes By Bedclothes Rope

Sarah Lavine, 16 years old, an inmate of the Delaware Industrial School for Girls, made a sensational escape from that institution some time Saturday night, but the fact did not become known until Monday.

The girl was committed to the school five months ago by a magistrate, and she was regarded as a model inmate. On Saturday she tore up the bedclothes in her room and fashioned a rope. One end she tied to a bedpost, and she dropped from a third-story window. She then tore down as much of the rope as she could and hid the strips in order that her escape might not soon be detected.

Herman Tyson's winnings at Richmond, Va., last week, are as follows:

Bessie Blackwell, with a record on the trot of 2.23 1-2, is being jogged every day on the road by W. B. Smith.

W. B. Smith has sold the brown gelding Allison, record 2.25, to a party in Newark, N. J., who will use the horse for matinee purposes.

Some Changes

Jack Scarborough and family have moved into the Mrs. E. C. Jones property on Main street, lately vacated by Willard Bradley.

Professor and Mrs. C. A. Short are storing their goods until the completion of their new home. In the meantime they will board with Mrs. M. E. Kilgore.

The S. R. Choate property is to be occupied in the near future by Mrs. Shellender, of Oxford, Pa.

Red Cross Stamps

Those interested in the American Red Cross Society have feared that the organization would be hampered in its work, if not entirely prevented from using Christmas stamps by a ruling of the postoffice department at Washington that no stamps but the official United States postage stamps would be allowed on letters. But the president of the Society has received information from the department that the design of the Red Cross stamp has been approved and the use of the stamps will not be interfered with.

It is said that the new design for the red cross seals is as far away as possible from the postage stamp idea. The design is to be included in a heavy red circle, and the only words on it will be, "American Red Cross. Merry Christmas, Happy New Year."

In Memory Of Revolutionary Soldiers

Though former Senator Anthony Higgins, of Wilmington, chairman of the monument committee, the Delaware State Society of the Cincinnati, has asked permission of the Dover City Council to erect a monument in memory of Delaware soldiers who died in the revolutionary war. Permission has been granted and a committee consisting of Mayor Harry Mayer and Councilmen Beers, Keith and Hazel appointed to select the location on the Green. The Society is ready to begin the erection of the monument at once.

Revival Services

A series of revival services began last Sunday in the Glasgow M. E. Church, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. E. C. Prettyman. The meetings are being held each evening this week.

Rev. W. Hastings, from near Baltimore, preached last Monday evening.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Professors McCue and Grantham have been invited to judge agricultural and horticultural products at the Maryland State Fair, October 17. They will probably accept the honor.

Dr. Beal, one of the U. S. inspectors of Experiment Stations, paid the Delaware station a visit on Thursday and Friday of last week. His inspection was very thorough, and he expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied with the way the Trustees were administering the Federal Experiment Station funds in this state.

Mr. J. J. Taubenhaus is at present in New York City on part of his vacation. He expects to spend a considerable portion of his time in study at the N. Y. Botanical Gardens.

Dr. M. T. Cook, Plant Pathologist of the Experiment Station, has been invited to the Chair of Plant Pathology in Rutgers College, and to become Pathologist to the State Forest Commission in New Jersey.

The attack of hog cholera at the College Farm still continues, two animals having died during the past week.

Dr. R. C. Reed has written that he accepts the chair of Veterinary Science and Bacteriology in Delaware College. He is expected to begin his work at the beginning of the next semester. The Veterinary and Bacteriological laboratory will be moved from the East wing to the West wing of the College building.

Newark Loses The Institute

The plans for the Teachers' Institute of New Castle county have undergone decided changes since the last meeting of the Institute committee.

It was first proposed to hold a joint institute of the teaching forces of Kent and New Castle counties at Newark, and a canvass of the town was made by the teachers asking for the entertainment of the strangers. The townspeople met them with a hearty response and the arrangements as to accommodations were entirely satisfactory.

Since that time, however, it has been deemed advisable to change the plans. It was decided last Saturday to hold the meetings in Wilmington. There will be no evening entertainments as heretofore.

The Principal and teachers of Newark school wish to express their appreciation to those townspeople who had expected to help entertain the guests.

OBITUARY

MRS. BENJAMIN LEE.

Mrs. Benjamin Lee, for many years active in the life of the Penecader section, died at her home near Cooch, last Thursday.

Mrs. Lee, formerly Mary Craig, was born in Honesburg, Pa., in 1855. Since her marriage she has lived in this community and has for years been an ardent worker in the Salem M. E. Church.

Mrs. Lee has been in poor health for the past fifteen weeks. The doctor upon his visit on Wednesday pronounced her better, so that the stroke at midnight which caused unconsciousness from which she never recovered, was a severe shock to her family. The malady was valvular heart trouble.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Moore, on Sunday. Interment in Salem Cemetery.

A husband, a son, Joseph Lee, of the Postoffice Department, in Philadelphia, a daughter, Mrs. Charles Cannon, of Washington, survive.

Mrs. J. Sherman Dayett, Landenberg, Pa., and Messrs. Arthur Craig, of Merchantville, N. J., and George Craig, of Philadelphia, are sister and brothers of the deceased.

George Chambers, the young son of Mr. John Chambers, is suffering with typhoid fever.

DELAWARE OUTCLASSES LEBANON VALLEY

Delaware came from the third football contest on Saturday with the record of having not been scored against this season.

In the last contest with Lebanon Valley on the college athletic field it was evident throughout the game that she outclassed the opposing team. The first quarter marked the most interesting part of the game. The visitors showed up fairly well and at one time were close to Delaware's goal.

During the first quarter Handy, who was playing fullback, was put out of the game for slugging, and although his ankle is still weak, Captain Taylor went in and played a grand game. The first half ended with the score of 5 to 0.

In the last two periods Delaware ran away with their opponents and scored three more touchdowns and a safety. Line-up: Delaware. Lebanon Valley.

