Another Suburban Area Votes Approval Of New Town Limits

Lumbrook Joins Elliott Heights In Agreeing To Annexation: Final Charter Draft May Be Approved At Mar. 20 Meeting Of Council

The controversy over Newark's proposed new boundaries appeared to be coming down this week as one more suburban area voted to accept annexation.

Property owners of Lumbrook, the section east of town along Capitol Hill, voted 20 to 19 to come into the town at a public meeting held in the Lumbrook Hall here Tuesday night. Seventy-one of the approximately 83 property owners in the area attended the session, with two abstaining from the voting.

The vote climaxed a week of discussion and petition signing in the Lumbrook section. At a previous public hearing there, the residents voted against joining the town.

This makes two suburban areas in which the majority of residents have accepted the annexation proposal. Previously, Nottingham Manor, the large residential area west of town, agreed to the new boundaries. Elliott Heights, the third section, still refuses to accept the proposal. The residents have expressed their opposition in a petition signed by Mayor Wallace Johnson.

Adjustments to the proposed boundaries to include Elliott Heights and a number of individual farmers who have requested that their property be kept outside the town limits were worked out at a special meeting of the Town Council last night.

A session had been set for Tuesday but a quorum of Councilmen failed to show up. Carl S. Rankin and James Darnall were called out of town suddenly, and Dr. John R. Downes is Mayor Johnson and the Council are following a policy of accepting without question the wishes of any individual or group in the outlying areas regarding new boundaries.

The proposed new charter, which states the provisions for extending town boundaries, is being rewritten to include any objecting group or individual property owner.

Thus, in addition to Elliott Heights, property of W. C. Carter, south of town and of several other farmers in the southwest, will be extended at their request.

Mayor Johnson said this week that the charter draft, possibly may be voted up into final form at the March meeting of Council at 8 p.m.

Once a draft is approved by the lawmen it will be submitted in bill form to the General Assembly by Councilman Norman S. Battersby, legislative representative from the Ninth District.

Checking On Reasons For High Electric Bills

The reason behind the unusually high electric bills here the past few months has not been determined by town authorities.

Complaints on the bills from a number of citizens led the Town Council to order a careful check of the town's electrical equipment.

According to Francis Niede, town engineer, the study has not been completed as yet. He has called in William J. Herriek, a Philadelphia electrical expert, to check the town's electrical installation. Mr. Herriek is expected here sometime next week.

Recruits Sought For New Guard Battalion Stationed At Armory

The Newark Armory, idle since Battery "C" was mustered into federal service last August, will soon become headquarters for a new National Guard unit, Battery "B," 116th Mobile Artillery Battalion.

Qualified Newark men, with or without previous service, will be sought for a number of vacancies in the unit, according to its commander, Capt. Michael F. Riley, Jr., of Villanova, Pa. Mr. Riley, a former member of the old 108th, served with that unit in World War I.

A number of volunteers, mostly from the Wilmington area, already have signed up for the battery, which was organized some months ago. However, recruits from this area are preferred for the remaining gaps.

The week of March 19, when the battery will be open from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each day. The applicants will be interviewed by Warrant Officer Joseph J. Klamenski, of Klamenski Gardens, and Sergeant Theodore E. Hill, Wil-

Home Destroyed In 3-Hour Blaze Tues.

Fire of unknown origin gutted the home of Thomas Dempsey, Barksdale Road, on Tuesday morning.

The two and a half story brick and stone house was virtually destroyed along with much of the furnishings in the blaze which brought volunteer firemen from Elton and Newark.

Four engines and crews fought the blaze for over three hours. Elton was called first, saw that the blaze was getting out of hand and then summoned the Aetna men. Four pumps worked in relays, refilling their tanks at a nearby stream. A final estimate on the damage to the house has not been made as yet, according to Charles E. Moore, fire recorder.

During the action, the weary firemen were served hot coffee and sandwiches by the ladies of the Aetna auxiliary, who also provided hot soup for both the Elton and local companies at the firehouse after the blaze.

Seven other alarms, the majority for brush fires, were sounded here the past week. Three came within four minutes last Thursday, forcing the Aetna men literally to dash around in all directions.

New Water Sources Being Sought Thru Geological Testing

Town Seeks Sites For New
Wells To Expand
Water Supply

A geological survey for new underground water sources to supplement the town supply was started here last week, according to Francis Niede, town supervisor.

The survey, authorized some time ago by Town Council, will cost approximately $10,000 with half the expense being borne by the federal government. Federal geologists will carry out the work.

New water sources are vitally needed by the town to handle the community expansion expected here following the opening of a new defense plant, and the erection of proposed housing developments.

