I KILLED, 9 HURT AS BUS UPSETS NEAR GLASGOW

Crash Between Truck and Bus Ends Fatally; Driver
Arrested

CLAIM TRUCK SKIDDED

One man was killed and nine people were injured, some of them seriously, when a truck and a large New York-Washington bus crashed together Sunday night on the highway a short distance south of Bear Station.

The bus belonged to the Colonial Lines. The accident, which occurred about 7 o'clock, was attributed to the fact that the wet pavement was slippery, and caused the truck to skid directly in front of the bus. Stewart Smith, driver of the bus, was injured, as were eight others, when the bus ran off of the road and upset.

John Card, of Casanova, a suburb of Syracuse, N. Y., was seated in the bus three seats back of the driver. As the bus and truck crashed together, Card's head was thrown against the frame of the bus, and he died almost immediately of a fractured skull.

The driver of the truck, Howard Williams, of Philadelphia, and Stewart Smith, the bus driver, were both held under bail of $5000 on charges of manslaughter.

The injured persons, all of whom were riding in the bus, included one Wilmington man, and a man from New Castle. Those injured were:

Carlton Creadick, 22 years old, 1021 Monroe street, Wilmington, laceration of the eye.

William Cress, 18, 800 West Thirtieth street, New Castle, laceration of the head.

A. C. Snyder, Daytona, Fla., injuries about the head and legs.

Edward Zeits, Philadelphia, lacerations and bruises.

Ollie McFadden, Negro, Philadelphia, lacerations of head.

Arthur McFadden, 11 months old, Ollie McFadden's son, injuries about head and legs.

Herbert McFadden, 4 years old, injuries about head and arms, another son of McFadden's.

Charles Thompson, Negro, 23 years old, injuries about head.

WIN NATIONAL CANNING PRIZE

Mr. and Mrs. Gladdish Take
First Prize in Meat Canning Contest

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Neal Gladdish, who reside on the Lincoln Highway near Newark, have been announced as the winners of the first prize in the meat canning classes of the 1930 National Canning Contest conducted by the Household Science Institute, in Shenandoah, Iowa. This choice means that the exhibition entered in the contest by Mr. and Mrs. Gladdish was chosen as the best in the United States, and is a signal honor and credit to the work of the Delawareans.

The first prize in the contest amounted to $100 and a silver loving cup. The Gladdish entry in the contest was a quart jar of canned chicken.

This is the second time that Mr. and Mrs. Gladdish have entered the national contest. In the 1929 contest, they won the third prize for canned meats, out of a list of entries from all parts of the United States.

$32,000 IN X-MAS CLUB TO BE PAID

Farmers' Trust Company to Send Out Checks in Few Days

If there is a business depression in this country, Newark does not seem to be greatly affected by it, as bank deposits and clearings are larger this year than in years in the past.

On December 1 and December 8, the Farmers' Trust Company will mail out checks totaling more than $32,000 to members of its Christmas Savings Club. This amount exceeds by about ten per cent the amount paid out last year, and is the largest amount of money ever paid out by the Christmas Club in Newark.

J. E. Dougherty, treasurer of the Farmers' Trust Company, said yesterday that the interest in Christmas Savings Clubs is increasing each year in this town, and more people are joining the clubs every year. The Christmas Club plan of saving is one of the best plans ever devised, he stated, and while the payments are small enough that they are easily made, the amount of money saved by the end of the year is a sizable one, and gives the members of the club a welcomed sum for use at a time when it is most needed. It is expected that the use of the funds accumulated this year in the Christmas Clubs will prove a great boon to business in Newark, and will provide a source of money to keep the holiday season trade up to a par with previous years.

BIG WEEK-END PLANNED FOR DEL. STUDENTS

Haverford Game to be Drawing Card; Alumni Dinner,
Smoker, Scheduled

PLAY P. M. C. THURSDAY

In many respects the coming week-end will be the greatest from the athletic standpoint for the students, alumni and friends of the University of Delaware for many years.

In the first place Saturday afternoon the annual football game with Haverford will be played on Frazer Field. For nearly quarter of a century this has been the big game of the year for the Blue and Gold especially when played at home as it will this year. While Haverford has won a large majority of the games played to date Delaware's prospects for victory this year with the rejuvenated team that Coaches Zeigler and Rogers have developed are excellent.

The success of the Delaware football team this season has aroused more interest in the game than ever before and the attendance for the home games has been much larger than in any previous season. Last Saturday Delaware surprised the football experts by getting a 13 to 13 tie with the strong Drexel team and in fact outplayed them the last half. Delaware has now won four, lost two and tied one game this season. The game on Saturday at Newark will start at 2:15 o'clock.

On Friday night there will be a parade of students followed by a mammoth pepfest and smoker preparatory to the Haverford game when there will be talks by prominent alumni interested in sports to urge the team on to victory. Following this the Athletic Council will hold a meeting to approve the winter schedules, which includes basketball, swimming and fencing.