Carnival Proceeds Beyond Expectations

The Aetna Hose Company held a meeting last Friday evening and completed the business incident to the carnival. After paying all expenses there appears on the books a startling credit of $1802.08. It goes without saying that there is a spirit of good feeling over the success of the venture. A net profit of this amount is sufficient answer to all critics. At the beginning there was a feeling of lukewarmness in some circles. The enthusiasm and determination of the boys aroused an interest and the response on the part of the citizens was indeed gratifying. The success of the carnival would be considered worthy of experienced hands. Taking in consideration that this was a new venture of no small proportions, it is all the more gratifying. The firemen are appreciative of the support given them and it is believed that the citizens are even more kindly disposed toward this most useful organization.

The success of the venture is due to the enthusiasm and untiring efforts of—oh, there's glory enough for them all—the Fire Boys.

Premium Corn

J. Sherman Dayett has the honor of growing the largest corn and fodder that many who are experts in that line have ever seen. It is impossible to cut his crop according to the usual custom in shocks 8x8. His men have found it necessary to adopt a 6x8 rule. It takes two men to tie the shocks of corn when cut.

Mr. Dayett will build an extra corn crib for his crop.

The seed was purchased from the Experimental Farm, Newark.

Sunday School Rally

The M. E. Sunday School will observe next Sunday as rally day. A special program will be rendered by the school. Speakers from a distance will be present and address the meeting. The public service and the school session will be merged into one, beginning at 10.30. The school will assemble in the audience room and there be assigned to seatings. There will be plenty of room for visitors and the public is cordially invited.

RED CLAY CREEK CHURCH ENTERTAINS THE PRESBYTERY OF NEW CASTLE

The Presbytery of New Castle convened in the Red Clay Creek Church on Tuesday afternoon of last week, and was called to order by the Moderator Rev. Julius Herold, of Lewes.

In the making up of the roll call the newly organized church at Elsmere was reported and ordered placed upon the roll of the Presbytery.

Mr. Edward Woodward was the Elder representing the church, and he was admitted to membership of the Presbytery.

The Elsmere church was organized by Dr. Gillfillan on September 19th. The Revs. Wm. J. Rowan, J. W. Lowden and Samuel Polk assisted him. There were also a number of the Elders of the Wilmington churches present.

Gen. Bird, from the Westminster Church, Mr. Sheppard, from the West Church, and Mr. Porter from the Hanover Church. Mr. Papperman had been laboring in this field during the summer and as a result 34 members of other churches presented their letters asking to be received into the new organization and 11 persons presented themselves to be added on confession of their faith. This new organization starts with good prospects.

Dr. Gillfillan was made Moderator of the session, which consists of Mr. Edward Woodward, Mr. Wm. J. Henderson and Mr. Newton Barkley. Five trustees were also elected as follows: Mr. Thos. Malcolm Brown, Mr. James Montgomery, Mr. Wm. Gitz, Mr. Richard A. Brown and Mr. Charles W. Link.

The Rev. Mr. Stahl, of the Presbytery of Philadelphia, was invited to sit as a correspondent member. Mr. Stahl was formerly pastor of the Delaware City Church, but is now without a charge and is living at New Castle.

The Rev. William Crawford, of the Port Deposit Church, was elected Moderator for the next six months. In taking the chair, Mr. Crawford said he had heard it said that there are two worthy ambitions, one to be a minister and the other to be a moderator, and that while he had attained the first, he disclaimed any ambition for the latter, nevertheless he thanked the Presbytery for the honor conferred upon him.

The Rev. Henry Cunningham, of the East Lake Church, Wilmington, and the Rev. Adrian VanOveren of the Head of Christiana Churches were elected temporary clerks. This office usually falls to the new members of Presbytery, and as they had both come into the Presbytery during the year they naturally fell into the inheritance. The following committees were appointed:

Bills and Overtures, J. A. Herold, chairman; W. T. M. Beale, James D. Blake and E. G. Polk.

Leave of Absence, H. E. Hallman, J. R. Henderson and W. T. Fryer.

Judicial, C. L. Candee, J. H. Crawford and S. G. Reynolds.

Minutes of the General Assembly, W. M. Kieffer, J. C. Larue and C. H. Morris.

Finance and Assessment, R. L. Jackson, C. L. Jefferson and G. T. Ellis.

Narrative of Religion, G. E. Franklin, S. B. Wylie and W. R. Humphrey.

Rev. J. R. Henderson resigned from the committee on Systematic Benevolence and Budget and Rev. J. Ross Stonesifer was appointed in his place.

The Rev. Alexander Alison, Jr., made his report as chairman of the Board of Education. He reported that the following candidates under care of Presbytery were making commendable progress in their studies, viz: Floyd Franklin, son of Rev. J. Edgar Franklin, of Smyrna. Gustav A. Papperman, a graduate of Delaware College, and a member of East Lake Church, John A. Curlin, William Crosby Ross, John B. Lindsay and Eli Trumbower.

Three others presented themselves before Presbytery and after an examination by Presbytery of their Christian life and faith and their motive for entering the ministry, were taken under the care of Presbytery. They were Herbert Hartman, a member of the Hanover Church, Russell Painter, a member of Cool Spring Church in Sussex county, and James Kirkpatrick Stewart of the East Lake Church.

Rev. J. R. Henderson, chairman of the Board of Aid for Colleges made his report.

Mr. Hayes, an Elder in the Central Presbyterian Church of Wilmington, who had been in attendance upon the sessions of the General Assembly, at Atlantic City last May, having been sent as a commissioner from this Presbytery, asked the privilege of making his report at this time, as he could not be present at a later time.

After a recess for supper, the Presbytery assembled to hear the sermon of the retiring Moderator, the Rev. Julius Herold, of Lewes. This was a masterly production and made a profound impression on the people assembled.

This closed the exercises for the day. Rev. G. D. Blake read the names of the ministers and elders and the places to which they were assigned for entertainment.

On Wednesday morning the Presbytery was opened by a devotional service, conducted by Rev. Samuel Polk, of West Nottingham Church.

The Rev. Dr. Keigwin, formerly pastor of the West Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, presented the Cause of Ministerial Sustentation. This is a plan of life insurance by which the ministers may provide for their retirement at old age or from disability.

The plan requires each minister that joins in the plan to pay yearly 20 per cent of the amount of premium according to the best and safest mortality tables of the best life insurance companies, and the other 80 per cent is to be raised through the churches. Then on retirement at the age of 70 years the minister will receive an annuity of $500 a year during the remainder of his life. Should the minister become disabled earlier in life, he will receive $100 per year and $100 additional for each year he belonged to the fund. Thus, if he should become disabled after he had been 15 years connected with the scheme, he would receive $100 and $150 or $250 per year.