Recently the town ran tests to determine the capacity of its present wells. These had to be interrupted, Mr. Niede said today, explaining that during the experiment the wells were cut off and the town drew on its emergency water supply from the Delaware Water Company. The latter was not sufficient, however, to serve the town needs during the test period. Mr. Niede said another test will be run in the near future, using only two of the wells at a time. The town is anxious to determine its present pumping capacity in order to know how much water it can count on should a sudden disaster strike here.

Mr. Niede also disclosed that a preliminary survey is under way for the proposed southside sewer, plans for which must now be enlarged to serve expected new outlying home development and the Chrysler tank plant. The town's consulting engineers, Whitmore, Reardon and Associates, Baltimore, have suggested tentatively that the town tie in with the county sewer system at Stanton. This would require laying a new line and also entail a daily fee, but the engineers claim it might be cheaper than erecting a new pumping station for the southside area. No definite decision on this will be made until the engineers' survey is completed.

NAACP Meeting Set
For Tuesday Night

A quintet of singers from the University of Delaware will highlight the entertainment at a meeting Tuesday, Mar. 20, of the Newark Chapter, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The session will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Cleveland Avenue Community Center.

NAACP officials pointed out this week that the General Assembly is considering a bill that would eliminate racial restrictions in all public eating places in Delaware. They also hailed the new policy adopted by Warner Theaters in Wilmington, where Negroes are being admitted for the first time on a trial basis.

Members of the Chapter were urged this week to renew their cards. Dues may be paid by check or money order to Mrs. Cora Saunders, 66 New London Road.

Blood transfusions are needed badly by a woman patient. Details may be obtained from Mrs. Ethelyn Chambers 2234.

New Delay On Traffic Light For Academy And Main Sts. Intersection

Installation of the long proposed traffic light at the hazardous Main and Academy Streets intersection has run into another delay. Francis Niede, town supervisor, said this week.

Equipment for the light, authorized some months ago by the Town Council, was first scheduled to arrive in February, then was moved to March and now has been postponed again until April 15. In each case the change in shipping date for the equipment has been made by the supplying firm, Mr. Niede said.

Mr. Niede also disclosed that the new street lights authorized for New London and Kells Avenues will be installed in the near future. The equipment finally has arrived and will be erected as soon as town crews complete more pressing projects now underway.

Three Council Seats Open For Annual Town Vote On April 10

Campaign Gets Off To Fast Start When Councilman Diehl Files For Re-election; Deadline On Candidates Set For Mar. 31

Action began early in the annual town election campaign, when Councilman Samuel Diehl filed this week for reelection from the Middle District. Two other seats on the Town Council will be open in the vote scheduled for April 10, with the filing deadline set for noon Mar. 31.

The two-year terms of Councilmen Norman S. Battersby and Dr. John R. Downes will also expire. Neither has indicated his intentions as yet regarding running again.

Dr. Downes is filling out the unexpired term of Robert Levia, who resigned from Council because of ill-health. Dr. Downes also has been calling for the past few months and has not been able to attend Council meetings.

Mr. Battersby, the senior member of Council, who is rounding out his third term, widened his political activities last November when he was elected representative to the General Assembly from the Ninth District.

Mr. Diehl, the first candidate, is seeking his second term on the local governing body. Highly active in fraternal and civic circles, he also has devoted much time to town affairs and points out that he has "never missed a Council meeting." During his first year with the lawmakers, he was chairman of the street committee and this year has been chairman of the combined street and sewer committee.

During his two-year term, he has pushed such projects as the installation of parking meters and the securing of state financial aid for the maintenance of through streets here. The parking meters were given final approval by Council in January after a six-month trial period. The aid on streets was finally okayed by the State Highway Department last week.

In summing up his term on Council, Mr. Diehl said this week, "I discharged my duties as faithfully as I was able to."

A resident here for 16 years, Mr. Diehl, who is employed by Minister Jewelers in Elton, Md., is a member of the Hiram Lodge, A.F. & A.M., the Delaware Consistory, a past patron of the Order of Eastern Star, and a past chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias.

The voting turnout this year is not expected to be as large as last when the contest for Mayor and the referendum on Sunday movies highlighted the campaign. The vote then tallied 3,855, a record for municipal elections.

Stiffer Parking Bans Around U. of D. Urged By Dr. Perkins

Stepped up enforcement of existing laws as a means of partially clearing up the parking congestion around the University of Delaware campus was advised Tuesday night by Dr. John A. Perkins, university president, in a talk at a joint meeting of Newark civic clubs.

