FOURTEEN TO BE COMMISSIONED

Major General Hanson E. Ely, Commanding General Second Area, with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y., and his Staff, will visit the University of Delaware tomorrow for the purpose of presenting Commissions in the Reserve Corps of the Army of the United States, to the Graduating Class of the R. O. T. C.

The ceremony will take place on Frazer Field at eleven-thirty, daylight saving time, and will be reviewed by the General and his Staff. After the Review the Battalion will again be formed for parade, at which time the members of the graduating class will turn over their respective commissions to the newly appointed officers from the Junior Class, and then march forward in a body to the center of the Parade Ground, halting in front of the General and his Staff. The Commissions will then be presented. The Seniors will then be invited to join the staff of General Ely, and the Battalion will march past its former officers in a farewell parade.

Those who will receive commissions are: Cadet Major Boggs, M. L. Adams, W. B. Brown, W. Burton, R. E. Cooper, H. M. Fox, F. N. Gladden, H. C. Harris, M. Harwitz, J. A. Moran, J. S. Parkinson, B. R. Phillips, H. B. Plummer, and H. L. Robertson. The following men will receive certificates of eligibility for commissions which will be bestowed upon them when they reach the age of 21: E. E. Cannon, R. S. Glover, R. L. Harris, and E. F. Smith, Jr.

Major General Hanson E. Ely was born in Iowa on November 22, 1867. Since his graduation from the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., in 1891, he has had an active and distinguished career in the service of his country. Upon graduation he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in the Regular Army, and assigned to the 22nd Infantry. During the Philippine Insurrection, in 1899-1901, he served actively against the insurgents, commanding General Funston's mounted scouts.

At the entrance of the United States into the World War, General Ely was a major of infantry. He was made a member of the American Military Mission sent to Europe to study the organization, equipment, and methods of the British and French Armies. By August 5, 1917, he had been promoted to colonel.

AWARD OF DECORATIONS MADE BY COL. GLASSBURN

Sabres Presented To Cadet Captain H. C. Harris And Lt. E. F. Smith

At the regular drill period on Tuesday, May 19, the annual awards of decorations including sabres, medals and stars, were made by Lieut.-Col. Robert P. Glassburn, C. A. C. "DOL", P. M. S. and T., at the University of Delaware. Sabres were presented to Cadet Captain H. C. Harris and Cadet Lieutenant E. F. Smith, Jr., for having won the Battery and Platoon competitive drills held on Tuesday, May 12. Captain Harris, in command of Battery "A" was unable to be present at the ceremony due to illness and the presentation was made to his brother, Cadet Lieutenant R. L. Harris. The Battery winning the competitive drill, Battery "A" was decorated by Colonel Glassburn by having a gold star attached to the Battery Guidon.

Medals were presented to the following members of the Battalion for rifle marksmanship, V. S. Jackson, R. P. Sharp, I. Klein, W. C. Wortman, L. E. Edgelle, F. T. Rowe, and J. Balick. Two members of the student body, not members of the R. O. T. C., were also given medals for marksmanship, Emerson Sparks and E. Byam.

The other medals awarded at this ceremony were made possible by the Student Council. These medals were awarded to the Freshman and Sophomore in each Battery and in the Band who had shown the most soldierly qualities during the year. At each regular weekly inspection prior to the Annual Inspection the possible candidates.

DRAMATIC GROUPS DRAW PLANS FOR NEXT TERM

*Joint Meeting Of Both College
Groups Marks The First Of Its Nature*

At a joint meeting of representatives of every dramatic group in both colleges, held in Mr. Kase's office last week, a tentative schedule of the dates for next year's plays was drawn up and will be submitted to the Social Committee. This meeting marks the first instance when the dramatic organizations of both colleges have assembled for the purpose of formulating plans for the next year. Representatives from the Puppets, Footlights, and the class in dramatics were present. Hitherto, the schedule for plays has been made in a haphazard manner, hence this year marks a long stride forward in the dramatic movement at the University.

The schedule, as drawn up at the meeting, provides for a play each month of the school year. In October, the Puppets intend to give their play; in November, the E 51 class; in December, the Footlights; in February, the E 52 class; in March, the competitive class plays at the Women's College and the inter-fraternity plays at the men's college; in April, the Women's College Shakespearean play; in May, the Footlights.

DEDICATION

It has been said several times that the student body of the University lacks an "esprit de corps." Some attempts have been made to revive the "old spirit." This past year, in particular, has marked a strong revival of school spirit. Not only has this been noticeable among the students, but also among the alumni of the University. There has been one class, however, which has constantly displayed a spirit of enthusiasm and loyalty to the University, followed its athletics contests, and, through various means, directly or indirectly, aided the University. To this Class, the graduates of 1911, whose example can do naught but awaken a burst of spirit among the students and other alumni, do we dedicate this issue of "The Review."—The Editor.

STUDENT COUNCIL UNDERGOES ENTIRELY NEW ARRANGEMENT

*Each Fraternity And Organized Non-Fraternity Group
To Have Four Representatives*

ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

Accompanying this article is a list of the proposed changes in the Constitution of the Student Government Association which, if accepted, will create a new and improved form of student government at Delaware College. The purpose of this article is to present the reasons for the new system, the factors which led to its development, and the benefits which should be gained by its adoption.

The present form of Student Government at Delaware College was inaugurated in 1915. Since that time many changes have taken place here—old problems have been eliminated and new ones created in their stead. These changes have forced upon the Student Council the realization that "some drastic change in our governing body was necessary if our entire system of government was to be saved from impotency and inadequacy. A few illustrations should make these points clear.

The new Honory System, as presented in the last issue of The Review, will be benefitted particularly by the enlarged council plan. Nearly every examination and test will be given with a Council representative present. Although these men will not be snoopers or vigilantes in any sense, it is felt that their presence in the rooms will be conducive to better conditions during tests. It is a known fact that examinations in the Junior and Senior classes are more free from questionable conduct than those in the two lower classes; it should be significant that these classes have the greatest number of representatives on the Student Council. In addition to that advantage, the fact that the Honor Court will be composed entirely of Juniors and Seniors should ensure fairer and more satisfactory trials.

The work of the Council would be divided among a number of committees. In this way, with a greater number of members available for the work, each member would be responsible for one job instead of the three or four that must be shouldered under the present system. Dances, pepfests, and other similar activities could be arranged and staged without requiring the entire Council to devote all of its time and energy to them to the exclusion of more permanently beneficial work.

Finally, the new plan would effectively eliminate the political cliquing which has threatened, within recent years, to corrupt our entire system of student government. Under this plan, it would be a definite advantage for each group to elect its best, and only its best, men as representatives to the Council. Under the present plan, it was often advantageous for one group to support a totally unworthy man from a different group in the hope of obtaining aid for some other election and office. Since general elections would be eliminated, there would no longer be any basis for political "trades."

