Local Red Men to Welcome Returning Warriors

Nineteen young men went forth from this Lodge to take part in the world struggle and 17 have returned. The celebration has already been delayed to await the arrival of the other two but it was deemed advisable to wait longer.

Burglars Enter Business Office at College

Late Saturday night or early Sunday morning burglars entered the office of Business Administrator A. G. Wilkinson at Delaware College and ransacked the place but secured nothing of value.

The work was evidently done by professionals who knew that a large amount of money from matriculation fees and board is received during the first few days of college. A panel was neatly sawed out adjacent to the door lock so that the hand could be inserted and the lock manipulated from the inside.

Business Administrator Wilkinson desires to serve notice on all prospective burglars amateur and professional that all funds received are banked daily and that any attempt to enter the office is a waste of time and effort.

Red Cross Knitters Faithful During the Summer

The members of the Red Cross in Newark have made an admirable record for work accomplished during the summer. The following knitted articles for Belgian refugees were shipped to headquarters last week: 200 stockings with sleeves, 7 pairs of children's socks, 4 shawls and one scarf. A number of partially completed articles are still in the hands of the knitters who are promised to complete and return them to local headquarters for shipment.

RECORD BREAKING ENROLLMENT AT DELAWARE COLLEGE

Most of the 125 Freshmen Have Selected the Engineering Courses

More than a score of young men who left Delaware College at the outbreak of the war and who have returned to civil life within the past month or so picked up the threads of academic preparation where they dropped it to serve the cause of humanity and slipped back unostentatiously into student life at the opening of the present academic year. To these modest young men a cordial welcome was extended at the first assembly which marked the opening of the college year at Old Delaware on Thursday morning.

Dr. John R. Moore, chairman in charge of Assembly exercises this year, presided, and introduced Dr. Miller, who will have charge of the music and the singing for the college year. After singing favorite songs, President S. C. Mitchell was introduced and in a particularly timely address welcomed the returning soldier-students and the incoming Freshman class, the largest in the history of the college. Self teaching and self discipline he designated as the keynote of the session and the true index of "Delaware spirit."

Referring to the honor system and the matter of self-government, he stated that while these had been inaugurated at the outbreak of the war they had not had a fair trial, since those who would naturally assume leadership in such a movement were among the first to rally to the support of their country in the world struggle. The return to normal conditions this year will provide the proper test of whether the spirit of self-government in matters of conduct and government will prevail or whether it will be wiser to return to the old order.

"We are entering," he said, "upon the most auspicious year in the history of the college. Friends on every hand have rallied to the support and encouragement of the college. The influence of an interested and loyal alumni has never been more clearly manifest than at the present time. Characteristic of the general desire for improvement that has permeated the whole State is the passage of the new school code, which is characteristic of the best thoughts and ideals of men, and a fair trial of which is a test of the ability to distinguish between progress and the reactionary spirit."

The boys in the grammar grades are constructing a basket ball court in the rear of the grammar school building. To facilitate drainage and to give a firm sub stratum they are placing a foundational layer of ashes. This will later be covered with earth.

The boys have also improved the appearance of the grammar school interior by giving the woodwork a coat of paint. They have constructed shelves which make a convenient addition to the teachers' conference room.

Local Farmers Attend Picnic At Augustine Beach

A number of local farmers particularly those interested in the growth of tomatoes attended a picnic held at Augustine Beach on Saturday by the members of the Farm Bureau at Gloucester, N. J.

Over 800 members of the organization arrived by boat and were met by a hundred or more members of the New Castle Co. Farm Bureau and representative growers from Maryland. I. O. Taylor of the latter state and others spoke in favor of the formation of a tri-state organization which will probably be effected at a meeting to be held some time next year.

Stork Visits Town Yesterday

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Anderson yesterday and left a fine boy which has been named George Franklin.

Fireman at Ritter Plant Burned in Explosion

While Harry Bell fireman for the P. J. Ritter Co. was attempting to build a fire over supposedly dead coals on Monday, and hastening the process with what he supposed to be kerosene, an explosion occurred which proved the substance to be gasoline. Mr. Bell was badly burned about the face and hands and was hurried to Dr. Walt Steel's office for treatment.

He was later sent to Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington. Reports received today indicate that he is resting comfortably.

The resulting fire at the plant was speedily controlled by employees with chemical extinguishers.

LOCAL POST OF AMERICAN LEGION FORMED

Takes Name of Only Newark Soldier to Make Supreme Sacrifice

The meeting held at the Armory on Friday evening for the purpose of establishing a local post of the American Legion drew 40 or more ex-service men from Newark and vicinity. Richard R. Whittingham and Irving Casler song leader for community service work in Wilmington was present and led the assemblage in the singing of patriotic airs and army favorites.

The aims and purposes of the Legion were set forth by Mr. Whittingham and by Mr. Parker of Wilmington.

About 25 men signified their willingness to join the Legion and organization was immediately effected with the following officers:

Post Commander, R. R. Whittingham.

Vice Commander, C. A. Short. See. Vice Commander, Henry Sargent.

Adjutant, John Frazer.

Finance Officer, N. L. Partridge.

Historian, Pusey Morrison.

Chaplain, Frank Mote.

The local organization will be known as the Lieutenant John A. O'Daniel Post, No. 6, and will meet once a month, the next meeting to be held the second Friday in October.

The following committee was named to draw up the Constitution and By-Laws: C. A. Short, Allen R. Culimore and Fred Strickland.

A number of service men it is understood were deterred from joining the Legion on account of misunderstanding with regard to some of its features. Some of these misunderstandings were cleared up at the meeting on Friday night. The impression prevailed in some quarters that a man joining the Legion could not be a member of any trade union. This misrepresentation was cleared up. Another was that military service would be required of the members and that joining was virtually becoming a member of the State militia. It was explained that the organization is not in any sense military nor militaristic.

The boys in the grammar grades are constructing a basketball court in the rear of the grammar school building. To facilitate drainage and to give a firm sub stratum they are placing a foundational layer of ashes. This will later be covered with earth.

