Great Crowd Witnesses Newark's First New Year's Parade

Many Beautiful Effects in Floats and Costumes Exhibited by Citizens in Efforts to Gain Valuable Prizes—Plenty of Red Fire Lights the Way

Judging Proves A Hard Task

The first attempt at a Mummers' parade in Newark might be summed up in a remark heard along the curbside: "It's mighty good—what there is of it." That just about covers the situation. Many of the onlookers are greatly surprised at the length of the procession, fully expecting a mile at least in length. By the majority, however, spent a part of the evening mentally berating themselves for not having costumed or joined in the affair.

The huge list of prizes, both money and merchandise could easily have doubled the number of entries. Seven of the classes had but two or three participants; of course they were the highest prizes, leaving the balance to be split up as specials. The route of the parade was jammed with spectators long before the parade got under way. Particularly was the crowd at the intersection of Main and Academy Streets. The judges stand was built some ten feet above the pavement, thus affording the judges a good view of the proceedings.

The Parade

Chief Marshal Eastburn got the session started at about 7:30. At the head of the line pranced Newark's famous trotter, Harry J. S., holder of the American record for the mile and half-mile track. Piloted by Herman Tyson, who drove him to all his ends, the handsome black made a pretty picture as he minced along, aware that he was on parade before his home folks. Then came members of the Parade Committee, followed by the Continental Band, dressed in clown costumes. Then several floats and the comic and weird costumes. The Minnehaha, garbed in the traditional robes and feathers of the Indian, headed the second section, in which were seven fancy costumes and the majority of the floats.

About one hundred yards ahead of the parade a truckload of red fire was passed out among the spectators stuck in the ground and fastened poles and fences by several men detailed for the job. Thus as the procession moved down Main Street, theoughfare took on the appearance of a great red canyon, with the weird throwing great shadows against nearby buildings. Straight down aisle between the two lines of marchers the paraders to Leake's Garage, then back to Elkhorn Road, Delaware Avenue, to South College, Main and back to the judges' stand. The floats entered in the parade were the causes of many gasps of amazement from the sidelines. Those Mrs. Little, Mrs. Strickland and Mrs. Strahorn were particularly deserving of praise. Then again seven fancy costumes were greatly in evidence and were roundly applauded. Brita Buckingham was a prize winner in this class.

PARADE PRIZEWINNERS

Floats—First prize, Charles W. Strahorn; second, Mrs. Orville Little; third, Mrs. Fred Strickland; fourth, Fader's Bakery; fifth, Henry Mote.

Horsemen—First prize, Lyman Reed; second, Paul Keeley; third, Daniel Walton; fourth, Warren Helchen; fifth, Miss Henrietta Ferry, Elkhorn.

Sr. Fancy—First prize, Miss Brita Buckingham; second, S. 77%.

Sr. Comic—First prize, J. C. Davis; second, Charles Stemberk; third, C 28%; fourth, Nelson Bryson; fifth, Paul Steel.

Female Impersonator—First prize, Aubrey Travers; second, Justin Steel.

Sr. Special—First prize, R. C. Gregg; second, W. Paul Rhodes; third, Mrs. Aubrey Travers; fourth, Norman Tweed; fifth, C. O. McFarland.

Junior Fancy—First prize, John Brookes Stewart. (One entry.)

Extra Special Prizes—First prize, Herman Tyson (for Harry J. S.); second, Clarence Eastburn; third, Charles Greer; fourth, C. W. Graves.

NOTE.—The asterisk * denotes entries whose names have been mislaid. They will receive the prizes at the Newark Inn upon receipt of their tag.

Judges Have Trouble

After the parade had passed the reviewing stand on its last lap, the judges retired to the Newark Inn, there to decide upon the winners. Fully two hundred people blocked the street outside the building, many in costumes, waiting eagerly for the returns. They waited and waited, but no news. The chill winter air soon dwindled their ranks until barely a handful remained to hear the results. It was most unfortunate that better time was not made by the judges in deciding the results, but under no condition should they be blamed for the delay. When they arrived and began sifting through the various choices, they found no complete list of entries; discovered that many of the entries bore the same number; that some bore no numbers and that none of the registration lists could be safely used for reference. Thus it was just a matter of discussing the numbers each judge had marked for mention, racking their brains to remember the costume, looking for the number and then awarding (Continued on Page Four.)

NEW POLICEMAN SWORN IN FRIDAY

Frank Lewis Takes Place of Officer Tyrens; Is Native of Maryland

Frank Lewis, of Chestertown, Md., was sworn in as policeman for Newark in vicinity last Friday at the office of Magistrate Thompson, and his duties Monday of this week. Takes the place of Officer Tyrens, recently resigned.

Mr. Lewis is a native of Chester, Maryland, but for the past year has been a resident of Newark. Previous to his appointment to the Newark position he had a special officer employed by the police force at Wilmington terminal. He also held a similar position for a year at North Steel plant at Claymont. His record in all police work he has undertaken has been of excellent order.

ENGAGEMENTS

Announcement has been recently made of the engagement of Miss M. Edna Palmer, of West Chester, Pa., and Mr. Raymond M. Upton, of Newark. Miss Palmer is at present a Y. W. C. A. secretary and is now in Rhode Island in connection with her work. Mr. Upton is director of the Rehabilitation Division of the University of Delaware, having held the post since the inauguration of the system of training disabled service men by the United States Government three years ago. No date has as yet been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Fell, of Newark, announce the engagement of their oldest daughter, Edith K. Fell, to Curtis W. Strong, formerly of Columbus, Georgia, now a student in the Rehabilitation Division of the University of Delaware. The wedding will take place early in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Vansant, of Strickersville, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Elva Lee Noir, to Mr. Jacob M. Kennedy, of Atlantic City, N. J.