The new system possesses so many obvious advantages over the present system, and has enjoyed such success in other colleges, that there can be little doubt as to its efficacy and desirability as the basis of a new and better Student Government at Delaware.

STAGE SET FOR GRAND REUNION OF CLASS OF 1911 ON JUNE 6 AND 7

Colonel Edgar S. Stayer, Class Commandant, To Be Guest Of Class

FORTY-FIVE EXPECTED BACK

The stage for the grand reunion of the Class of 1911 has been set and the curtain will rise at 1 p. m. on June 6th, and will not be lowered until sometime on the Sunday following. Despite the fact that they have been out of the College for twenty years, the members of the Class of 1911 have kept alive an esprit de corps and enthusiasm that is hard to be equalled. Since the first announcement in "The Review" about the activities of this class, other graduates have been investigating the source of all the spirit and loyalty shown by this class.

It has been said that if each class would show a similar interest, the University would have an unlimited activity in the Alumni Association.

At their reunion on June the sixth and seventh, the Class will introduce several well-defined plans which they have thought up for the purpose of creating a greater interest in the University from among the Alumni.

They have invited Col. Edgar S. Stayer, U. S. A., to be with them. Col. Stayer came to Newark from the Philippines as a First Lieutenant in 1907, the year the Class entered, and was the College Com-

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES TO BE HELD FROM JUNE 6th TO JUNE 8th

Final Plans Of Committee Replete With Entertainment And Various Meetings

GRADUATING EXERCISES JUNE 8

NEW COURSE IN LIBRARY USAGE WILL BE GIVEN

*Course Not Listed In Catalogue;
Will Be An One Hour, One-Term Course*

The Committee on Curriculum has recently announced that a new course entitled, "Use of Books and Libraries," will be given next year. Mr. Lewis, the Librarian, will have charge of this course. It will be a one-hour, one semester course; the first semester it will be given to the Women's College and the second semester to Delaware College. Unfortunately it will not be listed in the College Catalogue as it was decided upon too late for this year's edition. This course will answer such questions as: Where and how to find all the material available on a certain subject, where to find the authorities on a subject, how to tell a good book, and how to make a bibliography. This course should be of particular interest to the senior planning to do graduate research work.

A regulation has just been made by the Library Committee that the "stacks" in the Library basement will be permanently closed to public use. This step has been taken to prevent the recurrence of the deplorable conditions revealed by the straightening up and rearranging now going on. These conditions have been caused chiefly by the tendency of students to rummage among the books and then fail to replace them in their proper place. Under the new system, the number of the book desired will be given to the library attendant who will get it from the "stacks."

An advantage of this system, Mr. Lewis believes, is that more students will become familiar with the use of catalogue, readers' (Continued on Page 6.)

DR. HULLIHEN SUGGESTS COURSE IN RELIGION

New Study Would Teach Religion Objectively And Scientifically

The establishment of a chair of religion at the University of Delaware was suggested by President Walter Hullihen, Ph. D., in a brief talk at the 81st semi-annual dinner of the Episcopal Church Club of Delaware held in the Commons of Old College. About 110 laymen and clergy from all parts of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Delaware attended.

The chair of religion as outlined by Dr. Hullihen would teach religion objectively and scientifically. Its organization, as conceived by the president of the University of Delaware would be such as to place it on equality with the other academic departments.

"Its purpose would be to trace the history of religion from its earliest beginnings," declared Dr. Hullihen, "and to show the college student what religion has done for mankind." The university president further explained that the chair of religion which he hopes will some day be established here would not be denominational in character.

"I believe it would exert a profound influence," asserted Dr. Hullihen.

GOODBYE 'TIL
NEXT TERM

The commencement exercises of the University of Delaware will be held from June 6 to June 8, inclusive, and final plans and arrangements have been completed by the faculty committee in charge of the exercises.

The exercises will start at 10:45 o'clock, Saturday morning, June 6th, with a meeting of the trustees of the University in Old College. At noon, the annual Alumni luncheon will be held in Kent Hall, followed at 1 o'clock by the annual Alumni meeting and reunion.

At 1 o'clock, also, the annual baseball game between the Varsity and Alumni teams will be played on Frazer Field. Several thousand spectators are expected at this game, as it has always been one of the high spots on the commencement program of entertainment.

The business meeting of the Alumni of Delaware College will be held in the West Wing, Old College, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A 5:30 o'clock the Senior Class of the Women's College will give a dinner in Kent Hall, and at 6 o'clock the annual Alumni supper for old grads of Delaware College will be held in Old College.

A concert by the Glee Club will be given in Mitchell Hall at 7 o'clock, followed by Class Day exercises at the Women's College at 7:30.

President and Mrs. Walter Hullihen will hold a reception in their home, "The Knoll," from 8 o'clock to 9:30 o'clock, for the Seniors, graduates, faculty members, and visitors. At 9:30 o'clock, fraternity reunions in the various chapter houses are planned.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock in Mitchell Hall, by the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, Pa. Dr. Petty was formerly the University pastor at Cornell University, the University of Chicago, and at the University of Illinois. That evening Firmin Swinnen will give an organ recital of vesper music in Mitchell Hall at 7 o'clock.

The graduating exercises and the conferring of degrees will be held in Mitchell Hall at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, June 8. Dr. George Pierce Baker, head of the Department of Drama at Yale University, will be the commencement speaker. Dr. Baker has an enviable reputation as a public speaker, especially on education and questions of university administration.

ENGINEERING COLLEGE CONSIDERING CHANGES

*Plan Would Provide For More
Time For Work Outside
The Classroom*

The Engineering School has been seriously considering a reduction in the number of hours, both actual and credit, in all its courses. If this reduction is made, it will be made with the object in mind of providing more time for work outside the classroom, work which is important in an engineer's training, but which, under the present system is lacking. Another factor in determining the advisability of this step is the activity program for next year outlined by the A. S. M. E. Committee on Speakers. They have prepared a prospective list of fine speakers like F. A. War-

COMMENCEMENT DAYS

Commencement Day is drawing near. It brings with it various possibilities to us students. Some may continue their study and preparation for their chosen vocations; others may commence their life work; a few undecided ones may despairingly give up life's struggle and settle down into a rut of despondency and shiftlessness. Despite the hardest tasks that they may have confronted during their college career, the graduating Seniors realize well that they have also lead a life distinctively different from what they have previously experienced or from what they will experience in the future. We hope that they have benefited by the many advantages offered to them by the University, and that they have born in mind the somewhat hackneyed but pertinent phrase, "You get no more out of anything than you put into it." Soon the Seniors will step forth to meet the world on a new basis. We sincerely wish them full success in their new undertaking.