The boys have also improved the appearance of the grammar school interior by giving the woodwork a coat of paint. They have constructed shelves which make a convenient addition to the teachers' conference room.

A portion of the ballast for the new sidewalk to be constructed along Depot Road has been hauled to the Women's College property.

Delaware Boys and Girls Win Signal Honors

Make Fine Showing at Eastern States Exposition

Newark Representatives Win Gold Medals and Prominent Position in Movies

The nine State Fair champions of the Boys' and Girls' clubs who were awarded free trips to the Eastern States Exposition, returned from Springfield last Saturday after spending a whole week in Camp Vail where they had contested in Agricultural activities with more than 300 other state club champions of the ten eastern States.

The Delaware boys and girls won twelve medals and a pure bred registered Jersey heifer worth $150. The Delaware corn judging team composed of H. Wallace Cook of Newark, Stanley Short of Smyrna, and Leon Donovan, of Bridgeton, were the grand champions of the inter-state contest, and each member was awarded a gold medal for this achievement.

Mary Gruewell, Sara Dill and Naomi Hughes of Felton merited second place as a team in the Garment Judging Contest and each was awarded a silver medal by the exposition. Mary Gruewell also won the highest individual honor in the eastern states in this contest.

In the Canning Demonstration, the three Delaware girls won third place in competition with a large array of highly trained club demonstrators from the other states, and each team member was awarded a bronze achievement medal.

J. T. Vandenberg, Jr., of Bridgeville, Lynn Reed of Newark, and Harry Nichols of Millisboro, represented Delaware as a team in the Pig Judging Contest and the boys won fourth place, each receiving a bronze achievement medal.

Seven registered dairy calves were awarded to the champions of the Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. Harry Nichols of Millisboro brought a pure bred Jersey heifer home with him as his award for superior work in judging.

The 300 Boys' and Girls' Club members and several National, State and County Club leaders lived in Camp Vail on the Exposition grounds. They slept in army tents and used the mess kits of the Massachusetts National Guards. Director Harry Hayward of Delaware College, inspected the camp on Tuesday and declared it to be a model of its kind.

The Boys' and Girls' Club exhibits filled a massive hall. Delaware was assigned the Canning Booth. The exhibit consisted of the various types of jars used in canning by the different methods, and the jars of fruit and vegetables, which had been shown by the girls at the Delaware State Fair.

The canning club members and club leaders stood in the booth and explained the Government one period cold pack method of canning and gave out canning bulletins to thousands of interested visitors.

On Friday a Boys' and Girls' Club Pageant, a mile long, was put on by O. H. Benson, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Delaware was represented by a Canning Club float that did credit to the Diamond State. In addition Miss Agnes P. Medill, County Club leader of New Castle county, directed a large number of boys and girls who took a prominent part in the pageant.

Throughout the week at stated periods group games and physical exercises were made the order of the day. Miss Dorothy Emerson, Club Leader and Home Demonstration Agent of Sussex county, supervised the girls in their playground work. Theodore T. Martin, State Club Leader from Delaware College, was director of the camp.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture made moving pictures of the playground activities of the various agricultural contests, and of the exhibits and the mile-long pageant. These pictures will be shown in all parts of the United States. In order that the club pictures might be unified and made more personal, a club boy and a girl from the camp.

The Epitaph Universal

ROBERT E. FARLEY

If all the epitaphs that man has placed
In chiselled word on mortuary stone
Were in a fleeting night to be erased
And one word used, and one alone,
To tell the story of the countless dead;
To take the place of tributes to the fame
Of ancient king, whose still be-crowned head
And lofty tomb the pride of birth proclaim;
And of that simple line so crudely pressed
In the rough rock that marks the place
Where some black slave was laid away to rest
When his tired soul escaped the curse of race—
If all the lines of sorrow at the grave
Of prince and lowly peasant, rich and poor,
The young and old, the pious priest and knave,
The mighty statesman and the rustic boor,
Were now to yield to just a single word
To label all of sleeping brotherhood,
From all the words that human ear has heard,
Then choose you this:—Misunderstood!

For The Homemaker's Eye

USING LEFT OVER CORN

Quite often there is corn left from a dinner, and it may be with little trouble made into fritters and served with maple syrup as follows: Put the left-over corn, probably about a cupful, in the mixing bowl with half a cupful of milk, a few grains of salt and pepper, and sufficient flour to make a pretty stiff batter. Put it aside in the cool until ready to use it. Then put the frying pan on the stove with about half an inch of frying medium in it. Add to the batter a teaspoonful of baking powder and stir vigorously to mix thoroughly. When the medium is hot, lay the batter in it with a kitchen spoon, letting it run from the tip so as to have the fritters round. Don't put too many in at once or it will be difficult to turn them over. Cook about three minutes on each side, browning nicely, transfer them to a paper lined pan and put them inside the oven door to keep hot until all are fried. Then arrange them on a hot platter and send to the table with maple syrup heated by standing a small pitcherful on the stove in a vessel of hot water.

PLUM JELLY

Remove the pits, add just enough water to keep from scorching until the juice runs freely and cook until very soft. Drain in a bag, add to the juice (one pint) the strained juice of one lemon and cook for twenty minutes longer. Have ready the heated sugar, add to the boiling juice and cook, skimming frequently, until it jells when tried on a plate. Plums not quite ripe should be used for jelly, and the wild variety gives a most delicious product.

CARROTS WITH PEAS

Wash, scrape and cut young carrots in small cubes or fancy shapes; cook until soft in boiling salted water or stock. Add an equal quantity of green peas that have been cooked in such a small amount of water that it need not be drained off before serving. Season with butter, salt and pepper.

