Sewer rate hike could come in February

By MARK CORRIGAN

MCORRIGAN@CHES PUB.COM

The City Council voted to approve the first reading of a proposal that will raise sewer rates by 25 percent and will go into effect February 1, 2010. A second reading of the proposal is scheduled for the Council's meeting on November 23.

The adjusted rate for residential customers will rise from $5.267 to $6.584 per thousand gallons. A typical quarterly residential bill will be increased by $12.56, when based upon an average consumption of 9,540 gallons. Retail users will see a 31.4 percent increase, or a jump from $4.19566 to $5.51266 per thousand gallons.

According to a memorandum from Finance Director Dennis McFarland and City Manager Kyle Sonnenberg, the adjustment is needed to help offset the increased costs of sewer maintenance and infrastructure and to help keep overhead down within the sewer department. The hike will also help reduce costs for unexpected repairs to the sewer line and will assist in keeping the department operating within their margin.

Additional factors cited for the rate increase are the closure of the Chrysler plant, which has reduced sewer volume, and the effects of a down economy upon other commercial cus-

State's economic policies draw praise at conference

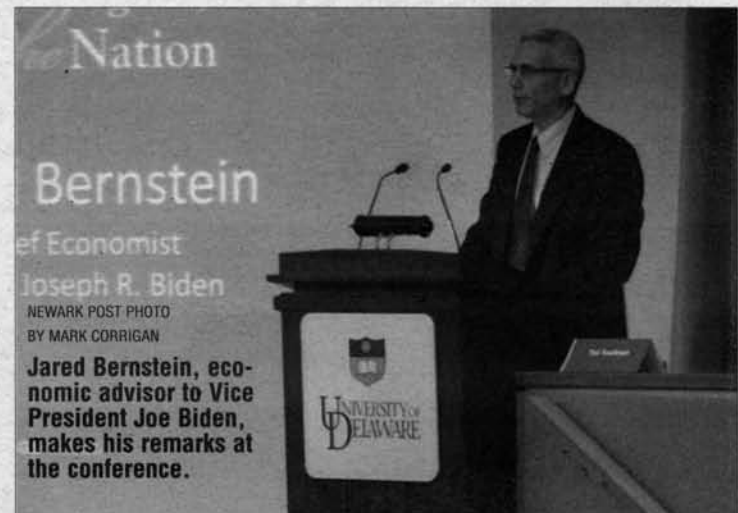

By MARK CORRIGAN

MCORRIGAN@CHES PUB.COM

Early this week, the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall was the site of a two-day economic conference that brought together government, financial, and educational leaders to discuss efforts to strengthen and advance Delaware's economic growth.

The event, entitled "Creating New Economies for Delaware, the Region and the Nation", is part of a continuing series of partnership programs hosted by the university in an effort to help educate and engage business and community leaders and to create opportunities for future partnerships.

The conference opened with a speech from U.S. Senator Tom Carper, who talked about the role of the U.S. government in fixing the current economic situation and how Delaware is affected by national decisions. Afterward, the Senator took part in a panel discussion called "reframing the U.S.

Economy", and was joined by panel members Arkadi Kuhlman, Chairman, President and CEO, ING Direct; Ellen Kullman, CEO and Chairman, DuPont; and William Poole, Distinguished Scholar in Resident, University of Delaware. Kuhlman stated that Delaware is unique in its approach to attracting new business to Delaware and this "uniqueness" is what will help rehire the 36,000 Delawareans who are out of work.

Hughes indicted on child pornography charges

Editor's note: Police Blotter items come from reports from area police departments. For the latest news, log on to newark-postonline.com.

Steven Hughes, 52, has been indicted on child pornography charges. Hughes, who resided in the Ogletown area south of Newark, is charged with 30 counts of Sexual Exploitation of a Child and 30 counts of Dealing in Child Pornography. He was arrested several weeks ago at his second home near Millsboro. Hughes operated a photography studio, worked as a Santa and was a former foster parent.

Hughes

"Child predators in Delaware should be on notice," Attorney General Joseph "Beau" Biden stated. "The Delaware Child Predator Task Force will track you down, prosecute you, and put you behind bars."

This case is the direct result of a proactive child predator investigation initiated by the New Castle County Police Department and conducted jointly with the Delaware Child Predator Task Force, where prosecutors and investigators work side-by-side with Delaware State Police and other agencies to do nothing but investigate crimes against children. This collaborative effort targets, investigates, and prosecutes online sexual predators who may otherwise evade detection.

The indictment alleges that Hughes possessed 18 images of a six-year-old female in sexually explicit poses and numerous other images of toddler-age females forced into sex acts with adult men. Hughes is charged with distributing these images by publishing them online to any interested party, including undercover law enforcement agents involved in the investigation. If convicted of all charges, Hughes faces a 120-year jail sentence. He is currently being held on $300,000 bail.

Members of the public who have information who might assist with this investigation, including information about physical offenses against children are urged to contact Detective Jason Wilson of the New Castle County Police Department at 302-395-8110.