The only drawback to the plan is the raising of the 80 per cent of the premiums, which must be collected from the churches. As the churches are all contributing to the ministerial relief fund, they are slow to take up this new plan.

The Presbytery passed a resolution requesting the Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to cancel his engagement to act as chairman of the International Brewers' Association.

An interesting conference was held on Evangelistic work, participated in by Revs. Candee, Gillfillan, Beale, Stonesifer, Rison, Keigwin, Jackson, Cunningham and Lane.

The invitation to hold the next stated meeting of Presbytery in Dover was accepted.

The ladies of the church furnished dinner and supper in the basement of the church each day, to which all members and visitors of Presbytery were cordially invited.

The ladies proved what excellent hosts they were by the fine set-out at each meal. That the members of Presbytery recognized this was evidenced by the hearty thanks extended to them by vote of Presbytery.

The evening service was well attended and two admirable addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Beale, of Salisbury, Md., and Rev. J. C. Lane of the Olivet Church, Wilmington.

ON THE HILLS

October Sunshine. Sweeping fleecy clouds overhead. Soft autumn air, healthful, fluttering the foliage, not yet fallen, but already answering the call of the frost in rich, golden, crimson, purple hues and flaming saliva brightening the lawns. Down below in the valley hangs the smoke of passing trains and of the tall stacks of mills that tell of unceasing human industry. Over in the fields stand the brown shocks of unhusked corn, and here and there among them is the yellow hint of pumpkin pies and the day of National Thanksgiving coming by and by.

October is the opal of the year. Then the robin sings his sweetest. Then the farmer looks with satisfaction at his brown, bare fields, and well stored barns. Then nature wears her coronal of gladness, and seems to sing David's glad line, "Thou crownest the year with thy goodness."

Out on the hills on this October Sabbath we are face to face with the great work of God that is forever true. The forests tell no falsehoods. The fields wait out no woe strains. The softened sunshine adds no burdens to heavy-laden life. This is the place and hour for calm meditation on "eternal love." This is the place and hour where the truly devout heart can say, "There are two eternal verities. God is one and I am one." Under the influence of these hills one says involuntarily: "God is. Perhaps I cannot prove him to be, but through all externals he forces himself in upon my soul. I am. I know I am, and that I came from God, and go to God."

Out on the hills there is peace. What do we care today for the questions that vex life? In one great city yesterday men fumed and fretted over the question of finance and scrambled in the dust of the market place for the "ignis fatuus" they call "wealth." Shouting, cursing, grasping here and there at the elusive thing, they found themselves at each new effort still empty-handed, and all the while forgetful of God. In another city the prize men sought was in the arena of politics. Reputations were cried up, cried down, and one would push another into the abyss of disappointed ambition, victor and vanquished alike forgetting God.

Out on the hills there is time to think. Not low sordid thoughts of time and place and circumstance should fill one's mind when under God's blue dome. Dig tomorrow if you must, but not under the October sunshine of this Sabbath day. Dig with the spade or shovel of honest toil in the ditch that earth's industries demand.

But never touch them uckrake. Leave that to the politicians, to the pessimists, to the cross-eyed men who always see good as evil, and evil as good. One could not dare to be a pessimist with the corn shocks and the pumpkins, and the fire red saliva and bursting barns in view.

Breathe in the fresh air that carries life to the heart, and makes the blood pulse through every vein with gladdening vigor. Walk over the country road with a step whose elasticity the city pavement cannot answer, then go in to rest and sleep with unbroken intervals—a sleep that knows no troubling dreams.

—The Continent.

HEART CHEER

Season of snows and season of flowers.

Seasons of loss and gain!—Since grief and joy must alike be ours,

Why do we still complain?

Ever our failing, from sun to sun, O my intolerant brother—

We want just a little too little of one, And much too much of the other.

There's a space for good to bloom in Every heart of man or woman—

And however wild or human, Or however brimmed with gall,

They wait for us, thousands of miles

This side of "out of reach."

The earth is rolling sunward,
And light shall come at last.

"What is property after all?
The law says there are two kinds, real and personal. But it seems to me that the only real property is that which is truly personal, that which we take into our inner life and make our own forever, by understanding and admiration, and sympathy and love. This is the only kind of possession that is worth anything."

Sometimes the storm is dark above
Sometimes the rain is chilling;
And not a bird in all the tree
His merry note is thrilling;

Yet in spite of dreary weather,
Sing my heart and I together:
"Clouds may hide the radiant skies,

Yet the sunshine never dies."

"Courage Heart, as the shadows creep,
Shift your burden and heed it not—
After the night is noon;
After the journey, rest;
For the wind will wake and the stars be bright,
And the heart that sings is blest!"

BY THE WAY-- FOR THE FARMER

WHERE DOES THE FARMER COME IN?

A colored man went out last week and in a day and a half made $5 cutting corn. Now when the corn is ready to husk he will do the same. The farmer who hired him said, "I own the land, keep up the machinery, raise and feed the stock, buy the phosphate, plant and till the crop—where do I come in?"

TOMATO CROP.

The tomato crop, in spite of unfavorable conditions during the early season, has been good. Some farmers will get ten tons per acre. Ten tons per acre at $8— is pretty good, yet one farmer had to pay 5 cents a basket to get them picked or about $5 per ton. Not much clear at that.

The farmers are well pleased with the Snider company. The company has been business-like and have taken the attitude that the producer is a party to the contract, and have given him every consideration.

SOY BEANS.

Farmers, make a visit over to the College Farm and see the soy beans. Find out how to grow them next year. It is the cheapest way to grow bran and cottonseed for the cows. We all know that the price of grain food for the cows is keeping the profit away from that branch of farming. If we could only find some substitute that we could grow on the farm. Well, here it is—soy beans. Don't think because it is new that it is no good. The men over at the farm have been experimenting to find out just what variety is best for this locality. They have found it. Go find out how to do it. Raise some feed and reduce your feed bill and increase your dairy profits.

Successful dairymen all over the country are taking hold of this new crop and are loud in its praise. Try it.