POINTS MADE BY GOVERNOR IN HIS MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

Governor William D. Denney read his message to the Legislature shortly after 11 o'clock. His lengthy address was accorded marked attention. The following lights of the message were taken from the Wilmington Press:

Budget shows decrease in estimated revenue from the school tax law. Commands Work of State Board of Charities.

Recommends merger of State Board of Health, Child Welfare, State Tuberculosis Commission and Mothers' Pension Commission into one new Commission of Public Health and Welfare.

Says State has reason to be proud of the standing of the University of Delaware.

Urge consideration of the $346,000 deficit in the public school fund, and expresses opinion that increases in revenue will hereafter supply funds necessary to meet current expenditures of the school system.

Provision must be made for a "wisely planned and economically administered school building program for the entire State."

Officially recognizes gifts of school buildings for colored people from Pierre S. duPont.

Commends Americanization work.

Commends work of State Board of Agriculture.

Urge Legislature to consider a plan to relieve real estate entirely of the 25 cent rate school tax levy by imposing a one mill tax.

Home for Feeble Minded.

Urge adequate appropriation for Industrial School for Incurable Colored Girls near Marshallton.

Favors $10,000 appropriation by State toward Detention House for the Juvenile Court at Wilmington.

Commends work of motor registration department and of highway police.

Suggests State Police Force.

Urge at least four additional Representatives and two additional Senators for Wilmington.

Expresses belief that political conventions in pledging for repeal of the $3 filing fee acted "more or less through fear."

Says principle of compelling every adult person to contribute each year the small sum of $3 toward the expense of the State government ought not to be abandoned.

Recommends that scope of the Workmen Compensation law be enlarged.

Amendment to Child Labor Law.

Says office of Insurance Commissioner should be abolished.

CITIZENS MAY DEMAND BETTER CONDITIONS AT P. R. R. STATION

Building inadequately heated in frigid weather is claim—May Prepare Petition to Authorities

FURNACE IS OVERTAXED

Patrons of the Pennsylvania Railroad who use the Depot Road Station while waiting for trains, have been loud in their protest recently over the poor heating facilities during the cold days and nights of the past several weeks.

It seems that the old hot air furnace which heats both the waiting rooms, office and adjoining residence is not adequate for heavy duty and should be replaced by a more modern plant. When waiting for a train patrons who sit in the waiting room usually shiver away the minutes. The present system is considered sufficiently large enough for late fall and early spring days but when the northerners bear down upon the town with all their mid-winter power, the old station becomes nearly as frigid within as without.

The waiting room on the north bound side of the tracks is heated by a small stove and is considerably warmer than the main station. It has been pointed out by several citizens, one a Council member by the way, that by installing a steam or hot water system and piping the lines under the tracks to the smaller building, the expense of operating two heaters will be eliminated and the heating conditions vastly improved.

A petition asking the railroad authorities to come to the aid of their shivering Newark patrons is not an idle dream, according to one of the shivers. It is also stated that if such a petition is circulated there will not be the slightest trouble in finding signatures.

COUNCIL POSTPONES STATED MEETING

Town Council of Newark failed to produce a quorum last night at its stated January meeting, the members present being Mayor Frazer and Councilman Collier. The Mayor, at 8:45, called the meeting off, to meet at his call.

It was intimated last night that the new street patching equipment will soon be delivered and made ready for work at an early date. Mrs. Hosinger, secretary to Council, was present with the list of bills to be approved, but they were held over with the rest of the business until the next meeting.

"Let the ends thou aimst at Be thy Country's, thy God's and Truth's.
Then if thou fallest, O, Cromwell,
Thou fallest, a blessed martyr."

FORMER NEWARK RESIDENT TOURING WORLD ON WAY HOME

Capt. Ramsey to Arrive in Newark in March—First Visit in Many Years

Captain John W. Ramsey, U. S. Infantry, who for several years has been stationed in the Philippines, has been granted a long leave of absence and is on his way to his old home here. Before he arrives in Newark, however, he will have almost circled the world.

He left his post early in December and will travel through the Orient and Europe before landing on his native soil. The route taken by Captain Ramsey will include Burma, India, China, Palestine, thence through the Suez Canal and into Europe. After brief visits in Italy, France and England, he will sail for the United States. His arrival in Newark is expected about March 1st.

Captain Ramsey is a son of John Ramsey of Cleveland Avenue, Newark, and has many friends in this vicinity. He has been in the Army for a number of years, stationed for the most part in the Philippine Islands.

THE SICK

Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church is quite ill at his home on West Main Street. He was advised to go to bed early in the week, but remained at his post until yesterday when his condition made it imperative that he give up. He is suffering with a heavy cold and grippe.

Patrick Nevin, manager of the local American Stores, is seriously ill with pneumonia at his home in Newark. His condition remains unchanged at the present time.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TOMORROW

Prominent Speaker to Address Body in First Session of the New Year

The local Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow evening in the High School. After the regular order of business has been disposed of, the members and their friends will hear an address upon "The Home, and What It means to the Child," to be delivered by Mrs. Edward S. Buchner, of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. A large turnout is expected to hear the interesting talk.

