McCully Gets Leading Role In E-52 Show

Will Portray 'Sganerelle' In 'School for Husbands'; Tom Warren, 'Red Dog' O'Connell Form Team.

Marshall McCully will play the leading role of Sganerelle in "The School for Husbands," the spring musical show of the E 52 Players to be produced in Mitchell Hall April 30.

The first rehearsal was held last Wednesday, although the try-outs are not yet completed. Reading rehearsals will be kept up until the spring vacation.

Sganerelle is a serious, somberly-clad guardian in this Moliere comedy. When the play was adapted as a musical show by Lawrence Langner and Arthur Guiterman in 1933, Osgood Perkins portrayed the part during the successful run sponsored by the Theatre Guild of New York.

Sganerelle has a ward, Isabelle, who will be portrayed by Catherine Rittenhouse, who played the wife of Peer Gynt in the E 52 production last spring. Sganerelle keeps a close watch on his ward with the hope that she will marry him when she becomes of age.

Wilfred Clelland, a special student and a graduate of Oberlin College, will have the role of Ariste, Sganerelle's brother. Ariste also has a ward, Leonor, who will be portrayed by Mary Louise Steele.

Thomas Warren and Jay (Red Dog) O'Connell will form a new comedy team in this production as they take the roles of Lysander and Sylvester.

English Reading

Dr. Robert P. Sechler, a member of the English Department, will read selections from the works of Charles Dickens at the seventh English reading of the current series next Monday evening at seven o'clock in the Hilarium, Women's College. Everyone is cordially invited.

Student Council Adopts Election Committee Report

Vandegrift Gives Report On Athenaeon Expenses To Council. Spring Frolic Discussed.

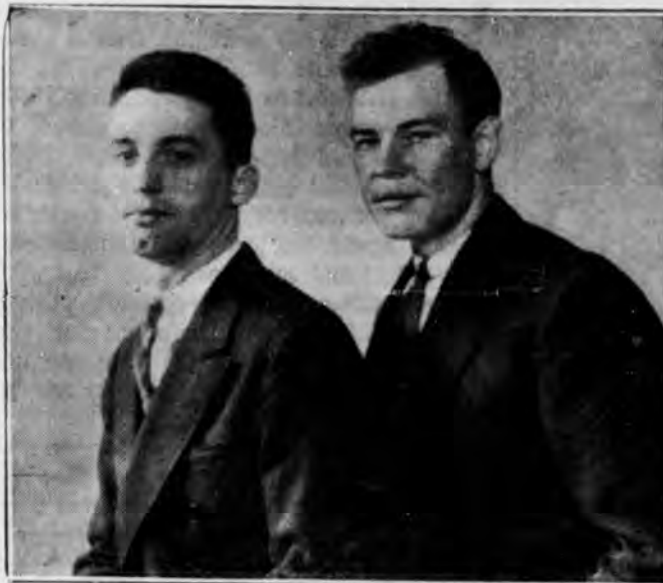

The Student Council adopted unanimously the report of the Committee investigating election procedure in voting for student officers at its meeting Monday evening.

Jack Healy, chairman of the committee, brought in the report, which declared that in the future no proxies would be accepted in any election supervised by the Student Council. A man, however, may enter a meeting, cast his vote, leave it with the Student Council member in charge, and then depart. Such a vote will be valid for as many ballots as the candidate for which it was cast participates in.

The report further stated that a student may vote with the class with which he enters until his fifth year after which he will vote with the preceding class. It was also specified that all nominations must be duly posted.

Joseph Scannell, president of the Council, stated that efforts are still being made to place a student on the Social Committee. Clark Lattin emphasized the necessity of immediate action on this matter. (Continued on Page 6)

Debate Vermont and Penn State

COLLINS J. SEITZ and JOSEPH SCANNELL
Debate co-captains, who will meet Vermont at College Hour next Tuesday morning and Penn State Women's team over Radio Station WDEL in Wilmington Thursday.

Seitz And Scannell To Debate Against Vermont, Penn State

First Meet in College Hour, Second To Be Broadcast Over Radio Thursday; To Use Oregon System.