A FARM CHANCE

Every man who has travelled and has an observant eye says the possibilities of this peninsula as a farming section far exceed any of the Western States. Then by way of explanation remarks that the great drawback here is the lack of combination and cooperation among the farmers. There is too much of the individual farming and not enough of community interest. For instance: Every farmer in this section breeds his stock independently with no thought of his neighbor's idea. Isn't this right, you say? No, and here is the reason. Let us take cows. The ordinary farmer is able to start a fine herd. It costs money to get a prize bull. And even if his herd is an exceptionally good one, he has not enough to warrant advertising to attract the attention of the big buyers, so it does not pay him sufficient profit to maintain such stock. But suppose 20 farmers got together and decided on some fine breed of cattle best adapted to their use. Say Guernsey—a popular breed today, and a good, all round cow.

Let them get the best. In partnership let them buy prize bulls for breeding purposes. Let them secure the services of a good veterinary to keep an eye on them. Make an exhibit at the Fair under the name of Newark Guernsey Herds Association. What would be the result? Why, I'll tell you? This locality would soon be known in dairy circles as a great Guernsey section. Buyers, worth while, would be attracted. Regular public sales would be an outcome attracting the best dairymen in the country. It would then be worth their while. And you would profit. And all could be brought about at little expense, simply by a little co-operation and business methods.

The same thing applies to hogs. We have every combination on the market and few thoroughbreds. Here is, however, a marked improvement since the herd at the farm has been started.

Every black hog in White Clay Creek Hundred is called a Berkshire—and of course, the usual story is that his father was entitled to be registered. That is a joke. A real Berkshire wouldn't recognize his race if he appeared in the community.

Suppose our twenty farmers who keep from two to four brood sows were to get stock—registered stock—the best that could be bought. Then breed for prize stock, stock that would attract attention and bring big prices, don't you think buyers would come here. The outlay would be small at first and pork could be sold as now, but in a few years, you would laugh at a $5 per pair, 6 weeks old pigs offer.

These same twenty farmers could start this in one season without one cent expense. How? By buying all their feed, phosphate, etc., by co-operative methods.

And then you would be real farmers—the business man farmer. Then what would happen? The other farmers would come in and soon there would be an association of 100 farms. The idea would broaden out. It would enter into all phases of the farm life of the community—the breeding of horses, the operating of creameries, the buying of all produce and machinery and securing help. This would be a farming section that was producing wealth, making for better social conditions, keeping the boy and girl on the farm because it was the best place to be.

Where are the twenty farmers? Oh, then, let's five of us start it. Don't all come at once—it's not my idea. You know it's true. Let's get together.

A COZY CORNER-- MOLLY'S WORK BAG

For an hour every afternoon, after the coming of cool autumn days, one is sure to find Molly cozily settled in a corner of the living room—her invariable companion—her work bag.

"Christmas is coming, my dear, and nimble fingers must make amends for a slender pocket-book," was the explanation I received upon being introduced to her successful little plan.

"I do enjoy making gifts anyway, when there is an absence of worry and rush," she said.

"I remember as a girl hearing one whom I admired very much plead for a true Christmas spirit, and an absence of Christmas nonsense. She mentioned Mrs. McKinley at that time the lady of the Whitehouse, whose practice it was to make all gifts with her own hands. I was won by the idea at once, and have ever since felt like apologizing to the friend upon whom I bestowed a 'bought' holiday remembrance. Yes, indeed, every 'true love' of mine is to receive a gift into which there has been woven a dozen thoughts of her own personality and interesting self."

"What do I find to make? Oh, the gifts are as widely different as the persons for whom they are intended. Today I am making something for a busy friend who would not look like herself without one of those dainty feminine touches which are so hard to discover among the ready-made articles of the shops. This piece of real sheer lawn I am hemming will be a dainty little apron in an hour or so. First, I cut it square, the length I want to use, then fold it, round the corners at the bottom, and trim off a little at the sides, making it slightly narrower at the top. A narrow hem, the same width all the way, is rolled around the three sides. Slanting across the lower left corner I embroider the three initials of the person for whom it is intended—using the old English lettering. The prettiest touch comes from the footing, about an inch or an inch and a half wide, with which the apron is finished. Buy plain white footing, which is a great deal cheaper than a lace of like quality, and make a neat braid stitch close to the edge of the footing with a fine number of white D. M. C. When the stitching has been done sew by hand, around the apron, holding it in and making slightly full.

Finish the top with strings. The result is inexpensive, but most pleasing and effective.

The Newspaper's Truthfulness

You often hear it said that the newspapers are not truthful, and they are not. But, relatively, they are so much more truthful than individuals that a comparison would be astonishing if the test could be made.

"The reason is not far to seek. Suppose anyone of us should go around for a whole day, just as usual, except for a combined phonograph and thinkograph secretly attached to us to record exactly everything we said and thought. And then suppose at night somebody should turn that record on so that we could hear again all the things we had said and thought in ignorance, in carelessness, in prejudice, in malice and in vain-glory.

"And on top of that suppose everybody who knew anything about the truth of those matters should be called in to listen to that record and answer it. Why, we couldn't look into the mouth of that combined phonograph and thinkograph without blushing.

"But, worse still, suppose all the persons about whom we had said and thought those false and careless things were to assemble next morning to begin libel suits, horse-whippings, pistol exercises, and all the other means of resenting falsehood. Don't you think it would teach us all a great lesson in being as careful as possible to tell the truth? Or wouldn't we take particular pains not to have the combined phonograph and thinkograph along next time we started out?"

"That is exactly the test the newspaper has to undergo."

AS TO GOOD ROADS

In Illinois, according to a speaker quoted by the Chicago Tribune, "Politics stands in the way of good roads." That is bad for Illinois. In most of the States the politicians stand for good roads, and sometimes to the extent of wasting the public money. At the same time what has been secured through legislative enactment, backed by public demand, is wonderful when it is remembered how, only a few years ago, the request for better highways was received with cold indifference and positive opposition.

Even in Delaware, when the bicycle enthusiasts sought to have the General Assembly do something in the direction of securing better roads, the request was turned down most decisively. When, however, the automobile came into vogue the demand for better roads became so emphatic that everybody awoke to the necessity for providing them. And they have come, but the discovery that the suction of the rubber tires is more or less destructive of the surface of the roads has revealed a positive need for a better coating of the highways.