The dinner session, attended by local Lions, Rotarians and Kiwanians, was held in the Country Club.

Dr. Perkins urged university authorities have urged the students not to park on side streets around the campus, but he pointed out that the school has no authority to prohibit such parking. "Permitting this sort of thing," he said, "will encourage them (the students) in a disrespect for the law. Here is a chance for the police force to do some teaching that needs to be done."

Dr. Perkins was referring to no parking areas on Kentway and Amstel Avenues.

Dr. Perkins also pointed out that the university would soon open a new 60-car parking lot behind "The Knoll," thus making available a total of 385 off-street parking places for the 650 cars that commute daily to the campus. He added that the proposed new university dormitories will, once completed, reduce the number of commuters.

To overcome the parking problem entirely, he said, it would be necessary for the university to convert open spaces on the campus into parking lots or acquire more land outside the present campus limits. The first would destroy the beauty of the campus and devalue adjacent property, and the second would not only be expensive but would be regarded with "uneasiness by some citizens."

In calling for a "good neighbor" policy between the town and the university, Dr. Perkins pointed out that "in purchasing public services such as light and power, the university is the town's biggest customer."

Although its land is tax free, the university, Dr. Perkins said, paid 25 (Continued on Page 10)

Who Is It?

Teacher, teacher, most favorite teacher, I write this poem for you. Though your love cannot reach you, You show no sign of being blue.

You teach many but once a day, Although the period I will not tell; Your subject is how to write and what to say, You once loved, but that love fell.

With your pupils you'll laugh and joke, You walk down the hall as though on air; With your dinner you drink a coke, Your love is far away over there.

This teacher lives right here in town, You guess her name if you can; You'll never see her about, But her name you guess and your's my fan.

The project is expected to cost $100,000.

Cafeteria Furore

General interest centered last week on the protests by restaurant keepers of the town, headed by Walter Powell and Frank Mackey, against the Board of Education generally and Mr. and Mrs. Collins specifically, with regard to the conduct of the high school cafeteria.

It appears that wholesome lunches, at greatly reduced prices, could be had at the cafeteria by anyone who wanted to walk that way.

The restaurant men protested singly and severally. As a result, Mrs. Collins has announced that lunches will hereafter be served only to pupils and members of the faculty.

Notice to GAS Customers

Increase in Heating Value of Gas Will Begin

March 15, 1951

To keep pace with the growing demands for gas in this expanding area, the heating value of the gas supplied Wilraington and vicinity will be increased gradually from the present 520 heating units per cubic foot to 800 heating units per cubic foot. This change in heating value makes it necessary to adjust each gas appliance of our more than 47,000 customers in order to permit satisfactory operation with the new gas. Since the heating value will be increased gradually and in steps, more than one visit by the adjuster to each customer will be necessary during the next two months. All adjustments to appliances will be made without cost to the customer.

We have engaged John B. Shriver Company, specialists in this work, to make these adjustments and all customers will receive a notice a few days prior to the adjuster's visit.

On Thursday morning, March 15, the initial visit will be made by a representative of the Shriver Company in the northern-most section of the area we serve, starting from the Pennsylvania state line; and will proceed southward, section by section, to the southern boundary of our gas territory below Newark and New Castle.

The increase in heating value will have no effect on monthly gas bills for equal quantities of heating units used.

Dr. and Mrs. Wright and children spent March 1 at the George Jones home, returning to Annapolis Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rowland of Arlington were also callers at the Jones home Thursday.

The all-too-recent rainy spell which left country roads such an unholy mess found many an hour spent by "good neighbors" with tractors in hauling out hapless individuals who got stuck while taking for granted that a road was supposed to support an automobile. We know that Bill and Dale Nichol, for instance, hauled out quite a total at this end of the township, and poor Ed Hixon spent one particularly day as an "Extractor from Mud" for all the automobiles who came along that road and reverted from mechanical marvels to "poor fish."

We suppose the problems of any government, foreign, domestic, state, county or township occasionally overwhelm anyone considering them. We recently received a communication from a member of this township suggesting as a solution for the road and school problems we are facing, the idea of our being annexed by Delaware. It is true that we seem to be the "rag-enders" so far as Pennsylvania is concerned, and that many of our legal affiliations, social, financial, and geographical, are with Delaware. When I mentioned this to some disinterested persons they really had a laugh over the likelihood of any state giving up one inch to another—(Consider how long litigation over some fishing considerations continues.) But personally, we welcome this fresh approach. It's been a long time since the South considered seceding from the Union.

