John Andrews, Killed, Father Injured In Grade Crossing Crash

WATCHMAN HELD

Sales Up, They Drive On Pennsylvania Crossing, And Express Hits Car; Father Staggers Into Store To Ask Help; Boy Dies On Way To Hospital

Newark was the scene, Saturday night, of another tragic grade crossing accident when 10-year old John Andrews was killed and his father, Albert W. Andrews, was injured, when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Southbound train at the South College avenue Pennsylvania crossing. The gates were up when the car drove on the tracks and Noah Williams, the colored gate tender, was arrested and committed to the Workhouse on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Mr. Andrews and his son, who live on a chicken farm near Glasgow, were coming to Newark to do some last minute Christmas shopping when their car was struck. The train which hit the car was number 133, due to go through Newark at 7:24. Whether the train hit the automobile or the automobile hit the train has not been fully determined. Apparently the car reached the crossing at the same time. The car, a Ford sedan was completely demolished, and all the wreckage was found on the South side of the track. Mr. Andrews, badly lacerated about the head, staggered into Bryan's store and asked for help to find his boy. Samuel Center found the boy and brought him into the store, where Dr. Downes, who had been summoned, gave both the boy and his father first aid and sent them to the Delaware Hospital in the Newark ambulance, with T. J. Springle driving. The boy died on the way in. Mr. Andrews was discharged from the hospital yesterday.

Noah Williams, aged 21, from Iron Hill, the watchman, was arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Thompson on a technical charge of manslaughter. Unable to furnish bond, he was committed to the Workhouse to await the verdict of the coroner's jury. Williams, in his testimony, said that he had been working as gate tender for less than two weeks, since December 13, and that previously to that he had been working on the tracks for the railroad. He stated that he had seen the headlight of the train, but thinking that it was a considerable distance off he had gone back into the watchman's house to get the fire. Before he came out the train had reached the crossing and the crash occurred. The arrest of a crossing watchman is unusual in this county and may have an important bearing on grade crossing accident cases. Chief of Police Keeley made the arrest.

John Andrews, better known as "Jack," was buried this afternoon from the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Levey, of Christiansburg. The funeral services were at 2 o'clock, and interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery, at Christiansburg.

A. O. U. W. TO ENTERTAIN

Tomorrow evening Anchor Lodge, No. 4, Ancient Order of United Workmen, will hold an open house in honor of two of the oldest members in Newark, Past Master Workman Ferguson, and Jonathan Johnson.

A committee under the direction of Alice Fell has prepared a program containing several "surprise" numbers. The final feature will be refreshments.

It is desired that every member of the order make a special effort to be present, and to bring some friends with them.

RECEPTION AT CENTURY CLUB

The ex-presidents of the Newark Century Club will receive the members of the club, their house guests and members of their families at the Club House on Monday afternoon, January 2, at 3 o'clock.

WINS TURKEY

Mrs. P. J. Ewing held the lucky number which won the 15-pound live turkey, which Sol Wilson offered as a judgment to do Christmas shopping in his store.

Friends Shocked At Death Of Dr. Robin

Prominent Physician, Formerly of Newark, Died Suddenly Last Week

The death of Dr. Albert Robin, aged 53, of Wilmington, at his home near Bellevue, last Thursday evening, was a great shock to his friends here. He and his wife came here as a bride and groom, made their first home here, and their elder son, Nathaniel, was born at their home on East Main street. He still numbered among his patients friends whom he had cared for while living here. His position here was assistant bacteriologist at Delaware College and he was the first man to hold the position of State pathologist. Both Dr. and Mrs. Robin have many friends in this community.

At the time of his death, Dr. Robin was planning a trip to Pittsburgh over the holidays to visit his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Kamin. Last Thursday he retired early, following a hearty dinner with his family, complaining that he felt badly. At 10 o'clock, members of his family heard a crash and rushing upstairs found him on the floor. Two hours later he died.

Dr. Robin was born at Ouman, Russia, April 10, 1874, the son of Nathan and Bertha Melamed Robin. He received his early education in the public schools of Russia, and came to America as a young man to study medicine at the Western University of Pennsylvania, of Pittsburgh. Receiving his M. D. there in 1897, he pursued research studies at the Massachusetts General Hospital and at Johns Hopkins University.

In 1898, Dr. Robin came to Delaware. Since that time he has held many important posts in Wilmington and Philadelphia, including Delaware State Pathologist, 1899 to 1903; Wilmington city bacteriologist, 1903 to 1906; professor of bacteriology, pathology and hygiene, 1906 to 1907; medical director of the tuberculosis sanatorium, Wilmington, 1910 to 1920; executive secretary of the Delaware State Tuberculosis Commission, 1920 to 1922; chairman of the medical board of the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital; consultant of the Delaware State Hospital; president of the Wilmington Community Center; assistant editor of the Atlantic Medical Journal; assistant editor of the International Medical Magazine; assistant editor of the Philadelphia Medical Journal, and a trustee of Tower Hill School.

Dr. Robin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Halpern Robin, two sons, Percival and Dr. Nathaniel Robin, two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Kamin, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Annette Robin, a sister, Dr. L. Goldsmith, of Pittsburgh, and two brothers, David Robin, of Pittsburgh, and Mark Robin, of California.

Dr. Robin was a member of the board of governors of the American College of Physicians, and a member of the following organizations: American Society of Bacteriologists, American Public Health Association, National Tuberculosis Association, American Medical Association, New Castle County Medical Society, and the Delaware State Medical Society.

Funeral services for Dr. Robin were held at his home Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The services were private. Interment was made in Lombardy cemetery, on the Faulk Road. The cemetery is owned by the Mount Fiore Society, of which Dr. Robin was a member.

TWO FIRES

The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company during the past week responded to two fires, neither of which were serious. On Friday a field fire back of Lovett avenue was extinguished, and on Saturday the company was called to the Blue Hen Farm to put out a chimney fire on the house of Claude Hearn. Mr. Hearn made a donation of $25 to the Aetna fund.

DANCE

The Tri-State Poultry Association will hold a New Year's Eve dance in the Armory on Saturday night. Music by The Sorenadors. A feature of the dance will be the drawing for the award of the automobile, that was offered for raffle at the Poultry Association Fair.

