MCCUE DINNER REVEALS WORK ACCOMPLISHED

Gov. McMullen and Many Others Honor Dean For
U. of D. Progress

MICHIGAN STATE GRAD Joined Staff in 1907; Named Department Head in 1920; Served Nat'l Body

More than 150 Delaware officials, farmers, students and members of the faculty of the University of Delaware paid homage last Friday evening to Charles A. McCue, dean of the School of Agriculture and director of both the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension Department at the University of Delaware, at a dinner in Old College given by the Delaware Agricultural Club in celebration of 30 years of service to the university and to Delaware agriculture.

Coming to the university in 1907 as assistant horticulturist and professor of horticulture, McCue was made director of agricultural extension, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and dean of the School of Agriculture in 1920. He came to Delaware from Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich., where after his graduation in 1901, he was a member of the faculty, teaching horticulture.

Broadened Work Here
Upon his arrival in Delaware, he found that the School of Agriculture consisted of eight part-time instructors, two regular students, and four special students. For the last school year there were 44 regular students enrolled in the School of Agriculture under 12 instructors. In 1907, there were only 10 research workers in the Agricultural Experiment Station while this year 30 men are conducting research projects. Likewise, the extension service has grown considerably since Dean McCue became director. In 1920, the staff consisted of eight full-time workers, one part-time worker, and four secretaries. Under his direction, the staff has grown until, at the present time, there are 17 full-time workers, four part-time staff members, and ten secretaries.

That the work of Dean McCue has reached beyond the boundaries of the campus of the University of Delaware is indicated by the fact that in 1936 there were 11 teachers of vocational agriculture in 16 schools teaching that subject who had graduated from the University of Delaware.

SUM WILL BE AWARDED FOR LOST CATTLE

Farmers To Receive Payment
For Animals Killed, Sick
With Bang's Disease

BILL PASSED APRIL 15

Provisions for the payment of state indemnity on cattle condemned and slaughtered because they have reacted to the Bang's Disease test was made in a bill passed by the Delaware Legislature and signed by Gov. Richard C. McMullen on April 15. The provisions of the bill were recommended by the Legislative Committee of the Agricultural Organizations of the State, and were endorsed by cattle owners throughout the state.

Provides Indemnity
The bill provides that a state indemnity, not to exceed $20 on any grade animal nor $40 on any registered pure bred animal, shall be paid for all cattle which react to the Bang's Disease test and are slaughtered, under state-federal supervision. This indemnity is in addition to that paid by the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry and the salvage for the carcasses, paid by the slaughter establishment, and assists the cattle owners in replacing their condemned cattle with healthy animals, free from disease.

Undulant fever, sickness which can be transmitted through the milk of an animal suffering with Bang's Disease, has caused the regulations of the state and city boards of health, all over the country, providing that milk must come from cattle tested and certified as free from Bang's Disease.

During the fiscal year, 1935-36, approximately 800 cattle reacted to the test in Delaware. Had state indemnity been available then, this would have meant approximately $24,000 to the owners.

Work Started in 1931
Realizing the economic importance of Bang's Disease, both from the viewpoint of public health and the loss of profit in the affected cattle, the Delaware State Board of Agriculture started conducting the blood testing of cattle for this disease in 1931; however, as no funds were available for that purpose, the amount of work was limited. Previous to that time, Dr. C. C. Palmer, head of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Delaware, had conducted considerable testing and research on Bang's Disease, and had demonstrated to those herd owners who had their herds tested that the disease could be eradicated by the elimination of infected cattle and proper sanitary measures.

In 1933, the State Board of Agriculture adopted the Delaware plan for the prevention, control and eradication of Bang's Disease, and Dr. R. M. Sarde was placed in charge of the work. However, the fact that no indemnity was available for reactors prevented many herd owners from being in a position to eradicate this disease from their herds by slaughter of their reactors.

Accredited Herds

When a herd has been free from the sickness over a period of a year, passing from three to four negative tests under state-federal supervision during that time, it is officially recognized as an accredited herd.

ISSUE ORDERS THAT PRESENT STATUTE STAND

Council Makes Drastic Move Against Violators On Main Street

THREE HOURS ALLOWED

No Sunday Exceptions Noted;
"Double Parkers" Subject
To Court Fine

Criticized from all sides for what has been termed in many quarters as "Newark's shameful parking conditions," the Council of Newark has ordered local police to start immediate and strict enforcement of regulations now in effect.

The parking ordinance, passed in 1926 and amended in 1931, places a time limit of three hours on the parking of automobiles on Main Street from the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to the tracks of the Pomeroy branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Newark Center. The limit is effective 24 hours daily with no exceptions for Sundays.

Included in the statute is a twelve-inch allowance for parking cars at a curb, which police will enforce in an attempt to break up the troublesome practice of double parking.

Chief of Police William H. Cunningham announced last night that he has been instructed to enforce the parking regulations without regard to persons or positions and will carry out the law to the letter. Police will erect signs on the restricted section of Main Street as a warning to motorists.

Matter Before Council

The drastic move came as an aftermath of a long and stormy session of the Council Monday night when opposing forces clashed over the question of one-hour parking on Main Street.

Walter R. Powell, restaurant owner, presented a petition signed by 31 Main Street business men, urging the Council to adopt a temporary one-hour law in the troublesome area during June, July and August. The proposal asked that the law be enforced from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, with Sundays excepted.

Councilman C. Emerson Johnson laid the matter before the body but it was voted down on the first reading by a count of three to two. Councilman C. C. Hubert supported the measure, while Councilmen George F. Ferguson, George E. Ramsey and Herman Wollaston formed the opposition.

Lesson for May 9

ABRAHAM A MAN OF PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:17-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Abraham Praying for His Neighbors.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Great Man's Prayer.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Praying for Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Ministry of Intercession.

Prayer—how many are the books that have been written on that subject and the sermons preached, and yet how little it is actually practiced. One can attract an audience to hear it discussed, but only a handful will come to pray. We as Christians agree that it is God's appointed way of blessing. We put up mottoes such as "Prayer changes things" or "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," and then (may God forgive us!) we try to change things ourselves. We struggle with problems when we ought to pray.

