City Employees Distribute Baskets Of Food On Friday To Needy Families In Area As Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey Again Heads Newark Area Welfare Committee Project

The Newark Area Welfare Committee provided 137 Christmas food baskets last Friday for needy families in the area, with Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey again heading this annual project conducted by the welfare group for more than a quarter-century.

Baskets were distributed by Newark municipal employees in city trucks, with Ben Campagna and Hub Hannagan of the staff, coordinating delivery.

Big South encouraged the Newark Area Welfare Committee to provide the 137 baskets of food for the needy once at Christmas and for the third successive year Newark had a real White Christmas with heavy snow falling last night.

One of the best years for the welfare committee was the year it was formed with the Newark Area Welfare Committee Christmas food basket project. Mrs. Dickey, who has been in charge of the project since 1938, expressed appreciation to all who helped with the project and delivery of the Yuletide food.

Baskets are distributed to families recommended by local clergymen, social workers, and school teachers. The baskets contain a ham or turkey, canned goods, and other necessities.

Andrew G. Freeman Heads Production At Chrysler Plant

Andrew G. Freeman has been named general production superintendent of Chrysler's Newark assembly plant.

The appointment was announced by C. E. Foshier, Jr., new plant manager, who succeeds James G. Sargent.

Freeman has served as product quality engineering manager at the plant since August, 1961. He joined Chrysler in 1958 as a tool engineer at the Evansville (Ind.) assembly plant and advanced successively to chief engineer, chief inspector, and quality manager.

Freeman was named quality manager of the St. Louis plant in 1958. He held that position until 1961 when he was transferred to Newark.

Freeman lives at 10 Kathryn Court, Heritage Park.

Freeman is married and has two children. He is a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church.

Freeman was born in 1918 in Evansville, Ind. He attended the University of Illinois and received a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering in 1940.

Freeman was employed by the Ford Motor Company from 1940 to 1942. He then joined Chrysler and has been with the company ever since.

Former LWV Head Named Executive For Housing Group

Mrs. Margo Perkins To Aid Newark Housing Authority As Paid Executive Director

Named executive director of the Newark Housing Authority last week, Mrs. Margo Perkins will begin work Jan. 2, on a part-time basis at a salary of $3,000 per year. The size of the Newark public housing program does not yet warrant a full-time director, according to Avery H. Goddin, authority chairman.

A native of Montclair, N. J., Mrs. Perkins received her bachelor of architecture degree from Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. She worked as an architect in New York and Montclair and assisted with work in a survey of Levittown schools, conducted by New York University. She was licensed as an architect in New Jersey in 1953.

Mr. Perkins moved to Newark from Montclair in 1954, shortly after she and Joseph R. Perkins, an electrical consultant with DuPont, were married.

"Now that the basic preliminaries are finished in setting up the authority," Mrs. Perkins said, "the executive director has to carry out the orders of the authority and make it an active agency. There will be plenty to do, first working with the builders and then running the housing units."

Mrs. Perkins, who resides at 403 West Chestnut Hill Road, served two terms as president of the Newark League of Women Voters and was chairman of a study committee on Newark housing conditions, which led to the writing of the city's minimum housing ordinance.

The authority is planning two projects, one for the elderly and the other a low-rent housing area.

Dukart, who heads the McDonald's restaurants in Newark and on Kirkwood Highway, announced that nothing will be sold from 11 to 1 p.m. on New Year's Eve, but that he and Chirfel, who manages the Kirkwood Highway drive-in, will provide the free coffee for all comers in an extra two-hour volunteer shift.

Two Newark students at Wells College, Aurora, N. Y., are home for the Christmas holidays.

The local students are Carolyn P. Colburn, Class of 1964, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter A. Dukart, and Constance J. Reinhardt, Class of '65, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown Reinhardt.

Interior Dept. Biologists At Delaware
Offer Aid To Control Blackbird Damage

Blackbirds by the thousands are causing economic havoc to many Delaware field crops.

There is no simple solution to the problem, but John T. Linehan, U. S. Department of Interior biologist stationed at the University of Delaware, has ideas he feels will help farmers control much of the damage caused by these birds. Linehan and Allen Stickle, another USDI biologist, have been working on the Delaware blackbird problem for several years. Linehan has been at the university for nine years, and Stickle for three.