State Board Of Health Fighting Diphtheria

Dr. Hurdle Makes Plea For Preventative Measures; To Show Film Here Last Three Days Of Week

Dr. S. H. Hurdle, Deputy State Health Commissioner for New Castle County and secretary of the Newark Board of Health, has issued a plea for the use of preventative measures in making the children of this community immune from diphtheria, and has arranged for the showing of a film showing the administration of the anti-diphtheria serum and its effectiveness in preventing the disease. It will be shown in the Newark Opera House tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. All parents in Newark are urged to see this picture.

Dr. Hurdle's message relative to diphtheria and its prevention is as follows:

"At Christmas time when all of us turn our thoughts to the children and do all we can to make them happy, it seems that we should also think of the welfare of the children as well. And in addition to the many good things that Santa Claus brings, we might take into consideration what the physician can do to help the children be healthy and happy."

"The State Board of Health wishes to recommend to every parent the preventive treatment for diphtheria."

"Diphtheria is a dreadful disease of childhood and every year thousands of children die from this disease. This is a needless waste of life and can absolutely be prevented and the disease wiped off the map if only each parent will see to it that their children are protected by toxin-antitoxin. Diphtheria not only often causes death, but often leaves the child with a paralyzed throat, a bad heart and other things that will handicap and disable him for life. Up until a few years ago we were helpless in stopping this disease, then the antitoxin was discovered and it has saved many lives after the child has had the disease. But now we can go still further and prevent the child from having the disease."

Report of Work for Needy Families

Wonderful Response to Welfare Committee's Appeal; Many Families Receive Substantial Christmas Cheer Through the Generosity of the People of Newark

The report of the Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club, which undertook to bring Christmas cheer into the needy homes of Newark, is printed in full below. The committee is most enthusiastic over the response of the people of the community. The room at the club house on Donation Day was a sight to warm one's heart; there is surely the right spirit of love and brotherhood in our midst.

Donations of money, in sums from $1 to $50 were also sent in. Because some of the amounts were sent anonymously, it has been thought best not to list the individual contributions. The total, about $250, is sufficient for immediate needs, but will not, of course, carry all the needy cases through the winter, when rent, fuel, clothing, and illness must be considered. But the members of the committee are now enabled to go into their work with more courage, knowing that the people of Newark are back of them, and that a second appeal, if necessary, will receive a like generous response.

Officials Elected To School Civic Body

Ann Chalmers Heads Student Government Organization; Mr. Hohl Resigns To Accept New Position

Last week the Newark Schools held elections of officials of the General Association of the Newark Schools, the student governing body in the student participation plan in school government. The General Association, which comprises a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and a cabinet, corresponds to a national governing body. Each class and grade also has an organization and committees. These correspond to state or city bodies.

Ann Chalmers, '28, was elected president of the General Association; Dorothy Wheelless, '29, vice-president; and Willa Dawson, '28, secretary. Miss Hannah Lindell, school treasurer, acts as treasurer. The cabinet is composed of the chairmen of various committees which represent the various interests and civic responsibilities in the school life. They function generally on all grades. The following are the committee chairmen, who make up the cabinet: Ruth Phelps, attendance; George Cook, assemblies; Agnes Miller, school decorations; Mary Doordan, dramatics; Archie Wallis, fire drill and traffic; Isabelle Hutchison, finance; Jeanette Thorogood, library; Anna Frazer, music; Laura White, noon hour; Margaret Wilkinson, parliamentary law; John Dayett, school news; Dorothy Rothwell, scholarship; John Holloway, physical recreation; Sarah Wallis, transportation.

Nomination for all offices were made by delegates from each class and the election held under the direction of election officials. Classes 6 to 12 voted in the elections. Each committee has a faculty advisor and there are faculty advisors for the General Association. The Association can initiate suggestions and each grade is privileged to come before the weekly meeting of the Cabinet with constructive criticism or suggestion.

The plan, as a whole, is student government in all school activities, under guidance. One of the first duties of the cabinet is to study and apply the best practices in student participation in school government, which have been found effective in other schools. The whole idea is to make for co-operative improvement in school affairs.

Changes

The Christmas recess will end on Tuesday, and as the equipment of grades 1, 2 and 3 has been moved this week, these grades will be moved into the Delaware avenue building on Tuesday, leaving grades 6 to 12 in the new building.

Mr. Hohl Resigns

Mr. George Hohl, who came here this fall from Colgate University as instructor in science in the High School, has tendered his resignation in order to accept a responsible position as actuary for the Continental Life Insurance Company, whose main office is in Wilmington.

Mr. William K. Gillespie, of Landsford, Pa., a graduate of Penn State, will take Mr. Hohl's classes. Mr. Gillespie played three years of varsity basketball at State and also won his letter in football. He will also assume Mr. Hohl's duties as coach of boys' basketball.

AMBULANCE CALLS

Besides taking the victims of the Saturday night grade crossing accident to the Delaware Hospital, the Newark ambulance made four other runs during the past week. On Friday, a colored man by the name of Lewis, was taken from the farm of H. W. Cook to the Homeopathic Hospital. Alfred Ewing made the trip. On Sunday, Mrs. Thomas Spence was taken from the home of William Gregg to the Flower Hospital by Ira Shellender; and yesterday afternoon she was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital by Alfred Ewing. Last night, Ethel Goodyear was taken to the Delaware Hospital by Ira Shellender.

AUTO REGISTRATIONS

Magistrate Thompson has received to date about 500 applications for 1928 motor registrations. This is only about half the number registered from his office last year. 1927 registration will be good for only the first 5 days of January.

Community Joins In Reviving Custom Of Christmas Caroling

Small But Enthusiastic Crowd Gathers Christmas Eve Under Community Tree; Continental Band Marches Through Town Until Morning TO REPEAT NEXT YEAR

Despite the cold, over 150 people gathered under the lighted community Christmas tree, in front of the Old Academy, last Saturday night to sing Christmas carols. Thus an old Newark custom, which had lapsed for one year, was revived.

The program was scheduled to start at 7 o'clock, but as the crowd at that hour was small, the Continental Band, which was there to furnish instrumental music, marched through the streets playing Christmas songs and then marched back to the Academy grounds with a crowd following it.

Mr. A. D. Cobb and Professor Philip Myers lead the singing from the Academy steps. David Chalmers, Orville Little, Raymond Buckingham, Ira S. Brinser, Guy Hancock and H. W. Stradley made up a sextette of brass instruments to accompany the choral singing. The leaders had the choir groups arranged to carry the songs effectively.