We can testify that the safety people know what they are talking about when they warn us about the accidents which happen in the home. Did you ever hear of anyone almost killing themselves by getting tangled up in a sewing machine cord? We are still running the bumps and bruises, and considering a cane after tangling with one the other day. To prove we aren't fooling, we lit on a chair in such a way that we split the wooden seat in two.

Mrs. Thomas, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Pugh of Landenberg has been ill for three long weeks, and her friends were pleased to see her out Saturday for the first time.

Little Francis Filpi had his third birthday celebration on March 1. Having been born on a February 29, Francis usually celebrates on March 1. The guests at his party included all the children of the Play School, and Billie and Johnnie Field. Winnie baked a "Choo-Choo" cake—a big train made out of cakes iced to form different parts of the train, and needless to say, the youngsters really thought it was special!

Fourteen guests joined them in celebrating the silver anniversary with a lovely turkey dinner. Part of the original wedding party was able to attend.

March 1 brought the eighty-ninth birthday of Mrs. Annie Balliet Reichenbach, who makes her home with the Reichenbachs tells me that she was born at Emmaus, Pennsylvania, near Allentown. Her father was travelling to Iowa, and was delayed in Washington, D.C., many years ago, so he dropped in at the Ford Theater to see this actor Booth, and was thus on hand at the sad occasion of Lincoln's assassination. Mrs. Reichenbach was always very active in church work, and followed quite extensively her hobby of handwork, her favorite in the latter field being handmade quilts.

By this time every resident along the Trail has been thrilled with the sight of the first robin this year, or has once more caught a glimpse of bluebirds flitting across his path, and there are reports of the first of the season's rain. No need of a calendar to tell us that spring is just around the corner!

We are sorry to learn that many residents are falling victim to the "flu" germ. Mrs. Howard Bradley, of Capitol Trail, has been confined to bed this past week, before Mr. Bradley has had a chance to fully recover from his attack.

Little Miss Penny Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Smith, Roseville Park, is following the example of the other members of her family by also contracting the "flu."

Little Miss Kay Lynum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lynum, East-burn Heights, is recuperating from an attack of the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Benson and family, Capitol Trail, are to be commended for their prompt action, last Monday evening, in summoning the ambulance and police to care for the victims of a head-on collision directly in front of their residence. Steven D. Kaiser, of Wilmington, a student of the University of Delaware, is confined to the Wilmington General Hospital with severe injuries to the head and chest. Mrs. Grace Green, of Marshall-wood, suffered minor injuries and was released.

White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church willard Johnson, superintendent of White Clay Sunday School, announces that through the efforts of the classes taught by Mrs. David G. Anderson and Mrs. James H. Bishop, $18.70 was turned in last Sunday as a sacrificial offering to aid the needy overseas. This is an interdenominational Lenten project called, "One Great Time For Sharing," to help meet needs not covered in any church budget.

Rev. Bishop announces that the lovely bouquet of flowers in the vestibule was contributed by Mrs. Jane Chambers, Stanton.

Mrs. James H. Bishop has consented to serve as one of the vice-presidents of the newly-organized Newark Council of Church Women.

Next Sunday, Palm Sunday, the pastor will preach at the 11 a.m. service, at The Palm Strenuous Way, the seventh in the Lenten series, "Little Walks With Jesus."

William C. Smith, 83, prominent resident of Marion, N.C., and native of this area, died at his home in Marion, on Monday, Mar. 5.

A graduate of the University of Delaware in 1887, Mr. Smith later attended the Pennsylvania State College law school. He went to Marion in 1902, seeking a mountain climate due to his health.

He is survived by two brothers living in Newark, James T. and Gustavus H. Smith.

The deceased was a contractor in Marion on the building of the Southern railway lines from Marion to Rock Hill, S.C.

Later he entered the evergreen business and collected these, mainly galax for shipment to northern cities.

He was a director of the Home Building and Loan Association and of the Merchants and Farmers Bank as long as they were in business in Marion. Later he became a director of Marion's First National Bank, a position he held at his death.

Active in St. John's Episcopal Church in Marion, he was a member of the vestry. He served the town as an alderman and was town treasurer for many years.

Funeral services were conducted at his residence with the Rev. D. M. Nifong officiating, assisted by the Rev. A. P. Mack and Dr. Carl W. McMurray. Interment was in Bethel, Md.

Plan Grading Work For Proposed Grid Stadium At U. of D.

A low bid of $11,665 for grading and draining the playing field area of the University of Delaware's proposed stadium has been received by the university.

