COUNCIL PROVIDES ADDITIONAL WATER SUPPLY

No Action On Clash With Board Of Health

At the meeting of Town Council last night the resignations of Dr. Raymond C. Reed and Louis E. Curtis, as members of the Board of Health were received and accepted. At the same time a letter was read from Dr. H. G. M. Kollock, president of the Board, Dr. Herbert J. Watson, secretary, and Sergeant Frazer, in which they stated that they declined to resign. These members have stated, it is understood, that they will refuse to resign under fire.

It will be remembered that several weeks ago the two bodies had a misunderstanding relative to sewer connections. The Board of Health condemned 77 properties and sent the names to Council which under the law makes it practically compulsory for Council to order the properties connected with the sewer within 30 days under a penalty of a fine for each day after the 30 that they are not connected.

Council took the ground that the action of the board was unreasonable, that it would not only work a hardship on some owners but also that it was a physical impossibility for the two local plumbers to connect 77 properties within 30 days. The board took the stand that the properties should be connected for the betterment of the health of the town in the fight to prevent any more cases of typhoid fever and refused to respond to its action.

The result was that Council who appointed the members of the board asked for their resignations with the result as stated above. Council appoints the board members but there is some question whether or not they could be forced to resign. No further action was taken on the letter of the three members refusing to resign and Council has not ordered the 77 properties to connect.

Mayor Hossinger last night stated that he had seen the two plumbers in Newark and they had informed him that they would not attempt to connect more than 8 properties a month each with their other work.

Dr. Kollock was also present and the meeting and read a report of the board relative to health conditions showing just how many properties had been connected since the sewer was installed and how many remain that are not connected.

Council considered additional water supply for the town. It was decided to sink another well and install an extra pumping station in the same locality of the present station. The work will be paid out of the advanced January water rents.

PROMINENT GUESTS AT WOMEN'S COLLEGE

To Speak At Public Meetings

A number of prominent visitors will be entertained at the Women's College during the early winter. Miss Jessie Fields, one of the National secretaries of Y. W. C. A. work will visit the college on November 21st and speak at a public meeting to which the townspeople are invited in the evening. Miss Fields is interested in rural Y. W. C. A. work and hopes to organize the girls of the county and small town into working groups where they may have an opportunity to develop executive ability and the habit of working harmoniously with others.

"On December sixth, Mrs. Florence Kelly, of New York, whose work for working girls and children has brought her into nationwide prominence, will visit the college. Mrs. Kelly is at present head of the Federal Child Labor Bureau, and her visit is anticipated with a great deal of interest by the entire community."

REPORT OF SANITARY SURVEY

Accurate Figures Presented To Council

At Council meeting held last Monday, Dr. H. G. M. Kollock, president of the Board of Health, reported the results of a recently completed sanitary survey of the town. The report stated that 568 properties had been examined. Of these 325 are sewerage, and 243 not sewerage, making 57 per cent of the properties within town limits connected. According to the various streets of the town the figures run as follows:

Street	Not Sewered	Sewered
Main	138	54
Delaware Ave.	42	14
Cleveland Ave.	34	55
Prospect Ave.	6	8
Academy St.	18	0
Chapel St.	52	10
Choate St.	24	6
Elkton Ave.	4	5
Corbit St.	0	17
New London Ave.	0	61
College Ave.	7	13

These figures include those properties on New London avenue and South Chapel street, which have not yet had an opportunity to take advantage of the town sewer, no matter how much they may have wished, owing to the fact that adequate provision has not yet been completed to take care of these sections.

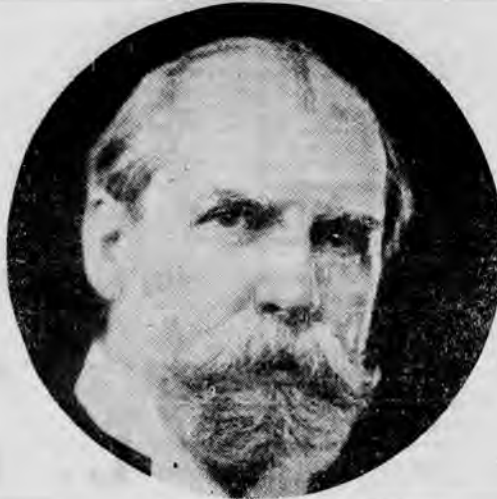

Pigs are kept, it was reported, on 40 properties; 129 pumps are in use; also 385 privies, 171 of which were found to be in bad condition.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The W. C. T. U. of Newark will meet this Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Martha Pennington.

Havre de Grace Goes Dry

According to last reports the "Drys" have carried Havre de Grace, the only wet spot in Harford County, Maryland, by a majority of twenty-four.

CHARLES E. HUGHES
The Next President

Delaware Still Republican—DuPont Defeated—Miller Elected

Townsend Leads Ticket All Over State—New Castle County Republican—Legislature Divided

3.30 p. m. The unofficial returns for our State are far from complete, but in most Republican quarters it is conceded that Josiah O. Wolcott, the Democratic opponent of Colonel duPont, has been elected by a bare safe plurality.

Congressman Thomas W. Miller, Republican, has won a reelection by 800.