Nearly Quarter Of A Million Spent In Newark In 1922 Building Program

Rapid Growth of Town Demands Housing—$246,500 Sets Mark for Construction Value—New Fire House Heads List—Many Fine Homes—Contractors Kept Busy All Year Round

OUTLOOK FOR COMING YEAR ALSO BRIGHT

To the average citizens of Newark

the fact that several new buildings have gone up during the course of the past year does not draw forth much comment, but when it is found that an approximate sum of $246,500 has been spent in new houses and other buildings during that period, the situation is somewhat changed. Nearly a quarter of a million dollars worth of construction work done in the year 1922 tells its own story.

In talking with several of the local contractors the figures of whom have gone up during the above total, it was the general belief that Newark has had the greatest single building boom in many years. During the late fall and early winter, the slack season for building in most localities, the contractors had all their men working at full speed and could have used many more.

Mostly New Structures

Practically all the building operations concerned in the total have been new structures. The splendid new Aetna fire house is perhaps at the head of the list of non-private buildings. Contractor Willis is almost finished with it, and after painting and finishing inside, the apparatus will soon be housed.

About thirty-one structures have been built right here in Newark during the past year, divided among Contractors Willis, Greer, Hutchinson, and Griffin. Most of them of course have been private residences. Three of such buildings stand out as splendid examples of the modern up-to-date home. The house now being finished for J. P. Wright, on Orchard Ridge, at a cost of probably $50,000, is perhaps the most complete and carefully built structure in Newark today. It is as nearly fireproof as modern engineering skill can make it, and that as long as people come in there must be provisions made for their housing. The cost of building materials has considerably advanced over the scale set this time last year. Prohibitive costs will be the only thing to stop the boom, is the consensus of opinion.

It is hard to believe that this little town has grown a quarter of a million in property value during the past year, but such is certainly the case, Newark certainly seems to be going in the proverbial "seven league boots."

F. LINDSAY CURTIS DIES AFTER BRAVE STRUGGLE

Treasurer of Curtis Bros. Victim of Pneumonia at His Home in Wilmington. Was Well Known Here

INTERMENT YESTERDAY

After an illness of but four weeks brought about by a severe attack of pneumonia followed by complications due to a weakened heart, Frederick Lindsay Curtis died early Saturday evening at his home on Red Oak Road, Wilmington. His condition had been critical for several days previous to his death, but he managed to rally slightly just when hope was at its lowest ebb. The ravages of the dread disease, however, could not be checked and on Saturday his death was expected at any minute. Members of his immediate family were in attendance at the bedside.

The funeral was held from his late residence yesterday afternoon at two o'clock and the interment was private in Riverview cemetery. The services were attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased.

Mr. Curtis was but 42 years of age. He was born in Newark, the son of Alfred A. and Sarah Lindsay Curtis. He attended the Newark Academy Friends' School of Wilmington, and then Princeton University, from which he graduated with the class of 1902. He engaged in the paper business in New York and Philadelphia for a number of years, and then became treasurer of the Curtis and Brothers Company, Newark. He was a member of the Wilmington Country Club and the Union League, Philadelphia. A widow and four children survive him. He was a nephew of former Chancellor Charles M. Curtis.

New Legislature Organizes In Both Branches For Current Session

Representative Collins Gets Star Appointment in House—
Full List of Senate and House Committees Announced
—Will Get Down to Real Work Today

First Day Spent In Some Confusion

The Legislature of the State of Delaware convened for its session of 1923 yesterday at noon, and immediately plunged into the work of organization so that the work of both branches may be started today. Speculation centered upon the probable appointments made by President Murphy of the Senate and Speaker Culver of the House, in the matter of the various committees. The morning was spent in preliminary caucuses indulged in by both parties.

Of particular interest to local readers will be the fact that Representative Frank Collins of White Clay Creek Hundred, was appointed by Speaker Culver to be chairman of the Appropriations Committee, perhaps the most important chairmanship in the entire Legislature.

The full list of appointments made for both branches are as follows:

Senate Committees

A New Meaning

Brother Rufus Abraham, who had been pastor of a colored church for several years, had lately fallen under suspicion. Some of the worthy brethren accused him of using the Sunday collection for purposes not related to the cause of a religious institution. Finally the matter was taken to court. Brother Abraham was called on to testify.

"Mr. Abraham, how long have you been pastor of that church?" questioned the attorney. Rufus' dusky brow wrinkled as he pondered long and hard.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

AS TOLD BY CORRESPONDENTS AND EXCHANGE

ELKTON

One of the most unique examples of self destruction to come to the attention of local people in many years arrived in the matter of the death of Joseph Wicker, well known as a railroad man and living on a little farm near Childs, Md.

Nearly everyone connected with railroading in Elkton knew Joe Wicker. His death by suicide was thus a great shock to all. That the attempt at his own life was pre-meditated and planned methodically is borne out by the fact that a will scrawled on the back of a piece of paper in pencil was found near the body Saturday last. In substance it read:

"I hereby leave all to my wife, excepting my gun which goes to my son Harry. Good bye Wicker."

After writing the document in the house, Wicker calmly stepped into the nearby brush and blew out his brains. No reason could be advanced as to the cause of his action except that of too much alcohol in the form of bad moonshine liquor. For some time past Wicker had been drinking heavily and his physical condition had thereby suffered but his friends and relatives did not know the ravages made by the poison. He leaves a wife and family in their little house out there in the barrens of Cecil County.

Standing out at the top of the Photogravure section of the Baltimore American last Sunday was the very lifelike picture of Louis Wolfe, the attorney who handled the interests of Peggy Udell in the recent Montgomery fracas which so upset the decorum and dignity of the learned Cecil County Circuit Court. Yes, it's the same gentleman with the ever present smirk, the easy voice and the flowing black tie, tide with such studied carelessness.

