AVOIDING TRAGEDY HERE

Officials meet to implement track-crossing safety plan

An unprecedented attempt was launched this week to reduce injuries resulting from people entering on some of the the railroad tracks that cross

Newark.

"This citywide project is somewhat unique," said Newark Police Chief William Hogan. "because three different police agencies will be working together."

According to Hogan, law officers from the Newark Police, the University of Delaware and CSX Railroad are beginning the educational safety program promised in an agreement between the railroad and the city.

"For the next week to ten days, (officers from all three agencies) will be manning checkpoints at selected places along the CSX line," said Hogan. "During this time we will only warn people who are crossing the tracks and give them brochures explaining rail safety."

After the initial warning period,

Hogan said officers will begin arresting those who trespass on the tracks. "The rail line cuts through the heart of the city" said Hogan. "We want to raise awareness in the whole community about the dangers of cutting across the tracks."

In August, the city passed an ordinance prohibiting trespass upon the rail-

Students return to Newark

IT'S NO SECRET THAT University of Delaware students poured into town by the thousands last weekend. Lines are up, vehicles are up — space is down.

More than 3,600 freshman began their college careers on Monday under a bright sun at the University of Delaware convocation on the North Mall. According to University officials, more students accepted and fewer cancelled than in the past.

"It seems most made their decision early and stuck with it," said David Butler, executive director of housing and conference services.

The class of 2002 will have a total enrollment of 4,192 students, as 661 transfers join the freshmen. Andy Lowther, a freshman majoring in mechanical engineering, said he is going to the University because it's a family tradition.

Krapf mixes it up at center

BY THE FIRST of October, Newark Shopping Center will be a whole new place — at least on the surface. "We wanted to renovate and update the appearance," said site manager Bill Burris. "But we wanted the same nostalgic feel with quaint little shops."

Burris said recent comments about too many food shops as well as new retail construction along Main Street was not lost on the Krapf family, owners of the center.

"We knew we had to be aggressive and take steps to protect and improve our package," Burris said. "The key was the old Woolworth's location."

According to Burris, numerous people

RESIDENTS in the Christiana School District will likely see a referendum, for capital improvements on existing school buildings, within the next two years.

According to Dr. Capes Riley, Assistant Superintendent of Planning and Facility Management for the district, the referendum will be necessary to renovate elementary school buildings throughout the district.

In 1995, voters approved a referendum which allowed the district to make capital improvements on secondary schools.

"With the money we received so far we've been able to renovate schools covering fourth through high school," Riley said. "Now we need to focus on grades kinder-

POLICE BRIEFS

Alcohol violations throughout town

On Aug. 23 around 11:45 p.m. police charged three 15-year-old boys with underage possession after they were found with a bottle of Irish whiskey near Barksdale and Casho Mill roads.

Police charged Carli M. West, 24, and Tyson S. Brumfield, 24, with carrying open containers of alcohol on the street on Aug. 27 around 10:40 p.m. Alison Carr, 20, was charged with underage consumption in the same incident.

Robert Ian Simpson, 23, was charged with carrying an open container of Corona beer on North Street on Aug. 28 around 10 p.m. Police charged Timothy Graham Hyden, 24, with carrying an open container of beer while walking on Madison Street on the same night around 10 p.m. Around 11:30 p.m. that night, police charged James Guerrieri, 21, with carrying open containers of Miller Lite on Wilbur Street.

Police charged Nadine T. Napoli, 20, with underage possession after she was observed carrying an open container of beer on Haines Street on Aug. 29 around midnight. At about the same time, police charged John K. St. Clair, 22, and Paul R.A. Pipke, 23, both of Newark, with carrying open containers of alcohol in public.

Around 1:10 a.m. on Aug. 29, police charged a 16-year-old youth with underage possession after he was seen at College Square Shopping Center with a bottle of wine.

Burglary at McDonald's

Newark Police report that on Aug. 26 around 3:50 a.m. unknown persons entered the McDonald's on Main Street by climbing through the drive-thru window. The suspects then broke into the floor safe and removed an unknown amount of cash before going back out the same window. Police found a small hand ax at the scene but did not know if it was left by the suspect. All doors were locked and the alarm alerted police within minutes of the break-in. Police are investigating.

Theft at hair salon

Employees at Cats Eye Hair Salon on Main Street told police that sometime between 1 and 3 p.m. on Aug. 28 unknown persons opened an unattended cash register and removed cash. Police are investigating.

Cash taken from teens on Main St.

A 16-year-old and a 14-year-old girl told Newark Police that two unknown white males in their 20s took money from them in the parking lot of the Post House Restaurant on Aug. 23 around 9:30 p.m. The suspects, both described as about 6 feet tall and weighing 170 pounds, one wearing a gray shirt, blue jeans and a Phillies cap, the other wearing a blue shirt and blue shorts, demanded money from the girls as they were walking away from their parked car. The girls each gave the men $10. The suspects fled in a silver Mitsubishi Mirage. There were no weapons displayed and no injuries.

HOLIDAY TRASH SCHEDULE

The Labor Day holiday will be celebrated by the city of Newark on Monday, Sept., 7. Trash normally collected on Monday will be collected on Tuesday, Sept. 8. Trash normally collected on Tuesday will be collected on Wednesday, Sept. 9. For additional information, call 366-7045.

Arrests after riot and gunfire at bar

Newark Police made three arrests following a riot at the College Square Shopping Center on Saturday, Aug. 29, around 1:40 a.m.

Police said approximately 150 to 200 people were leaving the Klub Korona bar when several large fights broke out in the parking lot. One suspect fired a .25-caliber handgun in the air during the incident and several bottles were thrown at officers. One officer was hit in the leg but not injured. It took about 25 officers from Newark, the University of Delaware and the Delaware Alcoholic Beverage Control to finally clear the crowd.

Tracey Pierce, 23, of Middletown was charged with reckless endangering, rioting with a gun, possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony and resisting arrest. Darious E. Wiggins, 28, of Wilmington was charged with rioting. Terrence Cale, 26, of Middletown was charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon after police found him in possession of a folding knife with a four-inch blade.

Police were called to disperse a disorderly crowd of persons drinking in the parking lot at the same bar on Aug. 16. No arrests were made but the bar had to close early on that occasion.

DelDOT makes motorists aware of heavy holiday traffic

The Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) reminds all motorists that travel will be heavy this Labor Day weekend.

During peak travel hours today and Monday, as many as 30 traffic patrol units will be in operations across the state. These patrol units will monitor any traffic delays caused by accidents or broken down vehicles. In New Castle County, the patrols will be in operation along Routes 1, 13, 896, 71 and 9.

DelDOT will cease all traffic construction and clear all work zones by noon today. Operations will not resume until noon on Tuesday.

With the exception of resort transit routes 201-207, all DART transit routes, both fixed and paratransit, will not be in operation on Labor Day.

New program designed to keep people off tracks

► SAFETY, from 1

road tracks or right-of-way for any reason other than to cross on foot or by vehicle at a marked and identified crossing. Officers from all three agencies can make arrests and penalties include fines of at least $100 not to exceed $500, imprisonment for no more than 30 days or both. Fines for subsequent violations can be at least $500 with up to a year imprisonment.

Hogan said the program's primary focus is college students, but local teens and adults have also been observed walking on the tracks. "We know students take the shortest route to where they are going for classes or socializing," said Hogan. "That often means crossing the rail line."

Starting yesterday, officers from the three agencies targeted the most likely crossing spots along the rail line. "We'll be out there through the weekend," said Hogan. "CSX police are also committed to put some time into this, although the ongoing effort will fall mainly on the University of Delaware and Newark Police officers."

In addition to closer policing of the rails, the educational program includes posters, flyers and videos about the dangers along the tracks. "We're putting up the posters and making the video available at the University," said Hogan. "We'll be doing door-to-door literature drops of the flyer targeting the student population in areas like Cleveland Avenue."

Under the agreement with the city of Newark, CSX has installed "no trespassing" signs near at-grade crossings and upgraded the warning devices at the College Avenue crossing.

This week's safety awareness program is funded with $25,000 from CSX to help the three agencies reduce trespassing and develop emergency plans in the event of an accident on the railroad right-of-way.

City officials hope to have off-road bike-pedestrian path

Proposals being sought

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK CITY OFFICIALS hope to have an off-road bicycle and pedestrian path to run alongside the Amtrak right-of-way in Newark by the year 2000 if design and construction can be approved and funded.

According to specifications provided with a request for proposals, the city would like the path to run approximately 1.2 miles from the Phillips Park entrance at Bradford Lane, through the park and the city garage facility, beneath the South College Avenue bridge, past the old Newark Railroad Station, and through Lewis Park to South Chapel Street.

A second segment will continue across South Chapel and the abandoned Pomeroy Railroad branch to end at the Delaware Technology Park.

Funding for design of the path was approved by the Wilmington Area Planning Council and allocated by the Department of Transportation.

However, city officials said this week that the four best proposals received are all more costly than expected. "We went over the most feasible proposal with the engineering firm that submitted it," said assistant city administrator Carol Houck. "We asked if they could look for ways to reduce the cost."

Designed to accommodate bicyclists, skaters, walkers, and joggers, the path would have a 10-foot wide paved surface with two additional feet of unpaved jogging surface on each side.

Protective bollards would help prevent the use of off-road motorized vehicles at street crossings. Two small timber bridges will also be needed.

ASSISTANT CITY ADMINISTRATOR

Houck said easements will need to be secured from Amtrak for the project, as well as rights-of-way from private property owners. A six-foot high chain link fence will separate the path, where necessary, from Amtrak's Northeast corridor right-of-way.

While waiting for a response from the engineering firm, Houck said city planning director Roy Lopata is talking to DelDOT about the funding. "We need to see if they can live with the increase," Houck said. "We need to have funding in order to do any of this."

Lopata said altering the proposal's boilerplate specifications from DelDOT would also reduce the approximately $90,000 cost just for a design. "The specs for the little bridges, for instance, would allow bikes that could carry an elephant," said Lopata. "We don't need that. Also, if we use inches instead of the metric system, we could save there."

Houck said contractors must meet DelDOT's drafting standards and will be required to review the selected plan with nearby property owners. "Public meetings to review this are built into the process," Houck said.

A planned bikepath on University of Delaware land behind Haines Street was abandoned after property owners there protested. Rick Armitage, University director of government and public relations, said a public meeting might have helped. "But there really wasn't anywhere else to put that path," Armitage said.