Charles Evans Hughes has carried Delaware by plurality of 1200. John G. Townsend, Jr., the Republican candidate for Governor, has defeated James H. Hughes, the Democratic candidate by about 2000; that David J. Reinhardt, Republican candidate for Attorney-General, has won from Armon D. Chaytor, the Democratic candidate, and that William J. Swain, Republican candidate for State Treasurer, has a small plurality over James Lord, the Democratic candidate. It may be that the Democrats have elected the Lieutenant-Governor, the State Auditor and the State Insurance Commissioner.

With many possible districts yet to be heard from, it is impossible to say at this writing whether the Republicans or the Democrats will control the Legislature.

The Republicans have carried New Castle and Sussex counties, and the Democrats have carried Kent county. The State returns about 1,200 majority for Charles E. Hughes, Republican, for President, and elects Colonel John G. Townsend, Republican, as Governor by about 1,700 majority.

Congressman Thomas W. Miller, Republican, is re-elected by about 800 majority, it is estimated, he having carried New Castle county by 1,614 and lost Kent county by 804, and it is thought he will about break even in Sussex county, although he may lose that county by 100.

Indications also are that David J. Reinhardt, Republican, has been elected attorney-general, he having 184 majority on the face of unofficial figures in New Castle and Kent county, and it is figured that he had a small majority in Sussex county. The contest between Mr. Reinhardt and Armon D. Chaytor, Jr., the present deputy attorney-general, is close, and it may take the official canvass to determine the result.

Josiah O. Wolcott, Democrat, is elected United States Senator over Senator Henry A. duPont, who was a candidate for reelection. Senator duPont carried New Castle county by 487, but Mr. Wolcott obtained a lead of 1262 on the face of the unofficial figures in Kent county, and he also carried Sussex county.

William J. Swain, Republican, is re-elected State Treasurer on the face of the unofficial returns, he having carried New Castle county and being defeated by James Lord, Democrat, in Kent county by only 114. Mr. Swain will have about 2000 majority in the State, it is estimated.

On the face of the unofficial returns there is some doubt about who is elected Insurance Commissioner by a slight majority. A. A. Watson, Republican, has 284 majority in New Castle and Kent counties, but the Democrats claim the complete returns of Sussex county will change this majority into a lead for Thomas R. Wilson, Democrat, by a small majority.

For State Auditor, William G. Roe, Democrat, apparently is elected over Charles J. Luff, the present incumbent by a small majority. Mr. Luff carried New Castle county by 1,055, but this lead

BOOK LOVERS' NIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Dr. Sypherd Reviews The Day's Work

Few talks given in Newark recently have perhaps been more thoroughly appreciated than the discussion of "The Day's Work" and other of Kipling's short stories given by Dr. W. O. Sypherd at the open meeting held in the High School building last Monday evening. The speaker prefaced his talk with a definition of the short story, and illustrated with various types from Kipling's works, reading parts of a number of the stories.

Dr. Sypherd said in part: I don't know when I have been more pleased that I was when sometime ago I was asked to suggest a book which all the members of the alumni association of the Newark High School, so far as possible, might read, and which later we all might talk about in an open meeting. What pleased me particularly was the possibility which this effort of the high school alumni suggested of establishing in this little town of Newark a group of readers—readers in all that the term implies.

Many, many years ago, it was doubtless, that somebody said that Newark is the Athens of Delaware. Now if that statement means merely that we have a college here I will accept it as true; if it means that we are living in an intellectual atmosphere, that we as a people are more intellectual than the people of other parts of the State, that we are more vitally concerned with the things of the spirit, with those things which, as Matthew Arnold says, make for culture, for 'sweetness and light,' for inward perfection, then I must in humility and sorrow admit that it is not true. You will all agree with me, I think, that we might all read more good books, think more worthy thoughts, and carry out more lofty aims. And all these things would make for an intellectual life which, if we had it here, might well justify us in calling Newark the Athens of Delaware. Well, it seems to me that this Alumni Association has blazed the path in one direction at least; your members have already been asked to read one good book. Maybe this is the beginning of a movement which will lead to better things intellectual; and maybe we shall be able in the future to point with pride not only to our streets, our sanitary conditions, our schools, our college with its fine buildings, our manufacturing establishments but also to what is eternally much more worth while our stirring, fruitful intellectual life.

Alumni Association Lends Aid To Music Fund

At a meeting of the High School Alumni Association held in the High School on Monday evening, the Association pledged $50 to the Music Fund being raised by the Ladies Committee to cover the expense of introducing music into the curriculum of the school. Miss Alice Kerr was made chairman of the Public Interest Committee, to succeed Miss Agnes Medill, resigned.

COLLEGE DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE MEETS

Progress Reported And Future Plans Considered

The Developing Committee of Delaware College held a meeting Saturday morning at the Hotel du Pont, Wilmington, when the comprehensive plans for the college extension were considered. The members of this committee are: Governor Charles R. Miller, H. Rodney Sharp, Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, president of the college; Frank C. Bancroft, of Camden; Miss Winifred J. Robinson, dean of the Women's College, and Charles B. Evans, secretary and treasurer of the college.

The comprehensive plans were prepared by Day and Klauder architects of Philadelphia, about a year ago, and it was the consideration of these plans for the future that was considered by the committee. While the original plans provide for the development of the college perpetually there will necessarily have to be revisions from time to time as the occasion requires.

Mr. Klauder, one of the members of the firm of architects was present at the meeting Saturday morning and went over the plans with the committee. The committee is pleased with the progress that is now being made with the new buildings operations at the college which includes the new Science Hall, the new Dormitory and remodeling of the old dormitory building to make a students' Commons of it. For a time the operations were handicapped owing to a lack of skilled workmen and even now more skilled men could probably be used, but much progress has been made during the past few weeks.