But brother Wolfe burned his fingers badly. In other words the realm of law in which he deals—criminal law—does not provide for any actions on the part of the attorneys save that of defense or prosecution. That is, it's very unwise for a lawyer to listen to soft voices and the clink of gold. In the recent Norris murder trial in Baltimore, the account of which covered more front pages than the battle of the Marne, it was found that Wolfe was playing rather loose with his clients and others.

He has now been removed from the bar of Baltimore County for an indefinite period. Some of the Elkton folks don't like him anyhow, and probably will stifle a cheer when they read this.

The jubilant well-wishers and self-employed servants of the New Year were seen at their old tricks again last Sunday night. The time honored and respected custom of "seeing her in" has evidently not been bothered by the extremely modernist tendency shown in recent years by our glorious and fast stepping nation.

All the whistles in town, and some of Mr. Ren's chargers on the P. R. R. nearly took up the loose ends of 1922 and serenaded half of Cecil County for several minutes. The streets were dotted with groups of merrymakers armed with dishpans, revolvers—and some of the residents claim there were a few old-fashioned cannon present according to the results produced.

Some damage was reported as the probable outcome of the shooters' reception to the infant 1923. One of the stray bullets found its way into one of the telephone cables on West Main Street, and when the residents awoke Monday morning they found their phones entirely out of commission. Some very caustic remarks were probably directed in the general direction of the gay serenaders by the subscribers.

Dr. Winfield T. Morrison, of Elkton, and Miss Anna Broadwater, of Chesapeake City, a former superintendent of Union Hospital, were granted a marriage license in Elkton Saturday.

Vaughn Creamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Creamer, of Elkton, while visiting relatives in Chesapeake City last week, was shot in the arm by a companion while out gunning.

Rev. Thomas R. Van Dyke, for the past three years pastor of Cecilton, M. E. Church, has notified his congregation that he will leave them in March, having accepted a call to Epworth Church, Wilmington, subject to the approval of the Bishop at the coming M. E. Conference.

James A. Camblin, aged 82 years, died Thursday last at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert McGready, in Philadelphia. His funeral was held in Elkton Saturday.

Perryville Council Junior Order American Mechanics, will present to the Perryville High School on Friday afternoon next a handsome American flag.

Elkton Personals

Miss Eugenia Phillips spent the past week-end in Brooklyn, N. Y., visiting Miss Marion Lipscomb.

Fully a score of Elkton young people have returned to near and distant schools and colleges after a splendid Christmas vacation. The University of Maryland seems to be the favorite college for the local youth.

Albert Ayerst returned Monday to Pittsburgh, Pa., after a pleasant vacation spent at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ayerst. He has accepted a position with the West Penn Power Co., of that city.

During the festivities concerned with the proper observance of the coming of the New Year last Sunday night, some one of the celebrants shot away a telephone cable just below the Scott Fertilizer office, thereby disabling several local phones.

The Mummers' Parade in Newark drew many Elktonians to the neighboring Delaware town to help swell the crowd along the streets.

Frank Blanton, formerly of Elkton, spent the holidays with Elkton friends. He is serving a three year enlistment in the U. S. Navy, his term ending in February. He is stationed on the U. S. S. Maryland.

Miss Esther Whitworth, of Baltimore, spent part of the holiday season in Elkton at the home of Mrs. Roger Whitworth.

WELL KNOWN ELKTON COUPLE MARRIED

Joshua Clayton, Former State's Attorney, and Mrs. Bessie Arnold Slip Away to Towson

WAS DIVORCE COUNSEL

Elkton again experienced a thrill Monday night when the news was received to the effect that former State's Attorney Joshua Clayton, well known throughout Cecil county, and Mrs. Bessie Arnold, leading photographer of Elkton, were married in Towson, Md., by the Rev. Clark. Mr. Clayton gave his age as 50 and the bride as 45 according to the report.

No one was informed of the plans for the marriage and it is believed that they quietly left town Saturday evening. The license was procured from William Parker, license clerk of Towson. The bride and groom returned to Elkton yesterday afternoon.

The friendship between Mrs. Arnold and Mr. Clayton is believed to have started during the proceedings in Court in which the former procured a divorce from her first husband. Mr. Clayton acted as counsel for her in the case, and an attachment has since sprung up between them. The wedding, however, came as a complete surprise to the many friends of both parties. Mrs. Arnold is proprietress of a studio on Main Street.

Mr. Clayton carries on a large private law practice in Elkton. It is expected they will make their home in the county seat.

Now

"A man has but one moment in life to call his own. The moment just passed into the score of Time's count, the moment which the hand of the clock trembles over, a hair's breadth yet to breath, is a living man's to claim. The beggar has it—the may mark the passage of his soul."

"Only this moment, this throb of the heart, this half-drawn breath, is a living man's to claim. The beggar has it—the monarch can command no more."

Americanization

From the following carefully compiled statistics we come to the conclusion that there is plenty of work ahead for those engaged in Americanizing America.

There are in this country 11,404 foreign-language newspapers with a combined circulation of almost 11,000,000.

Almost one-third of the entire population of America is either foreign-born or the children of foreign-born parents.

America has more Norwegians than Christians; more Swedes than Stockholm; more Germans than Bremen, Hamburg and Leipzig; more Czechs than Prague; more Poles than Warsaw and almost as many Mexicans as Mexico City.

