State Police Solve Death Of Girl Found On Glasgow Farm

Colored Woman Found Sunday By Boy On Lease Farm; William Stewart, Negro, Arrested

MAKES CONFESSION

Over work on the part of the State Highway Police solved in less than twenty-four hours what appeared to be the baffling murder of a colored woman, found, Sunday afternoon, in a dying condition on the Glasgow farm of C. A. Leasure, William D. Stewart, colored, and about twenty-five years old, was arrested Monday as a suspect, and yesterday made a full confession of the crime. He was taken to the New Castle Workhouse yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant Ray of the State Police, after Magistrate Thompson had signed commitment papers.

The woman, who was identified yesterday as Bertie A. Lee Franklin, of 333 North Beaver street, Baltimore, was found about ten minutes to five Sunday afternoon by Leslie Leasure, fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leasure. Young Leasure was riding his pony through the meadow of his father's farm on his way to bring up the cows when the pony shied at a clump of bushes. Reining in the animal to see what had startled it, he saw the body of a colored woman lying face down in the bushes. He immediately notified his parents, who called the police. When they reached the woman she was still alive and moaned as they turned her over. Dr. W. E. Cann, of Glasgow, had been summoned and he called the Newark ambulance to take her to the hospital. William Cunningham responded. However the woman died before she could be placed in the ambulance and she was taken to the Funeral Home of Robert T. Jones. She appeared to be about 25 years old.

That she had been the victim of a vicious assault was evident. There was a scalp wound three inches long and an inch deep above the left eye, apparently made by a blunt instrument. There was another cut under the same eye and her upper lip was split in two. She had also been beaten about the face, evidently by a man's fist. A bundle of clothes tied in a sweater was found near the body. She had been wearing men's shoes, one of which had been pulled off and was lying near her head. Apparently she had been dragged by the feet to the spot where she was found as her clothing, which was thin and poor, was torn practically to shreds and her back scratched and cut. Dr. Cann was of the opinion that her death was due to concussion of the brain and exposure. She was stiff with the cold when found and had apparently been lying there since Saturday night.

About eleven o'clock Saturday night a Negro man and woman were seen walking through Glasgow, going in the direction of the Leasure farm. Some time later a couple believed to be the same people, were seen sitting on a porch of a house further down the road. It was after this that people in the neighborhood heard a woman's screams and her cries of: "Oh, don't. Don't do that." Thinking there had

Armistice Day

The R. O. T. C. unit of the University of Delaware will celebrate Armistice Day Friday morning by holding a parade and exercises. The entire unit will march through the town and then form in a square on the campus in front of old college where simple exercises will be held, and a wreath will be placed on the tablet carrying the names of the Delaware boys who fell during the World War.

Warren Singles Back From Interesting Trip

Warren Singles, who attended the annual meeting of the American Bankers Association, held at Houston, Texas, as a delegate from Delaware, arrived back in Newark after an interesting trip through the South, Southwest and Mexico. He returned to New York, by boat from New Orleans.

On the way to Houston, Mr. Singles stopped at St. Louis and Dallas. After the convention had closed, Mr. Singles took a trip down the Rio Grande Valley, stopping at Kingsville, Texas, to visit the King Ranch, the largest ranch in the world, comprising one million and a half acres. From Kingsville he went to Brownsville, Texas, and then crossed over into Mexico. At this point, the civilization of Mexico is about as primitive as it was hundreds of years ago and it was very interesting to see old customs of the natives. Mr. Singles then went to New Orleans where he spent several days before taking the boat for New York.

Two Men Killed Near Newport By Train

Antonio DeBaise And W.H. Williams, Railroad Men, Fail To Hear Train Approach

Antonio DeBaise, 39 years old, of Newark, and Walter H. Williams, 20 years old, of Iron Hill, were killed instantly Saturday afternoon when a train struck them as they were working on the Pennsylvania tracks about a mile above Newport.

DeBaise, a foreman, was working with a group of men on the tracks, when shortly after 4 o'clock, a train approached. The others moved off the track, but DeBaise and Williams, not hearing the train were struck before it could be halted. Both bodies were found under the train, badly mangled. Examination showed that death was instantaneous. Both bodies were brought here to the Funeral Home of Robert T. Jones.

DeBaise was one of the most respected and popular Italians in this community. He had married a daughter of Peter De Rosa and had built a home near that of his father-in-law, near Harmony. His body was later taken to his home. At the time of his death he was boarding on Kells avenue, Newark. High mass was held for him this morning at St. John's Church, at 10 o'clock, and he was buried in the Catholic cemetery.

The funeral services of Walter Williams were held yesterday at the Baptist church on New London avenue. Interment was in the colored cemetery in Elkton. He is survived by a wife and one child.

WOMAN'S GUILD MEETING

The regular business meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. Thomas Church was held in the Parish House on Monday evening. The feature of the meeting was a "Travelogue" with stereopticon views, given by Colonel S. J. Smith. The pictures showed views of Peking, China, which city Colonel Smith has visited three times.

SALE

A rummage sale will be held Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19, at Handloff's vacant store, Main street. The sale will be conducted by the Newark Chapter No. 10, Order Eastern Star. Anyone having donations may call Mrs. Conrad K. D. Lewis, telephone 106.

CHIMNEY FIRE

The Aetna Fire Company was called about 7 o'clock Friday night to put out a chimney fire on the house of Bud Johnson, near Kirkwood. The fire had been extinguished when the firemen arrived.

Recover Car Stolen From Newark Teacher

David McMenamin Loses Car In Chestertown; Delaware Police Get Thief In Few Hours

The high efficiency of the Delaware State Highway Police was shown effectively Sunday night when Officer Jewell arrested Roy M. Dutry, 28 years old, of Harrisburg, and recovered a car stolen from David McMenamin, of the faculty of the Newark schools. The arrest was made on the highway about seven miles from Wilmington. The car had been taken a few hours previous from Chestertown, Maryland.

Mr. McMenamin was visiting his mother in Chestertown and the two had gone to church, parking the car outside. When they came out, the car was missing. The police were notified and immediately sent out "clippers" to Wilmington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. A few hours later the Delaware police had the man.

Dutry was returned to Chestertown and at a hearing yesterday held for the Grand Jury. He confessed to having stolen another machine in Harrisburg and driving until it ran out of gas. He said he then walked twenty miles and stole McMenamin's car. The first car was found near Baxter's Cross Roads.

DR. TIFFANY APPOINTED FEDERAL CHEMIST

Dr. Harold E. Tiffany has been appointed chemist for the Delaware office, by Samuel O. Wayne, Prohibition Administrator of the Fifth District, which embraces Delaware.

He is authorized to test samples of liquors seized by the Delaware prohibition agents. His appointment has been approved by the Treasury Department at Washington.

The appointment was secured through the efforts of George A. Hill, deputy prohibition administrator of Delaware. Until December, 1926, Dr. Tiffany had been chemist for the Delaware office. In that month a shakeup was effected and Delaware was taken out of the Maryland and District of Columbia district and placed under the jurisdiction of the Philadelphia office.

Since then Mr. Hill had been compelled to take samples of seized liquors to the Philadelphia office for tests.

The appointment of Dr. Tiffany goes into effect at once.

HALLOWEEN PARTY AT RED MEN'S HOME

A Halloween party was held on November 5th, at the Red Men's Fraternal Home for the benefit and pleasure of residents of the home, under the auspices of Pocahontas Council, of Wilmington.

Fifty-three members of the order were present, including Past Great Sachem Wm. H. Ferguson and Milton W. Ferguson, Great Keeper of Wampan. Brother W. H. Ferguson was Master of Ceremonies. Sister Williams of Pocahontas Council No. 1 gave several recitations which were enjoyed by all. Games were played and several selections sung by the members and friends. Sister Grop played several selections on the piano. J. H. McGlothlen was presented with a life-size portrait. Refreshments were served.

All members of the association were masked.

HOLD CHICKEN SUPPER

The Ladies Aid Society of the Newark Methodist Church will hold its annual chicken supper on Thursday, November 17th, from 5:30 to 8 o'clock in the Century Club building. Those in charge of arrangements are Mrs. G. M. Phipps, general chairman; Mrs. R. Crossan, business manager; Mrs. John Moore, supper room; Mrs. John Holloway, tables; Mrs. Harvey Hofferker, fancy table; Mrs. L. A. Rhodes, cake table.

GIRL RESERVE OFFICERS

Miss Zada French, of New York City, National Secretary of the Girl Reserves, and Miss Martha Good, Y. W. C. A. director of New Castle county, will be the guests of Mrs. Francis A. Cooch, 212 West Main street, on Friday, November 18. Mrs. Cooch desires the Girl Reserves of this town and their mothers to come to her house between four and six o'clock to meet Miss French and Miss Good.

Lambert Faces Liquor And Assault Charges

Arraigned Before Two Magistrates In Same Evening; Farm Raided And Still Found

James Lambert, a former prohibition officer, and at present living on a farm near Cooch's Bridge, was released in $1,000 bond Monday night by Magistrate Lister, of Richardson Park, on a charge of manufacturing liquor. The hearing was the result of a raid made on his farm Sunday by Special Agent Haley, of the Law and Order Society, and Lieutenant Ray and Officers Cole and Hichen, of the State Police.

When the officers raided the farm they found a still on the second floor of a wagon house with 100 gallons of mash. Lambert was away at the time, but drove in the yard while the officers were destroying the apparatus. Hearing them he started to drive away, and on being pursued abandoned his car and escaped in the woods.

On Saturday, Lambert had been arrested by State Highway Officer Hessian on a warrant charging assault and battery, sworn to by Lambert's step-son, Edward E. Poor, 20 years old, of Porter, Del. He was arraigned before Magistrate Daniel Thompson, who released him in $500 bond for hearing Monday night. On Monday night Lambert appeared for hearing, but Poor was not there, so Magistrate Thompson continued the case against Lambert's protest that it should be dropped. Hessian then arrested him on the liquor charge and took him before Magistrate Lister as Agent Haley had secured his warrant from Magistrate Lister.

A. O. U. W. DANCE AND CARD PARTY A SUCCESS

Last Thursday evening the New Century Club building was the scene of one of the most successful and enjoyable dances and card parties ever given in Newark. Most of the dancers were masked and there were many handsome and comic costumes on the floor that the judges had a hard time picking the winners.

The affair was given by the A. O. U. W. Boosters Club, an organization made up of members of Anchor Lodge No. 4, Ancient Order of United Workmen. Among the out of town guests were Grand Master Workman Howard McCall, Grand Organizer Joseph T. Smith and Past Grand Master Workman H. S. Lawton, Grand Trustee E. C. Clark and a large party of Workmen from Wilmington.

The music, which was especially pleasing, was furnished by Buckingham's Serenaders.