Supper Date Changed

The supper previously announced for Thursday, November 9, to be given in The Armory by ladies of the Presbyterian Church, has been postponed until Thursday evening, November 16th. Fancy articles suitable for Christmas presents, ice cream, cake, and candy will be for sale.

One good book read—that doesn't seem to be much in itself. I think that it is a great deal. If it should lead, as I hope that it will, to the regular reading of good books, it will be one of the best things that have happened in this little town for ten years (I shan't go back farther than that; I have known it well during that time). There is so much worthless reading nowadays. Books are too cheap. Circulating libraries are too well supplied with trashy fiction. Bacon said, you will recall, "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested." Too many people are satisfied with those books which are merely "to be tasted"; it is too much of an effort for many people to tackle the other kinds of books. To ever thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven," said the preacher in Ecclesiastes. There may be a time for the light reading which most of us do occasionally; but let us save a little time every day for the reading which stimulates the imagination, strengthens the intellect, and cultivates in its way the life of the spirit.

The Day's Work

"As I reread recently the stories of 'The Day's Work,' I was half-way sorry that I had not suggested some other volume of Kipling's stories as the first book on the reading list of the High School Alumni. If you have not read any other stories by Kipling, you will certainly have a wrong, and possibly a poor, impression of this great short-story writer. But I am a bit consoled when I think that your experience would be the same with any other single volume which I might have selected. No one collection of his stories shows you Kipling at his best; the best of him is scattered throughout his twenty odd volumes. He is uneven; but Homer sometimes nods. He is varied, all embracing in his choice of subject; but who would be satisfied with any one group of his stories? 'The Day's Work' may not appeal very strongly to some of you; if so, dip into any one of a dozen other volumes, and I am sure that you will find something to your liking.

"One of the first things that this volume suggests to me is that the author is a cosmopolite. If he has been where he represents the persons of his stories as having been, we may trace him in England, America, and India, on English rivers, on the North Atlantic, and on far-away seas of the East. He has seen and known, as had the aged Ulysses

"cities of men
And manners, climates, governments."

As a matter of fact, Kipling has experienced life in many parts of the world.

"Born in Bombay in 1865, he was taken at the age of 5 to England where he lived for seven years, returning to India in 1882. In 1889 he made a tour of the world, including America. In 1892, he married Miss Balesier and settled at Brattleboro, Vermont, where he lived for 4 years. In the winter of 1897-1898, he went to South Africa. In 1899 he made a brief visit to New York, but since 1898 he has made his home in England.

"While Kipling was in New York, he was taken critically ill with pneumonia. At that time, a well-known professor of English Literature said in my hearing, 'We could spare 250 ordinary men of letters better than we could spare Rudyard Kipling.'

"His literary product is as varied as have been his experiences. Of his writings in general, I may say but a word. Two of his novels, at least, 'The Light that Failed,' and 'Kim,' for diverse reasons will doubtless stand the test of time. Whether or no we accept the opinion that prevails in many quarters,—that his poetry represents his most substantial contribution to the glories of English Literature, we are safe in saying that here if anywhere Kipling has given us a positive statement of his message to the English speaking world. Light, coarse, cynical as much of it is, the best of it stirs deeply the imaginations, and the hearts of men. In his short stories however Kipling treats life most broadly, comprehensively, and, I think, most significantly. His range of subject matter is world wide. He has given us stories of India life in all of its aspects—life in the soldier barracks, life of the ruling class, life of the natives. To his pictures of the Englishman in India, he has added glimpses of the Englishman at home. He has told animal stories and fairy stories for children and grown ups. He has written of the Sea and of Ships and of Men who go down to the Sea in Ships. Stories of machinery have come from his facile pen. In the province of stories of a dreamy and mystical nature, such as the 'Brushwood Boy' and 'They,' he has given us some of his finest work.

"Most of these stories deal with contemporary life and with life in action. He is interested in everything that moves—from the little mongoose in Rikki Tikki Tavi to the elephant in My Lord the Elephant; from the little shifting engine .007 to the ship in The Ship that Found Herself; from Willie Winkie to Mulvaney of his Soldier Stories or Mr. Pycroft of his sea tales. Animate and inanimate things; brute and human creation—are of equal interest to him. He is seemingly as fond of a shining Martini rifle as of his favorite Terence Mulvaney; of his polo pony, the Maltese Cat, as of his William the Conqueror. The lives of men and animals and machines, life in action, action too which endangers the lives of men and things—herein lies the material for the bulk of Kipling's short-stories.

"There is danger in the use of superlatives; but I think that I am safe in saying that these short-stories of Kipling's are the work of the greatest English short-story writer. To understand and appreciate rightly these stories we ought first to know what a short-story is and what it is not. Many attempts have been made to frame a complete definition for this literary form. I will give you what I consider to be its main characteristics, and then try to illustrate by referring to several of Kipling's typical short stories.

"The typical short-story is limited to a brief period of time, to a single incident or to two or more closely related incidents; to a single character or to several characters one of which is strongly emphasized; and to a single place.

"The aim of the short-story writer is to make a single impression—to treat completely one trait of character, one significant phase of human experience, one characteristic aspect of environment.

