Glazed Kid Week Banquet

Secretary Hoover to Speak

Wilmington Prepares for Big Event

The Glazed Kid Week banquet next Monday night in the ballroom of the Hotel du Pont promises to be one of the biggest events of its kind ever held in Wilmington. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and a notable array of other speakers of national and local repute will address the meeting.

Among these are Congressman A. S. Krieder, of Pennsylvania, who is interested in a large shoe factory in the Keystone State; United States Senator L. Heister Ball, from Delaware; Congressman Caleb R. Layton, from Delaware; Mayor LeRoy Harvey, George W. Norris, head of the Philadelphia District of the Federal Reserve System, and Otho Nowland, president of the Equitable Trust Company, of Wilmington.

The Mercantile Section of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent out 750 invitations to members to boost the cause and aid Wilmington's leather industry by attending the banquet, by featuring Wilmington glazed kid shoes in their advertising, and by decorating their store windows with appropriate displays.

In addition to this, members of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, to the number of fifty or sixty, have already accepted an invitation to be guests at the banquet. The members of the Delmarva Press Association, and of the Chamber of Commerce of West Chester have also been invited to participate.

About 100 members of the local leather workers unions have asked for reservations at the banquet.

The store decorations, especially window displays of glazed kid products, showing the different stages of manufacture and the various grades of kid leather, will be loaned by local manufacturers of kid leather upon application. Cards explaining the merits of shoes made of glazed kid will be a prominent feature of the window displays.

It is also planned to have an information booth during the week in the Hotel du Pont. The merchants will supply this booth with secretaries thoroughly conversant with Wilmington, her products and industries, and will give visiting merchants and the public any information which may be desired.

Reservations for the dinner Monday night should be made through E. D. Prince, of the Equitable Trust Company.

Campaign for School Libraries

Delaware Parent-Teacher Association is preparing for its fall campaign. Following action at the State Convention held at the University in July, the slogan this year will be "Libraries for Schools."

Miss Etta Wilson of the Service Citizens, is executive secretary. She has now the first bulletin prepared to be used in the Community Meetings. It gives an outline of entertainment giving the history of the book. The work will begin in October.

Golf Club Work Progresses

While little publicity has been given to the new Country Club, the work is progressing at an interesting speed. The golf links (9 hole) is about complete and with favorable weather conditions may be ready for the game in the late fall. If not then, certainly in the spring.

Everyone who has viewed the grounds are enthusiastic and with its location and the contour, it promises to be one of the crack courses of this section.

Newark Son Goes West

John A. Hopkins, Jr., of Newark, well known here as student in the Agricultural Department and editor of the Delaware Farmer, has accepted position on the faculty of Iowa State College in the Department of Agricultural Economics.

Hopkins was one of Professor Hayman's crack students and was associated with the Agricultural Club in its beginning. All those boys are making the mark in agriculture, education and business.

Lieutenant Fitzpatrick Buried

Fraternity Sends Representatives

Funeral Held in New York on Saturday

The last chapter of an exciting career was closed when, on Saturday, Lieutenant William S. Fitzpatrick was buried from his home in New York City. "Fitz", as his colleagues at Delaware called him, was one of the four ill-fated aviators whose bombing plane recently crashed to destruction in the West Virginia mountains. A member of the class of 1919, Fitz relinquished his studies for the army when war was declared. He has since figured in many thrilling escapes with the air service. Recently he was prominent in bombing work during government tests with obsolete war-ships. "Fitz" was a soldier of consummate daring and of amazing intrepidity.

While at Delaware he was prominent in athletics, holding the half-mile record and being a member of the college relay team, as well as being a flashy end on the football team. He was skillful also at boxing. He was class president in his sophomore year and was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

"Fitz" frequently returned to Newark to visit his friends; on one occasion he dropped down in an airplane. There were many persons in Newark to whom the news of "Fitz's" sad demise brought keen grief. The funeral was attended by several local friends and by New York Alumni members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity.

High School Has Largest Agricultural Enrollment in State

Twenty-four pupils have enrolled in the Agricultural Department of the High School so far. Of this number fifteen are in the course in Plant Industry and nine in the course in Horticulture.

The quarters of this department have been moved to the third floor of the Academy Building where the two front rooms serve as class and laboratory rooms. These rooms have been repainted and with the addition of book and equipment cases present a very creditable appearance.

Within the next two weeks all the Agricultural pupils will have selected their home projects upon which they will specialize the coming year. By home project is meant an enterprise as growing an acre of corn or potatoes, which is selected, studied and finally worked out by the boy. In working out his project he puts into practice those theories and ideas secured in the class room, or he "learns to do by doing." Most of the boy's work on his project comes during the summer months when he is supervised and instructed at regular intervals by the agricultural instructor. The boy can receive the desired educational benefit from his project only when conditions at his home are such that he can select a suitable project and carry it out according to the most approved methods. Without these conditions a part of the educational value of the project is lost. The project selected is always related to the type of class room work of that year, for example this year projects will be on either general Plant Industry or Horticulture, depending on the subject the boy is taking. The selection and carrying out of a home project is a necessary part of the work cannot be given unless a project is carried. For this reason boys living in town usually work at a disadvantage in this course as they have limited facilities for projects. This course in Vocational Agriculture is designed to meet the needs of boys who expect eventually to get into some line of agricultural work. It is not intended for those who have no real interest in the work and who take it merely for credit toward graduation.

Dean Rich at Columbia

Professor Mary E. Rich who resigned from the University last month, is now visiting her sister at Hastings on the Hudson. She will register next week at Teacher's College, Columbia, for advanced work in Education.

SON OF DELAWARE ELECTED TO WORLD COURT OF JUSTICE

JOHN BASSETT MOORE SELECTED TODAY AT GENEVA

ATTENDED DELAWARE COLLEGE YEARS AGO

That a son of Delaware should be selected to sit in the International Court is an honor that is in keeping with her history. Today, at Geneva, John Bassett Moore was elected as a member of the permanent Court to sit at The Hague. That this honor should come unsolicited by a vote of World Nations shows the standing of Delaware's Son in International thought and law.

John Bassett Moore is a Delawarean, having been born at Smyrna in 1860. He is a graduate of Delaware College and Yale University. He began his career as a law clerk in the Department of State, Washington, in 1885. He was Third Assistant Secretary of State in 1898; Secretary and counsel Spanish-American Peace Commission, Paris, 1898; agent of United States before United States and Dominican Arbitration Tribunal, 1904; United States delegate to the Fourth International American Conference, Buenos Aires, 1910; member International Commission Jurist, 1912; counselor of Department of State, with power to sign as Secretary of State, 1913-14; member of the Permanent Court at The Hague, 1913; delegate Pan-American Financial Congress, 1915, and vice-chairman International High Commission.