Lopata said it will be at least two years before the proposed new bike-way is a reality. "City council has to approve everything," Lopata said. "Depending on the cost, the path's proposed design and location could change."

Proposals for the work are being evaluated by members of the city's bikeway subcommittee, the directors of the city's planning, park, and public works departments, and representatives from DelDOT.

Newark Shopping Center to get a facelift

wanted the spot but the Krapfs wanted something just like Woolworth's. "Actually, we wanted Woolworth's back," Burris said. "But, as soon as we announced Dollar Express was coming to that spot, the other merchants in the center started calling to lock-in their leases."

Dollar Express, expected to be open by Oct. 1, is leasing 13,000 of the 18,000 square feet available in the old dime store. "Krapf is using the basement for offices and storage," said Burris.

According to Burris, 49 of the 50 spaces in the center are now under multi-year leases. "Out of 189,000 square feet here, we only have the 6,200 square feet empty where Learning Station used to be," Burris explained. "We're thinking of dividing that into two smaller stores because they'll be easier to rent."

Also coming in October is Heart and Home, an "upscale" gift shop which has other locations in Pike Creek and Hockessin. "They'll take the old Sign-A-Rama spot which moved to where Second Source used to be," said Burris. "Second Source was close to leaving, but said they stayed because of the parking and the management."

Parking at the front of the shopping center, which has 750 spaces, remains a problem at times. "This week, we had 20-25 students an hour parking here," said Burris. "Yes, we're towing — and in a week or so, it will be OK again."

Burris said the center management tries to share the parking with St. John's Church for services any time of the week, and even for weddings and rehearsal dinners. "We let almost anybody use it who calls us,"

Burris said. "We let Chapel Street Theatre have 100 spaces for patrons and the city uses it on Newark Nite and for the Halloween parade."

Yes, we're towing
— and in a week or so, it will be OK again.”

BILL BURRIS

NEWARK SHOPPING CENTER SITE MANAGER

"But the University of Delaware has 10,000 spaces and we can't let the students park here just because they don't want to pay the college parking fee."

Second Source has been reinstalled in larger quarters at the former Atlantic Shirt Factory site. "The shirt company came here on a whim and didn't have a plan," said Burris of the business which lasted only a season at the center. "They expected students and I told them, 'students don't shop here.'"

Many of the property owners, like Anthony's Hair Salon and Mike's Books and News, have redone their interiors as well. "Delaware Dance Company which is expanding into the old Hobbi-Art space, recently redid their inside, too," Burris said.

The entire center is in the process of being repainted in green and cream, with new metal facing on the fronts. "Some of that facing had been there since 1954," Burris said. "We're also redoing all the cracked sidewalks and repainting all the light poles, canopy poles and sidewalk markings."

According to Burris, the management offered to redo store signs along with the new facing, but not everyone wanted that. "We left the original Cinema sign from 1954 up and just repainted it," said Burris. "And Marilyn Minster absolutely refuses to let us redo her sign — she said it's been here since she opened and that's the way it will stay."

Burris said speculation that the Krapf family is fixing up the center to sell it are groundless. "I want to make it clear, we get a lot of offers but it would take an astronomical deal to sell," Burris said. "The Krapfs live in this town and they take a lot of pride in owning this center."

The last piece of renovation will be the parking lot. "We're repaving and restriping the entire lot, including at the Bowlarama, on the last two Sundays in September," Burris explained. "It's going to look like a whole new place on Oct. 1st."

Not just for coffee, anymore

Newark's first coffee shop, the Jam'n & Java cafe, has undergone a facelift of sorts. Although it still has the same cafe-like atmosphere, complete with wicker chairs and glass top tables, it now features a new menu, never-before wine list, and, if all goes according to plan, new batches of customers.

Since its opening in 1995, the cafe has changed hands three times, yet has managed to survive among the competing shops that line Main Street.

Current owner Pat Matic believes the reason is his willingness to cater to a crowd more interested in sipping coffee while listening to poetry on the deck than in chugging beer while listening to club music in a smokey bar.

A recent working vacation in his hometown of Paris, France, may indicate some of this is about to change. "I was learning to cook crepes," explained Matic with his obvious French accent. "I will be making them here by the end of September."

Once he perfects his recipe, Matic will be serving several varieties, including a sugary sweet version, and Grant Marnier crepes made with orange liqueur.

In addition, a new lunch menu, already being served, features sandwiches, salads, and quiches made by Matic's wife, Ann Marie. Also a soup of the day is available. "Usually French Onion," joked Matic.

All of this is in addition to the numerous varieties of coffee, espresso and lattes that Matic brews on the premises. "I've been told we serve the best coffee in Newark," he said. "That won't change."

The new additions to the menu are really a by-product of Matic's most ambitious change to his business — the addition of a comprehensive wine list and menu of imported beers. "It's a requirement of the liquor license that we serve two meals a day," explained Matic. "That's part of the reason for all the changes."

Wine is something Matic has wanted to add to his business for a long time. Before buying Jam'n & Java, Matic worked as a wine steward on a cruise line, acquiring a love and knowledge of the beverage.

With all of the changes, some might suggest that Matic will be seriously altering his clientele, but he isn't worried about alienating anyone.

"I may be drawing an older crowd, and I'm not sure how that will affect things, but we will still be offering all the things that were successful before," he said.

Among the successes he is referring to are the live entertainment on weekends featuring up-and-coming bands, and the Tuesday night open-mike poetry readings, which he says are a huge draw, doubling his business on that night.

Most importantly, stresses Matic, "I still make the best Cafe Mocha on the street."

UD students return

"My parents came here, my sister came here," Lowthar said. "It's a good school and it's in-state."

Fellow freshman Bridget Horisk also said one of the main reasons she chose Delaware was because it was in-state. Horisk described the total convocation experience as "overwhelming, scary, yet exciting."

Butler said the University's policy is to guarantee housing to students throughout their college careers providing they meet deadlines. "That's unlikely to change," Butler said.

However, as a result of the higher than normal numbers showing up this year, Butler said the school is considering their options. "We're looking at having a housing agreement that would lock in students in July, so we'd have a better forecast," said Butler. "And we just have to get better at predicting the number of students."

To accommodate students, the University is tripling up approximately 229 in two-person dorm rooms, 57 students at three-per in windowless floor lounges in Dickinson complex and putting five to six students each in three study/recreation areas. "We also have about 10 or so students in the University Guest Apartments but we expect to move them soon," said Butler.

Students in the tripled-up dorm rooms and floor lounges will likely be in those rooms for the semester. "Everyone knows they will be moved from these accommodations if possible," said Butler. "They tend to work OK — sometimes it's hard to move them later in the semester because they have formed relationships with their roommates and don't want to start again with new ones."

Butler said building new dorms is the last option, if ever. "We see private enterprise taking over more apartments on Main Street and South Chapel Street, for instance," said Butler. "The University doesn't want to be stuck with empty dorms."

Director of admissions Larry Griffith said exact enrollment numbers will not be available for some time but this year's is "roughly the same" as last year's. "In 1997, we had 14,900 undergraduates and a total enrollment of 21,100," said Griffith. "That's not our largest class in history — that was in 1994 with 21,500."

Griffith said the University is not going to grow. "I can tell you that the University wants to keep the numbers about where they have been the past two years," said Griffith. "We feel we're able to give an extraordinary educational experience at about this number and don't want to go above it."

University president David Roselle told the incoming class they were lucky to be learning at a university ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top 25 national universities. "Take advantage of the resources available to you here, the diversity of students and student life activity," said Roselle.

Dr. Roberta Golinkoff, the H. Rodney Sharp professor of educational studies, reinforced Roselle's remarks. "For the next four years you have the opportunity to expand your vistas in ways you cannot imagine," Golinkoff said. "And while on this journey, you will begin to discover who you are and what forces shaped you."

Most incoming students are from within the state with 1,217 students from Delaware, and New Jersey representing the most out-of-state students with 679. Locally, St. Mark's High School has 144 students in the freshman class, most in the state. Glasgow and Newark high schools are sending 60 each.

Freund preps for first full year at St. Mark's

By LAURA SANKOWICH

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Mark Freund believes in divine intervention. But then for the principal of St. Mark's, one of the state's largest Catholic high schools, the idea is not an unusual one. "The spirit kind of moved me here," said Freund, recalling how he made his way from principal of a Catholic high school in Lebanon, Pa. to St. Mark's in Newark.

It all started in May of 1996," Freund related. During a visit to a school in New Jersey, some people that he knew told him that St. Mark's needed a principal. After several other unrelated incidents along the same lines occurred Freund decided to look into the job.

"In March I spoke with the school and the diocese and I got word in May that I got the job. Officially I began on July 1."

When Freund talks about his job he will tell you his job is to get to know the students. "St. Mark's is a tremendous family and a community, my first job is to get to know everyone, the students here are exceptional."

"My second job is to get to know the faculty and staff," he said. The school is in its 30th year, the staff is second to none. To get to know them and to get them to know me and challenge everyone to keep doing what they're doing.

Freund said St. Mark's has the best and the brightest students to those who need academic assistance.

"Ninety-five percent of our students go to college." Some of which include Hofstra University, University of Maryland, University of Delaware, Boston University, University of Notre Dame, Duke University and Johns Hopkins University to name a few.

Freund said a challenging part of his job is to meet student academic needs as technology advances.

The school won a national award, "Catholic Schools for Tomorrow Award" for the uses of technology in education.

"There is one computer for every five kids here," Freund pointed out proudly.

"This is an exciting time to continue to expand our offerings for students to learn we have to keep asking ourselves questions and coming up with the answers."

According to Freund, the school's mission is to educate young men and women with confidence, conscience and compassion.

"Working with students - I am a teacher at heart. Working with staff - because they are so dynamic, - they're what keeps me young," Freund said.

"I can walk into classes and speak German, I can go into a chemistry lab where I meet and work with the students."

"A principals job is to facilitate learning and teaching and to never stop learning."

Freund has been married for 12 years and currently resides in northeast Baltimore where his wife works in public education. Freund said that although he has been commuting he hopes to move to Maryland or Delaware in the next year.

Of his job he said, "This is not a job, it's a ministry we're all called to serve this is an opportunity for service."

Newark High adjusts dress policy

The students at Newark High School will have to choose their clothing more carefully this year after the school staff adjusted the dress policy.

"Members of our school community have expressed concern that some of the clothing worn by students at Newark High School is inappropriate and disruptive to the educational process," said assistant principal Ann Murphy. "It's not a dress code; it's just that we're just tightening up our previous dress policy, and certain types of clothes that are disruptive to educational process will not be permitted."