"The short-story differs from a tale, a simple narrative, in that the tale aims merely to present interestingly a connected series of events; whereas the short-story emphasizes the causal relation between events. It differs from the novel in that the novel is longer, includes many significant incidents, treats several important characters, and presents interrelations between several characters or groups of characters.

"Technically considered, the stories in 'The Day's Work' are not as good examples of the typical short story as are other stories of Kipling's." The speaker paused to go outside the particular book under consideration to give a list of short stories which illustrated almost all phases of Kipling's work. The books mentioned were Cupid's Arrows in Plain Tales from the Hills; Muhammad Din, in Plain Tales from the Hills; Bertram and Bimi in Life's Handicap; The Man Who Was, in Life's Handicap; The Courting of Dinah Shadd in Life's Handicap; Without Benefit of Clergy in Life's Handicap; The Brushwood Boy in The Day's Work; They in Traffics and Discoveries.

Stories in The Day's Work

Dr. Sypherd continued, "We are in a position now, I think, to consider the stories of our book, 'The Day's Work.' There are twelve stories in the book; ten of them fit well the title of the book—all of these ten stories deal with the work of the day, with the work of men and things, men, horses, ships, locomotives; two of them, 'The Error in the Fourth Dimension' and 'My Sunday at Home,' deal with what an outsider might call the anomalies of English civilization, with what an Englishman might regard as the charm of English scenery and traditions; two of them only, William the Conqueror and The Brushwood Boy, are at all concerned with what is a ruling passion in the lives of many people—romantic love. Few of Kipling's stories, I may say in passing, deal with the part which woman plays in the destinies of the universe. Like Henry van Dyke in his volume of stories entitled 'The Ruling Passion,' Kipling has shown us that other passions than that of romantic love actuate men in their struggle for existence. He seems in his practice to carry out the theory of the poet.

"Man's love is of man's life a thing apart

'Tis woman's whole existence.'

Themes of the Stories

"Let us see if we can determine with some measure of accuracy and to some degree of satisfaction the themes of these twelve stories. The Bridge Builders—The struggle between the forces of science and the forces of superstition in India.

A Walking Delegate—The unsuccessful attempt of the lazy labor agitator to stir up strife among the people who are happy in a faithful performance of duties in the sphere of life in which God has placed them.

The Ship that Found Herself—The inevitable adjustment to environment which accompanies the establishment of a well-ordered life.

The Tomb of his Ancestors—The force of traditional superstition in the governing of a rude people.

The Devil and the Deep Sea—The resourcefulness of the daring English adventurer on the high seas.

William the Conqueror—The woman's part in the fight for life in the famine districts of India or the power behind the throne in the life of Scott, the hero of the struggle.

.007—The romance in the life of the locomotive.

The Maltese Cat—The more than human intelligence in the brute, the polo pony, the Maltese Cat.

Bread Upon the Waters—Scotch shrewdness in the struggle for commercial supremacy on the sea.

An Error in the Fourth Dimension—The inability of the Anglo-American to see things from the British point of view.

My Sunday at Home—The ludicrous and painful result of trying to play the part of the Good Samaritan in a strange land.

The Brushwood Boy—The force of youthful dreams in shaping the life of an ideal English officer in India.

The Characteristics of Kipling as a Short Story Writer as illustrated by the stories of 'The Day's Work'

"What are the distinguishing characteristics of these stories? What are the qualities of Kipling as a short-story writer which make him stand out head and shoulders above most of his contemporaries? Why are these stories better than the average story of the popular magazine?

"1. At the basis of his work is his extensive knowledge of so many phases of life. He has actually seen the things which he writes about and has lived among the people whose stories he tells. His attitude is not that of a curious observer or seeker after knowledge. He is vitally interested in the lives of his heroes and heroines, and his sympathies are so broad that he can enter feelingly into the life of the barracks or the engine room of the hills of India. Hence comes in part the striking reality of his stories. For the moment at least Kipling has the reader under a spell and the latter accepts implicitly the tale that is told.

"2. Of course, with all his power of penetrating and extensive observation, Kipling could not make his stories convincing had he not the great essential quality of an artist—the selective faculty. Kipling is rarely in error here. He almost invariably selects the significant facts in a life or the precise moment when certain characteristics become most suggestive. He is concise almost to a fault. The principle of condensation could go no further. In fact one of the most characteristic of Kipling's qualities as a narrator is that of giving the reader just enough of a story to set him thinking and just enough of a man's character to satisfy the reader's desire for completeness.

"3. Convincingness of portrayal, resulting largely from the naturalness of his dialogue. The language of his persons—whether men or things—is the language of men in their every day conversation, selected of course skillfully for the purpose in mind.

"4. Unerring choice of words. Kipling has the genius for effective expression. No matter what may be the phases of life in which he is interested, he selects the word which you feel is inevitably right.

"5. Masculinity or virility of his story. A firmness of touch, a frankness of expression, manliness and robustness of character give to these stories and to his other stories, despite occasional vulgarity, an atmosphere of wholesomeness which you will find at its best in one other English writer only—Goffrey Chaucer.

"6. Unity of treatment. Everything in a story belongs inevitably there. His stories are here in the main long short-stories; each covers a good deal of ground; each treats a fairly wide cross-section of life. But you always feel, I think, that the story could not have been told otherwise; it begins naturally, proceeds logically into the heart of the subject, and ends in a way which seems to say in Biblical language—Here is the conclusion of the whole matter; make of it what you will; I have told the story as it was revealed to me."