The Reverend Disston W. Jacobs gave the invocation; the Reverend H. E. Hallman read from the Scriptures; and Dr. R. B. Mathews pronounced the benediction.

After the crowd had sung the favorite Christmas carols several times, it dispersed and many followed the Continental Band, which marched about the town playing until the small hours of Christmas morning.

While the crowd was not as large as anticipated, it was enthusiastic and it is planned to make the Christmas Eve program more ambitious and elaborate next year. Due to the cold last Saturday night many persons who attended the singing, parked their cars near the Academy and stayed in them, listening.

GIVEN CHRISTMAS TREAT

On Friday evening the guests at the Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware were made merry when several members of Mineola Council, No. 17, Degree of Pocahontas visited them. A beautiful Christmas tree was placed in the center of the living room and it brought back pleasant memories to the old folks when several little papoose danced merrily around the tree to the tune of "O Christmas Tree" sang by all present in English, then in German by Willie Von Ehren and Fred Truitt. Gertrude Jacobs read an interesting Christmas story. A quartette sang "Holy Night." Sara Tryens, Lillian Messick and Gertrude Jacobs spoke recitations. Leona Tryens sang a solo. Several Christmas Carols were played by Walker Fell, Esmeré Wilson, and Fred Truitt.

Each guest received a stocking filled with goodies with a gift in currency for good measure.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson, who will have been married fifty years next month, celebrated the anniversary on Christmas Day by entertaining their children and grand children at dinner at their home on East Main street. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grant and four children, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Hill and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones and three children, and Miss Harriet Ferguson, of this town; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ferguson, of Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ferguson, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ferguson, of Nashville, Tennessee, and Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Dayett, and two children, of Baltimore.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY

Howard Lockerman, colored, was arrested last night by Chief of Police Keeley and arraigned before Magistrate Thompson on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. As he was not in condition to testify he was locked up overnight and brought before Mr. Thompson again this morning. He paid a fine of $10 and was put under a $50 bond to keep the peace.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Epicure Salad—Arrange on plates shredded lettuce or lettuce leaves, and on them place an outer ring of sliced pear, an inner one of thinly-sliced orange, and a center of canned pineapple, either crushed or sliced. Top the mound or ring of pineapple with whipped cream or with cream cheese. Scatter halved, seeded white grapes over the dish. If cheese is used instead of cream, mayonnaise or French dressing should be used.

Supper Salad—Mix diced lamb or veal with chopped celery and peas, and bind with an oil mayonnaise. Place a mound of this on a foundation of lettuce and crushed pineapple. This is an excellent salad to use as a main course at supper or luncheon.

Curry with Pineapple—Cut chicken, veal, or lamb into pieces about an inch in size. Blend two tablespoons butter and one of flour in a double boiler, and add salt and pepper to taste, one and a half tablespoons curry-powder, and gradually one cup chicken or meat stock. Simmer till sauce is smooth; add meat and cook five minutes longer. Surround the curry on a platter with rings of pineapple and mounds of boiled rice, placed alternately.

All human beings should have a proportion of iron in their diets, and the pineapple is one of the few fruits which requires this element in order to come successfully to maturity. The soil of Hawaii is a rich volcanic dust, but pineapples grow better in it with the addition of fertilizer in order to give them a balanced ration.

It was found long ago, however, that, though the soil contains much iron, this iron was combined with manganese, and prevented the plants from getting enough. In order to provide them with iron in the form in which they needed it, an "iron ration" was invented, and now they get it in the form of a spray while they are growing, and they keep green under this treatment, and bear delicious fruit.

Boys and girls in their teens are in special need of iron in their diet, and most of them will welcome it when it comes in the form of pineapple, whether in the fruit salad, the pie or cake, or, what may be liked best of all, the fruit cup. Mothers may be interested in trying some of these recipes.

Pineapple Salad—Make individual jellies with lemon jelly powder and the juice from canned slice pineapple which is substituted for the water. When the jellies are beginning to set drop into them small sections of sliced pineapple and blanched almonds. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise. This is equally nice as a dessert, in which case the jellies should be surrounded with mounds of whipped cream and served with lady-fingers.

Pineapple Pie—Drain the juice from a can of sliced pineapple. Heat one and a half cups milk. Mix one-half cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, and two tablespoons cornstarch and slowly add hot milk. Cook in double boiler until the cornstarch is thoroughly cooked. Pour on two beaten egg yolks and let cook in double boiler about two minutes, stirring all the time. Cool and add one cup of crushed pineapple, well drained, and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Pour into a baked crust and cover with a meringue made of two stiffly-beaten egg whites and two tablespoons sugar. Brown in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Cake—Cream one-half cup shortening and one cup sugar together until light and add two well-beaten egg yolks. Mix and sift two cups flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, and four teaspoons baking powder. Add alternately with three-quarters cup syrup drained from crushed pineapple. Fold in two stiffly beaten whites of egg. Bake in layer cake pans in a moderate oven. Put pineapple icing between the layers and on top. The icing is made by adding drained crushed pineapple to a boiled Pineapple Punch—Mix together the juice drained from canned pineapple, the juice of lemons, simple syrup, and ginger ale. Dilute with water to suit the taste.

Rabbits can be cooked in any of the ways chickens are cooked, according to their degree of tenderness.

A light, even oiling with a little castor oil on a cheesecloth pad once a month helps to keep patent leather uppers on shoes from cracking.

Parasitism are good when boiled, and cut up in a white sauce, to be reheated in a casserole or baking dish in which they go to the table.

Smoked Finnan Haddie is a good fish to serve in winter time. Cut it in pieces, simmer until tender, and then pick from the bones and serve in a cream sauce.

When taking ashes out of the ash pit, sprinkle them, if possible, before handling. A small watering pot kept near the furnace assists materially in keeping down dust.

Pork and other meats to be canned are cooked first in the usual way for any given cut, and then processed under steam pressure. Directions for doing this are found in Farmers' Bulletin 1186-F, Pork on the Farm.

A rough practical test for determining whether the air in a room is too dry is to observe the inside of windows on a cold day. If frost forms freely on the inside of the glass there is no doubt but that the inside air has sufficient humidity. If there is no sign of frost the air is likely too dry.