Linehan cautions on the use of the term "control" since this indicates some type of "war" waged against the birds. He prefers to think of their work at the university as blackbird depredation control — that is, control of damage done by the birds rather than controlling the birds themselves.

Attempts to reduce bird damage, come from the traditional scarecrow to elaborate noise-producing devices.

In Florida where damage is particularly costly, use of toxicants and reproduction inhibitors has been given serious consideration.

So far crop protection seems to be the best control method.

In Delaware, principal damage has been to corn, fruits and melons. Ed Schabinger, New Castle County agent, says damage to corn has been so severe that many farmers have switched to soybeans rather than take a chance with the blackbirds.

One of the most promising developments in the area of crop protection is in the use of resistant varieties. Linehan says any cultural practice that a farmer can use to reduce or discourage damage offers real benefits.

"What may be profitable for one grower may work for another. In Florida, damage to sweet corn is so great farmers use elaborate measures to protect their field from the birds," Linehan reports.

"In Delaware the problem isn't that great and won't justify the same all-out efforts," he added.

As a general recommendation he offers these suggestions: grow corn on areas where damage is least apt to occur — this means away from wetlands and marshes.

Choose a variety that is resistant to bird damage — although not all corn varieties have been tested some are more resistant to damage than others.

Plant corn so it will mature at a time when damage is at a minimum — about mid-August. Corn that matures earlier or later than this is apt to receive considerably more damage.

Be prepared to fight off birds by all available means. He suggests writing for a publication "Protecting Corn From Blackbirds," Wildlife Leaflet 385 available from the University of Delaware school of agriculture.

Three Students Head Plans Of Conference On Smoking

A three-member senior student advisory committee has been named to head planning for the second annual high school conference on smoking and health.

Named to the group are Ruth Jack, Brandywine High School, and chairman of last year's student committee; Vito W. Accetta, Jr., Dover High, and Lorraine Warrington, Georgetown High School.

The trio will form the nucleus of a student committee to plan a statewide conference on smoking for students in Delaware high schools.

The conference conducted with the assistance of the Delaware division, American Cancer Society, Delaware Heart Association, and Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society, will be held in Dover on Jan. 25.

Santa Visits Children of Bridge Employees

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., (D-Del.) has urged all interested business concerns and professional organizations in Delaware to submit pertinent information to Richard L. ## G. Gorham Lane Presents Report On State's Aging

Local Professor At U. D. Cites Needs For Program To Aid Senior Citizens

A seven-point improvement program to meet the needs of the state's growing number of citizens over 65 was presented to Governor Elbert N. Carvel recently by Dr. G. Gorham Lane of Newark, acting director of the state's division of the aging, and Mrs. Herbert E. Dadds, chairman of the Delaware Citizens Council on Aging.

As spokesman for the division and principal author of the report, Dr. Lane, professor of psychology at the University of Delaware, said that in 1960, the number of persons over 65 in Delaware was nearly 36,000. Statistical studies indicate that this number will continue to grow.

"Citizens who are 65 years of age and older are a primary concern of the division," Lane said, "and their problems are not unrelated to those of all Delaware citizens. Alleviation of some of the problems which face older citizens is one facet of the task which the division of the aging must face."

"Another facet, and one that is equally important, concerns the preparation of younger citizens for their own aging," Lane said. "Still another facet of the problem is the education of all Delawareans to the implications of an increasing older citizenry."

The division of the aging established within trustees of the state welfare home and hospital for the chronically ill at Smyrna, was created in 1959. Its earliest activities included preparation of delegates who represented the state at the White House Conference on Aging.

Lane said that educational activities should include programs to inform citizens about the processes of aging and the needs of older citizens to prepare citizens to adequately meet the problems of old age; to prepare older citizens for retirement; and to train older citizens for suitable employment, or for constructive use of leisure time.

"All state agencies serving older persons should be urged to continue to lead the community in recognizing the personal worth and value of each older citizen, thus insuring the dignity of all citizens of the state," Lane said.