He is well known in Newark and has many friends here at the University and in the town. He will be remembered as the Commencement orator here a few years ago.

Leaves Farmers' Bank to Teach

Mr. Williams left today for his new duties. His position at the Trust Company has not been filled but announcement is expected in a few days.

Carl Taylor Improves

Carl Taylor, of Philadelphia, well known in Newark, who was injured last week, is improving. He has left the hospital and is now at home, making what is reported as a normal but sure recovery.

Delaware Corn Growers' Association

The fifteenth annual State Corn Show will be held at Seaford, January 3rd to 5th, under the auspices of the Delaware Corn Growers' Association as a result of the annual meeting of the Executive Committee which was held August 25th at Bowers Bench in connection with the Kent County Farm Bureau picnic. Through the Sussex County members of the executive committee an invitation to hold the show at Seaford was extended on behalf of the Commercial Club working in co-operation with the local Corn Show committee composed of farmers. The last Legislature appropriated $400 to the Association which has since been supplemented by $100 through the interest of the State Board of Agriculture in the Annual Corn Show. That there is much interest in the forthcoming show was attested by the full attendance of the executive committee, composed as follows: President, John Ponder, Milton; Secretary-Treasurer, M. O. Pence, Newark; Vice Presidents: Sussex County, Norval Pepper, Seaford, Kent County, R. W. Willey, Dover, and New Castle County, Roswell Schafer, Granogue. The premium list, which was enlarged, will be announced in a short time. It was decided to utilize the second day of the program to a discussion of corn growers' problems and the secretary was asked to secure as speakers some of the outstanding corn authorities in the East, including Prof. A. E. Grantham, formerly Secretary of the Association and Agronomist of the Experiment Station and now with the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, in charge of their educational department.

Injured at Football

While practicing yesterday for football on the Newark High School team, Clifford Buckingham, son of F. H. Buckingham of Union, fractured his collar-bone. He was hurried to Dr. Steele. He is recovering nicely. He is a member of the Junior Class.

To Consider Purchasing the Ritter Plant

With John F. Richards, chairman, a meeting of the farmers and others interested has been called at Wolf Hall, September 15th, at 7.30 o'clock to consider a proposition of the United Canneries Corporation concerning the purchase of the P. J. Ritter Company Plant at Newark with the idea of future operation in canning tomatoes, sweet corn and peas.

The success of such a proposition is almost vital to the agricultural interests of this community.

Vinsingers Return to Newark

H. E. Vinsinger, formerly Cashier of the Farmers Bank, now associated with Krebs at Newport, has moved his family back to Newark, occupying the Springer property on Wilkin's Terrace.

Newark Chickens Win

With boys' clubs, girls' clubs, horses, pigs racing winning for Newark, poultry must not be forgotten. Clyde Robinson with his White Leghorns took two 3rd prizes and one 5th. W. E. Renshaw came away with a 2nd, 3rd and 4th on his White Wyandottes. John Mote was the real champion with his Barred Rocks. He entered five birds and came away with 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 5th prizes.

Ankle Broken in a Team Jam

J. Frank Elliott had his ankle broken last Thursday at noon, while backing his team out of a cellar, which he had been digging. His foot slipped and became wedged between the wheel and the body of the wagon. He pulled the reins in an effort to save himself and this made the horses plunge. Dr. Walter Steele was called and upon examination decided to hurry him to the Homeopathic Hospital, in Wilmington, where an X-ray was taken, which showed that the small bone at the back of the leg was broken at the ankle and the muscles badly twisted. After having the foot properly dressed he was removed to his home where he is improving as quickly as can be expected.

New Appointments at Women's College

Miss Dorothy A. Calef is a graduate of Mills College for Women, Mills College, Alameda County, California, where she has since been an assistant in the Department of Zoology. Miss Calef completed the work for the M. A. degree at the University of Chicago last year and has continued her research work at the Marine Biological Laboratory, Wood's Hole, Mass., during the past summer. Miss Calef will succeed Miss Dorothy Wolf who has accepted an appointment at Wilson College.

Miss Elizabeth G. Kelly of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has been selected. (Continued on Page Five.)

Editors to Enjoy High Life

Interesting Program Arranged for Easton Meet

Judging from preparations being reported by our Easton friends, the Editors and Publishers of Delmarva are at last going to enjoy some of this world's luxuries. Competing with Salisbury, Easton under the leadership of Shanahan of Easton Star-Democrat, Delawareans will see again Eastern "Sho" hospitality in action. The Easton Star-Democrat has the following to say about the event:

"The forthcoming joint meeting of the Maryland Press and the Del-Mar-Via Press Associations in Easton is assuming larger proportions as the dates for the meeting approach. Newspapers throughout the State and the Peninsula are making comments on the meeting, and the indications now are that there will be a large attendance. It is thought that at least 70 of the 100 members in the two associations will come.

"The guests will arrive on Monday morning, the 26th inst., and will spend that afternoon in sightseeing, visiting first of all, the Easton Furniture Factory, where every step in the production of high grade furniture will be explained to them. After this visit the Old Friends Meeting House will be visited, and here Mr. Taylor will conduct them through the venerable building and explain briefly its history.

"Trips to various parts of the town will then be made and then a pilgrimage to Wye House, where the colonial history of this fine old estate will be explained. If there be sufficient time some other country estate will be visited.

"In the evening, The Easton Publishing Company will give a real old-fashioned Eastern Shore dinner to Governor Ritchie of Maryland, Governor Denney of Delaware, and Governor Davis of Virginia, who will be guests of honor, and to the editors. This dinner will be served by twelve of Easton's most attractive young ladies. Manager Plummer will give a special movie show, beginning at 10 o'clock.

"On the morning of the 27th a short business session will be held, after which the visitors will board the Steamer McLane at Easton Point for a visit to Oxford and to Benoni's Point Light, and from thence to Bellevue, where W. H. Vaillant will tender an oyster roast. While at Bellevue the aerial cruiser Lady Baltimore will take as many of the visitors as desire for short air trips. In the afternoon it is probable that Millard F. Bingham's Chesapeake Farms will be visited. Mr. Bingham's Chicago Company is the parent printer's roller company of America.

"The program is subject to some change as yet. The Rotary Club will assist in the entertainment of the visitors and will provide cars for transporting the visitors to different points. A number of banks and business houses have made contributions to a fund to properly entertain the body, and have promised assistance in other ways, so that it looks like Easton will do itself proud in showing its guests a wonderful time during their two-day visit.

"William Mason Shehan, who was the organizer and first president of the Easton Publishing Company, will be the toastmaster at the dinner given by the company. He will also entertain the visiting governors. Addresses will be made by the governors, one or two Eastonians, and a number of the editors.