The lesson of today, from the life of that great hero of faith, Abraham, stresses the importance of intercessory prayer, that is, the giving of ourselves to pray for the temporal and spiritual welfare of others. In an age characterized by a grasping spirit of acquisition for personal advantage it is like a breath from heaven to read of this man's prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It is a Privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from God. The covenant had been renewed, a son had been promised. The three visitors looked out toward Sodom. God who had thus appeared to Abraham in visible form and had shared the hospitality of his home now extends to him the privilege of sharing in God's purpose. How glorious to be on such terms of confidence with God, to know him and to know his will and purpose!

2. It is a Responsibility. "Abraham stood yet before the Lord." Why? To pray for Sodom and Gomorrah. Privilege and responsibility go together. Those who have audience with the King of kings are there to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others. Are we praying for our children, our families, our church, our nation? If not, who will pray?

3. It is Objective, not Subjective. Some modern "religious" leaders would devitalize prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which has only the value of developing our own soul. The prayer room is to them a sort of spiritual gymnasium where the soul develops its strength and a spiritual sense of well-being floods the soul.

Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in prayer is spiritually beneficial, but prayer actually deals with such things as cities, men, sin, sorrow. It concerns men's physical well-being, their material prosperity, as well as their spiritual welfare. It is the means designated by God for the release of his power on behalf of the object for which we pray.

II. Characteristics of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish. Abraham already had his promise and his blessing. The cities of the plain were wicked, yet he prayed for them. Those who know the spirit of God are not selfish in prayer.

2. Courageous. Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the condemned cities. The Bible reveals that God honored men who had a holy courage. History tells the story of the centenary of one who prayed boldly—and believed, and labored—Dwight L. Moody.

3. Persistent. No one likes a "quitter." Christ spoke of a man who was heard for his importunity (Luke 11:8). See also Luke 18:1-8. Some one has said that when we pray we are all too often like the mischievous boy who rings the doorbell and runs away without waiting for an answer.

III. Results of Intercessory Prayer.

The cities were destroyed, but the righteous were saved. God hears and answers prayer. This is the testimony of His Word, of countless Christian men and women of all ages, yes, of the men and women of our day. We know by experience that it is true—"I cried," he answered. "He says to you and to me, 'Call unto Me and I will answer thee and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not' (Jer. 33:3).

No Reason for Anxiety
Anxiety is the poison of life; the parent of many sins and of more miseries. Why, then, allow it, when we know that all the future is guided by a Father's hand—Blair.

A Long Life
He lives long that lives well, and time misspent is not lived, but lost.—Fuller.

They Also Serve
They also serve who only stand and wait.—Milton.

QUESTION: How can one prevent pastry from sticking and breaking at the edges when rolling it out?
ANSWER: The best way to prevent this difficulty is to use a pastry canvas on the rolling board and a cover on the rolling pin. Stretch a piece of white canvas taut over a dampened table top. Cut the foot from a child's white hose and slip the hose over the rolling pin. Then lightly flour the canvas and rolling pin and you'll find that the pastry will roll out evenly and without sticking.

QUESTION: Why do my Welsh Rarebits, made with eggs, cream and cheese, always curdle?

ANSWER: When making a custard Rarebit, thicken with eggs, always add scalded cream to the beaten eggs to prevent curdling. More important is the cooking temperature. With the Hotpoint electric range, for instance, it isn't necessary to use a double boiler; just cook the mixture in a saucepan over the controlled low heat, stirring occasionally, until thick.

QUESTION: How can I make meringues that swirl and stand in peaks?

ANSWER: To make a successful meringue, beat the egg whites until they hold a peak; then for every white add 2 tablespoons of sugar while beating constantly. Spread the meringue over the pie with a swirling motion, using a teaspoon. Meringues should be baked in a slow oven. If your range is one of the modern electric ones just set the temperature control of the oven to 300° and bake the meringue for 18 minutes.

QUESTION: What makes the crust of a butter cake soggy?

ANSWER: This is caused by the cake steaming in the pan after it is removed from the oven. To prevent this, set the pan on a cake rack about 2 minutes, then invert and remove the cake from the pan.

VERSATILE HAM IS REAL FRIEND TO BUSY HOSTESS

Offers Happy Solution to Many Troublesome Menu Problems

Whether the occasion be dinner, a bridge luncheon, a buffet supper, or only an after-theatre snack, ham in one of its many guises can be relied upon to suit the purpose.

Ham is one of the most versatile of meats. It is always tender, and its "just salty enough" flavor combines splendidly with fruits, especially apples, pineapple, raisins and oranges; with various fruit juices; with maple syrup or honey, with tart relishes and with many kinds of vegetables, especially sweet potatoes candied with brown sugar, and carrots glazed with butter and sugar. In fact, it combines well with so many different foods that there might be a toss-up for the best combinations.

Eye Appeal Counts

Aside from its tastiness, either a whole baked ham, ham slices, or ham in combination, has an eye-appeal that any hostess appreciates. It looks good, tastes good and always is good.

For the very special dinner, a whole baked ham, all nicely browned and decorated with red maraschino cherries, presents an imposing appearance when borne to the table in all its glory. And it may be very impressively carved, too.

Even to the very end, a whole ham is a boon to the hostess for dinners and parties. Here are a few of the ways to insure a welcome at company meals for the last bits of the ham. They are suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Baked Ham and Sweet Potato Birds

Cut thin slices of baked ham in strips long enough to wrap easily around sweet potatoes. Cook the sweet potatoes until tender in boiling salted water. Place a sweet potato on a ham slice, add a few slices of apple, and roll as tightly as possible. Fasten with toothpicks or skewers and place in a baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar, and, if desired, pour fruit juice over the rolls. Pineapple juice is a favorite. Bake in a moderate oven until the "birds" are thoroughly heated.

The "birds" may be made more realistic by the use of raisins stuck on toothpicks for wings, and since the flavors of raisins and ham are so complimentary to each other, these are a good addition. If fruit juice is used, raisins may be added, and when the birds are done, the sauce may be thickened and served as a raisin sauce—the sauce which many regard as the perfect one with ham.

When the ham is too far gone to furnish good-sized slices, ham shavings are next and when prepared in this way they are really delicious.