False report of stabbing alleged

Police are investigating a stabbing incident that occurred on Saturday night. The victim, a white, 21 year-old male, was brought to Christiana Hospital Emergency Room with a stab wound of unknown depth to his chest.

Hospital staff kept the victim overnight to ensure that a lung was not punctured. After initially refusing to talk to police, the victim stated that he had been in the Camby Park section of Wilmington when he was stabbed. Wilmington Police Department has a record of the victim's statements in their report.

The next day, the victim's mother arrived at the Newark Police Department to tell officers that she believed her son had actually been stabbed at Skidfest in Newark. The victim's sister, who was with her brother when the incident occurred, had originally told her mother about the stabbing in Newark and then later changed her story.

Wilmington Police have charged the male with filing a false report, while Newark Police are still investigating the stabbing.

Body of suicide victim found in woods

The Criminal Investigation Division of the Newark Police is investigating the victim of a self-inflicted gun shot wound to the head. Several witnesses had alerted police of the incident, where patrolmen discovered the body in a wooded area behind a residence on Madison Drive, next to the CSX railroad tracks.

Friends of the victim stated that they had spent the afternoon and evening with him and that he exhibited no unusual behavior or made any odd statements before the occurrence. Witnesses in the area told police that they had

State appealing Cooke ruling to Supreme Court

Delaware prosecutors are appealing the reversal of a conviction and death sentence in the murder of a college student to the U.S. Supreme Court, officials said Friday.

In July, the Delaware Supreme Court overturned the conviction and death sentence of James E. Cooke Jr. in the 2005 rape and murder of University of Delaware student Lindsey Bonistall, a sophomore from White Plains, N.Y.

In a 3-2 ruling, the state court said Cooke's right to a fair trial was violated because his lawyers, against his wishes, sought a verdict of guilty but mentally ill. Defense lawyers settled on that strategy in an attempt to spare Cooke from the death penalty, even though he strongly disagreed and repeatedly proclaimed his innocence.

Cooke was convicted in 2007 of breaking into Bonistall's apartment and raping and strangling her before placing her body in a bathtub and setting the apartment on fire.

Prosecutors argued at trial that the DNA evidence against Cooke was overwhelming. At the start of the trial, they played excerpts from a 911 tape in which they said Cooke, who is black, gave a dispatcher details about the killing, which the caller suggested was part of a drug war involving white supremacists. The voice on the tape also referred to "KKK" and "White Power" graffiti found in the apartment of Bonistall, who was white.

The appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court is a long shot, given that the court hears only a tiny fraction of cases that are submitted.

But Attorney General Beau Biden said the Delaware Department of Justice has carefully reviewed the state Supreme Court's ruling and how the issues it considered have been dealt with by other courts.

"It is clear from that review that this case presents very complex and important legal issues that are subject to significant debate among legal authorities and have not yet been squarely addressed by the United States Supreme Court," Biden said in a statement.

"This case raises issues of profound constitutional significance," added Biden, who said his agency had consulted with Bonistall's family.

Why all the police news in the Post?

By DOUG RAINEY

DRAINEY@CHES PUB.COM

From time to time, someone will complain that we run too much police news. And why do we run items from outside the city limits?

The objection is understandable. After all, Newark has 27,000 or so residents, while the area with Newark zip codes has a population several times that figure.

It's a confusing situation to newcomers, who soon learn they live in Bear, Ogletown and other neighborhoods, not Newark.

The problem is that Newark is not an island. Criminals don't pay attention to city limit signs and crimes can happen in multiple locations both inside and outside the city.

Police agencies recognize this and increasingly operate joint efforts to deal with crimes ranging from child pornography to graffiti.

We saw an example in this week's edition with the indictment of a photographer and foster parent for possessing and distributing child pornography.

The individual resided in the Ogletown area, a short distance from Newark. It was clearly in the interest of Newark residents to know about the arrest and the indictment.

The one valid complaint is that those arrested and charged are often identified as being from Newark, if they have a Newark address.

In the past several weeks, we have taken pains to identify suspects and crimes by neighborhood in both print and online stories, on newarkpostonline.com.

Finally, we know you read crime stories. While we can't look over your shoulder when reading the paper, we do know the bulk of our website's most-read stories deal with traffic mishaps and crime.

It's human nature to be fascinated and repelled by the dark and tragic sides of sides of our existence. We can't help it and we can't ignore it.

Why take chances when crossing tracks

To: Editor
From: "Steve Purvis,
Newark

Why take chances with the train?

Recently, about 9 a.m., I was driving west on Main St. returning home. As I approached the train tracks on East Main the lights began flashing, the bells started flashing, the gates were coming down and the approaching train was blowing the whistle.

I stopped to wait for the train to pass, but on the other side of the track there was a nicely dressed lady with an armload of items wearing high heeled shoes who ignored the signals and crossed the track while the signals were down. This lady was not a young student, but did appear to be old enough to be aware of the danger, but chose to take a chance.