"This will be the first time that so large a gathering of editors has been held outside of Baltimore and Wilmington, but the invitation to meet in Easton was extended because many of the editors have expressed desires to come here, and also in the belief that Easton will welcome them with open arms."

Lovett Builds Another House

William J. Lovett, who is building a residence on Academy Street, awarded a contract to Greer yesterday for another. It will be of concrete blocks and stucco.

This is the third house on Academy Street built by Mr. Lovett. He is a town asset for aside from building, has an idea for fixing up and general improvement of surrounding conditions.

Governor Denney Arrives Home from Abroad

Reports Interesting Trip

Governor William D. Denney, after a pleasant and interesting tour of France and Belgium with a delegation of other members of the American Legion, returned to his home Monday night. Governor Denney was one of the delegates from Delaware. "Ben" Magee, well known here, who accompanied Governor Denney, also returned Monday night. Young Magee is a student at the University of Delaware and will probably leave at once to join the university football squad at College Park, Md., where preliminary training work is being done.

Governor Denney was at his office in the State House early the next morning where he met Secretary of State Benson and various other State officers and heads of departments who called to welcome him home.

Governor Denney said he had an interesting trip, but that he was glad to get back to Delaware. "We were accorded the warmest welcome wherever we went," he said. "The French people were most hospitable and conferred upon us high honors."

Governor Denney was one of the American Legion delegation of 144 men and 43 women which left New York on the George Washington for Cherbourg, August 3, to attend the dedication in Flirey, France, of a monument to the A. E. F.

The Governor was enthusiastic about the trip. "We were extended every courtesy by the French people," said the Governor. "After landing in France," he said, "the party toured that country and Belgium, visiting every industrial center, the battlefields and cemeteries."

"Every place we visited," he stated "we were met with brass bands and banquets. At Paris the 'Arc de Triomphe' was opened for only the second time since it was erected in honor of Napoleon Bonaparte. We were given a reception by President Millerand at his summer home, and in Belgium, where we spent three days, we were given a reception by King Albert."

"Everywhere the American flag was prominently displayed, and in Nevres the American flag was the only one flying from the flagpole, where the reception took place," the Governor said.

The French and Belgian people, he reported, are keenly interested in the coming disarmament conference in Washington on November 11.

NATIONAL EVENTS

Observations and Comments written for The Post

Tax Bill Chief Activity at Washington

Last week the Senate Finance Committee at Washington finished its study of the tax bill passed by the House just before Congress took a recess, and heard Secretary Mellon in two sessions of discussion on proposed changes. The Finance Committee of the Senate is confronted with the same task which confronted the House—to raise enough money to run the government and to reduce taxes.

The answer of the House to this problem is not considered satisfactory by President Harding, Secretary Mellon, nor by much of the country at large. Secretary Mellon and his advisors are convinced that the tax provisions in the House bill will not raise enough money. He believes that some taxes have been reduced too much and others not enough.

The House abolished all transportation taxes, and made the reduction on income surtaxes effective as of January next. The new recommendation is to make the latter reduction affect this year's incomes, but to retain half the transportation taxes. Tax on corporate income, Secretary Mellon believes, should be increased to 15 per cent instead of 12½ and that cosmetics and proprietary medicines should be taxed, though not by stamp taxes but by a manufacturer's tax. Repeal of the Capital Stock tax and of the excess profits tax on this year's business instead of next year's, is also proposed. By these changes chiefly, it is expected that the revenue measure can be made to yield sufficient funds, and the people be relieved as much as possible this year of the burdensome war taxation.

A draft of the new bill will probably be finished this week. Senator Smooth then expects to offer his bill as a substitute, embodying the plan of raising much of the needed revenue by a general sales tax on all manufactured products to be paid by the manufacturer. That this substitute will not be accepted by the Finance Committee is regarded as certain. The two bills, one from the Committee and on introduced by Senator Smooth will come before the Senate shortly after September 21, when Congress reconvenes.

Japan Sends Advance Messengers of Sincerity and Good Will

According to dispatches from Tokio, two delegations of Japanese business men will leave Japan next month for America and Europe. The men who take part in these missions are said to be well qualified to discuss with business, financial and political leaders of the United States and the European countries invited to the Disarmament Conference, the chief problems in these fields, where they touch international relations. The men represent the part of the Japanese population which is eager for peaceful relations with all nations and which is particularly anxious to keep the friendship and win the permanent trust of the United States. They will support the later official delegation to the Washington Conference in presenting the problem of Japan and emphasizing the sincerity with which Japan desires to settle these problems to the best advantage of her people, but also to the satisfaction of international right and justice.

Nearly a Million Immigrants Admitted this Year

During the year ending June 30, 505,228 immigrants were admitted to the United States. This is more than last year but below the record of the pre-war years. During this year, also, 247,718 immigrants left this country for their native homes or other countries, and 4,517 aliens were deported.

Foreigners coming and leaving this country not as immigrants, but as visitors, students, temporary workmen, and business men numbered about 175,000. Among those deported to the countries from which they came the largest number were Mexicans, 1268. There were 389 English, 380 Russian, 252 Germans, and 246 Italians. Of the total number 446 were regarded as anarchists and deported on this charge.

The new immigration law, further limiting the number of immigrants went into effect in June and during that month is estimated to have kept out about 50,000 aliens who would have entered under the previous conditions.

Hoover's Plan for Immediate Road Building Endorsed by Engineers

The engineering societies in the country agree with Hoover that fall and not spring is the time for awarding highway contracts. All of their information on employment will be put at the service of Secretary Hoover in the Unemployment Conference called by President Harding. If carried out, the Hoover plan will release millions of dollars for highway work this fall and give employment to thousands of men.

R. M. Gates, of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, calls attention to the amount involved in contracts for road-building in 1920 outside of cities and towns. This was about $450,000,000.

"In this country," said Mr. Gates, "there are approximately 2,225,000 miles of road work. The primary system is about 4,500 miles in length. There are now constructed about 40,000 miles of permanent roads, most of which must be reconstructed."

"It is stated that 90 per cent of the traffic of the country is centered on 20 per cent of the total roads of the country. Pennsylvania is building more hard surface or permanently constructed surface roads each year than any other State in the Union. Approximately 600 miles were let by Pennsylvania this year."

"It can hardly be conceived that all the States will average more than 150 to 200 miles a year. However, if the forty-eight States should average 400 miles a year, it would take more than twenty years to build the necessary roads."

"Engineers are solidly behind Secretary Hoover in his efforts to promote employment. They have provided him with exact data on the advisability of letting highway contracts in the fall instead of the spring, which he has used in a communication dealing with road contracts sent to the Governors of all the states."