Among the prize winners were: Miss Elizabeth Lindell, $2.50 gold piece, for handsomest costume; Frank Balling, $2.50 gold piece for best comic make-up; Miss Eunice Lowe, second prize for handsomest costume; Mr. and Mrs. Messick, prize for best looking couple; Hilary Balling, second best comic; Mr. Ewing, spot prize. There were also a number of prizes given out at the card tables. Miss Eunice Lowe took the door prize, a gas iron.

Among those who donated prizes were: The Wilmington Gas Company, Dr. George Rhodes, John R. Fulton, R. G. Buckingham, Louis Handloff, Marritz Dept. Store, Wm. P. Wollaston, and Sam Bell. Grand Master Howard McCall donated one of the gold pieces.

PROF. BARKLEY TALKS ON "PEACE" TO KIWANIANS

Professor James A. Barkley, head of the History Department of the University of Delaware, spoke today on "Peace" at the luncheon meeting of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, held at noon in the du Pont-Biltmore. Professor George Berry, of the English Department of the University sang several solos. He was accompanied by Miss Lillian Steele of the Women's College.

P-T. A. MEETING

The Newark Parent-Teacher Association held a meeting last night in the new school building. At a short business meeting, the president outlined plans for the year and Mr. Preston, Mr. Hastings and Mrs. Cobb gave short talks. This was followed by general discussion.

After the business had been disposed of, the meeting adjourned to the cafeteria where refreshments were served.

To Close Schools

The Newark Schools will be closed tomorrow and Friday as the entire faculty will be attending the sessions of the annual meeting of the Delaware Education Association, at Milford.

The old school building on Main street is being renovated and repaired in order that it may be used to alleviate the crowded condition existing in the other school buildings.

Local Red Cross to Begin Drive Nov. 14

The local Red Cross drive will begin next Monday, November 14, and will continue throughout the week. Helpers will be stationed at the two banks to collect funds. The committee, which includes Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy, chairman, Mrs. E. B. Wright, Miss Jane Maxwell, and Miss Lydia Fader, will be glad of the names of those members of the Red Cross who will volunteer to do this work. The hours will be from 9 to 12 in the morning, and from 1 to 3 in the afternoon.

Newark made a proud record in last year's drive. More than $600 was collected at the banks and sent by check to headquarters from Newark people, making the largest per capita collection of any town in the State.

Immediately after the drive closes, there will be a meeting for election of officers, which any member is privileged to attend. Further notice of hour and place will be given.

Dr. Wolsey's Lecture First of Series

University Invites Public To Hear Jewish Scholars Talk On Jewish Life and Culture

Dr. Louis Wolsey, of Rodolph Shalom Congregation, Philadelphia, this morning at "College Hour" gave the first of a series of four lectures on Jewish life and culture that will be given at the University of Delaware during the next few weeks. Through the co-operation of Rabbi Louis A. Mizchkind, of the Congregation Beth Emeth of Wilmington, Dr. Benner has been able to secure leading Jewish scholars to give these lectures. The remaining three will be open to the public.

Dr. Wolsey, until recently, was president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, an organization that numbers among its membership nearly all the leaders of reform or liberal Jewish Congregations in this country and Canada. Dr. Wolsey has also been very active on the Social Justice Commission of this body and of the corresponding lay organization. In this capacity he has been instrumental in securing the general acceptance, on the part of reform Jews, of a platform stating the Jewish attitude towards modern problems in industry and society. The subject of Dr. Wolsey's address was "What is Unique in the Jewish Point of View."

The remaining three lectures will be given on the evenings of November 16th, November 30th, and December 7th, respectively. All of the addresses which will be given in Wolf Hall will aim to present in popular form and through well-known authorities different aspects of Jewish Life and Culture and treat it in the same way that other civilizations, like the French or the English or any other, are presented ordinarily. For this reason, all the lectures after Dr. Wolsey's are open to the public, and anyone who is interested is cordially invited to attend them.

The speakers, whose cooperation has been made possible by a committee of the Wilmington branch of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith, will include such outstanding men as Dr. Silver, of Cleveland, Dr. Lazaron, of Baltimore, and Mr. Henry Hurwitz, of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association.

GIRL RESERVES' MEETING

The Newark Girl Reserves met last Saturday evening at the home of the advisor, Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson. Twenty-nine members were present, and an interesting program was given. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Danby, Saturday, November 19.

Chamber Of Commerce Holds Best Banquet In Its History

William J. Highfield Talks On "Golden Rule." Over 150 Mem- bers And Guests Attend

MUSICAL TREAT

The sixth annual banquet of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, held last night in Old College, was voted by out-of-town guests as one of the most sprightly and entertaining affairs of its kind that they had ever attended. About 150 members and guests were there. The guests of honor were the Honorable Daniel O. Hastings, J. Austin Ellison, E. B. Hollingsworth, J. W. Marshall, E. B. Frazier, J. B. McManus, J. Gilpin Highfield and Charles M. Banks. Secretary of State Charles H. Grantland had accepted an invitation, but at the last minute found himself unable to attend.

John K. Johnston was toastmaster and introduced the Reverend Disston W. Jacobs, who delivered the invocation.

The speaker of the evening was the Honorable William J. Highfield, of Wilmington, one of the ablest orators in the State of Delaware. Mr. Highfield spoke on "The Golden Rule", and told the advantages of spirit of community interest and cooperation. He spoke of the moral and material rewards to a community body and its individuals that could be derived by putting the Golden Rule to practical usage.

Mr. Highfield was followed by Dr. Hiram Webb, who was introduced as a gentleman from Nebraska. Dr. Webb spoke on "Work" and cited the building of the Minot lighthouse at Boston as an example of patient effort.

George Madden's Orchestra furnished the instrumental music and the Pennsylvania Quartette sang a number of selections. The singing of this quartette was one of the best musical treats that Newark has had for some time. These four men were the winners of a contest of quartettes in the Atlantic states.

Davis and Maurine, entertainers, also furnished diversion. Davis imitated various bird calls and Maurine, a young lady, sang several songs.

Charles M. Banks led community singing.

The dinner committee was composed of John K. Johnston, chairman; Henry F. Mote; J. Irvin Dayett; D. A. McClintock and Warren A. Singles. E. C. Wilson is president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce.

EXONERATES BARTON

At a coroner's inquest held Monday night in Wilmington by Coroner Harvey Nichols, in the case of Charles Dyer, of Newark, who died in the Delaware Hospital on October 31 of injuries sustained in an automobile accident on October 25, Frank T. Barton, driver of the other car, was exonerated of all criminal responsibility by the jury. The testimony developed that Dyer had failed to observe the boulevard stop law at the intersection of the Basin road and du Pont boulevard, and had driven his car into the side of the truck driven by Barton. Barton, who is from Salisbury, Md., has been held in the New Castle County Workhouse since the accident, awaiting a decision by a coroner's jury.

MISS JOHNSON SPEAKS AT MISSIONARY MEETING

Miss Mary E. Johnson, who has spent thirty-six years in missionary work, spoke on Monday evening at the meeting of the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in the lecture room of the church. The speaker has recently returned on a furlough from her work at Mainturie, India. Miss Johnson was the guest of Mrs. Charles B. Evans on Monday.

NEW FOREMAN AT KELS

William S. Hamilton, whose home is in Bristol, Virginia, has joined the shop family at Kells in the capacity of foreman. Mr. Hamilton's specialty has been fine color work and composition. Before coming to Newark, he was associated with Edward Stern Company, The Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, and Cuneo and Henneberry, of Chicago.

Experiment On Feeding And Confinement Of Pullets During Laying Period

Tomhave And Mumford Eliminate Green Feed In Year's Test; Results
Of Importance To Poultrymen.

Mr. H. S. Palmer, extension poultryman at the Delaware Farm, has recently issued a report on an experiment on confinement and feeding of pullets that has been completed by A. E. Tomhave and C. W. Mumford of the Animal Husbandry Department of the University of Delaware. The experiment took one year. A pen with 100 White Leghorn pullets was used. The methods and findings were as follows:

"From November 1, 1926, until April 30, 1927, the pullets were confined to the laying house. After April 30, the birds were allowed to range on a 20 by 20 foot enclosure in front of the laying house. This enclosure was entirely bare of vegetation of any kind.

"The pullets were kept under lights from November 1, 1926, to April 1, 1927. Morning lights were used and turned on at such time in the morning as to give a 12 to 12½ hour day."

"The ration fed was as follows:

Mash Mixture

100 lbs. ground yellow corn
100 lbs. pure wheat bran
100 lbs. flour wheat middlings
75 lbs. alfalfa leaf meal
50 lbs. meat scraps 55%
50 lbs. dried butter milk
20 lbs. limestone flour
25 lbs. steamed bone meal
5 lbs. table salt

Grain Mixture

200 lbs. whole yellow corn
100 lbs. whole wheat

"On January, 1927, the meat scraps in the mash was increased to 75 pounds and 2 pounds of semi-solid butter milk was fed daily. This change was made because of the increase in price of dried butter milk."

"The mash mixture was fed in open hoppers and was kept before the pullets at all times. At 10:00 a. m. each day the birds were fed a wet mash which was made by mixing enough water to the dry mash to make it crumbly. The pullets were fed all the moist mash they would clean up in twenty minutes."

"Ten to twelve pounds of the grain mixture were fed once daily, at 4:00 p. m. No attempt was made to have grain left over, to be consumed the following morning."

"Two pounds of germinated oats were fed daily. Limestone grit and medium size oyster shell was available in hoppers at all times. Fresh clean water was always available."

Following is the monthly average egg production per pullet:—November, 8.4; December, 10.5; January, 13.9; February, 12.9; March, 17.3; April, 16.5; May, 16.4; June, 11.4; July, 12.1; August, 12.2. Total, 131.6. The pullets used in this trial were March hatched pullets and began laying during August, 1926. This fact may account for the dropping off in production during the summer months.

"The production of this pen of pullets which had been kept under confinement and had not been supplied with succulent green food, was compared with the production of some of the flocks reported in the Delaware Farm Egg Record Club for the ten months; November, 1926, to August, 1927, inclusive. Fourteen flocks were selected which included flocks of some of the best poultrymen in the State of Delaware. The comparison was made by calculating the average egg production per pullet based upon the original number of birds in November, 1926. The production was 116.2 eggs per pullet for the Delaware Farm Club flocks as compared with 113.2 for the pen of pullets under confinement in this trial. The average shrinkage in the fourteen Delaware Farm Club flocks was 45.1 per cent as compared with 45 per cent for the trial pen. This comparison indicates that the production of the pen of pullets under confinement compares favorably with the production of birds kept on range. These results should be of interest and importance to every poultryman who has a limited amount of range, and has difficulty in supplying his birds with succulent green food."

"The health of the pullets remained excellent during the entire trial. During this trial 45 birds were removed from the pen. Causes for removal are as follows:—Found dead in pen, 5; prolapse of the oviduct, 3; sickness, 4; culls, 33. Of the 33 culls removed, 28 were removed from the pen after April 25th."

