Grade Crossings

The Newark Post

Must Go!!

VOL. XXV

NEWARK, DELAWARE,

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1935

NUMBER 50

NEWARK'S GRADE CROSSINGS ARE SOON TO GO; IN U. S. RELIEF PLAN

Project To End 5,000 Crossings First In Effort To Aid 3,500,000 Unemployed

SAY COULD BE MADE SELF-LIQUIDATING

According to present advices from Washington, a half billion dollar grade crossing elimination program will be the key plan in the Administration's drive to end unemployment. The Newark grade crossings are on the list of those to be eliminated in Delaware, and in all probability will be among the first to be handled.

Plans for elimination of 5000 crossings with this sum have been worked out in detail by railroad engineers. Those who sketched the plan said that it, alone of the programs approved by the President and the National Resources Board, could be started immediately.

One high Public Works Administration official, who declined use of his name for publication, left little doubt that funds for this program would be allotted from the four billion dollar appropriation the President has asked from Congress.

He said the grade crossing program would make work for both city and rural unemployed, and that it conformed to two of the President's guiding principles—quick starting, and susceptibility to gradual reduction as private employment increased.

Could Be Self-Liquidating
Further, if Congress desired, the program could be "ultimately" self-liquidating, he said. Secretary Ickes, the Public Works administrator, disclosed today that a plan was being considered to tax motorists and the railroads to repay the cost. The plan was said in one quarter to provide for an assessment on freight, and possibly other levies, to be placed against the cost of crossings in districts where the taxes are collected.

"NEWSPAPER OF THE FUTURE" IS MAPEL'S TOPIC

News-Journal Executive Editor Sees Split Between 'Why' and 'What' Papers

SAYS HIS BOY MUST BE NEWSPAPER MAN

Asserting that a division between the newspaper answering only the question "What?" the one also answering "Why?" was almost inevitable, William L. Mapel gave a very inspiring address on the "Newspaper of the Future" last Tuesday, in Mitchell Hall. Mr. Mapel, who is executive editor of the News-Journal papers in Wilmington, was the last college hour speaker of the current semester.

He spoke in the course of a very inspiring address, said that the present pressure for more and more circulation in order to increase advertising rates causes a deterioration in the quality of the material in the paper. He launched into a discussion of his own problems as examples of this confronting every newspaperman. He then presented a possible alternate—"The Five Cent Newspaper." By this he meant one which is interested in educating the public rather than merely informing it. This would necessitate a higher subscription rate so as to release the newspaper from the need to build up enormous circulation for advertising purposes.

$18,000 IN REPAIRS REPORTED TO DATE

Reports Of Total Of 1200 Already In; Weather Prediction Leads

Three hundred and forty-nine reports turned in by the canvassers in the Better Housing Campaign indicate $18,000 worth of house repairs to be made in Newark. According to Col. B. M. Ashbridge, who is in charge of the canvass, of this amount $9,975 worth of repairs have been made and $8,125 of repairs will be started within a few weeks.

Colonel Ashbridge states that there are approximately 1,200 residences in Newark. The canvass is, therefore, on half complete.

Storm windows, storm doors, and weather stripping take the lead in the repairs indicated in the reports. Improvements in the kitchens and modern equipment in bath rooms also come in for an important place. Some residents have indicated intentions of installing modern heating equipment.

Lions Are Liars!!!

At least the above statement held true for the local organization of Kings of the Jungle at their meeting last Tuesday night, since "Tall Stories" were the order of the day (or night, if you must). It is customary for members having a birthday during the month to present a gift. Since there were four this month, it was decided to award two of them, "sign unseen" to the raconteurs with the Tall Story and Short Story.

The Tall Story prize went to William S. Brimjoin with a story about a Lion Hunt, while T. A. Baker's yarn of a Cure for Wolf in the Tail of Cattle was ingloriously selected for Short Story.

The judges, who declared themselves unable to tell tall stories, were: Dr. J. R. Downes, Dr. P. K. Musselman, M. H. Sigmund and George Sinclair. The stories went on long after the contest ceased, and for all we know, may still be going on.

FARMER CREDIT GROUP ELECTS 1935 LEADERS

First Year's Record Reviewed At Meeting Yesterday; Questions Answered

BEAR AND KIRKWOOD MEN ARE DIRECTORS

The first year's record of the farmers' new cooperative short-term credit system, as represented in this section of the state by the Delaware Production Credit Association, was discussed and approved at the annual meeting of the associations' stockholders held in Dover at 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

There were present approximately 100 persons, most of whom were farmers and stockholders, representing every county within the association's territory, which includes New Castle, Kent and Sussex Counties. The new board of directors of the association, elected at the meeting is as follows: H. C. Milliken, Bear; Albert O. Gray, Kirkwood; L. D. Caulk, Woodside; Harold Baker, Bridgeville; W. T. Ryder, Laurel. The new officials are: L. D. Caulk, president; Al-

HILLYER NEXT AT UNIVERSITY

Pulitzer Prize Poet For 1933 To Read Poems In Mitchell Hall, February 8

No more fitting a representative of American letters could have been selected for this year's University Hour program than Robert Hillyer, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry in 1933 and Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He will give a talk and reading of his poems in Mitchell Hall on Friday evening, February 8, at 8 p. m.

Robert Hillyer's work in the field of literature dates from the World War. Like many other young men of that time, he was drawn into the conflict and served in one of the most dangerous jobs at the front, that of an ambulance driver. Unlike many others, however, the war did not sour him, and the long line of publications of his poetry, from "Sonnets and Other Lyrics" in 1917, to his "Collected Poems," which won him the Pulitzer Award in 1933, do not reveal the pessimistic note. Hillyer himself has led an active life, and he has made the comment that the poets who are petulant about the "wasteland" have been happily sheltered from the confusions they deplore.

In addition to poetry, Robert Hillyer has also made a successful excursion into the realm of the novel. His "Riverhead," published in 1932 was very favorably received. On it the New York Times made the following observations: "A book worth reading and, even re-reading."

The poet and novelist is also prominent in the academic field. His courses in literature at Harvard are always filled with students enthusiastic about his stimulating lectures.

The lecture of Robert Hillyer promises to offer a rare opportunity for hearing one of this country's little publicized but none the less outstanding men of letters.

Vic Willis, Jr., Gets Honorable Mention For All-American Team

Vic Willis, Jr., of Newark, a student at the University of Maryland, and stellar girdiron warrior, is in receipt of the following letter from the All America Board of Football, composed of many of the sport notables of the country.

Dear Victor:

At the annual meeting of the All America Board of Football held in New York, your name was selected among others for exceptional performances during the 1934 football season.

You are therefore entitled to a

Card of Merit which is enclosed.

Yours,

Jos. A. Bihler,

All America Bd. of Football.

Vic, who was on the freshman squad for one week in the Fall of 1932 and who did not take part in spring practice at all, started out as a bidder for a reserve job in September of this year. By the end of the season he was regarded as the best all round end in the South and one of the outstanding wingmen of the country.

He is also a mainstay of the basketball and football teams, doing brilliant work in both sports.

SALES TAX NOT GOOD PLAN FOR FUNDS-DAYETT

Levy Courtman Says County Too Small For Measure To Be Efficient

PRES. WIGGLESWORTH PROPOSER OF IDEA

J. Irvin Dayett, Newark's member on the New Castle County Levy Court, today took issue with John H. Wigglesworth, president of that body, on the sales tax for relief funds. Mr. Wigglesworth said this is the most likely looking solution in view of the fact Levy Court will refuse to raise the general property taxes.

The sales tax, he pointed out, is operating successfully in New York, where it has been found to produce adequate revenue with a minimum of public resentment. It is also in effect in a number of other sections, Mr. Wigglesworth said.

The Levy Court, said Mr. Wigglesworth, is opposed to taxes that would work an additional hardship on owners of real estate and, for the same reason, objects to a bond issue, it be-

APPROVE MILK CONTROL LAW

State Dairymen Favor Control Act; Refer For Action To Legislative Committee

At a meeting of the Delaware Dairymen's Association held in Wolf Hall, University of Delaware, last Thursday a resolution was adopted favoring a milk control law and instructing the legislative committee of the association to prepare a bill carrying out that idea for presentation to the Legislature.

A discussion was held on the matter of legislative appropriations and the legislative committee was directed to confer with members of the Legislature concerning appropriations for the work of eradicating tuberculosis and Bangs disease from cattle in Delaware.

C. P. Hearn spoke on the point of view of the producers and distributors of milk in regard to a milk control bill. He said he favored a control bill modeled after that in force in Vermont which provides a board of three members to supervise, regulate and control the retail sale of milk.

Former State Senator Wallace Williams, of Maryland, told of the efforts being made in Maryland and the desire to have Delaware aid in obtaining milk control in this section.

Safety Council Sees Roller Skating As Possible Danger

Across the gray picture of Delaware's winter sports this year flashes the graceful but frequently hapless figures of the roller skater. About a year ago, according to the Delaware Safety Council, this activity abandoned its normal place as a child's sport and assumed new proportions as an adult fad. With a greatly increased number of persons bowling along the sidewalks and often the streets, at a speed permitted by ball bearings, the roller skating craze creates a new safety problem in practically every city and town in Delaware. Roller skating is ordinarily a summer activity and it is to the dismay of the city fathers, automobilists and pedestrians, continuing on into the winter months as a favorite sport.

In suggesting solutions for this problem the Council recommends that skaters refrain from using main streets and highways and from skating in business districts. Instead, adaptable sections of parks may be turned over to the skaters. Public school playgrounds may be made available or streets and residential districts may be roped off or barricaded.

PREMIUM LIST ANNOUNCED AT DEL. CROP SHOW

MEDAL SOUGHT FOR FIRE HERO

Posthumous Recognition For Mrs. Boulden Aim of Petition Sponsored By Post

"The Newark Post" is sponsoring the following petition:

"Whereas, Mrs. Julia Boulden, of Mooresville, near Newark, Delaware, displayed conspicuous heroism in plunging into a burning building to rescue her infant daughter and was so severely burned that she died on the evening of January 14, we the undersigned do hereby petition that said Mrs. Julia Boulden, deceased, be posthumously awarded a Carnegie Medal for Bravery."

It is the feeling of the "Post" that the sentiment of the people of Newark is that some recognition should be made of the heroic conduct of this gallant young woman in facing what was certain death in a vain attempt to rescue her child.

Although it is not definite that such an award will be made, it is the feeling of the sponsors of the petition that some such effort is not out of place in attempting to show the bereaved relations of the woman that her sacrifice is at least appreciated for what it was, and that their sorrow

MRS. J. BOULDEN AND BABY DIE AS HOME BURNS

Victims Dead Within Few Hours After Being Caught In Flaming Building

MOTHER BURNED IN TRY TO SAVE BABE

Fire took a double toll Monday, when Mrs. Julia Boulden, wife of David Boulden, Jr., of Mooresville, and her baby daughter, Caroline, died Monday evening as the result of burns received when their home caught on fire.