A Liberty Memorial and a Beautiful Monument of Peace

One of the most beautiful memorials in the world, is soon to be built by an American city, as a tribute to the men who served in the world war. Through the wisdom of those in charge of the plans and the co-operation of the people, this monument is to be not only a memorial, but a constant inspiration to civic endeavor. Beyond a broad plaza, with a background of many acres of parked land in Kansas City, a shaft is soon to rise, so designed that four angels standing in the recessed carving of its top, bear above them on their wings, a bowl. Set upon a broad base of stone fittingly wrought and carved, itself 100 feet high, and standing on a natural elevation of ground 100 feet above the plaza, the 200 foot shaft will lift its graceful offering 400 feet above the level of the city. Carrying out the architect's idea a fire will burn always in the bowl, so that the memorial will be truly a "pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night." The fire within the bowl is to be the "Flame of Inspiration" guarded by the Spirit of Courage, Honor, Patriotism and Sacrifice which are symbolized in the four angels who bear it aloft on their wings.

Copies of drawings by the architect, Harold Van Buren Magonigle of New York, appear in several current magazines. In World's Work for September is an article by Henry J. Haskell of the Kansas City Star, describing the history and the further civic developments associated with the memorial. The drawings show a memorial, in design, proportion, and expressed idea, which sets a new and wonderful standard of civic art and beauty for a community to live up to. It will be an inspiration not only to Kansas City but to the nation.

Flanked by buildings to serve as a meeting hall for service men, and a museum for records, the memorial will be the gateway to a long, beautifully parked area leading to the park proper, in which area will be erected, in the future, an art building, an auditorium and music hall and other similar buildings. Soldiers marching with waving colors along one of the subbases of the pillar in the architect's drawings shows the possibilities of great pageantry staged in the setting of the glowing memorial.

It is interesting to note that the cost of the memorial amounting to several millions is the gift of the people. 86,000 subscriptions, from the newsboy's quarter to the rich man's thousands of dollars, made up the total fund.

CONSTITUTION DAY

Bulletin from State Board of Education

On September 17, 1787, the Constitution of the United States was signed by the members of the convention which had drawn it, and it was shortly thereafter submitted by Congress to the states for ratification. As it was ratified at various times by different states, the one outstanding date connected with our Constitution is that of its formal approval by the convention. This day, therefore, takes rank next to that of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in our national annals. Indeed, that latter would have brought small permanent result had it not been for the adoption of the Constitution. The condition of America, a group of small and antagonistic nations, would have been scarcely better than that of Central America now, or the Balkans.

The appropriate observance of Constitution Day is an opportunity to impress upon young citizens the significance of the making of the Constitution of the United States and the essential principles of our democratic civilization. The present stress on Americanization is an eloquent appeal to the school to neglect no opportunity to teach American ideals and to inspire in pupils a loyal faith in American principles of popular government. But this must not be blind faith. The only worth while faith will be built on the knowledge of our past history and embedded in a clear comprehension of the principles of our government and our civilization.

The conditions which make ours the best country in the world in which to live depend primarily upon our fundamental law—the Constitution. Upon it—the grandest document ever struck off at one time by the brain of man—rests all our government and most of our happiness. The pupils should be shown the contrast between the United States and countries with other forms of government, as to life, and the contrast between the United States and other countries such as Soviet Russia where principles more or less like ours, have been a failure in making happy and prosperous nations. The danger of the Red in America may thus be brought out.

The program for such an occasion should include three separate objects:

1. Instruction.
2. Inspiration.
3. Enjoyment.

The actual procedure may include recitations, songs, students essays, and a talk by the teacher or an interesting speaker on the meaning of the Constitution.

Poems for reading and recitation may be found in whatever material is available.

Songs suggested are: "America," "The Star Spangled Banner," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "America the Beautiful," "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" and "The Battle Cry of Freedom."

Appropriate essays can be written by students on subjects suggested by the above or gotten from American history of 1783-1789.

References suggested are: Fiske, John, "Critical Period of American History"; Dillion, "American Anniversaries," Dillion Pub. Co., N. Y.; any good United States History.

It is sincerely hoped that the educational opportunity afforded by a thoughtful celebration of September 17, Constitution Day, will not be lost by a single school in Delaware.

If any teacher finds that it will be impossible, because of the short time between now and September 17, to arrange a suitable celebration it is suggested that she let the day pass with a mention of its significance, and have a fitting program prepared for December 7, the anniversary of ratification by Delaware.—H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Ships Lost In New Ocean Currents

Study of the waters along the California coast, where the steamer Alaska was recently wrecked, has revealed new ocean currents which start with the winds driving parallel to the coast, but gradually drift toward the shore away from the direction of the wind. A vessel moving north or south in one of these currents, particularly in a fog when the navigator cannot see his course, will be drawn gradually and imperceptibly nearer and nearer to land instead of along the straight course charted by the officers of the vessel. A wireless call for help under these circumstances would give the location where the navigator supposed himself to be instead of the actual one, so that the danger of complete loss before arrival of help to a ship on the reefs is great.

New Jersey is Exterminating Mosquitoes

The State of New Jersey has a department of Conservation and Development, the business of which is to devote the best possible brains and training to discovering how all natural resources, and land and climatic conditions can be conserved, used and developed to the interests and prosperity of the citizens and state. Industrial possibilities are a prime concern. The attention of the Department has for some time been concentrated on the subject of mosquitoes. They are being eliminated now on a program, which in the estimate of the commission will take fifteen years. In its latest report the commission proposes that the state speed up this program to the tune of $150,000 or $200,000 per year invested toward banishing the pest which makes life intolerable for would-be developers of industry. At this rate the commission assures the state of permanent extermination of the mosquito in five years, and the addition of millions of dollars to industrial values.

Friends who have returned from shore vacations tell us that mosquitoes were the only drawback to glorious moonlight evenings beside the Ocean waves, and that if New Jersey can advertise no mosquitoes, the summer population of the whole east will flock to her shores. Nearby states with an easier problem, it is to be hoped will be stimulated into a profitable and sensible competition.

Flies and mosquitoes can both be eliminated. They were in the canal zone years ago, in a climate and against odds which to any but a Goethals would have seemed impossible. Since then limited areas and communities in the United States have improved comfort, health, and prosperity by exterminating the fly and mosquito. With the co-operation of the community and the enforcement of simple sanitary precautions success is possible anywhere and the fall is the time to begin plans for the campaign.

Wilmington Finding Herself

Wilmington catches a glimpse of itself once in a while. Several years ago, the Chamber of Commerce had a vision and entertained the newspaper editors and publishers of the Peninsula. There dated the time when rural Delaware first realized there was such a place. Down-state minds and trade went to Philadelphia. They knew Wilmington existed, that it was the home of du Pont Powder and was near the Brandywine. They knew it was a pleasant place to visit—if you had relatives there. But to do business, to buy and sell, they went through to Philadelphia. The Hotel du Pont was built and the dinner to the editors—then Wilmington was placed on the map. Since that time, the city has grown. It is recognized as a part of Delaware and outside of a few political jealousies, is loved by rural Delaware.

