PRICE SEVEN CENTS

Increase Of 35 Cents Sought For Newark School Tax Limit

Local Referendum Tentatively Slated For Next Nov. 11;
$29,100,000 In School Buildings For Next Six Years
Approved By Newark Board Of Education Last Tuesday

A local referendum to obtain approval for a 35-cent increase in school taxes was tentatively scheduled for next Nov. 11, by the Newark Board of Education last Tuesday night. The board also approved a $29,100,000 school construction program for the next six years, including the building of one senior, two junior high, and five elementary schools.

The approved tax increase would be used for teacher salaries, instructional materials and additional personnel. The referendum date still must receive State Board of Education approval.

The proposed tax increase would raise the current expense portion of the school tax from the present authorized ceiling of 55 cents per $100 assessed valuation, to 90 cents over a three-year period.

The district, which under state law can assess up to 10 per cent above the authorized tax rate, is collecting 60.5 cents per $100 value for current expenses.

To $151
The total school tax rate would be increased from $1221 for the current year to about $151 for each $100 assessed property value in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

The Alfred I. du Pont special school district recently authorized a higher tax rate—$154 per $100.

The only discussion last Tuesday night concerning board action on the tax increase, was related to a $4 capitation tax the district levies for current expenses.

Andrew J. Brothers asked the board whether the tax increase would have an effect on the capitation tax. He indicated that the capitation tax, initiated after failure of a current expense referendum in June, 1964, School Board President Albert H. Jones replied that the proposed tax increase was set as a minimum, not to improve the district's school program, but to raise revenue for the district's growth in recent years.

The capitation tax is equivalent to about 5 cents for each $100 assessed value, according to board member Frederick E. Williams.

New Construction
The construction program was approved for submission to the New Castle County Regional Planning Commission and to the State Department of Public Instruction.

The projected program is based on enrollment. It calls for construction of elementary schools for occupation in 1967 and in each year from 1969 to 1972. Elementary school enrollment is expected to jump from this year's high of 6,150 to 10,574 for the 1972-73 school year.

To meet enrollment growth from the present 2,590 in the junior high school, last April 10, and will not require an increase in local school taxes.

Preliminary plans for the building were approved at the meeting.

The new senior high school is projected for occupancy in 1969.

Senior high enrollment is expected to reach 3,640 by the 1972-73 school year—80 per cent higher than the present 2,041 enrollment.

Lawrence Derthick Addresses District School Conference

Former U. S. Commissioner
Of Education Cites Four
Visions In Keynote Speech

The keynote address at the Newark special school district pre-school conference was delivered by internationally known educator Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, executive secretary for the National Education Association, and former U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Derthick spoke of the four visions—the visions of minds, conscience, heart, and soul. Most of his hour-long talk was devoted to the vision of mind, or according to Derthick, knowledge.

He expressed regret that less than one per cent of all funds expended for education have been channeled into research, but said this is changing, and stressed the importance of research to educators.

Derthick stressed the importance of not only explaining what children do not understand but to understand, understand when children cannot explain.

“One of the hallmarks of a good teacher,”

The remainder of the morning program featured a panel of eight staff members of the school district, explaining what they did over the summer and sharing these experiences with the audience.

Ann Wootton reported on her NDEA fellowship at the University of Delaware; Myron L. Lazarus, his civil rights work during the summer months; Robert W. Mayer, on new federal programs; and Mrs. Ann S. Bull discussed the English curriculum via educational television.

Willis Proctor reported on his work with slow learners under a federally sponsored program; Patrick J. O'Donnell, new information about library science which he gained at the NDEA summer institute; and James B. Owen reported on the new social studies curriculum developed during the summer by a committee of administrators and teachers.

Lane Cites Pressure For College Degree As Result Of Unrealistic Thought Today

“In many respects, the increasing pressure for collegiate education for all is the result of unrealistic thinking, misinformation, and misguided intentions,” a Delaware professor claims.

Dr. G. Gorham Lane, professor of psychology and chairman of the university's self-study commission, argues that “possession of a college diploma does not guarantee competence, happiness, success, or personal adjustment.”

Lane's comments are found in a pamphlet, “If Not College—What?” now in its second printing under auspices of the Wemyss Foundation.

Dr. Lane contends that many of the more than 40 per cent of all high school graduates now entering college probably shouldn't be there.