The Delaware Varsity Debating team will meet both the University of Vermont and Penn State College during the coming week. On Tuesday morning at the regular College Hour program, Joseph Scannell and Collins Seitz will argue the affirmative side of the proposition: "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to regulate maximum hours and minimum wages in industry" against Walter Glass and Bernard Lisman of the University of Vermont. On Thursday, Scannell and Seitz will debate the Penn State Women's Debating team over Station WDEL in Wilmington.

The debate at College Hour, which will be conducted according to the usual Oregon system of cross-examination, will find Scannell and Seitz facing Vermont, one of the strongest forensic combinations in the East, for the second consecutive year. Last year, the teams debated the question of socialized medicine.

Joseph Scannell, who will deliver the affirmative speech for Delaware, is well known on the campus. He is co-captain of the Debating team, President of the Student Council, a member of last year's football squad and an Honor Roll student.

Collins Seitz, the Delaware rebuttal speaker, is co-captain with Scannell of this year's Debating team. He is Vice President of the Senior Class, President of the Humanist Society, a member of the Student Council, and an Honor Roll student.

The Vermont team will use Walter Glass for its affirmative speech. He is connected with the "Cynic" the student newspaper of Vermont, was an active member of the Freshman team last year and is included on the Dean's list. Bernard Lisman, the rebuttal speaker for the New Englanders, is a Social Science student, has been connected with the Vermont paper as news editor and is likewise included on the Dean's list. ## Lab Chief Explains How Technician Helps The G-Man End His Mission

Crime detection is not only clever but it is thrilling and almost uncanny Mr. E. P. Coffey, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation Technical Laboratory, lecturing to a select group of chemistry and pre-medical students, at College Hour Tuesday, revealed a few of the tricks which the Federals employ to track down clever law breakers.

Time permitted only a mere outline of the various and interesting activities of these super-sleuths who make possible the noted achievements of the Big G-Men on the "firing line." The work allotted to these experts comprises such material as investigating questionable documents, extortion letters, bonds, and firearms.

Watermarking, the type of paper used, and other conspicuous features of legal papers are utilized in determining the age and validity of the papers in question. These men become so efficient at their work that the slightest glance will suffice to determine whether or not a paper is fraudulent.

Mr. Coffey gave the humorous example of a reputedly Pre-Revolutionary paper supposing to indicate the whereabouts of hidden treasure and which in reality turned out to be printed on fine Fifth Avenue Linen purchased from Woolworth's five and ten.

Modern bank robbers do their jobs scientifically and no longer fear the idea of stealing bonds and other negotiable papers. But the technicians at the Federal Bureau of Investigation with their powerful infra-red cameras soon detect forged names and serial numbers and trace these stolen papers back to their sources.

Extortion letters are taken more seriously by the recipients than most people would think. Wealthy men have been known to pack up and take their whole family abroad merely because they have received an anonymous letter demanding money. However the letter-writer seems to be a less-intelligent type of criminal, and in most cases the Federal men have been able to get their man.

Mr. Coffey then briefly explained the methods employed by the department in tracing the ownership of firearms, who fired the shot, etc. In closing he stressed the need for intelligent application of these modern scientific crime detectors; for when not used properly they can do more harm than actual good. A scientific background is essential for their proper uses and without the necessary training it is better that our modern law enforcers let them alone.

In Praise Of The Pennsylvanian

We congratulate the Daily Pennsylvanian, student newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania, upon its editorial vigilance in attacking last week the "Roosevelt for King" movement organized recently at Yale University.

It seems that every year, a certain personality or policy is singled out and made the target of student satire. The idea originates in some ambitious undergraduate's mind, is organized on his own campus, and then spreads, like a contagious and malignant disease, to other colleges. The movement becomes widely publicized by the press, giving the students a desired flare of short-lived national attention, after which the group passes into oblivion without any real accomplishment. That is what happened to the so-called "Veterans of Future Wars" organized at Princeton last year, and exactly the same career can be anticipated for this latest child of student hysteria, which we find, strangely enough, springing up this year in the bower of New England ultra-conservatism.

The movement is undoubtedly the result of President Roosevelt's proposed revision of the national judiciary. The organizers feel that his program is nothing short of usurpation of dictatorial power, and, believing that the President will soon be in control of all three branches of our national government, they propose for him a magnificent coronation. He is to be crowned as Franklin I, King of the United States, and Mrs. Roosevelt is to be Queen Eleanor. This is the latest outburst of student satire which was described last week by the Daily Pennsylvanian as a "rattlebrain scheme to attract publicity in complete disregard of all that constitutes good taste."