Savory Ham Shavings

Shave small slices from the baked ham. Place in a hot frying pan and let these brown rapidly in the ham fat. Remove these to a hot platter. Pour into the pan, with the fat, 2 cups highly seasoned tomato puree. Let this come to a boil and serve around the ham shavings. Serve with rice molds or hot meaty baked potatoes.

The deep fat frying kettle is a valuable device in adding company frills to what might have been just an ordinary left-over.

Ham Sandwiches, Concordia Style

Ham sandwiches have their innings when they are served fresh from the frying kettle. Make the sandwiches just as usual, with finely minced ham seasoned with mustard and moistened with tomato sauce, mayonnaise, or cream, and placed between slices of buttered bread. Press the sandwiches together well, and trim off crusts. Divide them into halves and brown them in deep, hot lard. Serve immediately.

If you prefer soft sandwiches, dip them in seasoned egg and milk, before frying as Fresh toast.

Furniture Given To 819 Families By Relief Group

Distribution of 2,473 units of furniture (an entire suite is considered one unit) to 819 families in 41 cities and towns in Delaware from 1932 to 1937, was reported by Mrs. C. M. Dillon, chairman of the Statewide Furniture Relief Committee, at the dinner given by Nathan Miller in the clubroom of the Hotel duPont Tuesday night. More than 100 persons attended from all sections of Delaware and several from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Mr. Miller, who has been in charge of distribution of the free furniture, gave some interesting sidelights of how this phase of relief work was begun on a small scale in 1931.

Will Continue Support

Having been shown conclusively that need for free furniture relief work still exists, Mr. Miller said Tuesday night that he would be glad to continue his support and interest. Few things he has done in life, Mr. Miller declared, have given him so much happiness.

Francis E. B. McCann, membership secretary of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, offered a resolution, thanking Mr. Miller for his support and interest in the work.

Mrs. Dillon will appoint a nine-member state committee, under the resolution adopted, this committee will select local community committees to work on furniture relief in cooperation with state and community relief and welfare organizations.

Plans For Poppy Sales Announced At Meeting Here

Plans for the annual sale of memorial poppies to take place on May 28 and 29 have been perfected, Mrs. Harry Gabriel, chairman for the Newark unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, announced at her East Park Place residence last Monday evening.

Mrs. Gabriel was hostess to the May meeting of the unit. She stated that in advance of the sale of the "veteran-made" poppies, posters made by pupils of local schools will be placed on display in store windows. The three poster contest winners will be announced later.

Mrs. George E. Brinton, wife of Professor Brinton, University of Delaware language teacher, in her talk to the members, made an interesting comparison of the homes, farms, living conditions and customs of the French people with those of Americans.

Scholarship Awards

Mrs. Francis Lindell, chairman of "Fidac," presented Mrs. Brinton, who has been invited by Mrs. F. Allyn Couch, president of the local unit, to speak on France as one of the then "Fidac" countries.

It was announced at the meeting that scholarship prizes will again be given to the eighth grade girl who has attained the highest average in social science and civics during the year. A similar prize will be awarded a girl in the local colored school also. The awards are for $2.50 each.

Mrs. John R. Fader, president of the Department of Delaware, was present and summarized the events of the day spent with Mrs. Oscar W.

Hahn, national president of the auxiliary, during the latter's official visit to Delaware last month.

The Banker's Tribute to Mother

There can be no deeper, more ennobling sentiment in any man's heart, than his abiding love and reverence for his mother. No songs or poems ever composed, no statues ever carved, no medals or ribbons of honor ever bestowed, can overpraise Mother... But, as bankers, we know that on the practical side, as home manager and Director of the Household Budget, she handles one of the world's hardest jobs in a way that few men could equal... The books of this bank bear ample testimony to the thrift and business ability of the mothers of this community. We are proud to serve them in any way we can.

MOTHER'S DAY, REMEMBER IT

Only those who have suffered the irreparable loss of a mother can fully appreciate the pangs of sorrow—the profound longing—the unlimited void created by her passing. Living mothers are too often taken for granted—too little appreciated.

One day of the year has, by custom, been set aside to do her honor, if it be possible for ordinary mortals to adequately honor mothers. That day is Sunday, remember it.

The same cheerful lady who first impressed your infant vision—who nursed you, cherished you, protected you, hugged you like she meant it—and did—will appreciate your gesture of remembrance on Sunday.

Those same arms that embraced you through early years, toiled for your benefit and comfort—the hands that darned your stockings, bound your wounds and prepared your meals—will feel comforted at your touch on Sunday of all days.

Yet in this paradoxical world only those who have lost a mother will feel the true appreciation of her worth. Those of us more fortunate in having a living mother will lack the depth of recognizing and demonstrating a sufficient feeling of thanks, no matter how hard we try.

Mothers expect little for a lifetime of devotion, and that, too often, is what they receive. The nearest thing to God on earth—your mother.

MAKE NEWARK SAFE!

During 1936, traffic deaths and accidents reached new highs. Yet a number of cities and towns managed to lower casualties in spite of the general trend. Six of these cities, in different population brackets, were the winners of the Fifth National Traffic Safety Contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

The Council has now published outlines of the programs pursued by these communities. The program of the smallest town receiving a prize, Wilmette, Illinois, is of exceptional interest, in that it could be pursued, in a modified or enlarged manner, by practically every community in America.

Wilmette reduced its accident deaths exactly 100 per cent—from three in 1935 to none in 1936—and its injuries 31 per cent. It adopted the following plan:

Law enforcement was strict—arrests totaled 152 in 1936 as against 51 the preceding year. Magistrate and prosecutor cooperated vigorously. High school students convicted of dangerous driving were "fined" by making them write theses on safety.

Traffic checks were made periodically, and when necessary streets were widened and resurfaced. All members of the police force attended classes in accident prevention.

The village conducted a drivers' safety school in cooperation with three other nearby villages. The police department was kept free from politics—no one had a "pull."

Extensive accident prevention work was carried on consistently in schools.

Here is a synopsis of the kind of safety program that produces results. No community is too small to follow the principles laid down, in an effective manner. Let's make Newark safe!