The roads being built today in other states are made with the view of meeting the new conditions. The old roads are being strengthened by a surface coating which answers very well, notably in Massachusetts, where the roads are for the most part without blemish. There is no going back now—the mileage of better roads is to become greater and they are to be made so as to resist the inroads of the fast-traveling machines. The secret of keeping good roads in prime condition is to watch them continually. In Allegheny, Pa., the hundreds of miles of good roads are divided into sections of three miles each and they are kept under constant supervision and are inspected all the time. As soon as a minor break is discovered it is repaired at once. The result is that users of the road are never aware that any blemishes have appeared and the repairs are done so quickly that it is seldom anybody is found at work upon them.

The science of building good roads has been followed by the science of knowing how to care for the roads after they are built. There is no longer any opposition to the expenditure of public money for better roads. The farmers, who were the most strenuous objectors, have now learned that every mile of good road over which they have to travel means an actual saving in horseflesh and vehicle repairs. While there is under way the construction of more miles of good roads it must be kept in mind continually that they should be built neither too cheaply nor too costly. Hundreds of thousands of automobiles are in continual use and during the summer months they find their way over the greater part of the country.

Those sections which have good roads, and those states which believe in perfect highways, are becoming better known to the people generally. The roads of New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are known the country over as being admirably adapted for automobile riding, and Delaware is getting into the ranks of states with good roads. When the new highway through this state is completed and made to connect with a good road across the Pennsylvania line, then Delaware will be always associated with fine highways. —Morning News.

OCTOBER 11, 1911

SATURDAY was the sixty-second anniversary of the death of Edgar Allan Poe—the truly great American poet.

Look at the facts of his life—a dream indeed.

The entrances and exits, the pleasing wit and melancholy soliloquy. A haughty sarcasm toward enemies, a kindly word for friends. Ever a chilly scorn for his foes, but always a sympathetic smile for those in distress. Proud, independent, sentimental, morose. Not perfect—just human.

"A man who lived all; on the mountain where the sun shown with beauty resplendent—then in the valley where shadows cast a morbid gloom over his susceptible nature. In all, he struck the chords of life's mystery, but the wailing dirge sounded NEVER-MORE.

"The misguided or malignant passion of an unimportant fragment of the community may recklessly accuse the most stainless judge and by groundless charges put suspicion in the place of confidence and distrust in the place of faith. The seasoned and staid traditions of impeachment are to be translated into a trial by turmoil. The recall will strike from the splendid structure of free government the arch upon which it has come to rest with unshaken confidence. God forbid that the sanctuaries of the country of America shall ever be ravished by the sibilant hiss of a mob crying, Crucify Him! Crucify Him!"

JUST A WORD TO THE MERCHANTS

WARNING AGAINST EXTREMISTS

IN THE course of the Jubilee sermon delivered at the great Cathedral of Baltimore recently, Cardinal Gibbons spoke boldly in defense of "the lamp of the fathers which has guided the steps of the American people" as he fittingly described the Constitution.

His words of warning, while addressed to Catholics, are deserving of the serious attention of men of all faiths and every political affiliation. The message is clear and strong, striking at the very root of the "excesses of the popular impulse". The Brooklyn Eagle says that, "Not even in the public utterances of President Taft has the logic of resistance to anti-constitutional trends of sentiment been put more tersely or more strongly than by the one American Cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church, a church traditionally in sympathy with the preservation of public order."

He has felt keenly this rising danger and has been strong enough to raise his voice in a plea for the protection of the institutions of representative government. And no one will doubt the weight of his words even outside the circle of his own church.

A few expressions from the sermon will show that his statements are clear cut, leaving no room for misinterpretation.

All changes are not reformation and every man with a panacea is not a reformer.

It is proposed that acts of the Legislature shall have no force till submitted to a popular vote. * * * The power to veto the acts of the Legislature is not representative government; it is mob law.

It is also proposed to give the people the power to recall judges before their terms expire. * * * The recall of judges is an insult to the integrity and self-respect of our judiciary. Better a venal judge here or there, than to have all the judges on the bench slaves who sit with their ears to the ground to hear the people's will.

Especially can we give these serious consideration when we realize that it comes from one not representing either party or catering to the popular favor for office or prestige. It is a stern warning from one of cool judgment—not of a theorist, either, but of one closely associated with and intensely interested in the practical workings of our public institutions. Nor does it represent the opinion of an ultra-conservative. To know the life and work of Cardinal Gibbons is to know a life of progressive ideas, and a masterful mind and hand in their culmination. His warning is not against Progressive measures, but against Insurgency. And there is an Insurgency and wild disregard for institutions that bodes no good. Camp meeting sermons favoring Recall from political seekers of place and power do not compare well with this courageous appeal for sane and cool judgment.

In small towns there are always merchants who consider advertising as a donation to the publisher of the paper. Some there are that advertise in a spirit of public service—that every town should have a paper of course and should be supported. As an advertising medium, a way to increase business and hold trade from going to a nearby city it is an idea that has apparently never occurred to them.

Let us see. Philadelphia is drawing trade from Newark every day that rightfully belongs to this town and Wilmington. To say that the people are led astray by startling ads in the city dailies is an acknowledgement that your business methods need investigation.

There is no territory that you can claim exclusively as your territory, around which you might build a fence and compel the people to purchase from you. You cannot force the public to buy at your store.

But it is true, there is a certain territory in which you should have a greater advantage to do business, all other conditions being equal. You should have a decided advantage to do business in your town and surrounding territory over any outside competitor. There is a territory that you may call your territory; you know the people, know their desires and know their purchasing power. You are living with these people, you are ready to help them build schools, churches, and streets, and all other improvements, which help to build up a community in which it is a pleasure to live.

"These people will be willing to purchase their needs from your store provided you give them the same courteous treatment that they get elsewhere and sell them goods at as reasonable a price as they can buy for at any other place. And this, you certainly can do, for whatever advantage your city house competitor may have in purchasing his goods on account of his large purchasing power you make up for it in other ways such as lower rents, cheaper help, lower taxes and then being nearer to your customers.