According to Murphy, the big change is there will no longer be a warning for a first time offense. "Enforcement wasn't as tight as it is going to be," Murphy said.

A violation of the dress policy shall be classified as a Level 1 offense which includes any actions that involve disruptive behavior such as language, gestures or actions which incite, produce distractions, or seriously interfere with the effective functioning of the teacher, student, class or school.

For a first offense, the parent or guardian of a child in violation of the policy will be notified, the article or articles in violation of the policy will be removed or covered up for the remainder of the school day, and a written reprimand will be issued.

Second and third offenses include detention and the assignment of in-school alternative. Students who are chronic offenders or fail to comply with the policy will be given out-of-school suspension. For every two-month period of positive behavior, the student will be eligible to move back one step in the stages of consequences.

The revised dress policy states that clothing shall conceal private body parts including midriffs, cleavage, buttocks, underclothing, or portions of the body that would normally be covered by underclothing.

Underclothing such as boxer shorts and bras are not to be visible. The policy does not allow shorts or skirts that are above the mid-thigh, clothing, makeup or accessories which are offensive, sexually suggestive or demeaning, or which encourage the use of illegal or violent behavior. "We're eliminating short-shorts, cutoffs, mini-skirts, micro-minis, low tops, bare midriffs, and pants that hang too low and reveal boxer shorts," Murphy said.

Hats caps or other head covering and "exotic" eyewear such as aviation helmets, scuba masks and ski goggles may not be worn in the school building. Students also are not allowed to wear or possess items, such as chains, which could be used as weapons.

Other high schools in the district follow general district guidelines, but do not have specific policies pertaining to dress. Principal Johnny Vann of Christiana High School said his school enforces the district guidelines.

Assistant principal Phillip Mow of Glasgow High said the school has no written policy, but they also adhere to the district guidelines in the Student Code of Conduct.

Christina school renovations to be done on time

garden through fourth grade."

Riley also said the district would like to use referendum money to build another swimming pool. Presently, the district has only one pool, at Glasgow High School, which serves three high school swim teams. Riley said if the referendum to construct a pool was passed it would most likely be built in Christiana High School.

According to Riley, most of the money from the 1995 referendum has already been used. Newark and Glasgow high school both received $10 million for capital improvements. Shue-Medill Middle School received $6 million, and Gauger-Cobbs Middle School received $4 million.

Most of renovations to Newark High took place this summer, leading many district residents to believe the building wouldn't be ready for the start of the school year on Sept. 8.

"Every school in the district will be open on time," Riley said. "I've been out everyday and Newark is moving along fine."

The work completed at Newark this summer included grating and resodding of the football field, replacing ceiling tile in the halls, renovation of the bathrooms and installing a new lighting system.

"Sometimes people who are not around construction a lot, don't understand how it works," Riley said, explaining how the rumor

Newark would not be ready for school may have started. "People may look at the building and say it's a mess, but it is all coming together. People are amazed to see how it's all coming together."

Riley added that the district set up a renovation committee to oversee the construction and keep people informed.

Before the 1995 referendum, the district did a condition study report on all the secondary buildings. Riley said a similar study would be done for elementary buildings before any referendum would be proposed.

"The idea of the study is to show people where the money is going and what is being done," Riley said.

Driving lessons needed for everyone

AS TV COMMERCIALS have been trumpeting for weeks, it's that time of year again.

School starts throughout the country at every level sometime in the first ten days of September.

University of Delaware students are already back and attending classes whenever they have a free minute. The streets of Newark and surrounding communities are clogged with cars and pedestrians.

Merchants are certainly happy, if the past weekend in stores full of young men and women debating the merits of rugs, curtains and other housing items is any indication.

Elementary and secondary students in New Castle County will be starting school in the days after Labor Day.

And sometime in the next week, a vast sigh of relief will sweep across the city as parents of students old and young think they know exactly where their children are for the first time in months.

Now is the time for the remaining populace, who witness much of this from a comfortable spot on the sidelines, to do their part.

Let those wanderers in vehicles with out-of-state licenses change lanes three times on Main Street. It's hard enough for locals to find parking and stores.

Watch out for young people from college students to kindergartners straggling across the road. Don't assume anyone is paying attention except you.

Look in every direction at intersections in case bicyclists whiz into view as you make the turn — or shoot between cars as the light changes.

Drive carefully. It's a highway jungle out there.

AMUSED, CONFUSED, BEMUSED

MODERN ADVERTISING and sales techniques don't work on me very often, and sometimes it causes me to worry. I like to think of myself as a loyal American, so I would feel better if I were more sensitive and receptive to the nation's great games of advertising and sales. They MUST work on millions of others, or firms that use the current devices-of-influence would go out of business. Then, what's wrong with me?

Take telephone sales pitches, for instance — I hate them. I resent my lunch and dinner being interrupted by someone selling siding or security systems; but I can't just ignore the phone. During the day we're either expecting a call from a medical lab, a doctor's nurse, a social security counselor, a church secretary, or a friend just back from a vacation.

Instead, we hear an unfamiliar voice asking to talk to Mervil Hummer, and before I can even clear that up, he is promising me an interest-free loan on our house. When I force my way into his monologue and tell him we're not interested, he keeps reading from his instruction card until I, with a pang of guilt, hang up on him. (I'm supposed to feel guilty, I know!)

Between calls for unwanted merchandise and superfluous services, I am treated to the tragic picture of a starving child on TV. The narrator tells me that child is my responsibility and that I cannot turn away from him. I do not respond well — instead of abject surrender to my "duty," I want to know when and how this tragedy became mine.

Then I open my mail and the "check" turns out to be for a trip to get me recycled on the Virgin Islands — but first, I must invest in some very promising swampland...

One envelope contains steamy testimony from women whose husbands are older than I. The women claim that the wonder pill Niagara has rescued their ancient spouses from comas and transformed them into sexual tigers burning bright between the bedposts of the night. It was a lot more than I wanted to know about somebody else's sex life.

Then there was mail from an auto dealership where I've paid CASH for two cars in the last four-and-a-half years. I thought it would be a coupon for a free car wash or a discount on an oil-and-lube job, but it's better than that. They realize I'm between "a rock and a hard place" because of my poor credit rating, but out of the goodness of their hearts, they want to sell me a used car anyway! They invite me to a barbecue — so long as I bring five letters of reference!!

What are they doing, checking my credit rating? It should be good, but I've NEVER asked them to trust me!!! ALWAYS CASH!!! I didn't go, but every time I stick a shish up a kabob, I think of them.

Several years ago, I gave money to a public service agency, but the next year I thought I'd give my meager leftover-money to a different agency. I'm still getting calls from the original recipient of my moment-of-weakness, and yesterday a chiding letter came — they had counted on me and I had summarily let them down!!! (Where is it written that I had created a lifelong dependency?)

I'm going to send them a copy of the auto dealership's letter certifying that I am "between a rock and a hard place!" And, if they're hungry, I know where they do barbecues! (I'm supposed to feel guilty, but I am

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week's photo is the old Queen Anne-style house on the Newark Lumber site as it appeared around 1922. At that time it was housing the Sigma Nu Fraternity. Reportedly once the home of S.B. Wright, the building was moved back behind the Mobil Gas station after this photo was taken. It is slated for demolition to allow redevelopment of the property for a retail and residential complex to be called Main Street Court.

Riot ends in stabbing at United Canneries

The barracks given over to the use of employees of the United Canneries Corporation plant, near the Pennsylvania Station was the scene last Sunday afternoon of a small riot, brought on by two members of the force of workmen indulging in a fight.

Frank Cawley, of Baltimore, suffered a stab wound in the side and is in Delaware Hospital recovering. He also suffered bruises on his face in the melee.

Two suspects from Baltimore were arrested by Officer Lewis following the fight and brought before Magistrate Thompson on Monday. They were committed to the Workhouse in default of $1000 bail each.

Council has a busy meeting

The first meeting of Town Council was held last night in their new room on Academy Street. Those present were Mayor Frazer and Councilmen Widdoes, Beales, Colmery, Patchell and Grier.

The interior appointments of the new "City Hall" greatly pleased the Councilmen, and it is certain to be of great benefit to the town.

Considerable interest centered about the third and final reading of the ordinance "To regulate the sale of gasoline in and along the streets of Newark."

Parents seek safety improvements

While Brookside merchants can't wait for the Marrows Road bridge to open, there are those — mainly Brookside Elementary School PTA members and concerned parents — who fear what the opening may bring.

Concern centers around the more than 200 children who daily must cross the road at the intersection of Brookside Boulevard on the way to and from school, said PTA president Meredith (Tom) Thomas.

Security-Newark P.D. talks continue

The leaders of the Newark police department and the University of Delaware security force are still meeting to resolve the differences which flared up in a jurisdictional dispute late last year.

But a definitive jurisdictional statement from the state attorney general's office — which Newark police Chief William Brierly in particular was counting on to help solve the problems — isn't in the immediate future.

September 3, 1993

Shortage leads to water restrictions

Because of a potential water shortage, Newark residents are being asked by the city's water department to stop using outside water faucets, not wash their cars and not water their lawns.

Joe Dombrowski, city water department director, said residents can bring buckets of water from inside their homes for use outside.

The beginning of the classes at the University of Delaware won't make the city's job any easier. Dombrowski said students increase water usage by one million gallons a day.

Roy's robbed for third time

Four Roy Rogers employees were forced into the restaurant's office at gunpoint during an Aug. 27 robbery, Newark police said.

The incident marks the third time in five months the South College Avenue fast food franchise has been held up at gunpoint.

The latest incident occurred at 10:50 p.m., ten minutes before the restaurant's closing time. The man fled on foot with an unspecified amount of money.

State surplus leads to tax cut

By PAMELA S. MAIER

STATE REPRESENTATIVE 21ST DISTRICT

THIS YEAR, thanks to a $430-plus million surplus, lawmakers were able to craft a tax cut package that benefits all of us. At the center of the tax cut plan was an across-the-board reduction in state personal income tax rates, with a lowering of the top rate from 6.9 to 6.4 percent.

The tax cut package also abolishes the State Inheritance Tax. This "death tax" had hindered families by making it difficult for them to keep businesses, including farms, with the family. Lawmakers partially reduced the inheritance tax in 1997, and this year we finished the job by eliminating it.