Take the State of New York alone. That mighty melting pot contains 26,000 native Greeks, 27,000 native Norwegians, 32,000 native French, 38,000 native Czechs, 40,000 native Roumanians, 53,000 native Swedes, 80,000 native Hungarians, 150,000 native Austrians, 250,000 native Poles, 300,000 native Germans, 520,000 native Russians and 550,000 native Italians.

There are single news stands in New York City where one can buy newspapers printed in 20 different languages.

As we have been generous in admitting alien immigrants, so should we be careful in seeing that these new grafts do no produce freak and sport growths to the detriment of the old original stock.

Wherever this can be affected by cultivation we are all to the good; wherever it can't we must be unsparing with the pruning shears.

And it seems to us that that big New York limb needs special attention.—Los Angeles Times.

OVER 500 AUTO LICENSES ISSUED DURING 1922 TO NEWARK RESIDENTS

Shows Conclusively the Popularity of Motor Vehicles. Age of "Shank's Mare" Fast Disappearing. Mr. Ford's Creation Leads the Field

1923 TOTAL EXPECTED TO BE LARGER

A total of 509 automobile licenses were granted to residents of Newark and immediate vicinity during the year 1922, according to figures compiled by Magistrate Thompson and Constable Ellison. Estimated upon a rough guess it consequently follows that there is now a car of some kind available for every seven persons in town. But that of course doesn't mean that every one gets a ride; it means that everyone may have a ride if the Fates are willing.

The total for 1922 is greatly above the 1921 total and proves without a doubt that the automobile fever has caught Newark within its grip and is no doubt here to stay. The day when only the rich could afford motor transportation has passed forever, thanks to the gentleman from Michigan, whose athletic product has settled more heavy dinners than anything we know of. The sight of men going to work in autos is no more a novelty; in fact the most amazing sight in town now is to find the merchant, doctor or solid citizen who gets about without the use of some sort of vehicle.

The Ford leads the field of 1922 by a wide margin, and almost every third license granted for the residents mentions this car on the card. Newark has a very cosmopolitan array of gas chariots; perhaps a better variety than any town in the State, outside of Wilmington. Then again, it is on the New York-Washington Highway, thus bringing through Main Street about every known make and type of car during the year. The great development of the roads of Delaware during the past few years has no doubt greatly stimulated the sale of automobiles. From a local standpoint the completion of the Newark-Wilmington connection has been of the greatest value to the motorist. Whether there should be 509 automobile owners in a town the size of Newark is a problem for open discussion or to be referred to an economist. It appears to signify, however, that the town is growing, not only in size but in prosperity.

Applications Pouring In

The ensuing year should strike a new high mark in the matter of licenses granted. Up until Saturday morning of last week a total of 278 applications had been received and it was figured that the total should reach close to 400 before today. The rapid influx of new citizens into Newark during the past year has no doubt been the cause of part of the increase but it also must be recognized that scores of residents will own their first car during the coming year.

The motorists who have not as yet sent in applications will be allowed five days grace in which to run their cars. If the new tags have not arrived by that time, the car should be housed until they do. Officers of the law have been instructed to pick up all motorists sporting a 1922 tag after January 5th. Applications may be filed at any Magistrate's office, the proper deposit made and the tags and certificate will be mailed directly to the owner from the Secretary of State of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Armstrong and children, of Philadelphia, spent part of last week at the home of Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy, near Cooch's Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis entertained at dinner last Wednesday night, in their home on upper Main Street.

Mrs. Horace Corry and son, of Newark, N. J., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Corry's mother, Mrs. L. K. Bowen.

Arrangements Good

The arrangements for the proper view of the parade were carried out to the letter by Constable Ellison, Officer Lewis and a force of deputies.

Main Street from the Washington House to South College Avenue was virtually clear of vehicles by the time the parade started. The spectators thus had an unobstructed view of the proceedings and the parade had plenty of room in which to spread out.

For the first attempt in anything of this sort, the parade New Years night was certainly not a failure. The contestants who entered spent time and energy in their costumes and the effect of the lighting and coloring effects was brought out clearly under the light of the flares. The absence of out-of-town bands and the following which usually accompanies, those who assisted Mrs. Whiteraff at the reception were Miss Cora Brandt, Mrs. William Gregg, Mrs. William Rowen, Mrs. L. R. Detjen, Miss Hanna Hollingsworth, Miss Mildred Hollingsworth, Miss Helen Gregg.

Runaway Team Throws Driver On Main St.

W. S. Hawthorne Narrowly Escapes
Serious Injuries When Horses
Bolt at Freight Station

Caught After Short Run

W. S. Hawthorne, a farmer in this vicinity, narrowly missed being battered by flying hoofs or run over by his own wagon about 11:30 Saturday morning when his pair of big horses bolted while standing at the Newark Center station of the P. R. R. The team tore across Main Street, side-swiped the office of E. L. Richards, and after a short run alongside the railroad tracks was caught near the Continental plant by trackmen. Other than being shaken up by a fall from the wagon, Mr. Hawthorne was not injured.

After loading freight at the station, Mr. Hawthorne attempted to climb to the driver's seat of the heavy farm wagon. For some reason the horses started off before he could gather up the reins. The driver was standing on the tongue of the wagon but could not hold the frightened animals. Seeing that he could no longer control them, Mr. Hawthorne jumped from his dangerous position, thus saving himself from falling beneath the wheels.