I sat there stopped as the train passed. It took less than a minute for the train to get by and I was on my way.

With the tragedies we have all heard of that have occurred on these tracks, was the time she saved actually worth the risk she took? Who knows what freak accident could have occurred as she was crossing and we could have easily had another tragedy.

All residents need to gain more respect for these tracks. The trains can't stop, but we can stop taking chances that will help avoid future tragedies.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week's Out of the Attic item is a view of the diner at Main and Haines Streets as it appears on the 2009 holiday ornament issued by the Newark Historical Society. The diner was built in the early 1950s on the property previously occupied by the Diamond Ice Co. and the Trivits gas station. It is most often referred to as Jimmy's Diner where Jimmy Cappoulas often sat in the front booth visiting with guests and thanking them for their business. The diner had one exterior and several interior renovations under its several owners. It also has withstood proposals to demolish it. Current redevelopment of the site will result in adding upper floors for apartments and retrofitting the diner interior to reopen as an IHOP - International House of Pancakes. The diner is the 20th in the series of annual ornaments that began in 1990 with the Main Street Clock. - Sale price is $6.50. Persons interested in ordering the ornament should call the Society message phone at 302-224-2408 and leave a name and telephone number for a callback to arrange delivery. Some back issues are also available. Contact the Newark Historical Society by voice mail at 302-224-2408, by postal mail to P. O. Box 711, Newark, DE 19715, or by email to newarkdehistoricalsociety@yahoo.com.

Suspects take Duraflame logs

Employees at the Acme Supermarket, located at Suburban Plaza, reported that two unknown, heavyset, black females were seen putting cases of Duraflame logs into a dark blue Dodge Caravan with Delaware registration.

A computer inventory check showed that no one had recently purchased the cases. A rough count of the inventory showed that at least 10 cases, with a combined value of $189.90, had been taken. Police are reviewing video surveillance to gather additional leads and are working with the Department of Motor Vehicles to narrow down the vehicle search.

Police investigate shooting

New Castle County Detectives are currently investigating a robbery, shooting and attempted murder of a Newark area man.

On Saturday, at 8:15 p.m., County Police and Paramedics were called to a home in the 1100 block of Greentree Road in the community of Hillside Heights, in the Ogletown area.

When emergency personnel arrived, they found a male victim who was suffering from gunshot wounds to the upper and lower body. The victim was transported to the Christiana Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries.

The investigation has revealed the victim had received a knock at his door and walked outside to speak to an unknown male subject. While speaking with him, a second male approached and pointed a gun at the victim and attempted to rob him. The suspect with the gun shot the victim twice before fleeing empty handed. The suspects are described as two black males wearing dark colored clothing.

Arrest in attempted robbery case

Delaware State Police investigators have made an arrest in the attempted robbery of two Newark area stores on October 29th.

Detectives were able to gain surveillance video from these incidents and got a break in the case when a New Castle County Police Officer recognized the suspect in those images. Warrants were subsequently obtained for Joe C. Watson, 37, of McCabe Avenue in New Castle. He was arrested on Nov. 6th and formally charged with two counts of Attempted Robbery (felony). He was committed to the Howard Young Correctional Institute in lieu of $40,000 secured bail.

Police earlier reported a man, now identified as Watson, entered the store and approached the service counter. He presented a note to the clerk advising he had a gun and demanded cash. When the clerk said her register did not have any money, the suspect fled the scene.

Watson

A few minutes later, this suspect entered the adjacent Happy Harry's and again approached the service counter. He asked the clerk if she had any money and when she advised "no," the suspect played it off as a joke and asked for a pack of cigarettes. The clerk turned to grab the pack of smokes and the suspect ran out of the store.

5 sought for fake prescriptions

Five individuals are being sought in a prescription fraud case in the Newark and Middletown areas. Delaware State Police listed the suspects as:

- Michelle Hammond, 33, Elkton.
- Zonisha Shaw, 22, Dover
- Jeffrey Fisher, 51, Chestnut Crossing, Newark
- Gail Perry, 36, Old Baltimore Pike, Newark
- Khadijah Greaves, 30, Dover

Investigators from the Delaware State Police Office of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs are seeking the public's help in locating the aforementioned subjects who have been implicated in a prescription fraud ring.

This investigation has been under way since September 21st when the first fraudulent script came about. Khadijah Greaves went to the ACME, located at 950 Elkton Road, Newark and obtained the prescription for Oxycodone by presenting the pharmacist with a manufactured script.

The next case was reported on September 30th at the Happy Harry's located at 216 Suburban Plaza in Newark and involved a fraudulent script. The suspect in this case was identified as Michelle Hammond and she obtained Oxycodone.

Another incident was reported on October 12th at the Rite Aid located at 4607 Stanton Ogletown Road, near Newark. In this incident, it was alleged that Jeffrey Fisher who presented the false script for Oxycodone. The script was not filled.

On the same date, October 12th, Zonisha Shaw walked into the Happy Harry's, 4465 Summit Bridge Road in Middletown. She presented a fraudulent prescription to the pharmacist for Oxycodone, which she obtained.