We agree with the Pennsylvanian. Whether Mr. Roosevelt is right or wrong, he is President of the United States and as such is due the respect of all, especially of college men, who as potential leaders of America, are expected to exhibit some degree of culture and propriety.

America is today emerging from a great crisis. Her future will depend upon the intelligent, unbiased and non-partisan attitude which we assume towards her problems. If we align ourselves with the shallow thinking of hysterical organizations which make a mockery of authority, we shall not only be showing gross discourtesy and disrespect, but we shall find ourselves face to face with the twin consequences of economic collapse and social dislocation. The solving of our ills, national and international, can only become a reality if we approach them calmly, impartially and intelligently.

The students at Delaware prefer the discussion group to the soapbox. This does not imply that they are more conservative than those of other colleges, but rather more progressive, for they realize that real progress towards the solution of our problems can only be obtained through a rational approach. This is Delaware's candid answer to a youth movement which is ridiculous, discourteous and destructive.

There are few places where a student can obtain more practical experience in the art of public speaking than on a debating squad. When we consider the deplorable fact that two years ago, Delaware had no debating team, we feel that we have aroused ourselves noticeably of our forensic apathy during the last year. It was largely through the interest and perseverance of such students as Robert Barab and Edward Davidson that debating as an activity was resurrected at Delaware last season. These men planned a limited schedule and with the splendid encouragement and coaching of Dr. Dunlap and Mr. Willson, a successful team was formed. This year, a Freshman squad has been started along with the Varsity team, and a more extended schedule arranged.

There is still, however, much to be done before Delaware can have the kind of Debating teams she desires. We feel that to obtain this end, there must be a closer relationship between the class of Public Speaking and the team itself. The men who register for that course should be expected to show sufficient interest in forensics to participate actively on the team. The Debating Club should be revitalized and weeks spent in preparatory research and club debates before the actual season begins. The English Department could well lighten the work of several of its instructors so that it would be possible for them to spend more time in coaching and directing the work of the teams. Members of the Alumni and other friends of the University would not be amiss in providing a few scholarships for selected High School students who show promising debating talent.

We believe that debating is here to stay as a permanent activity at Delaware. If the students will realize the essentiality of this activity and come out for the squad next year, several extended tours can easily be arranged. We can think of few things as beneficial to the prestige of a college or university as an extended tour of a competent debating team.

The heavy snow storm of Monday brought to light the fact that we have some clever sculptors on our campus. Several caricatures in snow were formed just opposite to Wolf Hall. There was also a diametrical four foot snow ball rolled to a spot where it could no longer be moved. When snow was stacked upon this huge ball, it reached a height of almost ten feet.

Frog Visits The Yankees

BY JEAN N. BAILLY

New York.—America is a free country, that is true, but anyway it is more difficult to land in New York than to go to Italy or Germany. Before sailing, you have to pass medical exams, to pay a visit to the American Consul, to fill long sheets of paper on which you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth . . . and that you are not an anarchist, or an idiot, etc. It's sometimes hard to tell! Not in my case of course! Then, if the immigration and custom officers like your "phiz," you are allowed to leave the boat, after having been kept waiting for hours.

Thanks to Dean Dutton's letters and to my good looks (says you), I was not taken to Ellis Island but to the International House which is a beautiful home for students located on Riverside Drive. For ten days, I lived in New York, and to tell the truth, I did not like it. Of course, I must admit that the Empire State, the Woolworth building and many others are wonderful, that the shop windows of Fifth Avenue are the finest in the world, that theatres like Radio City and the Roxy are sumptuous and offer splendid shows. I must wonder with Jules Romain at Times Square's endless life. But nevertheless, I must say or write that I soon got tired of being surrounded by huge walls all the time. My five feet compared to the high skyscrapers made me feel like two cents worth of platinum.

New York is like a boy affected by gigantism: it has grown up too quickly. Its lungs are atrophied. It lacks air and space. It needs more parks like Central Park, more squares like Times Square.