THE FATE OF DELAWARE'S HONOR

In the past, Delaware College men have been held in high esteem by other universities and by various business institutions. This prestige was due to high grades resulting from diligent application to studies, and to sterling character built up from self-reliance. The unfortunate occurrences that have recently stained this past record are greatly deplored. Scholastically, Delaware students may have continued to uphold their reputation, but all this is naught when gained by the sacrifice of Honor. Deep ravages have been made upon our Honor System by a number of unscrupulous students, and the entire University has suffered the consequences. If such conditions continue the value of a Delaware Degree will be greatly lessened in the eyes of the outside world, and the reputation of our graduates will be stained. We shall all become graduates eventually and the stigma will affect us all, directly or indirectly. There is but one solution. Bring back the prestige of old, when Delaware men were sought after as men of character and of learning. Our Student Council has given us the opportunity in the form of the new Honor System. Each man is put on his own sense of honor to uphold the honor of himself and of the University. We hope that the student body will vote unanimously in favor of the new system. The name of Delaware must in the future as in the past stand for a high ideal of honor and for fine scholastic achievement. If we, as loyal Delaware students, fail to reconstruct the honor of ourselves and our University, then we must do away with the Honor System and adopt a system of proctorship as a confession that we students of Delaware have no sense of honor.

FIRMIN SWINNEN

With his customary recital of beautiful organ selections tonight, Firmin Swinnen will conclude his concerts for the season. To many students of the University these weekly recitals have proven to be of a delightful and educational value. Those who have attended these Monday night concerts have never regretted their decision to hear the gifted artist. We express our appreciation to Firmin Swinnen who gave us the privilege of hearing his masterful renditions of some of the world's greatest music, and to H. Rodney Sharp, through whose generosity the services of Firmin Swinnen were made possible. We hope that next year we may again enjoy these weekly recitals.

ADIEU

Losing a friend is always a painful process. To lose a friend suddenly is even more painful; but to lose three friends without any warning is downright excruciating. When the information was publicized that Mr. Dunlap and Mr. Wade were leaving the college, a wave of sorrow rolled over the University; and when Mr. Blair announced that he, too, would surrender his position to continue his labors for a Doctorship, cries of anguish filled the air, figuratively speaking.

To be able to teach successfully college boys in a State University is in itself a mark of ability. But each of these men succeeded eminently not only in "putting over" their specific subjects, but (what is more arduous) in captivating the admiration of their fickle disciples. Each one of this trio in his own way (and the three make an unusually good study in individual differences) has been able to guide willing students through the channels of Learning, through the abstrusities of literature and the other through complexities of chemistry.

Panegyrics often lose in credulousness what they possess in sincerity, and it isn't our aim to eulogize these instructors merely because they are leaving us. It is true that partings tend to make us sentimental and that we always speak good things of those who are about to depart. But when men, whom we have always associated with our school, leave, it is no more than natural that we recall their merits. We are forced to think of Mr. Dunlap's devotion to things belletristic, of Mr. Blair's erudition and wit, of Mr. Wade's genuinity and forcefulness. We don't know whether any of these teachers will feel that choking sensation in the throat when they glance at our University for the last time, but are sure that each student who has ever come in contact with any one of these three gentlemen will shake regretful heads at their departure.

"Adieu, kind friends, adieu, adieu, adieu." Mr. Dunlap, how can anyone forget your adoration of the beautiful, your conscientious attempts to make college men appreciate Milton, Shelley and the others, your work in promoting public speaking at our University? Mr. Blair, can we ever forget your rib-tickling wit, your mind-stimulating ideas, on life in general, your applause-evoking interpretation of the drama, of Shakespeare, and of literature. We are sure to remember, Mr. Wade, your whole-hearted enthusiasm for college sports, your readiness to offer your services gratis to coach a track team, your all-around agreeableness and sagacity, and your services as chairman of the Social Committee.

But do not let us disturb these three gentlemen in their concluding pains at the University—concocting final examinations.—Contributed.

Campus Chatter

Dear Nora:

The Student Council has been replaced by a House of Representatives. About every fifteen students will be represented by one man. I have received some interesting suggestions regarding a Senate for the students. If the situation becomes stronger, I think that I will be able to arrange it so that one of the boys can be mayor of Newark.

W. C. D. had its May Queen, and I see no reason why we shouldn't have our June King. The sixth of June will be June Day, and all of the Sophomores and Freshmen are going to tap dance on the lawn surrounding White Clay Creek. Van Steel Jackson has been elected June King. The heir apparent will not be apparent, but Waddington will be the Prince of Salem. All of the "Ag" students will be duchesses, and W. W. Donohue will be the douche. By all means be there, because if you're not, you won't miss a thing. As good old Chan humbly said, "He who misses and tries again is more apt to miss for the second time than he who misses and leaves well enough alone."

I have just purchased a book called "Mass Murder." They tell me that examinations are apt to start any day now, and in case certain things don't turn out a certain way, there's going to be lot of the title of that book which I have mentioned heretofore, five, six, seven, eight—I have lots of numbers, aren't you?

Last week I paid a visit to the Alms House; but the matron wouldn't let me in, because I had both alms. All right!

By the way, Nora, my love, do you know what has six legs and sings. A quartette, of course. You must have known it all the time. (I forgot to tell you, the second tenor had his legs cut off.)

Remi est un enfant de dix ans. I "et" a piece of strawberry cake de dix ans. I remember reading that "Remi demeuré dans une petite maison." Can you imagine anybody in America doing a thing like that in somebody else's little house. So am I, too.

At last I have found somebody who is benefiting from this business depression. It is none other than our friend who used to draw maps. Now he is busily engaged drawing charts showing us how things have gone from bad to worse, and how business is steadily declining. It reminds me of my lessons. But I've already reached my low point, and I've decided to let the dean allow me to start all over again. Isn't that just elegant?

I've been accused of using this paper as a medium of correspondence so that I could foil the Post Office Department. You know that that is not true; so I want you to call me up any day this week, and if you can get a car, we'll go riding together. Two people in one auto are much better than two autos on one people.

Do you know Wess Slaughter?

Well anyway, Wess Slaughter had a daughter; so he fought her when he hadn't ought'er; he picked up his daughter and threw her in a bucket of water; just then came along a man who sought'er; he caught'r and bought'er from Wess Slaughter; and now the daughter of Wess Slaughter has her own daughter who is the granddaughter of dear old Wess Slaughter.