Only half of all college enrollees are completing their work successfully in four years, he said.

“A youth's particular pattern of abilities often suits him for training of a kind different from that offered in college,” Lane said. “That his abilities are different does not imply that they are inferior.”

Lane points to current estimates which indicate that by 1970, one out of every four jobs will be in semi-professional or technical areas which

Six Commissioners Appointed By Council For City Planning

Five Reappointed To Planning Commission; Mrs. Ronkin Named Newcomer; Member-At-Large Choice Disputed; Ordinance Governing Overtime Salary Payment Approved

Six members of the Newark Planning Commission were appointed at the regular meeting of Newark City Council last Monday night, with residents of each district nominated by the six councilmen. The appointment of a seventh member of the planning group—a commissioner at large—was blocked with a 3-3 vote between William C. Long and Reginald B. Rockwell. Mayor Joseph A. Shields was absent because of illness last Monday.

Mrs. R. R. Ronkin, president of the League of Women Voters of Newark, was nominated by Councilman David H. Doehrlert as the new planning commissioner representing the 3rd district, while the other commissioners were reappointed with C. Vernon Steele in the 1st; Robert M. Kisser, 2nd; Paul Dolan, 4th; Chairman George Pinto, 5th; and Eugene Stiltz in the 6th district.

Long, chairman of the former committee for study of the new city charter, was nominated by Doehrlert who objected to Councilman William M. Coverdale's nomination of Rockwell because of the new charter requirement for two commissioners with engineering or architectural background. Senator Clyde M. England, Jr., confirmed Doehrlert's point.

With six commissioners already appointed, and with one engineer—George Pinto—Doehrlert declared that Rockwell was ineligible for commissioner-at-large, and that Long as an engineer was the logical choice.

“If Rockwell were elected, the commission would be invalidly constituted,” Solicitor England opined.

Coverdale's move to have nominations of commissioners-at-large restored to the next council agenda, was approved in a 5-1 vote over Doehrlert's opposition, with Councilman Olan R. Thomas requesting recommendation on the matter from the planning committee.

Three ordinances were approved unanimously at final readings—the new laws providing payment of an annual fee of $1 to the city for all electric poles not used by the City of Newark; providing for parking on both sides of Kirkwood Highway from the B&O Railroad north to the city line, and on South Chapel Street from the Pennsylvania Railroad south to the city line; and governing overtime pay for salaried municipal employees.

Official leave for Veterans Administration physicians who volunteer for 60 to 90 days service in Viet Nam to meet the shortage of doctors there has been approved by William J. Driver, administrator of veterans affairs.

The action has been requested by President Johnson in response to urgent demands from Vietnamese officials.

Extra Social Security Pay Scheduled For September

Sometime during the last two weeks of this month, 45,000 Delaware residents who get monthly Social Security benefits will receive an extra special envelope in the mail, according to Myron Milbourn, Social Security district manager in Wilmington.

These envelopes will contain special Social Security benefit checks, representing a seven per cent increase in cash benefits for the months of January, 1965 through August, totaling about $1,750,000.

Monthly benefit increases are part of 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Closer Relations Between Faculty,
Students Planned

Improved and increased faculty-student relationships are being encouraged this year at the University of Delaware.

Most of the university's 400 faculty members deal directly with students or academic advisers. Earlier this week they attended orientation periods which spelled out in detail some of the important areas in which they could assist students.

Participation in extra-curricular activities is being urged by university administrators who will be devoting more time to student affairs.

A group of 20 faculty members has been invited by President John A. Perkins to entertain students in their homes.

The home meetings would be along the pattern established last year by two associate professors — Dr. Laszlo Zsolados of the college of business and economics, and Dr. Calhoun Winton of the college of arts and sciences.

Zsolados and Winton had groups of students visit their homes for discussions, lectures in special fields, and other activities.

The program has been expanded this year to include 20 professors, including Zsolados. Dr. Winton is on leave of absence this year.

At orientation periods last Monday and Tuesday, faculty members were advised what to expect from undergraduates; how students can best be helped to meet academic responsibilities; when they should be referred to special branches of the university; and what student services are available.

Addressing four separate meetings were Dr. John W. Shirley, provost and vice-president for academic affairs; Dean of Students John E. Houtt; Dr. John E. Worthen, director of the counseling and testing office; Dr. Wilfred A. Pemberton, counseling psychologist; and Norman C. Crawford, assistant to the provost and director of the university summer session.