POTATO BREAD

Here is a recipe for one loaf of good, wholesome potato bread, which even a dyspeptic may eat without fear. Pare and slice thin enough potatoes to make two cupfuls, cover with boiling water, and cook till tender. Press through a sieve and add to the water in which they were cooked. Cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile soften one-quarter of yeast-cake in one-fourth cupful of tepid water, and add to the potato and liquid, with one-tablespoonful of sugar and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of sugar and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, and a cupful of sifted flour. This flour may be white, entire wheat, rye, or graham, or it may be a mixture of any of these. Rye and white flour mixed, gives a cheap, nourishing loaf. Beat the mixture well and stir in gradually a second cupful of flour. Turn out on the moulding-board, adding more flour if needed, and knead vigorously for five minutes, then place in a greased bowl, and stand in a protected nook until double its original bulk. (You will find that potato bread will rise more quickly than bread made entirely of flour, also that less yeast is required in its baking.) When light, knead again and make into a loaf. Place in a greased pan and let rise once more. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 50 minutes.

When the bread is baked rub the surface with a bit of butter or other shortening, and cool without covering it.

OATMEAL GEMS

These may be made from the cold oatmeal left over from breakfast. Put one pint of cooked oatmeal into a bowl and add half a teaspoonful of salt and the yolk of an egg; mix and add half a cupful of boiling water and half a cupful of milk. Add a cupful of flour, either whole wheat or white; then add a rounding teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat thoroughly for about two minutes, and then add the white of the egg. Bake in greased gem pans in a quick oven for thirty minutes. No matter how carefully baked, they will be slightly moist in the centre.

LITTLE HELPS AND HINTS

Excellent fritters can be made with canned corn.

Nothing is more handy in a home than a button box.

Steamed bread gives variety and is quite palatable.

A pinch of salt will improve both chocolate and cocoa.

A teaspoonful of vanilla flavors chocolate delightfully.

Sealed milk is an excellent substitute for coffee cream.

Cornmeal breads are lighter when made with buttermilk.

An excellent fruit pudding is made with baking powder biscuit dough for the foundation and fresh fruit added. Put in greased mould and steam for half an hour. Serve with vanilla sauce.

In each cup of cocoa, drop a marshmallow before serving.

Coffee should be ground only moderately fine for the percolator.

Stale slices of bread may be cut into squares and fried with bacon.

Dates may be stuffed with diced pine-apple rolled in sugar.

All dishes should be passed to the left of each person at table.

A good soup can be made of chicken giblets and potatoes.

A small woolen cloth will pick up small pieces of broken glass.

Small loaves of bread are better for several reasons than large ones.

Barley is a most excellent breakfast cereal with abundance of cream.

The cheapest food that can be bought at the present moment is milk.

Meat should be looked upon now more as a favor food than a main dish.

FASHION HINTS

Duvetine is not considered as smart as velvet for the fall or winter hat. Also one will note when scanning the collection in the best shops that there are almost no dark blue hats, but quantities of all shades of browns and tans, while feathers are greatly in the majority as trimming. Velvet shirred and pleated very closely and very cleverly handled is sufficient to distinguish some of the very high priced models.

Two new sports hats of special interest are masterpieces in hand-work and in very different ways. All the vivid colors are used in floss on a turban shaped affair, and that each shade loses none of its value it is embroidered in more or less irregular fan shape all by itself and not intertwined with any other color. This hat is also suitable for wear with a strictly tailor made suit.

Pervenche is one of the new shades that have been captured for the fall. It is named for the little French flower by that name, which we see once in a while in an old garden in this country under the name of myrtle. It is a shade of lavender which just escapes coming under the head of blue. A group of hats of this color in velvet attract one's attention at one of the shops in Fifth avenue, where they have just been unpacked from French hat boxes.

The ribbons, the feathers, the velvet and whatnot with which they are trimmed are all dyed the same tints, although some are a bit darker or lighter than others.

Backless evening gowns as shown in Paris continue to cause consternation. Jenny, one of the most cautious of makers usually, is exhibiting many gowns that are scarcely more than elaborate skirts with a pretense of a bodice at the front and in the back there is actually no more than a girdle. As the afternoon dresses are short in the sleeve and frequently décolleté, it is apparently necessary to differentiate in one way or another.

After dallying with a bunch of gathers at the side of the waist line, exactly what we have been doing over here for some time past, or a few loops of ribbon to give the impression of width, the Paris designers have settled down to exploiting the very wide pannier and the crinolined extensions for evening wear. True, few of the designers cling to the chemise frock, but the large majority express their "fashion wise" mind in favor of the ample fullness at the hips, whatever the line is at the bottom.

Making a Convenience of One's Friends

Too many people look upon their friends as a convenience, and get into the habit of using them as such. They employ their friends to save themselves time, trouble, money, without considering the matter. They would be shocked if they could see their requests in the bare, disagreeable form which they show to others.

Of course there are great favors which are properly asked and are freely bestowed in the name of friendship, but they are very different from tasks and errands and multitudinous services which many act as though they thought friends existed solely to perform.

When friendship is prized for what it yields in personal service it ceases to be a friendship. Selfish profit has no place between friends. If you want a service performed, ask it fairly and pay for it. Never demand it as part of the duty of your friends to you.

Danger in Preservatives and Canning Compounds

Ardent reformers have regulated the drink of American citizens and left death and danger to lodge in their food prepared at home. The Bureau of Chemistry in Washington sounds a note of warning. There is plenty of law, it says, to prevent the sale of foodstuffs preserved with harmful substances but not a line anywhere to stop the sale of such substances for use in domestic cookery. Neither the federal nor any State government appears to have any statute or regulation on the subject. Canning compounds to which the specialists of the Bureau of Chemistry particularly call attention are freely sold to the public under various trade names. These mixtures are pronounced harmful to health and housewives are advised not to use them. The preparations are usually in powdered form and contain a high percentage of borax or salicylic acid. Nothing of the kind is needed in the "putting up" of fruit or vegetables. Use of any chemicals in canning is decided, however much such practice may be recommended. Starting with sound fruit and following proper methods produce the best results in the home as well as in the largest commercial establishments. Persons who are tempted to lighten their work by employing artificial aids should remember that their use is injurious and is prohibited, under heavy penalties, to the packer of canned goods to be offered for sale.

The advice of the Bureau of Chemistry is timely. But if these denounced preservatives are both popular and perilous it would seem well to follow the circular of caution with an amendment to the Food and Drug act preventing the sale of such compounds.