Active Picture Season in 1937-38

More than 600 feature films are promised for next season. Next month the annual sales conventions of the various producing organizations in Hollywood will begin to be held in various parts of the country. Mere scanning of the lists as now put out indicates the varied appeal. Francis Lederer in a film biography of Chopin, the composer, directed by Frank Capra; M-G-M's announcement promises interest in such films as Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette" and "Pride and Prejudice"; Jeanette MacDonald in "The Firefly" and "The Girl of the Golden West"; Freddie Bartholmew in "Kim" and Gladys George as "Madame X." Paramount promises a new reproduction of "Beau Geste" in color and the Ernst Lubitsch offering of "Angel" in which Marlene Dietrich and Herbert Marshall will have the leading roles. RKO's outstanding production will be "Radio City Revels" and another will be the English historical movie, "Victoria the Great." "Tom Sawyer," "Gone with the Wind" and "Stella Dallas" will be offered by United Artists. On the 20th Century Fox list are "Last Year's Kisses" with Alice Faye; Eddie Cantor's Arabian Nights burlesque, "Ali Baba Goes to Town" and "Sally, Irene and Mary." Universal will give to the screen the anti-war film "The Road Back," "100 Men and a Girl" with Stokowski and his Orchestra and Deanna Durbin. Warner Bros. will produce "The Prince and the Pauper" and a study of "Dostoevsky," which Max Reinhardt will direct with Walter Huston in the leading role. Readers you are in for a season of Good entertainment, and how.

State Theatre Briefs

Friday and Saturday

Bright with action and romance and sacrifice, colorful with its picturesque settings in a turbulent gold camp of the fifties on the slopes of the California Sierras, RKO Radio's "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" offers a wealth of interest to film-goers. Preston Foster is starred and Jean Muir heads the supporting cast of this picture version of Bret Harte's famous story. In its dramatic crises the offering is said to attain unusual heights. The story covers a ten-year period in the Mother Lode country during the early boisterous years when adventurers from every corner of the globe flocked to the new Colconda, and every man carried his own law in the form of a cap-and-ball revolver stuffed in his belt or of a derringier up his sleeve. Besides the two principals such favorites as little Virginia Weidler, Margaret Irving, Frank Thomas and Si Jenks.

Monday and Tuesday

Making a radical departure from previous aviation pictures of the World War, RKO Radio's "The Woman I Love," emphasizes human drama rather than action drama and thereby achieves a real novelty in film annals. The real drama lies in the human relationships of its three principal characters, Paul Muni, who plays an unpopular and embittered pilot in the French flying corps, Miriam Hopkins, his wife, and Louis Hayward, Muni's young observer, who falls in love with Miss Hopkins without knowing she is married to his friend. Collin Clive, Mady Albright, Paul Guilfoyle and Elizabeth Risdon head the supporting cast.

Paul Muni

Wednesday and Thursday

Comical adventures and misadventures of rich Americans in Paris provide the hilarity in "Mamma Steps Out" M-G-M's satire on foreign travel which introduces a new comedy team in Guy Kibbee and Alice Brady. The story deals with a rich manufacturer who takes his family for a trip to France. The wife gets ideas of "culture" which result in their Mediterranean villa being filled with eccentric personages including an odd novelist, artist and musician. Meantime the daughter (Betty Furness) of the family, destined by her mother to fall in love with a nobleman, elopes with an American crooner (Stanley Morner). The other notables in the film are Ivan Lebedeff, Heather Thatcher, Gene Lockhart and Gregory Gage.

Joe Judge, one of the greatest fielding first basemen of all time who played nearly all of his big league career with the Nationals, now runs a modern grille in the heart of the nation's capital.

An important factor in the testing of cattle is the fact that every state in the country has regulations to the effect that cattle are not permitted to be transported from one state into another unless they have passed a negative Bang's Disease test within 30 days or are from accredited herds. The volume of the interstate shipment of cattle makes it vitally important to the cattle owners to have this service available to them.

Herd owners interested in eradicating Bang's Disease may take such a step by contacting the state board of agriculture, Dover.

Short and Sweet

This is a piece about a baseball league that might have been but isn't. The Bi-State circuit folded over the week-end while four regularly scheduled games were being played.

It's strange, indeed, to have an organization top while the opening portion of a card is being met, but the Bi-State is noted for doing the unusual.

Differences of opinion regarding the status of Allen (Bud) Lloyd, slugger de luxe and infielder of ability, resulted in the collapse of the wheel. Lloyd, lest you haven't heard, has been a resident of Newark since July or August (he isn't too sure himself) of last year. It goes without saying that he's a good ball player. He's so good, in fact, that his status has shattered the work of months.

Numerous men have been discommoded while attending some six meetings through the late winter and early spring in an effort to keep the Bi-State League intact. Seventy-nine other ball players are involved, but Lloyd's status outranks everything and everyone else in the opinion of Newark and Oxford leaders. Hence the capitulation of an entire league over a question of eligibility centering on one man.

R-W-R

Made Own Decision

Lloyd, to go into detail, signed with Oxford. That's his right in a free country. He played with Oxford against Middletown and Providence on Saturday and Sunday, respectively. His contract had not been approved because Newark refused to give him the necessary release.

It is only natural that the player in question should have continued his relations with the Oxford team. He has been associated with that particular franchise (moved this spring from Perryville) since the inception of the league in 1935.

His presence in Newark, whence he came while following his vocation as a construction worker, caught the fancy of the local baseball leaders as another ideal prospect for the outfit here. Lloyd made the mistake of lending an attentive ear. In failing to announce his preference for Oxford at the outset, the big slugger stirred false hopes in Newark that refused to be stilled.

R-W-R

Writer On Spot

Taylor Biles, Maroon pilot, presented Lloyd's contract which gave Cardiff, Md., his native home, as his legal residence. That brought the question of deciding where the player belonged before the president of the league. The writer, who acts in that capacity, rendered a verdict in favor of Newark.

In signing with Perryville last season, Lloyd's contract shows that town as his place of residence. The rules of the league state that in order for a player to be eligible he must have a bona fide residence of at least three months in a specific territory.

Since Lloyd has lived in Newark for a span of nine or ten months, and in view of the fact that the Cardiff address was only introduced this season, proved to be the factors that swayed the decision in Newark's favor.