The low bidder, Pleasanton & Edgell of Dover, estimated 30 days for completion of the work. The bid and four others were referred to the committee on grounds and buildings of the board of trustees for consideration. Business Administrator Charles E. Grubb said that action on accepting a bid will be taken as soon as possible, so that actual grading can start when weather permits.

Other bidders were: E. Earle Downing, Inc., Wilmington, $13,985; John M. McCool Co., Inc., Newark, $17,100; Henry C. Eastburn & Son, Newark, $17,353; and J. T. Ward & Son, Wilmington, $17,420.

The grading work will place pipes for surface drainage, will shape the field, and provide topsoil. The university is going ahead with work on the playing field area itself, although prevented by a federal regulation from building a grandstand for the proposed stadium on the university farm just south of Newark.

Non-Group Blue Cross Now Open Year Round

LITTLE THINGS about the Stars

TELEVISION • RADIO • HOLLYWOOD

By GEORGE LILLEY

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A current favorite of the radio hierarchy is young humorist Robert Q. "Q" (for nothing) Lewis. A trade gag is that Arthur Godfrey is Lewis' winter replacement. Lewis has held down the morning show every summer for the last four years. Now he is on television—"The Robert Q. Lewis Show," Sunday nights (11 EST), CBS-TV. The bespectacled, easy-going fellow, is somewhat a rarity in radio—a born-and-bred New Yorker. In a second manner he is practically unique. He made a formal study of his business—drama and radio production—at the University of Michigan. He plays around on TV in a vaudeville voice, chattering and singing, following no definite pattern in particular. Off the air he is a fairly quiet guy, dotes on serious reading (current favorites: contemporary French authors).

DAYTIME "ROBBERY"

The quiz really important-money, all-cash grabber has come to daytime radio. It is a familiar one. Headed by a bouncy emcee, Bud Collyer, "Break the Bank," for four years, night-time radio's biggest cash Santa Claus, has moved to NBC mornings (11 EST), Mondays through Fridays. You answer eight reasonable questions on "Break the Bank" (before you miss two) and you walk away with at least $500. You... at least $500 can do better, like the contestant the other morning who nailed down and carried home $349. Like the Statue of Liberty, the show, for visitors to New York, is a focal point. Out-of-town requests for studio tickets go on a priority list.

THE ROAD OF CAVALCADE

Back in 1935 "Cavalcade of America," the Du Pont dramatic program, went on a coast-to-coast network, the first radio broadcast of its kind on a regularly sponsored basis. The show's original aim was to present drama about people, little known people as often as not, who have made significant contributions to the growth of America. In a business dominated by changes, it is interesting that to present drama, fifteen years later, "Cavalcade" hasn't changed its goal a bit. It is, as ever, a program about Americans of courage, resourcefulness, ingenuity; the manner of telling remains simple and direct in an idiom of reality that has held effectively throughout the years. Like the scripts, stars are widely varied: Helen Hayes, Bill Bendix, Charles Laughton, Fred Allen. A feature this month: Walter Hampden, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "The Stepping Stones," story of the Mayflower Compact.

Paul Whiteman is in his second year with a top-flight television show, "The Paul Whiteman Revue," Sunday nights, ABC-TV. Paul has a theory about TV work contrary to that of some other performers. He does not like to inject himself into his own show. He has a couple of reasons. By taking care to surround himself with a strong entertainment values—varied costume scenery, Paul Whiteman large dancing... doesn't like it and singing ensemble, full orchestra—he feels he protects his own television life. People get tired looking at one face. "Pops" doesn't like his own face in particular (he has never viewed his own movies). As to songs, Paul TV's visual productions killing even faster than records and "except for the one out of 50 that's very good."

FILLIN' IN

What we like least about Spring is the way it affects people. We can tolerate Nature's annual tomfoolery, the buds burgeoning untidily all over the place, the incessant chortling of birds and the horrors of a rearguard insect world, including the unrelenting conduct of a giddy lady bug that brought spring two months early this year to our living room, but we cannot cope with a human being who has a Spring jag on.

It was nothing except the magic of Spring, for instance, which led a tall stranger to step up to us on Main Street the other day, stab us in the chest with a long forefinger and demand belligerently, "It was 1942 that the French liner, Normandie, burned at her dock in New York City, wasn't it?"

He wasn't asking a question exactly, and there was a wild look in his eye. We tried to ease the tension with a quip. "Wouldn't know a French liner from a Texas leaguer," we said, nudging him and winking.

This didn't go over at all. "Look, Buddy," he grated, stabbing us again. "I gotta know. I got fifty bucks on this. Think hard, real hard, see?" There wasn't a policeman in sight. To humor him, we plunged into some strenuous facial calisthenics, knitting our brows, pursing our lips, all the while edging away. He kept advancing, until finally we backed into something solid. It turned out to be the newstand, and this gave us an idea.