Learn To Listen, Speaker Tells Women With University Days On Local Campus

People spend nearly half their waking time hearing someone or something, yet very few listen, said Dr. Robert Haakenson, manager of community relations at Smith, Kline, and French Laboratories, Philadelphia, in addressing nearly 200 women attending University Days for Women at the University of Delaware, Sept. 9-10.

"The finest thing one human can do for another is to listen with sympathy," Haakenson added. "Sympathetic listening is an important factor in all areas of human contact. The art of listening must be developed by anyone who hopes to communicate ideas or to persuade another to take a particular course of action."

Dr. Haakenson described the bad habits of poor listeners. "Do not decide the subject is dull or too hard. Your attention is lost before the speaker has a chance. Do not create or tolerate distraction—even if you must be rude occasionally," he recommended.

Bias or prejudice, or any over-emotionalism will interfere with understanding.

Dr. Haakenson asked "Do you see red when you hear about a particular idea?" You have stopped thinking and listening at that point."

Understanding the importance of listening, and how much we all need to improve, is the first step forward. Pay sympathetic attention, the speaker advised, but do not lose your own objectivity. Be a creative listener; decide what is significant, test the speaker's reasoning for yourself, but always be sympathetic.

"Silent Cal" Coolidge is supposed to have listened his way into every elective office he held, including the presidency," Haakenson concluded. "To further develop the theme of University Days for Women—'Developing Our Senses'—Robert Ennis, instructor in the department of art and art history at Delaware, spoke on the 'art of seeing.'"

Beth Peterson, DuPont home economist, related many and varied fabric textures to the rarely mentioned but very important "sense of touch."

In another program highlight, Mrs. Ernesta Ballard, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, explained the rewards of "gardening indoors." In a later workshop she explained in more detail the kinds of house plants appropriate for various homes.

Workshops and classes both days developed specific ideas of particular interest to women.

Listening to music, selecting paintings, refinishing furniture, managing money, decorative stitching, adding food flavor, and using color decoration, were some of the classes women attended.

A tour of several Newark homes, modern and traditional, and a bus tour of the campus also highlighted University Days for Women.

Women from 18 to 80 participated in this year's program, according to Mrs. Alice King, state leader of home economics extension, which sponsors the annual event.

State To Average $1.22 With Loans For Corn Support

Price-support loans for the 1965 corn crop will average $1.22 per bushel in Delaware, Chairman Paul Hastings of the agricultural stabilization and conservation state committee announced.

Total county corn support rates are based on a national average of $1.25 per bushel, consisting of a price-support payment of 20 cents and a loan rate averaging $1.05 per bushel.

The average county loan rate of $1.22 per bushel is for 1965-crop corn grading No. 3 or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only, but otherwise grading No. 3 except for moisture. Premiums and discounts for other grades and qualities are unchanged from those in effect in 1964.

Hastings reminds growers that price support on the 1965 crop of corn is available only to farmers participating in the 1965 feed grain program. The support will be carried out through farm and warehouse-stored loans, purchases, and price-support.

Loans will be based on actual production, while price-support payments will be based on normal production of harvested acres.

Application for price-support loans and purchases may be made at the ASCS county office.

Unless demand is made sooner, loans will mature next May 16.

DOGS AND THUNDERSTORMS

By Bob Bartos, Manager

Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

Thunderstorms may turn the bravest and most composed dogs into quivering cowards. Many, even those of the hunting breeds accustomed to the report of firearms, actually do themselves harm. They'll leap through windows, through screen doors, through anything that stands between them and what they consider a safe haven, such as the house in the case of outdoor dogs.

If your pet goes into a panic

during storms, the most humane thing you can do is give him access to whatever safe retreat he seeks.

Little else will console him when he's in such a state.

Petting and kind words go unheeded. He's so intent waiting for the next clap of thunder that he's oblivious to everything else.

It's advisable to discuss the problem with your veterinarian. He may prescribe a tranquilizer for these occasions.

Since your pet can often sense the approach of a storm several hours before it breaks and expresses his anxiety with nervous pacing and panting, you can administer the sedative as soon as the symptoms appear. He'll thus be calmed down by the time the house-shaking claps begin.

Feeding tip: In very hot weather, when your dog is inclined to be less active, cut down on the size of his meals.