During the war, Wilmington came to be not merely a proud city of Delaware, not even alone a city of National interest, but actually a World center. The great powder industry there in Wilmington decided events of all civilization. Not only the brains of the founders and their successors, but an army of officers and clerks from Delaware made this possible. In other activities, shipbuilding, railway construction, fibre, morocco, Wilmington played with tremendous force during this period.

This experience broadened her and took much of the sordid localism from her point of view.

During the period of reconstruction, she has maintained a breadth of view that is gratifying to the observer. The Library project, the Harbor development are striking instances of the Glimpses of a Greater Wilmington.

The latest news of civic and business interest is Glazed Kid Week which is an attempt to tell Delaware and the Nation of this Industry in Wilmington. The Chamber of Commerce, business men, Kiwanians, Rotarians, city officials, State and National representatives—everybody is interested. The beginning is on Monday evening when Hoover of the President's Cabinet and World Citizen will launch the campaign. Already it has attracted national attention and this movement promises to start the machinery of this great industry in Delaware.

And strange, yet worthy of serious attention—a prominent business man (really prominent) of Delaware said to us, "What is all this Glazed Kid Campaign. I did not know that this industry was of any extraordinary importance in Wilmington. I knew it was there, of course, but never realized its scope. Why doesn't Wilmington wake up?" This gentleman's comments represent the thought of many other Delawareans. Wilmington fails to tell its story to the world. The Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated on this campaign. It means Trade Development for Delaware and work for unemployed.

Incidentally it is interesting to note "Dave" Snellenburg's name in this campaign. He was a leader back there in the Delmarva Dinner and the "Do it for Wilmington" trip down the State, years ago.

Wilmington, by catching these glimpses now and then will someday soon have a true vision of what she can be. The men are there who can make it—and rural newspapers will always do their bit in telling the story—and applaud.

A Real Chance

It is understood that there are several scholarships available at the Women's College for those who wish to train for teachers. While from a monetary standpoint, salaries are still a disgrace to our citizenship, there is a definite movement to have them approach the dignity of the profession.

Never in the history of the world has there been so much attention given to education. Trained teachers are the demand of the hour. Here is a chance for a young girl who desires to do as well as just to be. Two years in the atmosphere of the College life and then the opportunity to help build your state for tomorrow.

It's truly worth while and a chance that isn't always presented. It might be worthy of your attention.

periences the joy of the artist and the dream of the philosopher. Surrounded by the physical and spiritual beauty of childhood the teacher cannot help but vision each growing individuality in its contribution to social progress.

His background is the whole field of human relationships as expressed in literature, in history in sociology. His materials are the instincts, the emotions, the desires, the thoughts of the human mind. His structure is the individual that will bear his part not only in the community wherein he may be, but will himself build for the future in the progress of civilization. The teacher is a builder of men. His tools are methods based on the principles of physiology, of biology, of psychology.

Why Prepare for Teaching at Women's College

There are many advantages in preparing to teach at a college. Primarily there is the cultural background that is essential to genuine teaching. At the Women's College, University of Delaware, there is every opportunity for the student teacher to gain such background. There is the association with instructors who are masters in their fields; there is the well-equipped library; there are the laboratories; the Home Economics Practice House; the industrial arts equipment; besides, there is fellowship with other students pursuing other lines of work and following other interests—those who are looking forward to chemistry as their work, to art, to literature, to journalism, or to household arts.

To a teacher who will work with children from the varying walks of life such contact at the beginning of her career is invaluable.

Alien Property Custodian Colonel Thomas Miller Doing Good Work

The United States Government, through the Alien Property Custodian, Thomas W. Miller, and under the authority granted that official by the Trading with the Enemy Act, commenced further action in the Bergdoll case, with the filing in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, of a Bill of Complaint against Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, the mother of the notorious draft dodger, whose property was seized together with that of her son some months ago by the Alien Property Custodian. The Bill of Complaint is filed by George W. Coles, United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Major Vincent A. Carroll, Special Assistant United States Attorney for the Alien Property Custodian, and Isaac M. Meekins General Counsel, all acting for the Custodian.

In the Bill of Complaint it is set forth that Grover C. Bergdoll was determined to be an "enemy" under the provisions of the Act of Congress, and that Mrs. Bergdoll, attorney-in-fact for her son, has so far refused to comply with the demands of the Alien Property Custodian made on May 27, 1921. This demand requires her to deliver to the Alien Property Custodian all property belonging to her son, or in which he held any interest. Among such undelivered property is what remains of the gold coin taken from the Treasury Department before Bergdoll made his notorious escape from the Federal authorities and fled to Germany.

Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, stated today that notwithstanding the repeated extensions of time and grace allowed Mrs. Bergdoll since the seizure, she or her attorneys had, through delay, made it necessary for the Government to take this action. "At the time of seizure, Mrs. Bergdoll had not at that time been sentenced as a result of her trial for aiding and abetting the escape of her son, and for conspiracy to evade the draft. She was also under examination by the Special Committee of Congress which has since made its report, and it was felt by the Custodian's office, that under these circumstances, they should be lenient at that time in insisting upon immediate compliance by Mrs. Bergdoll with the demands of the Government. Under the terms of the Peace Resolution signed by the President on July 2nd, all demands made before that date by the Alien Property Custodian, in accordance with the law, are enforceable.

"It is our intention to insist on Mrs. Bergdoll's compliance with the terms of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and in accordance with our demands made thereunder. We are prepared to go to the full extent of the law in causing her to do so, if it becomes necessary. The Department of Justice is aiding us through the United States District Attorney in Philadelphia, and as in our original seizure last May, we will proceed vigorously, but fairly."

In a conference held between President Harding and Thomas W. Miller, the Alien Property Custodian, questions dealing with the formation of policy governing the ultimate disposition of German and Austrian property seized during the war, was discussed.

Colonel Miller stated that under the provisions of the Peace Treaty with Germany recently given to the public, it was indicated that property now in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian will be held by this Government until provision has been made by Germany and Austria for the satisfaction of claims of American citizens against these Governments, arising before the United States entered the war, the most outstanding examples of which are those for the Lusitania sinking. It is understood that such claims aggregate in a total around $400,000,000, and this office will recommend that the enemy property now held by this Government be used to satisfy these claims, or held as an off-set until they are settled.

In any event, additional legislation will be necessary in order to dispose of enemy property in this country, although under two amendments adopted by the last Congress, the Alien Property Custodian is empowered to return property belonging to citizens of the new nations formed out of a portion of the old Austria-Hungary Monarchy, as well as property belonging to American women who married enemy subjects prior to the entry of this country into the war.