We told the fellow to wait, slipped inside, forked over a dollar for a World Almanac, went out again, motioned the fellow to our side, and, with trembling hands, opened the book to "Marine Disasters Since 1833."

We both went over it tensely. There seemed to be a mute understanding between us that if the Normandie didn't burn in 1942 we were both going to regret it. Our finger slowly went down the page and stopped at February 8. We both let out a shout of triumph. There it was: "Normandie burns at pier—". The fellow snatched the book from our hands and dashed down the street, waving it aloof. We stood there for a moment, quietly sweating, and no doubt playing hob with local seismographs.

Then there was the fellow on Sunset Road. We were walking out that way one clear, bright Sunday recently, and this chap emerged from his front door, expanded his chest, threw up his arms and started bellowing in a superb baritone. It was obvious he thought himself alone, and he was greeting Spring.

Then his eye fell on us, and his song died in his throat. He slunk across his lawn, climbed into his car and drove off, looking back at us sheepishly. We could tell he was hoping against hope that we hadn't heard him.

The incident left us uneasy. We had the feeling we had spoiled the fellow's entire day and that Spring now had turned to ashes in his mouth.

It was undoubtedly Spring at work the very next afternoon, when we stepped into Rhodes Drug Store and saw a charming, well-dressed woman squinting into an artificial egg and industriously grinding a handle at its side. She was peering into the thing with intense interest, and when she put it down her expression was one of beatific satisfaction. "Always wanted to look into one of those and see what went on," she explained to us. "And now I know."

After she had left, we inched up to the counter and eyed the egg. It's called a "Peek-a-Boo Musical Egg." We started to reach for it, then remembered ourself, drew up to our full height and marched resolutely off. Blast that woman!

Spring even affects the kids. One little girl stopped us on the street early one morning to tell us that a baby sister had just come to her house. "It's not much good yet," the youngster confided. "It's just to look at now."

Off-hand we'd say, Spring attains its most extravagant peak locally at Peggy Cronin's Fashion Shop. We sensed this through a recent item in "Jottings" by Mrs. Cronin, a fellow columnist for this publication. After pointing out that Spring definitely is in the air, Mrs. Cronin warned her fans to "Get busy—whittle down the winter waistline, roll off the inches. Come in and see us—we are personally interested in you."

We'd think twice before accepting that invitation. Sounds as if Wagon Wheel Alley soon will be strewn with whittled down bodies.

At least one local firm has failed to succumb to the intoxication of Spring. The Blue Hen Laundry, we are happy to report, still is operating at peak efficiency. We can verify this through Bill (it always happens to me) Durham, our pressman, who accidentally included a frayed, old oily rag with his laundry. The rag came back spotlessly, neatly pressed—a miracle of modern cleaning techniques. Bill insists it was even patched in one place. And carefully noted at the bottom of his bill was "one rag, two cents."

The worst kind of people in the Spring, though, are those who, like us, write articles about it. Frankly, we can't stand ourself in the Spring.

Hen Courtmen Miss Mid-Atlantic Loop Title By 3 Points

Lose To Swarthmore, 52-50, In League Deciding Test Before Home Fans

The University of Delaware courtmen came within three points of their first southern division championship of the Middle Atlantic Basketball Conference.

They wound up on the short end of a 52-50 score in their championship tilt with Swarthmore before a capacity house of 2100 in the field house last Wednesday night.

Delaware looked at peak form the first half and held a 23-21 lead at the mid-way whistle, boosting this to 30-21 shortly after the start of the third period.

Then the trouble began. The Garnet began to see red and reeled off 10 points before the Hens could muster a goal. The visitors then piled in nine more to take a 40-43 lead entering the final lap.

The Hens outscored their guests 10-9 in the last quarter, but, despite several opportunities at the foul line, couldn't muster the winning punch.

A factor in the Hen setback was the pressure through much of the second half on three regulars, Frank Albera, Dick Goldberg and Jim Kruzinski, each of whom had four fouls against him. Goldberg was branded with his fifth with three minutes to go and Albera went out with a minute left.

Another factor was the Hen's shaky efforts at the foul line. They made only six in 21 attempts during the game, missing seven out of seven in the second half. The disaster came when they blew three in a row late in the game with the score 47-46.

Meanwhile, Swarthmore, outscored from the field, converted 16 of 23 tries in the contest.