R-W-R

Should Drop Enmity

Awakening to the situation that the player preferred Oxford as a site for his endeavors, there was nothing to prevent his release by Newark—nothing but personal enmity. We aren't endeavoring to drag personalities into the discussion, but it's a certainty that kinder relations between Biles and some of the powers that be in local baseball circles would have prevented the upsetting of the entire loop.

As it has turned out the writer will have more time for personal recreation this summer than he has enjoyed for many years. We are delighted at the prospect. On the other hand, however, it seems ridiculous to forget 79 ball players and hundreds of fans simply because two teams can't get together

Argo and Whiteman In Form; Browns Slam Ball To Drop Oxford; Errors In Outfield Costly To Papermakers; Bi-State League Opening Proves "Dud"

By "The Roamer"

Bi-State League teams swung into action on four fronts last week-end, but what was scheduled as the official opening of the 1937 season, proved merely to be a quartet of exhibition tilts.

Troubles Manifested

A question of eligibility revolving around Allen (Bud) Lloyd, a resident of Newark at present, who signed to play with Oxford, created such a row between the Jackets and Maroons that the whole league tumbled apart.

Newark refused to grant Lloyd the necessary release, with the result that his appearance in the Oxford lineup against Middletown and Providence, brought a quick ending to a season that had not even officially started. A new Newark player, Arlie Jackson, who performed in centerfield for the Jackets, also drew the ire of rival teams. Jackson, according to claims, is a resident of Kent County, which automatically makes him ineligible for competition in the Bi-State loop.

Jackets Take Pair

Of the games played and as they were played, Newark made off with top honors by taking Providence into camp at Continental Field on Saturday by a 7-2 count; and measuring out a 7-4 setback for George Winter's Middletown entry at Townsend on Sunday.

Middletown opened on Saturday at Oxford by banging out 16 hits to defeat the Maroons, 7-2. Providence dropped its second start of the week-end when Oxford emerged on the long end of a 4-2 score on Sunday at duPont Field.

While the Jackets were showing a consistent and timely offense, Rube Argo, hurling on Saturday, and Paul Whiteman, who served 'em up on Sunday, had too much on the ball for the Papermakers and Browns, in turn.

Deaver Suffers Fall

"Big Bill" Deaver, Providence's starting pitcher here, had the Jackets pretty well in hand as late as the sixth inning, despite some sloppy work by his mates in the field. With a man on base and none away, however, Deaver was in the act of delivering the ball to the plate, when he suddenly lost balance and his "elephantine fanny" flopped to the ground.

The unusual fall upset the big fellow and the Jackets fell on his offerings to nab a 3-1 lead. Three more runs were added in the seventh, while each team counted once in the eighth.

Woodrow Wilson Preston, last year with Havre de Grace, hurled the final stanza for the Papermakers. Although turning in a pair of boots, Deenie Herstine made a beautiful catch of Paul Whiteman's liner in the first inning for the fielding gem of the day.

Jackie Myers, another former Riverman, also did a neat job of chasing deep into right center to nab a high fly which enabled him to pick Sheats off first base.

Whiteman In Form

Popular little Paul Whiteman answered all doubts concerning the condition of his recently injured right arm by fanning nine Browns on Sunday. He held the hard-hitting Middletowners to seven scattered blows and one earned run.

Barrow, Willis and George led the Jackets' attack with long and timely blows, while Eddie Weatherlow was the leading swatman for the opposition. Poor work on the left side of Middletown's infield aided the Jackets.

While the pitching trio of Al Rawley, George Winter and Lefty Kline failed to halt Newark on Sunday, it more than put the brakes on Taylor Biles' forces at Oxford on Saturday.

Freddie Baldwin's offerings proved ineffective against the Middletowners who poked out 16 blows including three doubles. Elliot and Jewel were the leading hitters.

Errors Hurt Conway

With the outfielders dropping no less than four fly balls, Reggie Conway was lucky to hold Oxford to a 4-2 count at Providence on Sunday, des-

Yellow Jackets
Top Wilmington;
Ewing On Mound

Coach Irish O'Connell's baseball tossers dropped a 2-1 decision to West Nottingham Academy at Coloma, Md., yesterday afternoon. Slender Roy Hill turned in a near perfect mound exhibition in stopping the Presbyterians with a lone hit.

An easy fly ball that popped out of Willard Crater's glove in the third inning led to the deciding run of the contest. Hill fanned eight men in the six innings West Nottingham batted. The engagement was limited to seven sessions.

By Leroy Carlile Hill, Jr. Playing heads up baseball, the Newark High School Yellow Jackets defeated Wilmington on Monday, for the first time in years. Ewing, pitching for the Jackets, limited the Red Devils to three hits, striking out 12, while Tibbett allowed 5 hits.

Butts Leads Hitters "Ciggy" Butts led the local combine with three hits in three trips to the rubber. No score was made following Newark's lone tally in the first chucker, until the sixth when the Devils knotted the count. The Jackets went ahead, however, and sewed up the contest with three runs in the last three innings.

Mainly because of the work of Paul Skillman, the track team grabbed a third in the University of Delaware Interscholastics on Saturday.

The local iron man annexed a second in the shotput and high jump and ran on the relay team which finished second.

Other point winners were: relay team; Treut, Hoffecker and Harrington; and Melvin Brooks, fourth in the 220. Gus Smith and Jack Doordan failed to place.

CARDS DEFEAT CHAMPIONS IN CLOSE BATTLE

Roberts' Slip Paves Way For Deciding Run As National Fibre Bows, 5-4

WRIGHT-ARGO IN SPOT

Jackson's Hardware took command of first position in the Newark Twilight League last night by stopping the Cardinals, 4-0, behind Bill Deaver.

Ernie Lomax was the losing pitcher and turned in a creditable performance for the Red Birds who were handled by Shorty Chalmers, co-manager.

Roy Hill's Cardinals drew first blood in the Newark Twilight League Monday night when Charlie Moore's National Firemen, 1936 champions, dropped a 5-4 decision at Continental Field.