When you buy sheets at the January white sales, be sure to get them long enough and wide enough, so they can be tucked in at the foot and the sides, and turned over the blankets at the top edge, to protect them. Measure your pillows before you start out to buy pillow cases, so you will know what size to get.

Buttons on children's rompers should be few in number, large, easily reached, made with a long shank, and firmly sewed on with a stay underneath. The buttonholes should be firm, and made in reinforced bands. Front buttons for easy dressing are advisable. Buttons on the drop seat should be placed near the underarms rather than in the middle of the back.

Here are a few good desserts to serve when eggs are scarce, as they can be made with no eggs at all, or, at most, one! Old-fashioned creamy rice pudding, without eggs; gelatins made from fruit juices; mince, apple, cranberry, and other fruit pies; corn-starch blanc mange, either vanilla or chocolate; fruit cup; fruit cobbler, made with a biscuit top; dried short-cakes, with biscuit foundation; fresh, stewed, and baked fruits in season; stewed dried fruits; steamed fruit puddings, junket; "flummery", made from canned fruit juices such as blackberry or raspberry, thickened with corn starch; baked Indian pudding; fruit sherberts.

WITH APPLES

If you have any pineapple juice on hand, add it to apples when they are cooking.

Apples seem less ordinary and more like a dainty dessert if, instead of making applesauce, the apples are sliced rather thin and cooked quickly, without stirring, in a syrup of boiling water and sugar. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Dress up the baked apple by putting a marshmallow in the center a few minutes before the apple is done.

Try cinnamon apple slices as a garnish for your roast. Slice the apple across the core, about an eighth of an inch thick. Remove core. Have boiling water in a shallow pan. Dissolve in it a cupful of sugar and five or ten cents' worth of cinnamon candy "pills." Cook apple slices slowly until tender, lifting them out with a broad knife or spatula. They will resemble slices of tomato, and have a delicious flavor.

If you have a bit of apple sauce in the cupboard, not enough to serve at a meal, put it into the hot cake batter, or in the waffles or muffins for breakfast.

Food Value of Fish

Lamb, pork, veal and beef, good as they are, grow monotonous when not varied with other things, even though the housewife resorts to all the changes of roast, chops, steak, stew and even hash. Large numbers of people serve fish on Friday, and a greater selection of fresh sea food is to be found in the markets on that day.

But, inland, and during the months of severe winter weather, fresh-caught fish is not to be had, so that the housewife is put to it to avoid monotony in protein foods. To her, therefore, canned sea food has come as a great resource. Appetizers, stews and chowders, entrées, salads and made dishes of all kinds are possible with the long list of the "finny" tribe available everywhere in cans. This list includes oysters and clams; shrimps, crabs and lobsters; mackerel, salmon, shad and tuna; cod, haddock and herring; sardines and anchovies; caviar and fish roe; some in many forms.

A Good Winter Dish

Devilled crab is a good winter dish and simple to prepare when the meats are freed from the shell, as they are in cans. To one cup of medium white sauce add the yolks of two eggs, one can of crab meat and one-fourth cup of chopped sautéed mushrooms. Season with salt and pepper and chopped parsley, top with buttered crumbs and bake in ramekins until browned.

Church uniting with Christiana at that time. From 7.30 to 8 o'clock there was a special program of Christmas hymns and carols, played by the organist, Miss Elizabeth Davis. During the church service there was special music consisting of duets by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis and Charles and Earle Lynch, and a solo by Miss Elizabeth Davis. The pastor of the Christiana Church, Rev. Preston W. Spence, Jr., preached the sermon.

The Christmas party of the children was held in the Christiana M. E. Church last evening, and a similar one will be held in the Salem Church this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Olan Cleaver entertained Mrs. Cleaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leasure, of Glasgow, at dinner on Monday.

Mrs. Sara Kilvington and daughter, Sara, had as Christmas guests Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Kilvington and family, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kilvington, and Mr. Ralph Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Maclary and family spent Christmas Day with Mr. Maclary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Maclary, of Newport. Monday they had Christmas dinner with Mrs. Oliver Rothwell and family at Harmony. Miss Florence M. Appleby and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hance, of State Road, were also Mrs. Rothwell's guests on that day.

Miss Alice Phelps spent the weekend at her home in the village.

Mrs. Charles Barrett has been seriously ill at her home.

Mr. Olan J. Cleaver has recovered from a severe attack of grippe.

This whole community was shocked on Christmas Eve to hear of the death of little Jack Andrews and the serious injury of his father, when the car in which they were driving was struck and demolished by a train at the Depot road crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Newark. A few weeks ago Jack attended school here, while staying for a short time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Levey. Always a quiet, well-behaved gentlemanly little fellow, Jack endeared himself to fellow-pupils and teachers alike. His playmates here will be grieved to learn of his sudden death, and his mother and grandparents will have the sympathy of the entire community.

Elkton and Vicinity

Charles H. McFadden, of Elkton, has been appointed resident engineer of Huntington, Long Island, and will enter upon his new duties on January 1. Mr. McFadden, since graduating from the Maryland University, has been engaged with a construction corporation in New York.

Rev. R. M. Fontaine, head of the Catholic Seminary, at Holly Hall, Elkton, has returned to Elkton after four months in central and southern Europe.

Prohibition agents, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Short, visited the woods of Porter's Bridge section Saturday, but again failed to catch those engaged in manufacturing moonshine liquor. The officers, however, found four stills, two being in operation at the time, which they destroyed.

The will of the late Edward P. Mahoney, of Pleasant Hill, was filed in the Orphans' Court in Elkton for probate. An estate valued at $20,000 is left to his widow.

Mrs. David Scott, of Elkton, who has accepted a position at Hood College, Frederick, Md., and will leave on January 3, will be tendered a bridge luncheon by her many Elkton friends Thursday.

Miss Emily E. Moore, of North East, has been awarded her degree of Master of Arts in the field of American History and Political Science, by Cornell University.

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. D. R. Perkins and daughter, Lorene, are spending the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sparklin.

Mrs. Laura Harris has returned to her home in Wilmington, after spending sometime with Frederick and Elkton relatives.

Mermaid

There was no meeting of Harmony Grange on Monday evening and the news of the community is of comings and goings on Christmas Day.

Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Whiteman, of New York City, and Dr. and Mrs. William Wright, of Wilmington, were guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiteman. The same group enjoyed dinner on Monday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bancroft and Mr. and Mrs. A. Bailey Thomas and sons, Frank and Alfred, of Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harrington and sons, Junior and Donald, were guests at the Peach home on Sunday.

Mrs. Vought and daughter, Miss Clara Vought, of Tuxedo Park, were Christmas Day visitors at the home of Mrs. Frank Dennison.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Chambers entertained a family dinner party on Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Naudain entertained Mrs. Naudain's mother, Mrs. Woodward, of Roselle, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hawke, of Brackinville, on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Harlan and daughter, Miss Jean, and a group of friends were dinner guests of A. B. Dennison and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ball and sons were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dennison on Monday.

The Christmas dinner party on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Pennington included: Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, Misses Anna and Ella Stroud, Mrs. Clara Cranston and children, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Abner Woodward, of Roselle; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Derrickson and Jas. Derrickson, of Milltown. Afternoon callers were: Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Walker, Misses Elizabeth and Anna Walker, and Aubrey Walker, of Wilmington; Miss Dorothy Cooper, of near Newark; Miss Helen Pillsbury, of Wilmington, and Arthur Faries, of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eastburn and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Eastburn, were Monday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Crossan on Penny Hill.

A cantata was given by the Sunday School and the young people of White Clay Creek Church last evening.

Pleasant Hill

Rev. and Mrs. G. T. Gehman and daughter, Griselda, are spending a few days this week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gehman, in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Harry J. Buckingham, of Wilmington, spent the week-end at the Buckingham homestead.

Many guests were entertained at Christmas dinners by several families in the vicinity, among those being Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Whiteman, of New York City, and Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Wright, of Wilmington, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Whiteman; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harkness and children, of Richardson Park, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnston and daughter, of Milltown, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Burns and children, of Landenberg, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dempsey; the Atwell family with Mr. and Mrs. Windle Darlington, in Kennett Square, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Buckingham, of Hockessin, Mr. R. Gilpin Buckingham and family, of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wolleyhan and children, of Chesapeake City, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Eastburn, at the home of Mr. R. G. Buckingham; and the Whiteman family at the home of Mr. S. W. Pierson.

Mrs. Warren Lamborn and children spent a few days this week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. A. Springer, in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dwyer and children were recent guests of Mr. D. Horgan and family, in Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Mousley and daughter, Sara, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dempsey.

The Foot-Path to Peace

Henry Van Dyke

To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars, to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Christ; and to spend as much time as you can, with body and with spirit, in God's out-of-doors—these are little guide-posts on the foot-path to peace.

Bill Perkins' Christmas

"This here Bill Perkins that I was tellin' ye of," said Uncle Si, as he reached for a match, "is a peculiar creature. He ain't like the average run of folks. Frinstance, now that the gladsome season of Christmas is approachin', Bill has slumped right down and is likely to go into hidin' till the last wreath is hauled down and folks has got back to normal again."

Uncle Si packed a little more tobacco into the bowl of his pipe, tamped it down, lighted it and resumed:

"Between you and me, speakin' in the friendliest way, Bill ain't exactly what you might call a Christian—that is to say, he ain't right orthodox. He seems never to look at things the way other people do. I like to do things in what you might call a seasonable way, but Bill is plain on-seasonable. There's a time for all things. Take the Fourth of July—we're all patriotic on that occasion. Then at Thanksgiving we give thanks by showin' how much of the fat of the land we can consume. On New Year's we promise to be as good as we can be for a spell; and at Christmas, with brimmin' hearts, we whoops things up and lets ourselves go the limit. That's what I mean by bein' seasonable."

He paused and then went on: "But Bill is what you might call dissipated. He's jest as likely to give somebody a present on the Fourth of July as at Christmas. And like as not, on New Year's day Bill is returnin' thanks instead of promisin' to do better. He don't 'pear to keep track of the holidays and mixes up his generosity and his patriotism, scatterin' 'em all through the year. So when Christmas comes along, Bill's bankrupt!"

"Now, you take the kids, frinstance," Uncle Si continued. "Bill's allus playin' with 'em and spilin' 'em. If he's got a cent, it's thein for candy or a rubber ball or somethin'. But when Santa Claus comes along, Bill realizes he ain't got the money for no expensive truck and that makes him down-hearted. He's jest frittered away his lovin' kindness."

"Why, last Christmas," explained Uncle Si, "Bill wanted to give the Widder Morgan and her kids a Christmas dinner with turkey and fixin's. Well, she got no turkey. Bill had been at his foolishness as usual. He had given her some potatoes and side-meat in October and had bought her a ton of coal in November, so his money was all spent long before Christmas. Kind of im-provident, seems to me."

"I believe Bill would give you his last shirt if you needed it. I ain't findin' so much fault with that, but like as not he would give it along in the fall instead of savin' it up for Christmas to give like a gentleman and a Christian. He has a fool idea that the time to give a present is when it's needed instead of waitin' for the proper season. Even a shirt ain't to be despised for a Christmas present if it's all you've got."

"Bill's jest wasteful, that's what he is. I don't s'pose he has an enemy in the world, but if he got wind of somebody doin' him dirt he'd go 'round after he knocked off work and forgive him. He wouldn't even wait for the proper time for doin' it."

"The boys fixed it up once to make a few enemies for Bill by a story about how he had slandered 'em. We calculated that on Christmas Day we would jest casually bring 'em together and Bill could up and forgive 'em and jine in the Christmas gladness. Well, there was a meetin' of the lodge along the middle of December and Bill got up and said he regarded every man as his brother; likely he had often done wrong, but if he had ever injured his fellow-man he wanted then and there to offer an apology and ask to be forgiven—and Christmas was still two weeks off! Can you beat it?"

After listening to this story, I wrote it down, and now send it along as a Christmas greeting, thinking that perhaps there is a moral in it that I have possibly overlooked but that you can dig out.

—Geo. B. Hynson.

[The above was received as a Christmas greeting several years ago from the late George B. Hynson, of Philadelphia. We have enjoyed it so much that we thought our readers should enjoy it, too.—Ed.]

Dr. Robin

We reprint the following letter which we found on the people's page of the Delmarvia Sunday Star, because it expresses so beautifully some of the thoughts we have had in connection with our late friend.