I guess I have to say good-bye until next year, and maybe until the year after if you don't get a good job this summer and save enough to pay for my prerequisites. So farewell, my dearest little honeysuckle, and every night when you go to bed, even if you don't go to bed, think of me, and say to yourself, "Here was a man who was living to marry any girl for love if she could support him, even if she was a pretty as Greta Garbo"

Before I leave you definitely I shall give you a toast, whether it be cinnamon toast, burnt toast, or toast with tuna fish. "Here's to my Nora, so pretty and sweet; she has two eyes, she has two feet; I love her beneath the moon; I eat dinner every noon; so fare thee well; but do not cry, for I love you, and so do I." Yours and mine,

A. Z., II, Jr., and Sr.

Book Review

by HARRY PARKER

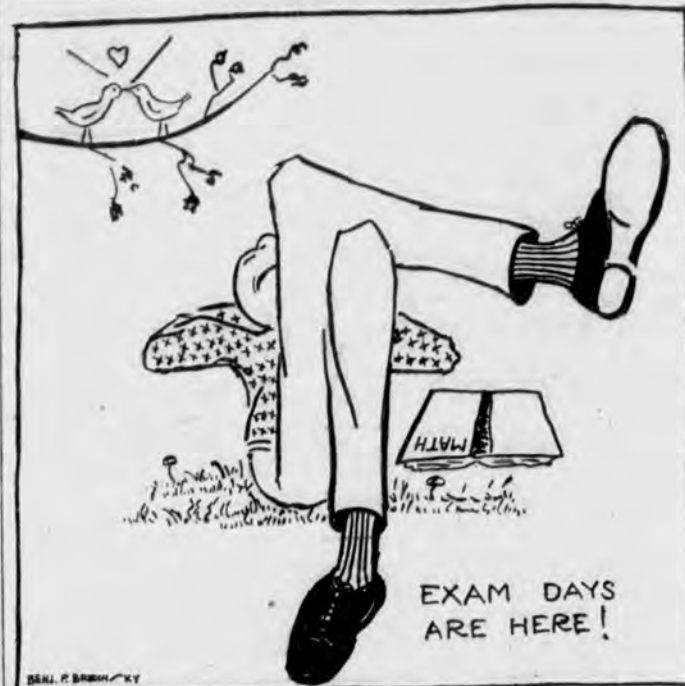

CAMELS—Daniel W. Streeter.

How many of us have not, at some time, felt the complexity of life so keenly that our only desire was to go away, where we knew not, but somewhere far removed from our present walk of life? There are few of us, however, who have ever satisfied this desire. Strange—how hard it is to find this satisfaction. No matter how far one wanders, the land just beyond the horizon is always calling, and so one wanders on, never satisfied, searching for something that is just beyond one's reach.

The author of "Camels" has felt this urge, and he has answered it. Under the veil of darkness that shrouds that most fascinating of all continents, Africa, lies the germ of a strange and savage peace.

Mr. Streeter has found it. The author begins his tale with a question—"Why do men do it?" It is easy to answer this question after reading the story of his trip. Adventure . . . the wanderlust . . . the magic of the dark continent! What man with red blood in his veins, and the ordinary man's lack of common sense, would not leap at the chance for experiences such as Mr. Streeter and his companions passed through?

The author begins his story in Paris, where the "horizon fever" overcomes him. We follow him to Egypt, up the glamorous Nile, across the Nubian Desert, and up the Dinder river into Abyssinia. We thrill to the lion's roar, cower under the charge of infuriated buffalo. The description is vivid, and is the most interesting of any book of travel I have yet read. The style is very informal, and is humorous enough to merit reading on

College Biographies

JACK S. PARKINSON

Combining athletic with scholastic distinctions, Jack Parkinson will leave the University of Delaware with an extremely well-rounded career to his credit.

In 1925, he was graduated from Glen-Nor High School in Norwood, Pennsylvania. While a student there, he was a varsity man in football, baseball and track and was the first one in the history of the school to play every minute throughout a football season. Following this, he went to Rutgers University where he joined the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He was on the freshman lacrosse squad when he left school in April of 1926.

Entering Swarthmore Preparatory School the same year, he set school records for the discus and javelin. These records still stand. He also played left tackle on the undefeated football team.

At the University of Delaware in 1927, he made the football and track squads in his Freshman year. He was elected class representative to the Athletic Council in his Sophomore, Junior and Senior years. He was on the track team for four years, and captain of the team in his Junior year.

In his Junior year he was also a member of the "Rat Tribunal," and the Junior Prom and Farewell Hop Committees. He was elected to the Derelicts, the Engineers' Club and Phi Kappa Phi in his Senior year.

Jack is a member of the Officers' Club and was captain of Battery C in the R. O. T. C. This year he was vice-president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and was manager of the swimming team. Concluding a course in mechanical engineering here, he will work for the General Electric Company in Philadelphia next year.

that score alone. Some of Mr. Streeter's remarks are real gems. He should try writing a humorous novel.

You will not regret reading "Camels."

The first chapel services in three years were held last week at Western Reserve University. Up until three years ago the services had been compulsory, but were dropped after student agitation against them. The new services, suggested by both faculty and students, are non-compulsory. Three hundred attended the first service under the new plan.

J. CALEB BOGGS

Election to the presidency of the Student Council, the highest honor in the power of his fellow students to bestow, culminated the remarkable college career of J. Caleb Boggs. Throughout his connection with the University, "Cale" has consistently advanced its best interests. His viewpoints, as it has manifested itself in his accomplishments, has always been broad and wholesome, and his delightful personality is not likely to be soon forgotten by his innumerable friends.

He was graduated from Dover High School in 1927. While there, he was president of his class for four consecutive years, won varsity letters in football, baseball and basketball, and was captain of the football team in his Senior year. He was president of the Kent County Young People's Association for three years, and was national president of Theta Phi, a high school and preparatory school fraternity, which at that time had 26 chapters.

In 1927, he won a medal for the most sportsman-like conduct at Dover High School during the year. Characteristically, he accounts this among the highest honors that have yet been accorded him. He won second place in the State Oratorical Contest two years, was president of the Kent County Chapter of DeMolay and was a member of the State Rifle Team at the national matches in 1927. He was president of the Dover High School Student Council in 1927, and was manager of track in 1926.

His qualities were immediately recognized at the University of Delaware. During his Freshman and Sophomore years, he was elected president of his class both times. He is a varsity man in football, was manager of basketball, is a cadet-major in the R. O. T. C., and this year was president of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. One of the most unusual distinctions he has ever received was appointment to the Kappa Alpha Honor Court for the area of Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. No other member of the chapter here has ever been given this honor.

More than a third of the graduating class of Barnard College plan to go into teaching as a profession. Only four plan to be married at once.

SPORTING NEWS

The above are but a few of the Blue and Gold stars who have helped to make a successful spring season for Delaware. In the upper left corner is Delaware's "flash," "Boo" White, one of the fastest humans to use the Delaware track. Below him is the Blue and Gold baseball battery, "Doc" Smith, catcher, and "Rube" Hall, pitcher. Both have played an excellent game this season. In the lower left-hand corner is Jack Parkinson, whose star event is the discus throw in which he distinguished himself on the field. Above him are "Winnie" Mayer, right, and "Chick" Galloway, left, two fairly consistent players on the nine.

