Public Vote On City Charter Defeated By Two Councilmen

Coverdale, Hill Oppose Proposed Referendum To Decide On Revised Charter To Strengthen City Manager-Council Government; Delegation Opposes 120-Acre Annexation

After checking a list of 800 petitioners represented by William C. Long last Thursday night after a proposed referendum for approval of a revised city charter was defeated by opposition votes of Councilmen William M. Coverdale and Lottory C. Hill, Jr., City Secretary Charles D. Long announced that there are "more than enough duly registered voters" signing the petition to provide a public vote on the charter.

A three-quarter vote of council is required by law for a referendum, but under the home rule bill, a referendum can be forced by petition of 10 per cent of the qualified voters.

The proposed charter providing for strengthening of the manager-council form of government resulted from recommendations made by Public Administration Service, a professional consulting firm employed by the city.

Council approved extensions of a water main on Red Mill Road at an estimated cost of $140,000 and in Roseville Park at an estimated cost of $48,000.

Water Bill Collection
A proposed ordinance providing due dates for water bills, discounts for prompt payment and disconnection for failure to pay was approved at a first reading.

Mrs. William B. McCloskey, 100 West Main Street, was appointed to another three-year term on the election board.

No action was taken on the 1964 budget because of time consumed by other items on the agenda. At a special council meeting last night, city annexation of 120-acres beside Route 896 and Old Coach's Bridge Road was opposed by a delegation speaking for 54 home-owners in the area.

Joseph G. McNeal, Jr., of 14 Edgill Drive, Yorktown, spokesman for 40 home-owners in Yorktown and 14 along Old Coach's Bridge Road, said "I'll make it short and to the point... we're opposed to annexation."

McNeal cited three main reasons—citizens feel they already have most of the services the city could provide; they don't want to pay city taxes; and they don't want to see a large tract of land zoned industrial.

Mayor Carl S. Rankin said the city has nothing to offer the homes, without the city, because of a charter revision which states that annexed property must be on the city's own land. He said the city would rather do it its own way.

McNeal said his group is "ready to challenge" the city's right.

Councilman Coverdale said the city is in conflict with a section of the Delaware Code which states that annexation must be approved in a referendum of citizens affected. He called for an opinion from the city solicitor on whether the city can annex without a referendum.

A meeting was scheduled between opposing residents and city council to be held next Thursday at 8 p.m. Rankin expressed the hope that the annexation would come with "an open mind" prepared to listen to facts and on the pros and cons of annexation.

UN Official Plans International Week Campus Lecture

Sir Muhammad Khan Of Pakistan To Feature Feb. 4-9 Program At UD

The appearance of a newly-elected member of the United Nations International Court of Justice will be one of the highlights of the International Week program at the University of Delaware, Feb. 4-9.

Sir Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, permanent representative of Pakistan to the United Nations, will offer a public lecture in Mitchell Hall at 7 p.m., Feb. 4.

Khan is immediate past-president of the UN General Assembly, and recently was elected to a nine-year term on the International Court of Justice.

According to Dr. A. LeRoy Bennett, chairman of the department of political science at the university, Khan will leave the U. S. on the morning after his Delaware appearance for brief trips to London and Pakistan before taking up his duties as a member of the court in the Hague.

Sir Zafrulla Khan led the Pakistan delegation to annual sessions of the UN General Assembly from 1947 to 1954, and to the UN Security Council on the India-Pakistan disputes in 1948-51.

The week-long program is intended to improve understanding of international affairs, and increase student and community knowledge of people of other lands.

This year's discussions will be principally devoted to East Asia. Documentary films on Asian countries will be shown at 8 p.m. on Feb. 5, in Wolf Hall, and songs and dances from foreign countries will be presented on Festival of Nations Day, Friday, Feb. 7, at 8 p.m. in Mitchell Hall.

Samuel L. Diehl, Jr. Elected President Of Newark C. of C.

The twelve-reversed case, concerning a quarry operation by Pender Corp., 2946 Newark, has been referred back to the New Castle County Zoning Board of Adjustment by the State Supreme Court.

In directing the board to judge legality of crushing operations as interrupted by the county zoning code, the Supreme Court reversed a Superior Court decision citing the rock crusher an accessory use.

According to Superior Court Judge William S. Storey, the crusher at the 123-acre site, is permissible in the R-2 district.

Storey's decision reversed an initial ruling by the adjustment board that banned the crusher.

Chancellor Collins J. Seltz, sitting on the Supreme Court in place of Justice Daniel F. Wolcott, decided the case should be returned to the board for further fact finding.

Neither the board nor the lower court, Seltz pointed out, decided whether the crusher would change the character of the quarry or impair the neighborhood.

"This must be done by the board," he ruled, "unless it is concluded that the operation of the rock crusher is not an accessory use within the definition of such use in the code."