"The pullets were severely culled so as to get the most efficient egg production from the feed consumed. As some of the pullets began laying during August, 1926, it was to be expected that quite a large number of culls would appear during the months of June, July and August, 1927. The shrinkage in the pen during the 304 days trial was 45 per cent."

"The average weight of the 55 pullets remaining at the conclusion of the trial was 3.59 pounds. A large per cent of the birds removed as culls were in excellent condition and of good weight and were sold at a fair price as market poultry."

"What were the ingredients in the ration used, that took the place of the succulent green food and kept the birds in such excellent condition and good production during ten months of confinement? Alfalfa leaf meal was incorporated in the mash to take the place of succulent green feed. Alfalfa leaf meal supplied the essential food elements vitamins A and B, which are usually supplied by green feeds. The results obtained indicate that 15 per cent of alfalfa leaf meal in the mash makes the feeding of succulent green food unnecessary. The alfalfa leaf meal used was of high grade having a minimum protein content of 18 per cent, and was a deep green in color."

"Another important ingredient in the ration is whole yellow corn. Yellow corn is superior to white corn in whereas white corn is decidedly efficient in this important food element. The advantages of feeding whole yellow corn in preference to cracked corn lies in the fact that whole corn is cheaper, and the poultryman also has the assurance that he is feeding the whole corn kernel, including the germ. Much cracked corn is being sold to poultrymen from which the germ has been removed, thus decreasing its feeding value. There is no doubt, but that the feeding of whole corn helped considerably in maintaining the weights of the birds."

"The purpose of the 20 x 20 foot yard used after May 1st was to provide the birds with an abundance of sunshine. An abundance of sunshine is essential in maintaining the health of the birds. Sunlight is an important source of Vitamin D, an essential in the poultry ration."

"The ration used contained a liberal supply of the various food elements essential to a good laying ration; namely, proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins. It is the opinion of the writers that the success of this ration is dependent upon the use of a Good Grade of Alfalfa Leaf Meal in the Mash and Whole Yellow Corn in the grain mixture."

THE DELAWARE SOCIETY OF COLONIAL DAMES OF AMERICA

The Delaware Society of Colonial Dames will unveil an Indian Memorial at Oak Orchard, Delaware, on Saturday afternoon, November 12th, at 2:30 o'clock.

The monument is erected in memory of Nau-Gwa-Ok-Wa—Lydia H. Clark, the last of the Nanticokes in Delaware and Eastern Maryland to speak the tribal tongue, and to wear the native dress.

The Nanticokes, or Moors, in Southern Delaware, were first encountered in the year 1608 by Captain John Smith, who mistook them for the Powhatans of Virginia, for whom he was searching. He was probably the first white man in Delaware. This Nanticoke tribe through successive generations still survives. The Society of Colonial Dames recognizes the historical importance of this fact, and in honoring the memory of Nau-Gwa-Ok-Wa it is also marking the site of the Nanticoke Settlement on Indian River, Delaware. All interested are invited.

The following program has been arranged:

Invocation to the Great Spirit; Presentation of the Deed of Gift for the Site of the Monument, Chief Wynlaw; Acceptance of the Deed, Mrs. Francis DeHaes Janvier, President of the Delaware Society of Colonial Dames; Unveiling of the Monument, Great-Granddaughter of Lydia H. Clark; Address, Dr. Frank G. Speck; Indian Dances.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS

By resolution of the State Board of Education, passed August 19th, 1927, all subsequent examinations for White Teachers shall be held in the Dover High School, Dover, Del.

Only examination questions shall be prepared in those subjects for those persons who shall make application for the same at least four weeks in advance of the time of giving said examinations.

The next examinations will be given on December 3rd and 10th.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Elkton and Vicinity

Elkton M. E. Church

Final plans are being made by the Elkton M. E. Church for the Evangelical Campaign to begin next Sunday under the direction of Dr. G. W. Cooke and his evangelistic party. Cottage prayer meetings have been held in every part of the town, that have been unusually well attended. The services will begin Sunday evening. Every department of the Church is working for the success of these services. All meetings will be changed to harmonize with the services. This evangelistic party have had unusual success wherever they have held a service and we are confident with the splendid support that Elkton knows how to give a good cause these services are going to be a great uplift to the Church and community. Services every night except Monday night at 7:30 p. m.

The Northern Convocation of the Diocese of Eastern will hold its fall meeting in Trinity Episcopal Church, Elkton, on Thursday, when the clergy and lay delegates from all of the Episcopal churches in Cecil and Kent counties will attend. Rev. Charles Atwater, of Chestertown, dean of the convocation, will preside at all meetings. Rev. Raymond Adams will deliver the opening sermon and Rev. Romily Humphries, of Baltimore, will preach in the evening. Bishop George W. Davenport will also attend the meeting. Mrs. William D. Crossley, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary, will serve lunch to those attending the session at the Parish House.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Trinity Episcopal Parish, of Elkton, the following were elected for the ensuing year: Miss Marion Young, president; Mrs. A. B. Walmsley, vice-president; Mrs. J. F. Virgin, secretary; Miss Julia Young, treasurer, and Miss Mollie Howard Ash, treasurer of the United Tract Offering.

In keeping with the spirit of Armistice Day, Cecil Post, No. 15, American Legion of Cecil County, has completed plans for appropriate exercises to be held in Elkton on November 11. The following committee will decor-rate the soldiers' monument: Mrs. Margaret King, chairman; Mrs. Wallace Williams, Mrs. Frank Bryson, Mrs. William R. Baldwin, Mrs. Curtis Jones, Mrs. Herbert Litzberg, Mrs. Ira Wells, Mrs. John E. Gonce, Mrs. William D. Cawley, Mrs. John DiPaola, Mrs. Daniel H. Garrett, Mrs. Henry Cleaves, Miss Clara Biddle, Miss Ida Davis and Miss Flora Ash.

Members of the Elkton Rotary Club held their semi-annual Ladies' Night Tuesday evening in the chapel adjoining the Presbyterian Church. The dinner was served by the Westminster Guild.

The jury of inquest called by Coroner Green to act on the case of Thomas Holland, who shot Price Graves, and who died in Union Hospital, Elkton, from the wounds, held Holland for December Court without bail.

Elkton Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karl and daughter, Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sparklin motored to Frederick, Md., on Sunday, and spent the day with Sergeant and Mrs. D. R. Perkins.

Mrs. D. R. Perkins and daughter, Lorene, are spending the week with Mrs. Perkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sparklin.

HOLD TWO NEGROES FOR ROBBERY

While Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown, who live on a farm near Sylmar, in the upper portion of Cecil county, were at church Sunday morning their home was broken into and two pocket-books containing a total of $46 were stolen. The robbery was discovered on their return and neighbors had seen two negroes coming from the vicinity of the farm house and starting to walk toward Oxford, Pa., just over the state line.

Word was telephoned to Oxford and Officer Lee met two negroes on the road some distance out of Oxford and placed them under arrest. They were brought to jail at Elkton where they gave their names as Joseph Evans and Francis VanDuke. When searched a total of $46 was found on the two of them.

FEDERAL AGENTS MAKE RAIDS

Prohibition Agents Spicer, Ely, Green and Brown, after spending the week-end in Cecil county, made a visit to the Harvey Jordan farm near Cowtown, Saturday, and took into custody Luke Goodyear, Alvin, alias Sam Downham, George Goodyear, George Boulden, and Harry Davis, all charged with manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

The still, said to be one of the largest in the county, was recently installed it is alleged, by Luke Goodyear, who with Downham, has been locked up on numerous occasions on various charges. The prisoners were taken to Baltimore for a hearing.

The officers next stopped at the home of William Clark, at Bacon Hill, where they found eight gallons of alleged moonshine liquor and a large quantity of beer. Clark was taken into custody together with his son, Herman Clark, and the latter's wife, Florence Clark. Mrs. Clark is said to have sold some beer a few days ago to one of the agents. They were sent to Baltimore for a hearing also.

The agents then motored to Porter's Bridge but failed to apprehend those engaged in operating a still, the men seeing the officers coming, plunged into the Octoraro creek and swam across the stream and escaped arrest. The officers destroyed 20 large boxes of mash and 140 gallons of liquor that was being placed in five gallon cans at the time the officers were approaching the scene.

CHILD BADLY SCALDED

Marion Freet, aged about 2 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Freet, of Chesapeake City, this county, was brought to Union Hospital, Elkton, Saturday morning, badly scalded about the legs and body. The mother of the child had filled a bucket with scalding water, and set it down on the floor while she answered a telephone call. The little fellow backed into the bucket, upsetting it on himself.

Mermaid

Harmony Grange had a good meeting on Monday evening. During the course of the business, a discussion arose regarding the busses which drive along the public roads without using stop lights, or without the drivers indicating when they expect to stop, endangering the lives of occupants of cars which follow them. The resolutions committee was instructed to draft resolutions concerning the question.

The matter of the fifth degree was discussed. The fifth degree will be conferred in full form at Newport, December 5, by the degree team of New Castle County Pomona.

A letter was read from State Master Robinson, telling of the meeting of the National Grange, at Cleveland, November 15 to 25; also, of the meeting of the State Grange, at Milford, December 13, 14 and 15.

The program, in charge of Miss Frances McClary, consisted of readings, recitations, jokes, and music. After the meeting had closed, Norman Appleby, one of the members, who is a salesman for the Fuller Brush Company, made a display of the company's wares.

Harry Pierce, of Milford, was a week-end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Peach. On Saturday, Paul Peach and his guest attended the Penn-Harvard game in Philadelphia.

Miss Helen Pierce and Miss Minnie Reynolds, of the du Pont-Biltmore, and Bancroft Peach, of Wilmington, were Sunday guests at the Peach home.

Miss Helen Pennington and Miss Reba Delatour, of Morrisville, Pennsylvania, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pennington.

Sunday dinner guests at the Pennington home were: Miss Ann Collins, of Hockessin; Francis Brittingham, of Kennett Square; Norman Appleby and James Derrickson, of Marshallton; Earl Evans and Miss Jean Grove, of Wilmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Pennington, of the Mermaid.

Sunday callers at the Pennington home were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwinhart and daughters, Betty and Alice, of Lansdowne, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Walker and daughter, Ann, of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Springer spent Sunday with relatives in Brandywine Hundred.

The Monday evening singing school, directed by Professor J. T. Clymer each week at White Clay Creek Church, is greatly enjoyed.

News from J. Harvey Whiteman, who is at Deland, Florida, states that he is in very poor health.

Appleton

The Jackson Hall School Improvement Association will meet at the school on Monday evening, November 14, at 8 o'clock.

November is donation month for the Fourth District Auxiliary of Union Hospital. Anyone having anything to contribute may take it to the meeting at Mrs. W. T. Lofland's on Saturday, November 12, at 2 p. m., and it will be forwarded to the Hospital from there.