After crossing Main Street, the runaways started through the small space between E. L. Richard's office and the safety gates. In doing so, the wagon struck the porch of the office, and one horse slipped and fell, being dragged several feet before the near horse stopped. By this time the owner had come up with his team and shouted to them. Instead of quieting them, the shout frightened them all the more. In some manner the off horse rose again in his harness and again the pair dashed off with the heavily loaded wagon still right side up. William Bishop, crossing watchman at Newark Center, managed to attract the attention of some track repairmen about a hundred yards down the track, and they headed off the careening team and restored them to their owner. Announcement was made the latter part of last week of the change in the name of Laird & Company, Investment Bankers, with offices in the DuPont Building, to that of Laird, Bissell & Meeds.

The new organization comes into being as the result of the consolidation of Laird & Co. with the firm of Gillespie, Mead & Co. The work of re-organization is almost finished, and business will be carried right along after the first of the year.

The partners in the new investment house are W. Linder Laird, George P. Bissell, Hollyday S. Meeds, Jr., W. W. Poynett Johnston, Charles Warwick, S. D. Townsend, Philip D. Laird, and Cecil F. Backus.

Spookish Times

According to a Maryland paper the radio craze in that State is having quite a disturbing effect. "Some persons," it says, "have an awful time getting to sleep because of the bedtime stories catching on the springs of their beds. A row of iron dishrags at a five-and-ten-cent store frightened a lady clerk out of a week's appetite by giving a lecture on careless husbands. Another lady whose boy is installing a radio outfit was talking to a neighbor with a potato-masher in her hand when all of a sudden the masher joined in the conversation. Both ladies fainted, and the potato-masher quit after giving the weather report, the baseball scores and singing a song."—Boston Transcript.

other articles loaded aboard the wagon were not damaged in any way. The accident caused quite some excitement in that section of town and the spectators considered Mr. Hawthorne very fortunate to have escaped without more serious injuries.

METHOD OF REPRODUCTION
Gives New Beauty to Record Music

"Tones that are reproduced truer, finer, sweeter." "Music that in both spirit and letter is restated with greater beauty." "All records transcribed with greater fidelity."

Golden opinions like these are showered on The Brunswick by its hearers everywhere. And why?

Because, with its many other betterments, it has an exclusive new Method of Reproduction.

Method of Reproduction

This Method of Reproduction for which

The Brunswick

Phonograph is famous, includes two scientific features—the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier.

The Ultona

The Ultona—a new day creation—is a tone arm adapted to playing any make of record.

With but a slight turn of the hand, it presents the correct weight, precise diaphragm and proper needle.

The Tone Amplifier

The Tone Amplifier is the vibrant all-wood throat of The Brunswick.

It is oval in shape and made entirely of rare moulded hollywood.

By it, sound waves are projected into full rounded tones—tones that are richer and more natural.

ALL-DELAWARE ELEVEN

By A. B. HENNING, of Lewes

The following selections for an All Delaware High School eleven submitted to Every Evening by Mr. Henning has in the main met with favor on part of many followers of the schoolboys of the State. The Newark has men on the first team and three on the second. Captain Hubert of Newark is selected as Captain of the All Delaware team. It was hoped that more selections would be made by interested men who have seen all the games.

Giving soon all the big interscholastic games this year and having seen my secondary school team in the history of lower Delaware.

Day is easily the best end in the game. Fast, a hard tackler and the receiver of the forward pass seen many a day in lower Delaware. There is little to choose between Barr of Georgetown and Ellis of Laurel. Mayer is the best on breaking up.

Rogers is the other for his all-around ability. The sides are all good. All hard tacklers and chargers they are valuable sets to their lines.

In the guard positions Nevin and Hart are about evenly matched. They are outplayed every man that they are opposed to this year. Brown is as good.

In the center position, Roberts, the flood crack, is far in the lead.

A tall tackler, an excellent passer, a powerful charger and great on form.

DELAWARE STARTS OFF ON TRIP THIS WEEK

Play Brooklyn Poly and Army Friday and Saturday. Squad Needs Practice

VACATION ENDS TODAY

The University of Delaware basketball squad have their work cut out for them upon their return to college after a ten-day Christmas vacation. Two of the hardest games of the season confront them on Friday and Saturday nights of this week. On Friday Blue and Gold tackles Brooklyn Poly while on Saturday afternoon they enter the lists with the crack Army five, who have sailed through their four games without the thought of defeat. In the present squad, the Army has one of the best teams in history. The last two games have been won without a field goal being scored upon them.

Delaware will always give the under kind of a battle especially when facing a team with whom they are not given a chance, and such will be the case on Saturday. Jack Williams and his mates will fight to the last ditch and may upset the dope.

Coach McAvoy intends to put the squad through two days of the hardest kind of conditioning to offset the slowing up effect of the long holiday layoff and to perfect a few plays to be used on foreign soil.

Williams at center, Robinson and Jackson at forwards, and McDonald, France and Cole alternating at guards will no doubt make up the varsity on Friday night. There has been little chance for the Coach to weed out his squad and get down to real work with his first team but after the return from the trip on Monday next the gymnasium on the old campus will be a hive of industry with the candidates playing the part of the bees and "Mac" functioning as the disturbing stick.

HOSS FLESH

In these high pressure days of the Ford, Pullman, Subway and the Curtiss Liberty motor it's a great relief to throw back for an instant, clear your throat of the ever present taste of gasoline, stop your ears to keep out the roar of trains and wheels and of babbling people intent on getting somewhere just as fast as Providence and the Law of Averages will permit and feast your eyes for a moment on a splendid piece of horseflesh once more.