To Join in the Laugh Against One's Self Not Easy

A story is told of a child who came home and told her mother that a little girl at the party had fallen off a chair, and all the other little girls had laughed, with the exception of herself. The mother with natural pride, praised the youngster's self-restraint, ending with the assurance, "It was very sweet of you, dear." "Yes," said the child, "I was the little girl that fell off."

The difficulty this little girl experienced in seeing the humorous side of her mishap, though it was so apparent to everyone else, is a decidedly human trait. We find it hard to join in the laugh against ourselves. And it is just as hard to see the humor in the situation when it is our dignity that is bumped, or our feelings that are bruised, as it was for the little girl who rolled off her chair and probably bumped her head. To join in the laugh against ourselves is never an easy lesson, but it pays to learn it, nevertheless. It always takes the sting out of other people's laughter if the object sees the joke. Amusement which was a little ill-natured at once becomes kindly when it appears that the person laughed at is sharing in the joke. If our dignity has received a severe jolt, we should not be resentful and angry, while around us are smiling. It is to try to say something funny to give them an excuse to laugh. Set the example by laughing yourself. It is wonderful how the world warms to whether men or women, boys or girls, who are equal to the dignified task of joining in the when it is against themselves.

NEWARK

URGE SENATE TO HASTEN PEACE

Leaders in Forty States, Regardless of Party, Sign Ringing Appeal.

TREATY WITHOUT AMENDMENT

Say Every Day of Delay Puts World in Imminent Peril of New War---Point to National Unrest.

New York.—Two hundred and fifty leading Americans, Republicans and Democrats, representing forty different states and every prominent activity, have joined in a non-partisan effort to bring about the ratification of the peace treaty "without amendment and without delay." The names are attached to an address to the United States senate, which was made public today through the League to Enforce Peace, after it had been sent to every member of the senate.

The signers, almost without exception, are men and women of national reputation. They include such prominent citizens as ex-president Taft, George W. Wickensham, attorney general in the last Republican administration; A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Charles C. Moore, of San Francisco, President of the Panama Exposition; Judge George Gray, of Wilmington, Del.; President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor; Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association; Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher; President Heber J. Grant, of the Mormon Church, and John Spargo, leader of the Socialists who supported the war.

The signers declare that every day of delay in ratifying the treaty puts the world in "imminent peril of new war." Their statement follows:

In the senate at Washington, now that the committee on foreign relations has reported the treaty, the lines are sharply drawn between the immediate ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany and its amendment, with a reassembling of the conference and a re-opening of negotiations that would bring great delay and prolonged uncertainty in settling the great issues of the peace. No partisan plea can be made. Party lines are already broken. Standing at a distance from the conflict in the senate chamber, we plead for immediate ratification without delay. Our land requires it. A state of nervous strain, tension and unrest exists, manifesting itself in disturbances which in some cases have no self-evident connection with the war, but which are in fact its aftermath. The world is put in imminent peril of new wars by the lapse of each day. Dissensions between us and our former allies are being sown. We firmly believe and solemnly declare that the states and cities in which we dwell desire immediate peace.

The waging of war stabled and united the American people. Peace will bring prosperity and prosperity content. Delay in the senate postponing ratification in this uncertain period of neither peace nor war has resulted in indecision and doubt, bred strife and quickened the cupidity of those who sell the daily necessities of life and the fears of those whose daily wage no longer fills the daily market basket.

We beseech the senate to give the land peace and certainty by ratification which will not keep us longer in the shadows of possible wars, but give the whole world the light of peace. Reservations in the nature of clarifications in the meaning of the treaty not inconsistent with its term will not require the reopening of the negotiations with Germany and with our associates in the war, which we all and each unite to win.

But there is no possibility of doubt that amendment of the treaty as is now proposed in the senate committee on foreign relations, would require negotiation and a re-opening of all the questions decided at Paris. Months of delay would follow. The perils of the present would become the deadly dangers of the near future. All the doubt engendered would aid the plots for violent revolution in this and other lands. The issues here and elsewhere between capital and labor, the conspiracy of speculator and profiteer, would all grow and become more perilous.

This cannot be. The American people cannot, after a victorious war, permit its government to petition Germany, which has accepted the treaty, for its consent to changes in the treaty. Yet, if the United States should amend the treaty for its own purpose and policy, Germany would have full right to ask for concessions. Germany has agreed to make no claim in regard to enemy property seized in this country to an amount of seven hundred million dollars. Our recent fee could ask for a reopening of this issue and of the Lusitania claims. It could raise every question open before hostilities. In regard to submarine warfare and the treatment of its nationals in this country. All the provisions for our trade in Germany raised by the economic clauses of the treaty, many of them vital to our industries and our farms, as in dyeparts, dye-supplies and fertilizers, the working of the reparation commission which superintends the trade of all with Germany, could all be brought up by Berlin for readjustment by our negotiators acting for the United States alone and no longer associated with other victorious powers or supported by a victorious American army on the German border.

Peace itself, the peace of the world, is delayed until ratification comes. And any amendment postpones peace. Germany and England alone of the principal powers have ratified. The other principals necessarily await our action. Influential and powerful as we are today in the world's affairs. The ravages of war or more than a score of fighting fronts are continued by any needless delay. Let the senate give the world peace, by ratification without amendment.

Even the amendment, for which most can be said, the provision in regard to Shantung, will secure nothing which cannot be gained if China, backed by the powerful advocacy of the United States, addresses itself to the machinery for righting international wrongs and meeting just claims created by the league between nations. China, after eighty years of oppressive treaties and despoiled rights by which all the great powers have profited directly or indirectly, has for the first time in this covenant and treaty the means and method to secure justice and the removal of the oppressive economic interference of stronger nations whose citizens are within her gates, protected by a long succession of international agreements. Moreover, it should be remembered that the clause regarding Shantung was made upon the statement by Japan that she will return the territory to China and, therefore, upon that condition, compliance with which promises the league can require.

The peace of the present and the righteousness of the future, can be best secured by the ratification of the covenant and treaty without amendment. Let the senate take no action that will give any party to the treaty, and especially Germany, ground for maintaining that the ratification of the United States is not complete and that changes requiring a resumption of conference and negotiations have been made in it.