If you're feeding him a quality prepared food such as Friskies, he'll still be getting all the needed vitamins and nutrients.

Cool, Cool Chiffon Pie

The darling of dessert cookery is cool chiffon pie. It is a double winner for spring and summer menus because it delights family and guests alike and it is so simple for the hostess to make. Thanks to reliable, unflavored gelatin, chiffon pies require little cooking and always have a velvety, airy texture. Fruit Festival Pie involves a new technique of gelatin cookery. By combining fruit with gelatin, the pie takes less time to reach a firm consistency — it will set after about an hour in the refrigerator. Garnish the pie with sliced strawberries, peaches, or other fruits.

Fruit Festival Pie
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups cold water, divided
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoon salt
1 can (6 ounces) frozen lemonade or limeade concentrate, kept frozen

1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup icy-cold evaporated milk
1 9-inch crumb crust
Sliced fruit

Sprinkle gelatin over 1 cup cold water in medium saucepan. Place over moderate heat; stir constantly until gelatin dissolves, 2 or 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in sugar and salt. Add undiluted frozen concentrate; stir until melted. Stir in remaining 1/2 cup water and almond extract. Whip chilled evaporated milk in small bowl of electric mixer on high speed until soft peaks form, about 2 minutes. Fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into crumb crust; chill until firm, about 1 hour. To serve, garnish with sliced fruit.

YIELD: 10-inch pie.

*To chill evaporated milk, pour into ice-cube tray and freeze until soft ice crystals form around edge, 12 to 15 minutes.

Barbecues In The Royal Manner

Outdoor barbecues—a popular and pleasant summertime entertainment—have recently become internationally famous and prime ministers and potentates are discovering the appeal of good food in an informal atmosphere. Mastering the art of the barbecue is relatively simple and to help you become an expert at the grill, here are a few pointers.

Use good equipment for best results. Barbecue should be easy to clean, have an adjustable grill, a fireproof vent for heat control and a good-sized cooking area. Especially serviceable are stainless steel barbecues that won't corrode even when left out-of-doors and are easily cleaned with hot soapy water and a stainless sponge.

Build the right kind of fire. Select a long-burning fuel that will give strong, steady heat with little tar, smoke or odor. A gravel bed one inch deep under the fuel helps the fire to "breathe" and acts as drainage; grease settles between the stones and does not flare.

Control the fire. Whether you use kindling, liquid or solid fuel, never let the fire get too close to the grill. Use a long-handled tool—keep the fire burning at the proper temperature. For high heat, concentrate the coals; for low heat spread the coals out.

Keep the proper tools close at hand. Essential for the fire and food are a set of long-handled stainless steel implements—tongs, spatula, fork, knife and spoon. Stainless utensils are rust-resistant, efficient and never mar delicate flavors with a foreign taste.

Don't undercook or overcook. Because wind can vary the amount of fuel used can vary the temperature, use a grill thermometer to achieve the right heat for each type of food. For roasts, a meat thermometer provides the best guide to doneness. To avoid the embarrassment of dried-out chicken or underdone lamb, consult a time chart to determine how long foods should cook and at what temperature.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

FLOWERS HAVE ALWAYS BEEN one of nature's most beautiful gifts, and while fresh ones are wonderful to have around at all times, there are occasions when it's just not possible, and when flowers that you've made yourself can be just as satisfying.

comes in so many different colors in real life that it enables you to copy the color scheme of any room in your home. In this way, it's possible for you to make this floral piece something very personal and appropriate for which ever background you choose.

The flowers are crocheted in pieces; the calyx petal and the flower itself, and then both the short and the long leaves. Millinery wire gives them body so that you can arrange them in proportion to the size of the container that you choose and also to the individual setting. Complete instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PC 2557.

SEAT DRIVER IS WELCOME!

Our manufacturers and dealers contribute vitally to driver education in high schools throughout the country.

REDUCING TOMORROW'S CRASHES

Some of today's automobile accidents actually started to happen months or years ago. The mishaps could very well have had their inception in the inadequacies of catch-as-catch-can driver-instruction given to those behind the wheels of the cars involved.

It is gratifying to note, therefore, that the availability of accredited driver-education courses in high schools across the nation is escalating; that some states have made it compulsory.