On November 2nd, Gail Perry allegedly walked into the Rite Aid on Stanton Ogletown Road and presented a fraudulent script to the pharmacist for Oxycodone. The script was not filled.

In each of the above listed incidents, the Doctor's office listed on the script was Neurological Medicine, a physicians practice from Greenbelt, Maryland. The doctors' office was contacted and they were completely unaware of this scam. Also, all of the scripts were for Oxycodone.

Anyone who may know of the location of the subjects listed in this release is asked to call 302.834.2630 ext. 347 or Crime Stoppers at 1.800.TIP.3333. All of these subjects are wanted for felony level charges related to prescription fraud.

Photos of the suspect are available on newarkpostonline.com. Registration to the site is free of charge.

Thieves take ladders

Newark Police are investigating a theft of six extension ladders from the Home Depot store at 1000 Suburban Drive that occurred in the early hours of November 2. The ladders, two 28 foot and four 24 foot silver aluminum extension models, had been displayed in front of the store and secured with a plastic coated security wire.

The only physical evidence gathered at the scene was a length of the wire that had been cut with either bolt cutters or snips. Video footage clearly shows a white work van with a large window and gray primer under it.

The one of the two white males seen exiting the vehicle is described as wearing a blue jacket, white hoodie, and blue jeans. The other is seen wearing a black jacket and blue jeans.

A representative from Home Depot's Loss Prevention Department stated that the pair's description and vehicle match reports of other suspects involved with thefts at Home Depot stores in Christiana and New Castle.

Kids, Gifts and Holiday Spending

By MARIA PIPPIDIS

NEW CASTLE COUNTY EXTENSION

As the holidays approach family discussions may be centering on balancing the need to cover household expenses and the costs associated with gift giving for the children and loved ones in your family. You may be surprised to learn that research shows that what children really want for the holidays is a relaxed and loving time with family, an evenly-paced holiday season, reliable family traditions and of course, a few gifts. However, research also suggests that children have much more reasonable expectations on the number and the amount of money spent on gifts. By talking realistically with your children, they too can understand what the holiday season is truly about. You can take your cue from your child and listen to questions. Provide information in an age-appropriate way, when it comes to managing gift giving and holiday changes.

Children under 5 - are most concerned about themselves and need assurance in simple and concrete terms that they will be cared for. They can be content with short-term rewards and gifts such as stickers, rather than more expensive toys.

Children aged 6-9 - can understand the concept of waiting or saving to buy more expensive things at a later time. They can go through catalogs and can make wish lists of what they want for holidays. On shopping trips they can learn to read labels critically and to comparison shop.

Children aged 10-12 - can put facts together in more complicated ways and understand that the family has to cut back. They can understand everyday effects of having to economize and can contribute ideas to budget planning. At this age, you can set limits and have conversations about limiting the number of gifts.

Teenagers - may feel pressured to keep up with the latest fashion or what their friends have, but can understand the need to prioritize when there's a limited amount of money. Teenagers are capable of understanding the ramifications of the economic crisis and can discuss issues in more detail, understand more subtle effects of having less money, and be active in problem solving.

Before anyone goes holiday gift shopping for children, set realistic expectations for their family. Take the first step with the holiday spending plan by talking with family members about what gifts they can expect. For example, a parent might say to a child, "this year you will receive two gifts—one that will be in this price range and one that will be in this price range." Then, the children will ideally provide some ideas on what gifts they would like to receive that fit into that price range.

This is also a great money lesson for children about how much things really cost. If a child asks for a gift that is beyond the boundaries of the spending plan, try explaining why it is beyond your budget by saying things like:

"I would like to give you that gift, but right now we don't have enough money for how much that item costs, so can you help me with some other ideas for another gift that costs less?" or "Is this gift something that you might want later? Could we plan that I save some money and you save some of your holiday money so we can buy it later?"

Be a model for your children - demonstrate how to solve problems, how to deal with a change in the budget, how to make decisions. When children see you handle a situation with confidence they learn that they too can handle life's challenges.

Use the financial situation as an opportunity to help children learn the difference between what they need and what they want; kids need to learn that every wish cannot be granted. Let them know their parents' personal values about how to save and spend money.

Don't feel guilty about saying "no" to some requests, and explain that everyone will have to be more watchful about spending. Where appropriate, help them see the decision-making and tradeoffs you are making to make ends meet. Assure kids that many families are facing the same issues and need to budget.

Involve children in helping out at home - e.g., babysitting, holiday decorating, gift wrapping, cookie baking, or household chores. Maintain household routines as much as possible.

Having discussions about how much you will spend or the number of gifts will help set realistic expectations so disappointment doesn't undermine the joys of the holiday season.

Especially if your income has dropped, it's important to establish a regular schedule for family conferences to talk about how a limited budget will affect everyone's life. Discuss:

- Life style changes, such as changing holiday spending or future vacation plans

- Decisions about priorities for spending money; planning a budget

- How each family member can help control spending

- Ways for teenagers to earn money

Help children focus on the positive aspects of their lives.