Nevertheless, Fred Emerson's boys wound up with one of Delaware's best records in years and they'll be returning almost intact next season, bolstered by new talent from this year's outstanding Frosh team. Only varsity man to go will be Albera.

Last Wednesday the Hen Frosh turned back Swarthmore's yearlings by a 81-69 count.

Use of Race Track As Emergency Evacuation Center Is Outlined

Civil Defense Officials Draft Plan For Using Delaware Park As Refugee Center For This Area In Sudden Emergency

Details of the plan announced some weeks ago for putting Delaware Park on war duty should an emergency arise in this area were announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. D. Preston Lee, state civil defense director.

After a thorough survey of the track's facilities, officials drew up tentative plans for converting the park into a civilian evacuation center, using the grandstands as an assembly area and the teller's windows as registration desks.

In a letter to Bryan Field, vice-president and general manager of the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association, which cooperates with Delaware Park, Col. Lee stated in part: "Due to the non-existence of heating facilities, Delaware Park probably would be adaptable for use as a collection point or reception station. By this I mean that plans could be developed for the orderly evacuation of persons from a devastated area by both train and motor transportation to the Delaware Park Upon arrival, the grandstands would be utilized as an assembly area where the evacuees could be instructed on how the remainder of their care will be administered, and families could be reassembled."

"The teller's windows could serve as registration desks where the evacuees would fill out forms and at the same time be assigned to temporary quarters either at the park or in other areas."

"The water supply is considered adequate to satisfy the needs of the number of persons who would be temporarily cared for, and for fire-fighting purposes."

"Sanitary facilities and kitchens are considered to be sufficient to take care of this temporary situation."

This is only a rough estimate of the situation, and it is Mr. Lee's intention to organize immediately an advisory council to make a more thorough investigation and to set up a definite plan for Delaware Park."

Riders Signing For 1951 Inaugural Speed Dashes At Fairgrounds

Pagoda Motorcycle Club officials were busy engaged this week in signing riders for their 1951 inaugural motorcycle races at the Reading Fairgrounds, Sunday, March 25.

J. Lester Hillbush, retired national champion rider, and an official of the club, reported that many of the participants in the recent 200-mile national championship race at Daytona Beach, Fla., loom as sure fire starters in the events here.

Hillbush, who made a special trip to Florida to recruit riders for the Reading race, said practically all the hot shot handlebar jockeys in the east have evinced a desire to compete.

The Reading events will officially launch the 1951 motorcycle race season in every state in the Union except Florida and California. As in the past, the events will carry the sanction of the American Motorcycle Association, official governing body of all motorcycle racing in the United States.

The program, as announced by Hillbush, will include races for expert, amateur and novice riders. The 10-event speed card will consist of time trials, two three-mile heats and a five-mile feature for experts; two three-mile heats and a five-mile feature for amateurs; and two three-mile heats and a five-mile feature for novice riders.

Pagoda Motorcycle Club officials were busy engaged this week in signing riders for their 1951 inaugural motorcycle races at the Reading Fairgrounds, Sunday, March 25.

J. Lester Hillbush, retired national champion rider, and an official of the club, reported that many of the participants in the recent 200-mile national championship race at Daytona Beach, Fla., loom as sure fire starters in the events here.

Hillbush, who made a special trip to Florida to recruit riders for the Reading race, said practically all the hot shot handlebar jockeys in the east have evinced a desire to compete.

Award Contract For Chrysler Tank Plant

New York Firm to Erect Huge Unit

The general contract for construction of the main manufacturing building of the new Chrysler Corporation plant to be built in Newark, Delaware, for production of tanks for the Armed Forces, has been awarded to H. K. Ferguson Co., Inc., of New York, N. Y. It was announced recently by Robert T. Keller, General Manager of the Chrysler Delaware Tank Plant.

Work on the foundation of the manufacturing building is now under way. Mechanical trades and electrical work on the building will be out for competitive bids later this month, as will be construction of the office building and power house.

When completed, the new tank plant will contain more than a million square feet, with a manufacturing space of 600 by 1,500 feet. There will be a two-story office building in front of the main building and a one-mile test track to the west of it. There will be several smaller buildings, such as a paint shop and power house, and a parking lot for 1,300 cars.

The entire installation will be built next to the present Chrysler parts plant on the outskirts of Newark. When in volume production, the Chrysler Delaware Tank Plant will employ approximately 4,000 persons.

Plan To Reorganize State Gov't Is Now Aired On TV, Radio

Speakers Supplied For Public Meetings Or Small Groups

The Commission on Reorganization of the executive branch of the state government now directs a complete cycle of public information, it was announced recently. It is pointed out that, for the first time on a reorganization plan for any state, senior school students are keeping abreast of other publicity media in a state-wide program of education.