The Grange meeting of November 7 was a most interesting one. An exhibit of farm produce was held. Short talks were given by the following: Mrs. H. R. Smith, Miss Mary Otley, Mrs. John Conden, Mrs. E. B. Milburn, Mrs. J. E. Zebley, Mr. J. E. Zebley, Mr. A. D. Short, Mr. Lawrence Hobson, Mr. E. B. Milburn. The exhibit included grain, vegetables, apples, canned and preserved products, jelly, flowers, and fancy articles. Some of the corn will be exhibited at the Chicago National Grain Show this month. One variety of apples, shown by Master E. B. Milburn, was especially interesting—this was the Wolf River apple, and requires but thirty-six apples to make a bushel. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Christiana

Tuesday evening, November 1, the Christiana Improvement Association held its regular monthly meeting in School Hall. Routine business was transacted, after which there was a short program, followed by serving of refreshments. The new teachers, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Kennard, were elected to membership in the association at this meeting. It is to be borne in mind that this association combines a community club with a parent-teacher association, and is a member of the State Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations.

The Supper, served by the ladies of the Christiana M. E. Church on November 2, was a wonderful success, socially and financially—the net proceeds being in the neighborhood of $235. The committees in charge were as follows: Oysters and chicken, Mrs. George Walters, Mrs. James Appleby and Mrs. Gregg Lynam; in charge of tables, Mrs. Harry Stafford, Mrs. William Elliott, Mrs. John Perkins and Mrs. William Appleby; fancy table, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. George McCarns and Mrs. Charles Beatty; cake and candy, Mrs. Frank Hawthorne; cashier, Mrs. R. Earle Dickey.

Last Sunday was Rally Day for the Methodist Sunday School, followed in the evening by a pageant, "The Church Beautiful". This pageant took the place of the regular evening church service, and was participated in by all the children of the Sunday School. Much credit is due Mrs. R. Earle Dickey for her untiring efforts in training the children and young people for their parts.

The Junior Choir, Mrs. H. A. Phelps leader, had charge of the music in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, November 6. It has lately been the custom for this group of young people to sing one Sunday in each month.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Social will be held this month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Dance, near State road, on Wednesday evening, November 9.

Last Saturday evening the Firemen gave a Halloween Masquerade Party and Dance in their firehouse at the Four Corners.

Tuesday evening of this week Mrs. Jennie Lee gave a Masquerade Party at her home, in honor of her daughter Lorraine's sixteenth birthday.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Henry Eastburn entertained the boys and girls of her Sunday School class at a Halloween Party, at her home in the village. All the little folks came masked. Many games were played, and refreshments appropriate to the occasion were served.

Last Wednesday evening Mrs. A. B. Currinder and her brother, Mr. Howard Burris, met with an accident while driving to Newport in Mr. Burris' car. Just under the traffic-signal light in the centre of Newport, a big Studebaker car making a left turn struck the bumper of Mr. Burris' car.

The shock of the collision threw Mrs. Currinder through the windshield, cutting her badly about the face, head and hands. Mr. Burris also was considerably bruised, but not seriously hurt.

Mr. Edward Burris, after having been bed-ridden for several months, suffering from rheumatism, and afterwards able to walk only with the aid of crutches, has so far recovered as to be able to walk from his home all the way to Christine—something over a mile—with the help of only one cane. He appeared in the village one day last week, and at that time he told his friends that he had not been here before for more than a year. He was much interested in all the improvements that have been made in the village during his absence.

Miss Alice Phelps, now located in Philadelphia, spent the week-end at her home here.

Mrs. George B. Reed received a call Sunday afternoon from Miss Chase and Miss Murphey, our teachers of two years ago.

Henry Mitchell Grose Dies From Wound At Elkton Hospital

Police Discover Hammer With Which They Believe Injuries Were Inflicted; Malin And Short Accused

Henry Mitchell Grose, aged about 55 years, who was found unconscious Wednesday afternoon last week under some bushes along Water street, Elkton, died Thursday afternoon at Union Hospital. His skull had been fractured, his face terribly battered with some blunt instrument, and his whole head was a mass of bruises where he had been beaten unmercifully. He never regained consciousness and the police are confronted with the problem of determining how he came to his death and who inflicted the fatal wounds.

At the request of Coroner Green, Dr. J. Herbert Bates and Dr. H. A. Cantwell performed an autopsy and came to the conclusion that death was due to the fracture of the skull. It was evident some blunt instrument had been used to inflict the wound. A jury was summoned and viewed the body.

Police have discovered a hammer which they believe was used to beat Grose about the head. They are satisfied the man, probably while in a stupor from liquor or drugs, was carried to the spot where his body was found and there beaten to death with this hammer. The place is secluded and discovery of the body was made only after Taft Malin, held for questioning in the case, had made some remarks about a man being seen there.

When he learned that Grose was dead Sheriff Logan summoned several deputies and rounded up a number of frequenters of resorts along Water street which is known as "The Coast." They were in jail with no specific charge against them, but all held for questioning by State's Attorney Constable to see if they can throw any light on the death of Grose.

Those in custody gave the names of Henry Short, George Short, Norman Cameron, Charles Purnell, Albert Cameron, James Jones, Andrew Sample, George Simpson, Walter Oldham, William Hitchens. They are all young men between 20 and 25 years of age and said to be frequenters of "The Coast."

Grose is known to have had at least $40 in his possession when he was last seen alive before going to Water street section Wednesday afternoon. When he was found the money had disappeared and he was minus his shoes and trousers.

Taft Malin and Henry Short were Saturday charged with the murder of Grose. George Short was held on a charge of robbery.

All of the men taken into custody in the case with the exception of Malin and Henry Short charged with murder and George Short, charged with robbery, were released. A hammer found in the home of Malin with dark marks supposed to be bloodstains upon it, and a pair of trousers belonging to Malin supposed to have bloodstains upon them, constitute a part of the evidence upon which the charge was made. These articles are now being examined and the stains analyzed to ascertain if they are really blood.

It is also claimed that Malin and Short were seen in company with Grose on an abandoned wharf on Water street, that Malin was trying to take a pair of new shoes off the feet of Grose and later Malin was seen coming from the bushes beneath which Grose was found with a fractured skull.

The charge of robbery against George Short is based upon the finding in his home of a number of articles which are known to have been stolen from the home of Manly Drennen, a former clerk of the court. It is understood that Malin claims that he got blood upon his trousers while killing a chicken.

The authorities are in hope that one or both of the accused men will make a statement as to how the murder of Grose was actually committed. Coroner Green has summoned a jury and an inquest will be held Thursday.

His funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. Jefferson McCoy at Chesapeake City.

Hospital Anniversary

The Flower Hospital will be one year old on Friday of this week. The opening of the hospital was a courageous venture, for it took time for the people of the community to realize that such an institution was needed in our midst. Meanwhile the two women at its head, Miss Ford and Miss Keegan, were obliged to finance the project and patiently wait. Little by little, facts became current: that the nurses were capable, that they were big-hearted, sympathetic women, good neighbors and kind friends and capable at their jobs. Business began to pick up and the success of the institution became assured. Newark people have a home-like hospital, where their own physicians may care for them, and they may see home-folks day by day.

The nurses appreciate Newark, too. They have been helped in many ways, and they are grateful. Words of encouragement have never been lacking, and many useful donations have come their way.

Ten babies have been born at the hospital. One hundred and twenty-four patients have been treated. A good record for a first year in a small town. Newark and the Flower Hospital are to be congratulated.

What Is A College?

There has been a long-standing controversy over the question of what constitutes an institution of learning, especially a college. Some contend it is the trustees, others the faculty, still others the student body. I suspect that it is the combination of all these and the better quality of each the better the institution will be. But there is yet another element which has come to be all-important in modern scholarship. That is the library. While the teacher is the instrumentality and the directing force, to a very large extent, for the training of youth and the diffusion of knowledge, books are, after all, the repository of learning. Without them the wide scope of modern scholarship would of course be entirely impossible, and no college would feel itself adequately equipped for the best service which was not provided with a well chosen and extensive library.

Books contain not only the priceless records of the past, but they are to a large extent the hope of the future. By means of them we have revealed to us the inventions and discoveries of science, the beauties of poetry, and the imperishable thoughts of the master minds of all the ages. A liberal education may begin in the classroom, but it will scarcely rise above mediocrity unless it is extended into the library and by that means broadened into the practical experience of life.

We are dedicating this library with its inestimable treasure of learning to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. It is well known that in his early life he had little opportunity to come in contact with books. He had almost nothing that could be dignified as schooling. While it is true that there is a very large field of education that lies entirely outside of books, yet books are the foundation of all education. It is said that Lincoln walked miles to borrow a book, and the few which he had, he studied until he had mastered them.

No one could have become the great master of English which he was, the author of the Gettysburg Address, the Emancipation Proclamation, and the second inaugural address, without a profound acquaintance with many books. His place merely in the realm of literature is such that it would be eminently fitting to dedicate any library to his memory.—From President Coolidge's speech at the Dedication of the Lincoln Memorial Library at the South Dakota State College, Sept. 10, 1927.

THE NEWSPAPER

A Mistaken idea with some people is that the newspaper is an individual proposition. If they don't like the editor, they feel they must knock the paper and stand in the way of its success whenever possible. They do not realize that the local paper is just as much a part of the community as the schools, churches or anything else. The newspaper is different from any other business, it is community affair. It is for service to the people and not for any individual.

You may not like the editor and the editor may not love you any too well—but the paper he is responsible for does just as much for you as the service rendered others. There is nothing personal with it, it is here for a purpose and that purpose is to do what good it can in every way it can and the greater the support of those it undertakes to serve the better service it can render. It takes the people to make a good newspaper and without the help of the people no one can run a successful newspaper. It requires money to operate any kind of business—even the churches and the papers are no exception and for this reason they must have the financial support of the business interest as well as the good will.

Few newspaper publishers make more than a comfortable living and scarcely one is reported wealthy from money made in the newspaper business. They deserve to be trusted and to be understood by the people—it is the editor and not the plant that makes a newspaper useful in a community, though a liberal patronage is necessary if the paper is to be a credit to the town.—Milford Chronicle.

Comparisons In Fame

The old question about the advantage which one man, or profession, has over another in the title to enduring fame has recently been threshed over again in the English press. What started the discussion was a remark which John Bright made to Mr. Morley when the latter went to consult him about the biography of his former close friend and colleague, Richard Cobden. With a touch of melancholy in his voice, as he was recalling the past, Mr. Bright said: "How short is the fame of a public man compared with that of a writer." He went on to cite the instance of Sir Robert Peel, who for many years filled an immense space in English life, but who had since sunk into semi-oblivion, with no written works to follow him and keep his memory alive. The case seems hardly conclusive. Sir Robert Peel will live long in the biographies of other statesmen, and his famous saying about making the bread of the workingman sweeter because untaxed is still as often quoted as any excerpt from writers contemporary with him. Besides, he gave the name "peeler" to the London police, which will long carry remembrance of him.