The property holdings in this country consist not only of industrial establishments which are being operated by the Alien Property Custodian, but many million dollars worth of securities, which at the present state of the market, are at their lowest value, but which will increase in value if the security market advances.

It was also recommended that proper provision be made in forthcoming negotiations with Germany and Austria, so as to enable the Alien Property Custodian or his agents to obtain information in Germany or Austria for use in litigation pending in this country. This is necessary in a number of cases that are before the courts, and is not only for the best interest of this Government, but also will aid in clearing up matters for the former enemy owners.

Without self-control there can be no lasting success.

Courage wins. Henry P. Davison stopped the doctors who were preparing to operate on him and told them a funny story!—Forbes.

A Good Printer an Artist

Theodore Low Devienne was a printer. He served his apprenticeship, knew the trade and worked at it. The industry today owes much to his initiative. Many of the improvements known to the Printing Art came from him—and Devienne Type today is only one of his masterpieces.

Devienne the Printer said, "A good printer is an artist. Printers should be inspired with more love and admiration for their trade. When any printer follows his trade simply because it is money-making he makes a serious mistake. I would go even further and say that a prosperous printer will be more successful when he can inspire the buyer of printing in all its forms with the understanding that meritorious printing is really a worthy branch of the fine arts."

Common Sense vs. Gold Plate

With five million persons out of work in this country, many of them suffering acutely, it would have been the height of ill-taste for President Harding to have acquiesced in the vulgar desire of the Atlantic City hotel manager who Sunday insisted that the Chief Executive eat from plates of gold. Mr. Harding vetoed such evident bad taste by writing to the head waiter a note which declined the use of the gold service. He stated that he desired to be "furnished with the tools to which I am accustomed."

Mr. Harding may not be the greatest living man from an intellectual standpoint, but more than once he has demonstrated that he possesses sound common sense. He exercised that common sense Sunday in a manner which is pleasing to all citizens who realize that such ostentatious display as the hotel man desired to make on his behalf only adds to the fire of discontent in this country. The man who sponsored that gold plate idea may know the hotel business from the European angle, but he evidently has much to learn about the heart of America.—Every Evening.

Eight Hour and Efficiency

Governor Allen of Kansas, speaking at a "business revival luncheon" at the Chamber of Commerce of Philadelphia yesterday, urged labor to be more efficient and less dominant. "I am not urging that it is necessary in America to do away with the eight-hour day," said the governor, "but it is necessary to do away with the idea that labor prospers most when it works least."

A system of adjudication of labor difficulties in Pennsylvania which would have prevented strikes, said Governor Allen, would have saved the laboring men during the first six months of the present year nearly $27,000,000 lost in wages. I find there were over 300 strikes the first six months, involving 100,000 workers, and an aggregate loss of 4,186,000 working days. These strikes gained nothing.

WHY TEACH IN DELAWARE

Builders of Men

The spiritual value of material things has attracted many young men into engineering, and the combined efforts of these workers have brought about the construction of such masterpieces as Brooklyn Bridge, the Panama Canal, the airplane, and the wireless. The artist and the philosopher view the completed work of the engineer and place each his own interpretation on it. The artist delights in the proportions of the bridge, in the harmony of line where the canal cuts its way through the land, in the rhythm of the flight of the airplane—in all the contribution that these structural achievements of men make to the beauty of the world. The philosopher views the work from another angle. As each great structure is reared he sees in it another link in the chain which binds all parts of the earth together. As rivers are spanned, as oceans are joined, as continents are connected by sea and air, the philosopher sees the gradual evolution of civilization. The engineer, however, from the very beginning of his project has known both the joy of the artist and the dream of the philosopher. It is the combination and the interaction of the material and the spiritual that have given engineering its powerful call to youth.

Teaching combines elements similar to those of engineering. Like the problems of the engineer, the problems of the teacher are those of measurement, of relations between different constructive materials, of relations between things that exist in our sense experience and those which exist only in our thought. The structure which he must build is no less a reality in its ultimate form than that which the engineer creates of iron and stone. And like the engineer he experiences the joy of the artist and the dream of the philosopher. Surrounded by the physical and spiritual beauty of childhood the teacher cannot help but vision each growing individuality in its contribution to social progress.

His background is the whole field of human relationships as expressed in literature, in history in sociology. His materials are the instincts, the emotions, the desires, the thoughts of the human mind. His structure is the individual that will bear his part not only in the community wherein he may be, but will himself build for the future in the progress of civilization. ### Engagement Announced

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Phyllis Ridgely of Dover to Harold Horsey of the same town, was made this week.

Miss Ridgely is the daughter of Henry Ridgely and well known in social and civic circles throughout the State. Mr. Horsey is the son of Elmer Horsey of Dover National Bank. He is connected with Bank Commissioner Medill's office. He is a graduate of the University of Delaware and was popular in Newark circles. At the University he made an enviable record in all student activities.

Guild Gives Shower and Entertainment

In connection with the meeting of the Guild of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Monday night in the parish-house, members of the parish and their friends gave a kitchen shower to Rev. Edgar Jones the new rector. Mr. Jones' wife, who has a baby only a few weeks old, is now at her former home in Massachusetts, but will soon join him here.

The shower was a surprise to Mr. Jones. Nearly everyone who attended the social following the business meeting of the Guild brought some useful kitchen article and there was nearly a wagon load by the time the evening was over.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the music furnished by the Harmony Boys' string orchestra of Wilmington, nine members of which came here at the invitation of former Representative and Mrs. William D. Dean.

Ladies Aid Society Meets Tomorrow

Missionary Society Meets

The members of the Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the Newark M. E. Church held their regular monthly meeting last Thursday, September 8th, at the home of Mrs. Hugh Wright. On account of sickness, the President, Mrs. McNeal, could not be present. The first vice-president, Mrs. Frank Cooch, led the meeting. It was opened by a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. John Moore led the devotions, reading, St. Mark 4th chapter; following the Scripture she read "The Burial of Moses." Mrs. Short read a letter she had received from Mrs. Vaughn, thanking the society for the lovely box of candy they had sent her. All the members hope that it will not be long before Mrs. Vaughn will be able to be with them again. It being a social meeting, refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by all. It was also the first meeting for the new year, and it is hoped that all the ladies will get busy, attend all the meetings they can and help to make this a very busy year.

What Delaware politics needs is Disarmament and not Limitations.

It is rumored locally that the Ku Klux Klan is trying to become associated with some political faction in Delaware. Now that would be interesting.

Harry Isaacs is a man of experience, but he has a problem on his hands now where that experience counts for naught. That Rehoboth meeting was no Oxford Seminary and his English tutelage will not suffice at the coming Democrat Grab and Gab Fest.

Dan Thompson and Bob Armstrong are very quiet these days. Outside of newspaper soliciting, we hear but little of them.