The school training goes far beyond the mere mechanics of the driving operation. Students are made safety-conscious by thorough classroom drilling in careful driving rules and regulations. Included are text book theory, written projects and films on proper driving attitudes and behavior. A standard minimum course consists of 30 hours of classroom work and six hours of practice driving.

The whole idea is to instill a deep sense of responsibility in the trainee for the life, limb and property of the car-driving public and pedestrians.

These courses are expensive to operate. The amount spent annually in the schools in 31 states providing driver education has reached $75 million. A large share of the cost, according to the Automotive Safety Foundation, is borne by automobile manufacturers and dealers, as a public service. For instance out of the 15,284 cars used by schools for practice driving, 9,778 are loaned by local dealers.

It seems to us that the automobile industry merits commendation for this and its many other vital aids to the achievement of greater safety on the country's thoroughfares.

WILLIAM S. HAMILTON, JR.

Bill Hamilton came to Newark some 38 years ago—some 38 years of hard, tireless effort in which he established two successful business organizations—the second of which is the result of his inventive genius—the new Perlelope Manufacturing Company printing procedure.

After a successful career with his Newark Printing Company in which his two sons were associated with their father, Bill Hamilton launched Perlelope—an even more successful venture. And again, it was father and sons.

William S. Hamilton, Jr., died suddenly last Sunday, and his empty golf cart at the Newark Country Club typifies the emptiness that his passing leaves in the lives of his family, business associates, and other friends.

A strong man in a hard struggle for success, Bill Hamilton performed well, indeed, and contributed much to the economic and other betterment of this community where he made his home.

City Council

Acting-City Manager Albert K. Martin's proposal to employ an additional city building inspector was approved, with council's observation that the additional post "would not be a full-time job, and the man should be able to serve in a dual capacity."

Membership in the Urban Land Institute was approved for the planning director, and council approved Martin's reports on school crossing and sidewalk municipal merit pay increases, and annual review for pension participants.

NHA Sewer Line

For negotiation with the Newark Housing Authority, council approved a proposal for city provision of a sewer line at a cost of $15,200 to serve the NHA site on East Cleveland Avenue, assessing abutting property owners at the rate of $4 per foot, and initiating a tapping fee based on a formula to assure city recovery of all costs.

Contracts were awarded to the low bidders for city purchase of sewer solvent from Sanfax Corp., at $2.975; for a sewer lift station and main at Fairfield to be constructed by William B. Cullen of Newark at $14,377.02; for water system extensions in Arbour Park and on Route 273 by Cullen at $21,519.05; for purchase of two trucks with packer bodies from Rittenhouse Motors at $29,720; and for rock salt and calcium chloride from Salt Service, Inc., of Philadelphia at $1.15 and $2.42 cwt.

Bids for fire hydrants and valves are to be readvertised but one bid received.

Junked Cars
Concerning junked and abandoned cars, Solicitor England said that local police have authority to remove such vehicles; that the owner is responsible for removal costs; but that the ordinance does not provide for city sale of such cars.

England said that the pension status of City Building Inspector Clarence A. Bader is unchanged since his employment with the city was not terminated last July; and with England's approval for city extension of the water main on Kirkwood Highway to serve a rug firm, motel, and restaurant, council approved Martin's recommendation for such installation for an estimated cost of $7,900.

A proposed ordinance to provide a time limit for orders issued by the Newark Board of Adjustment was approved at a preliminary reading, and council adopted a resolution to accept the State Highway Department franchise for installation of a water main of some 1,400-ft. along Ogletown Road, east of Marrows Road.

Councilman Wakefield urged repairs to East Delaware Avenue, and

Chippewa Indian To Feature YMCA Guides Pow Wow

The Western Branch YMCA invites all interested boys and their fathers to meet Vincent Keeha, a full-blooded Indian of the Chippewa tribe, who attend the Y-Indian Guide Pow Wow at YMCA Camp Tockwagh at Worton, Md., Sept. 24-26.

Keeha, whose Indian name is Thunder-In-The-Distance, will do an authentic Indian dance in his tribal costume.

He was the top Indian dancer in Minnesota for two years and won third place in an All-Nation contest at Tulsa, Ia.

After his demonstration he will teach the boys several Indian dance steps and their meanings.

The Chippewa tribe is noted for its famous brave Hiawatha. The tribe is located on the White Earth Reservation in Minnesota.