"Recognition of the older citizen must include the planning for flexible retirement policies; availability of part-time and part-time employment; adequate old age assistance programs for those in need; and adequate medical care."

Copies of the report may be obtained by writing to Division of the Aging, Box 355, Newark.

Enrollment In UD School Of Agriculture Increases With Urban Student Interest

There is a revolution going on in American agriculture, and it is having its effect at the University of Delaware.

More than one-half of the 264 agriculture students at the university come from urban or suburban areas, and 40 per cent of the 1963 graduating class are continuing formal education by working toward master's degrees in seven universities.

Sixteen members of last year's graduating class are employed by firms in industries manufacturing and selling equipment and supplies to farmers, or by firms processing and marketing agricultural crops.

Dr. William E. McDaniel, director of resident instruction in the school of agriculture, says the emphasis in formal instruction in the school has shifted to basic scientific and academic subjects.

"This change in emphasis has resulted in an increasing number of non-farm boys and girls selecting the school of agriculture for their academic pursuits," McDaniel reports.

McDaniel says the shift has been from vocational subjects to the study of agriculture as an industry and a science.

"This has meant emphasis on courses in the humanities, economics, and the social and biological sciences. These courses better prepare our graduates for jobs in the agribusiness complex which now employs 30 to 40 per cent of the nation's working force," he added.

One of the results of the change has been that enrollment in Delaware's school of agriculture has not declined as has been the case in many other colleges of agriculture across the country.

McDaniel believes the trend toward more scientific courses in the undergraduate program has also helped Delaware students prepare for and gain entrance into graduate schools of some of the nation's best colleges.

Members of the 1963 class are doing graduate work at Clemson, Cornell, Purdue, Ohio State, Arizona, Maryland and Delaware.

Their undergraduate preparation has also helped Delaware graduates secure better jobs.

McDaniel says starting salaries for 1963 graduates ranged from $4,000 to $6,500. He believes this is the highest average of any class of the school of agriculture to date.

24.5 More Acres
Given University
By W. W. Lairds

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lairds have donated 24.5 more acres of local land to the University of Delaware.

The Lairds gave the university 27 acres earlier this year.

The Lairds own 114 acres more in the same area.

The tract is on the east side of New London Road, near Parkside Crest and extends to Midway Hill on the south and to White Clay Creek on the east.

Dr. Bruce J. Partridge, business administrator of the university, said the second gift.

"The gift of this land has not been done before. The university is grateful for its needs and generosity of the Lairds and for student donations."

Donald Dean Wins Publications Post With ASCE Group

Dr. Donald I. Dean, professor of civil engineering at the University of Delaware, has been elected chairman of the publications committee for the engineering mechanics division of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

As chairman of the publication committee, Dean will serve as technical editor for the Society's division journal, the "Journal of Engineering Mechanics," which is published quarterly.

These responsibilities are in addition to those Dean has as secretary of the engineering mechanics division, a position he has held since 1961.

Engineering mechanics is a search-oriented division of ASCE, with a membership of 4,700.

merry CHRISTMAS GREETINGS to all

Editor's Note: Thanksgiving? This material was intended for our Thanksgiving Day edition of the Newark Post, but our space limitations prevented its use at that time. Christmas is Thanksgiving time, too, and we are thankful for a wonderful Christmas yesterday. And thanks to the citizens of Plymouth in Massachusetts, for perpetuation of the original Thanksgiving program. Merry Christmas, with Thanksgiving, too!

Late in March of 1621 concluded a peace treaty with the Indians which was to last for fifty years.

Thanksgiving at PLIMOTH PLANTATION

FIRST THANKSGIVING AT PLIMOTH PLANTATION

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING celebrated at Plymouth in 1621 was a harvest festival, a gathering of family, friends and neighbors, and a time of games and feasting.

Almost half of the original 102 Pilgrims had survived the first winter. They had labored long and hard to build a village and plant crops. When their harvest was gathered, they celebrated.

In writing to a friend in England describing the First Thanksgiving, one of the Pilgrims said: "Our harvest being gotten in, our Governor William Bradford sent four men on fowling; so that we might after a more special manner, rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours. They four, on one day, killed as much fowl as, with a little help besides served the company almost a week."