All such comparisons, if not odious, have an air of futility about them. The different categories are not sharply defined. An example can always be dragged out of one class to confute the arguments of those who champion the other. Perhaps Disraeli struck close to the secret of the business when he said that a statesman who is also a literary man carries a double-edged weapon. Even with that, there can be no certainty of cleaving a way to the lasting homage of posterity. A writer-statesman may not, when passing from earth, be any more sure than a poet that his name is not written in water. And either the statesmanship or the literature will be superior in the memory of men who come after; both seldom advance with equal regard. It is probable that today the achievements of John Quincy Adams as a public man, and they were considerable in his day, are overshadowed by his invaluable contribution to political history in the form of his immortal "Diary."—N. Y. Times.

COST OF LIVING IN HARLEM, NEW YORK

Cityites who have found it difficult to outline a cost-of-living budget which would keep the wolf safely away from the door and at the same time provide a small surplus for a rainy day, can view their difficulties clearly in a budget table which has recently been published by the National Industrial Conference Board.

According to the Board, the minimum budget for an industrial worker's family of man, wife and three children is $1,880.17 per year, or $36.16 per week; for a single man living apart from his family, $971.87 per year, or $18.69 per week; and for a single woman, living as part of a family group, $665.24 per year, or $12.80 per week.

In order to make a worker able to maintain "a fair American standard of living" on the above basis, the Board's figures show that an industrial worker supporting a family of five persons in the Borough of Manhattan is to be allotted $14.66 per week for food for the entire family, and $34 monthly for rent; single family industrial workers living as part of a family group are allowed $1.96 as their contribution toward the family rent and $3.39 weekly for food; the same class of workers is allowed two pair of silk stockings a year, two pair of $4 shoes a year, and $2.62 a year with which to keep these shoes soled and heeled. A man even has to be frugal about his smokes, male industrial workers being held to 30 cents weekly for tobacco, candy, etc.

The only time a horse gets scared nowadays is when he meets another horse.—North Jersey Motorist.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

WELFARE COMMITTEE MAKES APPEAL

Dear people of Newark:

The Social Service or Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club is having to meet many problems these wintry days. As we look about us we are confronted with the fact that there are people in our midst who are actually hungry, who have clothing entirely too insufficient to keep themselves decently warm and who are struggling along in cold houses trying to keep warm over meagre fires.

The needs of these various unfortunate families are many and it is the happy work of the Social Service Committee to alleviate as much of this suffering as possible. We cannot do it alone and if we are going to properly be able to meet these needs we are going to need YOUR help. We are hoping that every person in Newark will feel the urge to help in this work. Because of business conditions we are anticipating a hard winter which is going to tax our resources severely, but if each one will do his or her bit we know that we can in a big measure look after these needy families.

Will you not let us have a contribution from YOU? We need money, many many dollars and we need your old clothes which we will mend and put into proper condition. And then as the Christmas season advances when we begin to fill baskets for these families won't you remember us and make contribution of canned goods, jellies, fruits or anything that you would want in your basket? If you will just remember us from time to time and the work we are trying to do we feel sure that you will enjoy a holiday season happier than ever before because of the bit you have done to make some one else a little happier.

We are having a special DONATION DAY, Tuesday, November 15th, at which time we urge you to bring, especially, your bundles of clothes or your contribution of money. Please leave your articles at the New Century Club on that day anytime between the hours of ten and four. If you cannot bring the articles yourself, any member of the Committee, the names of which are listed below, will be most glad to call for your donation. We shall ask you for the food-stuffs sometime before the Christmas holidays.

With deep gratitude for any help you care to give us, we are Yours in the welfare work of the community.

The Social Service Committee.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

POTATOES AND PINEAPPLE

The housewife who likes to serve a meatless meal now and then, particularly in the summer, casts around in her mind for new combinations with which to tempt her family.

A recipe that satisfactorily fulfills the requirements of a meatless meal must be hearty and at the same time "fatty." It must have plenty of calories in it, and yet not be too heavy. An ideal combination that meets all these exigencies is sweet potatoes and pineapple. These two foods used together supply the necessary calories, starch, protein and vitamins. Here are two good recipes.

Two Meatless Dishes

Sweet Potatoes and Pineapple in Casserole—Place in a casserole two cups of cold boiled sweet potatoes cut in quarter inch slices. Cover with a can of sliced pineapple cut in small pieces, and pour over the following ingredients: one-half cup brown sugar, four teaspoons butter, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons red cinnamon drops. Let bake slowly for an hour.

Pineapple and Candied Sweet Potatoes—Cook and drain six medium sized potatoes, cut in half lengthwise. Put in a buttered pan. Cut in cubes six slices of pineapple and place on top. Brush with a syrup made of one-half cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup water and three tablespoons butter. Bake fifteen minutes, basting at intervals with part of the syrup which has been kept out for the purpose.

FOR BETTER BREAKFASTS

Breakfast is the time of day when the appetite is at its lowest ebb. Then, if ever, food must be presented in its very loveliest guises and most intriguing forms. Hot drinks must be piping hot, fruit must be iced, and toast, pancakes or waffles must be just off the fire to be tempting.

Another important point in the planning of breakfasts is the varying of the menu. The same fruit day after day will not serve. Variety is absolutely essential if the meal is to be enjoyed as it deserves.

A Versatile Fruit

Have you thought of using pineapple in its many seductive forms as an addition to the matutinal meal? Every member of the family will enjoy a variation from routine food and find breakfast a meal of greater interest.

There are so many ways of adapting this versatile fruit to breakfast needs that it might be used right through the whole menu from beginning to end. Here are a few suggestions.

A Few Ways to Use It

Try chilled sliced pineapple as a breakfast fruit. It is delicious and contains minerals you need. Crushed pineapple on cereal will add a lot to the taste of it; fried sliced pineapple may be used with bacon, and here is a recipe for a delicious sauce to complement the waffle or pancake course.

Crushed Pineapple Sauce for Waffles—Cream one-third cupful butter. Add one cupful of confectioner's sugar gradually while beating constantly. Then add one-fourth cupful of boiling water, and when light and well mixed, add one and one-half cupfuls drained, crushed pineapple.

FRUIT TWICE A DAY

"What price health" is a question interesting to every person over or under thirty. From that vantage point that elders with hypertension, the various forms of so-called rheumatism, indigestion in its manifold expression are examples to avoid, the sturdy health of the youngsters must be preserved and a vital middle age prepared for and anticipated. Our laboratory workers and physicians say that plenty of milk, fresh vegetables and fruits is the answer to this question.

The milk and vegetables are gradually getting their due measure of attention but the fruits have not yet taken their proper and allotted place in our daily scheme of living. Fruit twice a day offers a pleasure appreciated by most palates in addition to high health insurance.

Under Many Guises

Let us see what can be done with one raw fruit and one canned fruit such as pineapple in the day's menu. If our raw fruit is orange juice or half a grapefruit to begin the day, the pineapple could appear in various guises for either lunch or dinner. Pineapple is used in fruit soups, in cocktails or compotes, in salads, desserts and more recently combined with meats or vegetables in the main course. Pineapple and lamb chops have become traditional fare for the person seeking a slimmer or less bulging silhouette. Sweet potatoes with pineapple would help the too slim acquire a suggestion of the curves so necessary for feminine beauty. Either would delight the average person seeking to maintain health and hold down weight.

At All Meals

A plate breakfast would dispense with raw fruit in favor of sausage with sauteed sliced pineapple and waffles served with pineapple syrup made by heating the pineapple syrup drained from the fruit with one cup of brown or three-fourths of a cup of white sugar.

Try tomatoes stuffed with pineapple for your main luncheon dish or to accompany that big juicy steak you are going to have for dinner one night this week. At luncheon a little left over chopped meat will add interest and satisfaction to this dish, but it is not necessary.

"FUNNY FACE"

"Funny Face," fourth of the big musical comedies produced by Alex. A. Aaron and Vinton Freedley, sponsors of "Lady, Be Good," "Tip toes" and "Oh, Kay!" will be the attraction at the Shubert Playhouse, Wilmington, all next week.

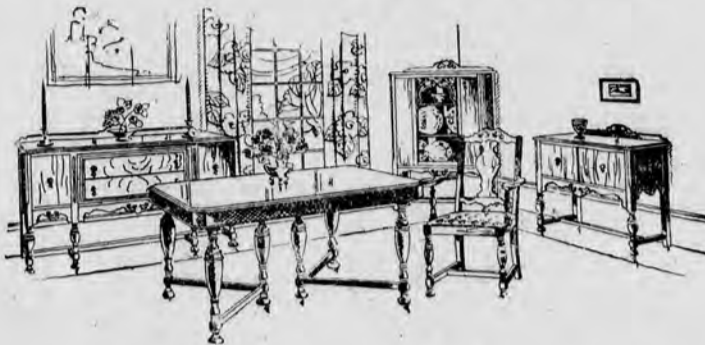

This gay and tuneful entertainment which comes to Wilmington from a successful run in Washington and at the Shubert Theatre, Philadelphia, on its way to a Gotham opening, will disclose Fred and Adele Astairs, talented brother and sister of "Lady, Be Good," in the principal roles. Their associates, to the number of one hundred and twenty, will include William Kent, comedian of "Rose Marie," Betty Compton, Gertrude McDonald, Kathryn Ray, Henry Whitmore, the Ritz Quartet and Victor Arden and Phil Ohman, piano roll stars, who will appear in person at every performance.

"Funny Face" is the joint contribution of Fred Thompson and Robert Benchley, with music by the incomparable George Gershwin and lyrics by his brother, Ira. Edgar MacGregor is director of the book, and Bobby Connolly stager of the dances, and those who have ventured to Philadelphia to see "Funny Face" are unanimous in the opinion that he has developed the most agile dancing chorus of the year.

"Funny Face" will be one of the biggest musical comedy attractions playgoers will have the privilege of seeing this theatrical year.

Etiquette of Week-End Visiting

Week-end entertaining has become such an important feature of modern social life that it has developed what may be considered its own code of etiquette. This particular form of usage should be well understood by both hostess and guests for many of the rules generally accepted as correct are the reverse of what would have been looked upon as "good form" even a few years ago. This is especially noticeable in the manner of invitation. As the short, week-end visit has to a large extent superseded the one of longer duration, so has the definite invitation for a clearly specified time taken the place of the somewhat rambling note asking a guest to come "about the middle of the month and stay as long as possible."

There is not the slightest discourtesy in the new order of things. The present style of invitation, whether conveyed by mail or over the telephone, while a model of cordiality states quite frankly the train by which the guest shall preferably arrive, and, quite as definitely, the most convenient one for departure. Even when the arrival is to be by motor, this definiteness is no less apparent, as the modern hostess is strictly living up to accepted rules of etiquette when she mentions, at least approximately, the time of expected arrival and also that of departure. This conciseness is an excellent thing as in some localities the week-end is supposed to begin Friday afternoon and in other places guests arrive before luncheon on Saturday. The modern rules eliminate any chance for misunderstanding. In any case, the week-end guest is supposed to leave before luncheon on Monday unless otherwise arranged. In fact, should a guest neglect to mention to the hostess the time of departure Monday morning, it is quite permissible according to the new order of things, for the hostess when saying good-night to inquire what train has been decided upon, that baggage may be provided for and a conveyance ready to accommodate the departing guest. These are all features of modern week-end entertaining which formerly would have been considered as actual rudeness, but which present conditions have not only made necessary but desirable.