REVIEW OF SPORTS

Last season's football schedule will always be recorded in the annals of Delaware's athletic history as an outstanding achievement in local gridiron conquests. With the modification of the football system, the addition of a new coach, and an influx of freshman material, unbelievable results were accomplished to the gratification of the alumni, faculty, and student body.

This fall our head coach, Charles Rogers, intends to continue the system that has already proven its worth. It is expected that the success of last year's Blue and Gold eleven will attract versatile athletes to this institution who will maintain the excellent record already established. Last year's varsity, which was composed mainly of raw material, will have had a season's experience to its credit, and will be familiar with the present coaching system. Augmented by the addition of incoming football candidates, they will be molded into the most formidable football machine to ever sport the Blue and Gold.

Six victories, three defeats, and one tie was the official record at the end of the previous schedule. We hope that the completion of next season's schedule will find Delaware credited with eight wins and no losses. And this, remember, includes Navy among the victims.

Seton Hall Ends Blue Hens' Winning Streak

Strong Seton Hall Batters Slam Offerings of Hall and Nickle

Rube Hall lost the wizardry that fanned fourteen last week, and Delaware's win streak came to an end when Seton Hall College triumphed over the Blue Hens at South Orange, New Jersey, Wednesday afternoon by the count of 17 to 10.

Delaware played shaky ball and failed to match the slugging competition of the Seton Hall nine. The highly-touted Jersey men slammed the offerings of Hall and Nickle for 24 hits. Although Delaware was limited to only eight hits, they managed to score ten runs on eight Seton Hall errors.

Seton Hall was never threatened, holding the Blue and Gold in check throughout the contest. The local nine flared up in the final frame but the rally was useless for Seton Hall's lead was too great.

Cain continued his batting spree where he left off last week. "Sticks" garnered three of Delaware's eight safeties. Keanny and Prange led the Seton Hall attack with four bingles apiece. Score:

SAM SLOAN

Delaware's Only Scorer at Annual Middle Atlantics

Sam Sloan, versatile field man of this year's crack track team, was the only man to score for Delaware in the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate at Haverford, Friday. Sloan gained a ¼ point for the Mudhens when he tied with three others for fifth place in the pole vault. The height was 11 feet.

Delaware's failure to score more points is attributed to the one year ruling that prevents freshmen from competing. Since the local squad was composed mainly of freshmen, they were declared ineligible. Next year, however, these men will be allowed to compete and it is believed that Charlie Rogers' minions will be strong contenders for the Middle Atlantic crown.

Mt. St. Mary's Noses Out Delaware, 5-4

Failure To Come Across With Men on the Bases Results in the Defeat

Delaware lost a close decision to Mt. St. Mary's when the Mountaineers nosed out the Doherty combine at Emmitsburg, Friday, by the score of 5 to 4.

Failure to come across with their bats in the pinches when men were on the bags resulted in the local nine's defeat. Fourteen runners were left stranded on the sacks. The game was a free hitting affair with each team accounting for fifteen hits.

The Blue and Gold could make little headway against the effective pitching of Edelen, the Mount's hurling ace. Lynch relieved Edelen and took up mound duty in the fifth inning. Delaware soon solved his slants and found his offerings for ten hits and all their runs in the four rounds he pitched.

With the score tied at four-all, the Mountaineers pushed across the winning run in their half of the ninth when Tracey poled a long fly to right and went all the way to third as the ball got away from Hall. "Jerry" Connell brought him in with a hard drive to right center.

Smith, Hall, and Temple garnered three hits each to lead the Blue and Gold batsmen. The score:

Delaware Jay Vees Down Goldey Team

Jay Vees Sew Up the Game in Fifth Inning; Temple and Lingo Lead Batting

Following the footsteps of their varsity brothers, the Junior Varsity placed a victory to their win column when they nosed out Goldey by the score of 7 to 5.

The Jay Vees had a big fifth inning that practically sewed up the game. The second team men bunched hits behind five Goldey errors to cross the plate with five tallies.

Goldey outthit the Jay Vees 11 to 7, but their play was miserable in the field and as a result the home club took down the laurels. Widdoes pitched the entire game for Doherty's youngsters, and with good support was never in danger. Temple and Lingo led the batting attack with two blows each. The score:

U. of D. Ends Season With Win

Victory Over Osteopathy Marks Last Game for Delaware and the Seventh Victory

Playing in weather more suited for football, the University of Delaware nine forced over a run in the last half of the ninth inning to nose out the Osteopathy team on Frazer Field, yesterday, by the score of 5-4.

With the exception of the fifth inning when the muscle manipulators touched him for four of their six hits, Nickle pitched a steady game of ball and checked the visitors throughout the remainder of the contest. Delaware pushed their first tally across in the second inning. Frank Skura, graduating captain and veteran of four seasons, banged a single and stole the keystone sack. Pikus, playing his first varsity game, drove Skura home with a safety play.

The Blue and Gold failed to score in the next inning, but tallied twice in the fourth frame. Hall opened hostilities with a single and Smith smashed a three-bagger, scoring Hall. Nickle squeezed Smith in on a sacrifice.

Osteopathy enjoyed a one-run lead after crossing the plate with four markers in their portion of the fifth. Delaware, however, evened matters up when they came up to bat. Skura reached first by virtue of a walk, and swiped the second bag. Skura was spiked on the play and Lane was allowed to run the bases for him which he proceeded to do by stealing third. Hall unintentionally bunts and Lane scored on a misplay by Farren, the opposing hurler.

The next three innings were scoreless, neither side being able to score, although Delaware had an excellent chance to tally in the eighth, when they had two men on base and only one man out. Doherty's men clinched the game in the final period. Temple blistered a scorching single to right center and Skura reached first on an error, Temple advancing to third on the play. Pikus squeezed in the winning run on a nice sacrifice down the first base line.