Mrs. Boulden left the baby in the kitchen of the home Monday and went to the home of her next door neighbor. A short time later she saw the house afire and dashed into the kitchen. The draft caused by her opening the door brought a blast of smoke and flames into her face, but she grasped the baby, who was already afire, and struggled out. By this time the firemen, who had been summoned by Miss Martha Wilson, had arrived on the scene. An oil stove was dragged outside and a hose brought in, but the place had practically burned down because of the terrible wind.

As Mrs. Boulden came out the door, her sister, Beatrice Moore, took the baby and one of the persons in the crowd took her into a car and rushed

CLUB FETES MRS. K. H. DAUGHERTY

County Home Demonstration Agent Guest At State Road Celebration

The members of the State Road Home Demonstration Club held a banquet in the State Road Chapel on Thursday evening, January 10th, for the purpose of boosting Home Demonstration Club Work in that community. All members and their husbands were present with the exception of two—these two having an important meeting to attend. Covers were laid for 60 people. The following toast was given by Mrs. W. H. McCoy to Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, county home demonstration agent, who has charge of club work in this county:

"Home Demonstration is our watchword.

Mrs. Daugherty is the key.

That opens the door

To a brighter vision

Of a better home for you and for me.

A home with many more comforts Than we ever expected to see, Of tasks made light Of walls so bright With no cost of extra fee.

Of furniture cleaned and polished, Of its originality, For supplies that's in store Also canned goods galore, In fact a home as it should be.

So let's drink to the health, Of our wonderful key, Lift the glasses up high, Clink with the one nearest by For her health, happiness and prosperity.

Mrs. Daugherty responded by stating that any key would be useless unless the door was found which it would open.

Cards were enjoyed after the banquet.

J. D. Crowley Has Had Wide Experience In Child Welfare Work

WAS PHARMACIST'S MATE IN GREAT WAR

John D. Crowley, of Cambridge, Mass., was elected Chef de Chemin de Fer (national commander) of the Forty and Eight, American Legion fun and honor society, at the organization's Promenade Nationale in Miami in October. His election followed years of activity in the Legion and the Forty and Eight during which he achieved national prominence in both organizations.

As chairman of the Forty and Eight's national child welfare committee for the years 1932-1933 and 1933-1934, Crowley directed a nationwide campaign against diphtheria which resulted in the immunization of a quarter of a million children against the disease the first year and double that number the second year. He also served as vice-chairman of the Legion's national child welfare committee in 1933-1934.

After discharge from 26 months World War service in the navy as chief pharmacist's mate, Crowley began his Legion activities as a charter member of Cambridge Post No. 27. He was elected to the Post executive committee the first year and has served continuously on this body ever since. In 1922 he was commander of the Post and in 1926 was elected vice commander of the Massachusetts department of the Legion. When the national convention was held in Boston in 1930, Crowley was executive secretary of the convention corporation. Elected department treasurer that year, he served until 1933.

Crowley began his child welfare work, in which he has made his most outstanding contribution to the Legion program, in 1920 when he became

ANNOUNCE DATE FOR UNIVERSITY ALUMNI DINNER

February 23 Set For Mid-Year Reunion: Dr. Wells, W. D. Smith, Stahley Will Speak

JOSEPH McVEY TO BE TOASTMASTER

February 23 will be the date for the annual Mid-Year Reunion of the Alumni Association of the University of Delaware. The event will be featured by a banquet and a basketball game. The basketball game will be with Dickinson, with whom athletic relations have only recently been resumed, and who has always been a popular rival.

The banquet will be held in Old College Hall at six o'clock. Rev. Charles Clash, an alumnus, will give the invocation. Mr. Clash was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at the Centenary Exercises last May. The toastmaster will be Joseph McVey, a Hercules Powder Company executive. The principal speaker will be Dr. George Harlan Wells, whose subject will be "The College Man and the New Deal." Dr. Wells is a prominent physician of Philadelphia and, with Mr. Clash, was one of the outstanding alumni who were honored with degrees last May, he was awarded a Doctorate of Medical Science. Coach Neil Stahley will speak on "Football at Delaware," and Secretary of State Walter Dent Smith will speak on a topic to be decided later. Secretary Smith has always been a leader in the Alumni Association.

DISCUSSION CRAFTS WORK FOR ART CLASS

Divide Period Into Two Parts; Hold Pottery Exhibit At Next Meeting Tomorrow

The Art Class sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association began Friday night, January 11, under Miss Gardner's supervision. Due to the fact that there were many who wished to do crafts and others, discussions, Miss Gardner said that she would work with those wishing crafts from 7 to 7:45 and the discussions for discussions were: Pottery, glass, textile, china, flower arrangement, furniture and rugs. Pottery was chosen for the next meeting and each one was asked to bring a piece to form an exhibit.

Keep in mind the regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association on January 31.

SOUTH OFFERS POSSIBLE SALE FOR POTATOES

Bureau Of Markets Offers
This Market As Potential
One For Farmers

PRICES SLIGHTLY

The Bureau of Markets, of the State Board of Agriculture, has received many inquiries from Delaware growers and shippers regarding a profitable outlet for white potatoes. In accordance therewith the Bureau of Markets has for some time been in communication with various sections of the United States endeavoring to find a market.

The total production of potatoes for the United States in 1934 was quite large and considerably more than last year. Maine had one of the largest crops in its history and large crops were produced in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. According to the estimate of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the production of white potatoes in Delaware in 1934 was 720,000 bushels as compared with 444,000 bushels in 1933.

From the information which has been received by the Bureau of Markets, it appears that at the present time there is a possible outlet for some Delaware potatoes in the South, particularly in the States of North Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and possibly Alabama. These States import a large percentage of the potatoes used during the winter months and at the present time are buying potatoes from other States. The price at which potatoes are being sold in these States is not large. Recent quotations showed that Maine white potatoes were selling in Atlanta, Ga., at $1.20 per hundred weight, whole sale. These potatoes are shipped from Maine by boat and rail at a freight rate of 77c per hundred weight. The freight rate on potatoes from the Dover section to Atlanta is 51c per hundred weight in car lots. This, of course, would mean a small price to the growers; however, it is somewhat above the nearby price at the present time.

Mr. W. T. Derickson, director of the Bureau of Markets, has a list of potato buyers in the States mentioned, who might be interested, and will be glad to supply a list of names to any Delaware growers or shippers who are interested. Delaware growers by all means should communicate with some buyers in the sections mentioned before shipping because it is entirely possible that there are many buyers in those sections who are not familiar with the redskin variety of potatoes which is produced here.

her to the Wilmington General Hospital. The baby was taken by Rumer to the Flower Hospital. From there she was driven by Ewing in the ambulance to the Wilmington General Hospital, where both mother and child died, the former at 9.30, and the baby preceding her at 5.30.

The Boulden home was almost completely destroyed by the fire, with a loss of about $1,000. It was at the end of a row of similar frame dwellings and only the high wind blowing away from these houses saved them from a general conflagration.

David Boulden, Jr., husband and father of the two victims, was at work in a plant in Chester. When the news reached him he rushed home immediately.

Mrs. Boulden was the daughter of George Moore, a contractor, who also lives in Mooresville, where he built a number of houses and from whom the section gets its name.

The firemen who extinguished the blaze believe it was caused by a wood stove in a corner of the room. This is explained by the fact that the draft was such that had the fire begun in the other direction it would not have spread toward the front of the house. The elevated construction of the house was such that the high wind caused a draft and fanned what might have been a mere spark into a terrible blaze.

The two victims will be buried together in a single coffin. The funeral will be private and will take place tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the Jones Funeral Parlor. Interment will be in Newark Cemetery.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Lay Plans For Anniversary Fete

The American Flag Council No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in their Council Chamber Monday evening. Routine business was transacted by retiring Councilor Richards. Elaborate plans are made for our anniversary next Monday evening in the New Century Club Building. It is hoped all Juniors regardless of Councils will join us that night. The program will consist of musical selections, comical sketches, tap dances and few short talks, after which we will entertain the inner man. Lady friends are welcomed.

Deputy Councilor Ulrich and twelve members from Winona Council were present and installed our new officers. Our new Councilor Durnall pledged his renewed loyalty to the Council and asked hearty support from one and all during his term.

Advices Pruning Of

Injured Peach Trees

Although very few peach trees in New Castle county were killed by the extremely low temperatures of February, 1934, many were injured to such an extent that special pruning is essential in order to insure maximum production in 1935. County Agricultural Agent, Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark, warns growers.

"Trees that made a rather weak growth during the summer of 1934 because of winter injury should not be pruned too severely this winter," he advises. "The best growth on such trees will be found in the tops and the weakest growth in the lower or more shaded portions of the tree. In pruning such trees the strong growth in the tops should be retained, even though it is somewhat higher than is generally considered desirable, and the weak twigs and branches should be removed. In other words, discard from weakness rather than from strength.

"Such trees should be pruned so that they may produce a maximum crop of fruit in 1935 regardless of form, height or general appearance. The 1934 growth on some winter-injured peach trees is so weak that it will not pay to prune the trees at all, with the possible exception of cutting off a few of the dead or broken branches. Such trees are not likely to survive more than one or two years and, it will not pay, consequently, to spend much time and money on them.

"Bearing trees that were not pruned at all last winter or which received a very light pruning, constitute a difficult problem at the present time. The growth on such trees will be rather short with the best fruiting wood well up in the tops. Severe or even normal pruning of these trees will greatly reduce fruit production in 1935. Therefore, it is recommended that they be given a light pruning this winter particularly as far as cutting back is concerned.

"The pruning of trees in this condition should be restricted to the removal of dead or very weak branches. Growers who are in doubt regarding the method to be followed in pruning their peach trees this winter are advised to consult County Agricultural Agent Willim, since in many orchards the proper procedure will be different than would be advisable under normal conditions."

LENIENCY

Every time leniency is shown to a law violator, more are encouraged to follow in his footsteps. Too many officers are too timid to do their duty. You would think by the weak-kneed actions of some officials when administering fines and punishment to criminals, that they were a party to the offense committed. Lord, give those who administer punishment to law violators the courage to do their duty! Cracking down on the offenders of the law is the only sure method of discouraging crime. Tribune, Albert Lea, Minn.

WASH STONE WALLS

Before painting, wash masonry with stone or brick with water to which has been added two per cent by volume of carbolic acid and follow up with the application of plain water with a stiff brush. The growth should come off easily under this treatment.

GILLESPIE'S CAGE SQUAD BACK IN TOP FORM; ADD TWO NEW WINS

Stave Off New Castle Rally To Nose Out Newark's Old Rivals

Newark High's basketball team battled their way to victory last Friday night over a stubbornly resisting New Castle squad. It was the thirty-third meeting of the two teams, and the home team's 27-23 victory is therefore all the sweeter.