"And among the rest, their (the Indians) greatest king, Massasoit, with some ninety men, whom for three days, we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five deer; which they brought to the Plantation and bestowed on our Governor, and upon the Captain (Myles Standish) and others."

In describing this Thanksgiving, which set the pattern for the traditional American celebration, other writers tell of foot racing, wrestling, exercising arms (infantry drill) and pitching the bar.

These scenes were acted out by citizens of Plymouth, Massachusetts, many of whom are descendants of those who celebrated the First Thanksgiving. Appropriately enough, the setting was at Plimoth Plantation, an outdoor museum where the first Pilgrim settlement is being re-created.

The Indians were invited to join the Pilgrims in celebrating a bountiful harvest.

When the multi-colored flint corn, which the Indians had taught the Pilgrims to plant, was harvested it had to be shelled and ground into a meal.

Although the First Thanksgiving was a harvest festival, the Pilgrims blessed their food and thanked God for a bountiful harvest.

When it was time to carve the bird, there were plenty of spectators.

Athletic events and contests of skill between Pilgrims and Indians made for another part of our Thanksgiving tradition.

Holiday greetings to one and all!

Mrs. Ella Harrison was elected president of the Hockessin Fire Company Auxiliary at its December session. She succeeds Mrs. Marie Taylor.

Other officers chosen are Mrs. James McGroarty, vice-president; Mrs. Thomas Watson, secretary; Mrs. Curtis Weiss, assistant secretary; Mrs. Arthur Connor, treasurer; Dorothy Crossen, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Weiss and Mrs. Dale Seymour were appointed to attend the county meeting in 1964. Alternates are Mrs. McGroarty, Mrs. Howard Cox, and Mrs. Harold Swede.

The Auxiliary cleared $110 from the card party sponsored for the Trooper Robert Paris fund.

New officers will be installed on Jan. 20 by Mrs. Catherine Jenkins of Marshallton, county president.

Mrs. Marie Taylor has been chosen publicity chairman for the County Auxiliary Association.

The fire company assisted by Auxiliary members packed two baskets for the needy, 14 boxes of fruit for shut-ins, and will take flowers to the aged.

Union Grange had a Christmas program last Wednesday evening with Mrs. Paul Ayers in charge.

There was a candlelight service with Mrs. Daniel Harris, reader, and Mrs. Louise H. Dempsey representing the green, red, and white candles.

The group sang carols and played games.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Harris will entertain officers next Monday night for a planning session.

Harmony Juvenile Grangers assisted by guest talent entertained the adult unit at a Christmas program. Mrs. Albert Conaway, juvenile matron, arranged the entertainment.

Norman Dempsey, subordinate master, welcomed members of both units and guests numbering over 100. W. H. Navel, Jr., juvenile master, introduced Mrs. Conaway.

The grange was honored to have Sharon Bounds, Little Miss America and honorary Miss Universe, as a special guest.

The play "The Magic Toy Store" for joy" was given by Linda Boudin, Jeffery Navel, Debbie Santow, Don Pierce, Ned Williams, Tammy Conaway, Howard Crossen, Jr., Herbert Cornelius, Jr., Virginia Sholik, Jane Hall, Irving Brown, and Judith Hall. Songs were sung by Don Pierce and Tammy Conaway.

A play "The Magic Toy Store" was enacted by Irving Brown, Linda Lamborn, Alice Pierce, Paula and Debbie Santow, Virginia Brown, Robert Pierce, Debbie Cox, and W. H. Navel. Carolyn Jarrell sang a solo. Gary Lamborn had a closing recitation.

Junior and senior Meadowettes from Miss Dottie's Dancing School gave tap, ballet, and modern dance numbers.

Hagley Gert of Wilmington as Babo the Clown, entertained with tricks of magic.

Santa Claus came with gifts for all the children.

The juveniles are taking a basket of food to a needy family for Christmas.

Farmers Advised

On Tax Planning

For Extra Dollars

One of the biggest income-producing jobs that a farmer can do during the next few days is tax planning. W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware, says many farmers can save tax dollars if they sit down now with their tax records and do a little figuring.