"But one thing is certain, you must get after this business. It is a mistake to assume that these people must or should come to your store. The public at large admires the merchant that is after the business. You must get in line with all your progressive competitors and show your customer that you appreciate his business. It is not enough that you keep a stock of goods such as your customers like to purchase, but you must let them know that you have the goods. Your customers are busy people; they have no time to inquire about your goods and prices. You must advertise, and advertise right.

"Your ads should contain cuts of the articles in your stores. They should tell all about the quality of these goods and tell the prices. BE SURE TO SAY SOMETHING IN YOUR ADS. The same principle holds true whether your store is large or small. You should constantly keep your goods before your customers. It is a good policy to tell in your ads where they can find these goods in your store; in this way your customers will constantly have in mind a picture of your store.

"The cheapest and most effective way of advertising is to advertise in your local papers. You reach all the people that are interested in your town and that do some trading in your town, and that possibly might be induced to buy from you.

"But one thing is absolutely certain, if you want to succeed in the twentieth century, you must apply twentieth century business methods. You must advertise your goods.

"Your home paper is the cheapest means by which you can speak to your customers, because it reaches so many of them. Your customers believe in your home paper, for fake advertisements are generally omitted. All you have to do is to write your ad, the local newspapers take care of the rest. They see to it that it is properly sent to the homes where it is read by every member of the families that know you. If your ads attract attention, they can't help but bring results. In this country the public has much more confidence in the merchant that advertises than in the one that seems to be afraid of showing his goods together with his prices in the public home market place, the columns of your local paper, the best medium for local advertisers."

AROUND HOCKESSIN

Mrs. Joseph Mitchell fell down the steps at the rear of her home last Thursday and broke her right arm. She is now under the care of Dr. John Ball. This is the second accident in the family within a few weeks, Mr. Mitchell having lately recovered from the effects of a sprained ankle.

Harmony Grange was well attended on Monday night. The most interesting part of the program was the discussion: What is the greatest lack in the average American home; the church, the school or business?

The house of T. Addison Potts is undergoing repairs.

A pair of horses belonging to Mr. Fahey became frightened on Monday, by blasting in the Highfield stone quarry. They ran from near Brackenville, to Hockessin, where they were caught. Although badly bruised, no serious damage was done.

Up-To-Date Business

The new building on Main street—Fader's Garage and Hardware Store, owned and managed by Thomas A. Potts, is about completed. Without doubt, it is the finest business house in town. Much credit is due these gentlemen in this magnificent expression of their hope in the future of Newark. Not only is the building fitted throughout according to the most up-to-date conveniences, but in style of architecture it is a worthy example for future builders.

The garage is up-to-date in every particular with the best facilities for handling machines. The repair shop will be fitted out to meet the emergency needs of the unfortunate autoist. And Fader—everybody knows that he knows a car, and this, with his personal attention to business, means success. A great convenience to Newark.

The hardware store—Mr. Potts, or his customers, couldn't wait for the new building. He has been selling for weeks now. His store, during the last week, has assumed a real touch of hardware. The arrangement promises to be very attractive. Both farmers and townfolk are congratulating Mr. Potts and assuring him great success.

Display Of Delaware Fruit

Delaware's greatest fruit exhibit—the one to be displayed in Madison Square Garden next month at the United States land show, when two Delaware apple growers will compete for $500 gold prizes—it is now occupying the attention of the State Board of Agriculture and is the subject of weekly consideration.

The Board has just contracted with a New York decorator to erect and properly ornament the booths which have been rented for the show to display Delaware's exhibits.

For the first time in any agricultural movement, all the big apple growers, including those who introduced modern spraying and growing in this State and have since made fortunes are united in the determination to make a showing worthy of Delaware's remarkable advance.

A custodian and demonstrator of the exhibit will be selected by the Board, although the apple growers themselves will be on the ground, looking after their valuable exhibits which also have a cash value after the show. Who will represent the board is as yet undecided, but different men will probably be selected from among the young apple growers and fruit specialists that they may be able to explain properly to agricultural inquiries the advantages of Delaware.

Eugene Shallcross of New Castle county, and J. Leonard Soper, of Kent county, both graduates in agriculture and horticulture, are among those mentioned to divide the time.

Squibs

The way Delaware is playing football this season, goods boxes and small lumber stand little show. The game last Saturday could not be properly celebrated owing to a scarcity of inflammable material.

If you have never seen a smile that won't come off make it a point to see Coach McAvoy.

Professor Short says the football team is playing like they did in old '96 days.

In response to several inquiries we should like to say that the new building opposite the college is to be the new "Post" office, and we can safely predict that Johnson will be the Post master.

A gentleman from Christiana, who works in Newark was heard to crack a joke this week. How the world do move!

We often hear the expression of "going some". A fair illustration of its meaning is of a professor buying a safety razor, thirty days trial, and returning it on the 29th day.

A lawyer charges a man $10 for ten minute's conversation. The man insists on paying it. A doctor charges one dollar for a prescription, says the patient: "Oh, pshaw! Is that enough? An undertaker charges $100 for conducting a funeral, and he is just lovely with everybody inside and outside the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologizes for not having bitten before. An editor walks a mile in the hot sun to get facts of a death or a wedding or a social function and spends three hours writing it up and tells lies praising people until he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or charges five cents straight for three extra copies he is a stingy, careless, good for nothing old cuss who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city papers twice as large as his.—Ex.

Report Of Work House Not Yet Ready

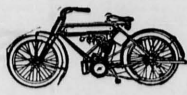

When the members of the board of trustees of the New Castle Co. Workhouse held their regular monthly meeting yesterday, it was expected there would be presented to them for their consideration the report from the committee of six physicians who were named by the board sometime ago to inspect the workhouse and report on the condition they found there, but no return was made.

The committee has made the inspection of the prison, and their findings are now being compiled.

It will take some time before the report is completed.

United States Senator Henry A. duPont returned home last Saturday after a trip of ten weeks abroad, and is now at his home, Winterthur. He is much benefited in health by his sojourn in France and Germany.

EFFICIENT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETIES

At the Atlantic City convention of Christian Endeavor it was announced that as the two years past had been devoted to an increase campaign, so the two years intervening between the convention of 1911 and 1913 at Los Angeles would be devoted to a campaign for the increase of efficiency. In order to set definite aims for work in this direction, President Clark and General Secretary Shaw have put forth a scheme of standards by which each society may rate itself as to its effectiveness.