One of the more advanced and promising proposals to provide tax relief for families came in the form of a Republican-supported plan to essentially eliminate state-mandated school property taxes. Republican lawmakers led the effort to do away with school property taxes over five years, with the state picking up that approximately 21% of the local share of costs. (Currently, the state covers 70 percent of the costs, the federal government picks up 9 percent, and local property taxes cover the remaining 21 percent). The plan was designed to give local school districts the flexibility they need to meet local needs without having to focus their time and energy on passing referenda. In the end, lawmakers agreed to form an 11-member committee to conduct a comprehensive study of the property tax roll-back and other education-related finance issues. We have set aside $48 million to fund any proposals that may be enacted as a result of the committee's recommendations to the Governor and the next General Assembly. Many of us in the Legislature remain committed to this idea, and expect it to be a lively topic of debate in January.

Much needed tax relief for seniors occurred when the Legislature changed our tax treatment of pensions. House Bill 770 increases the annual income tax exclusion for pension incomes from $3,000 to $5,000. It is my intent next year to propose increasing that exclusion to $50,000, with the elimination of the tax on pensions as the ultimate goal.

The Legislature also changed the way retirement payments are calculated for state employees. Up until now, calculations for determining retirement income were based on an employee's five highest years of income. The legislation, Senate Bill 36, considers only the three highest years of income.

Part of the surplus was also committed to other worthwhile efforts, including the preservation of open space, educational technology and a mechanism to provide financial assistance to our local governments.

Candidates make joint announcement

Democrats Mark Amsler and D.C. Cebula held a joint news conference to announce they are running for seats in the General Assembly.

Mark Amsler entered the political arena for the first time when he announced his candidacy for the 10th Senatorial district. Incumbent Steven Amick (R-Newark West) announced last month he will run again in that district.

Amsler said his campaign will focus on funding for public education. He said he would like to make sure there are no tax breaks for out of state property owners, and increase salaries of teachers in order to attract more educators to Delaware.

Amsler lives with his family in Newark and is an English professor at the University of Delaware and the vice president of the University's Chapter of the American Association of Professors.

D.C. Cebula announced his candidacy for the 23rd Representative district seat currently held by Timothy Boulden (R-Newark). Boulden has also said he will run again.

Cebula said his campaign will focus on improving and maintaining the quality of living in Delaware, including making health care more affordable and accessible to disabled and underprivileged persons, as well as the areas of education, transportation, the environment, water and taxes.

Cebula is currently vice chair of the 23rd district's Democratic Committee which has provided campaign support for Gov. Thomas Carper and Sen. Joseph Biden. He is also a member of the New Castle County Civic League and the Friends of Newark Free Library.

Currently a realtor for Prudential Preferred Properties of Newark, Cebula is a graduate of Northern Illinois University and holds a master's degree from West Virginia University. The Newark resident has lived in Delaware with his wife and three children for the past nine years.

just very annoyed.)

After all this harassment, I welcome the very disposable letter from a gassy-looking Ed McMahon on the envelope telling me that just before Dick Clark went in for a face-lift, he wrote a check for a zillion dollars with MY NAME ON IT!!! (I also like "shaggy dog" stories.)

You can see my overall problem — millions of people give billions of dollars to these operatives, but I am more than immune — I am annoyed by all of them. Am I un-American? Insensitive? A bad person? Why are these guilt-trips and flapdoodle lost on me?

Before I brood too long, I go out to the garage and dig out a cardboard sun visor I've kept very carefully. It covers the entire windshield of the car. But on the back is a warning: "REMOVE THIS SUN VISOR BEFORE ATTEMPTING TO DRIVE."

I like to think those who buy on the basis of high pressure, meal interruptions, and guilt trips must also be told to remove the visor to their windshields before getting on I-95.

It stops my brooding every time.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Fall is for lawn work

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

LATE SUMMER and early fall are the best times to establish, renovate, fertilize and weed a lawn. That's when turf grasses are in their peak of growth to store food and build strength for next year. You can overseed or establish a lawn from mid August to the end of September. Isn't that a nice coincidence? You won't have to be out in unbearably hot weather, raking out stones or trudging behind a spreader. Cooler weather also means less stress on the newly germinated seeds. Many of the perennial weeds are on their way to dormancy, so they won't be competing for soil nutrients and water. The winter annual weeds may germinate, but a good stand of grass will shade and out-compete them in the spring.

By Jo Mercer

The first task in fall lawn care is soil testing. Knowing what your lawn needs in soil nutrients will determine what you need to buy and apply. Overapplication of any nutrient can result in water pollution. Underapplication won't allow you lawn to develop as fully as it should be drought, pest and disease resistant.

A recent study from the University of Wisconsin found that lawns that got less than optimal fertilizer actually lost more nutrients into the surface runoff than did well-managed turf. The reason seems to be that poorly managed turf is too thin and weak to keep soil from eroding and nutrients from washing away. This type of nutrient runoff is polluting; it's referred to as non-point source pollution and has become a major water quality concern in the past few years.

Soil acidity (low pH) works hand-in-hand with soil nutrients. Soil that is too acidic inhibits a plant's ability to take up nutrients from the soil. Low pH can also encourage thatch buildup because the organisms that help keep it under control can't flourish with extreme acidity, either.

If 50% or more desirable grasses cover your lawn, you can overseed with a comparable type of grass. Many lawns in our area are a mix of Kentucky bluegrass, ryegrass and fine fescue. When a lawn has thinned out or become weed-dominated so that there's less than 5% turfgrass coverage, you could be in for total renovation. Yes, it's more expensive in the beginning, but it will save you money over the course of the

Newark vet competes in Wheelchair Games

Larry Binger, a disabled Navy veteran from Newark, competed this summer in the 18th National Wheelchair Games held in Pittsburgh.

The field of more than 600 athletes from 40 states, Puerto Rico and Great Britain makes this the largest annual wheelchair sports event in the United States. All athletes who participated in the events were military veterans who use wheelchairs due to spinal cord impairment, certain neurological conditions, orthopedic amputations, or other disabilities.

Binger, 53, a combat veteran of Vietnam, is a paraplegic. He is currently receiving care at the VA medical facility in Wilmington. Binger competed in field events, shot put, discus and javelin as well as bowling.

"When I'm at the National Veterans Wheelchair Games, I know that I'm part of the best team in the world," said Binger. "The friendships I've made will last a lifetime."

Athletes in the Games compete within three divisions - masters (over age 40), novice (first time competitors in wheelchair sports), and open (all others or those who choose to compete in a category other than masters or novice).

They also compete according to the level of their physical ability, with three quadriplegic level classes, and four paraplegic level or amputee classes. Binger competed as an amputee in the open division.

The games are presented by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the Paralyzed Veterans of America, and hosted this year by the VA Pittsburgh Healthcare System. Funded with the help of a host of corporations and service organizations, the event is a show case for the remarkable athletes.

Larry Binger, a disabled Navy veteran from Newark, competed in shot put, discus, javelin, bowling and field events at the 18th National Wheelchair Games held in Pittsburgh.

abilities and personal achievements of the nation's disabled veterans.

Athletes compete in all events against others with similar athletic ability, competitive experience or age, and gender. Last year almost one-third of the competitors were novices who had never before participated in any type of wheelchair sports.

Past games have produced a number of national and world class champions, the Games also provide opportunities for newly disabled veterans to gain sports skills and be exposed to other wheelchair athletes and competitors.

A free education? Yes!

SALEM WOODS resident Teresa Boley, who joined the National Guard this year, just got one more good reason for her decision. Under a bill signed by Governor Thomas Carper in August, all current and future Delaware National Guard members will be able to attend college for little or no cost.

The new law provides full tuition at state-supported college institutions and up to $115 per credit hour at private institutions.

Boley is training in one of Delaware's 34 National Guard units. As part of her enlistment, she will continue to report for 12 weekends of training each year and at least 15 days of annual training camp.

When Boley returns from training next Spring, she plans to attend Del Tech to study early childhood development.

"I think it's great, it will give me an education that I needed and my parents don't have to pay for," Boley said. "It really opens a lot of opportunities for me."

Fellow Guard member David Passwater of Milford said, "I love it, I think the idea of me coming in and being able to serve one weekend a month and pay for college is great."

Passwater also plans on attending Del Tech in the spring. "You don't have to worry about money for it. You can concentrate on buying supplies and books and finding a place to live."

To benefit from this program, Delaware

National Guard members like Boley and Passwater must remain in good standing and agree to serve a period of not less than six years.

They also must apply for all other reasonably available education benefit programs, and apply for the funding from the Delaware National Guard at least 15 days before the course starts.

Within 45 days of completion of each course, they must provide documentation of course title and a grade no lower than a 2.0 on a 4.0 scale or its equivalent for each course.

'Do something different' this Labor Day

ARE YOU and your family looking for something "different" to do this Labor Day weekend? Something that is fun, interesting and even educational? May I suggest Winterthur's Annual Crafts Festival? It has it all for just about any age level.

There are, first and foremost, the crafts with original art works and handcrafted furniture.

But then add to that fireworks, entertainment, music and all kinds of fun activities and you have the makings of a memorable end to the summer of 1998.

The Winterthur Crafts Festival is only three years old but is already becoming a Brandywine Valley tradition.

The two-day event includes a juried, invitational fair with both traditional and contemporary handcrafted works from 180 artisans in 11 states.

If you want to get a head start on your Christmas shopping, you will find something for just about every age, taste and, very importantly, price.

Winterthur's Hillary Holland gave me just a partial list of the things one can find there this weekend: wrought iron lamps, handmade quilts, hand-crafted wooden kitchen utensils, ceramic dinnerware, wooden toys, soft-sculpture animals and music boxes for children.

She added, "There is even 'art-to-wear' including hand-woven vests, hand carved leather belts and jewelry."

Festival performances on Saturday include Peanut Butter 'N' Jelly, a duo who will sing participatory children's songs at noon and 2 p.m. Kidz 'N' Company will perform at 1 and 4 p.m.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Fire works on Saturday evening will follow a performance of contemporary and folk music by the Sin City Band.

If it rains, the fireworks will be presented on Sunday evening.

More entertainment follows on Sunday with Kevin Roth and his special brand of folk music for adults and children at noon and 2 p.m.

If bluegrass music is your thing, Springtime Ramblers will perform at 1 and 3 p.m.

By the way, all performances are included in the admission price.

With all the art and entertainment, a basic need for us all has not been overlooked. I refer, of course, to food.