Besides, life in New York is too mechanical, too automatic. In the beginning I was rather amused to see self-opening doors and to put nickels and dimes into slots. One day even, I had a funny adventure on the Empire State. I saw a thing which, I thought, was a weighing machine, so I stood upon it, put a dime in the slot, and waited. Then I saw many lights, and to my great surprise, read these words: "Begin to speak," which made me realize (better late than never) that I was standing on . . . a recording machine!

I admired the usefulness of the blocks and of the red lights. But after a few days I thought that all these modern systems made life very monotonous.

Everywhere I found the same barber shops, the same restaurants, where the same waitress used to bring me, on her own initiative, the same glass of iced water.

My individualism rebelled; I was acting like an automaton. Like Charlie Chaplin in "Modern Times," I wanted to have a table for myself instead of sitting on high stools, by all kinds of unknown persons who did not talk, or even notice me. I was dying to say something, but I had only to press buttons and to put coins in slot-machines.

I could not even think or dream, I felt lonely in this big town, lost in the middle of beings who did not seem to be living.

Seat of the Scornful

To revive an old favorite, Little Audrey was visiting a newspaper plant in New York. While looking at the press, a madman came in, seized Little Audrey and threw her into the press. But Little Audrey just laughed and laughed and laughed, because she knew she wasn't the type.

Apparently Joe Perkins made a slight mistake in his column last week. He inferred that the German swastika is an ancient Indian symbol denoting good luck. For the benefit of Joe and those who read his column, I would like to say that the German swastika has no connection with the Indian symbol. The German swastika is a derivative from the Greek letter "gamma" and points toward the right, while the Indian symbol with its sole meaning of good luck points toward the left.

Sincerely,
Bill McIlvain

SCHOLASTIC STANDING OF STUDENTS IN DELAWARE COLLEGE—FIRST TERM, 1936-1937

March 15, 1937

Announcement has just been made by Dean G. E. Dutton of the scholastic standing of students of Delaware College of the University of Delaware for the first term of the college year of 1936-1937. The index numbers used in his report have the following significance: the number 3 denotes an average of A (the highest possible average); the number 2 denotes an average of B; the number 1 denotes an average of C. No student who is taking fewer hours than those required in his curriculum is eligible for the Honor Roll (except students who have accumulated extra credits).

The average scholastic standing of the entire student body of Delaware College for the first term was 1.03. The average for students from Delaware was 1.03; the average for out-of-state students was 1.04.

Note: Students who were graduated from a four-year high school and attended another preparatory school for one year before entering the University of Delaware are classified as representing the school from which they were first graduated.

WHEN Hollywood wants to film a scene requiring hundreds of "extras," it makes a telephone call—and gets them.

This is made possible by a central casting bureau, whose amazingly fast service is based on systematic use of the telephone. This organization has a telephone switchboard where as many as 30,000 calls a day are handled in bringing actors and producers together.

Another example of the value of telephone service to business and social America. It is the constant aim of Bell System men and women to make it ever more useful—constantly better.

Summary of Swimming Season Shows Fair Record

Participating in twelve meets this year, the Blue Hen natators won four and lost eight. The tank team garnered 366 points during the season, while 439 points were annexed by the opposition. Only three men on the squad will receive letters, namely, Captain Kenworthy, Bob Lippincott, and Randall Carpenter. Lippincott was high scorer, amassing a total of 67.5 points. Kenworthy breasted his way through the water for 58 points, while Carpenter scored 36.

FENCING TEAM GOES DOWN TO TWO DEFEATS

The Delaware fencing team met defeat twice last week-end, losing to Lehigh by a score of 11 to 6 on Friday, and to Drew University, 9 to 8, on Saturday. Against Lehigh, Captain George Vapaa won two matches in the epee division, while Paul Trader won two in the foils. James Hull was also a double winner for Delaware, winning one match in each of the foils and epee events. The match against Drew University of Madison, N. J., was closely contested, Drew nosing out the visitors by a single point. Captain Vapaa and Jimmy Hull again starred for the Blue Hens. Vapaa scored in every division, taking two matches in the epees, and one in each of the foils and sabres events. Hull captured two wins in the foils and two in the epees. Summaries:

Mr. Charles Mebus Talks To Civil Engineers Here

Last Tuesday night the local branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers was addressed by Mr. Charles Mebus, a prominent consulting engineer from Philadelphia, who spoke to the "Civils" about sewerage. Kent Preston presented a technical paper in preparation for the A. S. C. E. student conference to be held at Villanova.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edward C. Bardo, head of the Physical Education Department has announced that beginning Monday, March 22, the gym will be kept open until 10 p. m. Should attendance later warrant it, the closing time will be extended to 10.30 p. m. Physical Education majors will be in charge as usual.