Explore fun, low cost holiday activities that encourage family togetherness and create happy moments.

By responding to questions and concerns regarding the family's economic situation in a truthful and respectful manner, parents help develop children's personal self-confidence, problem-solving ability and knowledge. The good news is that kids are resilient. The whole family will live through the holiday season, by focusing on what's most important. Who knows, the result could be less spending with even higher satisfaction levels, by truly enjoying other aspects of the holidays. Discuss spending — it will be worth your time.

Delaware economic conference

► ECONOMIC, from 1

In the next discussion, "New Directions for U.S. Prosperity", Jared Bernstein, chief economist to Vice President Joe Biden, outlined the federal government's plans for restoring economic prosperity by curbing a dependence on foreign oil, weaning our reliance on fossil fuels, and investing in alternative energy programs while improving educational systems across the nation. Bernstein praised Delaware for its foresight in recognizing these issues early and attempting to address them. Bernstein cited the state's Vision 2015 program, the announcement of Fisker Automotive re-opening the closed GM Boxwood Plant, and the University of Delaware's research into renewable energy technologies as prime examples of how Delaware is establishing itself as a regional and national leader.

Additional panel groups included other Delaware dignitaries such as Terri Kelly, CEO, W.L. Gore and Associates; U.S. Representative Mike Castle; former Governor and U.S. Representative Pete duPont; and New Castle County Executive Chris Coons.

Acting as Keynote Speaker for the first day's events was Governor Jack Markell who highlighted the progress that the state has made in attracting and keeping businesses in Delaware. Markell outlined his plan for regrowth by stating that success can be achieved by providing a high quality of life which will attract prospective businesses while retaining present companies; by keeping taxes low to promote an environment where the economy can grow; and by reducing governmental spending while at the same time eliminating waste in the system.

The governor also portrayed Delaware as a nimble, quick, and efficient business partner and showed how government representatives on the state, county and local levels all pitched in to help bring Fisker to the area.

Markell ended his presentation by challenging the audience to get involved in the process. His request was twofold: he stated that the best leads for attracting new business to the state are generated by those who do business in the state and that businesses that have concerns or problems need to contact government representatives to correctly and speedily address the problems. By cooperating, the government and the private sector can help Delaware help itself.

tomers. An additional provision is recommended in the proposal to track changes in the rates for New Castle County. According to the memo, "This would permit the timely recovery of increased costs from the County and, correspondingly, permit the refund to customers of any decrease in costs." By providing a "tracker", the City could adjust sewer rates in response to County changes.

In other news, Director McFarland presented a financial report, outlining the past nine months, ending September 30, that shows a deficit of $3.732 million.

The report shows that the shortfall is mainly attributed to reductions in utility revenues and cites that electric consumption was down 3.1% due to a cool and wet summer. To offset some of this financial burden, the report details a $671 thousand refund from the Delaware Municipal Electric Corporation (DEMEC) that will be paid in November. The report does not include projections based upon the new water rates that went into effect on October 1.

McFarland cites that Newark has shown some financial promise, as well. Operating expenses are $1 million under budget due to lower personnel costs and the City's cash on hand balance was $12.8 million, an increase of $2.3 million from the previous month. Though overall cash on hand for the year has declined $1.6 million.

The outlook for year's end is projected to be an operating deficit of $2.3 to $2.7 million. Initial projections predicted a shortfall of $2.6 to $3 million.

Coffee house event on 20th

On Friday, November 20th from 7-9 p.m., Friends of Newark again offers live entertainment to the Newark community with its coffeehouse - Mocha, Music & More. This November, Friends of Newark, a community organization dedicated to promoting culture and building community on Main Street, is presenting Mocha, Music & More at the Adria Café in the Newark Shopping Center.

The first performer of the evening is Jean Hull Herman, a poet who combines wit and scholarship in her writing. Jean, a lifelong teacher, also works in many aspects of writing, including that of editor for The Pen Women, and of novelist as well as poet. As poet she has won prizes for her book of poetry, Jerry Springer as Bulfinch: Mythology Modernized, a work which she has expanded to create presentations for the Delaware Humanities Forum.

The second performer is singer/songwriter/guitarist Mike Casteel, who is originally from Delaware and who grew up in Newark. Mike, who has shared the stage with bands such as Amen, Life on Repeat, Socratic, Racing Kite and A's Rage, cites influences that range from metal to acoustic rock and likes to call his music "chill music" because it's not your typical acoustic music.

The last act of the evening is Mule Train, a three piece original country/folk band from Smyrna, Delaware. Mule Train, influenced by the likes of the Grateful Dead, John Prine and Bob Dylan, has been playing through the Delmarva region. Its band instrumentation consists of guitar, mandolin, washboard, harmonica and kazoo. Mule Train provides a high energy performance of original music that moves from the past to the present. It is feel good music with a clickety-clack of a washboard that will get your hands clapping and your feet stomping.