Counsel for the Coach's Bridge and Chestnut Hill Civic Association, appealing the Superior Court ruling, argued the right to excavate materials in a R-2 district doesn't include the right to operate rock crushing equipment.

The Supreme Court concluded a rock crusher, particularly of the size intended, is not one of the permitted uses in an R-2 district.

The high court added that use of a rock crusher in such areas can only be justified, "if at all," as an accessory use.

Newark Teachers Honored In Magazine Article

Four teachers in the Newark school district have received national recognition for their joint publication "The Industrial Arts Program."

Bob Hoffman Honored as "Coach of Year" In Piloting Yellowjackets To BHC Title

Coach Of The Year

Bob DeGroat, president of the Delaware Interscholastic Football Coaches Association announced this week that Robert T. Hoffman, head football coach at Newark High School, is the association's selection as "Coach of the Year 1963."

Hoffman overcame astronomical odds to mold a Blue Hen Conference championship team that won eight of nine games. The Yellowjackets' only loss was a 13-6 squeaker to Conrad in the season opener.

Few gave Newark much chance for a winning season, much less a championship. New Christiansa High School opened last September and the Newark student body was divided.

And to make matters worse, two of his backen M. Pleasant won eight of nine games. The Yellowjackets' only loss was a 13-6 squeaker to Conrad in the season opener.

Harvey Folk had never played a game at quarterback before the Conrad contest," Hoffman said, "and the roof seemed to cave in with that game. Harvey was tackled from three different angles. But on the bus back to Newark I told the boys that the entire season isn't wrapped up in one game, and I'd be just as happy to end up 8-1. And by golly, they did."

In five years Hoffman teams have tied for the conference championship once; the Yellowjackets were defeated in three games. Hoffman used an ineligible player in 1959, and have won it all in '63. His overall record is 34-10-1.

Hoffman is a native of Prospect Park, Pa., where he and Miller were Delaware's Little All-America quarterback in the '50s—attended Prospect Park High.

Hoffman enrolled at Gettysburg the same year Miller started his fabulous career at Delaware. Hoffman was a center.

We played against each other in three games," Hoffman reminisced. "Gettysburg won twice by 14-13 and my senior year our only loss was to Delaware, 19-7. I've often told Don I'd trade one of those 14-13 wins for a 7-0 season."

At Gettysburg where he was a football star, Hoffman majored in business administration and for two years after graduation (1955), worked in the business world.

"I always thought I'd like to coach," he said, "and in 1957 Miller finally talked me into coming to Newark. It was the best move of my life. Not only because of my coaching success, but because I met my wife, the former Helen Smith, here. She was a teacher, coming from West Virginia the year before I did."

The Hoffman's have two boys—Dutch, five, and Matthew, three.

Scouts Of Troop 56 Pass Survival Test With Cold, Outdoor Weekend Of Camping

Boy Scouts of Troop 56 again proved that man can survive outside, overnight, in January at Camp Rodney, Md. In fact, they have confirmed it for the eighth year.

The latest in the troop's annual Operation Arctic took place the second weekend of January when the mercury fell to 8 degrees; water froze in the canteens; and air mattresses could not be folded because they were frozen by the cold wind whipping in from Chesapeake Bay.

The secret of survival in lean-to living in the big icebox of nature is wearing clothing, a survival report, and Scouts showed up with four layers of garments and with gloves, caps, jackets and hoodies.

The meals cooked over the open fires were even more welcome, for warmth.

Somewhat Kip Nelson's reveille at 6:30 a.m. was a little easier to answer than taps at 10. Getting into bed under the heavens was somewhat like bedding down in an oversize freezer, a Scout said.

As the day warmed up the teens on Saturday Scouts kept active by helping clear a parking lot; working on tests; and by just jumping up and down to keep warm.

Injuries Due To Freezing And Cold

During each winter there are many painful and serious injuries and even deaths due to freezing and over-exposure to cold.

It is important to treat cold injuries promptly so that tissue damage will not become too severe or spread. When treatment is delayed, affected parts such as ears, fingers or toes, can sometimes become permanently over-sensitized to all cold.

Early symptoms and signs of injury may be mild and not indicate seriousness of the freezing. This is because sensory nerve endings which give the usual warning have been injured to such an extent they are not functioning properly. Sometimes this numbing can happen very rapidly.

When any part of the body has been over-exposed to cold, it is important to warm it quickly.

Toes or fingers should be placed in lukewarm — not hot — water, or if other parts of the body are affected, a warm towel should be placed on them. The water should be warm — never hot.

If no warm water is available, warm blankets or clothing can be used until warm water is obtained. Affected parts should not be rubbed, as rubbing could further damage frozen tissue which, due to freezing, can not accommodate increased circulation brought about by rubbing.