You are welcome to bring your own picnic basket or buy from an impressive array of well known local restaurants including the Columbus Inn, Fox Point Grill, Grotto Pizza, Hartefeld Country Club, Kid Shelleen's, Klondike Kate's, the Marriott, On-the-Go Espresso and Gourmet Crepes.

If you can't find something you and your family can enjoy from that collection of vendors, you may have a real problem.

Above and right: Historic items that will be on display at Winterthur this Labor Day weekend.

While you are enjoying the more sophisticated arts and crafts the kiddies can enjoy the A. C. Moore Family Fun Tent where they can create a Make and Take craft work.

Then they can enjoy the Talley Ho Farm Petting Zoo which features animals of just about every shape and size.

Special interactive performances by the Middle-earth Theater will give the young ones a chance to try their thespian skills. The same group will also offer two puppet shows each day.

If the crafts are your primary interest, be sure to pay a visit to Artisans Alley.

Jewelers, blacksmiths and metal-smiths will create works on the anvil for you to see and to maybe even learn a skill.

Windsor chair making will be featured in another demonstration.

Also demonstrated will be glass bead making, stenciled and machine-stitched quilting, calligraphy, sculptural figures, spinning and much more.

Winterthur staff and volunteers will recreate a family woodworking shop used by generations of craftsmen in the 18th and 19th centuries.

They will also discuss the uses of particular types of tools and answer questions.

If you have never been in the great museum there, the former home of Henry Francis du Pont, a tour called "A Taste of Winterthur" is also being offered free of extra charge and a shuttle bus will operate from the festival to the museum.

Even if you have been there before, you may cover some new areas on this special tour.

It's a rain or shine event this weekend.

Winterthur is on Route 52, the Kennett Pike, six miles west of Wilmington.

All the proceeds go to benefit the museum and the many programs it carries on.

How's that for a "Labor Day weekend to remember" idea?

Phil Toman has been a columnist for the Newark Post since 1969. An enthusiastic supporter of the arts locally, he has a vast knowledge of the arts in the mid-Atlantic region. Toman hosts a weekly radio program on WNRK.

Aeration very effective

► OUTLOOK, from 8

lawn's life because it will have fewer chronic problems.

Core aeration is a very effective way to prepare an existing lawn for overseeding. A core aerator punches through compacted soil and deposits cores of soil and thatch on the surface of the lawn. After aeration, apply needed nutrients and lime. The holes created by aeration allow better penetration of water, air and nutrients to the root zone. Core aeration also helps break down thatch.

After core aeration, spread seed over the lawn. For a Delaware Mix you will need to put down about 3 pounds per thousand square feet. Roll the lawn to ensure good seed-soil contact, and lightly mulch the bare spots with straw. Then water the overseeded area so that the first inch of soil is moistened. Be careful not to wash your seed away! It is vital that the seedbed never dries out until germination is complete. The ryegrass seeds will sprout first, often within a few days. But the fescue and bluegrass may need two or three weeks to germinate.

As the new seeding becomes lush and thick, reduce the number of times you water each week, but increase the depth of water penetration to encourage deep rooting. You may mow the new grass when it gets high enough to need a haircut. Make sure the lawnmower blade is perfectly sharp, otherwise it will pull the baby grass plants out of the soil rather than cut the tall blades. Maintain a Delaware Mix-type lawn between 2 and 3 inches.

A complete renovation of a lawn starts with a soil test, too. Then everything is killed off with glyphosate, the active ingredient in products such as Kleenup and Roundup. In a week, the herbicide will have done its job and you can rototill to incorporate lime and fertilizer, and two to four inches of organic matter such as mushroom soil or compost. Rake the seedbed smooth. For a renovation, you have the opportunity to change your lawn over to a better grass species—turf-type tall fescue (TTTF). It will be more tolerant of heat and drought and less susceptible to killing diseases and pests. TTTF seeds are large, so you'll need to put down 6-8 pounds per thousand square feet. Rake the seed in, roll the seedbed and mulch lightly with straw. Even soil moisture is critical here, too. Mow a TTTF lawn so keep it as close to 3 inches as possible.

I've only created a rough outline for you here. Cooperative Extension has a booklet, "Successful Lawn Management," which provides more details on turfgrass selection, establishment and maintenance. In addition, Master Gardener volunteers are offering two "I Hate My Lawn" workshops in September. For information on available publications or the workshops, call 831-COOP.

NEWARK POST ❖ CROSSWORD PUZZLE

By James C. McLaren

A mean, teasing old Hen
Scrambled out of her pen,
Delighted to be out of stir.
She sought creatures to tease,
Caught the flu in a breeze.
Hen found that the yoke was on her.

Roman Julius Caesar,
An insolent teaser,
Taunted enemies far up the wall.
Brutus stifled last crack
With a stab in the back.
But, once, Caesar had had lots of Gaul.

What is the favorite instrument of a fisherman?
Castanet.

Did Goethe think Satanically twice?
No. He got there the Faust Time.

Even helpful folks can, at times, be helpless.

It is always unwise to dismiss the dangers of a stormy sea.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

New swim facility coming

Construction will soon begin on a state-of-the-art regional indoor swimming facility at Bellevue State Park, according to representatives from Delaware State Parks and the YMCA of Delaware.

"It will be run as a YMCA branch, with the same pricing structure with membership and program fees similar to YMCA pricing," said Michael Graves, YMCA president.

Membership fees for the Aquatic Center will be charged as follows: $550 per family; $370 for a single membership and $5 for guests.

The Aquatic Center will have a 50-meter competition pool, warm up facilities, a warm water therapy pool, and a recreational pool with a two-and-a-half story slide. In addition, support facilities in the center will include a fitness center, locker rooms, child care center, and classrooms.

Construction will begin this year with a projected completion date of the year 2000.

"The YMCA Delaware Aquatic Fitness Center will be a world class facility," said Lee Sparks, chairman of Team Delaware, a non-profit swim team that will practice at the center.

"We are extremely excited because we will have the only indoor 50-meter facility in Delaware."

The Aquatic Center will be located in the State Park adjacent to the Cauffiel House, off Philadelphia Pike.

Dawson attends investment conference in Washington, D.C.

Frederick J. Dawson, ChFC, CLU, a financial advisor of Bassett, Brosious & Dawson Inc. recently attended an Investment Management & Research conference in Washington, D.C.

"The financial service industry is becoming increasingly complex," said Dawson. "The average person can't be expected to understand the changes in the economy and how the tax laws will affect their investments."

Over 65 financial advisors from Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania attended presentations on retirement planning, estate planning, tax-advantaged investing and other topics.

Founded in 1974, IM&R is a national investment firm with over 1,400 financial advisors in more than 550 offices throughout the country. IM&R is a wholly owned subsidiary of Raymond James Financial Inc., a public company traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol RJF.

Corporate Cup planned

Local businesses and companies are invited to compete in the 4th Annual Community Corporate Cup at MBNA's athletic complex on Sept. 12. Events include Obstacle Course, Office Olympics, Hot Shot Basketball, 5K Run, Closest to the Pin Golf, and Tug-Of-War. The event benefits the Western Branch YMCA Campaign for Kids financial assistance fund. Teams already competing include MBNA America, as well as American Express Financial Advisors, Avon Products, EBC Carpet, FMC, Computer Aid, Christiana Hilton, and the Department of Corrections. ## Millcroft Assisted Living celebrates one year Millcroft, a Marriott Senior Living Community, located on Possum Park Road in Newark, recently observed the first anniversary of their 26-bed Assisted Living Center.

The community, which includes 62 independent living apartments, 26 assisted living units, and a 110-bed health care and rehab center, is a residential option for seniors who need some assistance with daily living activities such as bathing, dressing and medication reminders.

Marriott Senior Living Services, a division of Marriott International Inc. based in Washington, D.C., is the largest provider of quality senior living communities in the United States. It operates 75 full service and assisted living communities with over 14,500 residences.

Other Marriott International operations include hotels operated and franchised under the Marriott, Courtyard, Residence Inn, Fairfield Inn, TownPlace suites and Ritz-Carlton brands; vacation club resorts; food service and facilities management for clients in business, education, and health care and food service distribution. The company has approximately 4,600 operating units in 50 U.S. states and 28 countries and territories. It has annual sales of $9 billion and employs approximately 185,000 associates.

Most televisions could have 'V-chip' by the year 2000

Parents can now be even more selective about what their children are allowed to watch on television thanks to recent actions by the Federal Communications Commission.

By July 1, 1999, half of all new television sets, with 13-inch screens or larger, will have the "V-Chip," and the remainder will have it by January 1, 2000. Converter boxes are also being produced to enable older sets to have "V-Chip" installed.

Once in place the "V-chip" will allow parents to block certain programs from being received on their set. The chip will read the rating data encoded in the television program based on the suitable age category of the program viewers, or by the sex, language, violence, or suggestive dialogue rating assigned to the show.

"While the ability to program the V-chip on television sets to block programs with specific ratings will be helpful to all American parents," said FCC Chairman William E. Kennard, "it will be particularly useful for working parents who can't always be present to monitor the watching habits of their children."

The Commission found the current television program rating system, now in voluntary use by most television networks, to be acceptable. The "V-Chip" will recognize the rating codes which were established by broadcasters, parent's and children's advocacy groups, and the Motion Picture Association of America.

A rating symbol will appear for 15 seconds at the beginning of all rated programming. Parental guidelines will apply to all programming codes except sports, news, and unedited, rated movies on premium cable channels.

The ratings include: TV-Y, suitable for all children; TV-Y7, for children age 7 and up; TV-G, general audience; TV-PG, parental guidance suggested; TV-14, parents strongly cautioned; and, TV-MA, suitable for mature audiences only.

Members can advertise their BBB status

For the first time in the 33-year history of the Better Business Bureau of Delaware Incorporated, BBB members who commit to certain standards will be able to identify their business as a member in print and broadcast advertising.

By signing a name and logo agreement with the Bureau, these members will be allowed to use an approved member Torch logo in broadcast and print advertising (newspaper and TV ads, flyers, direct mail and yellow pages directories) and on business documents (including business cards, stationary and invoices). Members may advertise membership on the radio or television.

For a business to identify itself as a BBB member, the member business must have a satisfactory record with the Bureau, be in business for one year, agree to participate in and comply with a meaningful dispute resolution process when unresolved customer complaints are brought to the Bureau's attention, and agree to advertise their membership only in the BBB of DE service area, which encompasses Delaware and adjacent areas served by local directories.