Along with the entertainment, there will be again be a door prize, this month contributed by Kay Snelling of Gecko Fashions on Main Street. Kay, who says her store "puts the fun in funky", offers a wide range of one-of-a-kind items including jewelry made from recycled paper by the women of the displaced Acholi tribe of Uganda.

Mocha, Music & More is a coffeehouse venue that offers opportunities for artists to perform original or non-copy-right material live in an intimate and friendly setting. If interested in performing, contact Scheduling Coordinator, Lori Bencoter at (302) 834-3385 or at Bencoter2@aol.com. If interested in getting involved with Friends of Newark's efforts, contact davidr41@hotmail.com or call 368-7158. Mocha, Music & More is free and open to the public.

IN OUR SCHOOLS

Distinguished schools in Christina District

Two Christina School District elementary schools, in the Newark area, R. Elisabeth Maclary Elementary School and Joseph M. McVey Elementary School have been named Title I Distinguished Schools by the Delaware Secretary of Education and the Delaware Title I Office. Delaware recognizes schools in the state that have used their resources to meet the needs of children. The purpose of the Delaware Title I Distinguished Schools Recognition program is to identify schools that are taking extra steps to ensure that all have access to effective instructional strategies and challenging academic content. The award also recognizes that a school has demonstrated success in ensuring that all children, particularly those who have educational or social challenges, make significant progress towards learning that content, and ultimately succeeding in school.

In 2008, Gallaher Elementary School was named a National Distinguished Title I

School, and in 2007, Wilson Elementary School and McVey Elementary School were both named National Distinguished Title I Schools. This year's recognition of two Christina schools brings Christina School District's total national and state Title I awards to 5 in the past three years.

"We are extremely proud that two schools in Christina have received the Title I Distinguished School recognition again this year," said Christina Superintendent Dr. Marcia Lyles. "Maclary and McVey have earned their place among the best Title I schools in the nation and the state, and are proving their commitment to student achievement each and every day.

Street files complaint over discipline policies

By DOUG RAINY

DRAINEY@CHESUPUB.COM

New Castle County Council member Jea Street is continuing a long-running battle over Christina School District school disciplinary policies by filing a complaint with the Delaware Office of Human Relations.

Street, using stationary from the County Council for his letter, asked that the commission investigate whether the cases brought to Street's attention are "indicative of systematic discrimination." The letter was also sent to the media via the council's public information officer. Later in the letter he declared the disciplinary policies are "for Black and Hispanic children only." A copy of the letter is available at newarkpostonline.com.

The letter to the state office alleges that the district amended its disciplinary policy "for the sole purpose of assuring that a six-year-old white student did not have to attend an alternative school for a violation of the District's Code of Conduct." He was referring to the case of Zachary Christie, who brought a camping utensil, with a knife, to school.

Street said the quick action by the board was in contrast to the response made to other disciplinary matters regarding minority students. Street said he wrote five letters to the district in his role as student advocate at Hilltop Lutheran

Neighborhood Center and the letters he received from the district were "non responsive."

Both white and African American parents attending the Christina Board of Education meeting that altered the disciplinary policy stood in opposition to the policy that led to Christie's suspension. Parents also criticized the lack of response to the district in other cases.

"In response to Street's letter, the district issued the following response: The Christina School District's Student Code of Conduct is developed with input from parents, students, staff, and community members. It strives to be equitable and fair to all students. Every request or appeal is carefully considered on its own merits. The Christina Board of Education continuously examines its policies, and will continue to work with Councilman Street and all members of the community to review and improve the Code of Conduct. The District will begin its formal review process in December, and there will be many opportunities for interested members of the community to serve on the Code of Conduct review committee, and attend public meetings about the Code of Conduct."

As season comes ends, 3 local teams hope to play on

By JON BUZBY

JONBUZBY@HOTMAIL.COM

It's hard to believe we are closing in on the end of another football season. Week 10 has some local teams playing simply for pride, others hoping to play the role of spoiler, and at least one which already knows heading into this weekend's game that it will be tuning up for a run at the state championship in perhaps the most anticipated game of the year.

St. Mark's (8-1) vs. Salesianum (7-2)

High school football fans circled this game on their calendars at the beginning of the season. Both teams are most likely guaranteed a spot in the state tournament regardless of the outcome, but this epic rivalry is never dull. Fans can only hope the game on the field lives up to its billing off of it.

St. Mark's coach John Wilson: "I look for this game to be just as exciting as the last two have been. We need to establish our running game better than we have the last two weeks and eliminate our turnovers, of which we've had six in the last two games."

Salesianum coach Bill DiNardo: "This annual game is a rivalry which is second to none. It has been called the 'Holy War.' This year's contest puts two of Delaware's top programs into the spotlight. St. Mark's has the balance of passing and running and is equally impressive on defense. They have great speed and they get to the ball. Defensively we must stop the big play and force turnovers. On offense we have to control the line of scrimmage, limit turnovers, and make the big play."