WITH THE BLUE AND GOLD

By Fenton Carey

In answer to "Groundhog," who does not think that Delaware needs a new gymnasium, may we make a few pertinent remarks. First, we believe that the term muscle-brains is not applicable to the type of athlete found at Delaware, and we resent the implication. Last year, the scholastic average of the training house, where the majority of athletes live, compared favorably with that of any fraternity on the campus. (Statistics on request.)

Groundhog asks, "Why build a new gym?" The Physical Education Department does not ask for something out of the ordinary in its request for a new gym. All that it asks are facilities equivalent to those enjoyed by other schools of our size, adequate for carrying out a well rounded program in physical education, and intercollegiate athletics. Every student knows that the Physical Education Department is seriously handicapped in its effort to provide suitable sports and recreation for all. The intramural program, for example, is limited by lack of floor space. Activities carried on in the service courses are also limited. The popular misconception seems to be that a gymnasium is for the sole use and benefit of varsity athletic teams. Were this the objective of the physical educators, a field house would be their logical choice. Then Delaware teams would be able to meet their early season opponents with more than a few days of outdoor practice behind them. A field house, too, would probably be more easily obtained as the cost would not be so great.

We all have friends who attend our athletic contests, and we do not point with pride at our antiquated gymnasium. Each year, some 400 schoolboys are attracted to the Delaware Interscholastic Track Meet. The gym is practically the only criteria by which they judge our institution. Remember, these are all prospective students.

Groundhog states that Delaware athletes are not "simon-pure." Perhaps he does not know that the University does not assist athletes financially in any way. Any help that an athlete receives here is derived from a private source. Schools, no matter how high their amateur standards may be, cannot prevent alumni from paying an athlete's tuition, even if they desired to do so.

The question has been raised as to what building should be constructed first. Is not the physical welfare of the student body just as important as his mental development, i. e. "a sound mind in a sound body"? We believe so, and it will take more than the arguments of a few neuro-muscular morons to make us believe otherwise. We feel that Groundhog, contrary to his statement, really knows very little concerning the University, especially the aspect he chose to write about. His letter of last week bore an appropriate signature for he seems to have been hibernating for quite some time not to have seen the need for a new gym. We believe that now he has seen his shadow, he should crawl back in his hole and pull it in after him.

NEW INTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES ARE ANNOUNCED BY SHIELDS

Lew Carey To Captain Hen Quintet for 1937-38 Season

The Athletic Council recently announced the selection of Lewis Carey to captain next year's court team. Lew was elected by the unanimous vote of the six letter men. Lew, playing a forward position, was high scorer of the recent basketball season with 127 points. He will also lead the tennis team this Spring. A four-letter man, Lew still finds time to maintain a high scholastic average.

Sig Epsilon Formal To Be Held Tonight

Frank La Marr's orchestra will furnish the music for the twenty-ninth annual formal dance of the Delaware Alpha Chapter of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity tonight. The dance will be given in Old College and will last from nine o'clock tonight until two tomorrow morning.

Robert J. Jamison, chairman of the social committee and Hial Pepper, assistant chairman have planned the dance. The decorations are in purple and red, the fraternity's colors. Cellophane has been used extensively in the decorating. Programs are also in purple and red.

La Marr's orchestra has had engagements at Radio City; the Arcadia Ballroom, New York City; the Ambassador Hotel; and the Steel Pier, Atlantic City. Ginger Lee will sing the vocal choruses.

In the receiving line will be Dr.

Delaware's chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will meet in Room 308, Evans Hall, on Monday for the purpose of electing new officers. On Tuesday night, April 13, this group will hold a meeting in Room 308. A qualified speaker will present a short lecture of technical nature. Anyone interested is invited.

Seitz, Scannell Debate Vermont, Penn State

The debate will commence at 11.45 p. m. on Tuesday. Dr. Joseph S. Gould, head of the Department of Economics of Delaware, will act as Chairman of the debate.