A "boner" by Dick Roberts at third base for the titlists opened the gate for Eddie Graham to skip home with the winning run. Roberts' mental error offset the magnificent hurling of Tommy Wright, who held the vaunted Cards to three scattered blows, and the prodigious hitting of Rube Argo, who smacked the ball for a home run and double.

Rally In Fifth

Trailing by a count of 4-1 entering the fifth and last stanza, the Firemen fell on Irish O'Connell's offerings for a trio of runs. Argo led the onslaught with a mighty poke that cleared the fence in deep center. Beers, Cards' starting hurler, was relieved by O'Connell in the fourth.

Graham and Sheats opened the Cards' fifth by working Wright for passes. A double steal was effected and as Roberts carelessly tossed the ball toward the center of the diamond, following a futile attempt to nail Graham at third, the speedy little outfielder made a successful dash for the plate with the deciding run.

Wright In Form

Wright, former Newark High School and Junior Legion hurler, was in rare form. His left-handed tosses had the powerful Cards under control throughout the engagement.

Continental Diamond and Jackson's Hardware officially raised the curtain last Friday night by battling to a scoreless draw in seven innings. Reggie Conway, pitching for Continental, checked his opponents with a lone infield hit. Bill Deaver and Kirby Preston, dividing the mound duties for the Jackson array, were effective with men on the bases.

National and Continental play on Friday night; Jackson's and Continental tangle on Monday; and Continental faces the Cards on Wednesday in coming attractions.

Easily Whitewash P. M. C. By 9-0 Count; Hurlers Top Hampden-Sydney 11-4

Three University of Delaware teams, track, golf and tennis, are scheduled to perform on Saturday, May 8, in two away contests and one home conflict.

Coach Ed Bardo will take his track team to Baltimore for a performance in the annual Mason-Dixon Conference meet. The finals will be run off at night under flood lights. Washington College and Catholic University, last year's one-two winners, are expected to repeat again on Saturday.

Tom Pennock, javelin and high jump entry; Fenton Carey, specializing in the middle distances and the javelin, and Tom Hutchinson, a freshman sprint man, are the only definite starters. Coach Bardo is uncertain as to the other members of the squad. Captain Joe Perkins, star quarterback who pulled a leg muscle in the first meet, is not expected to be in shape for the meet.

DEPRIVED OF A TOY, forced to do without their annual classic, fraternities at the University of Delaware

With the introduction of the new fraternities found themselves for the first time, just plain members of the student body as non-varsity athletics were concerned. Accustomed to having their own wishes carried out through the union, the inter-fraternity council brotherhoods found the play of the department's ruling a bitter pill to swallow. It wasn't until the intramurals was one of the greatest steps taken by the University of Delaware in many years.

For while frat men enjoyed athletics within their own cliques the fourths of the student body, not participants in varsity sports, were forced to carry on without any form of organized athletic program whatsoever.

Inter-fraternity contests were, the most part, blotched with an air of bitterness which frequently blossomed forth when the games were played. Some of the performances were far from complimentary to the participants and sportsmanlike or playing the game for the sake, was generally an obsolete characteristic when frat men met.

the latest news for retaining this program.

SETTLEMENT came last year by a 5-1 vote of the interfraternity council which decreed that fraternities should lend wholehearted support to the program. However, the issue has again cropped up with the council's statement made to President Walter Hallahan which announced that if "By the end of the year no effective compromise has been reached between interfraternity and interfraternity athletics, the interfraternity council will withdraw all support from the intra-mural program."

So what?

This measure will only serve to create dissension within the fraternities rather than defeat the purpose and carrying on of the intramurals.

For with the momentum gained by the latter program in one year, the interfraternity withdrawal of support will serve only as a small obstacle in the way of the biggest athletic improvement made at the institution.

The interfraternity relay has been termed a classic and it has been described as one of the most colorful events of the annual University of Delaware Intercollegiate, but classic and colorful events have been done away with and forgotten in the past.

Basically, the race was just another opportunity for one frat to show superiority over another—that was our "spirit." Excitement created by ambulating students and spectators training vocal cords for the head on which the bet was placed to cross the first was your "color."

It was always a highly spirited race witness but the interscholastics is cluttered with close competition, so who cares, except the frats?

Just the final flick of an order which has been outmoded but can't realize it.

UNNING TRUE TO FORM, they are once again attempting to get something for themselves rather than concentrating their interests on a program that, so far as the whole student body is concerned, has it all over the order.

A fraternity sets itself apart from university and works for its own interest rather than the school's. It is useless for phys ed directors to request them to drop selfish interests and concentrate on improving something outside of their own limited area.

When non-varsity members of fraternities start clamoring for a little more activity, however, it is then that action taken by the Interfraternity Council will serve as a booming and start internal dissension. They'll be crying to come back.

Softball Meeting Called

Final reorganization of the Newark Softball League is expected to take place at a meeting slated for Monday night, May 10 at 7 o'clock in room 202 of the Newark High School. Anyone interested is welcome to attend, Paul Griffith, enthusiastic supporter of the sport, announced.

Councilman John F. Richards was absent.

Handoff States Objections
Louis Handoff, proprietor of the State Theatre and listed as the biggest individual taxpayer in Newark, was the spokesman for a delegation opposing the one-hour law ordinance. He was supported by his son, Herman Handoff, and George F. Jackson, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Handoff pointed out that he had toured the United States during the winter to the extent of 9,000 miles, going as far west as California and as far south as Florida, yet he had not touched any town where parking regulations existed after six o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Jackson urged that a town-owned parking lot (approved by the Council at the April 1936 meeting) be put into use as a means of relieving the present situation. In response to a claim that cinders have not been obtainable for fixing the proposed site on Delaware Avenue, Mr. Jackson stated that the Pennsylvania Railroad officials informed him that they will reserve cinders and deliver them to Newark at the cost of $10 a carload.

He also voiced strenuous objections to any parking regulation after 6 o'clock, and added that Maryland customers of his hardware business have opposed all suggestions of a one-hour law.

Financial Balance $10,369.12

The report of Treasurer C. Vernon

Steele showed a balance of $10,369.12 as of May 1. Alderman Daniel Thompson reported $102 collected in fines during April, while Chief of Police Cunningham's report showed 23 arrests for the same period.