Newark was the favorite from the start but although leading from the beginning of the game, were never too safely ahead. In the closing minutes a New Castle rally almost changed the story.

Captain Daly was high scorer for the locals and split the cards for four field goals and three fouls to total 11 points. E. George, with six points, was second scorer for Newark. Of the enemy, Newlove, with 12 points, and Russell, with eight, took individual scoring honors.

Toward the end of the game Newlove and Russell scored eight points in rapid succession to throw a scare into the Newarkers, but Daly and his boys from the hall under their own basket and kept their lead safe until the end.

JOHN GLOVER ELECTED CAPTAIN OF DELAWARE'S 1935 FOOTBALL TEAM; HUME LEADS SOCCERMEN

St. Joe Beats Cagers; Swimmers Bow To Pittsburgh; Fencers Defeat Johns Hopkins; Baseball Schedule Announced

BALTIMORE CAGERS HERE SATURDAY

John Glover, '36, was elected to captain in the 1935 football team by this year's lettermen at a banquet given them by President Hulihan Tuesday night at the "Knoll." He succeeds Ed Thompson.

Glover has been a member of the squad since he was a freshman, but did not earn his letter until this past season. The year before he broke his ankle in the Drexel game in mid-season and thus could not earn his insignia.

Jack has been a regular all this season at halfback and has displayed plenty of pep and fight. He has more "drive" than any other man on the team and should make a good captain.

The lettermen present at the dinner were: Ed Thompson, Wilson, Worrell, Joseph Crowe, Ed. Kirschner, Joe Zavala, Dick Roberts, Joe Seannell, Charlie Gouert, John Carey, Olaf Drowdz, Jack Glover, Ralph O'Connell, Jack Hodgson, Jim Dillon, Charles Schwartz and Manager James Nichols. Frank Herkness was unable to attend as he has been forced to withdraw from school.

Other guests were Mr. J. Pierce Cann, Captain Ephraim P. Jolls, Prof. J. Fenton Daugherty, "Doc" Gerald P. Doherty and Coach Neil Stahley.

President Hulihan spoke informally stressing the desirability of playing schools of Delaware's own size and having close games, rather than aiming for an undefeated season or playing larger schools.

Coach Neil Stahley praised the boys for their work this year, and while not expecting anything like a perfect record next year, he expressed the opinion that there would be a marked improvement over this year.

Prof. J. Fenton Daugherty spoke on the effect of football and baseball in the decade from 1920-30 in interesting the American public in participating more themselves in other athletic games.

Cagers Meet P. M. C. Friday
Friday night the Blue Hen Five meets their ancient rivals, P. M. C. at Chester, Pa.

P. M. C. has defeated Haverford, while Haverford trounced Delaware, but the Dohertyites have been improving rapidly in their last few games and should give the bigger cadet team a hard battle.

The probable starting line for the Blue and Gold will be Captain "Irish" O'Connell and Charlie Pie as forward, Tom Pennock, center, and Jim Prettyman and "Buck" Lacy, guards.

Baltimore Here Saturday
Saturday the University of Baltimore will come to Newark to meet the Delaware cage squad. Baltimore gave the strong Navy team a hard fight early in the season. This will be the last game before mid-year's.

Take Friends School By 46-15 For Third Straight 1935 Victory

Wilmington Friends School was soundly trounced Tuesday by Newark's smoothly working cage combine. Daly, with 18 points, scored enough to lick the Quakers single-handed. The half score was 24-10 and the Newarkers were never in danger.

Jack Lewis was high scorer for Friends, with six points. E. George, with nine points, and Egnor with eight, were runners-up to Daly for local honors.

The score:

Nov. 16—Drexel, away.
Nov. 23—Lebanon Valley, home.

Home Modernization Plan Arouses National Interest

Industries producing capital goods, that have suffered most during the depression, "now appreciate the immense business opportunities presented by the National Housing Act to every line of manufacture and merchandising interested in building, equipping and decorating American homes," Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett said in a radio broadcast Sunday night, January 13.

"Reports coming daily from the field tell of city after city where, because of the modernization campaign, all of the plumbers, carpenters, painters and electricians are back at work," he added, "and of states where thousands have been taken off the relief rolls; of factories working overtime, in some instances even triple shifts."

The local campaigns, he declared, demonstrated forcefully that every homeowner cherishes a dream of how his or her home can be improved and the household made more comfortable. They are learning of "the almost unlimited variety of opportunities to add beauty and efficiency and that under present day conditions the small home can have all the conveniences found in the larger residences of the past."

NOT OVERLY SHOCKED

The United States was not overly shocked at President Roosevelt's statement that our public debt might reach 31 billion dollars by 1935. It is only $250 per capita, while France today owes nearly $500 per capita, and Great Britain owes nearly $900 per capita. Owning $250 apiece to ourselves can be taken care of without serious worry in this great and rich country.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FURBER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago) & Western New Yorker Union

Lesson for January 20

PETER'S LESSON IN HUMBLE SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:1-17; 1 Peter 5:5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Lukewise, ye younger submit yourselves unto the elder. Ye, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility; for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.—1 Peter 5:5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Washed Peter's Feet.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Learned a New Lesson.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Unity of Lewis Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving Christ Through Serving Others.

I. Christ's Amazing Love for His Own (vv. 1-13).

Jesus was fully conscious of what was immediately before him. He knew that the cross, with all its shame and anguish, was upon him; he knew that his disciples would shamefully forsake him in a few hours; he knew that one of that number would be the instrument in the hands of the devil in his betrayal; he was fully conscious of his Deity; he knew that all things were in his hands. He did not withdraw his love from them because of their weakness and the shameful failure which he knew would soon be made manifest. He not only loved them to the end of his earthly ministry, but loved them unto the "uttermost." The word "end" means "utmost." Love to the uttermost therefore means that he bestowed upon them his love, even to the extent of taking their place in death.

II. Christ Washing the Disciples' Feet (vv. 4-11).

He did not regard his hands too holy to do this menial service. The true Christian does not allow his rank in society to keep him from acts of lowly service.

1. Steps in this service (vv. 4-6).

a. He rose from supper.

b. Laid aside his garments.

c. Took a towel and girded himself.

d. Poured water into a basin.

e. Washed his disciples' feet.

f. Wiped them with the towel where-with he was girded.

These steps symbolize Christ's entire work of redemption. His rising from supper represents his rising from his place of enjoyment in the heavenly glory. His laying aside his garments symbolized his putting aside his vesture of majesty (Phil. 2:7, 8). His girding himself symbolized his taking the form of a servant (Phil. 2:7). The water in the basin symbolized his cleansing blood; his washing of the disciples' feet, his actual cleansing of them through his word (John 15:3; Eph. 5:26); his taking his garments again, his returning to his place and position in glory.

2. Peter's impetuous ignorance (vv. 6-9).

When he realized what the Lord was doing, he refused to have his feet washed; when he realized the peril of refusal, he desired to be fully washed.

3. The significance of this service to those participating in it (vv. 8-11).

a. It is a spiritual cleansing (v. 8). Fellowship with Jesus is possible only as we are continuously cleansed from our sins (v. 10). The cleansing there is not the washing of regeneration, but that of sanctification. He that is regenerated, that is, washed in the blood of Christ (symbolized by baptism) does not need a repetition of the act; he only needs the cleansing of sanctification, symbolized by the washing of the feet. After regeneration the believer is contaminated by his sins as he walks through this world. Christ's blood cleanses of all sins those who confess them.

b. A badge of brotherly affection (v. 14).

This act showed Christ's abandonment to the service of his disciples. It is a lesson much needed today. We need more and more to practice brotherly love.

c. An expression of humility (v. 15).

This was a lesson much needed by the disciples, and much needed by us today. They had just been disputing as to who should be the greatest in the kingdom. Thus their selfish ambition was expressing itself. On every hand we see manifestations of pride, vanity, and even arrogance, of those who are professed followers of the lowly Jesus.

d. Equalization (v. 16).

The disciples thus stooping to serve each other in the name of Jesus Christ will have burned out of them the caste spirit.

III. An Example for Us (vv. 14-17).

The disciples of the Lord are under solemn obligation in the spirit of humility to serve each other, even as Christ served his disciples. This obligation rests upon his Lordship (v. 14). To refuse obedience to him is to set oneself above his Lord. The way to happiness is implicit obedience to the Lord.

Mrs. Julia Boulden—In Memoriam

Last Monday, there passed away another of America's unsung heroes—Mrs. Julia Boulden—a Mother. For her there will be no Congressional recognition. No long string of notables will follow her funeral cortege to the grave. Yet her deed, in plunging into a veritable inferno, into almost certain death, to rescue her baby girl, is every bit as great an act of courage as any heroic deed recorded in the annals of history.

Mere words cannot express the depth of sympathy we offer the bereaved husband and father whose loss is rendered all the greater by the youth of the victim; she was only 19 years old. We hope that time will act as a mellowing influence on the mark this tragedy has made on their lives, and that sometime they will be able to look back with only sorrow and not pain, and to feel pride in having had with them, if only for so brief a time, one who so richly deserves the great title—A Mother and a Hero.

Safety Moves

Some very good motions were passed by the Delaware Safety Council at its last meeting. One reads:

"That in order to reduce the automobile accident toll in this State the Council requests the Motor Vehicle Commissioner to cause an examination to be made of all vehicle operators reported by the police as being involved in an accident or convicted of reckless driving to determine if they are qualified to continue operating a motor vehicle."

There is no doubt as to the probable efficacy of such a procedure. It is not known whether this suggestion will be put into force in the near future, since it is questionable whether the Motor Vehicle Commissioner has the right to compel such action without being so empowered by new legislation.

Another motion passed was:

"That all garages and service repair stations be required to submit a daily report of all cars repaired in their establishments to the Motor Vehicle Commissioner, these reports to be checked against police accident records."

We would suggest that in conjunction with this move that some penalty be imposed for failure to make out this Accident Report. The same requirement should be made of firms operating fleets of trucks which they garage and care for themselves, and also of junk dealers, to prevent the escaping of a man whose car has been so severely damaged that he might dispose of it to avoid detection.

We also note that at the meeting last Friday of the Public Accidents Committee, the courtesy card suggested in a recent issue of The Newark Post met with favorable discussion but no action was taken. It is very likely that it will be brought up at the next meeting of that body on Friday, February 5.

The Committee has two safety movies which will be projected in all theaters in Delaware. One is a three-color technicolor cartoon called "Once Upon a Time," which is a takeoff on the famous "Three Little Pigs." The other is called "Saving Seconds." Both will be seen in Newark in the near future.

A One House Assembly

Representative Sigmund Schorr, of Wilmington, has proposed an amendment to the State Constitution to provide for a one-house assembly instead of the bicameral system we have at present. He suggests that thirty-five members be elected from the present representative districts—in other words, making the present House of Representatives supreme and eliminating the State Senate. He would have the legislators paid a regular annual salary of $500, so that conditions causing a special session would not work a financial hardship on the taxpayers. A limit of $15,000 is placed as the sum to be expended for salaries and allowances for officers and employees for any one session of the Assembly.