For the individual guest who comes for a longer time, there is a little more leeway, but it is customary even in such cases for the hostess to make plain the desired duration of the visit. Regardless of how intimate a note of invitation may be, it can still contain something definite like this, for instance: "We are counting on your giving us 10 days, beginning September 10. There is an excellent train arriving at a quarter to five, but the enclosed time-table will help you to decide which one you prefer." The guest will see from this that her hostess evidently prefers a late afternoon train and will, if possible, take the one suggested.

Information Definite

When the invitation is to a country house, it is a pretty idea to have special stationery with the name of the house, post office address and telephone number as a heading. The usual arrangement is to have the name of the house and postal address in the center and the telephone number either stamped or engraved, slantingly, across the upper left-hand corner. In those summer places where railroad, telegraph and express offices are listed under different locations, this information is sometimes given pictorially. The railroad is represented by a tiny engraved locomotive, telegraph poles, telephone receiver, mail bag and express tag, each tells its story in miniature. This is practical as well as ornamental, and gives important information.

In inviting a married couple, the affair is transacted entirely between the women of the two families, the note being written by the hostess to the wife, in turn answers it for both her husband and herself. When inviting a brother and sister, the invitation is addressed to the sister, who answers for both. In the case of inviting two sisters the note is written to the elder one. Invitations to friends of the son or daughter of the family should preferably be written by the mother, as hostess. If this is not done, the note should at least include the mother's name and begin somewhat like this: "Mother has asked me to write," or "Mother hopes you can come to us," showing that even though the mother does not write personally, the invitation is from her, as hostess of the family.

It is often possible to include, even in a brief note, some hint as to the contemplated activities of the week-end and it is sometimes well to mention who the other guests are to be. Advance information of this kind is helpful to the prospective guest in deciding what clothes to bring and in forecasting what the general interests of the group will be.

Consideration for Others

Whether the visit is to one of the great establishments more like a hotel or club than a private house, or to a modest bungalow with but one "spare room," the underlying idea of the participants should be the same. There should be the desire on the part of the entire family to make guests comfortable and happy; visitors in turn should endeavor to give as little extra work and as much pleasure as possible. The ideal hostess and the ideal guest usually have the same qualifications, the most important one being consideration for others. Impulsive hospitality that brings together those who may not be congenial or over-crowds the living accommodations of the house, must be guarded against. The experienced hostess never exceeds the resources or equipment of the home. No one should be asked to share a room with another guest except under conditions that are well understood. Two sisters may presumably occupy the same room, or two brothers. There are also cases where school friends or college chums would not object to being asked to room together, but in all such cases the room should be furnished with twin beds.

In small houses, with perhaps two bathrooms, the general arrangement is that the hostess shares her private bathroom with the women guests and her husband and the men guests use the other. Where there is but a single bathroom the family should put the comfort of guests first, and, by early rising, leave the room free at such hours as will be convenient for guests. Unusual care must be taken in the matter of guest towels and individual soap, so that each one's equipment may be clearly designated. In a bathroom to be used by several persons, individual equipment, including towel-rack, glass shelf and holder for drinking glass and toothbrush, is the most practical means of keeping belongings distinct. Above each it is well to fasten a small metal card-holder such as is used for inserting labels on filing cabinets. The hostess then writes the name of each guest on a card of the proper size and each person at once sees which individual equipment to use.

The ideal guest room not only has all the obvious necessities but they must be in good working order. The door should either lock or bolt easily, the bureau drawers must not only be empty and paper lined but should pull in and out without sticking. The clock should keep correct time. The closet should be empty except for garment hangers and two or three hat supports. The desk equipment should include a calendar, a pencil sharpener and local time-tables in addition to the usual supplies.

Some member of the family usually meets the arriving guest at the station, although the hostess must often remain at home to welcome others. Responsibility for guests, as generally understood, is upon the hostess from the time the guest leaves the train and there should always be someone to assume charge at the moment of arrival. Where a public conveyance is required, it should be arranged for in advance by the hostess and paid for. This should be accepted by the guest as part of the hospitality of the occasion. Guests are greeted in the front hall, and, if the arrival is in the late afternoon when light refreshments are being served in the living room, women guests are asked whether they prefer to go to their rooms or join the group. Usually everyone meets informally at this time. About an hour before dinner the hostess casually mentions the time and when dinner will be served. Guests go to their rooms and, in large houses, find their baggage already opened and unpacked. This all depends upon the degree of service provided. The host and hostess await their guests in the living room a few minutes before the announcement of dinner.

An Elastic Program

Where there is no definite entertainment in progress for the evening it is permissible any time between 10:30 and 11 for the hostess to make it easy for anyone who so chooses to say "good-night." This may come about through mention of the next day's program, or the breakfast hour, and perhaps inquiry as to who would like a breakfast tray sent to the room.

Even in small houses the plan of serving breakfast in the rooms of the women guests, is often the most convenient one to the hostess and acceptable to the visitors. The men always come to the table.

The wise hostess usually has a program of amusements planned for her guests, but this is so elastic as not to be uncomfortably binding on any guest who prefers not to participate. As a rule, a houseful of friends will entertain themselves according to their tastes and the environment, plus kindly suggestions rather than supervision on the part of host or hostess. It is always a mistake to crowd too much into a few days or have every moment planned for according to schedule.

Last impressions, as well as first ones, should be agreeable, so let both hostess and guest allow ample time for a gracious leave-taking. There should be no delay in removing a guest's baggage from the room or starting for the station, and all details in connection with departure should be so pleasant as to tarry long in the memory as a delightful ending to a satisfactory visit.

A DEFENSE OF WEATHER

Speaking of weather—and who isn't—it was one of Mark Twain's justly celebrated observations that everybody complained about the weather, but no one seemed to do anything about it. It's a good thing no one does. If anyone did, he would probably deprive us of one of our greatest democratizing influences. It is our contention that weather, using the term in a broad, general all-embracing sense, is one of the greatest boons ever conferred upon mankind. We are in favor of weather. It has given us a communal interest, a topic for conversation upon which everyone has certain definite and fixed opinions, which he has no hesitancy in voicing.

Only a few of us look eye to eye upon such matters as art, literature and how to make strawberry short-cake, but when it comes to weather all mankind meets on common ground. Rich or poor, educated, illiterate and intermediate, we all can appreciate weather. There's something about it, especially cold weather, that strikes all of us, as you might say, in the same manner—and, judging from the postures assumed about the radiator by the incoming office force, in about the same spot. Of Chopin's spirituality as expressed in his prelude in

A flat we know little and care less. Politics doesn't interest us. Neither does art. All we know is that it's cold enough to freeze the whiskers off a brass monkey and there's no street car in sight.

Mankind really owes quite a bit to weather. It is one thing that has been absolutely free. Let's give it a big hand! It has kept mankind talking a million years, is always pertinent, and, as a conversational bugle, hasn't cost a cent!—Kansas City Times.

RELIEVED OF THAT BURDEN

A kind old gentleman, seeing a small boy who was carrying a lot of newspapers under his arm, said: "Don't all those papers make you tired, my boy?"

"Naw, I don't read 'em," replied the lad.—Christian Register.

A GREAT VENTURE

A college course is a great venture. No one can guarantee that one who takes it will ever be financially better off for his four years of study. But the examples are so many of men who start out in business with great promise, but afterward fail for the lack of exactly the type of vision given by college, that for a future business man, who is mentally equipped for college work, the risk is greater in not going than in going.—Providence Journal.

It makes a man furious to have a woman use her intuition on him instead of her reason, because he knows she is right and has no business to be.

A mile of pennies well invested will yield a lot of sense.

"Take Care of Yourself!" —well-known bit of advice

When business or fun keeps you out late these cold, rainy evenings, and you come home chilled to the bone—that's when a Hot Bath means real comfort. It's like soaking up sunshine.

Then bed, and the refreshing sleep—that a hot bath induces.

That's how to "take care of yourself."

OBITUARY

MISS HARRIET G. DAVIS

Miss Harriet G. Davis, aged 88 years and 4 months, died at 10 o'clock Sunday morning of pneumonia, at the home of her nephew, Henry Winter Davis, at Cooch's Bridge. Miss Davis suffered a fractured hip when she fell at the church at Bethel, Maryland, three weeks ago, and has been confined to her bed since that time. Pneumonia developed on Saturday before her death.

The deceased, one of eight children, was the daughter of Sarah Sheridan Davis and Jehu Thomas Davis, and was born June 28, 1839, at Darlington, Harford County, Maryland. She attended a private school at that place and taught for several years in Maryland schools. She was the sister of the late Jehu Davis and has made her home at the Davis homestead, now the home of H. W. Davis, for the past ten years. One brother of the family, Mr. H. Cornelius Davis, survives her. She and this brother lived past the one hundredth anniversary of the date of their parents' marriage.

Miss Davis was a charming person, one whom it was a delight to meet. She was an intelligent and broad-minded reader, an interesting conversationalist, interested in young people and all the news of the day.

The funeral services were conducted this afternoon at Salem M. E. Church by Reverend Spencer, the pastor, assisted by Reverend Alfred G. Brooks. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

JAMES WILLIAM KENNEDY

James William Kennedy, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kennedy, of Christiana, was buried yesterday at Havre de Grace, Maryland.

BABY EARLE

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Earle died on November 6 and was buried November 7, at Iron Hill Cemetery.

A grinning crowd stood around the two unconscious men lying on the sidewalk. "What's the matter here?" demanded a policeman who had rushed up, attracted by the crowd. "Oh nothing," replied one of the bystanders. "A real estate man was trying to sell a lot to the motor car salesman who was trying to sell him a car. They were pretty evenly matched, for they both dropped from exhaustion at the same moment."—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Swarthmore Barely Wins From Delaware

Blue And Gold Holds Heavy Rivals To One Touchdown; Jay Vees Lose To W. C. I.

Delaware showed its heroic fibre on Saturday afternoon, when it held a hurly Swarthmore football team to one touchdown and came within a whisper of tying the score in the last period. It was an entirely different exhibition from the one last year, when practically the same Swarthmore team rode roughshod over Delaware for a score of 47 to 7. This year the light Blue and Gold fought the Little Quakers with little to choose between them for the first half, slipped a little in the third period to allow Swarthmore 7 points, and came back and put them on the defensive in the final quarter.

Delmuth, Quaker fullback, made all of Swarthmore's points. A series of plunges had brought the ball to Delaware's 3-yard line where he took it over in a play through tackle, also kicking accurately for the extra point.