Diploma closer with distance learning

Groves Diploma-At-A-Distance, Delaware's first adult distance learning high school program, will hold its first graduation ceremony on Sept. 11 at Middletown High School. Speaker for the ceremony starting at 7:30 p.m. will be State Representative Richard Davis (R-Sherwood Forest).

Graduates include Susan Perry of Bear, Denise Marie Barton Scott and Dana Michelle Stephenson, both of Newark, Nicholas Ryan Truitt of Ellendale and Anna Maria Petti of Italy.

Virginia Longo, 60, took advantage of the program during its first year. "I think this (program) is absolutely great for anybody who wants a diploma," she said. Longo also added that it is a very good opportunity for young mothers or single moms.

Groves Diploma-At-A-Distance offers high school classes through an independent and flexible format that accommodates a student's learning pace and style.

Sandra Feliciano, 27, who took a U.S. History course through Diploma-At-A-Distance, said, "The program helped me because I was able to stay at home with my two small children and still work toward my diploma."

Distance learning has been a part of the American education system since the late 1800's in the form of correspondence courses. By 1960, 90 percent of all colleges offered some form of independent study.

Today, the distance learner is connected to the instructor using some form of technology like a TV/VCR, computer, Internet and/or telephone.

The courses for the Groves Diploma-At-A-Distance program are designed to be user friendly and have an instructor assigned to each course to ensure that consistent help is available to maximize student success.

People who do well in this type of program are voluntarily seeking to further their education, highly motivated and have a great deal of self-discipline.

The program is now accepting applications for the Fall semester which begins on Oct. 12. For more information, call toll-free at (888) 321-GRAD, or visit the James H. Groves High School website located at www.jhgroves.org.

AARP Seeking volunteers

The Delaware AARP is seeking volunteers for a state coordinator for communications who will deal with publicity and public relations on a statewide basis, and a training coordinator who will design and supervise training for various volunteer cadres throughout the state. Candidates for these positions should be semi or fully retired since both require the coordinators to be available for daytime meetings and events. Use of a car and travel statewide also are required. Training will be provided and it is not necessary to be a member of AARP. These are volunteer positions however all personal expenses are reimbursed.

Anyone interested in either of these positions should send a brief note requesting a job description to Ted Ressler, Delaware AARP, P.O. Box 371, Camden, DE 19934.

Medicaid transport available

Express Medical Transport is now operating a free service in the local area for Medicaid clients. All Medicaid recipients needing transport can call for reservations or pickups at 266-8278 or toll-free 1-888-413-4925, 24 hours a day. Information is also available by FAX at 266-7020 or email at Dixal@aol.com.

Gore aquatic center open

The Gore Aquatic Center at the Newark Senior Center on White Chapel Drive is open Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. An aquacise class will be held from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Cost is $18 per month for pool non-members. For more information, call 737-2336.

Assisted-living community opens in Newark

The Gardens at Whitechapel, a full-service assisted living community, is now open and available for occupancy.

"We have residents moving in, and we look forward to providing them and their families the assurance that we can meet their needs in a loving home environment," said community director Kathy DeProspo.

The Gardens at Whitechapel, located off Marrows Road near White Chapel Drive, has received approval for the state assisted living license, which is required before a community may accept residents. The license ensures that the community and its staff exceed state standards and guidelines for assisted living care.

The community has 100 assisted living apartments and a 13-unit Alzheimer's wing, all located on the eight-acre grounds of Whitechapel Village just outside downtown Newark.

Assisted-living apartments range from efficiencies to two-bedroom units and are designed for seniors who need assistance with medical and personal care but do not require a skilled nursing facility.

The fully trained staff will provide residents with professional and dignified assistance in fulfilling their daily living and medical needs. The Gardens offers three daily meals and weekly housekeeping, a large communal dining room and living room, chapel, media room, barber and beauty shop, library, wellness and fitness center.

Tours are now available at The Gardens at Whitechapel or call (302) 366-8100 to make an appointment.

NEWARK POST ♦ PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

William Crossan, III

Crossan in Italy to support NATO crisis

Airman First Class William Crossan III, son of Kay Elizabeth of Newark, is working at Aviano Air Base, in northern Italy.

Crossman is working to support NATO crisis response, humanitarian relief, peace enforcement and combat operations in southern Europe, the Middle East and North Africa.

Jet fighters and other aircraft from Aviano patrol the skies over Bosnia-Herzegovina, enforcing the peace accords that ended the four year war in the Balkans.

"Coming into the Air Force has definitely given me a worldwide experience. I served in places like Germany, Africa and England—all while maintaining a 3.4 GPA in my studies.

When I complete my enlistment, I plan to attend the University of Texas to continue my education," said Crossman who is currently a power production specialist.

Crossan is a 1996 graduate of Newark High School.

Winter becomes Eagle Scout

Robert Winter, age 16, was recently awarded his Eagle rank. Robert is a member of Boy Scout Troop 250 sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church in Newark.

His project was to construct cement stepping circles for hikers to use when crossing a creek and the redefinition of a pathway on an island near the circles in Middle Run Valley Nature Area. His project took more than 200 hours to complete.

Buffet dinner to benefit Bear Library

The Friends of the Bear Library plan their second annual fund raising dinner on Sunday, Sept. 20, from 1-6 p.m. Co-sponsored by the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations, the dinner will take place at the Elks Lodge #2281 off Route 273 near Community Plaza. Meals with beef or a quarter of a chicken with all the "fixings" are $10 for adults, and $8 for children age 12 and under. A special "meatless" child's meal is available for $5. All meals are also available for takeout. No tickets will be sold at the door. To place orders, call Jeanine Gefrick at 731-0640 or Joseph Bussiere at 325-9936. Or send a check to FOBL, c/o Joe Bussiere, 11 Yorktown Court, Newark, DE 19702.

DelDOT discusses CIP

DelDOT planners will discuss the existing Capitol Improvement Program, and the preliminary draft Transportation Improvement Program as well as other transportation plans at DelTech Stanton Campus, Churchman's Road, Stanton, on Wednesday, Sept. 23 starting at 6 p.m. Interested persons are also invited to submit written comments which will be included in the formal record of the CIP meetings.

Another series of meetings will be scheduled in early 1999 at which time draft CIP and the MPO's TIP documents will be prepared for review and comment.

Boat safety course offered

A DNREC-approved Boating Safety course is scheduled at the Newark Senior Center on Saturday, Oct. 10 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This eight-hour classroom course is designed to comply with state law, which now requires any person born after Jan. 1, 1978, to complete a boating safety course before operating a motor boat on Delaware waters.

Fee for the course is $30 per person and includes all instructional materials and a DNREC certificate of completion. Discounts are available for families of three or more. Class size is limited and pre-registration is required. To register, contact the Newark Parks & Recreation Department at 366-7060.

Girls Inc. Registration

Girls Incorporated is now taking registration for all licensed and nationally accredited childcare (6 weeks to kindergarten), licensed school age childcare (boys and girls up to age 12) which includes tutoring and daily homework help, as well as enrichment programs for children ages 2-18 years. Enrichment programs include playtime programs designed to cover the former Tot Lot programs from the county, special programs for home schoolers, rock 'n' roll gymnastics and much more. Those interested are welcome to visit Girls Inc. and register for the programs. The greater Newark branch of Girls Inc. is located at 489 Wyoming Road, across from the College Square Shopping Center. For more information call 292-0425.

UD FLY program teaches French

The University of Delaware is offering a course that teaches children, ages 6-13, to speak French. The Foreign Languages for Youngsters (FLY) program is open to children in grades one to three and six to eight.

Classes will be held in 12 sessions, from 10 to 11:30 a.m., Saturdays, Sept. 12 through Dec. 12, on the university's Newark Campus. Tuition is $150, plus a $25 materials fee. The course is cosponsored by the Alliance Francaise of Wilmington.

For information or to register your child, call (302) 831-3389 or access the FLY web page at <<http://www.udel.edu/katrien/fly.htm>>.

Host families needed

The University of Delaware is looking for persons in the Newark area willing to befriend international students. The volunteer Host Family Program allows families to choose just how involved they become in the lives of the students. The program is currently seeking families who can host students overnight in their homes for short stays while housing logistics for some international students are being finalized. For more information or to volunteer call 831-2115.

Miss Delaware

competitors sought

Participants are currently being sought for the 1999 Miss Delaware National Teen-ager Scholarship Pageant to be held April 17 and 18, 1999, at the Rehoboth Beach Convention Center. Scoring is based on academic achievement, leadership, communication skills and poise only. Two winners and runners-up will be chosen in two age divisions: Junior 12-15 and Senior 16-19. There is an optional talent and essay competition and additional awards are given for community service, congeniality and citizenship. The national Senior winner is awarded a $10,000 cash scholarship and the national Junior winner receives a $5,000 cash scholarship. For more information call 456-3447 or the national headquarters at 817-577-2220.

Hoops program more than sports

Kimberton program has been a success

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOR 10 YEARS Mark Jones watched it. The kids of the Kimberton community were throwing their lives away.

"Kids were out here selling drugs and stuff," he said referring to the basketball court he was standing on. "And little kids couldn't use the court because all the big kids were out here selling their drugs and causing problems. Everybody seemed to be on a dead end track. So after 10 years of living here and watching this, I got the nerve to do something about it."

That something was to take back the basketball courts at Kimberton. Jones hopes the courts will be the first step in taking back the community.

Jones created an organization dedicated to youth basketball, called "Hoops Inc." Don't be deceived by Jones' program name, he is dedicated to more than just making great basketball players.

"The kids in this community had nothing to do all day," he said. "So I decided to create an organized basketball league. However, my goal is to make this community have several options for kids. It's not just about having basketball. It's about making this a better community. [In coming years], I hope to create a baseball league, get a Boy Scout troop and just give the kids many options."

The basketball league is open to both boys and girls. Three age divisions have emerged within the league: ages 5-7 play in the pee-wee division, ages 8-11 play in the junior division and ages 12-15 play in the senior division.

Each age division is broken

Newark soccer eyes strong season

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AFTER NEARLY HAVING its 1997 season torn apart by several early-season losses, Newark High's inexperienced soccer team went on to patch together a wonderful quilt.

The end product was a 14-4 record and an appearance in the state tournament that ended in the quarterfinals.

This season, most of that team is back, and with the help of a transfer, the Yellowjackets are poised to sew up another successful season.

"The kids have done well," said Newark coach Hugh Mitchell. "They've had a very good preseason so far. Our team defense is like last year's; probably the strength of the team."