Representative Schorr's amendment is similar to the one which Senator George Norris had added to the State Constitution of Nebraska. We believe it is a very worthwhile idea, and thoroughly practical. From an economic point of view, the stated salaries for legislators and the limit on moneys to be expended for attaches would prevent each successive session of the Legislature from being another repetition of a "job-grab" by the party in power.

Most of the actual legislation is made by conference committees composed of members of both houses. This bill would obviate the necessity for such waste of time and money, inasmuch as the various committees would present to the unicameral legislature the finished product, and a bill once passed would be ready for the governor's signature.

We hate to suggest any flaw in what we believe on the whole to be so thoroughly commendable a project, but we don't see any reason for the minimum age of twenty-seven for membership. Surely, if twenty-five years of age is the minimum for the National House of Representatives, the same age should be adequate to insure proper representation. There is little danger of any representative district sending a representative too immature to represent them.

But this criticism does not prevent us from saying, for the bill in general, "Good work, Representative Schorr—we hope it goes through."

Our Contemporaries Say:

A Worthwhile Government Program

(From the National Industrial Review)

The recent proposal that railroad grade-crossing elimination be made a part of federal relief work during the current year is finding increasing support.

It is supported by safety authorities, who know that such a program would do much to reduce and eventually eliminate the great loss of life due to crossing accidents. It is supported by railroad men, who know that it would expedite and improve service. It is supported by state governments, which realize the need for crossing elimination but have no funds to devote to it. And it is supported by the general public and the business man who knows that no form of public works could do more to take up the slack in employment and stimulate heavy industries while at the same time not interfering with any private endeavors.

This last phase of the proposal is not especially important, inasmuch as federal funds are disbursed with the principal stress laid on getting maximum employment for each dollar spent and encouraging private enterprise. In grade crossing elimination, the greatest part of the money would go to workers, both on the job and in factories supplying cement, steel and other materials. And the revivifying effect of this would give impetus to employment.

Safety, employment and public welfare will all be advanced if the government accepts the proposal. There are some 30,000 grade crossings which have no protection—and each year thousands of lives are unnecessarily wasted because of accidents occurring at them. Here the government has an opportunity to be of the utmost service to all the people.

STATE MAY GET OVER MILLION FOR WATERWAYS

Army Engineers Recommend
$1,593,000 Expenditure
To Government

ASK $200,000 FOR
WILMINGTON HARBOR

The recommendation that the Federal government spend $200,000 on the Wilmington harbor during the year beginning July 1 as part of a total of $1,593,500, recommended for maintenance and improvement of waterways in and around the State during the same period was sent to Congress by the chief of army engineers.

Money For Dredging

It is understood here most of the money recommended for the Wilmington harbor will be spent on dredging.

Of the total, $1,000,000 is recommended for work on the Delaware River from Philadelphia to the sea; $300,000 for work on the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal and $200,000 for work in Wilmington harbor.

Of the money proposed for the river $950,000 would be spent on the operation and repairs of the hopper dredges Delaware, Manhattan, New Orleans, and Rossell on the pipeline dredges Alabama, Gillespie and Huston, and on the government dredging plan, while $50,000 would be spent for channel examinations and operation of tide changes.

The money proposed for Wilmington harbor would be spent on maintenance dredging, as required through the year.

The report lists the total spent by the Federal government on the Wilmington harbor project since its inauguration in 1896 as $3,853,424 of which $924,356 was for new work and $2,929,068 was for maintenance.

The project is complete, the report says, except for the construction of the remaining portion of the south jetty by the city of Wilmington or other local agency, and the widening and deepening of the inner basin.

The $300,000 proposed for work on the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal would be spent in dredging in the extension of the north side dike to St. Georges and miscellaneous repairs.

An application for $12,500,000 for the enlargement of the canal to permit it to accommodate ocean vessels has been pending before the public Works Administration for over a year.

Sums recommended for other waterways include:

Smyrna River, $18,000; St. James River, $18,000; Murderkill River $12,000; Mispillion River, $10,000; Ocean City harbor and Sinepuxent Bay, $30,000; and inland waterway from Chincoteague Bay, Va., to Delaware Bay, $500.

New CCC Members

The Relief Commission, Inc., has sent a contingent of 130 Wilmington youths to the Federal CCC camps at Lewes and Slaughter's Beach. The commission was authorized to enroll the men for the Delaware Camps to be sent there as replacements for those whose enlistments expired on January 1.

The new men will remain at the camp for six months.

There is so much demand among unemployed young men here to attend the camps that none is allowed to return for a second period as could be done at first. The men are taken from the relief rolls as far as possible and after that are taken from families who are likely to be placed on the rolls later.

A new type of wall board is available now that can be applied over curved surfaces. It can be cut with an ordinary saw and nailed without drilling.

PRODUCTION OF HOGS IN 1935 UNDER CONTROL

AAA Officials Analyze
Present And Future
Demand Conditions

COUNTY AGENT WILLIM
MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Control over hog production, to enable producers to hold the gains they have made through their production adjustment program, will be necessary in 1935, reports County Agricultural Agent Ed Willim, Jr. This necessity, he declares, is shown by the existing and probable future demand conditions which AAA officials have analyzed.

"Hog production in 1935 is held necessary to prevent undue increases on farms where feed for expansion will be available," he says, "and to insure against excessive farrowing in all areas in the fall of 1935."

"A change in the percentage of hog adjustment in 1935 was required to help offset additional reductions in hog numbers made this year because of drought, but a material re-expansion in hog production is not yet warranted by existing demand conditions."

"Foreign demand continues at a low level. Exports of pork from the United States showed a slight increase in 1934, but large exports declined. Annual shipments abroad remain at about 750,000,000 pounds as compared with nearly 2,000,000,000 pounds in the early post-war period."

"In the domestic market, there is no immediate prospect of an increase in effective demand sufficient to warrant large increases in hog numbers or corn acreage. Re-employment and increases in incomes of consumers will improve capacity of consumers to pay more for pork products but material increases in the actual requirements of these products is not expected. The domestic per capita consumption of pork and lard has continued at a high level since before the depression."

E 52 Class To Give Unique Display Of Stage Models

Scenes From 15 Popular Plays To Be Shown On Miniature Pyramid
Stage In Library

What will probably be one of the most unique exhibitions ever to be given at the University of Delaware will be given in the Memorial Library during the month of February.

The exhibition will go under the title of "The Stage Is Set." Unlike most exhibitions, this will be a movable one. The scene will be changed thrice weekly.

Fifteen scenes from the most popular and best of modern plays will appear from time to time throughout the month, on Mitchell Hall stage—in miniature. Each scene will remain up for two days, only to be changed to make way for another in this kaleidoscopic survey of the modern stage. Here may be seen your favorite plays, "Holiday," "Berkeley Square," "Christopher Bean," "R. U. R.," "The Perfect Alibi," "Dangerous Corner," "The Green Cockatoo," and others.

The stage sets are the work of the students who are just completing their work in the course in Play Production. The possibility of having a committee select from the sets the best two or three for display at several other places in Newark and Wilmington is being considered.

In addition to the exhibition of stage sets there will be put on display other interesting items connected in some way with the general field of dramatics.

The exhibition will open on registration day, Monday, February 4, and will be changed each Wednesday, Friday and Monday thereafter.

NEWARK

10 YEARS AGO

The people of Newark, at a Town Meeting, approved the state-wide school building program proposed by P. S. duPont.

Fire Chief Elliason got his first big chance in fighting a dangerous fire in the Maxwell building on Main street. The only casualties noted were two black cats, who well suffocated by smoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lewis were receiving congratulations on the birth of a baby son, Charles Jackson.

20 YEARS AGO

Newark was honored by a visit from the Legislature on its annual tour of inspection of the University of Delaware.

A report on the Town Library listed 3184 books therein.

Aid for the upkeep of the Astor, Hook and Laddes Company was asked from the Legislature.

A letter to the Editor suggested that Newark's new policeman be used to "clean up" the drunks on Main street Saturday night.

FRENCH TALKIE ON FEBRUARY 7

Modern Language Department
To Sponsor Movies
In State Theatre

On February 7, at 4:15 p. m., the French Department will present a second French Talking Picture in the State Theatre. L'Ami Fritz, a play by Erkmann and Chatrian, two Nineteenth century French writers will be the feature, supplemented by a short: Au Pays de Lamartine.

These films are presented as a non-commercial venture. They have been imported from France by Harvard University and rented out to other colleges at cost. Last year, because of the support of various high schools, some profit was made and was put aside as a reserve for future productions. Merimée's Columba was last year's presentation.

Although this year's production is not so well-known as was last year's, it is, according to Professor Byam, an exceedingly interesting, enjoyable and worth-while picture.

To assist the audience in understanding the story of the feature, synopsis will be mimeographed and passed out. The difficulty experienced last year in translating the dialogue will thus be alleviated.

Bar Group For Judge Of Common Pleas Court

The New Castle County Bar Association, at a special meeting in the Public Building, approved a bill to be introduced in the General Assembly to create certain classes of minor infractions of criminal laws in the county outside of Wilmington.

Drawn up by a committee headed by James R. Morford, the bill would empower the Common Pleas Court to entertain pleas of guilty in criminal cases. The judge would be appointed by the Governor at a salary of $5,000 annually. The work of the court would in no way interfere with the present Municipal Court.

Other business comprised re-election of present officers of the bar association for another year, comprising Herbert H. Ward, Jr., president; John J. Morris, Jr., vice-president; and William H. Bennethum, III, secretary and treasurer.

PLAN CELEBRATION FOR DR. S. C. MITCHELL

Former President of University of Delaware Honored on 70th Birthday

Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, former president of the University of Delaware from 1914 to 1920, will sail for Europe and the Orient for seven months' study and observation at the end of January. On January 23 a dinner will be given in honor of his seventieth birthday and his sailing. The occasion will be held at Richmond, Va.

The University of Delaware is joining with the University of Richmond, the Medical College of Virginia, and the University of South Carolina as an appreciation of Dr. Mitchell's work by participating in the occasion.

Dr. Mitchell is professor of history and of political science at the University of Richmond.

Mitchell Hall is named after Dr. Mitchell.

Chicken Potpie Supper

The Ladies' Aid of the Newark M. E. Church, will hold a chicken potpie supper in the dining room of the church on Thursday evening, January 31, from 5:30 to 8:00.

Newark New Century Club News

At the meeting on Monday, January 21, Mrs. C. O. Houghton will review the book, "A Hundred Million Guinea Pigs," by Kallet and Schlink—a timely and interesting book which is attracting the attention of many readers.

Mrs. Carl Rees, talented soloist will give solo numbers.