In the last quarter Creamer mixed straight football with an aerial attack that nearly put Swarthmore to rout. Starting deep in Delaware territory, Creamer threw two long passes to Loveland which gained 50 yards; each time Loveland came within inches of going through for a touchdown. With the ball on the 10-yard line, DiJoseph and Flynn smashed through the line for ten more yards. Swarthmore tightened its defense and allowed only 5 yards on three plays. Creamer then tried another pass to Loveland. Loveland was clear and back of the Swarthmore goal, but the pass was wide and he missed it.

Delaware undoubtedly played its best exhibition of this season. The line held like a rock, and in the first half the two teams fought each other to a standstill, neither able to gain any considerable distance. In the last half, Delaware showed both defensive and offensive strength; several times holding for downs with the ball a few feet from its goal line.

Taylor and Loveland were never more elusive and gained most of the yardage for Delaware, but DiJoseph probably played the best football of the afternoon. He was good for yards through the line whenever called on, and was outstanding on the defensive. Glasser was a particular thorn in the flesh of the Swarthmore backfield, getting back to spill plays before they were under way. Line-up:

Deciding Game

At 2:15 Saturday, on Frazer Field, the Newark High School football team will play du Pont High School in a game which, if Newark wins or ties, will give them the title in the Northern bracket of the D. I. A. A. If du Pont should win, the two teams would be tied for first place and would have to play another game to decide the privilege of playing Laurel for the State Championship. With a game with their deadly rivals, Laurel, in prospect, Newark should be at a sharp edge to take Saturday's game. The Continental Band will furnish music at the game.

Novel Stunt Features Pepfest And Smoker

Gastronomic Wonder Eats Glass and Razors At Old College, Freshman Parade

The annual freshman parade of Delaware College was held Friday night as a preliminary of a pepfest in preparation of the Delaware-Swarthmore game. The pepfest and smoker was held in Old College.

Andy Culver presided at the pepfest and Professors Rees, Olson and Blair judged the students in costume, who were competing for prizes.

One feature of the program was the remarkable stunt of Eddie Clark, 23 years old, of California, who ate a dozen or more razor blades, an electric light bulb and a drinking glass. This diet does not seem to hurt Clark as he has been feeding on razor blades, electric light bulbs and glasses for six years.

Clark who had been in Wilmington for several days came to Newark Friday night especially to do his stunt at the pepfest. He started by chewing up and swallowing a number of razor blades of several different varieties. He then put a light bulb in his handkerchief and after breaking it, bit off a piece at a time, chew up the glass and swallow until he had eaten practically all the glass. Several members of the faculty of the university students stood within a few feet of Clark while he was eating the razors and glass and there was no doubt whatever but what he swallowed the blades and glass after chewing them up. He remained in the room until the close of the smoker and did not seem to be injured in any way by his performance. A collection was taken up for Clark.

Another feature was the singing of a new song, "Sweetheart of Delaware," by K. D. Given. This song was composed by Charles E. Green and the music composed by Given. This pair, both of whom are graduates, also composed the song "Old College" several years ago. They expect to have "Sweetheart of Delaware" published.

The prize winners were announced as follows: Best dressed, $5, Lewis Adams; second, $5, Samuel Krawatz; third, $2.50, Richard Harner; best skit, $7.50, quartet, Long, Cordrey, Street and Smith; second, John Russo, $5; best yell, $2.50, Sweeney and Fox; funniest dressed, $5, divided between Ricards and Pancoast; most striking costume, first, $2.50, Frank Stewart; second, $1, Benjamin Phillip; third, $1, James Hill.

"THE NIGHT OF LOVE"

Perhaps the most romantic pair of screen lovers today are Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, whose previous appearance on the screen have marked them for remarkable success. They came to the Arcadia Theatre at Wilmington the week of November 14th in the most colorful production of their joint careers, a purely romantic and highly diverting photoplay, "The Night of Love."

The gorgeous blonde beauty, Miss Banky, has become that rarest of lovely feminine types, the blonde Spanish senorita. She is a princess of Spain in the more colorful days when swashbuckling knights were no more colorful than the daring, dark-skinned gypsies who haunted the hills and plundered the cities. This princess is stolen on her wedding night by a dark-eyed gypsy king and between them grows a love that outshines to nothingness the spirit of revenge that prompted the kidnapping.

Colman as the gypsy-lover, knight in disguise, is a perfect hero to the loveliness of Miss Banky's heroine.

"When there's moonshine in the cellar, there's little sunshine in the home."

Newark Soccer Team Northern Champions

1 to 0 Victory Over Claymont Gives Them Title To Play For State Championship

By dint of one goal in the first half, the Newark Junior High School soccer team won the game that decided the Northern D. I. A. A. championship, when they defeated Claymont on Friday afternoon. The game, which was played at Claymont, was fast and close. Newark had a slight edge in the first half, but the teams fought on even and scoreless terms in the second. Captain Lyons, of Newark, was the individual star of the game.

Newark will play the winner of the Southern half of the D. I. A. A. for the State championship. Line-up:

Newark	Claymont
Wallis .....	Johnson
Coverdale .....	Long
Gibbons .....	right halfback
Lyons .....	center halfback

NEWARK HOLDS ABERDEEN TO 7-7 SCORE

"Big K. O." White, Sub End, Shows Up Well

After a hard game at Aberdeen the powerful Newark eleven staved off what seemed a certain defeat and held their opponents to a tie score. During the first half neither side was able to score. The second half, however, opened in earnest. Newark's husky guard, "Bus" Wollaston, started them toward their only score. Several line plunges put the ball within scoring distance and then Kay went over for the first six points of the game. Bill Rupp added a point by a neat drop kick. Aberdeen scored in the fourth quarter as a result of a poor punt. Newark bitterly contested the right to score but after a series of line plunges and off tackle thrusts the soldiers scored. Their try for point succeeded, tying the score.

This game is the third one played by the local aggregation. Two games have been won and one game tied. The game last Saturday week with the Southside Terrapins gave Newark a 7-6 victory.

The team as a whole has showed up very well. "Big K. O." White, who substituted for Russell at end, played like a veteran. His nailing of the Aberdeen backs for substantial losses greatly helped the Newark team.

Sophs Take Football Game From Frosh

A forward pass, Wright to Steel, gave the University of Delaware Sophomores a touchdown and victory, 6 to 0, in their annual game with the Freshmen. The Frosh outplayed their opponents in the first half and threatened their goal several times but could not get the ball over. In the third quarter Wright intercepted a forward pass and ran to the Freshman 25-yard line before being downed. A minute later Steel caught a pass from Wright and scored the touchdown. Steel failed to kick the goal.

MINSTREL SHOW

Newark will be treated to a high-class minstrel show next Wednesday night, when the Community Minstrel Troupe will give a performance in the Newark Opera House for the benefit of the Progressive League.

The Community Troupe is one of the best minstrel organizations in this part of the country and contains such professional stars as Professor Smith and Jack Gilligan. The company numbers about 35 and is from Perryville, Md. It will be augmented by local talent to bring the number to over forty. They carry their own orchestra of seven pieces and a truckload of special scenery. They will give a performance in Elkon tomorrow night.

Teufelsdröckh's Night View of the City

A look down into all that wasp-nest of a city, and witness their waxing and honey-making, and poison brewing, and choking by sulphur. From the Palace esplanade, where music plays while Serene Highness is pleased to eat his victuals, down the low lane, where in her door-sill the aged widow, knitting for a thin livelihood, sits to feel the afternoon sun, I see it all; for, except the Schloss-kitchen weather-cock no biped stands so high.

Coasters arrive bestrapped and belabored, bearing Joy and Sorrow bagged-up in pouches of leather; there, top-laden, and with four swift horses, rolls in the country Baron and his household; here, pm tomber-leg, the lamed Soldier hops painfully along, begging alms; a thousand carriages, and wains, and cars, come tumbling in with Food, with young Rusticity, and other Raw Produce, inanimate or animate, and go tumbling out again with Produce manufactured.

That living flood, pouring through these streets, of all qualities and ages, knowest thou whence it is coming, whither it is going? From Eternity onwards to Eternity!

These are apparitions: what else? Are they not souls rendered visible: in bodies that took shape and will lose it, melting into air? Their solid Pavement is a Picture of the Sense; they walk on the bosom of Nothing; black Time is behind them and before them.

Or fanciest thou, the red and yellow clothes-screen yonder, with spurs on its heels and feathers in its crown, is it of today, without a yesterday or a tomorrow; and had not rather its Ancestor alive when Hengst and Horsa over-ran thy Island? Friends, thou seest here a living link, in that Tissue of History, which inweaves all Being: watch well, or it will be past thee, and seen no more.

"Ach, mein lieber!" said Teufelsdröckh once, at midnight, when we had returned from the coffee-house in rather earnest talk, "it is a true sublimity to dwell here. There fringes of lamplight, struggling up through smoke and thousand-fold exhalation, some fathoms into the ancient region of Night, what thinks Bootes of them, as he leads his Hunting-dogs over the Zenith in their leash of sidereal fire? That stifled hum of midnight, when Traffic has laid down to rest; and the chariot-wheels of Vanity, still rolling here and there through distant streets, are bearing her to Halls roofed in, and lighted to the due pitch for her; and only Vice and Misery, to prowl or to moan like night-birds, are abroad: that hum, I say, like the stertorous, unquiet slumber of sick life, is heard in Heaven! Oh! under that hideous coverlet of vapours, and putrefactions, and unimaginable gases, what a Fermenting-vat lies simmering and hid! The joyful and the sorrowful are there; men are dying there, men are being born; men are praying,—on the other side of a brick partition, men are cursing; and around them all is the vast, void Night.

"The proud Grandee still lingers in his perfumed saloons, or reposes within damask curtains; Wretchedness cowers into truckle-beds, or shivers hunger-stricken into its fair of straw; in obscure cellars, Rouge-et-Noir languidly emits its voice-of-destiny to haggard hungry villains; while Councilors of State sit plotting and playing their high chess-game whereof the pawns are Men. The Lover whispers his mistress that the coach is ready; and she, full of hope and fear, glides down, to fly with him over the barriers; the Thief, still more silently, sets to his pick-locks and crouches, or lurks in wait till the watchmen first snore in their boxes. Gay mansions, with supper-rooms and dancing-rooms, are full of light and music and high-swalling hearts; but, in the condemned cells, the pulse of life beats tremulous and faint, and bloodshot eyes look out through the darkness, which is around and within, for the light of a stern last morning.

"Six men are to be hanged on the morrow: comes no hammering from the Rabenstein!—their gallows must even now be o'building.

"Upwards of five-hundred-thousand two-legged animals without feathers lie round us, in horizontal position; their heads all in nightcaps, and full of the foolishlest dreams. Riot cries aloud, and staggers and swaggers in his rank dens of shame; and the Mother, with streaming hair, kneels over her pallid dying infant, whose cracked lips only her tears now moisten.