Fifty-three water meters were installed in April and the town is now 90 per cent supplied with meters, Engineer George C. Price reported.

The tree planting committee, consisting of Councilmen Hubert, Johnson and Wollaston, will confer with T. A. Baker and L. R. Detjen of the Newark Garden Club concerning proposed regulations.

A complaint was received from former Councilman O. W. Widdoes concerning dogs being permitted to bother the neighborhood of Delaware Avenue and Orchard Road.

Memorial Day Appropriation

Council appropriated $75 for the observance of Memorial Day. Major Donald L. Dutton has been named chairman of the committee in charge.

Assessor Robert Motherall was instructed to designate days when non-property owners can place their names on the assessor's rolls. A question concerning the taxation of lots owned by the Red Men's Home was laid before Attorney J. Pearce Cann for decision.

Bids will be asked for the construction of a new storm sewer starting at Academy Street and Delaware Avenue. The line will extend on Delaware Avenue to Haines Street, thence to the extreme end of that street to low Lovett Avenue where it will empty into an open ditch.

Change In Trolley Lines Is Now Effective; Road To Be Widened For Races
ART WEEK OBSERVED
By Emma S. Maclary
Newport, May 6.—The terminus of the Newport-Stanton trolley line is now at Lindbergh Avenue, Silview.
This change in service became effective Monday, and was necessary because of construction work now underway on the Newport-Stanton Pike, where three new bridges were constructed, and the Delaware Power and Light Company feeling that there were not sufficient passengers on the Stanton end of the line, decided they would not go to the expense of laying their tracks over the new bridges.
This road work when completed, will provide a much improved and wider road, and it is planned to establish bus service between Stanton and Silview. The trolley tracks have been taken up between Silview and Stanton, which enable the Delaware State Highway Department to widen the road to take care of additional traffic which is expected to pass over this highway due to the Delaware Park meet scheduled for June 26.
Music Festival Held

program was arranged by Miss Sarah Goldstein, instructor of music in the chorus was Miss Ruth Weiner,

The chorus was composed of 60 pupils from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the school. There were approximately 150 children taking part in the program. Demonstrations by the creative activities group from the second, third and fourth grades were put on, and were very impressive. This group demonstrated activities in connection with social study units of work completed at the school this year. Original songs and presentations were inspired by trips the children had made during the year, as well as the special units of study. An art exhibit was arranged by Mr. Joseph Corbi, art instructor at the school, showing some especially fine work completed at this school during the year.
Plays Presented
The eighth grade of the Krebs School presented their play, "That's

Seeks Mother's Gift

Jim Sutton of the Kappa Alpha House, 151 W. Main St., is endeavoring to furnish a Mother's Day surprise for a fellow member.

On April 17, the night of the KA "formal," the anonymous fraternity member lost his chapter pin in or near Old College, or around the University of Delaware campus.

Presented by his mother, who died two months later, the pin, containing 22 pearls and shaped like a shield, is highly valued—sentimentally more than intrinsically.

A liberal reward is promised the finder for returning the emblem to the Kappa Alpha House or to the University of Delaware.

Grange A Combination Fraternity
And Cooperative Body For Farmers

By Robert Yearsley

Lecturer, Delaware State Grange

In presenting the Grange to the non-members, we first make it clear that it is not only a farm organization, but it is also a fraternity. It differs from other fraternities in that it was the first to admit women to membership with full voting rights.
The Grange was born of necessity in the post-Civil War reconstruction period. As it furnished sound leadership then, it is furnishing a constructive program in these post-World War reconstruction days. When the Grange was organized 70 years ago there was no such thing as a farm organization. When the founders of the order saw the bitterness that existed between the North and South and the jealousy among neighbors, they reasoned that the only way to hold agricultural people together was with a fraternal organization.

Moreover, the Grange differs from other fraternities in that it goes to the most basic science, to the oldest calling of man, for the lessons of its ritual—agriculture. There can be no more soul-stirring ritualism than that patented issued from the gates of Eden.

REV. BLAKE

YEARS BACKPastor At Mermaid For Last Half Century Cites Improvements At Church

343 MEMBERS LISTED

By Sara A. Pennington

Mermaid, May 5.—The Rev. John
D. Blake, who has served the Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church as its pastor for the past fifty years, gave reminiscences of the school at the annual rally day service on Sunday. He described the appearance of the room and told how modern lights, seating equipment and a central heating system, had taken the place of kerosene lamps, long wooden benches, and four large heaters.

The enrollment has grown from 50 to 343 members. Archibald Armstrong was then superintendent and he was followed by James Shakespeare, Henry B. Blair, Ferris Yearsley, Eugene Woodward and D. M.
Buckingham who is now serving in that capacity and was reelected Sunday for his tenth year. Mr. Blake came to Red Clay Creek on May 19, 1887 on his graduation from Prince-will be held in November, the month in which he was ordained there a half a century ago.

CARNIVAL SUGGESTION

How about a horseback parade during the Firemen's Carnival? The farming community and near-by towns could easily muster a line of two hundred mounts. A fine sight it would be, too.

Put up a grand stand—get some of our crack whips as judges and award prizes for the best mounts would be interesting and draw crowds of rural folk that love good horse flesh.

Let the horse enter into competition with the benzine buggy. Give the farmer boy and girl a chance. Two hundred horses—the best that can be found—would make a pretty sight.

Here's a saddle to the girl who wins the decision of the stand.

My Mother

By Allan O. Wilson

My Mother was the only friend Who did stand by until the end She even in her deepest grief Looked unto God for His relief

My Mother was the only friend Who prayed to God for Him to send To her dear ones a guiding hand To lead them to the Promised Land

And when the hour of death rolled in She spoke these words to all in sin, "Get ready, now, for Christ to see, When He shall also call home thee."

ONCE AGAIN

Mary L. Roberts

Yes, Spring is here!

I see the golden sheen

Of Maple's leafy boughs—

In the hillside sloping green.

Shy violets peep here and there Beside a babbling brook Or even in a sheltered place Though it's a stony nook.

O kites fly high on rising breeze And marbles are a craze Jump rope divides attention With hop-scootch dizzy maze.

While arm-in-arm the college folk Go strolling slowly by Their thoughts are on each other They scarcely see the sky.