Dr. Sypherd concluded with a reading of L'Envoi, from The Seven Seas.

John F. Stuer, Jr., of Havre de Grace, has entered suit in the Harford County, Md., Court against the P. B. & W. R. R. for $5,000 damages, for alleged false arrest and imprisonment in Wilmington on May last.

was overcome by Mr. Roe in Kent county, and it is figured that Mr. Roe has a small majority in Sussex county.

Indications are, too, on the face of the unofficial returns, that the result is close over lieutenant-governor between George M. Fisher, Republican, and Lewis E. Ellason, Democrat. Mr. Fisher carried New Castle county by 1152, and Mr. Ellason carried Kent by 728, leaving Mr. Fisher a majority of 424 without the Sussex county returns in.

As It Comes Over The Wire

Not in the experience of this office has it ever been so difficult to get any satisfactory returns of election. At 12 o'clock, we have no definite figures, even in the local districts. In White Clay Robt. S. Gallaher, for Representative, lost to the Democratic candidate by 91.

D. C. Rose, Democratic candidate for Levy Court won in White Clay but latest reports claim his defeat in New Castle and Red Lion Hundred.

George Ferguson won over Singer for Assessor.

In Mill Creek, General Buckingham won out for Representative.

In Pencader Thomas Green carried the Hundred for Representative by a majority of 5 over Warren Armstrong, Republican.

Twenty-three votes were thrown out of the upper district. Rumors of a contest here. Mr. Armstrong could not be gotten by phone to confirm the report.

Townsend Leads His Ticket

Of all the State ticket, John G. Townsend, Republican candidate for Governor, carried off the laurels. In his home district, he won by a majority of 438 out of 1016 votes cast, running ahead of his ticket. In Sussex county he has a majority of 800, running consistently ahead. In Kent, he lost by 323 yet here he ran ahead of ticket. Wilmington gives him a majority of 1292. Rural New Castle reports majority for Townsend but no figures given out. Locally as practically throughout the State Mr. Townsend has the compliment of the high vote. It is generally conceded by authorities that Townsend will have from 2000 to 2500 majority.

On Again, Off Again

Last night at 8 o'clock, the wires prophesied Hughes, 9 o'clock a sweep indicated. At 11 o'clock, Democratic papers in Philadelphia and New York admitted a landslide. At 11:30 parades started in these cities. At 1:30 Western States began to come in detail lowering the majority. From then until 3:30 Newark wires said Hughes safe. Philadelphia and New York papers issued extra naming the Republican as next president. The Philadelphia Record conceded his election until 6:30 this morning. Since then Doubt with a big D is all we can get. At 1:30 metropolitan dailies give no decision. Neither party will concede the election. Philadelphia Ledger gives Wilson 264, Hughes 262, with Oregon at stake with 5 electoral votes.

SIDELIGHTS

One thing can be said with certainty—this is a Consolation Election, where no matter how bad you are beaten in one candidate, you are winning in another.

Gallaher defeated by his own party. One of Newark's most prominent citizens said this morning "Robert S. Gallaher is to be congratulated. His defeat, coming as it did, pays him high compliment. He stands in higher esteem than ever before."

Twenty-three votes thrown out in 1st District Pencader. Skidoo—All rules broken at Women's College. Phone inquiries for election returns long after lights out. Election got next to the sporting blood of Newark this year. It is estimated that over $5000 was placed on the election by local sports. One prominent citizen admitted yesterday he was holding stakes amounting to $1400.

D. C. Rose, candidate for Levy Court, while defeated polled a heavy vote in his home town, running far above his ticket. This vote of confidence by his neighbors should take away all the sting of defeat in the other districts. The local interest in Mr. Rose's success was exceptional.

BACK FROM THE BORDER

Bratton In Football Togs Back With Squad

Howard Bratton, Jr., of Elkton, star fullback of last year's Delaware College eleven returned to college this week he having returned on Saturday to Elkton with Company E, Maryland Militia, from Eagle Pass, Texas, where the company spent four months along the border. Bratton lost no time in getting in football togs and was on the field with the other players for practice yesterday afternoon.

Bratton will have to do very little training to get in shape as the constant drilling and soldier life on the border put him in excellent physical condition. He is really in better shape than last fall to play football as he does not weigh near as much and is as hard as nails. Bratton will practice with the players each day and hopes to get in some of the remaining three games.

Coach McAvoy only gave the squad light work yesterday as some of them were pretty well bruised up from the hard Dickinson game of Saturday. The coach as well as Captain Fidance and all the players are well satisfied with the showing they made against Dickinson. Dickinson is recognized as one of the strongest college teams in the east this year but even at that the score would probably have been closer if the weather had been favorable for the game. It rained most of the time during the game and Delaware's line had trouble getting set to hold the big Dickinson backs. Welch and Swope, two of the Dickinson backs, have been playing the game almost ever since football was started and the fact that they are allowed to play on the team is surprising.

All of the Delaware men will be back in the best of shape again in a few days. St. John's will play here on Saturday and the blue and gold boys are anxious to humble their old rivals. Saturday of next week Delaware plays Gallaudet on the local grounds and will end the season on Thanksgiving Day with the strong Mt. St. Mary's team as the attraction.

The house was thrown open to the ladies, and much favorable comment was heard on the simplicity, good taste, and "homeiness" that was in evidence everywhere. Fourteen girls, chaperoned by Miss Rich and Miss Powell make their home at The Annex.