Give the patient something hot to drink such as coffee, tea, milk, or even water.

When someone has had prolonged exposure to severe cold, wrap him warmly as quickly as possible. Then call your doctor so he can take proper precautions to prevent pneumonia which often follows such exposure.

Severe frostbite burns can be serious, so do not treat them lightly.

This column is a weekly service of your doctor through the Medical Society of Delaware.

Dr. Richard N. Taylor, president of the Delaware Heart Association, announced last night that the 1964 goal of the Heart Fund in Delaware is $150,000, the amount needed by the local association to continue the research, education and service, he stated.

The 1964 Heart Fund campaign will officially begin Feb. 1, and will extend throughout the month.

In 1962, diseases of the heart and circulatory system caused 1,871 out of 4,339 deaths in our state, Taylor said.

Dr. Taylor pointed out that Heart Fund-sponsored research has been instrumental in making major advances against cardiovascular diseases.

AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION WARNING

Do you drive around in your auto on cold winter days with all windows tightly closed?

Do you sometimes warm up the engine in your garage without first opening the garage door?

Do you neglect a check-up of exhaust and manifold on your car unless something starts rattling or falls off?

If your answer to any of these questions is "Yes"—you are flirting with carbon monoxide poisoning.

Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless, tasteless gas that comes from your auto exhaust. In the open air it usually is dissipated without harm, but enclosed, it is deadly.

No one knows how many auto accidents are caused by motorists whose reaction time is slowed by a small seepage of carbon monoxide into a closed auto. If your exhaust and manifold are in good shape and fitted tight, you likely are safe. But it's even safer to leave a window open a crack.

Always open a window when you're parked with the motor running!

Agricultural Research Provides Bounty For Well-Fed America As Soviets Worry

Producing enough food and fiber for a hungry nation is not an easy job. It has taken Soviet agricultural leaders some time to admit this, but they are finally indicating that it may be easier to build missiles and other necessities of war than it is to meet demands of the people for improved diets and consumer goods, says Jerry L. Webb, assistant agricultural editor for the University of Delaware.

Right now, the Soviets seem to be in a bit of a bind, Webb reports. Do they direct their national effort to producing food and fiber, or do they continue missile building and hope to beg or borrow food from the rest of the world? The Soviet Union, the United States for 15 months, but of wheat indicates the seriousness of the problem.

While Russia struggles to meet the minimum dietary needs of its people, we in America worry about a different kind of food problem—of security and abundance. Webb states, "At no other time in history, and in no other country, has agriculture provided so well for so many at such small cost. We're eating more beef and pork, more poultry, and more dairy products than ever before. And to do this the average worker earns spend less than one-fifth of his take home pay for food."

At the same time, the Russian counterpart spends more than half of his weekly pay for food of inferior quality and in short supply. "Behind our good fortune as the best fed people in the world is agricultural research," Webb reports.

Technology from application of research findings has made it possible for more than 90 per cent of our labor force to move from production of food to production of other goods and services that we need and want. The close teamwork that exists between research, industry and farming guarantees the economy and certainty of our food supply, Webb states.

In another 15 years we will need food for 45 million more Americans, and increased demand for food and fiber must be met with no increase in land. It will be up to science to show the way, Webb says.

The knowledge needed to grow this additional food and fiber is not available, and while there is reason for concern, there is no need for panic. Each day, dedicated agricultural scientists are learning more about the fundamentals of what makes plants and animals grow. Others are putting this knowledge to work to improve agricultural technology. Still others are finding new ways to process, store and distribute food, Webb reports.

Agricultural researchers at the University of Delaware are seeking to insure a bountiful harvest in the years ahead. They are working to improve production and marketing techniques and ways to grow more bushels of corn, soybeans and tomatoes per acre; develop a better broiler and get it to market in less time at lower cost.

Others are searching for new ways to control insects and diseases and solve the seemingly impossible tasks of improving composition of milk and taste of strawberries.

Money and time spent on agricultural research is an investment in the future. It is a necessary investment if we are to continue to be the best fed people in the world, Webb concludes.

Radioactivity Rise Noted In Non-Drinkers Of Milk

Radioactive material has been found in amounts three times greater in the bones of people who do not drink milk, says Suzanne Tannal, New Castle County home economics extension agent. She explains that radioactive strontium-90 is deposited in bones when calcium is not available, and milk is our chief source of calcium.

She notes that 30 per cent of American diets have shortages of calcium. Teen-agers and younger children need at least a quart of milk each day to supply calcium for bones and teeth while they are forming and hardening. Adults, too, need two 8-oz. cups of milk every day to maintain strong bones and teeth.

When counting calories, don't cut down on milk, reminds Mrs. Tannal. Skim milk offers half the calories of whole milk, while retaining all of the calcium.