This was the last game for Delaware and their seventh victory. Rube Hall, "Doc" Smith, and Frankie Skura played their last game for the Mudhen college. The score:

HO-HUM

Well, it's all over . . . except the finals, which means plenty of coffee, plenty of cramming, plenty of last minute absorption of facts—and less sleep than ever. But, looking back, it's been a fairly good semester—what with all the hullabaloo about the honor system . . . and its final settlement (?) . . . and with all the Student Council elections . . . and its final settlement—maybe we can keep fraternities out of politics for a while now—yes, maybe. D'ye still remember the football season—we didn't have a cowardly team . . . although it was all White most of the time—and the track team got pretty muddy at times—and it was mostly White—and how about our baseball team—one of our pitchers is aiming toward the fame of Hall (forgive that one). "Doc" Smith didn't get "socked" in the eye—at the competitive drill. . . Did anybody attend any of the College Hours? (Yes, students are allowed to go to them—even engineers). Ye former ed. of the Review slung plenty of mud at the College Hour program—but he's not ed. any more and we don't mind saying we disagree with him—the programs were as good as could be expected—Lindsay and Sandburg, Hempel and Goss, the Puppets and the Shakespearians, Strange and the Kremlinites, Baumgardt and Luckner, and even Seabury (pardon us, Mr. Oberlin)—these programs were quite good, we believe—funny, isn't it—the last speaker, David Seabury was the least authoritative and the most liked by the students—ha, ha, they're only college boys (and some of them engineers)—they wouldn't understand. Nobody here is interested in dramatics, are they?—well anyhow, you can't help paying tribute to MacAdams for his ability as a writer—copping two inter-fraternity cups is no easy job—and it won't be done again for a grass widow's age—that boy, Adams, is a marvel—for further information, refer to any member of the E 12 class. The plays this term were pretty good, too—it's a pity more college students don't go to them—people from a radius of 20 miles come to the plays—but not college fellows. McCully and Downes are two names to be recorded in the annals as masters of stage-work. Salsburg is another—and you can add Gibney and McVaugh and Joseph. We just saw Mr. Dunlap walk past and it made us think of the trio of teachers we are losing after this term—Dunlap, Blair, and Wade—all good men and true—we overheard one sophomore say to another not so very long ago, "Gee, I almost felt like crying when I heard Dundap was leaving." He was a member of the Seventeenth Century Literature course, too—we won't break the illusion, Mr. Dunlap, by telling you the sad child's name—well, we'll certainly miss all three of these men—we're certain the entire student body wishes the departing three the kindest of luck—in the vicissitudes of pursuing Dame Culture. Anyhow, they won't have to take that oath. (But you'll have plenty more victims, Colonel.)

Well, it's almost over—the sale of cigarettes, coffee, and ink will spurt during the next few days in Newark—and then will come that week of hecticcy (sure, there's such a word)—and then, Newark'll be quieter than Shibe Park—on Sunday—and Govatos Brothers—and Rhodes' Drug Store—and the De Luxe—and the Library—and the sylvan territory adjoining White Clay Creek will be quiet and unpeopled—and serene—and empty—and—and—ho hum! We just thought of a book we have to get at the Library—we promised not to be late—to get the book—so we'll get the book. Oh, but the Library is closed. So! Too bad—too bad. Not continued next week.

Deep Water

Out of the fog and danger of the Mississippi, out of the warm waters of the Gulf, the Steel Ranger, flying her house flag from the mainmast and the ensign from the stern, crept into safe harbor at New Orleans, last April a year ago. The crew was torn between two emotions, a regret that the 32,000 mile trip around the world, a trip filled with excitement and adventure, had come to an end, and a great joy that once again, good old United States' soil could be trod. Mikkelsen, leaning against the taffrail over the poopdeck, squinted his Scandinavian eyes, slowly shook hands with me and expressed the emotion of the thirty foreigners on board: "Vell, de United States iss not me country, but it iss a good country to come back to." And New Orleans, bedecked in the flowers and trees of early summer, its people parading proudly up and down in celebration of the famous Mardi Gras, welcomed us with open arms. We were home at last!

Custom officers, revenue officers, visitors and relatives flocked aboard. "Have a nice trip? Many storms? What did you bring back for souvenirs?" We were besieged with volleys of questions and answered them while packing to leave the ship. We had left Brooklyn on the 5th of October, loaded heavily, and had stopped at Panama, Honolulu, Yokohama, Osaka, Kobe, Shanghai, Singapore, Sumatra, Colaschel, Calcutta, Aden, Port Said, Suez, Gibraltar, and had seen over fifty islands. Yes, we had run into several storms, but little damage was done, and out of the crew of forty, only the German mess-boy had been sea-sick at any time. Souvenirs? We had silks from Japan and China, tobacco from Sumatra, ivory from Singapore, vases from India, shawls from Egypt, ebony jewel cases from Africa. My most precious possession was a dangerous-looking knife, carved of genuine ivory and made of the purest German steel, taken from a Chinaman in Shanghai, the result of a nearly tragic argument in a Russian Cafe there. I had three shawls, one from Japan, one from China, one from Egypt, two of them delicately woven of silk and embroidered with pink roses on a white background, the other, a Cashmere from Port Said. I sold to an eager visitor a beautiful tapestry from Suez, depicting

DELAWARE AGAIN GETS DISTINGUISHED RATING

Colonel Robert P. Glassburn, C. A. C. "DOL", F. N. S. & T., at the University of Delaware has been notified that the R. O. T. C. Unit at the University has again received a distinguished rating from the War Department. This rating is the result of the excellent showing the Unit made at the recent Inspection conducted by Major Meade Wildrich, C. A. C. "DOL". The University authorities, the student body and the members of the Military faculty are justly proud of this distinction, especially so since it is the fourth time in the four years that Colonel Glassburn has been with the unit that they have been so rated. To the Cadet Officers and non-commissioned officers goes the great part of the credit for this honor. They are to be congratulated for the effort they have put forth to bring about such a result.

the entrance of Christ into Jerusalem. Wonders of the East! I had gained forty pounds, and with a (what I considered) very prominent mustache, felt myself to be a true "deep water guy," armed with testimonial-papers and records of my ability.

The origin of this column actually was New Orleans, where I wrote several accounts of certain phases of the trip for the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the paper upon which Mark Twain devoted his efforts at humor and pathos. Hence the articles this year have been more or less a continuation, including at times chapters from my book of the same name. I have tried to tell of the beauties of such a trip; the hardships and undesirable experiences have been taken as a matter of course; and to describe some of the many adventures any sailor, traveling around the world on a freighter for the first time, would be likely to have. To my readers I would express my appreciation of your interest and the hope that you have enjoyed my efforts. You must take the trip yourself to experience the emotions the sea makes one feel and it is my sincere hope that sometime you may have the opportunity of sailing on "Deep Water."

RESUME

Unfortunately, I am not a constructivist; if I were, I should be glad to muster whatever ideas I have defended herein, during the course of the year, into some sort of coherent litany keyed in major to the tune of progress. But it cannot be. In this respect, as in so many others, I am hopelessly inferior to my predecessor, Don Quixote, in whose final essay, "Swan Song," is to be found the ablest and most comprehensive statement of this University's real needs that has ever been made. Still laughing, he seemed in that terminal declaration to have separated the purely amusing from the deeply serious. It should be carefully studied.

As for myself, I am not of this frame. I am too suspicious of truth to plant myself firmly thereon; I feel too continuously the insecurity of a definite position. Unless one towers beyond the sun, it is strategically bad not to be able to move. In addition, I am organically hostile to recapitulation. The situation is tragically complicated by the fact that I suspect I have nothing to recapitulate.