The Program Committee has planned attractive programs during the first half of the year, and next week's meeting should prove interesting to club members and friends.

Mrs. Claude Hearn and her committee members have capably directed the programs for the first half of the year. Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty will be chairman for the second half of the year, starting with the first February meeting.

The Program Committee is composed of the following persons: Mrs. Claude Hearn, Chairman; Mrs. F. A. Wheelers, Mrs. W. A. Williams, Mrs. J. Irvin Dayette, Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty, Mrs. G. W. Schmitt, Mrs. R. O. Bauman.

Mrs. Louis A. Stearns is holding a committee meeting today, (Thursday) at her home on Delaware Avenue, when plans will be discussed for the Spring State Convention to be held in Newark, on May 15 and 16.

Mrs. F. A. Wheelers, state director, Mrs. Louis A. Stearns, president of The Newark New Century Club, Mrs. E. Middleton Hanson, first vice-president, of The Newark New Century Club, and others, will attend the state Directors' meeting to be held at Dover on January 24. Plans will be made at this meeting for the convention in Newark on May 15, 16.

Film Problem Solved by N.Y.-Hollywood Call

ANNA MAY WONG

The picture had been completed. Anna May Wong, the star, had left Hollywood and was in New York, en route to England.

Then, during the first studio preview of the film, it developed that some of Miss Wong's lines would have to be changed. Perplexing as it seemed, the predicament did not confound studio officials. Mechanical experts set up a telephonic recording device in Hollywood. Director Al Hall called Miss Wong in New York and, after coaching her briefly in her new lines, asked her to utter them over the telephone. She did; the 17 words were recorded perfectly and then stripped into the sound track of the film. Thus the problem was solved at about the cost of a five-minute telephone connection with New York.

MEETING HOUSE HILL

Article XXVII

By FRANCIS A. COOCH

Copyright 1935

Outside of Wilmington, smug and self-satisfied, almost everyone in New Castle County north of the Canal, knows Polly Drummond's Hill, but how few of these have any idea of the fact that for perhaps ninety years before this estimable woman was born, it was known as Meeting House Hill, and that of its known history of not less than two hundred and thirteen years, Polly, for less than seventeen years, owned in part the little property at the summit of the hill which has since borne her name.

Around this elevation there are, as elsewhere, certain deeply rooted traditions, some of which because of the lapse of years, cannot be established and at least one of which, beyond question, is erroneous, viz.:—that it is the highest point in Delaware. This statement is based on information given me by the most accurate man I know, who gives the height of Meeting House Hill at 50 feet west of the cross roads as 293 feet; of Iron Hill as 330 feet; Fairview Road in front of Richard G. Buckingham's as 343.29 feet and Centerville—highest point in the State, 432 feet, which ought to dispose of the first claim, if it had not been disposed of so often heretofore. The United States Geological Survey of 1904, establishes the elevation at the cross roads as 290 feet and what is more interesting, that at Milford X Roads as 312 feet. It is probable that the unobstructed view in all directions from the summit of the hill, not common to the other locations, gives an impression of height not shared by the other elevations.

In just what year the congregation of White Clay Creek Church was organized is unknown. Among those present at the first meeting of the Presbytery of New Castle, the 13th day of March, 1716/7, was "Mr. George Gillespie of Christiana Creek." He was ordained pastor of Head of Christiana in 1713 but it was on June 20th, 1907, that this congregation celebrated the 200th anniversary of its organization.

Of the White Clay Creek congregation, no mention appears on the minutes of the Presbytery until August 1, 1721, when it was reported "that James Moorhead, a wandering imposter (who was publicly disowned by an order and Act of our last Synod), doth intrude upon some of Mr. Gillespie's people and others between White Clay Creek and Red Clay Creeks; it is therefore by this Presbytery appointed that Mr. McGill shall preach to said people upon the 3d Sabbath of this instant, August, and he shall read to said people the above Act of the Synod and admonish said people to beware of the said Moorhead." Mr. McGill did this and reported back at a meeting held a few weeks later.

Reading this in Dr. Mackey's, History of White Clay Creek Church, I was inclined to be a bit sympathetic with James Moorhead or Morehead as he is called sometimes, until I read the minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia, of September 22, 1720, and September 22, 1721. It seems that James Moorhead, was not only contumacious but further than that, his credentials were "false" and his conduct "scandalous." The people of White Clay Creek had written a letter of protest to the Synod, to which, a written reply was sent by Mr. John Thompson who was ordered to "preach at White Clay Creek and to read said letter to said people with all the conclusions of the Synod relating to the said Moorhead."

From this I conclude and in this opinion I am supported by Dr. Mackey, that the congregation was organized, though perhaps not regularly, at an earlier period and that there was a meeting house there for public worship before 1721. At that period the Scotch-Irish Presbyterians because of religious and political differences were coming to America in great numbers and they brought their religion with them.

From time to time, on orders of the Presbytery, May 2, and October 5, 1722, the people were supplied, intermittently, it must be admitted by Messrs. Hook, Gillespie and McGill. On March 12, 1723, Rev. Robert Laing was appointed to preach at White Clay Creek and Brandywine, alternately.

June 5, 1723, "Appointed that our next Presbytery to meet at White Clay Creek meeting house the first Wednesday of August next." Of this Dr. Mackey says, "This is the first mention of a church building belonging to the congregation."

Because of a great "fresh" in the White Clay Creek, Presbytery did not meet on the day appointed, but did meet on the 13th of August, when poor Mr. Laing was rebuked by the Moderator and suspended from preaching until the next meeting of Presbytery for having been guilty of profaning the Lord's day by washing himself in a creek. Considering how small were the houses and how few the conveniences of that day, I feel he should have been commended. Anyhow, after Mr. Laing had appealed to the Synod, giving the excuse "that he was in bad health and had sought relief by the water cure," the Synod removed the sentence, but rebuked him again. However, Mr. Laing's ill health continued and in 1726, he passed out of the picture, but meanwhile in 1724 the pulpit was supplied again by Rev. Daniel McGill.

February or March, 1724, Rev. Thomas Craighead, lately come from Scotland, accepted a call from representatives of White Clay Creek, which Presbytery approved. Mr. Craighead to supply Brandywine every third Sabbath. Although he was not installed until September 22d following, he served the congregation, apparently acceptably, for nine years and that the congregation must have grown is evidenced by the fact that in 1728 the church asked Presbytery for the whole of his time.

Mr. Craighead was the son of Rev. Robert Craighead, himself a minister of renown, born in Scotland but who had been a pastor in Ireland for thirty years.

Thomas Craighead had studied medicine, married the daughter of a Scotch Laird, who must have been a woman of considerable attainment, and later he had heard and followed the call to the ministry. Not only were this couple worthy of their forbears, but further than that, they were the progenitors of a long line of men and women distinguished in the ministry, in law and in other walks of life and as patriots, renowned in the service of their country.

A grandson, Rev. John Craighead, Jr., the first regular pastor of the Rocky Spring Presbyterian Church in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, received notice in an earlier article.

A granddaughter, Ann Craighead, married Rev. Alexander McDowell, who brought New London Academy to Newark.

A sketch of the life of Colonel George Craighead, born 1733, brother of Ann Craighead, in "A Genealogical Memoir of the Craighead Family" (1876), has it that he was an officer in the French and Indian War and in the Revolutionary War as well; "a judge and an elder in the Lower Brandywine Presbyterian Church and Speaker of the Council at the adoption of the Federal Constitution."

Unfortunately, these claims are not fully substantiated. Dr. Mackey, who should know, says that Colonel George Craighead was an elder of White Clay Creek Church, while James Latimer, of New Castle County, was president of the Convention for ratifying the Federal Constitution of which body, Colonel Craighead was not even a member. We recall that the Delaware Convention ratified the Constitution December 7, 1787.

At the same time, the records of the Levy Court of New Castle County, show that George Craighead was a member of that body from November 23, 1784, until December 26, 1792; October 20, 1784, he was elected to the State Senate from New Castle County and in 1786 was Speaker of the Senate.

Even if not one hundred per cent accurate, the Memoir of the Craighead Family fills one with admiration; the family itself is comparable with the well known Edwards family and impresses one with the claims made for heredity.

It is well too, for us to remember Captain Robert Kirkwood, also a son of this church, but we should not forget his near neighbor, Colonel George Craighead, who served his State in peace as well as in war. He removed to Western Pennsylvania in 1795.

Following the departure of Thomas Craighead in October, 1733, there appears to have been no regular pastor in charge of the White Clay Creek Church until 1737, when Rev. Charles Tennent, a member of another very distinguished family became its pastor. He was one of four sons of Rev. William Tennent, Sr., whose famed "Log College," was the precursor of Princeton College, of New Jersey, and each of whose sons entered the Presbyterian ministry.

It was during the ministry of Charles Tennent that two notable events took place, viz.:—the preaching of George Whitefield and the great Schism of 1741. Of the first, I quote from Bernard Fay's "Franklin." Speaking of the rather anomalous friendship existing between the free thinking, Benjamin Franklin, and the stern evangelist, George Whitefield, he says, "A Philadelphia correspondent sent the following note which appeared in the Boston News Letter for December 6, 1739: 'On Sunday at White Clay Creek he preach'd twice, resting an hour between sermons to about 8,000 people; of whom about 3,000 'tis computed came on horseback. It rain'd most of the time, and yet he stood in the open air.'"

When one considers that at this time the very few roads in Mill Creek and in the adjoining Hundreds or Townships, were little more than Indian trails, the presence of even one-half of the number would give remarkable testimony as to the magnetism of Whitefield.

There are in the neighborhood of Meeting House Hill a number of houses, which in whole or in part must have been standing for more than two hundred years. I wonder in which one of them he was entertained; the Montgomeries, the Craigheads, the Kirkwoods or by the pastor himself.

Again and again I have tried to picture the scene on that day, in late November and this fiery young John-the-Baptist, preaching in the rain to thousands of listeners. He was not then twenty-five years of age. Did he stand on the summit of the hill, his great audience below him or did he stand near the church in the cup like depression between this hill and the slightly lower elevation to the East. Dr. Mackey says that it was a four day meeting and the services were held in a large tent, but I am inclined to accept contemporary testimony, although he cites the word of one "who was one of the subjects of the revival and appeared to be an eminently pious woman." He is said to have had a powerful voice and as told that when he preached at Second and Market Streets, Philadelphia, he could be heard clearly in Camden, no doubt he could be heard by all his listeners.

Not everyone favored Mr. Whitefield and Dr. Mackey says that when he returned to White Clay Creek in 1740, some opposers being present he took great pleasure in singing the 23d Psalm:—

"My table thou has furnished,
In presence of my foes;
My head thou dost with oil anoint,
And my cup overflows."

After the Palace Beautiful, came the Valley of Humiliation. Not only were most of the pastors of the nearby communities out of sympathy with the evangelistic preaching of Whitefield, but this feeling was shared by many of Charles Tennent's congregation as well.