Roosevelt Memorial De-

initely Planned

The Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Park at Oyster Bay is now definitely assured. It ultimately will include the Roosevelt home on Sagamore Hill, which will be preserved after the manner of Washington's home at Mount Vernon and Lincoln's home at Springfield, Ill.

Plans for a Roosevelt arch or monument at Washington are still under consideration by the National Roosevelt Memorial Committee.

The foregoing was announced by Col. William Boyce Thompson, chairman of the national committee, at an organization meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria. About sixty delegates from New York, Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, which constitute the North Atlantic zone of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, were present.

Ninety per cent of the delegates had been personal friends of Col. Roosevelt.

"Another Bubble Bursts"

The new School Code is constitutional!

That has been decided, by unanimous vote, by the judiciary of boys and girls of our State has burst.

Those who have been seeking to destroy the code and its beneficent influence now must abandon the fight or base it upon other ground than that of the unconstitutionality of this educational magna charta of Delaware.

When the foes of the School Code assailed its constitutionality, Governor Townsend asked the judges of the State to give him an opinion covering the matter. They called a meeting, heard argument from all sides and yesterday united in advising the Governor that the act is constitutional.

Those who joined in that opinion were Chief Justice Pennewill, Chancellor Curtis and Associate Judges Heisel, Rice, Boyce and Conrad.

In a quick and most decisive way, those men shattered the bubble that had been blown so large and so thin by the School Code's enemies.

As the situation stands now, the Legislature has passed the law; the judges have united in upholding its constitutionality and Governor Townsend has refused to call a special session of the Legislature in order that the foes of twentieth-century educational advantages for the children of Delaware may prosecute a fight for repeal of the measure.

Friends of the Code only ask for it a fair try-out. Of that it seems now is assured.

If it develops imperfections, they will be remedied by future legislation.

Meanwhile, wouldn't it be well for those who have been blowing anti-School Code bubbles to indulge in work of a nature that will be of real service to the boys and the girls of Delaware and of less service to certain politicians who have rather dull axes which they desire to have ground at the children's expense?

Let them try it, anyway! It will be for them a healthful diversion!

Shoes Not to be More Expensive Says Senator Ball

Cheaper shoes at any rate not more expensive ones, will result from the senate inquiry into profiteering in footwear. Senator Ball, chairman of the sub-committee investigating the subject, said recently. The Senator said he was quite sure certain unscrupulous dealers had arranged to force prices up until men would begin to consider the propriety of going barefooted, but in view of the sentiment against such conscienceless profiteering they had desisted.

Investigation has disclosed that since the committee began to enter the probe, food prices notably beef and mutton, have fallen appreciably.

Brorsen's Comet Beats

and so far upward that some persons have seriously thought of dispensing with shoes, especially in the summer time."

The Senator said if shoe prices fall in Washington it is altogether likely that the rest of the country will follow, and that footwear everywhere will become cheaper.

Investigation has disclosed that the probe, food prices notably beef and mutton, have fallen appreciably.

Brorsen's comet had been expected to be again visible in 1922. Its orbit may have been miscalculated when its period was given as 75 years, or it may have been deflected by uneven attractions of the sun.

club girl were selected to act the leading roles. This signal honor for the boys was earned by Lynn Best of Newark, who had shown marked ability in adapting himself to new situations.

The Exposition directors put over their part of the Boys and Girls program with a bang. They paid practically all the expenses of Camp Hill. They gave the club members free access to the grounds and free seats at the Colosseum, where the live stock was judged and the horse shows were held. But above all else, they conducted a successful exposition in a high order without having a single cheap show or "get rich quick" affair on the entire grounds.

In recognition of the cooperative work of the club leaders in making the Exposition a success, the Board of Directors of the Exposition presented each National, State and Assistant State Club Leader with a special gold medal of merit.

in their judgments of the serious problems that confront the nation today and called attention to the seriousness of a herculean battle that now engrosses the attention and best thought of the entire world.

He stated that next June will be the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the college after the civil war and that all college activities will lead up to this event as a fitting climax to the year's work.

S. Bayard Carter, president of the Student Self Government organization, occupied the platform as the representative of the student body.

Interesting announcements were made by different members of the college faculty. Dr. Miller announced his willingness to direct the organization of an orchestra and with Dr. Moore to make the singing of distinctive Delaware College songs a feature of the Assembly exercises which will be held for the present on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Dr. R. W. Henn who has charge of Vocational Education in the State under the Smith-Hughes Act, outlined the possibilities of the work in his department and showed the opportunities awaiting young men of this State who will prepare themselves for the positions available in 27 schools which under the new system will give training to boys and girls in Vocational Education. These positions in Delaware schools which have equipped themselves to take advantage of the aid given by the State and Federal government, are held now in the main by trained men and women from other States. In many of the schools the work is delayed because of the lack of trained workers. He urged the Delaware young men and young women to make the personnel of the teaching staff for these subjects 100 per cent Delaware and assured them that the salaries for these positions are well worth while.

Other announcements concerning specific courses were made by other members of the college faculty and concerning the nature of boarding at the Commons which is required of all students whose parents do not reside in Newark, made by Dean Smith. He also graced the bulletin of the "get-rich-quicks" upper classesmen who have been accustomed to unload all sorts of junk for a consideration on unsuspecting Freshmen, by warning them, however, to buy nothing unless advised to do so by the faculty.

A warning which was greeted with much amusement by upper classesmen who gave every evidence thereby of having been "stung" in that immemorial manner themselves in the past.

The master of the entering class includes students from seven States. Many of these signed up for the engineering courses owing to the demand for engineers since the close of the war.

URGES FARMERS TO COOPERATE IN PUR- CHASE OF DAIRY FOOD

Expert Gives Advice Concerning Mixture to be Fed
to Cows

Prof. E. Martens, dairy expert, recently appointed cow tester for the Raymond State Cow Testing Association, gives the following advice on feeding the dairy cow:

"Feed prices have been soaring in the last few weeks and many farmers are wondering how they are going to make out this winter. Many of the old standby feeds have advanced in price above their worth as feed while others, such as gluten, linseed oil and ensilage meals are very difficult to secure. The time was never more opportune for farmers to co-operatively purchase their winter feeds in carload lots."