"One major improvement I've seen already is our offense. We're running a much more consistent offense than last year. Last year we used a lot of kids, so that could be considered depth, but this year we have more experienced depth."

Newark's main concern will be filling the void created left by the graduation of all-state goalkeeper Eric Suro, now an assistant to Mitchell. Junior Colin Burns, the expected starter, is out about a month after undergoing surgery to repair a broken bone in his foot.

"Both are doing well as of right now," Mitchell said. "They'll split time, and if one emerges, he'll play more."

All of the field positions feature either starters from last season or players who got plenty of minutes.

The back trio is comprised of sophomore sweeper Andy Donovan, senior Mike Slater and junior

Glasgow hockey team seeks improvement over last season

Dragons loaded with young players

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Glasgow High field hockey team has a mix of veteran and young players that could spell success for the team. It's just a matter of how soon.

Despite having only three experienced seniors, third-year coach Lisa Kosanovich feels the team can better its 1997 record of 6-9-1.

"We'll definitely be very young this year," Kosanovich said. "But we have some seniors with good leadership qualities, a good group of juniors and a great bunch of sophomores."

Senior captains Danielle Kelly and Katie Manchester will lead the team on and off the field. Kelly is a midfielder while Manchester will play offense.

"They are outstanding leaders and contribute a lot to this team beyond just their skills," the coach said.

The team was hurt by the loss of would-be seniors Julie Van Deusen and Megan Linn, who both transferred schools.

Megan Dalfovo is another senior and will play defense.

Dawn Broderdorp (defense), Kelli Wiedenmann (offense) and Jessica Willey (goalie) are all juniors that Kosanovich expects to start.

The sophomore group includes midfield players Katie Grant, Rebecca Miller and Kristin Berkley. Jen Hudson and Laurie Reinholt are two additional sophomores who have excelled during the preseason.

Kosanovich also feels there is a very strong group of freshman that will help the team down the road.

Christiana v-ball team rebuilding

Vikings still remain one of the top teams

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WITH THE LOSS of 10 seniors the Christiana High volleyball team will be rebuilding this season. That, however, may not be a bad thing to face this year.

Most of the top teams in Blue Hen Conference Flight A are in the same position and the Vikings may be able to take advantage of that.

"We lost a lot of talent," said Christiana coach Kim Huggins, who is beginning her sixth year as head of the Vikings program. "But so did some of the other teams. It's really a good year to be rebuilding."

Christiana, which finished 13-6 last season, returns three starters from last year — junior Sara Beatty, junior Kara Sheppard and senior Megan Sheppard.

Beatty will be an outside hitter while Kara Sheppard will be a setter. Megan Sheppard is expected to contribute at setter and defense.

The Vikings, who advanced to the quarterfinals of the state tournament last season, will also benefit from the addition of junior Sommer Hefner, who transferred from a school in Arkansas.

"She can be a big help to us," Huggins said of Hefner. "We really could use another setter to run the offense that we want to run."

Other players expected to contribute to the Vikings this season include senior Erin Halfen (outside), sophomore Nina Tarabiscos (front row), junior Val Pruitt and junior Natalie Moe (middle hitter).

"It should be a very interesting year," Huggins said. "With many of the teams in similar positions, it could be who works the hardest. And whoever happens to be on that day."

With volleyball being such a momentum sport, and many of the teams being young, it really could come down to who's hot."

In addition to having a young team, another obstacle the Vikings face is the proposition of having to play most of their matches on the road.

Christiana's gym floor is being replaced and is not expected to be ready until at least the middle of October.

"I was told it could be ready by Oct. 15," Huggins said of the dilemma. "Until then, it looks like we'll have to play all road matches."

Christiana does have a second gym in its building but it is not equipped right now to put up a regulation net.

"We may be able to get the right equipment in," Huggins said. "But the only way we'll use that gym is if the season is almost over and we risk not having any home matches at all."

Ross Barlow will be an assistant to Huggins this year and former Viking player Brienne Flagg will coach the freshmen team.

Christiana opens its season Sept. 16 against district rival Glasgow.

Goals remain high for the Newark High volleyball team

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The second time around is usually better than the first. Just ask Newark High volleyball coach Jennifer Mayer.

Mayer is beginning her second year as the head coach of the Yellowjackets and feels as though she and her team are far more comfortable this year than last.

Newark finished 16-5 and finished third in the 1997 state tournament.

"Oh, it's a lot easier," Mayer said of the new season. "I feel more comfortable and I think the players feel more comfortable."

"The returning girls know what to expect."

Heading those returnees is a group of seniors that includes Courtney Butterworth (middle), Amanda Burchfield (setter), Erin Bastien (right outside blocker), Whitney Anderson (right blocker) and Pam Rossetti (outside).

"This group provides a lot of leadership," Mayer said. "They really help the younger players and pick each other up."

In addition to the seniors, Mayer expects strong contributions from sophomore Caitlin McIntosh and junior Rebecca Klatzkin.

"I feel more comfortable and I think the players are more comfortable"

JENNIFER MAYER

NEWARK HIGH VOLLEYBALL COACH

"If you look at everybody individually, you might think we're not as strong as we have been," Mayer said. "But this group really works well together as a team. And it goes past just the starters. In our scrimmages, when we have substituted, we have continued with our same style of play. Everyone is really contributing."

The versatility of the players is another strong point of the 1998 Jackets.

"We have a lot of players with dual roles," Mayer said. "We're fortunate to have a lot of flexibility in our lineup. It's also nice that they're hungry to be a contender and hungry to play well."

Newark's success in volleyball over the years has been almost unmatched. Mayer doesn't see any reason for that to change.

"The goals remain the same," said the coach. "We want to hang another banner."

Mayer sees Alexis I. DuPont and Brandywine as two teams in Flight A that Newark could be battling for the top spot.

One problem Newark may face is the availability of its gym. The floor was being replaced at the end of August and Mayer didn't think it would be ready until the end of September. If that's the case, a several early home matches may have to be switched.

Christiana soccer team seeks conference championship

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Barring major losses because of injuries, Christiana High's soccer team should cause more than a few headaches for opponents this season.

That's not only the opinion of Vikings coach John Kendall, but other coaches as well. The only major loss from last year's team was all-state selection Kevin Murphy, who took his skills to West Chester University.

In its first four preseason scrimmages, the Vikings were living up to expectations, posting a 4-0 record and outscoring the opposition 11-1 in the process.

"There's a lot of skill, but we can't have anybody get hurt," Kendall said. "If we get a lot of injuries we're in trouble."

The starting goaltender is up for grabs between senior Jeff Matyger and junior Eric Bull. Kendall said the pair may split playing time this season.

The fullbacks are junior Mike Jones, sweeper; senior Donnie

“Scoring is not going to be the problem.”

JOHN KENDALL

CHRISTIANA HIGH SOCCER COACH

Jones and sophomore John McClain, wing backs, and sophomore Lance Whitenight, stopper.

In the midfield, it's sophomores Ryan Murphy and Dan Watras, juniors Greg Victor and Chris Herbert, and seniors Marlon Jones and Tom Alexander.

Seniors Mike Hayman and Brandon Biar are the front-runners.

Junior midfielder Dave Vander-slice, who received a thigh injury in a scrimmage Aug. 28, will start if he recovers in time for the Sept. 11 opener against Tatnall.

Alexander, meanwhile, who played varsity as a sophomore, is making his return after sitting out last season because of insufficient grades.

"Scoring is not going to be the problem," summed up Kendall. "It's going to be defense. But our kids play unselfishly and play as a team and we should have a real good year."

Kendall picked Newark as one of the teams to beat in the Blue Hen Conference race.

Matt Hammond returns as assistant coach for the third consecutive season.

Glasgow volleyball team has different look this season

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

If there's one certainty with the Glasgow High volleyball team this fall, it's that it will definitely look different.

The Dragons, who won the Flight A championship with an 18-3 record and advanced to the state semifinals last season, graduated eight players from that team including all-staters Kristin Nau, Natalie Dunlap and Jill Biggs.

"We'll be different all right," said Glasgow coach Robin Dunlap, who begins his second year at the helm of the Dragons program. "We lost a lot of talent. But we have a good group to work with and I think we'll be competitive."

Players with starting experience returning to the Glasgow lineup this year are senior Candice Bowman (middle hitter), junior LaShanda Simpson (middle hitter) and senior Jessie Marley (setter).

"The hardest thing is getting the girls in the flow of play this year," Dunlap said. "They have been accustomed to watching the older girls do a lot of the playing and now we want them to be the ones."

Other players on the Glasgow team include junior Kelly Clancy, senior Kristin Foraker, senior Lauren Karr, senior Karen Miller, sophomore Christie Wooters and senior Katie Wroten.

In addition to perennial powers Christiana and Newark, Dunlap feels Alexis I. DuPont will also be a strong team in Flight A.

"I know A.I. returns everybody from last year," the coach said. "I would expect them to be strong. And, of course, Newark and Christiana should be very good. They have a lot of girls that play winter volleyball and have improved a lot from last year."

Despite the loss of so many seniors, Dunlap has high hopes for this team.

"I think we'll come along well and I hope be right there with those teams," he said. "My expectations are still high."

One advantage Dunlap will have this season over last, is that first year of head coaching experience.

"It's a lot easier having gone through it all last year," he said. "I have a much better idea of what to expect and what to do."

Glasgow opens its season with a tournament Sept. 12 at Alexis I. DuPont. The Dragons first conference match is Sept. 16 at Christiana.

Jackets have smooth preseason

► NEWARK, from 18

Mike Cassel.

The midfield will be patrolled by all-staters Mark Rigney, a senior, and junior Dave Sylvester; junior Noah Thomas, and senior Eric McLeod.

Two juniors, David Von Steuben and Greg Bruzik, and sophomore, Bram Walker are also battling for a starting spot.

Up top, seniors Sam Wade and Robbie Gays and sophomore Lornny Antwi will spearhead the attack. Antwi is a transfer from Octorara High (Pa.).

"(Antwi) is a pleasant surprise. He's been a big plus for us," Mitchell said.

Rigney is Mitchell's "leading captain," and others will be selected, Mitchell said.

Newark opens its season at home Sept. 15 under the lights against Milford. Casey Bouldin is Mitchell's other assistant coach.

Mitchell named Christiana, Glasgow and possibly Brandywine as some of the early favorites to battle for the Blue Hen Conference Flight

A title.

"The system I'm running this year is very challenging and demanding for the kids, but if they comprehend and execute it, they have a chance to have an outstanding year," said Mitchell, who is beginning his 10th season at Newark.