The farmer plods behind the team Of sturdy horses there He knows how good potatoes taste When frost is in the air.

And idle folk just dig for worms And take out hooks and line In hasty preparation For fishing in the brine.

Yes Spring's a very busy time For everything with life The bees the flies, all beast and birds For mating time is rife.

Missionary Meeting

The May meeting of the Young Women's Home Missionary Society of the Newark M. E. Church will be held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Emma Buchanan, Elliott Heights. Miss Sara Marshman will be the assistant hostess.

"Never Satisfied"

"Years ago, people used to have telephone trouble pretty often. Today there's mighty little repair work on telephones. I just fixed a worn out cord in one house and they told me it was the first telephone trouble they'd had in eleven years. I can't vouch for that, but I do know that telephone equipment is getting better every year because our research people are never satisfied. They're always trying to improve your service. Of course, it's not a hundred percent trouble-free yet—but when trouble does come, we get it fixed in a hurry. Nobody wants to be without telephone service these days."

Research that eliminates repairs also helps to keep down the cost of service. Today almost everyone can afford a telephone. You can have one in your home for less than a dime a day. Just call the Business Office.

The judges for the contest were Professor Bruce Carpenter, professor of drama at New York University, Professor Winton Tolles, director of dramatics at Washington College, and Dr. Richard Allen Arms, director of dramatics at Gettysburg College.

BOOK SHELF

By PERCY ROBERTS
Literary Editor

COLUMBIA POETRY—Columbia University Press.

"At this particular time in the world's history there seems to me both valiance and pathos in the poetry of young people," writes William Rose Benét in his introduction to "Columbia Poetry 1936," a collection of verse written by students at Columbia University.

"But I don't intend to sentimentalize about it," Mr. Benét continues. "Every bit of good poetry they can write, however, is so much gained in the face of old barbarisms that have smeared Europe with blood, where tyranny and injustice are, for a little while, triumphant. The shadow of fascism that now threatens our own country is to be fought, and I have faith that the young will prove overwhelmingly the force to fight it. Poetry is the proof of a nobility of spirit concerning tyranny knows nothing. It is the only spirit that will save the world."

"This may seem a far cry from the first ventures in verse by younger people. But many of these are, I should say, not the first." Nine of the thirty-eight authors have had poems published previously. "They give evidence of accomplishment already. The technical average is high. There is nothing amateurish about the workmanship of this poetry." For example, Mr. Benét cites the poem "Now the Wain," which brought its author, Boris Todrin, a student in Columbia College, the 1936 award of the Mariana Griswold Van Rensselaer Prize for "the best example of English lyric verse" by any candidate for a degree at Columbia University.

After further citation of the "evidence" which shows "life" and a "vital reaction to experience so far as known," Mr. Benét concludes: "Is education undergoing a sea change? I hope so. What a feeble and droning preparation for life it has often been. But education that can enhearten such imaginative minds as these is surely on the right road. After all these centuries of great thoughts greatly expressed, people still distrust and deny the Word that is God, protean as it may be. Yet, despite the deniers, it is words that are changing the world. They can be a great force for all evil—as we have seen. It is time to form phalanxes of them and marshal them into armies for the brotherhood of man and the birth of sanity in our human society. The poets have, as ever, a responsibility laid upon them and a task before them. They cannot be regimented actually, but they can be a power in the land. Let them go out into the sunlight and through the streets of our many cities, and strike fire from the anvil!"

"THE QUESTION BOX"

Q. Should superphosphate be applied in the spring or fall?

A. Superphosphate can be effectively applied either in the fall or in the spring depending on the crop to follow. For a crop similar to wheat or permanent pasture, application should be made in the fall. The phosphorus will be taken up by the plants and will prepare them for spring growth. No leaching of the phosphorus from the soil will occur. For crops to be planted in the spring, the best time to apply superphosphate is either just before or at the time of seeding. In applying it at this time, the young plants are assured of a supply of phosphorus for the development of good root systems.

Q. What causes pullets to go into a partial molt about this time of year?

A. Pullets hatched in February and March are likely to go into molt when cold weather arrives because they are not able to eat enough feed during the short days to maintain their body weight and egg production. Any sudden change in feeding or management will also tend to throw the pullets into molt. For instance, a sudden change of ration will cause pullets to go into a partial molt.

Q. Is it worth while to chop hay and blow it into the mow instead of mowing it loose?

A. Usually about 50 per cent more hay can be stored if it is chopped or ground and blown into the mow. Several Delaware farmers have found that chopped hay is more convenient to feed and easier to handle. Chopping, as yet, as shown no effect on the food value of the hay. Hay to be chopped and stored this way could be cured longer than hay which is to be mowed loose.

Q. With the current grain and feed prices, would it pay to attempt to carry turkey hens through the winter or would it be more profitable to sell them and buy eggs or pullets in the spring?

A. If the strain of turkeys on the farm has proved successful, it would probably be cheaper to carry the hens through the winter because if the high grain prices force many producers to sell their hens at this time, turkey eggs and pullets will be very high in the spring and it would probably be more expensive to replace the stock than to carry it through the winter. It might be wise to keep only the best hens, sell the poorer individuals, and plan to purchase either eggs or pullets to bring the flock to full strength in the spring.

Q. What is a good winter laying ration for pullets and how should it be fed?

A good grain and mash ration for laying pullets is the following mixture: Ground yellow corn, 670 pounds; wheat bran, 300 pounds; wheat middlings, 300 pounds; ground oats, 250 pounds; meat scraps, 200 pounds; dried milk, 100 pounds; alfalfa leaf meal, 100 pounds; bone meal, 20 pounds; limestone flour, 20 pounds; salt, 20 pounds; cod liver oil, 20 pounds. This makes 2,000 pounds of the mixture but smaller amounts can be made if the proportions are maintained. This ration should be fed with a grain mixture of half whole or cracked yellow corn and half whole wheat in the proportion of one part grain mixture to three parts of the mash. The mash should be kept before the birds at all times and the grain fed in the hoppers on top of the mash twice a day, about one fourth in the morning and the remainder in the evening. It takes from 10 to 14 pounds of the grain mixture for 100 birds per day.