Many dairymen are mixing cheaper feeds with some commercial dairy feeds without any very definite plan to such an extent that they increase the cost of digestible food although they may lower the cost per pound of feed. The addition of any grain to the prepared dairy feeds should not be made without first considering the analysis of the feed and the requirements of the cows. Adding protein to a ration already high in protein is not only wasteful, but also injurious to the animal to which it is fed.

There are a number of dairy feeds on the market which are balanced to meet the general herd requirements. The addition of anything to these is no improvement. There are other feeds containing a high percentage of protein for use with carbohydrate feeds such as corn meal. It is difficult to give any exact and fast rule for feeding cows. The amount of milk produced and the condition of the herd as well as that of the individual cows in the herd is the guide as to the mixture to use and the amount to feed. If the cows are thin they should have more carbohydrate feed such as corn meal. If the feed being used is high in protein the addition of cornmeal or some other feed producing feed would greatly improve it for that particular herd. If, on the other hand, the cows are getting too fat,

ASKS COOPERATION IN PROMOTING FREIGHT CAR EFFICIENCY

Railroad Administration Makes Pertinent Suggestions to Shippers and Receivers

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, on Monday authorized the following statement, asking the further cooperation of shippers and receivers of freight in promoting freight car efficiency:

"During the war, no one was more patriotically helpful than the American shipper. With zeal and efficiency he did his part in the common cause.

"The Railroad Administration had excellent opportunity to observe this attitude during the war and has appreciated heartily the subsequent continued cooperation of the great majority of the shippers.

"The time has now come for renewed efforts by both the Railroad Administration and the shippers and receivers of freight so that the nation's transportation service may be rendered with the greatest satisfaction possible under the circumstances.

"An unusually heavy grain and coal movement, deferred repair and the construction of public highways in all sections of the country and the concentrated requirements at this time of the year, threaten a serious lack of transportation facilities unless all parties interested cooperate in securing the greatest possible utility from the existing limited transportation facilities.

"In this connection attention is invited to the following extract from a recent public statement of the President:

"We have now got to do nothing less than bring our industries and our labor of every kind back to a normal basis after the greatest upheaval known to history, and the winter just ahead of us may bring suffering infinitely greater than the war brought upon us if we blunder or fail in the process. An admirable spirit of self-sacrifice, of patriotic devotion and of community action guided and inspired us while the fighting was on. We shall need all these now, and need them in a heightened degree, if we are to accomplish the first tasks of peace."

The Railroad Administration will do its full part. The Car Service Section in Washington and the various regional organizations are striving earnestly to secure a fair and just distribution of the existing equipment as well as to meet the requirements of individual shippers. Of the 100,000 new freight cars which the Railroad Administration ordered constructed, 59,409 had been completed on September 13, and are now in service, and this number is being increased at the rate of over 900 each working day. Instructions have been issued to all Regional Directors, loading of equipment, to establish and maintain complete and accurate yard checks, to reduce the number of bad order cars, to make prompt delivery to connections, to effect early deliveries at freight houses and teamtracks, to reduce the number of freight cars used in the transportation of company material and to expedite the movement of grain cars in terminals. The hours of labor of car shop employees have been increased and every effort is being made, both in railroad shops and in the shops of private concerns to whom the work is being let out, to reduce the number of bad order cars.

"I earnestly urge all shippers and receivers of freight to redouble their efforts to promote freight car efficiency.

"Shippers of freight can assist:

1. By loading all cars to full visible carrying capacity.

2. By prompt loading and release to the carrier.

3. By ordering cars only when actually required.

4. By eliminating the use of railway equipment in trap or transfer service when tonnage can be handled by motor truck or wagon.

5. By reducing the diversion and deconsignment of cars to a minimum.

"Receivers of freight can assist:

1. By prompt unloading of cars and notice thereof to the carrier.

2. By ordering goods in quantities representing the full safe carrying capacity of cars and disregarding trade units.

3. By ordering from the nearest available source.

4. By pooling orders so as to secure full car load.

"A resumption of intensive loading will not merely reduce the number of cars under load but will also relieve congested terminals where it is a question of track room rather than of equipment.

"With a strong concerted effort on the part of the Railroad Administration and the shippers and receivers of freight, it is hoped that during the period of abnormally heavy traffic with which we are now confronted the nation's transportation needs may be met with reasonable satisfaction to all parties.

"I earnestly ask the continued and even more effective cooperation of all shippers and receivers of freight in promoting freight car efficiency."

"The Dead March in Fall"

The corn is brown, the last late rose
Has dropped its velvet leaves,
The caterpillar for itself

A shroud of satin weaves.
The blood of dying summer strains
The ivy on the wall.

And in the early morn we miss
The robin's merry call.

The cricket scrapes his violin
Besides the garden gate,
The katydid her graphophone
Keeps going long and late,
The melancholy fall bug pipes
From branches turning sere;
Thus plays the sylvan orchestra
The dead march of the year.

Supply the Poultry With Green Feed in Winter

If the best results are to be obtained with poultry they must be furnished with a plentiful supply of green feed. Where fowls have unlimited range on a farm they will secure green feed during the spring, but during the winter it must be supplied for them. The question of how to supply the best feed at the least cost is one that each poultry keeper must decide largely for himself. It will probably make but little difference what kind of green feed is supplied, provided it is relished by the fowls. Cabbages, turnips, beets, potatoes, etc., are suitable for this purpose. The larger roots and the cabbages may be suspended by means of a wire or string, or they may be placed on the floor, in which case it would be well to split the turnips or beets lengthwise with a large knife. Potatoes and turnips should be fed cooked. The mangel is an excellent root for feeding raw. Cut clover soaked in boiling water fed alone or with the mash is good. Clover meal and ground alfalfa make very good feeds for this purpose. Where the fowls are yarded and not enough green feed is furnished by the yard, a small patch of clover, alfalfa, or rape may be sown. Any one of these, if frequently mowed, will furnish a great quantity of green feed in a form which is relished by the fowls. Canada field peas may also be sown for this purpose, and when fed in a tender, crisp condition are eaten readily.