Inconclusiveness is the solvent in which I am continuously dis-integrating. At the moment I am confronted with inconclusiveness as to love, as to engineers, as to sedition, as to the honor system, as to conversation, sex appeal at the Women's College and the importance of the social element in undergraduate life. So I can make no summaries.

In speaking of love, I have championed its cause to the extent of declaring it more important than the attainment of all the wisdom this University has to offer. Playfully though this may have been done, I was none the less sincere; love to a youth is as rain to the corn. Nothing, not even economics, should be allowed to interfere with it. I have become viciously dogmatic on this subject lately.

It is a long car ride from love to engineers, but there also I have tried to be sincere. My statement, again, is baldly this: Engineering students as a class are definitely inferior to "arts" students, and engineering as a study is a ludicrous anomaly in any university. I hope by this time, the votaries of the fly-wheel have spent their wrath, which I think is the one encouraging sign they show. And I hope they will cease insisting that I define the word "culture," for the reason that they wouldn't understand it, if it were defined. They are herewith referred to an interesting volume by John Cowper Powys to be had in the Memorial Library. It is called "The Meaning of Culture." He says nothing of tension or bolts, but much of poetry and trees. . . .

As for the sedition bill, with which I have been concerned, I may say that its passage by the Legislature was simply another manifestation of that body's vast stupidity, of the brutal injustices to be found in misused democracy, and of the hopeless backwardness of this sovereign State. The fight put up by the professors of this University against the sedition measure is the first really convincing indication of intellectual virility I have yet seen here. It did credit both to them and to a state that little deserves it. It is my solemn wish that these statements be construed as being seditious.

The lack of feminine appeal at the Women's College, which I think is one of the most vital problems facing this entire establishment, is something to which immediate attention should be given, preferably by the Social Committee. It is in the power of this austere body to make social activity such an important thing here that it will be practically obligatory to pay some attention to such things as poise and personality. It is in their power, I say, but probably not in their dispositions.

Finally, I bow gratefully to what friends I have made, and to my enemies I say that differences should not go beyond—adieu.

DR. E. B. CROOKS HEADS LEAGUE FOR SIXTH TERM

League Instrumental In Bettering Working Conditions In The State

For the sixth consecutive time, Dr. E. B. Crooks, head of the Department of Social Science, has been elected president of the Consumers' League of Delaware. The election was held recently at a luncheon at Hotel du Pont-Biltmore in Wilmington.

Dr. Crooks has been interested in the Consumers' League for many years. The ideals and ideas of this League are concerned with the protection of women and children in industry. The League, under the presidency of Dr. Crooks, has been instrumental in securing several reformatory measures in the working conditions of women and children in this state.

With his enthusiasm for sociological matters, Dr. Crooks has been an instigator of many of the plans and prospects of this League. As a result of the League's efforts, child labor is being effectively controlled in this state and higher age limits for working children have been secured. For instance, in the food canneries of the state the legal working age of children has been raised from twelve to fourteen years. The sociological work of the League has also aided economic condition of the state in that more men are being employed where formerly children worked, thus reducing unemployment. Women are also receiving more consideration in various industries due to the efforts of the League during Dr. Crooks' administration.

WINS HONOR IN STORY CONTEST

Miss Frances L. Butler, of Newark, a student at the Women's College, has been notified by the editors of the "Ladies' Home Journal," a monthly magazine published by the Curtis Publishing Company, that a manuscript entered by her in a contest for short stories written by college undergraduates throughout the country, has been awarded honorable mention in the contest.

A great number of manuscripts were received by the judges in the contest, and the task of choosing the winning story from the manuscripts entered was no easy one. The first prize for the best story was awarded to a student at Notre Dame University, and five other students throughout the country were awarded honorable mention. Miss Butler's story will appear in the current issue of Pambos, the publication of the Women's College, and is entitled, "Darling, Darling!"

Miss Butler is a frequent contributor to "Pambos" and to other college publications. She is a graduate of the Newark High School.

Cadet Officers' Club Holds Annual Reunion

Parade, to be held on Frazer Field next Tuesday, May 26, 1931. It is at this Graduation Parade that the Seniors will receive their Commissions as officers in the Reserve Corps of the Army of the United States.

Immediately after the dinner the newly appointed officers were welcomed by the President of the Cadet Officers' Club and were made acquainted with the organization and purpose of the club. Colonel Glassburn, the P. M. S. and T. at the University of Delaware, then explained to these officers the history and significance of the shoulder strap of the Sam Brown Belt, which is the token of their office as officers. The Colonel then adjusted one of these straps to each belt, offering at the same time his congratulations and thanking each new officer for the splendid cooperation in bringing the Battalion up to its present rating, which is the highest rating given by the War Department.

Dramatic Groups Draw Plans For Next Term

In a special interview with a Review reporter, Mr. Kase, director of dramatics outlined the plans and prospects which he entertains for next year's dramatic program. Mr. Kase's plans for the E 51 class in dramatics are unusually ambitious. Firstly, the enrollment of the class will be limited to 15; regular class sessions will be held once a week; study in every phase of dramatic work will be undertaken, with particular care and work in the designing of scenery and the production of sets. Students, interested in dramatics, who will be unable to enter the class will be organized into a subsidiary section which will present one-act plays intermittently. Such plays will be directed by members of the regular class in drama. Members of the class will construct sets which will be finished weeks before certain plays will be staged so that all rehearsals will be held with the proper accoutrements. In this manner, the supply of staging equipment owned by the dramatic groups will be augmented. At the present time, two stage sets are available for future use, one the property of the Footlights Club and the other the property of the drama class.

One innovation being seriously contemplated by Mr. Kase is the presentation at the end of the year of play by the E 52 class solely for aesthetic and uncommercial purposes. The play to be presented is to be one of extraordinary dramatic value or one which will have never been presented in this country before. In short, it will be the University of Delaware's contribution to the Little Theatre Movement. All these plans are naturally still in the embryonic state, but their successful fruition is confidently anticipated by Mr. Kase and others interested in dramatics. Mr. Kase added that next year he would be relieved of teaching one English class so that he will be able to spend more time on dramatics.

Major General Ely To Present Commissions To R. O. T. C. Grads

On May 28, 1918, American troops made their first serious attack against the enemy, and, in the capture of the town of Cantigny, wrote one of the most glorious pages in the history of American arms, and showed the world that Americans were not "too proud to fight." The action consisted of the attack by the 28th Infantry of the town of Cantigny, and its capture against bitter German resistance, since it was an important point in the German plans for the continuance of the great Ludendorff offensive in the direction of Amiens. That attack was planned and carried out with consummate skill by General Ely, then Colonel Ely, commanding the 28th Infantry. By June 26, 1918, Colonel Ely had become Brigadier General and was placed in command of the 3rd Brigade, of the famous 2nd Division, which brigade he commanded in the fierce and successful attacks on Vierzy, and on the Mont Blanc Ridge.