The Y-Indian Guide program is open to all first through third grade boys and their fathers.

Mrs. Fieldhouse Announces Change For "Y" Luncheons

Mrs. Donald Fieldhouse, luncheon program chairman of the Alice P. Smith Center Newark YWCA, announces that the weekly luncheons will be held Thursdays this season.

An innovation this year also, is a series of related topics to be presented each month.

September topics will be exercise and diet control; history will be featured in October; and topics related to Delaware law will be presented in November.

Luncheons in December will feature preparations for Christmas.

These luncheons are open to the public at no fee. Baby-sitting for children over two years is available upon request.

A sandwich may be brought or purchased at the Center where beverage is available.

Mrs. Fieldhouse emphasizes that luncheons will start promptly at 11:45 and end at 1 o'clock. Those wishing to attend, should call for reservations.

Doehlert cited need for revision of the zoning ordinance. "We need some statement from the staff as to the magnitude of the job," he said.

Doehlert urged close city control in issuing occupancy permits, citing a new house on Orchard Road that has no required sidewalk, and the 28 Corbit Street property "that does not meet requirements of the minimum housing code."

Coverdale cited a case in which a property owner has strung a single strand of wire attached to a city street sign as a deterrent to trespassers, and the solicitors advised "an order for its removal, advisable."

Councilman Coverdale called attention to the need for street sweeping. The dust hazard to the driver of the sweeper, and some inducement to operate the equipment at night, are to be considered.

Andrew Brothers in the audience was informed that the city was "all clear" in its responsibility for reconstruction of South Chapel Street, and that the State Highway Department was to conduct the work.

Brothers stressed the need for a bridge over the Chapel Street railroad crossing, and requested a traffic count in the area.

a Dog's Life

DCG'S AGE COMPARED TO MAN'S

The Bob Barlow, Manager

Frisbie's Pet Food & Supplies Center

Figuring Fido's age in terms of human years has always been considered a mere matter of multiplying his years by seven. According to this formula, if your pet is two years old, he's the equivalent of a fourteen-year old human. Yet he's expected to act considerably more mature than a teenager.

Recently, scientists have come up with a much more realistic ratio. With the new formula, the year-old dog corresponds in development to a 16-year old human. From there the gap begins to narrow. It's 2 years against 24, 3 years against 35. After that each human year is equivalent to 5 dog years.

While this formula gets your dog into his fifties faster than the old one, it slows his aging down when he reaches the crucial sixties. The 12-year old, for example, will be a spry 75 instead of a tottering 84.

It's not only a new formula, however, that's knocking years off your dog's life. Improved veterinary care is the chief factor. Many common canine diseases that formerly were fatal can now be prevented by vaccination.

Owners, too, can claim their fair share of responsibility for the longer lives of their pets. They're giving them better care and feeding them prepared dog foods scientifically formulated to meet the dog's every nutritional need. They're also controlling them better, which means that fewer are losing their lives to fights.

Feeding tip: The best way to be sure your puppy develops good sound bones is to feed him a prepared food such as Friskies Puppy Food which is especially formulated for his every growing requirement.

Record Scope Set For Adult Classes In Evening School

Dr. George V. Kirk, director of the Newark special school district's adult evening school which will begin next Monday, reports that it will be larger than ever, both in number and scope of courses offered.

Courses for the fall semester include astronomy, bookkeeping and business machine operation; driver education; driver improvement; electronics, French and Spanish for beginners; IBM data processing; sewing, shorthand for beginners; and tailoring and typing for beginners and advanced students.

In-person registration may be made at the Adult Evening School office in the Administration Building at 83 East Main Street this week from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or by mail to Dr. Kirk at that same address.

Students may register on the first night of class at 6:30 in the Newark High School lobby. The only exception to this is the astronomy course, and students who wish to take it should report to Christiana High School next Monday at 7 p.m.

25,000 Visitors Expected In Year With U. D. Events

The University of Delaware will host some 25,000 visitors in 1965-66 through conferences and workshops on its campus.

More than 200 meetings are held each year on the university campus, lasting from a few hours to several weeks.

Conference themes encompass almost the whole range of human activity, and university faculty and staff members contribute to most of the programs, either by speaking or coordinating activities.

The university extension division handles details for the conferences, and Donald F. Bard and his associates are responsible for arranging meals, housing accommodations, transportation, meeting sites, and personnel.