A Friend's Fine Tribute to Dr. Albert Robin

Editor, Delmarvia Sunday Star: The obituaries written on the death of Dr. Albert Robin only faintly outline the measure of the man and his contribution to the community. As one of the few persons fortunate enough to have enjoyed his personal and intellectual intimacy may I be permitted to fill in some of the details so that Delaware may know she has lost a great citizen.

In the fifteen years I have worked at my trade as a newspaper man it has been my privilege to meet but a very few men whose qualities of heart and mind set them apart from the common herd of humanity.

Dr. Robin was one of them.

He had the child-like attributes of greatness; simplicity, unfeigned curiosity, gentleness. He never lost the sense of wonder and set out gaily each day to find something new or marvelous.

His mind never hardened around what he already knew but remained fluid and plastic, eagerly absorbing what was valuable in the research and experience of others.

He had the true scientific temper and never accepted anything because it was commonly believed or had a stamp of authority on it. A man of uncommon common sense, his ability to reach through a cloud of ideas, then to recognize and organize the facts amounted at times to divination.

This penetration enabled him to see into the hearts and minds of his friends and patients so that he was able to cure sick souls as well as warped bodies and reorder unhappy, twisted lives.

Such transparent honesty and greatness of spirit radiated from him that no man ever sat in his company who was not warmed by the glow of his personality. If he had been ambitious for power or money he would have been a famous man, but he lived a useful and generous life with a selflessness as rare as it was beautiful.

In Wilmington you know that he stopped the pollution of the Brandywine, saving an annual toll of life, that he gave himself completely to the tuberculosis sanatorium at Hope Farm as the only visiting physician when it was a struggling institution, that he battled for years with the in-difference of his fellow-townsmen to found a hospital for contagious diseases and that the new hospital which is to be open to every doctor would never have been achieved without his untiring energy and the support of those who believed in his unselfish devotion to the sick and the suffering.

"Beauty is truth, truth beauty, that is all
"Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

sang Keats. This was life to Albert Robin.

true, for the hearty response to our appeal far exceeded our highest anticipations.

There were generous gifts of turnips, cabbage, carrots, parsnips and other vegetables, one large quantity of potatoes, many bags of flour and several quarts of milk which we wish to acknowledge as well as gifts from the following:

The Eastern Star.
The churches.
The schools.
The Ku Klux Klan.
The Red Cross.
Employees of the Curtis Paper Company.

The Boy Scouts.
The Girl Reserves.
The Merchants.
One of the Bridge Clubs.

We wish that those who have contributed could have gone into the homes with us and have seen the appreciation which lighted up the eyes and faces of some who had looked forward to a most humble Christmas.

The Committee tried to furnish each family with a good dinner. It was also possible through the donations to provide preserves and staples which will last beyond the immediate holiday season. Gifts of clothing and toys for each child in the different families were included.

In one family the father and mother were both out when we called in the evening with the donations. The oldest child, a sweet ten-year-old girl, let us in. Three younger children were posted in the kitchen, one under the kitchen table, another behind the door and the third in the corner with his hands over his eyes, while the oldest smuggled the toys upstairs and out of sight. Suppressed giggles and murmurs of "Old Chris" came from the kitchen. On Sunday morning the little tots found what Santa Claus, in the guise of the welfare worker, had brought.

One woman who takes in three washings a week to help support her family was most grateful for assistance. Her husband, who is delicate and works part time, confided that she sat crying the evening before our visit for she knew not how to provide a little Christmas cheer for her kiddies.

The Boy Scouts will be happy to know that one of the toys they painted just filled the one request of a boy. He had asked for just one thing and his parents saw no way to supply it, but thanks to the Scouts he received it.

One mother said that the only thing she could do for her little girl was to have an old doll re-strung.

Many of our donations were anonymous so that we have only this means of thanking the donors. For our own records we have the names of all who cared to give them and if we have failed personally to thank each person as he brought his gifts we desire to do so at this time through the columns of The Post.

And it is with our deepest thanks that we acknowledge the space and publicity given our Committee by The Post.

It is our desire to know of any needy families and we ask that if you know of any you will report them to any member of the Committee because our work extends through the year.

HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED

In the Saturday, December 24, issue of the Christian Science Monitor, on the page headed, "Antiques for the Homeowner and Collector" there is a very interesting article entitled, "The Holiday Dinner Table". It was written by Mrs. Kenneth Whittemore, of this town.

The article describes the holiday dinner table, set with grandmother's ancestral dishes, pieced out with rare treasures from the collection of the younger members of the family.

"Frosh" Humble Sophs In Interclass League

University of Delaware Freshmen basketball team sprang a surprise on the Sophomores last Wednesday afternoon when they defeated the second year boys, 17 to 14. Previous to this game the Sophs had not lost a game in the interclass series. In view of the fact that the Freshies had lost two games to teams that the Sophs had defeated it was looked on as almost a sure bet that the Sophs would win and end the series of class championships for 1927.

The defeat by the Freshies makes it necessary for the Sophs to play the Juniors after the holidays for the championship. The fact that the Freshies had lost two games while the Sophs were undefeated put the first year boys out of the running for the class title notwithstanding their victory Wednesday. The Juniors and Sophs are now the only two teams that have lost but one game in the series.

In the game Wednesday the first half ended with the score 8 to 8. In the final half the Freshies out-played the Sophs and their guards held the Sophs' forwards to but three goals. The score:

RUTGERS PREP TO PLAY UNIVERSITY FRESHMEN

The Rutgers Preparatory basketball team, on which one Newark boy plays while a Wilmington boy is captain, will meet the University of Delaware freshmen team at Newark on January 14. The game comes in the course of a brief southern trip in the course of which the New Jersey cagers will play Keystone Academy at Philadelphia and Tower Hill School at Wilmington. "Biff" Hopkins, of 12 Academy street, Newark, is guard on the Rutgers Prep team.

The Moral Basis of Education

That the morals of present-day college students are negative, A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, asserts in a recent issue of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin. The subject of his discourse, the desirability of erecting a chapel in memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, called out a discussion of the lack of a moral basis in present-day college education and the urgent need for it.

"To my mind the permanent value of all we do in the university is based upon moral considerations," he wrote. "Of what good is it to know chemistry, if the only object of studying it is to discover more fatal explosives? Of what good is it to learn any control over the powers of nature or of man if we are not to use it for moral purposes?" And he points out that the great weakness in college education today is the lack among the students of moral purpose, and that accordingly they do not take back to their respective communities what they should—a purpose to serve for the love of service, and to do right for right's sake.