But he warns this must be done before the first of January if it is going to help on this year's taxes.

He says the more you even out your taxable income from year to year, the less tax you will have to pay. McAllister suggests getting out record books now and adding up the columns to get an idea of your likely taxable income for this year.

One thing to consider while checking your records is the proposed tax bill that may reduce a farmer's tax rate by 20 per cent.

Another important item to consider is the investment credit regulation. Under certain conditions, it permits a farmer to deduct directly from his tax bill, up to seven per cent of the cost of certain new and used property.

McAllister suggests getting a copy of the Farmer's Tax Guide as an aid to income tax problems. They are available by writing to him or to your county agent.

John J. Dumel Qualifies

For Florida Award Trip

Coach Ron Miller Names Varsity Vikings For Christiana's 1st Basketball Season

Ronald Miller, coach for the new Christiana High School basketball team, has announced his varsity Viking squad after preliminary practice for the 18-game schedule opening Jan. 7 with visiting Brandywine at 4 p.m.

The six seniors on Coach Miller's squad include two starters from Coach Bob Turner's Yellow-jacket basketball varsity at Newark High School last season — Ken Eggleston and Doug Hunt. Eggleston was co-captain and quarter-back, and Hunt was an end for Turner's Viking gridgers during Christiana's recent, first campaign.

Tom Palmer, Isaac Sizemore, Dan Sullivan, and John Viteusky are seniors bidding for starting roles with Miller's varsity Vikings, along with Keith Handling, Fred McCullough, John Sterrett, and Steve Williams, juniors; Tom Chidester, Dave Graber, and Tony Tomme, sophomores; and David Clauss, the lone freshman.

Christiana will play alternately at home and away, with all games following the 4 o'clock opener with Brandywine to begin at 6:30 p.m. as Coach Nial Minton's junior varsity Vikings take the floor in preliminary tests.

The Vikings will play Brandywine, Mt. Pleasant, Conrad, P. S. du Pont, Dickinson, Delaware, William Penn, Newark, and Wilmington High School in two meetings each.

The Christiana cagers will conclude the 1964 season at home with Wilmington's Red Devils on March 6. Athletic Director Carmen P. Lato reports.

"He may not look so big," Carson Roselle said, indicating the 32-in. bonito on the living room wall of his home in Newark, "but that raspy and mean pulled my arms out of my sockets."

"And my son Bob," Mr. Roselle continued, referring to his 1963 center for Coach Bob Hoffman's Blue Hen Conference champion Yellow-jackets, "wondered why I was having so much trouble with a fish of that size after we finally got the bonito aboard. And then Bob hooked one, and now he knows," Dad Roselle concluded.

Nothing fights any harder than a bonito, and a 32-in., 18-lb. specimen such as Carson Roselle had mounted by Al Pfeiffer — and a beautiful thing it is, too, with all the natural iridescence and blue-green striped back and silver sided pattern of the living torpedo — is a whopper for this class of marine marauder. The Roselle bonito was taken in the Gulf Stream just off Miami Beach, and is nine times the size of the average bonito taken off the Delaware coast out of the Indian River Inlet.

A couple of years ago, fishing out of Lewes with Capt. Charles Bill Murray, Francis Neide, and Gibby Young, we latched into several 10-lb. bonito amid some 40 tuna running to 15-lbs. in a memorable bit of fishing, indeed. And the silvered slashing bonito bombs with their horizontal running were in pleasant contrast with the deep-diving tuna tuggers.

Big Bill Murray, no slouch in the physical fitness department, was out of action for some quarter-hour after a bruising bonito battle.

NHS Beats Alumni As Saunders Bros. Top Team Scoring

The Saunders brothers were high scorers in the opening test of the basketball season for Newark High School Coach Francis Fulghum's Yellow-jackets, with younger brother Norris scoring 19 points in leading the Jackets to the 68-64 win over the NHS Alumni, while Arnold Saunders rang up 17 for the grads.

Dave Dolgas with 12 points, and Carl Rice, 16, were runners-up in the scoring departments for the Yellow-jacket varsity and alumni squads.