We should like to write a book, Mirrors of Delaware, or conduct a column in a Wilmington paper, "Now It Can Be Told."

It's coming on the time of year when new organizations will be formed. One already being discussed is "Be an Individual Society," the object being to suppress paid propaganda.

Diving for Rich Treasure
Near Cape Charles

Working from a trawler off the Virginia Capes, deep sea divers are attempting to locate the wreck of the steamship Merida. She was sunk in this vicinity in 1911 with a cargo of gold and silver bullion valued at nearly $2,000,000. An expedition to salvage the metal was undertaken in 1916, said to have been financed by the banker James A. Stillman of New York, and Percy Rockefeller. The expedition was a failure. With the present searchers' is George W. Nordstrom, who was first officer of the Merida when she collided with the steamship Admiral Farragut and went down in about thirty-five fathoms of water.

Building Boom in Newark

Whatever conditions may be elsewhere, Newark has a Building Boom. It shows good judgment, too.

Building materials are certainly down to low ebb now. It is almost certain that spring will bring an advance. Then labor is plentiful now.

It's just the time to build. Fall weather is usually good--there is yet time to get in your own home before winter.

Women of the South Demand that Lynching Stop

The strongest force yet organized against lynching will probably be exerted by women who are now active to combat a disgrace which they cannot tolerate. Since the exposures made by the former governor of Georgia, revealing the startling number of lynchings which happen yearly in that state, and are disregarded by local authorities, the women members of various organizations have made constant protest, and are inaugurating campaigns of insistence upon public officials discharging their duties of apprehending those who take part in mob violence as well as all other criminals, and insistence that all citizens support and respect the course of law and order in regard to crime.

Paragraphs of the resolutions recently drawn up by Georgia women at a conference on inter-racial cooperation, at Atlanta, show the spirit of the women, and represent an appeal to every man in whom the spark of chivalry lives, to support the law, and not take the law into his own hands, against any criminal black or white. The women say, "We have a deep sense of appreciation for the chivalry of men who would give their lives for the purity and safety of women, yet we feel constrained to declare our convictions concerning the methods sometimes employed in this supposed protection. We find in our hearts no extenuation for crime, be it violation of womanhood, mob violence or the illegal taking of human life."

"We are convinced that if there is any one crime more dangerous than other, it is that crime which strikes at the root of, and undermines constituted authority, breaks all laws and restraints of civilization, substitutes mob violence and masked irresponsibility for established justice and deprives society of a sense of protection against barbarism."

Military Disarmament

In the Treaty of Versailles, the paragraph which immediately precedes the clauses prescribing the disarmament of Germany is this:

"In order to render possible the initiation of a general limitation of the armaments of all nations, Germany undertakes strictly to observe the military, naval, and air clauses that follow."

Having forced Germany to disarm, the logical thing for the conquerors to do is to voluntarily assume the virtue which they forced on the conquered. The great German menace being gone, why does the word not disarm? Whether the world will disarm—not altogether but reasonably—depends upon the degree of international confidence. The effort to disarm will be a test of that confidence.

Before the war, the German-Austrian combination did not border a single state that had confidence in them, with the exception perhaps of Bulgaria, Russia, Rumania, Serbia, Italy, France, Belgium—all these put their main military preparations against their German-Austrian borders. No nation that lived next to the Germans trusted them.

The French, like the Germans, had a great army, highly organized and based on universal service. It is significant, however, that the Belgian forts were mainly on the German and not on the French border, that the Italians were not fearful enough of the French to strongly fortify their French borders, and that Spain had not thought it worth while to make an alliance with Germany, nor fortify its northern border to protect itself against France.

In other words, all of her neighbors had boundaries of confidence with France except Germany, which had not such boundaries with any one.

The most notable boundary of confidence in the world is probably the United States-Canada line. It was unfortified when Great Britain and Canada were stronger than the United States and remains so when the balance of power has changed. A similar boundary of confidence exists between Sweden and Norway.

There is, then, scattered around the world a good deal of confidence. There is also, unfortunately, a good deal of distrust and fear. As long as the fear and distrust lasts, armaments will last with them.—World's Work.

New York's East Side As a Health Resort

The health records of New York City show that the very healthiest district is a section of the East Side, in which there is a population of nearly 35,000 people, mostly foreign born. Although there are more than 3000 persons to the block within this district, the death rate is just half the city rate as a whole, and the infant mortality rate is 52 per thousand against a city rate of 85 per thousand.

The explanation of this unexpected condition is made by the New York Health Commissioner as follows:

"The people in this section have been used to governmental control all their lives in countries where paternalism is conspicuous. The result is when they come here they place themselves under the regulations of the Department of Health, patronize our baby health stations and follow the Board of Health teachings.

"It is unfortunate that illness among children and a high mortality rate frequently are found among well-to-do people. It is a sad commentary on our citizenship that too many children coming from so-called good homes are turned over to nursemaids and do not receive personal attention from their mothers so essential to their health."

"Many of the well-to-do parents take it too much for granted that their children will be well fed and cared for by the nursemaid. Many such children are permitted to indulge their appetites freely in cake, candy and sundae to the exclusion of the plain and nourishing food necessary to their physical development and long life."

In Delaware most parents look after their children's way of living, whether they have nursemaids or not. It isn't fashionable any longer not to know what a child should have to eat, what he should wear, and how he should get his play and exercise. But there are plenty of children in circumstances where they do not get this care and our child death rate is still larger than that of New York City as a whole, and compared to the model tenement district of the East Side, we are still in darkness.

The work of Delaware child-caring agencies is beginning to tell, however, and the records of the Child Welfare Commission show results in the decrease of child sickness and death which prove that the observance of health rules and the use of Child Health Centers can be made as effective here as in New York.

IT'S SMILES, LOVE and FLOWERS that make a Home.

Prepare now for the dull, cold days of fall and winter by arranging for a flower in the window, on the table or desk.

Now we are living in the gay and brilliant out-of-doors with all that nature provides and are liable to forget the greys of autumn.

It is not mahoganies, not waxed floors, not draperies that make home—it is smiles and love.

And nothing so well expresses them as the colors of a dainty flower or the green of a fern.

They are so easy to have and so expressive. Just a bit of time now and winter cheer is yours.

I have put in an assortment of Flower Pots for fall transplanting.

The Plattsburg Idea to be Expanded. Better and Bigger Camp Next Year

According to an officer of the General Staff of the United States Army, the Plattsburg training camp for civilians will be enlarged next year to accommodate three times this year's quota. Such enlargement will mean opportunity for 2,400 citizens.

In addition to the enlarging of the Plattsburg camp there is chance that a larger number of camps covering more sections of the country will be opened. The Military Training Camps Association is working for the extension of the Plattsburg type of camp to other parts of the country and is preparing legislation for the improvement of the training camp system.