Dr. Lowell cites the parable of the talents, holding that students do not make the use they should of the talents they possess. He apparently implies that out of the development of their talents comes moral and ethical stamina. He makes it clear, however, that he is not accusing the students of low morals, but that they are negative rather than positive in this all-important phase of education. And he also affirms that, if the purpose of the college be to train its men and women for the highest public service, it not only must educate for a moral basis but must also be sure that that basis be religious.

This pronouncement from so prominent an educator recalls Professor Manning's definition of education: "Education is the formation of the whole man, intellect, character, mind and soul." Surely none of these may be neglected if a symmetrical character is to be developed. Unless education fits one for service it loses its high purpose. Pursued for its own sake, to increase personal efficiency merely for one's own ends, is to defeat its highest purpose. Only as it is recognized that service is the highest use to which learning may be put will education be seen in its true perspective.

With the moral purpose in the use of one's talent goes that other lesson of the parable. Each must know that he is in possession of talents, of capabilities, which under development may become of great use. All possess something which developed and made the most of may enable one to render true service in lifting mankind to a higher plane. Education would be one-sided and therefore incomplete if looked upon as merely intellectual, without due attention to the developments of the moral and religious side of man. The greatest service is rendered by him who is developed in all particulars; and this is the goal toward which all true education aims.—Christian Science Monitor.

The Old Witch

There was once a little girl who was very willful and who never obeyed when her elders spoke to her; so how could she be happy?

One day she said to her parents: "I have heard so much of the old witch that I will go and see her. People say she is a wonderful old woman, and has many marvelous things in her house, and I am very curious to see them."

But her parents forbade her going, saying: "The witch is a wicked old woman, who performs many godless deeds; and if you go near her, you are no longer a child of ours."

The girl, however, would not turn back at her parent's command, but went to the witch's house. When she arrived there the old woman asked her:

"Why are you so pale?" "Ah," she replied, trembling all over, "I have frightened myself so with what I have just seen." And what did you see?" inquired the old witch.

"I saw a black man on your steps."

"That was a collier," replied she.

"Then I saw a gray man."

"That was a sportsman," said the old woman.

"After him I saw a blood-red man."

"That was a butcher," replied the old woman.

"But, oh, I was most terrified," continued the girl, "when I peeped through your window, and saw not you, but a creature with a fiery head."

"Then you have seen the witch in her proper dress," said the old woman.

"For you I have long waited, and now you shall give me light."

So saying the witch changed the little girl into a block of wood, and then threw it on the fire; and when it was fully alight, she sat down on the hearth and warmed herself, saying:

"How good I feel! The fire has not burned like this for a long time!"

CHARACTER READING

A woman advertised for a man to work in her garden, and two men applied for the job. While she was interviewing them on the lawn she noticed that her mother, on the porch, was making signs to her to choose the shorter of the men, which she did.

When the women were alone, the daughter said: "Why did you signal to me to choose the shorter man, mother? The other had a much better face."

"Face!" exclaimed the other.

"When you pick a man to work in your garden you want to go by his overalls. If they're patched on his knees, you want him; if they're patched on the seat, you don't!"—Wall Street Journal.

Balanced Rations Put Hens on Paying Basis

You need not be a feed expert to make your hens lay, for feeding a flock economically is really simple. A hen first supplies her body needs with materials which furnish energy, heat, and rebuild broken-down tissues. Then, if a surplus remains, she manufactures it into eggs. You must make sure there will be a surplus by feeding what is known as "a balanced ration." This ration should be easily digestible, which means that the best feeds obtainable are by far the most economical.

One of the common mistakes made in feeding poultry is giving them nothing but whole grain. Scratch grains stay in the chicken's crop anywhere from six to twelve hours and for that reason should never be fed except at night. Also, hard grains are lacking in certain things a hen needs. They have a real purpose in the ration as an evening feed as they furnish both heat and energy while the birds are on perches. During the next two or three months feed fourteen pounds of scratch grain to 100 hens. This amount may be decreased when daylight grows longer.

A ration that supplies hens with all the nourishment they need to keep them in good health and allows extra material for maximum egg production is generally composed of a combination of whole grain, mash, minerals, succulents, and water. A mash is made up largely of ground feeds and is much more readily digested than scratch grain. It supplies just what the hens need to develop yolks and build whites of eggs.

One of the principal ingredients in a mash is an animal protein feed which makes a mash higher in price than scratch grain but is important for economical production. Keep the mash before your hens the year round in hoppers to which they have free access throughout the day. The more mash the hens eat, the more eggs it means. A hen eats only from 35 to 40 pounds of mash at the most in a year. The difference in the prices of a good mash and a cheap one is so small per hen that you cannot afford to take the chance. Use the best mash you can get.

Every day we learn more of the part minerals play in poultry nutrition. Practically all of the better commercial mashes contain certain minerals which help to keep the hens in better physical condition. In addition to the mineral supply in the mash, a good quality of oyster shells should be available for the hens in hoppers. If a hen is not given shell-building material, she either stops laying, decreases the size of her egg, or is forced to lay soft-shelled eggs. Oyster shells are low in price.

Green feed in a hen's diet is not so much the supplying of food nutrients as assisting in the digestion of other feeds and keeping the hens in condition. During the fall and winter months, succulents may be furnished in the form of root crops, cabbage, kale, and the like. Be careful not to feed any green material that is moldy or has bad spots, as this is apt to more than offset the beneficial effects of green feed.

Last, but not least, of the various nutrients we have to furnish a hen is water. There is possibly no individual part of the hen's diet that is of more importance. Over 55 per cent of the hen's body and 65 per cent of her product is water. A dozen standard size fresh eggs contain approximately one pint of water. One hundred hens in a laying condition will consume about four gallons of water a day. If you have trouble with water freezing in winter, use some kind of a heating device, for you must not let your hens go without water.

If you will feed your hens a good mash, see that water is always available, and feed a scratch grain only in the evening, we know that the results will be more than gratifying. The feeding program outlined is simple, yet effective, from the standpoint of results.

Columbus and the Egg

One day Columbus was at a dinner in his honor, and several persons were present who were jealous of the great admiral's success. They were proud, conceited fellows, and they very soon began to try to make Columbus uncomfortable.