Caravel (7-2) at Red Lion Christian (7-2)

Although Caravel should be in the state tournament win or lose, a win over Red Lion guarantees the Bucs a berth and most likely the No. 1 seed. Caravel needs to be leery of resting on their laurels following last weekend's huge win over Salesianum, which coach Mike Aruanno called the biggest regular season win in his tenure as head coach and possibly in school history.

Caravel coach Mike Aruanno: "As great [as the win over Sallies was], we now have to put it behind us and concentrate on Red Lion. They are a team that seems to be peaking at the end of the season and, with a win, would be in the playoffs. If we win, we can secure the No. 1 seed in the playoffs."

Red Lion coach Eric Day: "For us to be successful we have to play the way we are capable of playing and be physical. If we play our style of football I think we'll be competitive and hopefully good things will happen."

Hodgson (7-2, 5-1) at Dickinson (0-9, 0-6)

The optimist sees this as a blowout game for Hodgson, while the pessimist might look for Dickinson to ruin the Silver Eagles' postseason plans. Senior Jamal Jackson is coming off a five-touchdown performance and would love nothing more than to have a repeat performance in the final regular-season game of his stellar career. If Hodgson wins, they should be in the tournament.

Hodgson coach Frank Moffett Jr.: "We are looking to close out the regular season with a win, which would keep our hopes alive for a conference championship and securing a potential playoff spot. To do this we will need to control the line of scrimmage against Dickinson and prevent any big plays by their offense."

Christiana (4-5, 3-3) vs. Delcastle (5-4, 3-3)

A win gives the Vikings

a .500 season which would be a huge feather in the cap of the graduating seniors and a momentum-builder for this young team heading into the offseason. Delcastle is young but very athletic and headed in the right direction. Christiana has played — and won — two consecutive overtime games, this could be a third.

Delcastle coach Paul Lasorsa: "I think this should be a very exciting game. Both schools are attempting to build a foundation for a strong program. Christiana has been scoring a load of points while we have been relying on a strong defense. The past two games have been tremendous between the two schools and I expect the same for this week."

Glasgow (1-8, 1-5) vs. Concord (7-2, 6-0)

Fortunately for Glasgow, Concord appears to have already clinched a berth in the state tournament regardless of the outcome of this game. But, that being said, don't expect coach George Kosanovich to do anything but try to win this game outright so his young team can enter the state tournament on a positive note.

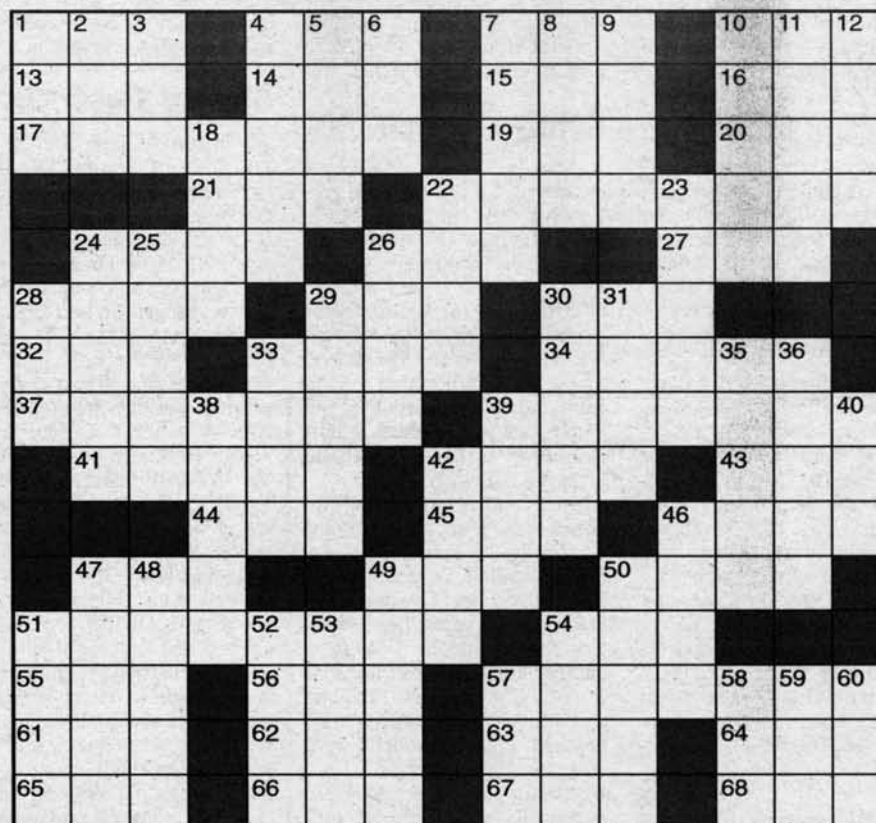

Coach Kosanovich: "Glasgow is a very dangerous opponent. You are no longer a young team after nine games and they have a very formidable offense and aggressive defense. We will have to play very well to win this game."