Newark opens its Blue Hen Conference campaign on Tuesday, Jan. 7, at Mt. Pleasant High School.

"And the false albino is a different fish, entirely," Andy Biasotto maintains after some serious study of the entire tuna family which embraces a host of near twin cousins.

"We think it's a Cooper's hawk," Stanley Gibbs said yesterday, after conferring with sons Phil and Terry and a bird book. And the teacher and former Newark High School coach was about as close to being right as one can get. The bird was a sharpshinned hawk, a miniature of the Cooper's and identical except for size, and square instead of rounded tail feathers.

The sharpshin was found by Mr. Gibbs, dead but still warm and limp, on the ground in front of the plate glass window of the Newark Country Club, and the obvious supposition is that the hawk was in hot pursuit of a feathered prey when it crashed cold into a window pane. Harold Stanley picked up a big Cooper's hawk in the same fashion after it had hit a picture window in pigeon pursuit at the Stanley Delaplante Manor home.

The sharpshin and Cooper's are two of three members of the Accipiter group in our American birds of prey. The third is the biggest and toughest — the goshawk of the North that occasionally visits Delaware. All are designed by Nature to prey upon other birds, and with broad, rounded wings; long tails; slim, trim, superbly muscled bodies and long, powerful legs, they attain tremendous momentum in flying hard and low amid wooded thickets in pursuit of their flying quarry.

These three are the "chicken hawks" of the farmer, and the high-flying red-tails, red-shoulders, and broad-winged hawks that draw the attention and smooth-bored blast of the plagued, poultry-nifted peasant, suffer for depredations of these three low-flying, darting, inconspicuous members of the hawk family.

For further confusion, the three Accipiters change color as they mature. The young birds are mottled brown and white, with regal yellow eyes, and as they age, the eyes turn red, and the back feathers become slate blue, while the breast feathers of the sharpshin and Cooper's become white with rust-red pencilled tracery, and the great goshawk wears a black and white vest instead.

The Gibbs hawk was a young one—brown and white. The older ones know better.

How desperately difficult it is to be honest with oneself. It is much easier to be honest with other people.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Quick Change

With the onset of winter racing, and a consequent increase in competition for mounts, many jockeys either sit the slow months out, if they can afford it, or seek jobs on breeding farms or in other fields. Five New England riders last year pioneered a new field for off-season work. Ronnie Fisher, John Henry Smith, Al Garry, Jimmy Testa and John Vitelli not alone solved their own problem, but took care of a problem facing builders of the Polarizing nuclear submarines at the General Dynamics, Electric Boat plant at Groton, Conn.

It seems there are spots in these subs that average-sized men can't reach for painting, bolt-tightening, wiring, etc. The jockeys, however, were used to tight spots and while small, they had brains and muscle to contribute. So satisfactory was their work they were asked to stay on when racing resumed this Spring and two did. Ronnie Fisher earned a special commendation for a particularly difficult job of installing over 500 strain gages in inaccessible spots, and he too planned to return to work on the subs after one more season of race riding.

Jon Heuberger Scores Pin As Hens Defeat Lafayette

Newark's Jon Heuberger pinned his opponent in the 137-lb. class, as Coach Paul Billy's University of Delaware varsity wrestlers defeated Lafayette 26-6 on Wednesday of last week at Carpenter Fieldhouse.

George Kelly at 147, scored the other pin for the Fightin' Blue Hens. The Delaware frosh defeated the Yearling Leopards 16-10.

The Blue Hen matmen return to action on Jan. 8 at Albright.

Saul Savitch, Doug McMinn Head State Golf Ass'n Two Newark men were elected last week to head the Delaware State Golf Association.

Saul Savitch, manager of the Eagle Furniture Store on Main Street, and Brandywine Country Club golf champion, was elected DSGA president, and Douglas McMinn, Avon official and former baseball and basketball star, was elected vice-president.

Rawstrom's Mermen Lose In Dual Meet At Bucknell LEWISBURG, Pa. — Bucknell Coach Harry Rawstrom's Delaware swimming team, 76-19, in a dual meet here last Thursday.

The Blue Hens, who have won only once in four meets, were able to win but one event, the 200-yard individual medley by Edgar Johnson in 2:18.7.