Some conferences are set up more than a year in advance.

"We can't wait until the last minute to make arrangements for these meetings," Bard explains. "Food service personnel for instance, need several weeks to prepare to feed several hundred persons. As soon as we have established dates and estimated attendance, we notify all departments involved."

Bard cited campus conferences already scheduled.

Some 50 delegates are here this week for the National Girls Club of America conference.

On Saturday morning, Oct. 2, a meeting of the advisory committee of the college of business and economics will bring about 30 to the campus.

The Delaware State Music Teachers Association represented by about four dozen members, will meet Sunday, Oct. 3.

Some dental practitioners will be on campus Oct. 6, for an all-day meeting sponsored by the Delaware Academy of Practice Management.

Other programs on the calendar for October and November include such diverse topics as history, reading, the steel industry, safety, transportation, and accounting.

Maryland Nurserymen Cite Popularity Of Firethorn

The pyracantha, or firethorn, with masses of orange or red berries in the fall is gaining in popularity, according to the Maryland Nurserymen's Association.

Although pyracantha is quite easy to grow, the red-berried strains are much less winter hardy than the orange-berried.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Beyond The Moon

By Senator CLINTON P. ANDERSON (D-N. Mex.)
Senator Anderson is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences

With the eight-day flight of Gemini V logged into the books as another space success for the United States, attention is focused on the scheduled rendezvous in space next month between Gemini VI and an Agena booster. These flights and the succeeding Gemini and Apollo missions will carry the Nation to the goal of landing astronauts on the Moon in this decade.

The knowledge and experience gained in this endeavor, will set the stage for more ambitious and complex space ventures.

Our objective of reaching the Moon by 1970 was set by President Kennedy and the Congress four years ago. Since that time we have made great strides and President Johnson, fully realizing the importance of a space program, has continually voiced his strong support for the space effort and has seen that its momentum has been sustained.

OTHER SPACE OBJECTIVES

Besides the Moon mission there are other important aspects of the investigation of space — objectives we are now pursuing, others that may become desirable. The latter variety concerned the Senate Space Committee recently during three days of hearings to determine the thinking of the White House, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Department of Defense, and the National Academy of Sciences on possible programs after Apollo. We know that the $20 billion for Apollo is, in fact, buying space craft, ground facilities and, most importantly, experience that will be used after Apollo.

It is necessary to move in measured pace toward learning more with instruments about Mars and Venus. Only by thorough instrumented probing of these planets will the information be available to determine whether those environments are hospitable to any form of life — the question that captivates scientists. The Voyager Project hopes to plop an instrument package on Mars in 1971 to transmit data on the planetary atmosphere.

NEW SPACE VEHICLES

The United States is developing the vehicles that will enable us to choose from an array of options, including planetary travel. Nuclear-propelled rockets are one such family of craft. Witnesses before the Space Committee stated that spending on nuclear rocket propulsion is now at a reasonable level. Late next year or early in 1967 tests will be run on an experimental system resembling that needed for light. Soon after that, a decision will have to be made on actual flight on a nuclear-powered rocket.

The Space Committee was assured by NASA officials that they will stretch current and planned spacecraft for the fullest use before deciding to build new generations of vehicles. This is sound and fiscally responsible administration.

The future program objectives I have outlined are ambitious and serve to show how wide spread our exploration of space can be. With these objectives new before us, we must focus our energies on carrying out those objectives.

Meat Judges Test Scheduled Sept. 23 For FFA Groups

The Delaware State FFA meets judging contest has been set for Sept. 23, at the White Packing Company in Lewes.

In announcing the date, Ralph P. Barwick, executive secretary of the Delaware Future Farmers of America Association, said the annual event is used as a teaching tool to help FFA members become judges of livestock, and have a broader understanding of the relation of the live beef animal to the finished product.

Teams from vocational agriculture classes throughout the state will compete, judging classes of beef, pork and lamb, and attempting to identify various meat cuts.

Don Burton, associate dairy and livestock specialist at the University of Delaware, and Carl Volk, manager of White Packing Co., will serve as official judges for the contest.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

Physical fitness is having the best possible health plus the capacity to perform everyday tasks and to meet emergencies as they arise. It includes mental fitness which enables you to perform under pressure, physical tasks which you would normally consider impossible for you to do.