"This has been my best preseason ever in how smooth things have gone, how dedicated the kids are, and hopefully that will continue into the season."

Kimberton program helps kids

► HOOPS, from 18

down into four teams. The league had a regular and post season, with the championships taking place last weekend.

From a basketball stand point, 15 year old Hansel Wilson said the league provides more competition than just having a pickup game.

"Most people are more competitive when involved in a league," he said. "A lot times in pickup games people are not serious or willing to perform. But in this league everybody wants to do good and prove they can play."

Still, Jones makes sure the kids do more than just perform on the court.

"During the games we always provide pamphlets and literature about alcohol, drug abuse, how to stop smoking, all kinds of things," Jones, himself a former addict, said.

All participants must keep good school grades or risk being ineligible for the league.

Participants aren't the only ones drawing benefits from the organization. Many older kids and adults help in aspects of coaching and organization. Many older kids, who were once selling drugs, now coach in the league.

"I don't know what [the older kids] do during the day or all night," Jones said. "But when they're here they have been very responsive to our needs. They have all been respectful to all the kids, other volunteers, and family members."

Those older kids also have responsibilities beyond coaching. Anyone not in high school, and with no degree, must be working towards a degree, or GED, to participate in the league. In addition, Jones is hoping to set up a job finding service for the unemployed volunteers.

Trebs Thompson, a Substance Abuse Prevention Facilitator, for the New Castle County Community Partnership, said Hoops Inc. is already having a positive affect on the community's youth.

"There is one particular kid that strikes me," Thompson said. "Last year he was on the Newark Police most wanted list. He was always in trouble but now—I was really impressed with seeing him out there coaching and helping out. He is the most impressive turn around I've ever seen.

"[Mark] is not only helping individual kids. He is creating a sense of community pride for the residents of Kimberton."

The parents of Kimberton also feel the program is having a positive influence on the community.

"I think what Mark has done for the community and the young kids is great," said Tammie Wood, whose son plays in the 5-7 year old division. "Children always say there is nothing to do. Well, this is something they can do. I think it helps them stay off the corner or other activities that can be detrimental to them."

Still, Mark wants to do more. He would like to set up a college scholarship fund for the community.

However, funding is a major problem. Up to this point, Hoops Inc is an entirely volunteer organization. With the help of councilwoman Karen Vanezky and attorney Gerald K. Moyfied, Jones has been able to secure some sponsorship. A big step was taken last May when Moyfied got the organization declared a nonprofit.

Boys & Girls Club offers fall programs

The Boys and Girls Club of Greater Newark will be offering an intramural basketball league for boys and girls ages 6-8, 9-11 and 12-14.

Practices and games are held at the club on Saturdays and one other weekday.

Registration is only $5 if it's done before Oct. 10. It's $7 after.

Soccer League

The Boys and Girls Club will also sponsor a co-ed soccer league.

There will be a 6-8 year-old age division and a 9-11 division.

Practice will be held on day during the week and games will be played on Saturday.

Registration is $7. Contact the Boys and Girls Club for more information.

mation.

Flag football

The club will also sponsor two flag football travel teams.

The age groups are 9-12 and 13-15. Practices will be one day a week with the game schedule to be announced.

Dragon hockey team to benefit from summer work

► GLASGOW, from 19

"It's great to have such young players that can contribute," said the coach. "They'll improve a lot during the season and we'll have them for three years."

Kosanovich said about 13 of the players attended camp over the summer and the team also conducted informal practices on their own.

"I think that has really helped the younger players feel more comfortable with preseason," Kosanovich said of the summer practices. "That was solely on their own and it is a big plus."

The team expects to be competitive in the Blue Hen Conference with a state tournament appearance one of the team's goals.

"I think that's a goal every year," the coach said of the state tournament. "I think that is an attainable goal."

"I predict we will be able to play with our district rivals Christiana and Newark."

"Actually, I think we'll be able to play with anybody. We've tied William Penn the last two years. Our big problem has been against the teams that aren't as strong."

"We seem to prepare harder for the good teams. Our challenge this year is to play hard every time out." Glasgow opens its season Sept. 16 at Dickinson.

Area youths win Punt, Pass & Kick

More than 70 area children took part in the NFL Gatorade Punt, Pass and Kick competition at the Greater Newark Boys and Girls Club recently.

Winners included Donna Brown (girls 8-9 year-olds), Jenny Tybrowski (girls 10-11), Enya Speace (girls 12-13), Larr Caines (boys 8-9), Dante Haggins (boys 10-11), Samuel Cotton (boys 12-13) and Steve Jewel (boys 14-15).

The winners advance to a sectional competition to be held at Wesley College in Dover. The winners there could qualify for the team championship competition, to be held at Veterans Stadium, in Philadelphia, in conjunction with a Philadelphia Eagles game.

The winners there will advance to the national competition to be held at the conference championship games in January.

Weaver memorial service scheduled

A memorial service for Gertrude Weaver, former Newark High School teacher, will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 13, in the chapel of Cokesbury Village, 726 Loveville Road, just off Lancaster Pike near Hockessin. Miss Weaver died on June 13, 1998, as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident the previous day.

Denise D. Celli Davis, Guard technician

New Castle resident Denise D. Celli Davis died Friday, Aug. 28, 1998, in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Davis, was a supply technician in the Delaware Army National Guard at the U.S. Property and Fiscal Office, River Road, New Castle, for 14 years. She was a member of St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in New Castle. She was a 1974 graduate of William Penn High School.

She is survived by sons, George J. Davis III and Jason M. Davis, both of New Castle; father, Abraham F. Celli of New Castle; brothers, Harry J. Celli and Joseph J. Celli, both of New Castle; Donald D. Celli of Wilmington and Ronald D. Celli of Newark; sisters, Delores J. Bennett, Elaine A. LePere and Marie A. Celli, all of New Castle; fiancée, James H. Coleman of Elmer, N.J.; former husband, George J. Davis Jr. of New Castle; a grandson.

A mass was held on Sept. 2 at St. Peter's Catholic Church, New Castle. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquadales.

The family suggests contributions to St. Peter's Workforce, in care of the church.

John Carlton Rutter, retired NVF manager

Newark resident John Carlton Rutter died Tuesday, Aug. 25, 1998, in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Rutter, 75, was a management consultant at NVF Co. in Yorklyn. He was named corporate systems manager in 1970, with responsibility for analyzing all corporate and operational procedures. In 1979, he was named vice president and general manager of the Parsons Paper division in Holyoke, Mass. He retired in 1989 from the Yorklyn plant.

He was formerly chief of operations for Summit Systems Inc. and had been a consultant in manufacturing administration, financing and engineering.

Mr. Rutter was a Navy pilot during World War II. He was a graduate of Brooklyn (N.Y.) Polytechnic Institute. He was a member of a Masonic Lodge in Queens, N.Y., St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Newark, the Aircraft Owners & Pilots Association and the Experimental Aircraft Association. His wife, Kathryn Rutter, died in 1990.

He is survived by his fiancée, Mary Margaret Moyer of Newark; son, John C. of Rocky Point, N.Y.; daughters, Ann Ferguson of Montclair, N.J., Jane Conlin of Denton, Md., and Carolyn Mundy of Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.Y.; brother, Donald, and sister, Marion Morris, both of Texas; 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was held on Aug. 28 at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Newark. Burial was in St. Thomas Episcopal Church Cemetery.

The family suggests contributions to the American Heart Association, Newark 19713.

No fee for viewing New Castle County's land use files

New Castle County officials said they have no plans to charge the public for viewing land use files.

"After revisiting that idea, we have decided not to do it," said county planner George Haggerty. "And a waiting period was never proposed."

According to John Flaherty of Common Cause of Delaware, someone in the county offices had proposed a 30-day waiting period and $50 fee to inspect public records at the Department of Land Use.

Flaherty wrote to County Executive Thomas Gordon demanding the idea be dropped.

"Under state law, all public records must be open to public inspection and copying during normal business hours," Flaherty stated.

"The law does not include roadblocks to the public's access."

Haggerty said no fee or waiting period was proposed for current land use records, although a fee was discussed for retrieving old files.

"There are times when people want us to retrieve plans from archives for homes or other structures already built," said Haggerty. "During a review of Chapter Six of County Building Regulations there was some discussion of having a fee for that service."

However, after consideration, land use manager Shawn Tucker has decided against any change at this time.

"The only fee is $1 per page for copies of land use files," said Haggerty.

Senior residents could get property tax relief from NCCo.

Residents 65 years or over with income not exceeding $25,000 a year for a single resident or $32,000 for certain couples may be eligible for an exemption from New Castle County real property taxes. Ordinance 98-0888, passed on July 14, increased the previous income limits of $15,000 for an individual and $19,000 for an eligible couple.

Individuals must meet the following criteria: The resident must have reached the age of 65 prior to July 1 of the fiscal year for which this exemption is sought; The resident must reside in a house owned by him or her that is his or her principal residence; The eligible resident's income should not exceed $25,000, or, if the resident has a spouse who lives with him or her in the principal residence or, due to mental or physical infirmity lives in a health care facility, the combined income of the resident and spouse should not exceed $32,000 per year.

Applications filed with the Assessment Division of the County Department of Land Use on or before Sept. 1, 1998 shall be considered timely for Fiscal Year 1999.

LINE AD DEADLINES
Newark Post: Wednesday 3 p.m.

important information

Please check your ad the first day to see that all information is correct. This will ensure your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. Call us the very first day your ad appears to make changes or corrections. By doing this we can credit you for the first day if an error occurred. The newspaper's financial responsibility, if any, for errors of any kind is limited to the charge for the space for one day.

The publisher wants to do everything possible within the confines of good taste and legal constraints to help you advertise your products or services to your best advantage. The newspaper does reserve the right to edit or reject any copy or illustration that does not meet the newspaper's standard of acceptance.

We make every effort to ensure that advertisers are reputable. However, we welcome your comments and suggestions concerning any of our advertisers. Call Classified and ask for the manager.

Classified customers of the Newark Post will be asked to pre-pay for private party advertisements.

Customers may use Mastercard or VISA when ordering by phone. Check by mail with a classified order form or place and pay for your ad in person at the main newspaper office. We cannot be responsible for cash sent through the mail.

Private party categories include, but are not limited to: announcements, merchandise for sale, pets, furniture, yard sales, vehicles or boats for sale. The Classified Department can answer any of your questions regarding this policy and how it may affect your situation. Please call 410-398-1230 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with your questions.