Ohio Sets an Example of Good Sportsmanship and Game Protection

Through co-operation with the State Bureau of Fish and Game, state and local associations of sportsmen in the State of Ohio are making and keeping their hunting and fishing under ideal conditions. The state has won distinction with the American Game Protective Association, which quotes in its bulletin, one of the chiefs of the Ohio Bureau: Assistant Chief Stuber says:

"To give an example of what can be done in any county when the sportsmen take upon themselves the task of making better hunting and fishing conditions and to support the 'more game' movement, I want to mention Fayette County, Ohio. In this county the sportsmen's organization is so strong that it is unpopular not to be a member of the association. Practically every farmer in the county is a member and at their annual banquet last year held at Washington Court House, the county seat, a city of about 7,000 inhabitants, more than 1,000 hunters and fishermen were present.

"This is typical of many other Ohio counties. These organizations create the proper sentiment relating to fish and game protection and conservation in their respective communities. They take it entirely out of the hands of the lawless element. Some of the larger associations in Ohio have as many as 6,000 members, each member pledged to do his share in reporting violations or in molding sentiment favorable toward wild life propagation and conservation."

What Every Retailer Needs

A Way to Get Better Records at Lower Cost

Why are prompt and accurate figure records so important in retail business?

Because in successful retailing time is everything.

You can't check up your business figures once a month and expect to "get by." Even once a week is taking a big chance. You ought to know every day.

You must buy today, sell tomorrow; take a small profit and turn it over quickly.

You can't carry unsalable stock, long credits, slow collections, or any unnecessary expense in retail business as it is run today.

You want to know every day the essential facts about how your business stands.

Hard to get? No, easy and economical, if you do the work on a Burroughs Machine.

It will quickly give you the totals for charge sales, cash sales, bank deposits, additions to stock, goods on hand, charge accounts, overhead expense and profits.

The Burroughs Machine is easy to buy on the installment plan. It will pay for itself as it goes along—usually does it in error-prevention alone.

Let our representative show you how other merchants are getting real profits out of their Burroughs Adding, Bookkeeping or Calculating Machines, besides having a lot more daily brass-tack figure information that is invaluable.

If you're not satisfied the machine will pay its way we don't want you to take it. Call us on the telephone—you can't lose and may gain a great deal.

WELSH TRACT WINS SWEEPSTAKES IN STATE

LOCAL CLUB TEAMS GET GOLD MEDAL

PENCADER GIRL WINS FAIR PRIZES

First Prizes, Sweepstakes, Gold Medals are high sounding words, but represent facts in Newark vicinity. Last week the Post mentioned the Boys' and Girls' Clubs' exhibits at the Fair. Knowing the community all these years, the Post should have predicted this wonderful success. Sometimes it has been said that our imagination gets the better of our judgment. But this time Judges and Judgment went us one better.

The Clover Leaf Club of Welsh Tract has a lucky name, but Merit counts at the Fair. The Club may be lucky in name, and it is lucky in its club leader, Mrs. Clarke McCarns, but it was the work of the leader and the girls that brought home the honors.

So many there are, that it sounds like exaggeration to enumerate them. Margaret Jarmon, aged 13, daughter of George Jarmon, on the Wilson farm at foot of Iron Hill, came away with two First Prizes, three Second Prizes and the Sweepstakes. This was not a local contest, not a county contest, but represented the whole State. Over 150 contestants were entered, ranging from 12 to 18 years of age, and Pencader's clover leaf won the honors. Little Margaret took first in Outer Garment, first in Under Garment and second in darned, patched and household articles. Then, not satisfied, she took the Sweepstakes Prize which represents the best all-round exhibit by any second year girl in the State.

An interesting feature in the contest, the first in Household Article, went to Doris Jarmon, the eleven-year old sister of the champion.

In the Clothing Judging contest the Clover Leaf Club took the State Gold Medal, competing with teams from Dover, Milford and such big towns. The club was represented in the judging team by Misses Rebecca Hutchinson, Edith McCarns and Margaret Jarmon.

The judging for the exhibit was headed by Wilmington professionals, little realizing that the prizes were going down to the little school out in the country, such as Welsh Tract.

To Miss Agnes Medill, County Club Leader, and Mrs. Clarke McCarns comes the deserved praise and satisfaction of a year of accomplishment. To win in the manner these children did is no ordinary compliment. The recorded fact is sufficient praise.

Dairy Club at the Fair

The work of the Boys' and Girls' Dairy Cattle Club constituted an important part of the exhibit and activities of the New Castle County Farm Bureau at the State Fair.

The champion heifers at the two district shows held on the farms of B. V. Armstrong of Middletown and J. I. Dayett of Cooch, were at the State Fair where they entered sharper competition.

The following awards were made:

Heifer 24 to 36 months old: First prize, Irvin Armstrong, Middletown; second prize, Raymond Davis, Fairview; third prize, Boyd Armstrong, Middletown.

Heifer 12 to 24 months old: First prize, John Dayett, Cooch; second, Robert Connell, Fairview.

Guernsey heifer 12 to 24 months: First, Lester Burge, Middletown; second, Robert Jaquette, Newark.

"Get" of Club Heifers:—Heifer 12 to 18 months: First, Daniel Bingnear, Odessa; second, LeRoy Davis, Newark.

Heifer 6 to 12 month: First, Clarence Davis, Fairview; second, Howard Crothers, Mt. Pleasant.

Bull 12 to 18 months: First, Robert

Connell, Fairview; second, S. J. Daniels, Jr., Middletown.

Grand Champion Heifer: John Dayett, Cooch.

Ernest Milliken of Cooch, Irvin Armstrong of Middletown and Gordon Armstrong of McDonough is the personnel of the team which will represent Delaware next week in the international dairy cattle judging and demonstration contest at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

The three boys stood highest in the State dairy cattle judging and demonstration contest held at the State Fair and the free trip to Springfield is an award of meritorious work in this contest.

The team was coached by R. O. Bausman, County Agent. Under Mr. Bausman's direction the team has been given instruction in judging dairy cattle on many of the better farms of northern Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania. Two teams from each county entered the contest. The boys from New Castle County earned and deserve the award. The team will leave next Saturday for Springfield chaperoned by County Agent R. O. Bausman and County Agent Leader M. O. Pence.

An Indian went into the office of the editor of a Western paper to get a year's subscription.

After paying for the paper he asked for a receipt.

"You don't need a receipt," suggested the editor, "the date on your copy will tell when you paid."

"But," said the Indian, "some day I die, and when I go up to the gate, Saint Peter, he say, 'You pay your debts?'"

"I say, 'Yes,' and he say, 'You pay for your paper?' and I say, 'Yes.'"

"You got a receipt?" And I say, 'I haven't got any for that one.'

"Then I got to run all over Hell to find you to get receipt."—Forbes.