Alas, the preaching of these eighteenth century revivalists, resulted in more than the revival of religion from the low ebb to which it had fallen. It was through this very preaching that came the great schism that rent asunder many congregations of really fine people and caused them to act toward one another in a most unchristian manner, even to the point of physical violence.

Charles Tennent went with the New Side and for ten years or more, the dissension continued until finally on May 25, 1752, his supporters purchased from Joseph England, Miller, the lot on which the present building stands, the deed being taken in the names of William Steel, John Deal, William McGree, James McMechen, David English, Evan Rice, William Galogher, Neal Morrison, William McMechen, Charles Black, Robert Boggs and Hugh Randalls, "members of the Presbyterian congregation whereof the Reverend Mr. Charles Tennent is at present pastor." According to the survey the lot contained two acres and one hundred perches. It was sold for the consideration of $13-8-2d.

The disunion of the Old and New Sides, a long story, was terminated at the first meeting of the re-united Presbytery May 29, 1759, but I fancy there were many old sores of a personal nature that remained unhealed and on March 2, 1763, Presbytery dissolved the pastoral relation.

Meanwhile in about the year 1742, the Rev. Mr. Hamilton, wisely enough, had declined a call from the Old Side. Again in 1743 Rev. Alexander McDowell, who was pastor of the Old Side congregation at Elk River, (Lewisville, Pennsylvania), was invited to preach here in addition to his other charges and on December 17, 1755, Rev. William McKenna, pastor of Red Clay Creek Church, was ordained as the pastor here in addition to his other pastoral duties. He seems to have been the last preacher invited to the charge on Meeting House Hill and there appears to have been no formal dissolution of the pastoral relation.

But what about the title to the land on which the old church or rather the two early churches were built, for it must be understood that the church built at the foot of the hill in 1752 was the third house of worship for the White Clay Creek congregation and the present edifice, the fourth, was built in 1855.

February 8, 1724, Rev. Thomas Craighead, "Minister of the Gospel at White Clay Creek Meeting House," purchased 402 acres of land from Jonathan Evans, for the consideration of 242 pounds, 7 shillings, lawful silver money of the Government. It seems cheap enough and Thomas Craighead must have thought so for he had not yet given formal acceptance of the call.

April 10, 1727, for the consideration of "one pepper-corn yearly if demanded," he sold one acre, out of the 402 acres, to John Montgomery, William McMechen, William Steel, William Nevin, Hugh Clark and Josiah Ramage, Trustees, for the use of the people called Presbyterians belonging to the Presbytery meeting at White Clay Creek.

February 5, 1740, John Montgomery, Hugh Clark and William Steel, for the consideration of five shillings, conveyed this property to "James McMechen, of White Clay Creek Hundred, William McGaughey, William Nevin, Alexander Montgomery, David Nevin and William Coughran of Miln Creek Hundred, members of the Presbyterian meeting in the said Miln Creek Hundred, as Trustees."

The schism took place in 1741, and on October 20th of that year, for the consideration of eight pounds, Samuel Corry conveyed to John Montgomery, Alexander Montgomery, William Nevin, Thomas Gray, Robert Kirkwood, Hugh Clark, Robert Smith and William McDowell, members of the Presbyterian meeting at White Clay Creek, one-half acre of land whose beginning is "a Corner of the old Presbyterian Meeting House Land." The deed reserves unto Margaret Craighead widow of Thomas Craighead, House Carpenter and to her heirs for ever a pew in the Presbyterian Meeting House on the said half acre of Land erected. There is the further condition that it is "to the only and proper use and behoof of the congregation of Presbyterians of White Clay Creek Meeting, they continuing in and firmly adhering to the Presbyterian persuasion, Discipline, and constitution of the Kirk of Scotland and to the use of no other religious society, church or Persuasion whatsoever."

There must have been some question as to the validity of the deed, for on February 22, 1752, Samuel Corry for the sum of five pounds conveyed the same half acre of ground with the Meeting House thereon erected, to Thomas Grey, Robert Montgomery, John Crossan, Robert Kirkwood, William Carson and Samuel Corry, Jr. It appears from this deed that the title of Samuel Corry was defective and that on August 10, 1741, he had repurchased the lot from Margaret Craighead, administratrix of Thomas Craighead, deceased, at Orphan's Court sale and it took ten and one-half years for the Old Side to get control of it again.

December 8, 1772, fourteen years after the reunion in 1758, Robert Montgomery and Robert Kirkwood, surviving trustees, conveyed both tracts of land with the Meeting House thereon erected "to Doctor William McMechen, Evan Rice, John Nevin, Alexander Montgomery, Attorney, Samuel Crossan and Archibald Homes" as Trustees for the united congregation.

A deed from Thomas Montgomery to Blair McClenahan, dated June 26, 1779, and a deed from Blair McClenahan and wife to Thomas Montgomery, dated March 25, 1786, conveying in all 660 acres, specifically exempt these lots in the following language—"excepting and reserving out of the same All that tenement and parcel of land whereon the two Presbyterian Meeting Houses are built, commonly called the Meeting House Land, containing one and one half acres with free ingress, egress and regress into and out of the same."

Apparently the Trustees of the united congregation had experienced some difficulty with trespasses by "thoughtless or ill-disposed persons" on the first mentioned lots as well as on a small additional piece of ground acquired by "deed or gift"—whereupon the Meeting-House now stands and in May 1786, petitioned the General Assembly of Delaware to amend these defects.

Again and again in deeds, this property is excluded in conveyances of land of which it was a part originally, the first omission noted being in the Deed of William Bright and wife to Rebecca P. Thompson dated April 25, 1881, conveying 100 acres, now owned by her daughter, Katharine Greenwalt.

From all this I conclude beyond doubt that there were two meeting houses on top of the hill: that the first was erected some years before 1721. Jonathan Evans on whose land it was erected had owned the land for eleven years prior to 1724 when he conveyed it to Rev. Thomas Craighead and Dr. Mackey, with reason, asserts that the second meeting house must have been built some time before the death of Thomas Craighead, Jr., in 1735, as it was on his estate. This brings to me the conviction that the second Meeting House was built to accommodate the growing congregation in a community whose Presbyterian population was rapidly increasing. It must have been, to bring George Whitefield here four years later.

Dr. Mackey is of the opinion that the second church building was on the south side of the road that leads east from the hill and the statement that there was a graveyard on this as well as on the north side of the road, appears to be borne out by the petition to the General Assembly in 1786 and by tradition as well. Now the few neglected and tottering grave stones that remain are apparent on the North side only, turned into a cow pasture, the Nevin lot alone, fenced for protection and the flat tombstone marking the last resting place of Margaret Craighead, widow of the first pastor, and of their son, Thomas, and his wife, also named Margaret, all but covered with sod. It is said that many of the tombstones have been removed to a nearby farmhouse and put to less noble purposes.

Before leaving these Presbyterians, I cannot refrain from mention of one particular matter of personal interest, to me. On April 13, 1792, the log Meeting House erected forty years earlier having become sadly in need of a new roof and other repairs, subscriptions were asked, not only from members of the church and congregation but from other persons as well, among which I find the names of my great grandfather, William Cooch, his half-brother, Francis Cooch, their brother-in-law, Solomon Maxwell and their cousin, William Simonton.

PLAN YOUR PULLET CROP NOW

By A. G. Phillips, Formerly Professor
In Charge of Poultry Husbandry
Purdue University

Efficient management demands that we now make plans for growing a satisfactory flock of pullets for next fall—at the beginning of the hatching season. In order to prove this statement let us take a concrete case as an example:

A Matter of $ $ and $ $ $

Consider the money spent because you haven't a TELEPHONE in your home—the cost of calls from public telephones—the cost of many needless trips.

These two items alone add up to a sizable part of the cost of having a telephone. On a dollar-and-cent basis it pays to have one.

THE DIAMOND STATE TELEPHONE COMPANY

A poultry grower has housing capacity for 250 first-class pullets and desires to have them in ten per cent production by October 1st, 1935. If they are Leghorns they will be six months old; if they are the size of Plymouth Rocks they will be seven months old. This means that the Leghorns must be hatched April 1st and the heavier breeds on March 1st. A few days from these figures, either way, may make little difference because the factor of inherited rate of growth will alter any set plan.

The production of 250 good pullets means the growing to maturity of at least 300 females. This allows for seventeen per cent culling. Estimating that for every pullet there will also be a cockerel and that there will be about fifteen per cent mortality during the growing season, it will be necessary to hatch or purchase 750 baby chicks on one of the above mentioned dates.

If chicks of good breeding and vigor are desired on a definite date, the order for them should be placed at least three weeks ahead of the time of delivery. Otherwise the grower may be disappointed and his chances of procuring eggs next fall, when prices are favorable, will be reduced. Date of pullet maturity is too important to be overlooked in allowed to be delayed, just because proper plans were not made in January. If you wait to order chicks until a few days before you want them, you are taking the chance of procuring the number and quality that you want and you may lose money next fall. No good hatcheryman will hatch chicks this year, early in the season, beyond the number of advanced orders received.

Seven hundred chicks hatched will require two 10x12 foot brooder houses, each with a capacity of 250 chicks. They should be cleaned and properly equipped for brooding at least one week before the chicks are obtained. A feeding program to cover the entire growing season should be worked out in advance and one should have at least two weeks' feed supply on hand when the brooding season begins.

Professor of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois, College of Medicine.
MEASLES

MEASLES has too long been regarded as a trivial childhood disease. Parents seem to think that it is a mere nuisance which will pass off in a few days and leave the child well. It is estimated that 90 per cent of adults have had it. Just because it is so common, it is not given the respect it deserves. It is a serious disease, particularly in children under three years of age, and it is a high cause of death. It is a disease which is not only a nuisance, but it is a danger. It is a disease which is not only a nuisance, but it is a danger. It is a disease which is not only a nuisance, but it is a danger.

Measles begins as a common sore throat and head cold. The child is feverish and irritable; then about the fourth day the distinctive measles rash appears. This rash is very diffuse. It looks as if the skin had been rubbed with pale red ink. The patient is sick for at least another five days. In the case of older children who are not put to bed and kept quiet and warm under a physician's care, there is little to worry about.

We do not know what causes measles. But we do know that it is contagious during the early head cold stage of the disease, before the skin rash appears. In fact, it is difficult to diagnose a head cold as the beginning stage of measles before the rash has appeared. Consequently, if there are any measles in the neighborhood and your child develops a head cold and sore throat, keep him or her isolated from other children who have not had measles. In that way you can help protect the other children.

Or there is a better way of protecting the child who has not had measles. Science has not been able to develop a vaccine against measles, as it has against smallpox and typhoid, since it does not know the causative agent of measles, but it has found that if the blood of a person who has had measles is injected into a child who has not had measles, the child can be prevented from having the disease. If the child has been exposed to measles, the injection should be given within four days after the time of exposure, as that is the period of incubation of the disease. If the child has already reached the head cold stage, the injection will mean a less severe case than would otherwise occur.