Crippled Boy Wins Sports Letters With Assist from March of Dimes

A boy who can scarcely walk because of arthritis wins a letter in athletics. Impossible, you say. Not if the lad has the grit of Tim Ewald.

Even though this 17-year-old from Minneapolis can barely "inch" along with the help of a cane, he wears the monogram of Golden Valley High School in both football and track.

How come? How is all this athletic activity possible when it takes this likable youngster as much as 15 minutes merely to tie his shoelaces?

You must look back seven years to find the answer. As the second-oldest of five sons, Tim at the age of 10 could walk all his brothers and even his parents, Graydon and Diane Ewald.

At touch football, no one could lay a hand on him. Tim dreamed of a high school and college career in football and track.

Then, at the age of 10, came disaster. One night the boy was struck by the indescribably severe pains of rheumatoid arthritis throughout his body. His temperature soared. For long months he had to be hospitalized in body casts and treated with cortisone.

Aided by March of Dimes

Now, after seven years of the disease, Tim is slowly regaining some mobility—thanks in great part to physical therapy given him at the March of Dimes Arthritis Treatment Center in the University of Minnesota Medical School. This treatment is conscientiously repeated at home.

Much as the boy yearned to play, such strenuous sports as football and track were not for him. It was all he could do just to hobble from class to class. But in his freshman year at high school he resolved to be as close to sports as his crippled condition permitted.

Tim made a private vow that he would become a team manager.

He made it in his freshman year as manager of the football squad. He made it again in his sophomore year. Last chiefly cartoons and caricatures for which he seems to have promising talent. He thinks that someday he might like to be a sports cartoonist.

To continue working in the field of sports, even though he can't join actively because of crippling rheumatoid arthritis, Tim Ewald, 17, hopes to become a sports cartoonist. Here he outlines caricature of a sports personality. His doctors at March of Dimes Arthritis Center say this is good therapy for his hands and wrists.

Faces Surgery

Will he walk again normally? It's quite possible. This year, after graduation from high school, he may undergo hip surgery. Dr. Keith N. Drummond, assistant director of the March of Dimes center, explains that Tim's hips are now locked in a bent position caused by contraction of the tendons and muscles and by inflammation of the hip joints. Under favorable circumstances, surgery could release and lengthen these shortened tissues.

Whether crippled for life or on his feet again, which now seems likely, Tim is determined to continue working actively in sports. That's about all he'll say. But you know that this quiet and resolute youngster means it.

Even with his heavy schedule of classes, homework, team management, home exercises and weekly visits to the March of Dimes Arthritis Treatment Center, Tim finds time to draw, European Champion Hans Alser won all three major events in the Eastern United States Open Table Tennis Championships last weekend at the Wilmington Armory.

Lillian Meade of the Newark club gained the Women's Class B final before losing to Alice Brown.

Championship of 1961, had been won by Rattle Dancer with Bobby Yanez up. Bobby and Miguel are not related. Miguel was a "red hot" winner at Hollywood, then at Del Mar, in spite of being set down for being a bit "over eager" he rode 59 winners in 30 days. Some years back, when Bill Shoemaker was a "red hot" winner, his agent Harry Elbert was asked why horses seemed to run for him, and explained "He don't bother them." Yanez, too, is a bit of a "red hot" winner, and a good judge of pace. Some have offered a more facetious reason for his success noting "He can't understand the trainer's instructions" for Yanez speaks or understands little English.

Others playing for the jayvees of Coach Kay Lutz were Becky McCann, who contributed one point; Jennifer Campbell, Joann Barbour, Tina Burch, Kara Gubine, Joanna Johnson, Emily Trappell, Joyce Bensinger, Brenda Billingsley, Ginny George, Jody Roberts, and Barbara Wirick.

NEW NUT!

Filberts are domesticated hazelnuts. Their native cousin grows wild in many parts of the country and is very small. In contrast, filberts are grown mainly in Oregon and the Northwest and are commercially pampered to be larger nuts with a distinctive flavor. This newest domesticated tree nut may be used in recipes calling for hazelnuts.

In February, Nina Tamm, a Hill Valley 4-H'er, will be traveling to Kansas City, Mo., to represent Delaware 4-H'ers at the 11th Junior Poultry and Egg Fact Finding Conference.

Mrs. Alice Hopkins, leader of the Forest Oak 4-H Club, will travel with Nina as our adult representative.

At this conference, many new ideas and practices in the poultry industry will be discussed, and delegates will be asked their opinions, and take part in the discussion.

Upon returning, we hope to hear from Nina the new ideas and approaches learned from her trip, and see how 4-H'ers can use them in Delaware.

A Citizenship Club is to be started soon. Any interested person, 14 and older, can attend these meetings. We hope to cover any subject requested that will help develop better citizens. If you are interested contact your local leader, a 4-H friend or call the County Extension Office.