On a basis of 100 per cent. credits are apportioned for the successful fulfillment of various Christian Endeavor activities and the realization of particular Christian ideals. As a first step a catechism on the duties of various Christian Endeavor committees has been prepared, which all Christian Endeavorers are invited to study. Such as are able to answer three-fourths of the questions in an examination before three adult members of the church, are to receive the title of "Christian Endeavor Expert"; and it is proposed that no member shall be allowed to serve on any Christian Endeavor committee unless he can give satisfactory response to three-fourths of the questions relating to the duties of his own committee. A society that carries out this scheme is to have a credit of 9 per cent on the "schedule of standards."

An executive committee which holds a meeting once a month and has reports from each subordinate committee is worthy a 4 per cent credit. Likewise, efficient prayer meeting, lookout and missionary committees earn respectively as much. The information, flower, good literature, Sunday school, citizenship and junior committees are worth 2 per cent each to the standing of the society if they do their work well. If three-fourths of the active members are prepared to offer public prayer, 5 per cent shall be added to the reckoning, and as much more when three-fourths are ready to give individual testimony in prayer meeting. A consecration meeting where three-fourths respond to roll call brings a 3 per cent credit, and a similar proportion of members available for prayer meeting leaders enhances the record by 3 per cent. Good singing, well maintained, successful business meetings and at least six socials a year count 3 per cent for each specification. A society, half of whose members are tithers, and which includes a personal workers' band in the list, gets 4 per cent on each of these items; while a society with three-fourths of active members observing the "quiet hour" for private devotion is rewarded with a 5 per cent credit. Full faithfulness at church services wins 6 per cent and fidelity to the pastor 3 per cent. The remaining 12 per cent is rated on support of the local Christian Endeavor union, the increase of the list of honorary and associate members and the maintenance of some study course, either in missions, church history, Christian evidences or denominational polity.

Societies will be graded according to their report to the United Society and a roll of honor will be presented to the 1913 convention.

CITIZENSHIP TRAINING NEEDED

At the Founder's Day's celebration at Lehigh University on last Saturday President McCrea, of Pennsylvania Railroad, made an interesting address. In our great business successes and pleas for conservation, he sees a need for training for citizenship and thinks our colleges should lay more stress on this part of the curriculum.

He said in part:

NEED POLITICAL EDUCATION.

I feel that there would be a great opportunity missed if I did not try to make plain to the managers of this institution and the young men before me that there are new and unforeseen duties for these schools to perform. Since Lehigh University was founded the nation has increased from 30 to 90 millions of people, governed, however, to all intents and purposes, in the same manner and by the same machinery. As a result there has grown a great unrest in the land. This, of course, is due to a number of causes, only one of which it would seem proper for me to speak of at this time.

As there was in 1865 a shortage of young men being scientifically educated, so is there now a shortage of young men being taught the principles and science of practically administering a republican form of government. Forty-eight States, with all the necessary executive officers, and 48 Legislatures to make their laws, together with Federal legislation and administration, and the requirements of large municipalities, make a demand upon the country for men adequately educated to legislate and properly to administer the laws which it has not been able to fill.

It seems to me that to meet these conditions it is the duty of the universities and colleges to establish, as one of the important studies of their curriculum, a course on national, state and municipal government, and by making one of the requirements of entering examinations a rudimentary knowledge of such course spread education along these lines among the preparatory schools as well as the colleges of the United States.

This country prospered under existing conditions to a degree unknown to history, and yet there is dissatisfaction, some of it well founded, some of it baseless. In analyzing conditions and prescribing remedies, as was natural, many mistakes have been made—far more, in my judgment, than would have been the case if the character of education which I am suggesting had been inaugurated 25 years ago. I speak thus confidently because it is natural for a large portion of the young men of the country, and particularly those who seek a higher education, to become interested in politics, and if taught fundamental principles and how to consider carefully all sides of important questions the majority would reach correct conclusions and carry their friends with them. As it is, the large part of our young men are left to pick up their political views through association, family tradition or random reading.

THE CORN SONG

Heap high the farmer's wintry hoard!
Heap high the golden corn!
No richer gift has autumn poured
From out her lavish horn!

Let other lands, exulting, glean
The apple from the pine,
The orange from its glossy green,
The cluster from the vine;

We better love the hardy gift
Our rugged vales bestow,
To cheer us when the storm shall drift
Our harvest fields with snow.

Through vales of grass and meads
Of flowers,
Our plows their furrows made,
While on the hills the sun and showers
Of changeful April played.

We dropped the seed o'er hill and plain,
Beneath the sun of May,
And frightened from our sprouting grain
The robber crows away.

All through the long, bright days
Of June,
Its leaves grew green and fair,
And waved in hot midsummer's noon
Its soft and yellow hair.

And now with Autumn's moonlit eve,
Its harvest time has come,
We pluck away the frosted leaves,
And bear the treasure home.

* * * * *
Let earth withhold her goodly root,
Let mildew blight the rye,
Give to the worm the orchard's fruit,
The wheat field to the fly;

But let the good old crop adorn
The hills our fathers trod;
Still let us for the golden corn,
Send up our thanks to God!

—Whittier.

Here and There

By the accidental discharge of a shot gun he was carrying, Earl Robinson, aged 14 years, of Newark, had the index finger and the thumb on his left hand blown off late Tuesday night of last week. He had been hunting, and was returning home when the accident occurred. He had part of his hand over the muzzle of the gun when it exploded. Robinson was taken home, and Dr. Walter Steele was called and dressed the injury.

The moving pictures will be continued in the Centre Hall, under the management of Mrs. Ira Mote.

One hundred fourteen colored men and women have matriculated at the State College at Dover.

The receipts of the Oxford Agricultural Fair reached $3400, which, it is said, will just about cover expenses.

January 23 to 27 has been fixed as the time for the next show of the Diamond State Pet Stock and Poultry Association to be held in Turn Hall, Wilmington.