The blood injection must be made by a physician. It is not given straight. The blood is mixed with a sterile solution of sodium citrate, which prevents the blood from clotting. The injection is then a very simple matter. Vials of sterile solution of sodium citrate are supplied by the departments of health of many states to practicing physicians free of charge. Many physicians make a practice of having them on hand always.

The best blood to get comes from a person who is in the convalescent stage of the disease. Five cubic centimeters or one-half ounce of convalescent measles serum will protect a child from measles. If this convalescent serum is not available, then the blood of a person who has recovered from measles one to five years previously is next best. More of this blood is required, though. And if the blood is not available, then the blood of one of the parents or any other adult who has had the disease in childhood can be used. It requires five to six times the amount of blood from adults as it does from convalescent cases to give immunity.

A person very rarely has measles twice. Once gives immunity. The epidemics generally begin around Christmas and extend to spring. The peak of an epidemic is usually reached in late February or early March. But cases occur all the year round, and it is wise to be on the watch as soon as school begins. There was an exceptional number of cases throughout the United States last year. It is not a record to be proud of.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that parents should make every effort to keep their children from contracting the disease, particularly children under six years of age. Also special pains should be taken to keep the child who is under par physically on account of ill health or lack of proper nourishment, from exposure to measles. Measles takes a big toll of very young children and of under-nourished children. Isolation of a measles case prevents the spread of the disease. If through accident a young child is exposed, your physician can prevent the development of measles by using convalescent serum if he considers such a procedure advisable.

ing inevitable that such an issue would have to be paid off by taxes. If the bond issue were not paid off by an increase in the general property tax, he pointed out, it would have to be met by some other form of taxation such as the sales tax, which might just as well be instituted now to take care of the situation as it arises and to avoid the bond issue with its interest charges.

New York is the outstanding city which has adopted the sales tax to meet the demand for relief revenue. In that city, all sales are taxed two per cent with a few exceptions. The tax is even levied on articles purchased outside New York and brought into the city. This is done to balk evasions of the tax and to protect merchants. The tax has caused no appreciable decline in sales.

Mr. Dayett, on the other hand, insisted that the county is too small to have efficient enforcement of the law. He holds that "bootleg" buying would be prevalent over the Maryland and Pennsylvania borders and could not be prevented. Thus, not only would the tax not be collected, but Delaware merchants would also lose a goodly share of their business.

The New York conditions are such that this situation does not have to be met with in so great detail. County territorial lines are very small and there is no great difficulty getting out of the state. A check-up on this so-called "smuggling" would be virtually impossible.

CHANCE VOUGHT CORPORATION CERTIFICATE OF REDUCTION OF CAPITAL

WE, CHARLES J. MCCARTHY and JAMES J. GAFFNEY, being respectively the Vice President and the Secretary of CHANCE VOUGHT CORPORATION, a corporation of the State of Delaware, HEREBY CERTIFY as follows:

FIRST: That United Aircraft Corporation, which is the holder of record of 90,000 shares of the par value of $21, each, of the said Chance Vought Corporation, being the total number of shares of the said Corporation having voting powers at the time outstanding, has given its written consent that the said Chance Vought Corporation may reduce its capital from $1,892,836.26, the present amount thereof, to $1,890,000, which written consent is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit A," and the extent to which the capital of the said Chance Vought Corporation is to be reduced is as follows:

THE amount of capital of the Corporation represented by shares of stock having par value exceeds such par value by $2,836.26; and the reduction of the capital of the Corporation will be effected by reducing the amount of capital represented by such shares by $2,836.26, being an amount not greater than such excess, so that, after such reduction, the capital of the Corporation will be $1,890,000, divided into 90,000 shares, of the par value of $21, each.
THIRD: That the assets of the Corporation remaining after such reduction will be sufficient to pay any debts, the payment of which shall not have been otherwise provided for.

SCHOOL DAYS FOR THE MARINES

By Major General John H. Russell (Commandant, U. S. Marine Corps)

Editor's Note:—This the second and last of a series of articles by Major General John H. Russell, Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, on the education of the famous sea soldiers.

More students in the Marine Corps Institute's School of Agriculture are interested in poultry farming than in any other subject.

Maintained by the Federal Government to encourage men of the Marine Corps and their dependents for a better life through self-education, the Institute annually attracts thousands of students to its rolls.

The primary purpose of the Institute is to equip the sea soldiers to be better Marines and of almost equal importance is the value in later life of education obtained through the courses.

In the agricultural courses alone 263 students are enrolled. Apparently the hope of a small farm for poultry raising after the expiration of enlistment or upon retirement, is strongest in the minds of those in this school. There are 51 students interested in poultry raising. Many others are looking forward to fruit growing, gardening, dairying and livestock raising.

More than 275 Marines are pursuing courses designed to lead to promotion in the Corps. These courses include preparation for the Naval Academy, preparation for commissioning rank and special courses for higher ranks in technical grades.

Of the engineering courses, aviation is the most popular with the enrollment averaging between 500 and 600 annually. Few students ever enroll for the course in blacksmithing, but 200 are constantly taking the automotive engineering courses. Every effort is made to encourage backward students. Frequently it is found that a student has enrolled for a course beyond his capacity and he is permitted to change to a less difficult course in the same subject. On ship board, where Marines serve with the Navy, many students combine into small classes which they conduct themselves to facilitate study.

Lesson papers when completed are sent to the Institute, which has its headquarters in Washington. The personnel of the school total 64, although 119 are authorized for assignment to this duty. One-third of those on the school staff are college trained and students showing special proficiency in subjects are offered higher ranks and a transfer to Washington for places on the school staff when vacancies occur. In cases of doubt with particularly difficult technical subjects, answers are forwarded for a rechecking by a large nationally known correspondence school, which cooperates with the Marine Corps Institute.

Diplomas, accompanied by a congratulatory letter which I have made it a point to sign personally in each instance, are sent to students who have successfully completed courses.

There is no limit to the number of courses a Marine may take and complete, the policy of the Corps being that an educated Marine makes the best Marine.

What is the value of all this to a Marine? Daily in the mass of hundreds of letters received from all parts of the world there come messages from parents and former Marines expressing appreciation for the courses offered.

Typical is this line taken from a letter from a father who wrote expressing appreciation for a course in English for which his son had enrolled:

"The Marine Corps Institute is a splendid institution and I sincerely hope it will benefit many other lads as it has my son."

Or here is a line from a former Marine who had taken typing and shorthand while in the Corps and through employment as a stenographer after his enlistment expired he was able to complete a law course. When we last heard from him he was a candidate for State Senator.

"I owe everything to the opportunity given me by the United States Marine Corps and the Marine Corps Institute."

What of the man who studies and remains in the Corps? For promotion, if a graduate of Institute Courses, his chances are vastly improved. If he is a language graduate he is just that much better equipped for special and important duties than a sea soldier who speaks nothing but English. If a technical graduate his rise in rank is almost a certainty.

It is my sincere belief that nothing adds so much to the value of a soldier as an active mind, occupied with a search for knowledge.

All of the speakers at the stockholders' meeting stressed the importance of cooperation among the individual borrowers or stockholders of the association, pointing out that the responsibility, both financially and morally, of collecting loans as well as making loans rests entirely on the stockholders' own shoulders.

The meeting was frankly conducted, all questions being answered directly and simply. It was reported that of the total of the association's borrow-

The National Housing Act (NHA) makes it possible for farmers in these parts to get money at low interest rates for new farm buildings and for remodeling their present structures.

Some of them are going to include new sanitary hog wallows in their improvement plans. We think they're smart because healthy hogs weigh more and bring more money.

ASK US . . . for free information about NHA, and let us help you plan the improvements it makes possible for you. The service is free, of course.

ers by far the majority of them are maintaining their loans in good standing and are meeting their payments promptly when due.

The association has loaned approximately $53,000.00 and has 185 borrowers or stockholders.

Bennett Crane, treasurer of the Production Credit Corporation of Baltimore, stressed the need of good, sound, practical farmers on the Board of Directors during his talk in which he analyzed the business of the association during the past year.

The Delaware Production Credit Association was organized at Dover in January, 1934, and it is partly capitalized and supervised by the Production Credit Corporation of the Farm Credit Administration of Baltimore.

Although its organization was sponsored by an agency created by the Federal Government, it does not loan government money. Its lending funds are obtained through a rediscounting agreement with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore, which also is a part of the Baltimore Farm Credit Administration. The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in turn obtains its rediscounting funds from the public money market through sale of its debentures to the public investment market.

The Delaware association represents the first permanent and complete short-term credit system for farmers that ever has been established in its territory. It makes available every type of short-term loan a farmer may need for the normal operation of his farm. It is conducted on a purely business basis, requiring adequate security on all its loans, and is open for business during the whole year, like any other business institution.

Among those who attended the meeting yesterday from New Castle County were: H. C. Milliken, Bear; Albert O. Gray, Kirkwood; J. D. Reynolds, Middletown; H. Wallace Cook, R. D. Elkton; Charles Dixon, Middletown; Wallace Evans, St. Georges; E. C. Phillips, Middletown; Benjamin Vinton, St. Georges; Richard Catlin, Wilmington; John J. B. Sharpe, Bear; and County Agent, Ed William, Jr., of Newark and others.

Corn-Hog Contract Open To Eligibles

All eligible producers of corn and hogs will have the opportunity to sign the AAA 1935 Corn-Hog Contract, whether or not they took part in the 1934 corn-hog production adjustment program. County Agent William advises after attending a meeting of 40 corn-hog producers held yesterday in Dover.

Those eligible to sign the 1935 contract, County Agent William explains, include persons owning and operating their own farms, and tenants operating farms on a cash rent or a fixed share agreement. In the case of farms rented on a crop or stock share lease or agreement, the contract is signed by both the tenant and the landlord.

"The eligibility in all cases will be determined by the county or state allotment committee in accordance with instructions issued by the AAA and subject to the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture. The allotment committee will determine whether the applicant for a 1935 contract is a bona fide producer and qualified to sign and to receive adjustment payments.

"The base period for the 1935 contract will be the same as for the 1934 contract, the two years 1932 and 1933. The contract will require hog adjustments to 10 per cent below the base period production, with benefit payments of $15 per head on the number represented by the 10 per cent adjustment. No more than 10 per cent reduction in corn acreage below the 1932-33 base will be required in the 1935 contract, but optional adjustments of as much as 30 per cent will be allowed and on these adjustments benefit payments of 35 cents per bushel will be paid.

"The corn yield to be used in figuring benefit payments is the adjusted estimated yield for all land in the farm which has been planted to corn at least once in the last five years."