Immediately following the Haverford game Saturday evening about 5:30 o'clock there will be an alumni dinner in Old College, Newark. It is expected that at least 300 alumni will attend this dinner and the members of the football squad and the coaches will be honor guests. This dinner is to be a sort of testimonial in appreciation of the fine record made by the football team.

The football season will close on Thanksgiving Day when Delaware plays P. M. C. in Chester.

CANCEL ORGAN RECITAL FOR NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

The organ recital by Firmin Swinnen, scheduled in Mitchell Hall for Monday evening, November 24, has been called off due to its interference with the usual college functions that precede Thanksgiving. There will also be no rehearsal of the chorus at that time.

The community chorus conducted by Mr. Swinnen will appear on the program for the first time at the next recital, Monday evening, December 1.

An Appeal To Our Citizens

There are many people this winter in Newark who are, through conditions over which they have no control, more or less in distressed circumstances. Many of these people are out of work—others ill—others too old to compete with the younger workmen in industry. All of them are in need of sympathy and assistance from those of us who are more fortunate—so fortunate, in fact, that it is hard for us to realize just how great is the distress of some of the other people in this town.

Christmas time is coming. For most of us it will be a joyous, happy occasion, filled with bright days and cheery thoughts. For the unfortunate ones, however, it will be an occasion of sadness and heartbreak—the days drear, the nights filled with dread of the morrow.

So let us show the real, true, Christmas Spirit this time when it is needed. Food for the dinner baskets, clothing for protection from the cold, funds for the payment of debts, odd jobs to provide some income, are needed to help those who need help. If you, as citizens of Newark, and as believers in the Christmas Spirit, will help, notify the Welfare Committee of the New Century Club, or else call The Post and tell us of your willingness to aid. We will gladly see that your name is given to those in charge of the relief work in our town this Christmas. Everyone should join in this good work of doing good.

WON'T YOU?

W. A. MARRS, JR. GRAND MASTER OF STATE I. O. O. F.

Honored at 97th Annual Session of Lodge; Other Local Men Named

ORDER SHOWS LOSS

W. A. Marrs, of Oriental Lodge, No. 12, of Newark, was elected Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Delaware, I. O. O. F., at the ninety-seventh annual meeting of the Grand Lodge held at the Odd Fellows' Building, Ninth and King streets, Wilmington, yesterday.

The newly elected Grand Master and other officers of the Grand Lodge were installed by Past Grand Master Thomas M. Jefferson, of the Maryland Jurisdiction.

The morning session of the meeting was devoted to the reports of the various officers, which showed the order to be in splendid shape, although there was a slight decrease in membership due to the present economic conditions.

Prior to the afternoon session luncheon was served to the more than 300 members who came from all parts of the State for the sessions. The dinner was served by the Rebekah Assembly under the direction of the following committee: Mrs. Naomi Dawes, Mrs. Mary Tucker, Mrs. Ida B. Colburn, Mrs. Mabel Lewis, Mrs. Mary Vaughan and Mrs. Julia Douthy.

HOUSTON HEADS STATE SOCIETY

Congressman Elected to Fifth Successive Term at Capital

Congressman Robert G. Houston was unanimously re-elected president of the Delaware State Society for his fifth successive term, at the first monthly meeting of the society in the Thomas Circle Club in Washington. The active and able direction of Mr. Houston has been largely responsible for the increased attendance and interest shown in the society there.

Resolutions on the death of the late Senator T. Coleman du Pont were adopted and recorded on the minutes of the meeting. In his lifetime, General du Pont took a keen interest in the Delaware State Society, entertaining (Continued on Page 4.)

ANDREW BREEDING ARRESTED ON STOLEN CAR CHARGE

Andrew Breeding, of Newark, was taken into custody last Friday by Officer Cunningham at the request of Maryland authorities on a charge of the larceny of a motor vehicle.

Breeding is alleged to have stolen an automobile from his grandfather, R. L. Breeding, of Preston, Maryland. Believing that he would come to Newark, Maryland police notified Officer Cunningham to be on the lookout for Breeding. He was found Friday and placed under arrest, and was later turned over to Officer J. E. Wheeler, of the Maryland State Police, who took him back to Maryland to stand trial.

$80,000 WORTH OF RUM SEIZED; DRIVERS HELD

Two Trucks Taken by State Highway Police After Long Chase

DOVER MEN ARRESTED

Delaware Bay rum runners suffered the loss of an $80,000 cargo of liquor at 6 o'clock last night, when two trucks containing the contraband were seized by State Highway Police near Felton. The drivers were also arrested.

Those arrested identified themselves as H. K. Thurber Forbes, and Ray P. Rogers, both of Dover. They were taken to Wilmington and locked up at the police station and will be given hearings today before United States Commissioner Polk on charges of possession and transportation. The trucks, each of five tons capacity, were placed in the government garage. The liquor was placed in the seizure vault at Sixth and King streets, Wilmington.