At the 106th annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Delaware, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, held in Masonic Temple, Wilmington, last week, the following officers were elected: Grand master, Enoch Moore, of Lafayette Lodge, Wilmington; deputy grand master, E. G. Walls, of Smyrna; senior grand warden, William F. Shalleross, of Middletown; junior grand warden, Horace Brown, of Lewes; grand secretary, V. V. Harrison, of Wilmington; grand treasurer, Samuel G. Cleaver, of Wilmington. Dr. G. Layton Grier, the retiring grand master, according to custom, was presented with a handsome jewel of his office.

'Brooks' Comet has been seen clear evenings in the northwestern sky, just above the handle of the dipper. It has a hazy appearance and the tail is not very well defined.

A training school for nurses will be opened at Union Hospital, Elkton, in the near future. The local physicians have consented to act as instructors and have agreed upon the different branches of study and lectureships.

It is figured that 500,000 automobiles will be in use in this country next year, an average of one for each 180 persons of the whole population. The automobile industry now ranks sixth in the U. S. It is estimated that within the past ten years the total $1,555,000,000 has been spent in the country on these vehicles.

Mr. Frank M. Williams, Chief Engineer of the Coleman duPont Road, was asked today what he proposed to do about labor for building the road. Mr. Williams stated his instructions from Mr. duPont were to try for two or three weeks to get local labor, and to give Delawareans the preference over everybody in hiring men, and to make every effort to collect together enough such labor to handle all the construction work; but that after a reasonable time, if the Delawareans did not respond, to import men from elsewhere. Mr. Williams further stated, that he had caused notices to be posted in conspicuous places in all the towns of southern Delaware, giving notice that labor was wanted at Georgetown, but that there were very few applications, and that unless enough men came in during the next three or four days, it would be necessary to bring men from the outside to push the work through.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE OF RURAL NEW CASTLE

Teachers of the rural school districts of New Castle county held a meeting on Saturday in the Young Men's Christian Association Building, and the session was one of the largest that has ever been held under the auspices of the Teachers' Association.

Miss Anne Rockwell Stewart of Baltimore, addressed the gathering on "Reading." She gave practical demonstrations with several third grade scholars of Richardson Park school. The scholars of these lower grades are taught to read by associating the word with the object of its significance. In this method the old A. B. C.'s are discarded.

Mrs. Edith Smith Davis, superintendent of the department of scientific temperance instruction for the National W. C. T. U. and the World W. C. T. U., was one of the speakers. She attended the international congress at the Hague. She deplored the method of teaching temperance in the public schools. She holds that better results can be obtained by teaching the children the value of water rather than the harm of liquor. She said that tobacco should always be associated with alcohol in lectures to the students.

At the close of the morning session luncheon was served in the Y. M. C. A. Cafe and a social hour followed.

In the afternoon Miss Stewart gave a second address her subject being "The Study of Literature."

The teachers will hold their annual outing either on Saturday, October 21, or on the following Saturday. They will visit Valley Forge. The teachers have visited Valley Forge previously, but since the occasion of their former trip the state has taken charge of this historic spot and beautified it.

It has been decided to change the regular schedule of the Annual Institute in several respects. There will be no evening entertainments this year and the teachers fee will be one dollar, regardless of salary, instead of being graded according to the salary as heretofore.

MACHINE HIT BY FAST TRAIN AT GRADE CROSSING.

Chauffeur, Badly Injured, May Not Recover—Victims All Prominent in Saratoga—Three Women Guests of Fourth, Who Recently Bought the Machine.

GRANVILLE, N. Y., July 19.—The bodies of four prominent Saratoga women lie in an undertaker's morgue in this city, the result of an automobile accident at Raceville, a few miles east of this city, this afternoon at 6 o'clock.

The dead are Mrs. Eliza Grant, widow of Dr. Grant of Saratoga; Mrs. Charles Field Wells, Jr., wife of the son of a prominent druggist of Saratoga; Mrs. George W. Yates and Mrs. Robinson of Boston, Mass., a guest of Mrs. Wells.

The chauffeur, Charles A. Ostrander, was alive to-night, but with small chance for recovery.

The party was hit at a grade crossing by an extra express train that left Rutland at 4:25 o'clock this afternoon.

The chauffeur says that the engine of his machine was stalled while he was shifting from high to low speed, the crossing being at the top of a steep hill.

Absent Ones

Absence makes the heart grow fonder, but the memory of the absent one becomes vague and dim. You long to picture in your mind just how "HE" or "SHE" would look, but there's a mysterious something which makes this mental picture impossible.

But if you had a photograph before you, then you could recall the forgotten face, yes, even the kind acts, the gentle words.

Wouldn't that "ONE" so far away appreciate your photograph too.

We have tried always to encourage farmers to study the analysis and commercial values so they can make intelligent comparisons of different brands and not be taken in to the extent of several dollars a ton, as many are. Little books explaining these things are to be had for the asking. We are too busy to do any canvassing, but have already had many orders given us.

The church was prettily decorated with the fruits and flowers of the season and the music inspiring, especially the solos sung by Mrs. Young, of West Grove. At the close of the service in the evening, the Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. William Cann, gave a hearty invitation to the parents as well as the children, to come to our school.

Miss Laura Mearns, who has been to the hospital and successfully operated on for appendicitis, has returned home.

A very pretty wedding was witnessed by about fifty relatives and friends of the bride and groom on last Thursday, at 1.30 p. m., when Mary E. Mercer became the wife of George W. Sloan, it being solemnized by Friends' ceremony. Amid the strains of "Lohengrins" Wedding March, which was played by Miss Nellie M. Batting, the bride entered the parlor leaning on the arm of the groom, accompanied only by the maid of honor, Miss Madeline Mercer. The bride was dressed in white and carried a bouquet of white roses, the maid of honor, also in white, carried pink carnations. They stood within a bower of autumn leaves and ferns and made a very pretty picture indeed. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which the bride and groom departed for parts unknown to all except a very few. Quite an interesting part of the program was when the bride and groom decided to walk part of the distance to the railroad station to elude the showers of rice which was bound to be in evidence. They did not get very far, nevertheless, before they were overtaken and literally pelted. They were glad to escape within the carriage which had overtaken them and which had been very appropriately decorated for the occasion. The bride received a great many beautiful presents, including silver, cut glass, linen, etc. The couple will reside in part of the Mercer home- stead.