Glen Frank says that this old world needs a few thousand dabblers who will monkey around in Industry Science, Society and Economic Conferences and mess up the highly systematized and efficiently managed standards of the present mode of living as practiced by you and your neighbors during the last twenty years. Now we don't aim to dabble in anything except now and then in sports, but we can't help reminding ourselves that creations of man which runs on wheels and kick up dust and tribulation in general haven't thing on the horse when it comes to sheer beauty, understanding, steadiness and happiness.

We have always loved horses, owned, ridden and loved them, and we want to state to the public in general that there's nothing like the thrill which comes over you when a real horse rubs his muzzle down your arm and pokes away at your pocket for the morsel he knows is always there.

In the parade on New Years night appeared Henry J. S., veteran of many a grueling struggle, sleek, clean limbed and beautiful. He is the pride of all Newark and vicinity and the champion of the country over a half mile track. But somehow the fact that he holds a bunch of records and has raced on every big track in the East and South seems beside the question. As he minded his way daintily down the street, head high and ears erect, we stood along with the several hundred other spectators and gazed—and were satisfied. Here was real hoss flesh. And there is yet to be built a thoroughbred horse in the matter of beauty, grace, and intelligence.

There is no doubt but that the horse is fast disappearing as a method of transportation. If the people want to charge back and forth over the country the only thing we can do is to charge along with them. But may nothing happen that will deprive us of the thoroughbred horse and all the glamour of the race, show ring, and hunt which flamed so high in years gone by.

HEISMAN HITS THE SKIDS

Three years ago there came out of the cotton fields and morasses of Georgia a football coach extraordinary. He came to Pennsylvania on the crest of a wave of publicity which carried his name to every part of the country as the man who designed and constructed the Heisman Shift, used with such telling effect by Georgia Tech. Pennsylvania met him with open arms, gave him the run of the football situation and then sat back to watch his smoke. But strange to say the smoke never came. For three years they watched and waited and still it hasn't come. Thereupon, with due deliberation, the authorities at Pennsylvania decided that the fire was out and had produced another football mentor in the person of Lou Young, former star end at the University. This about tells the tale.

But behind it all is another story—the frantic but too obvious efforts

IN RETROSPECT

Another Christmas has come and almost gone. And with it came all the joys and happiness that Christmas always brings—the little kiddies (God bless them)—as they "toddle" up to the Christmas tree, looking and gasping and sighing sighs of pleasure.

As you watch them you just can't help that lump from rising in your throat and the tears of joy that blind your vision. And then again the gifts and cards that you send and receive—don't they make you feel good to know that you didn't forget and hat you were not forgotten—for no matter whether you will it or not the Christmas spirit just gets into your system. The joy comes in giving because you want to give—you want to cheer people up and the joy in receiving comes when you receive and are glad that you were thought of and you do not judge the gift by its intrinsic worth.

Does it occur to you that Christmas seems to roll around faster and faster each year. As a child it seemed an age from Christmas to Christmas, but as you grew older time went faster. And again, does it occur to you that our Christmases are numbered?—we are here but a short time—therefore let us make each day count—let us live and enjoy living to the fullest extent, but above all, let's make the other fellow enjoy living.

As the shades of night fall on the passing Old Year and with the bright sunrise of the New Year let us all try and see if we cannot make this Old World a better place in which to live—face the issues of the day fairly and squarely, no matter whether they be international or national, State or municipal, home or personal. It needs to be, let us take our place as arbiter of Europe's complex but pitiful state of affairs. Let us stand back of our national government in its fight against unconstitutionalism and lawlessness. Let us fight in our own State for cleaner political practices and elect thinking individuals in place of figurehead partisan men. Let us have in our own town more real doers of things and less of the cold water throwers and make Newark a better place to live.

Oh, if we could only forget our peanut politics that creep into our government, our town, our churches. Life's short. Is it worth while to think only of self? Let us, in our homes (the backbone of America) see how pleasant we can make it for the others.

And last, but not least, let us see how pleasant we can make it for everyone that we come into contact with. Let us see things to do and do them—not for self, but for the other fellow. It's the easiest thing in the world to drift along with the tide and still be a good fellow. But this year let us do something worth while. Life is short; how long will you be here? Put yourself to the test and do something, no matter how small. Was not Roosevelt right when he said:

"It's not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again because there is no effort without error and shortcoming, but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who does know the great enthusiasm, the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best, knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."

And now for a year of worth while deeds—not resolutions.

(Signed) JIM HASTINGS,

From Down Home.

on the part of the University of Pennsylvania to conceal the news that things were not as they should be. Brother Heisman, you know, signed to a three-year contract, which shows that all the canny gentlemen do not come from Scotland. Reams of alibis, explanations, visions of the future were laid before the gaping public concerning the football situation at Penn, but the truth has never as yet been told. We hope it will some day.

The average student at Penn was not the least bit enthusiastic about Heisman after the first fall of his stay, and no amount of press comment would change him. He managed to get out a team each year and slay a few of the early season teams who came to the slaying for the juicy guarantee. But when the big ones rolled in, the Heisman shift had slipped several distinct cogs, the machine was rusty and full of inertia.

John Heisman has not been the man for Penn football. He is now a figurehead in the Physical Education Department—a valuable man there perhaps.

Lou Young now has the reins over the Red and Blue. Ambitious, resourceful and full of football, he will no doubt work himself to tatters in producing the team which Pennsylvania by rights should have. Turn him loose.

The Breeders' Journal of Cleveland, Ohio, in its December issue, carries a story which will be of interest to readers of the Post.