On October 1, 1918, he was appointed Major General and given command of the 5th Division, which he commanded throughout the remainder of the fighting in the Meuse-Argonne area. Between November 2 to 5, 1918, he forced the passage of the Meuse River in the face of determined German resistance, by one of the most brilliant operations of the entire war. This feat enabled the American Army to continue an advance which had been arrested by fire from the east bank of the Meuse River, and contributed enormously to the entire collapse of German resistance less than a week later.

Among General Ely's many citations are the one which awarded him the Distinguished Service Cross for Gallantry in Action:

"In order that he might personally direct the attack, General Ely attempted to enter Vierzy, which was not yet cleared of the enemy; he was fired on at short range by enemy machine guns in the town. He then personally organized and directed an attack which resulted in the capture of the town and in the advance of the lines well beyond. General Ely's indomitable bravery, disregard for his own safety, his devotion to his men, and his frequent presence with them in the front line, inspired them to deeds of great courage and enabled the troops to take the town, despite strong enemy resistance made by vastly superior numbers."

And the citation from the French after Cantigny, for which he was awarded the Croix de Guerre, with palm:

"Brilliant soldier. He infused in his regiment the dash with which he is animated. On May 28, 1918, he executed with great success an operation on which he procured numerous prisoners and gained important ground. He maintained the conquered ground despite several enemy counter-attacks."

Among General Ely's decorations are the Distinguished Service Cross, the Croix de Guerre with five palms, meaning that it was awarded him five times, Commander of the Legion of Honour, and Distinguished Service Medal.

General Ely is now the senior Major General of the Army, and in command of the Second Corps Area.

President Ricard hopes that the freshmen Mechanicals will get behind his organization and help make next year a big one.

FEEL the difference
HEAR the difference

TASTE THE DIFFERENCE!

Like an oasis in the dusty desert of dried tobacco, the new Camel Humidor Pack brings you the delight of fine quality cigarettes in factory-fresh, mild condition.

Now, wherever you go, you can always be sure of getting a fresh, throat-easy cigarette when you demand Camels.

It's easy to tell the difference. Your sense of touch detects it as you roll a cigarette between your fingers. Dry tobacco is stiff and crumbly. Camels are full bodied and pliant.

Even your ear can tell the difference. For a dried-out cigarette crackles when you roll it.

But the real test is taste and taste is causing a great nation-wide switch of men and women alike to Camels in the scientific new Humidor Pack. As you draw in that fragrant, mild, cool smoke, redolent with the joy of choicest Turkish and mellow Domestic tobacco, only then do you realize the full importance of this new Humidor Pack.

For scorched or dried tobacco is harsh and tasteless and its smoke is unkindly hot to the tongue and throat.

If you are already a Camel smoker you have noticed the improvement in this your favorite cigarette.

If you don't smoke Camels, try them for just one day to see how much you're missing. After you've known the mildness and delight of a really fresh cigarette, switch back if you can.

Smoke a fresh cigarette

It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." See Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

For those who have difficulty in finding what they want, Mr. Lewis hopes they acquaint him with their needs so that he can explain to them the process for finding the desired information and probably be able to obtain for them more complete and pertinent references than they could find for themselves by haphazardly exploring through the "stacks."

Under special conditions, such as for a thesis, a student may obtain a time-limited "stack pass."

mandant during the four years of the Class, leaving in 1911. He was always quite popular with the boys and will be made an honorary member.

About six members of the Class deserve a great deal of credit for spending considerable time and money in writing, phoning, wiring and even calling in person on the distant members. To date 45 have given definite assurance that they will be back and the goal is now 50.

Many are expected to be out and to give this crowd a big hand at their 20th Anniversary, which they hope to make the biggest and best ever held in Newark.

Award Of Decorations Made By Col. Glassburn

dates for this honor were observed and graded. From this list of candidates for this honor were observed and graded. From this list of candidates the following named Freshmen and Sophomores were selected for a final competition: F. D. Bendler, J. W. Brown, R. E. Vennum, S. Wigglesworth, J. P. Cann, J. K. Newman, J. S. Smith, N. S. Dawson, A. C. Tweed, E. C. Jefferies, G. R. Pearce, H. V. Walker, C. H. Rice, J. P. Hollis, S. C. Dunn, F. T. Rowe, N. M. Welch, F. Lynch, E. B. Ferris. From these students the Committee of Judges, consisting of the three Regular Army Officers on duty at the University, the Cadet Major and the Battery Commanders, were required to select four Freshmen and four Sophomores. The selection was made with the greatest of difficulty as the competition was so keen. It would have been hard to find a more soldierly group anywhere. Uniforms were immaculate and neatly pressed, equipment glittered and their movements in the manual of arms were excellent. A final selection was made to include among the Sophomores: Bendler, Dawson, Hollis and Lynch; among the Freshmen: Smith, Jefferies, Dunn and Ferris. These students were awarded bronze medals mounted on the University Blue and Gold ribbons as being the outstanding soldiers in their respective Batteries. From these medal winners it was then necessary to select one each, Freshman and Sophomore, as being the outstanding member of his class in the entire Battalion. The two students receiving this honor, F. D. Bendler and E. C. Jefferies, were awarded gold medals in addition to the bronze.

Dr. Hullihen Suggests Course In Religion

lihen. "All students would gain a greater respect for religion; and many a greater interest in it by the establishment of such a chair, working along the lines I have outlined. The objectives of a college in the highest sense are very much like those of the church. Something more than can be gleaned from textbooks—something more than education of the mind is essential to complete manhood and womanhood."

In prefacing his announcement of his desire to see the establishment of a chair of religion at the University of Delaware, Dr. Hullihen said that it was a desire he had entertained for a long time, and that it was shared by many of his colleagues; but had not been expressed formerly or publicly before. In closing, the president of the university said that he hoped the Church Club would take his remarks merely as a suggestion for further thought on their part.

Howard L. Seaman, who was elected president of the club at a brief business session preceding the dinner, presided as toastmaster.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

"THE THINKER"

... a telephone version

The name Electrical Thinker might be applied to one unit of telephone apparatus. Technically it is known as a Sender and is brought into action each time a call is made in a panel dial central office. By means of electrical mechanism, it records or "remembers" the dialed number and routes the call to the proper line.

The steady expansion of the Bell System — in volume of calls, number of telephones and miles of wire — cannot be taken care of merely by an enlarged use of existing types of apparatus.

To serve the continually growing telephone needs of the nation, it will always be the task of Bell System men to devise, refine, perfect and manufacture new kinds of equipment such as The Thinker.