Newark (1-8, 1-5) vs. Charter of Wilmington (2-7, 1-5)

These two teams are playing for nothing but pride. The Newark seniors would love to go out on a winning note and give coach Butch Simpson his 252nd career victory. Charter will hope to take advantage of a rare opportunity to possibly defeat the traditionally tough Yellowjackets.

teachers to learn more about "Sesame Street - My World is Green and Growing." Elizabeth Coleman, a third grade teacher from Newark Charter School and other teachers participated in the informational program.

The educational program highlights the importance of water conservation and reusing. Teachers who bring their classes to the program received Teacher Activity Packets in advance for pre- and post-visit class activities. While at Sesame Place, students rotate among three different sessions that focus on water conservation and reusing including a hands-on recycled materials craft session.

Another session involves the students creating a garden out of composted materials. To enhance their learning experience, all students receive an activity worksheet at the start of the program. Each class has a customized itinerary designed for their needs. In the spring of 2010, the program will be held on May 7, 14, 21, 28 and June 1-4. The program is by reservation only and space is limited. For more information or to reserve a date, please call Group Sales at 1-866-GO-4-ELMO.

Challenge Program

Last month, Louviers Federal Credit Union participated in The Challenge Program's Orientation for Newark High School. The Challenge Program brings together high school students and the business community by providing incentives to students for successes they achieve while in school.

The Challenge Program's theme of this year's Orientation was "Preparing Students to be Competitive in the Global Job Market." The program began with a video of facts and statistics about how technology, populations, job markets, etc. are changing. After the video, an overview of the Challenge Program was presented to the students.

Louviers Federal Credit Union is the Business Ambassador sponsoring the Newark High School program. Marketing Coordinator, Faith Simpers, spoke to the students about her experiences with changing working environments and how good habits they form in high school now -- showing up for school, striving for improvement, always willing to learn new things and being involved in the community -- will help them to become the type of employee organizations are looking to hire in the future.

LFCU and TCP will return later in the school year and award four students from each of the sophomore, junior and senior classes a $250 check for the following categories: Most Improved in the Class, Attendance, Community Service and Best Overall GPA in the class.

www.chesapeakeclassified.comCLASSIFIED CORNERHelpful tips on using your local classified section.What information should I include in my merchandise for sale ad?

The goal of a good classified merchandise ad is to move what you are selling quickly, not just generate phone calls. Chesapeake Classified recommends starting your ad with what the actual item is, making it easier for readers to locate merchandise, as the ads fall alphabetically in the correct classification. If it is a Broyhill sofa, start the ad with sofa, not Broyhill. Readers do not look for sofas under "B" for Broyhill, they look under "S" for sofa. When you walk into a furniture store, do you buy the first sofa you come to? No, you probably browse through the store, look at many sofas, and then choose the one that best fits your needs. Your ad should contain words and descriptions that adequately describe the item, and give readers a reason to call about your merchandise. Don't skimp, less is more doesn't always hold true in an ad. Would you rather place a great ad that sells your stuff, or keep having to re-run your ad because no one knows what you are selling? And ALWAYS put in the price. Do you want to answer a ton of phone calls asking "How much is it?", and when they find out the price they hang up because it is too expensive? No, you want qualified callers that will buy your merchandise and make you money!! At Chesapeake Classified, we place all of our merchandise for sale ads on our website chesapeakeclassified.com, to put your ad in front of even more readers.

Will Chesapeake Classified help me word my ad, and suggest where to place it?

Of course! The Account Executives at Chesapeake Classified are professionals. We can help you write your ad, and can advise you on our great local packages. If your item is unique, or may need extra coverage for a quick sale, we have packages that cover the entire Eastern Shore! We sell results, not ads. That's what you wanted when you called us, isn't it?

So, call us today and make some fast cash with your "For Sale" ad!*For more information, or to place a classified ad call:

Helpful tips on using your local classified section.

Why advertise in classified?

Whether you are looking for an employee, selling unwanted household items, or trying to sell your house, local newspaper classifieds offer a great vehicle to reach lots of people for a little investment. Chesapeake Classified can also place your ad on our website chesapeakeclassified.com, to reach even more readers. The more people that see your ad, the better chance you have of getting great results. And, most importantly, classified ads work!

What makes a good advertisement?

One of the most important features of a good classified ad is the headline or keyword. It is the first thing readers will see, and can help them to make the decision on whether to continue to read your ad, or move onto the next one. The headline should explain what your ad is about. Chesapeake Classifieds are broken down into categories, and in each category ads are listed alphabetically. Ask your classified Account Executive what is the best keyword or headline for your specific ad. We are the experts, and our job is to get you results!

GOT SOMETHING TO SELL?

Try this.....

Call up your local quick-print shop. Tell them you want to sell your furniture for $1,500. Explain that you would like to tell them about it over the phone and have them typeset an ad for you, print 17,500 copies and hand deliver them door to door all over town before 7:00 tomorrow morning. Explain that you expect them to continue to print 17,500 copies and deliver them everyday for 2 weeks and that you expect to pay less than $50 for this service.

Of course no one would be crazy enough to do this, except