Christiana School News

There were 22 people out for Adult Music Class last Friday night to begin the winter term. That was a good start, considering the amount of sickness in the community. Now, that practically everyone around Christiana is well again, let's be on hand this Friday night, January 18, with twice last week's number.

Mrs. Moseley, our teacher, is making plans even now for the class' part in the Spring County Festival to be held at Mitchell Hall, Newark.

There will be a local program in addition to the one to be given in Newark.

There will be seven more lessons. Don't miss a one of them. Mrs. Moseley spares no effort to make each class worthwhile.

Art

Miss Frieda MacAdam will meet the members of the Art Class at 7:30 next Monday evening, January 21.

Miss MacAdam wishes to have 100 per cent attendance for each of the three meetings—if possible. Final touches will be given to the articles to be exhibited in Newark sometime in March.

Assembly

Did you say that boys can't plan and carry out assembly programs?—You're wrong.

James McGrath, sixth grade, is having an excellent assembly program each day this week in the Christiana Upper Room.

P-T. A.

The February P-T. A. sponsored by the Christiana Improvement Association, will meet at the school house on the evening of February 5, at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles Thorp, Mrs. Henry Eastburn and Mr. Herman W. Stradley are arranging a program that you will be sure to enjoy.

Let me whisper a secret. There will be costumes, stage setting, and—but that's enough. I mustn't tell too much. You wouldn't be surprised.

Health Program

The Health Program, sponsored by the P-T. A., is coming along nicely. Six children have already finished having all corrections made: Isaac Thorp, Robert Vincent, Irving Hutchinson, Betty Hutchinson, Warren Eastburn and Lewis Hutchinson. Three more children will have work completed before the end of this week, Nancy Carmine, Clara Novak and Mildred Hanna.

If you haven't made arrangement for the correction of your child's defects, see either of the local teachers, Mrs. Thornton or Mrs. Stradley, who will be glad to help with the plans.

Grain Growers Invited To Crop Group Meeting

Grain growers of Delaware are meeting in Newark this week, on January 16th, 17th and 18th for the annual show of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association to be held in Old College of the University of Delaware. J. Oliver Koelig, Jr., of Newark, is president of this organization and George L. Schuster of the Agronomy Department of the University of Delaware, is secretary-treasurer.

Exhibition classes for corn, small grain and seeds, grain and forage in the sheaf, sweet and white potatoes are open to all Delaware farmers and the officials of the organization urge that New Castle county farmers take advantage of the opportunity to exhibit the products of their farms.

County Agricultural Agent Ed William, Jr., of Newark, has premium lists for the show and will be glad to send one to any grower in the county who desires one. Mr. William urges all farmers to exhibit their products and especially to attend the show which will be open for inspection on Thursday and Friday of next week.

Bird-Eye scratched his head. "No, not yet. 'Nd may th' saluts kape ye evr as far from a tickin' as ye are now, Ben Elliott! But . . . I'd tolke to bet my noble tourin' car that owd Donny wrote somethin' to do with th' killin' av Sam Faxon, I would!"

"Well, you can't get any takers here, Bird-Eye. Not tonight. Into the hay, now, and let me sleep."

And about the time Ben Elliott burrowed into his pillow and shed responsibility and perplexing problems, Nicholas Brandon turned in the pacing of his cold and otherwise deserted office and cocked his head alertly. It was not unusual for him to be late in his office. But those drawn shades and this quick, restless, hurried march to and fro, around and about, and that perspiration which beaded his forehead, and the sudden stoppings and listenings at the slightest sound . . . Those were not usual for a man so thoroughly established in his community that he dictated every phase of his life and activity.

He stopped after a time and opening a drawer of his big desk took from it a bottle of whisky, shook himself and muttered softly. For a time he held it in his hands, debating. Then, with finally, muttered: "No . . . A clear head now!" He shut the liquor in its place and resumed his pacing.

Nicholas Brandon may have ruled Tincup and the surrounding country with an iron absolutism. He may have had a deserved reputation for being a strong man, a resourceful man. But tonight, alone in his office, remembering the words and looks and gestures of Bird-Eye Blaine, a lowly employee of an insolvent venture, seeing again the flash of that letter waved before his eyes, he was no commanding figure. He was a frightened man, a haunted man, battling to retain a hold on himself.

CHAPTER IV

Ben Elliott had been on the job at Hoot Owl just two weeks. Able Armistage was with him for the night. Ben was tireless, it seemed. Since the beginning he had labored daytimes, schemed until late at night, and now he spent another hour with Able, trying, as he said, to make every dime look like a dollar.

"Now, say!" His face took on a curious smile as they finally folded their papers. "I haven't had much time to think about anything but patching up this outfit and getting it to function, but through it all one thing's kept bobbing up so often it's got my curiosity on its hind legs."

"Who was McManus? What about Sam Faxon? Where does the little girl you're guardian for come in?"

"Little girl!" Able said, startled and then smiled. "Why, Dawn is—"

"I keep hearing about these men McManus and Faxon and how Brandon is trying to beat you down so he can cheat the orphan child. How about it all?"

Able's smile died out. He shoved up his spectacles and rubbed his sleepy eyes. "We haven't had much time for history, have we? I'd intended to give you the story of this property but we've been so concerned with bank balances and paper due and breakdowns and such things that I just haven't had time."

"I'll have to make a long story short; just hit the high spots. First, Nicholas Brandon and Denny McManus came into this country when they weren't much more than boys. They were the first hardwood operators in this country. The pine had been skinned out, but not many hardwood camps had at that time gotten this far from the centers of things. They'd had some experience and a little money but they hit at the right time, picked up a raft of timber for a song and started turning it into a fortune."

"McManus was married and had the daughter, Dawn. Brandon never married. Just when they were swinging nicely, everything running smooth as butler, McManus' wife died. He was as deeply in love as any man I've ever seen and it sent him completely to pot. He took to heavy drinking and got himself in a bad way."

"Of the two, Denny was the more popular. He was friendly, charitable, and as soft as a sponge. He'd be the route for anybody. Why—probably you've never even heard this—when old Don Stuart claimed the company's prosecution, Don had cruised and bought a lot of stuff for them. He'd on one spree got into some sort of mess and crooked the company out of three or four hundred dollars. Enough, anyhow, to let himself in for a long term in the penitentiary if they pushed it. Brandon wanted to prosecute, all right, but McManus stood up for Don. That was typical of the man; friendly, forgiving, a real human being. If you understand."

"But Mac went to pieces himself. He would be off on a tender for weeks at a time and scarcely get over the shakes before he'd start on another. Finally he got so bad that Brandon sent him out to a hunting camp on the river with a fine old trapper named Sam Faxon. Great old character, Sam. Brandon figured—and it seemed reasonable—that Sam could keep Mac away from booze, you see. He was there a week or so, tapering off gradually, seeing nobody but Sam. Brandon was working away like a nigger, buying a lot of stuff for himself, probably figuring that if McManus didn't straighten up he'd operate on his own hook. McManus had this idea that stuff cinched in his own name before he went bad."

"Well, one night we were in the middle of a three-day blizzard and Sam Faxon stumbled into Don Stuart's shanty on the edge of town, and through the arm and frozen so badly that he died the next afternoon. Don Stuart—voice slowing and a finger wagging for emphasis—"was that Faxon told him McManus had gotten out of booze and turned ugly and that when he—Sam—tried to prevent him from starting for town after more whisky he went wild at Sam and shot him. He was hit in the arm, had to have help and in trying to get it suffered more exposure than any man could stand."

"Well, that caused a great stir! A party hit straight out for the camp and couldn't find him nor hair nor sign of Mac. A couple of old trappers agreed that somebody had gone down to the river below the camp the night that Faxon was shot. The Mac was an is swift at that bend and near freezes. The trail seemed to go right to the edge of the stream and the accepted theory was that McManus, realizing what he'd done, had drowned himself. The fact that nothing had ever been seen or heard of him lends strength to that supposition."

"An inquest was held, on Don's story a warrant was issued for McManus and so it stands, after all these years."

He rubbed his face again. (To be continued)

GOOD NEWS—OYSTERS!

FOR oyster lovers there is excellent news. The 1934-35 "wet" of oysters have been acclaimed the best since the famous "wet" of 1930. Good news, also, for thousands of unemployed is the fact that the oyster industry will, this year, employ 50,000 persons "a-shore and a-shore."

Fortunately for oyster-lovers, science has discovered that the oyster is not only tastes excellent, but is excellent for health. The composition of the oyster is of such a character as to make it more nearly than most foods, self-sufficient as a diet. In this respect it resembles milk and needs but the ordinary ingredients used in cooking—starches and fats—to give it balance. An oyster stew, for example, generally seasoned with butter and accompanied by the usual bowl of oyster crackers is a perfectly balanced meal.

Convenience of Canned Oysters

While the old theory that oysters could be eaten only in months with an R has been discredited, it is still a fact that they are not generally available in other months, owing to the inferior taste of the oyster during the season of spawning. With the advent of canned oysters—oysters taken from the best waters at the time they are at their best—it has become possible to eat this excellent food all year round. This is a long step from Roman days when the oysters were shipped from Britain and had to be packed in sacks of snow, so that the shells were held together, keeping the oysters wet and fresh in their own liquid. The convenience of canned oysters has, no doubt, added materially to the quantity of oysters used.

Here are some delicious dishes which can be made of canned oysters:

A Stew and an Entrée
Oyster Stew: Scald three cups of milk in a double boiler. Heat the contents of a 5-ounce can of oysters to just below the boiling point and add to the scalded milk. Bind with one tablespoon of butter which has been rubbed together with one tablespoon flour; season with one teaspoon salt and a little paprika. Then add one-fourth cup of cream. Serve at once with oyster crackers. This serves four persons.
Oyster Entrée: Drain the contents of one 5-ounce can of oysters and arrange in four buttered flat shallow earthen ramekins, or in scallop shells. Mix one cup of bread crumbs with one tablespoon of minced parsley, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of pepper, one-fourth teaspoon thyme and one-half teaspoon lemon juice. Add four tablespoons of oyster liquor to mixture. Cover the oysters with this and place under the broiler flame until browned; are well browned. This serves four persons.

On Toast and in Patties

Oysters a la Maryland: Brown one and one-half tablespoons butter in a pan, add one and one-half tablespoons flour and brown again. Then add one and one-half cups of milk slowly, stirring until smooth. Add three-fourths cup chovy paste, one-half teaspoon salt and a few grains of paprika. Seal the oysters from a 5-ounce can of oysters. Remove the liquor, and arrange on buttered toast. Add the oyster liquor to the sauce. Then add one-quarter beaten egg yolk, stir well and pour over the oysters. This makes four servings.

Chicken and Oyster Patties: Make a cream sauce of one and one-half tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one cup of milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon celery salt and a little paprika. Add one-fourth cup of oyster liquor, and arrange on buttered toast. Add the oyster liquor to the sauce. Then add one-quarter beaten egg yolk, stir well and pour over the oysters. This makes four servings.