The rooms were attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and fall flowers. Miss Elizabeth Jones of Dover, Miss Paulina Smith, of Wilmington, Miss Mary Mason of Laurel, Miss Mildred Redgrave of Middletown, and Miss Ruth Messick of Bridgeville, Miss Louise Nelson of Harrington.

A delightful Hallowe'en party was given last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Servinee Camp Fire girls. The girls have divided into two groups—the Chinese and the Indian—the purpose being to swell the camp fire treasury. The masque was held in the basement of Miss Anna Frazer's home, the young hostesses entertaining from seven to ten. An admission of fifteen cents was charged.

The basement was attractively decorated with corn fodder, autumn leaves, pumpkins and orange and black streamers of crepe paper, affording a gay setting for the crowd of fantastic folk who arrived as guests.

Among those present were Misses Alma Dunlevy, Anna Frazer, Ruth Brown, Anna Ritz, Gertrude Willis, Martha Wollaston, Gladys McCallister, Adelaide Lewis, Marjorie Rose, Buelah Law, Katharine Barnard, Marian Gallagher; Johnson Rowan, Raymond Reed, William Miller, George Mitchell, Edward Richards, Francis Lindell, Harry Rossell, Richard Cooch, Pierce Crompton, Walter Holton, Raymond Fader, Joe Willis, James Longfellow, Warren and Eugene Kennedy, John Hofferer, Ira Steele, Jolly Hallowe'en games made the time pass pleasantly.

BOY SCOUTS

EARN MONEY

Sweet Troop Treasury

The Boy Scouts of Newark were blessed with an abundant supply of eatables for their bake last Saturday, and as a result a goodly sum of money was raised for the maintenance of the troop. The townspeople contributed generously and willingly, and in spite of the great supply, everything was sold before six o'clock. Fifty dollars was cleared for the organization, and this will be used to defray ordinary expenses and to develop some good first aid to the injured work. First aid work is important in scout work, and it is desired to have every man become proficient in the simpler arts of dressing wounds, bandaging, and the like.

The Scouts are especially grateful to all of those who assisted in making their bake such a huge success, and with such fine support the troop is bound to flourish.

DELAWARE BOYS ON THE HIKE

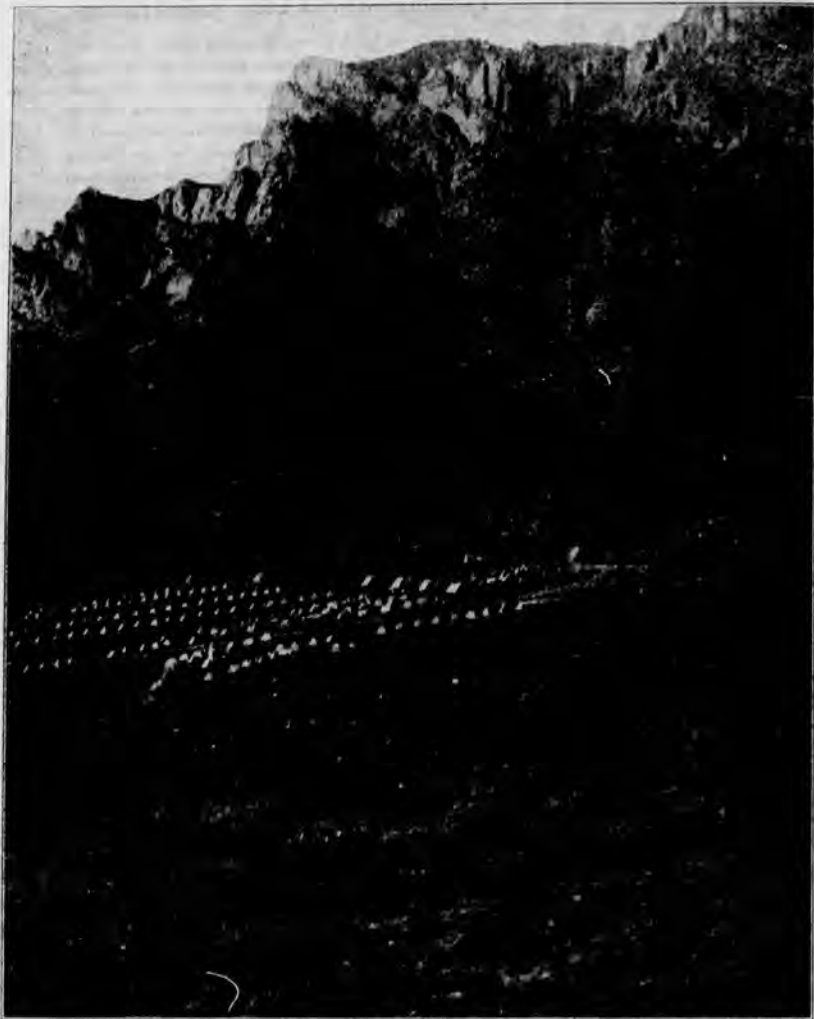

Live Up to Reputation of Blue Hen's Chick

Delaware boys encamped at Deming have recently returned from a sixty mile hike across the prairies to Cook's Mountain range. On the second day out the boys made twenty-one miles across the prairie, reaching Fort Cummings in the evening tired and hungry, but enjoying the experience of the hike. Fort Cummings is an old is "old" and historic to the citizens of New Mexico.