"All these heaped and huddled together, with nothing but a little carpentry and masonry between them; crammed in, like salted fish in their barrels; or weltering, shall I say, like an Egyptian pitcher of tamed vipers, each struggling to get its head above the others; such work goes on under that snake-counterpane.

"But I sit above it all; I am alone with the Stars!"—Sartor Resartus, Chap. III.

PEDESTRIANISM

I do not think I exaggerate the importance or the charms of pedestrianism, or our need as a people to cultivate the art. I think it would tend to soften the national manners, to teach us the meaning of leisure, to acquaint us with the charms of the open air, to strengthen and foster the tie between the race and the land. No one else looks out upon the world so kindly and charitably as does the pedestrian; no one gives and takes so much from the country he passes through. Next to the laborer in the fields, the walker holds the closest relation to the soil; and he holds a closer and more vital relation to Nature because he is freer and his mind more at leisure.

Man takes root at his feet, and at best he is no more than a potted plant in his house or carriage till he has established communication with the soil by the loving and magnetic touch of his soles to it. Then the tie of association is born; then those invisible fibres and rootlets through which character comes to smack of the soil, and which makes a man kindred to the spot of earth he inhabits.

The roads and paths you have walked along in Summer and Winter weather, the meadows and hills which you have looked upon in lightness and gladness of heart, where fresh thoughts have come into your mind, or some noble prospect has opened before you, and especially the quiet converse with your friend—pausing under the trees, drinking at the spring—henceforth they are not the same; a new charm is added; those thoughts spring there perennial, your friend walks there forever.—John Burroughs.

IN BEHALF OF BIRDS

A winter garden without birds may be an enchanting spot but is surely bereft of a great interest. Some of the favorite songsters may decide to "board" with one all winter if one starts now to place suit and dishes of seed for them to nibble. By winter they will have become familiar with a dependable source of food and find it pleasant to stay.

In farming and certain suburban districts the quail should be given special attention. If enticed daily with grain before cold weather sets in, this lovable little denizen of field and woodland will come regularly all winter long for food and to seek shelter among the shrubbery. Severely cold weather, especially when deep snows endure over a long period, often works a serious hardship on quail, making it very difficult for them to find food.

Flub: "What caused the collision today?"

Dub: "Two motorists after the same pedestrian."—Judge.

THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

SENDING PICTURES BY TELEPHONE

BELL Telephone scientists invented a machine for sending pictures over a telephone wire.

Telephone research—to improve your telephone service—gave it birth.

From this same effort have come Television, Vitaphone, Radio Telephone, Public Address Systems, Radio networks, the improved phonograph, and medical aids such as the Audiphone, Audiometer, and Electric Stethoscope.

All these things grew out of studies and experiments to make your telephone service better.

The fact that you can make out-of-town calls to nearby points just like local calls is, to you, a more tangible result.

A newly developed high speed service to more distant points is another.

The whole American nation, and Canada and Cuba—and now parts of Europe and Mexico—have been brought into your home or office.

Because of ceaseless study and experiment, your telephone service—your every-day use of the telephone—is today more dependable, more accurate, more highly personalized, and is greatly increased in scope.

State Police Solve Death of Girl

been an automobile accident several people rushed to the scene, but could find no one.

Monday afternoon William D. Stewart was arrested as a suspect by Private Workman of the State Police, and after being taken to view the woman's body, made a partial confession as to having known the woman and having quarreled with her. He did not give her name or admit having struck her. Stewart worked for Mr. Deputy, near Porters and had a house on Mr. Deputy's farm. The woman was not positively identified until yesterday afternoon when her aunt, Sally Franklin, of Baltimore, was brought on to make an identification. She took the body back to Baltimore last night.

Confession

It was found that the Franklin girl had been living with Stewart, and yesterday afternoon, he made a full confession of the crime. His signed confession read as follows:

"I, William D. Stewart, do make the following statement of my own free will and without threat or promise of anything. On Saturday, November 5, I beat Allice Franklin at my home on Mr. Deputy's place near Porters, Del., over my dog, and drove her from my home. Going down the road with her she screamed all the time, and below Glasgow she kept falling down on the road. I then drug her off the road and into a field and left her there."

SCHOLASTIC STANDING AT DELAWARE COLLEGE

Statistics of the scholastic standing of students of Delaware College of the University of Delaware for 1926-1927 have just been compiled in Dean Dutton's office. In the following statement, 3 represents a grade of A; 2 represents a grade of B; 1 represents a grade of C; and zero represents a grade of D. These are four passing grades.

For the first term, the average scholastic standing of the entire student body was 1.012; for the second term, the average scholastic standing of the entire student body was 1.334. For the first term, the standing of the Non-Fraternity men was .914; the standing of Fraternity men was 1.176. For the second term, the standing of Non-Fraternity men was 1.359; the standing for Fraternity men was 1.319.

The scholastic standing of Fraternities for first term was as follows: Sigma Tau Phi, 1.748; Phi Kappa Tau, 1.690; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 1.164; Theta Chi, 1.094; Sigma Nu, .963; Kappa Alpha, .871. Second term: Phi Kappa Tau, 1.683; Theta Chi, 1.506; Sigma Tau Phi, 1.481; Sigma Nu, 1.170; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 1.081; Kappa Alpha, .978.

The scholastic standing by classes for the first term was as follows: Junior Class, 1.3628; Senior Class, 1.3377; Sophomore Class, 1.0028; Freshman Class, .6610.

FORMAL AMERICA

Attempts innumerable have been made in this country and England to sell books cheaply. None of them has been conspicuously successful except reprints of well-known books of the past. Paper-bound books have never appealed to Americans.

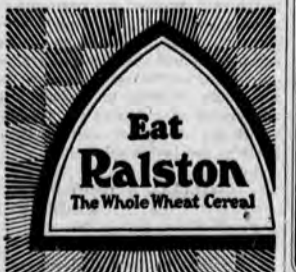

Everyone who has traveled in Europe is familiar with the cheap French novels, which the owners throw away after reading or have rebound if they wish to keep them. Germany gets out all sorts of books in paper bindings, novels for about 80 cents, and histories and biographies that would sell here for anywhere between $4 and $10, for about $1.75. They are sold in large editions, despite the comparative poverty of Germans.

Why is it that Frenchmen and Germans take naturally to paper-bound books, while Americans shun them? It is a hard question to answer.—Boston Post.

ON TIPPING

Every abuse has some good in it; and the good in the giving of tips is the gratitude, the friendliness, with which every visitor regards an efficient and obliging hotel porter, waiter, chambermaid. But efficiency in the servants is the visitor's right, not a privilege; and, where there is no thought of money to poison the relation, obligingness is called out very readily by good manners and pleasant bearing.

The small amount of good, however, that can be found in the custom of tipping is as nothing against the evils to which it gives rise. Of these evils, the nuisance caused to the diffident or inexperienced visitor is none the less genuine for being slightly comic. He does not know how much to give; he cannot find the chambermaid he wants to give it to; he cannot (even if he has cash enough) discriminate between all the members of the staff who bow him out. He fears he has given too little; he finds he has given too much. It is for him, indeed, tip and run—before he hears what they think of him. An addition of one-tenth to his bill would be a small price to pay for peace of mind. But that addition will not save him unless the rule against tipping is observed by all visitors.—London Times.

"Life is a gamble, some folks say; but to those who work faithfully, live hopefully, and are grateful, life is a glorious privilege."

Where Was Then the Gentleman?

A writer in "The London Saturday Review" has discovered to his distress that he and all of his acquaintances are not gentlemen. His confidence, his self-esteem and his trust in Providence and the Bank of England are shattered by two books on etiquette which have upset all his theories. He can believe in nothing. If he could be so wrong as he had been all his life about "the gentleman business," anything and everything might be not what he thought.

The two books, one modern and the other old—the latter makes significant reference to the French Emperor's whiskers—are quite enough to upset any man's standards. Americans, who have been plentifully supplied with tracts on up-to-date manners recently, may well tremble at the rigid principles laid down by the author of "The Habits of Good Society. A Handbook of Etiquette for Ladies and Gentlemen. With Thoughts, Hints and Anecdotes Concerning Social Observances; Nice Points of Taste and Good Manners, and the Art of Making Oneself Agreeable. The whole interspersed with Humorous Illustrations of Social Predicaments; Remarks on the History and Changes of Fashion; and the Differences of English and Continental Etiquette."

It is well that the social dictator pointed out in his title that a little humor was included in his work. Being a gentleman was a serious, almost a sad affair. In fairness to the author it should be stated that his frivolous remarks were confined to ridicule of the poor wretches who try and try, and still remain something less than gentlemen. Their mustaches and beards are a quarter of an inch too long or too short. They wear vulgar neckties instead of polite cravats. They invite novelists, artists and poets to lunch, though this authority states plainly that "men of genius are rarely gifted with social qualities. * * * If Shakespeare were alive, and I acquainted with him, I would not ask him to an evening party." Worst of all, they are cads in private. To be a gentleman, one must behave correctly when alone—especially when alone. Here the question of the bath comes up. The sponge must be a foot long and six inches wide, or you are no gentleman. Filled completely with cold water, it should be sloshed first on the stomach. The author speaks of it as "attacking" that part of the body. Next the head should be "soused," and then in you go, feet first.

A modern American writer on this gentleman business stands comparison with the older arbiter very well. She takes for granted some of the delicate points argued by her predecessor, but there are other matters on which she is quite as firm as he was. A gentleman asked to preside at a public dinner will not garnish his introductions with "alleged funny stories." If he happens to be giving a little dinner himself to a few men friends, more latitude is allowed. Nothing but protests from his guests need stop his attempts at humor. "If there are musicians in the party—and sometimes if there are not—singing may be enjoyed." This is one method of preventing the host from telling funny stories. But suppose the guests tell them—are they gentlemen?—N. Y. Times.

GOSSIP

"Gossip is never fatal, Georgie," he said, "until it is denied. Gossip goes on about every human being alive and about all the dead that are alive enough to be remembered, and yet almost never does any harm until some defender makes a controversy. Gossip is a nasty thing, but it's sickly, and if people of good intentions will let it entirely alone, it will die, ninety-nine

The best newspapers for the advertiser's purpose are those which best perform the functions of a newspaper. Circulation secured by giving premiums is less desirable than straight circulation—that is, readers who buy the publication for its own sake. A premium is a gift to induce a man to subscribe.—Earnest Elma Calkins, in "The Atlantic Monthly."

Imagination Needed

More than half the interest that lies in places to go and sights to see is born in the imagination and stimulated by what you know of these places and sights from song, poem, story, history, geologic drama or industrial report. Without history Lexington and Concord would be merely sleepy New England towns. Unless you have read Dickens you cannot see London. . . . Western America has stories too. She has traditions and battle fields and romance. With them all she has greater beauty, sights more impressive, and distances more enchanting than Europe. It is merely needed to let the people of the world know about them, what they mean, whence they derived fame. Already the educational drive is on.—Idaho Statesman.