Emotions enter into fitness also. These involve good sportsmanship, team play, and pure enjoyment of physical activity.

Exercise and fitness are important since they add so much to the enjoyment of life. When you are feeling well and fit, each day's activities increase your sense of well-being and you look forward to each day with anticipation rather than dread.

When you are not feeling well, each activity becomes a chore with all pleasure and enjoyment lacking. Skill and agility which come through exercise and practice, provide for efficient movement. This in turn creates a feeling of poise and grace, thus helping you feel at ease in social situations.

Good muscle tone and posture can protect you from having certain back problems which are caused by sedentary living. Active people also have fewer heart attacks and a better recovery rate from such attacks than do inactive people.

Physical activity can help you control your weight by helping to balance food intake with your exercise output. The obese are more likely to have diseases of the heart and blood vessels than those who keep their weight down.

The amount of exercise for you depends on your doctor's advice which is based on the results of your medical examination, age, condition, and your general reaction to physical activity.

If you have not been taking much exercise, remember to start slowly and gradually build up your activity as your fitness improves.

This column is a weekly service of your doctor through the Medical Society of Delaware.

Failure To Use Seat Belts Cited In Maryland Toll

In Maryland State Police investigated highway accidents last week, in which six persons were killed and 20 seriously injured, seat belts were available in seven cases, but in no instance were they actually in use.

Three of these seven individuals were killed and four were seriously injured.

The use of available seat belts, in the opinion of the investigating officers, would have saved the lives of three persons killed, and would have lessened the seriousness of injury in the other four cases.

"With this kind of evidence piling up day after day," commented Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of Maryland State Police, "it's hard to come by a good reason for not using seat belts."

"Lunch Box Magic" Offers Picnic Appeal With Surprise, Varied, Nutritious Menu

A packed school lunch can be almost as exciting as a picnic basket. Homemakers can stimulate appetites with a lunch box packed with the variety of taste-tantalizing and nutritious foods a picnic offers, says Janet Coblenz, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Her publication "Lunch Box Magic," includes menu hints that combine variety and nutrition.

The noon meal should include one-third of the essential nutrients for the day, she says.

For the school child, follow the pattern set by the school lunch program. Include a two-ounce serving of meat, fish, poultry, cheese or peanut butter.

Use a serving of bread spread with butter or margarine, and three-fourths of a cup of vegetable or fruit. Include a pint thermos of milk if it cannot be bought at school.

Vary the menu but keep combinations simple to please young appetites. In general, avoid bulky sandwiches and heavy foods.

Be sure to keep in mind the likes and dislikes of the person eating the lunch. On the other hand, an occasional surprise in the lunch box will usually be well-received.

Peanut butter is an old favorite stand-by. For a flavor surprise, add sharp American cheese, minced ham and pickle relish, or chopped bacon and apple, grated carrot and raisins or chopped figs and dates.

Slip a salad into a sandwich. Miss Coblenz suggests. Make any type of meat sandwich on any kind of bread. In a plastic bag, put two lettuce leaves with a salad filling between them. Use slices of well-drained canned pineapple, thin slices of onion and slices of well-drained beet pickles, tomato slices, cabbage slaw or combined onion, tomato and cucumber slices. Add the lettuce and salad to the sandwich at mealtime.

Another novel salad-sandwich idea described in "Lunch Box Magic" uses split frankfurter buns. Overlap two or three slices of meat to cover the bun surface. Put a salad mixture on the meat, roll the meat over the salad and fasten the bun together with picks if necessary.

Salad fillings include combined cottage cheese, celery, radishes and parsley, or combined chopped hard-cooked egg, chopped ripe or stuffed olives, pickle relish and prepared mustard.

Use crunchy finger foods for lunch. Miss Coblenz advises. Try celery, radishes, carrot slices, unpeeled cucumber slices, turnip sticks or a cauliflower floret. Stuff a piece of celery with cheese or spread cheese or peanut butter between apple slices.

For desserts, use cupcakes, fruit turnovers, or for a surprise, custards variegated with coconut, fruit, chocolate or butterscotch sauce in the bottom of the custard cup.

Put pie filling in a plastic dish and top with a slice of baked pastry or a slice of pound cake.

Additional menu hints and tips or lunch box packing are included in the bulletin, Lunch Box Magic. Copies are available from county home economics extension agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown, or from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.