From Fort Cummings the hike continued through the mountains to a ranch house about eighteen miles north of Deming, the trail leading through rock passes with mountains towering 2000 feet on either side. The men caught a glimpse of Deming from twenty-sight of camp. Captain Terre, the regular army instructor by way of comment remarked: "I would be willing to put the Delaware bunch against any equal body of men on the border, not excepting the regulars." The men expect to start on a ten day hike, covering from 125 to 150 miles in the near future. One writer declares the chances

The men found old cartridges and bullets flattened out in some instances, from having been fired against the adobe walls. The spot

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
St. Paul St., Boston, Mass.
—Adv.

Welcomes Guardsmen Home

The First Regiment Maryland National Guard arrived in Baltimore from Eagle Pass, Texas, on last Tuesday and was paid off and mustered out of the Government service on Saturday morning. The train bearing Company E, of Elkton, and the companies from Cambridge, Salisbury, and Crisfield reached Elkton about 5.30 p. m. Nearly half the population of the town gathered in and around the station, many waiting the train's arrival from about 3 p. m. The Elkton Band and Fire Company headed a parade, the latter with its new auto engine and truck, and with the soldier boys proceeded down Bridge street, to Main, to North, to the Armory, in the rain. Ladies of the town served the boys with coffee and sandwiches at the Armory and soon they were on the streets, greeting friends and telling of camp life. They all looked well and were all the better for their training.

Bag Youthful Burglar

Joseph Wendt, aged 14, who escaped from the Ferris School to which he had been committed several weeks ago when he was caught with two other boys in the marshes of South Wilmington after they had stolen four revolvers from Levy's pawnshop, at Seventh and Market streets, from one of which Wendt fired blank cartridges ridges at a woman in her grocery store, whose till the gang robbed, was caught by Officer Zebley on Wednesday. He broke into the Barrett store, at Eighth and Jefferson streets, on the previous night and took $25 from the cash register. He was turned over to Probation Officer Farra and returned to the Ferris School.

Valuable Property Sold

The three story brick dwelling, 806 Market street, Wilmington, the only building solely as a residence on the street between Front and Eleventh streets, was sold by H. Stidham, auctioneer acting for the Equitable Guarantee and Trust Company, executor of Sidney B. Mason, and agent for the heirs of Edith B. Value at public sale on October 30, to Samuel Greenbaum, for $40,100. The property occupies a lot running from Market to King street with a depth of 210 1-2 feet and front of 20 feet on Market and 18 feet on King street. Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Value, daughters of the late Joseph T. and Priscilla H. Bailey, inherited the property from their mother who purchased it in 1843. The bidding on the property started at $20,000 ran up to $38,500, Max Keil and Mr. Greenbaum offering after that small successive bids until the latter got it for $40,100.

Three hundred one marriage licenses were issued at Elkton during October, an increase of 22 over the total for the same month last year.

Met Death In Steel Plant

Ruben Kelley, a popular and esteemed resident of New Castle, aged 24 years, was crushed to death last Tuesday in the Boldt plant of the Penn-Seaboard Casting Company while operating a crane with which another crane collided. He was the only son of William Kelly and wife. He had recently left a grocery store to obtain better pay at the steel plant and had started the sale of oysters to aid his parents.

Mrs. Ehrich Mende was severely shaken up and bruised when an automobile she was driving near Seaford on Wednesday night collided with a Standard Oil truck on a rounded section of road and was overturned.

Seek $50,000 for Worthy Charity

Managers of the Home of Merciful Rest for Incurables in Wilmington have named a committee to start a campaign to raise an endowment fund of $50,000 for the institution the interest from which will cover its running expenses and thus save appeals to the public for its support. The home has been maintained for many years without aid from the city or state. Mrs. Lamont du Pont contributed $2,500, Mrs. Charles L. Patterson, $1,000, Mrs. W. G. Mendinall, $1,000 and Mrs. Eugene du Pont $500 toward the endowment which on Saturday had grown to a total of $11,487, with prospects of a steady increase.

Death of George H. Bates

George Handy Bates, a former prominent lawyer and Democratic leader in Delaware, died on Wednesday at the home of relatives, 3002 Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia, where he had lived since retiring from active work. He was 71 years old, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, a founder and former president of the American Bar Association. He was speaker of the Delaware House of Representatives, member of the Democratic National Committee and a delegate to the National Conventions of 1880, '84 and '88. He was special counsel in the Delaware-New Jersey boundary suit settled after fifty years delay. President Cleveland appointed him in 1888 as special envoy to England and Germany in the Samoa controversy. He retired from practice in 1896 and took up writing of legal text-books. His remains were taken to Dover for interment.

Secretary of State Hall has received Delaware automobile tags for 1917, to be issued by December 1 but not to be used until January 1 next. They have a black background with letters and figures in cream color.

The Telephone Cord

Here the green covering of the "cord" that connects your Bell Telephone to the bell-box, has been pulled back.

Three separate "conductors" are disclosed, each with its woven covering of silk and linen and cotton, and inside the tiny wires are plaited together that the whole may be flexible.

The little copper wires are finer—much finer—than hair and there are many of them.

Think what must happen when the cord is kinked and snarled into a mass of twists and knots. The little wires rub against each other and, in the end, the transmission becomes "raspy" and "noisy"—the sound, in telephone parlance, of "fryin' turnips" on the line.