It is to the effect that J. Wirt Willis, of Glasgow, near Newark, has bought the famous "Peter Mozart 2-154". This splendid son of Peter the Great 2-074 and Missura by Moko, was purchased at the Old Glory Sales of last month and taken by Mr. Willis, who will place him at the head of his stable at the above-named town.

Mr. Willis has recently organized the Pencader Breeding and Agricultural Association and has accumulated a large number of very promising racing trotters. He has also built a half mile track, which was opened to the public last September.

Mr. Willis is one of the enthusiastic members of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders and in securing this splendid son of the "Wonder Sire" for Delaware, he has bestowed on the brood mare owners of that section a privilege they will surely appreciate and take advantage of in the spring of 1923 and the seasons that follow.

Just as soon as it is practical in 1923, the track at Glasgow will be put into fine shape and Saturday matinees will be held. Other horse owners have promised their co-operation and it is very evident that some fine racing will be seen.

LILIOM

The Theatre Guild's production of Franz Molnar's most brilliant comedy "Liliom" with Eva Le Gallienne in her original role, comes to the Playhouse, Wilmington, next Monday and Tuesday nights.

This Molnar masterpiece was presented by the Guild first at the Garrick Theatre, New York, and after running there for several months, so great was its success that it was moved to the Fulton Theatre, remaining there for many months.

It is generally acknowledged that "Liliom" is not only a great play by one of the world's greatest playwrights, but one that is acted greatly. Eva Le Gallienne as young Julie, the servant girl, gives a sincere, masterly performance, meeting with real triumph in her presentation, and young Charles Ellis in the title role is no less brilliant in his characterization. They will be supported by the New York cast which includes John Harwood, Lillian Kingsbury, John Crump, Philip Wood, Brandon Peters, Maud Andrew, Rose Hobart, Barbara Kitson, Carlton Rivers, Howard Clancy, Marilyn Brown, M. C. Herman, Cliff Heckinger, Mary Salzman and others.

Mother will be here this afternoon for a few days."

BAND TALKS
OVER PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

Continental Music Makers
Guests of Mr. and Mrs.
McCully
ELECT OFFICERS

The members of the Continental Band of Newark held a "get together" meeting last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCully, on East Main Street. The meeting was called primarily for the purpose of a general discussion of the successes and mistakes made during the past twelve months and to lay plans for a successful and interesting season during 1923. Several valuable suggestions and criticisms were made by the members present and were accepted in good faith. It was the feeling that lots more good work may be done by the Band which caused the players to turn out almost to a man at the meeting Friday night.

The annual election of officers for the coming year was also held. The results are as follows: President, R. V. Buckingham; vice-president, Henry Jackson; secretary, H. W. Gregg; business manager and treasurer, Bayard Perry.

The leader of the band during all its appearances is Mr. D. W. Chalmers.

Previous to the business meeting, however, the boys of the band were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. McCully at a sumptuous turkey dinner, served in splendid style. All voted the dinner a huge success and from the remarks made by the various members they all did themselves justice to the best of their capacity. Mr. McCully, better known as "Mack," is trombone soloist for the organization.

The members of the band who were present at the dinner were: Bayard Perry, George E. Hancock, H. Mitchell, "Pop" Roberts, H. Jackson, G. H. Roberts, W. Hill, Howard McCully, A. Barnett, W. Lloyd, H. Gregg, R. V. Buckingham, H. Fulton, L. Price, C. Worrall, R. Pope, and D. W. Chalmers, leader.

"You have left out an important statement in this rescue story," said a professor in the School of Journalism to one of his students.

"Indeed, sir?"

"Yes, you neglect to say that the boy was rescued just as he was going down for the third time."

OBITUARY

James C. Mote
James C. Mote, one of the town's oldest active citizens, passed away suddenly Friday morning at his home on South Chapel Street. The end came at nine o'clock. His death was very sudden and his many relatives and friends were shocked to hear of his passing. Mr. Mote was 70 years of age. He retired Thursday evening apparently in the best of health but evidently was stricken during the night. When morning came and his plight was discovered, doctors were hurriedly summoned but the sick man never rallied from the attack. It is believed that a stroke was the cause.

The deceased was a son of William and Eliza Mote and has lived in and about Newark all his life. Up until the time of his death he was in the employ of the Continental Fibre Co., being one of their oldest and most loyal workmen. His family is eminent in a historical way and one of the oldest in the State. For generations the Motes have been natives of Delaware and their ancestry has been traced back to the early pioneer days. Mr. Mote's great grandmother is said to have been the wife of a French nobleman and secretary to Lafayette during the days of the Revolution. The Motes have been for many years high grade farmers and business men of the State.

The deceased never married. He is survived by a sister and brother, Isabelle and John Mote.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Chapel Street, with interment in Head of Christiana cemetery.

William A. Millner
Stricken with pneumonia while convalescing from an operation at the Delaware Hospital three weeks ago for hernia, William A. Millner, a disabled veteran of the World War, in attendance at the rehabilitation bureau at Delaware University, died Saturday morning, December 30, 1922. The deceased veteran was 28 years old. Mr. Millner was unmarried, and is survived by two brothers and two sisters. His home was at 3119 N. Rorer Street, Philadelphia, but he was very well known, both in Newark and Wilmington. He was the secretary of Walter E. Gardner Post No. 2, Disabled Veterans of the World War of Newark. He was engaged in poultry raising prior to the operation. Millner was buried with full military honors in Philadelphia. During the war he served in the navy.