The meeting of the Delaware team with Penn State College will be something of a novelty in that it will bring the Delaware team up against its first women's team competitor in many years. Scannell and Seitz will also represent Delaware in this debate, and take the affirmative side of the same proposition to be used in the Vermont debate. The exact time for this debate over WDEL in Wilmington has not yet been definitely fixed, but will be announced next week in the Wilmington papers.

The Delaware Varsity team is in the midst of its most active season in the last several years. Monday, Collins Seitz and Robert Barab debated against Rutgers University over Station WDEL in Wilmington. The favorable response received by the station concerning this debate has been very gratifying to the team. Arrangements for further debates in April are now being made. It is expected that the team will meet Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall and Villanova during April.

Mr. Laurence Willson, of the English Department faculty, is coach of the Debating team this year.

An alert reporter at the University of New Mexico recently recorded one-sentence interviews from people, taken at random, while filing out of a lecture hall. What did they think of professors in this category?

"It's flattering to the students." "It is very unjust."

Leslie Howard says Luckies are "tops" with his throat

"Years ago, as an ambitious young actor, I was impressed how well my throat liked Luckies and how well they suited my idea of a perfect cigarette. That impression still stands. In my recent tour of 'Hamlet', with its many performances each week and the attendant tax on my throat, I have been convinced anew that this light smoke is both delightful to my taste and the 'top' cigarette for an actor's throat."

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Howard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Fifteen Graduates Initiated Saturday Into Tau Beta Pi

Last Saturday afternoon the Delaware Alpha Chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society, held its annual initiation at which 15 graduates of the University of Delaware, one undergraduate, and one graduate of Penn State College became members. The following men were initiated on the basis of academic and professional achievement: S. L. Conner, class of 1897; C. B. Shaffer, '06; J. W. Hanson, Jr.; F. S. Price, '07; E. G. Smyth, '17; J. W. Humphrey, '19; H. Ickler, '25; E. H. Beatty, '27; W. L. Ellis, '27; J. E. Harper, '27; W. G. Lohmann, '27; J. M. Maddox, Jr., '27; C. C. Hanby, '27; E. W. Stiles, '28; H. D. Simpson, '30; H. S. Stanton, Penn State College, '08; and undergraduate, W. B. Roberts, '38.

After the initiation a banquet was held in the small dining room in Old College with W. K. Benson, Jr., president of the Delaware Alpha Chapter, as toastmaster.

Nevin E. Funk, vice-president of the Philadelphia Electric Company, talked on the subject "What Makes the Engineer." He discussed desirable traits of an engineer, economics of engineering, materials of construction, proper handling of men, picking the right job, and the need for a thorough grounding in English. Other speakers included:

Samuel L. Conner, professor and head of the Civil Engineering Department of Tufts College, who talked on "Present Trends in Engineering;" Major C. B. Shaffer, consultant at Koppers Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on "Aiding in the Placement of College Graduates in Engineering;" and Dean R. L. Spencer, on "Accomplishments of Tau Beta Pi."

During the day a radiogram was received by the Delaware Alpha Chapter from the S. S. Kungsholm, expressing felicitations from Allan Johnson, Tau Beta Pi member and a graduate of the University of Delaware in 1921, who is now a director of Anthracite Institute.

Two Delaware graduates, G. H. Calhoun, '28, at the University of Texas and Chester Smith, '17, at Michigan State College, will also be initiated this month for Delaware at their respective schools.

Student Council Adopts Election Committee Report

A discussion of the proposed Spring Frolic was held, it being decided that nothing could be planned definitely until the exact amount of the Council's appropriation was determined.

Robert Vandegrift, president of the Athenaeum Society, submitted a detailed statement of expenditures of the club in defense of a previous charge that the society's funds were being used for purposes other than those for which they had been allocated by the Council. Edward Wilson, who had originated the charge, questioned the right of the Athenaeum to use their funds for refreshments. Following this, a debate raged on the floor between Wilson and other members of the Council who defended the attitude of this Society. The basic question at stake was whether or not the Council should continue to give grants of money to those clubs which request them and not to other organizations. It was averred by several members that each club should function financially independent of the Student Council by collecting dues.