You can help to safeguard the high quality of your Bell Service by keeping the cord "kinkless" always.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Jane Addams

Suffrage Argument

Jane Addams makes a very practical argument for equal suffrage. Her talk follows:

"Our friends, the 'antis,' are accustomed to say 'If women vote, so and so will happen.' We women with the ballot can answer 'When women vote, so and so has not happened. They say that there will be less interest in home-life. This is easily answered by Australia (where women vote) which has the highest birth-rate of any country peopled by the English race.

"They say that mothers will neglect their children. Women of New Zealand have had equal suffrage since 1893 and New Zealand has the lowest infant death-rate in the world.

Chicago is the largest city in the world where women vote. Several gratifying things happened as soon as women were given the vote. It made an enormous difference in the attitude of public officials.

We had long sought to have police women appointed. Chicago has a larger number of small parks, which are used for dancing, as well as many dance-halls. On dance evenings, 86,000 young people in our city, go to dances. We wanted some police-women for municipal chaperons, to safeguard young girls against the dangers that beset them on such occasions. The city government would not listen to us. We got the right to vote on July 1, and on July 15, the mayor appointed ten police-women. Before Sept. 1, we had forty and we are promised that by Jan. 1, there shall be a hundred. We had done nothing; but the mayor was coming up for re-election. We have found out that, while it may not be necessary to vote it is very important to be able to vote.

"Chicago had a very bad system of garbage disposal. The method was to haul it out to a poor quarter of the city and there leave it to rot. Miss McDowell, a settlement worker, had made a great effort to have this changed. She went to Europe and studied the best systems of garbage disposal. She had a striking set of slides made, illustrating the conditions, and got a chance to show them before the city fathers of Chicago. She lectured and tried her best for fifteen years. I tried too and I served as garbage inspector of my ward, at one time but though we used our indirect influence to its utmost, nothing was done.

"Women were given the right to vote. Then the mayor decided that we had an abominable system of garbage disposal. The city government appropriated $10,000 to improve it and Miss McDowell, 'Chicago's great garbage expert,' as the mayor called her, was appointed on the committee that was to spend the money. She was just the same kind of expert that she had been before; but now, the women were voters.

"We had been trying very hard to get a boys' court, for boys of seventeen and upwards, too old for the juvenile court, yet not full-grown men. A large part of the crime in America is committed by persons under twenty-five years of age. If we could take care of every boy until he is twenty-five, we could then turn him loose, with little fear that he would go wrong. In our efforts to get this boys' court, we had had dinners and lunches at 'Hull House' and elsewhere and invited the city officials and sometimes they came and sometimes they didn't. After we got the right to vote, the city officials gave the lunches and invited us. We now have a splendid boys' court, and a psychopathic clinic for these boys. All sorts of things are being done now, which groups of women had long urged in vain, until women got a vote."

Company Fights Charter Suit

Pierre S. du Pont president of the du Pont Powder Company of Delaware, which took over the New Jersey Company, filed an affidavit at Trenton on Wednesday in the Chancery suit of a stockholder for the reinstatement of the company as a New Jersey corporation. The affidavit says the absorption was sanctioned by nearly all the stockholders of both companies and to holders of both companies and to revive the old company with its assets would give the stockholders more money than they would be entitled to owing to improvements made the Delaware corporation.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE
STUDENTS VOTE*Townsend Doubles Hughes' Vote

Students at the Women's College shined in election excitement yesterday, when a straw vote was taken resulting in a majority of twenty-three for John G. Townsend governor, and a majority of three for Woodrow Wilson, for president. The girls used the regular election ballots.

Mass meetings had been held the night before with stump speeches aplenty.

The "Democrats" held a parade last evening, and the "Republican" lassies are arranging one for today.

Through the courtesy of Mr. S. J. Wright election returns were received during the night at the Women's College.

MARYLAND BOYS RE-TURN FROM BORDER*Elkton Extends Royal Welcome

Elkton gave a splendid demonstration of public spirit this week, in the welcome extended the returning boys of Company E, for the last three months stationed at Eagle Pass, on the Mexican border. The sixty-seven men comprising Company E were greeted upon their arrival by crowds of townspeople, the ladies serving an abundance of sandwiches and coffee.

In Monday evening a formal reception and banquet was given. Seven hundred dollars had been raised by popular subscription for the purpose. A menu including oyster pattie, finger rolls, chicken salad olives, ice cream and cakes, nuts and coffee was served by a Wilmington caterer. Jacobs' full orchestra furnished music. The armory was beautifully decorated by a Wilmington decorator, and a dance followed the banquet. Every returning soldier boy was given five tickets, and the rule of ticket admission followed strictly. About four hundred were entertained during the evening.

Mrs. Robert Thackery acted as chairman of the ladies' committee, that served on Saturday. Among those who comprised the Reception and Finance committees were Mr. Robert Thackery, Dr. McElmoyle, Mr. Haynes, Mr. G. E. Brown, Messrs. Joshua Clayton, Reginald Constable and Dr. Cawley.

Young Cycler's Long Ride

Yearning to visit his former home in Georgetown Walden West, 12 years old, left Wilmington on his bicycle about 5 p. m. on Wednesday and pedaling all night reached Georgetown, after a ride of 89 miles, at 3 a. m. on Thursday. His alarmed parents were frantic over his disappearance. Sheriff Jacob West, a relative took charge of the boy and sent him home by train.