The Delaware yearlings bowed to the Bison freshmen 67-28.

The Hens are out of action until Jan. 8, when they swim against Gettysburg at home.

Sportsmen's Show At Convention Hall To Open Feb. 28th

The 28th annual Philadelphia Motorboat and Sportsmen's Show—one of the largest on the Eastern seaboard—will be held Feb. 28 to March 7, at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

The annual marine exposition on two floors of Convention Hall, will feature a variety of boats from dinghies to ocean-going motor and sailing cruisers.

The nine-day show will be open from 11 to 11 p.m. daily and also will feature the 30x65-ft. indoor lake for casting contests, and a twice-daily entertainment program for the entire family.

Nelson's Champs To Appear On TV With Cartwright

"Undefeated," a one-hour program saluting Coach Dave Nelson's 1963 University of Delaware football champions, will be presented this Friday evening over WHYYY-TV, the Wilmington-Philadelphia educational television station at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 12.

Al Cartwright, executive sports editor of the Wilmington News-Journal, will be the moderator, and guests include Dave Nelson, Delaware athletic director and coach of the Hens' national small-college champions; Mike Brown, All-East and Little All-America halfback; and Tom Harrison, All-ECAC end and leading pass receiver on the 1963 squad. Both Brown and Harrison are natives of Wilmington.

Film sequences showing Delaware's final touchdown drive against Ohio University, and defensive power against Rutgers will be a part of the program narrated by John Garvick, university sports information director.

Coach Nelson will diagram a key play used in the drive against Ohio.

Cage Team Scorer Wickes Wins In Mat Emergency

Basketball team scorer Frank Wickes, of York, Pa., made his varsity wrestling debut against Lafayette as Delaware took a 26-6 decision from the Leopards.

Wickes, who had never wrestled before, got the emergency call from Coach Paul Billy when the Blue Hens faced the prospect of having to forfeit at 123 pounds.

Lafayette didn't have a 123-pounder either, so Wickes picked up the first (and last) victory of his career.

Billy hopes to have transfer student Dick Hamilton ready for second-semester activity at 123 pounds. Hamilton is a wrestler . . . basketball captain Dave Sysko made 19 consecutive free throws before missing.

Irv Wisniewski's Blue Hen Cagers Face Loyola Invitational Play At Baltimore

Coach Irv Wisniewski's University of Delaware basketball team, winner of four of six games to date, will be an entry in the Loyola Invitational Tournament in Baltimore, beginning this Friday.

The two-day tourney will find the Blue Hens battling St. Michael's, Albright and Loyola.

Unlike last year's tournament situation, when Delaware was the "unknown" among major national powers in the ECAC Quaker City Tournament, the Hens are conceded a good chance of taking top honors in the Baltimore series.

Captain Dave Sysko, 6-5 senior, has been scoring at an all-time career high. He poured in 32 points in the opener against Johns Hopkins; tallied 24 against Lehigh, 20 against Georgetown, and 24 against The Citadel.

Sysko has scored 132 points in six games for a sparkling 22 points-per-game.

Other Hen standouts have been 6-5 senior Pete Cloud, team rebound leader; and 6-5 senior Ben Smith, also rugged under the basket.

The Hens have been outscored only once — by the Citadel — six games, and are averaging 20.5 points per contest.

After the Loyola tournament, the Hens will be idle until Jan. 4, when they return to Middle Atlantic Conference action against Bucknell, Carleton and Colgate.

The Hens' 68-63 victory over Loyola, achieved in an extra period, has marked their only MAC win since to date.

Take away from our hearts a shout of joy for the beautiful and powerful away, all the charm of life.

A new experience has just been provided for young people in Delaware. It was a Sew-It-With-Wool Contest open for young people 14-17 in the junior division, and 18 thru 21 in the senior division. Thirty-nine persons entered the contest, modeling wool outfits they made.

The senior division was won by Linda Larson, a student at the University of Delaware.

The junior division was won by Gale Neave, a Union 4-H'er from Hockessin.

Patricia Cannon from Wilmington was second; Sheila Barkly, Wilmington was third and another 4-H'er, Beverly Wiebe from the Brandywine Club, was fourth.