"You have discovered strange lands beyond the seas," they said, "but what of that? We do not see why there should be so much said about it. Anybody can sail across the ocean; and anybody can coast along the islands on the other side, just as you have done. It is the simplest thing in the world."

Columbus made no answer; but after a while he took an egg from a dish and said to the company:

"Who among you, gentlemen, can make this egg stand on end?"

One by one those at the table tried the experiment. When the egg had gone entirely around and none had succeeded, all said that it could not be done.

Then Columbus took the egg and struck its small end gently upon the table so as to break the shell a little. After that there was no trouble in making it stand upright.

"Gentlemen," said he, "what is easier than to do this which you said was impossible? It is the simplest thing in the world. Anybody can do it,—after he has been shown how!"

—By James Baldwin (Adapted).

Candling eggs is a safeguard against such conditions as blood spots.

And it's the way to make sure that you are not sending stale eggs to market. It's one of the most efficient methods of learning the quality of eggs.

Playing with Pineapple

Fortunate is the woman sufficiently versed in the art of cookery to be free of the tyranny of recipe and cook book. Not that they are not excellent and necessary things, but because it is such fun to vary and substitute, and take liberties with them. When a recipe calls for cornstarch, for instance, to dare use flour or arrowroot, or be able to leave out or add flavorings and spices successfully is the reward of knowledge, and any woman can acquire it if she wishes.

In the fall and winter, apple sauce, Apple Betty, baked apples and apple tapioca often seem to do double duty, and, good as they are, both the cook and the family tend to weary of them. Here's a hint. Pineapple blends excellently with apple or can be substituted for it in many of the common and every day dishes. Canned pineapple is available in both the crushed and sliced form, and so requires a minimum effort in preparation.

Pineapple sauce will please the whole family and enough can be made from one can of crushed pineapple and an equal amount of apple sauce to serve the average family as a sauce and save the base for a combination "Betty" or pie. Tiny individual turnovers are liked by the pastry eating members of the family.

Good and Different

Another day, fill the cavities left by the removal of the core of baking apples with a mixture of crushed pineapple and raisins and see how good and different they are. To make pineapple tapioca, drain the syrup from either the crushed or sliced variety, and use it as part of the required liquid. Pour the cooked tapioca mixture over sliced pineapple or mix with crushed pineapple.

A dish which will prove fascinating to people who have not tried it is really a plate meal to be called "Pineapple and Sausage Sandwich with Sweet Potato Puff." To make the sandwich, split large slices of canned pineapple in two, so that they will be half the thickness, dry and dip in flour and sauté until brown in sausage fat. Shape sausage meat into flat cakes about the diameter of the pineapple, and bake until thoroughly cooked, then place between two pieces of the sautéed pineapple. Fill the core hole with chopped parsley and a spoonful of some red jelly. Serve with mashed sweet potato to which beaten white of egg has been added.

A BITTER MEMORY

Within the generation, now grizzled, which grew up with "Little Lord Fauntleroy" there are doubtless many, like John Nicholas Bessel, who have lived to curse its author's memory. Such was the hold which this romance took on the maternal imagination of the day that many a boy was forced to clothe himself in the habiliments of its noble hero and to fare forth in velvet and lace and long curls to meet the jeers and worse of his fellows. It was a species of torture one doesn't easily forget, though to say with Mr. Bessel that because of this book "the lives of thousands of helpless small boys in the United States were blighted" is to put the case against it a little too passionately. Very likely for every boy who succumbed to the ignominy of such a costume there was another who first found the use of his fists in getting back at those who called him "sissy" on account of it, and whose life, far from being blighted, was made by the ordeal.

So while we sympathize with Mr. Bessel we cannot indorse his protest against the erection of the proposed memorial to Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett in Central Park. Mrs. Burnett wrote other books for children which are an unmixed delight, and if she was the innocent cause of pain and discomfort to individuals as a result of this, her most famous story, her responsibility is no greater than that of Reginald Birch, who drew the pictures for it, curls and all, and neither should be blamed for the sins of thoughtless mothers.

To the latter a gentle word of advice. Too many in every generation are prone to dress their boys to suit some sentimental fancy of their own, quite regardless of the iron-clad conventions that rule the little savages. In doing so they condemn their darlings to a misery which they themselves wouldn't face for a moment. To make a boy "cute" nine times out of ten is to send him to the pillory.—N. Y. Herald Tribune.

The Supply Shelf

Two chops for dinner, and Friend Husband walks in beaming, with the college friend whom he has not seen since the summer following the receipt of their diplomas. This chum's praises have been sung to you and you want him to feel properly envious of Friend Husband's happy and pleasant home. But dinner, the meat markets closed, and those chops shrink to microscopic size.

You scan your supply shelf hopefully. A can of corned beef promises relief from your embarrassment. Potatoes are already boiling on the stove, so by the time the corned beef is opened and put through the meat grinder, an onion peeled and reduced to juice, they will be ready for the chopping bowl and knife. A little salt, some pepper, and milk to moisten, and the hash is ready for a skillet containing a small quantity of bacon fat supply. The shelf will also furnish a can of spinach and some pickled beets to chop and combine with it. Chop the spinach, season, and heat with the chopped beets.

Spread the spinach over the top of the hash, folding hash like an omelette, onto a hot platter.

Another Quick Dinner Dish

Creamed chicken and mushrooms, all ingredients to be found on the shelf, served on halves of large, flat, rich baking powder biscuit would also make a good dinner dish. Make two cups of cream sauce, season with salt, paprika and nutmeg, add the contents of a can of chicken cut into small pieces, and one can of mushrooms drained from their juice. Garnish each and serving.

A rather deaf lady was sitting beside a surgeon at dinner. She asked: "Should I call you Dr. T— or Mr. T—?" "Call me what you like, madam," he replied, and added, genially: "Some of my friends call me an old fool." "Ah," she rejoined, not hearing correctly what he had said, but anxious to be pleasant, "those are the people who know you intimately!" —London Daily Chronicle.

There is nothing in all the world so important as children, nothing so interesting. If every you wish to go in for philanthropy, if ever you wish to be of real use in the world, do something for children. If ever you yearn to be wise, study children. If the great army of philanthropists ever exterminate sin and pestilence, ever work out our race salvation, it will be because a little child has led. —David Starr Jordan.