High Price of Hay Makes Good Stack Covers Necessary

High prices of hay makes it essential that farmers top off their haystacks with proper covers for protection of the dry forage against weathering. A cheap and simple cover for any stack or rick of hay may be made by spreading a layer, about four inches thick, of some coarse grass, such as millet, sudan grass, fine sorghum, or some coarse wild grass over the top of the stack or rick, placing long poles over the wires weighted down at both ends. Where the hay is stacked out of doors in oblong ricks, a satisfactory cover may often be made by using 12-inch boards 1 to 1 1/4 inches in thickness, cut as long as the rick, which may be wired together and lapped like shingles to form a satisfactory cover over the hay. Some farmers have been successful in using crimped galvanized roofing or corrugated roofing with the edge bent to interlock in the same manner as a protection for hayricks.

What we need now in the great national game of making both ends meet is more hits and fewer strikes.

STATE FAIR IN 1920 OPENS SEPTEMBER 6

At a meeting last week the directors of the State Fair Association decided to open the fair next year on Labor Day, September 6.

While the attractions and attendance this year surpassed all previous records, plans for the coming season indicate a bigger, better fair. One of the contemplated improvements for the coming season will consist of better roads and thoroughfares in and about the fair grounds.

PLAN TO CONNECT CHINCOTEAGUE WITH MAINLAND

Connecting the island of Chincoteague with the Virginia mainland is the plan of Captain John Wheatley, which, if successful, will bring the isolated island with its population of 5000 people within easy touch of the peninsula. The bridge, which is contemplated, will be seven miles long and will be built over a series of marshes and small islands at a heavy cost. With the large amount of freight which is now brought to the mainland by boats, but which could then be brought by trucks, it is thought that a charge of $1 toll for each truck would make the bridge a paying proposition. Chincoteague sends out hundreds of carloads of fish and oysters every year, and the income from that one source would be considerable, not taking into account the freight to be sent in or the hundreds of tourists who would probably visit this quaint old island. The money to build the bridge has about all been subscribed by people who live in that section, and bids for the construction work will be asked for in a few days.

SUGGESTS BUILDING NEW STATE HOUSE

Governor Townsend has received a letter from former Representative of the Legislature Henry D. Downward, of Wilmington, urging him to erect a new State House near the railroad station instead of spending a large sum on the present State House. Mr. Downward states that by adding $75,000 to the $125,000 the commission has decided to spend on the old building, and by spending $200,000 a year for a period of five years, a modern building after the architectural style of the National Capitol, which would reflect credit to the State could be erected.

Mr. Downward suggests also in his letter that the present State for the purpose of perfecting such system and making the administration of the school laws more convenient and effective. The General Assembly is required by Article X to provide for the establishment and maintenance of a general and efficient system of public schools, but there is no requirement that legislation thereunder shall have the concurrence of two-thirds of each House. It is entirely competent for the Legislature, in providing for such a system of public schools, to create school districts with certain corporate powers, but they are parts of the system, and not such independent educational corporations as are contemplated by Article IX. They are agencies of the State Government, created for the purpose of aiding in carrying out the requirements of the Constitution respecting the establishment and maintenance of a public school system, and may be altered or abolished by the Legislature at any time.

We must, therefore, assume that any legislative act that constitutes a part of the general system of public schools, including acts incorporating school districts, and Boards of Education, requires only the concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to each House. Said Article IX may embrace certain educational institutions, but it can have nothing to do with the establishment and maintenance of a general system of public schools fully provided for and made mandatory on the Legislature by Article X of the Constitution, which is independent and complete in itself.

The act in question was passed pursuant to the mandate contained in Section 1 of Article X of the Constitution.

To be constitutional it must have been general. To be general it must provide for free public schools for all of the children of the State. A general law providing for the establishment and maintenance of a system, uniform or otherwise, of free public schools and made applicable to every school district, town or city, incorporated or otherwise, without the consent and even against the will of such school district, town or city, would if properly enacted be a valid exercise of this constitutional mandate. Such an act would overrule and annul the provisions relating to free public schools contained in acts relating to free public schools contained in acts relating to school district, incorporated and unincorporated, and to incorporated Boards of Education.

Such bodies whether incorporated or not are mere agencies of the State for executing the governmental function of providing free schools. No contractual relations arose either from the enactment of their charters and the acceptance thereof and action thereunder or otherwise. Therefore, the State in the exercise of this governmental function can at any time choose new agencies to carry out this public purpose, whether such agents be bodies corporate created before or after the adoption of the Constitution of 1897. Such we believe are general principles applicable to the act under consideration.

The validity of said act has been attacked on the following grounds, viz:

1. Because it did not receive the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected to each House of the General Assembly.

2. Because it requires the assessment and collection of capitation taxes that will not be uniform in the county in which they are to be levied, and property taxes that will not be uniform in the territorial limits of the authority levying the same.

3. Because it impairs the obligation of contracts by changing, lessening and taking away the security of the holders of school bonds without their consent.

4. Because it requires the collection of taxes based upon an assessment from which the taxables are given no right of appeal or opportunity to correct mistakes, thereby depriving them of their property without due process of law.

5. Because it treats of two subjects, only one of which is expressed in the title.

There may have been one or two other specific objections made, but they were covered in the discussion of the grounds stated.

Our conclusions are these:

1. School districts in this State, created by special acts of the legislature, and the districts and boards created by the act in question, are not acts of incorporation within the meaning of Section 1, Article IX, of the Constitution. They are neither private nor municipal corporations, but may be regarded as public quasi corporations. Coylev. McIntyre, 7 Howst. 44 (89). They are not separate, independent or permanent corporations, but integral parts of the general educational system of the State, and created statutory provision, merely the Dix will become the center for receiving all American troops now in Europe that return after September 26. The returning forces will be brought here from the ports of Philadelphia and New York.