The press, radio and television facilities of the state are cooperating on a public basis, to acquaint the citizens with government in the making. Daily radio programs were augmented on Feb. 25 by the first of regular Sunday afternoon television shows featuring the analyst responsible for the Griffithen report of the commission. Mr. Ferguson, Washington political scientist who made a complete study of Delaware state government methods will answer questions from the studio audience.

The report of the commission is said to be the only available source of material for the general study of Delaware business methods. Mr. David Braunstein, Wilmington business man and commission member, is chairman of the speakers bureau for the commission, and will supply speakers for interested meetings and groups. It is believed that a completely informed public will press for the streamlining operations recommended in the report, according to officials. The commission was created by act of the 1949 General Assembly and is bi-partisan in nature. It recommends a consolidation of 97 agencies into 19, for the purpose of making more effective the operations of the executive branch of the state government.

Safety Hints

Look out for the other driver. He may not be looking out for you. This was the advice offered today by the Delaware Safety Council.

The best way to drive along safely is to act and think as though you are the only driver who is observing all the rules.

The key to successful driving is not taking any chances on locking bumpers or fenders with any vehicle on the road, said the Council. Minding your motor manners and driving defensively are the best ways of accomplishing this. You may not have to assume all other drivers are careless, but it helps. At least it will help you live a lot longer.

The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde roles we must assume for ourselves and other drivers may be considered a poor commentary on the total amount of drivers courtesy in existence, stated the council. But if your own existence depends on it, expecting the worst from the other fellow while giving him your best isn't too much to pay. You go, but keep in mind that the "Take your motor manners wherever other driver may have left his at home."

Books, Articles By U. of D. Staff Shown

Published Works Of Faculty Members On View

An exhibit of some of the books and articles published by members of the University of Delaware faculty in the last decade has been opened by the faculty research committee in the prints room of the university's Memorial Library, where it will remain open to the public until March 24.

"An important part of the work of university faculties is the conservation of existing knowledge and, through research, the pushing back of the edges of ignorance," commented Dr. Arthur R. Dunlap, of the research committee. "To make known the part our faculty is playing in these two endeavors, the committee arranged this exhibit. This is a rare opportunity for Delawareans to study at close range one important phase of the work of their state university."

"In the limited space available, it is impossible to display all of the material at hand, and therefore representative items have been selected for exhibit." These include, Dr. Dunlap said: R. O. Bausman's "An Economic Study of Land Utilization in New Castle County"; C. L. Day's "The Art of Knitting and Splicing"; Anna J. DeArmand's "Andrew Bradford, Colonial Journalist"; Earl P. Hanson's "New Worlds Emerging"; Walther Krichner's "An Outline History of Russia"; H. Clay Reed's "Delaware, a History of the First State"; Carl J. Reed (co-author) "Nautical Mathematics and Marine Navigation"; and W. O. Sypherd's "The Book of Books." The exhibit, which is open without charge during library hours, also includes studies published in nationally-known periodicals.

year will give two public lectures on poetry. The course which he will teach is devoted to a study of representative poets and significant tendencies in poetry since 1890. Normally an undergraduate course, the class will be given also for graduate credit, according to Dean Carl J. Reed, director of the summer session. It is expected that many teachers of English literature will enroll.

Mr. Hillyer, known for his craftsmanship and technique, writes in the classical tradition. For several years he was Boylston Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory at Harvard University, and for the last two years has been visiting Professor of English at Kenyon College.

His first book, "Sonnets and Other Lyrics," was published in 1917. One of his best is "The Seventh Hill," published in 1928. "The Collected Verse of Robert Hillyer," which came out in 1933, received the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in the following year, and drew attention to his longer poems as well as to his shorter lyrics. Some of his more recent volumes are "Variations on a Theme," "A Letter to Robert Frost and Others," "Patterns of a Day," and "Poem for Music."

percent of the $93,434 in profits on light, power and water, which the town received in 1950. The university's 25 percent contribution was sufficient. Dr. Perkins claimed, to meet 23 percent of the town's costs for the year. In addition, Dr. Perkins stressed, the university spends $1,850,000 annually employing 600 persons, most of whom live and spend in Newark and the suburbs. Also, he stated, 2,000 students spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in Newark each year.

In concluding, Dr. Perkins praised Mayor Wallace Johnson and the members of the Town Council for the leadership they are giving the town. He expressed confidence that the university and town would continue to work together for the best interests of both and that "the years ahead would be, as those of the past, happy ones for all concerned."