These division winners will travel to Pennsylvania to compete in a council area contest and the winners from that event will compete for the national award in a 14-day trip to the Caribbean sponsored by the American Wool Council.

Lydia J. Pierce Dies At Age Of 80

Mrs. Lydia J. Pierce, 80, formerly of 40 North Chapel Street, Newark, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Evans, 32 Continental Street, Newark.

She is survived by her daughter, two grandsons, Robert M. Evans of Fairfax, Va., and William E. Evans of Newark; two sisters, Mrs. George McCarns, Brack-Ex, and Mrs. Elsie Durnall, Port Penn, and a brother, Francis L. Mall, Newark. Her husband is dead.

Services were conducted Monday afternoon at the Robert T. Jones & Son Funeral Home, with interment in Newark Cemetery.

Military Credits Top List Of Social Security Query

Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington Social Security office, said today that one of the least known aspects of the Social Security law is the use of military credits, judging by questions coming into the office.

According to Milbourn, when a veteran who has had active military service between Sept. 16, 1940, and Dec. 31, 1956, retires, dies, or becomes disabled, he may receive credits of $100 a month for each month of his military service.

Detailed information on veterans and the Social Security law can be found in Pamphlet 31a, available without cost from the Social Security office.

Wayne T. Stradley Dies Visiting Son

Wayne T. Stradley, 88, former president of the Cecilton Board of Town Commissioners, died Dec. 17, in Newark at the home of a son, James D. Stradley, 36 West Cleveland Avenue.

Husband of the late Mrs. Jessie Stradley, he was a life member and trustee of Zion Methodist Church where he had been sexton for 30 years and had been caretaker of the Cecilton Cemetery for 50 years.

Caretaker of the Edward Fellows Funeral Home for 19 years; Mr. Stradley was a charter member of the Improved Order of Red Men and the Junior O.U.A.M.

He helped install the first telephone, gas and electric lines in Cecilton.

He is survived by two other sons, Herman W. Newark; Harold P. Baltimore; a daughter, Mrs. Mary I. Garvin, Wilmington; four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Services were held last Friday at the Fellows Funeral Home.

Christmas Trees Offer Bird Havens After Holiday Use

Homeowners should remove their Christmas trees and other greens from the house as soon after Christmas as possible in order to reduce the fire hazard, advises Dave Tamm, assistant county agent in ornamental horticulture, but instead of dumping the tree on the curb for the trashman, use it in the garden. A wonderful way to attract birds during the dark weeks of winter is to have the tree serve as a feeding station.

Simply set the tree up in the yard with suet, donuts and other food items securely attached to the branches.

The branches may be cut from the tree and used as a screen or as a mulch to protect plants from winter injury or frost damage.

Small evergreen boughs also can be put to good decorative use by placing them in outside window boxes and planters. With occasional watering to prevent their drying out, they will lend a cheery aspect to the window and the home for weeks to come.

If additional greens are desired for the garden, discarded trees of neighbors and well as unsold trees in a nearby lot should supply all that is needed.

McMullen Urges Motorists To Curtail Traffic Toll

Richard H. McMullen, president of the Delaware Safety Council, appeals to Delaware drivers and pedestrians to prevent the state's traffic toll from going higher in the remainder of 1963.

"Deaths and injuries on Delaware streets and highways are already high," McMullen said. "Let's make an extra effort for safety for ourselves and our neighbors and prevent the toll from going still higher."

The holiday season is extra dangerous because drinking drivers and pedestrians are more prevalent and make driving more hazardous for everyone, McMullen cautioned.

VA Guardianship Program Increases Scope In 1963

A marked increase in the scope of the Veterans Administration guardianship program was recorded during the fiscal year 1963, Leon Fields, manager of the VA regional office in Wilmington advised today.

A total of 129,000 new beneficiaries — minors and either incompetent veterans or incompetent dependents of deceased veterans — were added to the rolls, he said.

During the year, 120,000 beneficiaries were released from the guardianship rolls for a net increase of 10,000 beneficiaries and a new total of 530,000 wards under the guardianship program.