Four other demobilization centers will be retained for the present. They are Camp Gordon, Georgia; Camp Pike, Arkansas; Camp Upton, Meade and Devans.

Dodge, Iowa, and Camp Presidio, California. The soldiers coming back from Europe will be distributed to these centers from Camp Dix for discharge, while all eastern men will be discharged here. Among the eastern camps closed as demobilization centers under the new order will be Camps Mills, Merritt, Upton, Meade and Devans.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford One Ton Truck may well be classed as an agricultural necessity, it fits into and fills so many wants on the farm. It is a reliable bearer of farm burdens, not only doing the work of several horses quicker and better than the horse, and does not "eat its head off" when not working. The aggressive farmer has only to consider the possibilities of the Ford truck and he is ready to buy one. We judge this to be so from the way farmers are buying them. Truck Chassis $550 f. o. b. WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Record Breaking Freshman Class Fills Every Available Space

With the exception of the Practise House which through delay in deliveries, is not yet ready for occupancy by the student-housekeepers, all activities at Women's College are under way and the machinery of student life has settled down to smooth running.

The 82 students in the Freshman class were put through a few harmless "stunts" on Friday and Saturday evenings by the Sophomore class and received as badges of distinction baby rattles of celluloid in rainbow colors. These are suspended from green ribbon and worn around the neck.

"Getting acquainted" parties were held in the assembly rooms of the two dormitories on Friday. At the chapel period earlier in the day necessary rules and regulations were explained to the freshmen. This, with the aid of the "Big Sister" idea, inaugurated this year, makes it particularly easy for the incoming class to become accustomed to college life.

An interesting addition to the curriculum this year is that of a course in music which is attracting many of the students.

The first of the Sunday evening services under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. was in the nature of a welcome to incoming students and was addressed by Dr. S. C. Mitchell.

Smyrna-Dover Highway Open

The opening of the new concrete highway between Smyrna and Dover on Saturday links the capital with Wilmington and the northern part of the State with one of the finest roads in the United States. It is built in accordance with the high standards set by the Delaware State Highway Department has a concrete surface 16 feet wide with earth shoulders 6 ft. wide. This road is an important link in the State highway system and has been constructed by the State Department, the cost being borne by T. Coleman duPont in accordance with his offer of September, 1917.

HOW RICH FURS
ARE OBTAINED*Frivolous Fashion Supports
One of the Greatest Companies in the World

What woman doesn't love fur, and what woman isn't it becoming? But what woman who wears it realizes the risks taken by Canadian trappers to cater to her vanity and comfort?

The finest furs are found furthest north in the desolate Arctic wastes, where a man may travel months at a time with his only companion a team of sledge dogs, his food frozen meat and fish; where he sleeps in the shelter of a snow bank, liable to snow blindness, blizzards and attack by wolves. Here all winter he sets steel traps, lays dead falls and twine snares for fur animals.

The whitest, most expensive ermine is found north of the line of the Arctic circle. A man must face fierce cold to get enough of these tiny, weasel-like creatures to make a lady's stole. What work, exposure, hardship to man and his dog team are embodied in an ermine dolman—the newest shape in fur wraps!

Quite as dangerous is the trapping of the finest foxes—the black fox, the equally valuable white fox, of which the pelts are costly not only because they are hard to get, but because in the Arctic circle they are finest and loveliest.

The rare and beautiful silver fox is found only in the extreme cold. To take a silver fox a trapper goes for leagues by snowshoes and dog-team, "invading the regions of death," where the "mercury goes down to 50 or 60 below and life becomes something that is at best only mere existence and at worst annihilation." But a few silver pelts, each only about two feet long, make a fortune.

Men have spent years in these solitudes on snowshoes that women might be warm and fashionable.

Never was a larger, more powerful concern catering to woman's love of luxury than is the Hudson Bay Company. Round it has centered the fur trade of America since 1670. It has a domain as large as Europe, stretching over the ice-covered home of the terrible north wind, from the eastern shore of Labrador to the fastnesses of the Rockies and into the Arctic region.

Frivolous fashion! Yet it supports one of the greatest companies of the world, that for two centuries and a half has maintained an army of men in the northern cold.

Formerly the factors of the Hudson Bay Company had the power of ancient barons, to make war and peace, punish for thieves and marauding "free traders," in order to protect the interests of "The Company." Though today conditions are more peaceful, the trapping life still is full of thrill and romance.

An accurate and interesting account of this life of the north is given in "The Wilderness Trail," the novel by Frank Williams—the story of which will be shown on the screen at the Opera House, Tuesday, September 30th. With accompaniment of snowshoes, dogs' sledges and real "husky" dogs. Lovely Colleen Moore, done up in furs à la wildest Canada, has the William Fox Star, Tom Mix, for her daring, dashing lover.

Extremely beautiful snow scenery has been remarkably photographed for this picture.

In the fascinating love story a man sets honor above even love and offers his life for a girl—the only girl for

Actual Work on Canal to Begin November 1

The government is arranging for the purchase of a hydraulic dredge to be used in the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. Actual digging will probably begin about November 1. There are three locks in the canal:

Delaware City, St. Georges and Chesapeake City. The work of deepening the canal will be started at the Chesapeake end of the canal. The present depth will be increased first by ten feet from Chesapeake City to St. Georges. The sill and gates of the Chesapeake City locks will be lowered to that depth, when another ten feet will be dug, and as this will bring the bottom of the canal 13 feet below sea level, the outer lock will be torn away. Similar work will be done at the other end of the canal. New bridges are to be built and as there will be considerable adjustment along the entire route of the canal, owing to the increased width engineers are now making surveys preparatory to taking over the needed ground for the sea level canal.

This work will be done by private contractors for which bids will be asked. The Wilmington office will supervise, however.

Miss Fortyodd awoke in the middle of the night to find a burglar ransacking her effects. Miss Fortyodd did not scream, for she pride herself, among other things, upon her courage.

Pointing to the door with dramatic gesture, she exclaimed: "Leave me at once!"

The burglar politely retreated and said:

"I had no intention of taking you!"—Detroit Free Press.