The trucks were first sighted by Lieutenant Ingram and Sergeant Powell, of the Dover station, as they were patrolling a dirt road leading from Frederica to Sour Apple Tree School House, which runs near the Mispillion River, twelve miles up from the Delaware Bay.

The police, according to Captain H. C. Ray, have been watching the roads since the seizure of the speedboat Don, at Flemings Landing, three months ago. They became suspicious (Continued on Page 5.)

RURAL CHIEFS HOLD MEETING

Form Organization of Leaders; Elison Named on Committee

Fire chiefs from seventeen of the twenty rural fire companies of New Castle County organized the Fire Chiefs' Association of New Castle County, at a meeting in Richardson Park Tuesday night. The meeting was called by Fire Chief John N. Jordan, of the Five Points Fire Company.

Fire Chief William J. Lutz of Wilmington acted as temporary chairman.

The purposes of the meeting and the benefits to be derived from an organization of the directing heads of the rural fire companies were outlined by Chief Jordan.

SCHOOL BUILDING COMMISSION

The Building Commission of the Newark Schools have held several meetings this week, discussing final plans for the new wing to the present Newark School Building, and clearing up the final details preparatory to the signing of the contracts for the work of erecting and equipping the new wing.

The specifications of the new wing call for completion of the work by August 31, 1931, which means that the new unit will be ready and open at the beginning of school next fall. With the addition of the new wing, the Newark School will be one of the finest school buildings in the state, and will care for the needs of Newark for some years to come.

CENTURY CLUB HEARS W. J. ELLIS

Faculty Member Speaks on "My Impressions of Newark"

Warren J. Ellis, assistant professor of modern languages of the University of Delaware, featured the meeting of the Newark New Century Club Monday afternoon with an address on "My Impressions of Newark."

Mrs. R. O. Bausman, president, had charge of the meeting and Mrs. F. A. Cooch, made a report on the meeting of the Federation meeting at Claymont last week. Mrs. R. W. Heim, for the Ways and Means Committee reported that $97.50 was cleared on the rummage sale and $146 from the Horse Show, with some funds yet to be reported.

Mrs. Bausman reported for Mrs. G. L. Schuster, chairman of the Library Committee, that $50 was realized on the luncheon served last Friday to teachers attending the Education Association Convention.

Following the talk by Prof. Ellis, Mrs. George W. Rhodes and her committee served tea and cake.

On November 24 there will be an open meeting when Mrs. Gambeau, of the Wilmington Gas Company will give a cooking demonstration.

Professor Ellis, in his talk, commended the town for some of its features that have apparently helped to attract many families during the past five years making Newark the fastest (Continued on Page 4.)

RIVER. HIGHWAY TRAVEL HALTED BY RAIN AND FOG

Boats Were Unable to Run, Trucks Slowed, During Week

MANY ACCIDENTS

Dense fog and rain showers that have enshrouded Delaware and sections of the East for the past week stopped yesterday.

Traffic on the Delaware River and in the bay was at a standstill. The fog, though intermittent breaks had occurred, prevented any maritime movements with vessels seeking the safety of harbors or anchoring in streams until more favorable conditions arrived.

Scores of vessels were anchored in the Delaware River between Lewes and Philadelphia. Traffic on the Wilson Line between Wilmington and Philadelphia was badly hampered. Early Monday the fog was so dense that scheduled boats between Wilmington and other points along the river were discontinued by the Wilson Line. Ferry boats continued to run but with a caution that threw them well behind schedule time.

Boats were continuously operating their fog horns while lying-to on the river. Monday 15 outbound vessels and 25 vessels bound for Delaware River ports anchored between Lewes and Philadelphia. Due to this river condition, the Wilson Line did most of their transportation of freight by truck.

Travel over the highways was likewise dangerous. The meeting of the Delaware Grangers, scheduled for Monday night, was postponed when it was deemed too dangerous to use the highways.

Many automobile accidents were reported and mishaps caused by pedestrians falling on the slippery pavements were frequent.

CO. E CLUB OF ELKTON TO GIVE THANKSGIVING DANCE

Climaxing a year of activity since its inception, the Co. E Club of Elkton is sponsoring its anniversary dance with a Thanksgiving affair next Wednesday evening, from nine until one o'clock, in the Elkton Armory.

Lloyd Major and His New Orchestra, a group of eleven musicians, who have enjoyed success not only in dance engagements but also in radio broadcasts and vaudeville work, will furnish the tunes for the occasion. This band has appeared on the Keith-Wilmer-Vincent vaudeville circuit in New York City and Boston and played for the Roseland and Cinderella Ballrooms, in New York, as well as the Avalon Ballroom in Boston and the Paradise Ballroom in Newark, N. J.

W. DENT SMITH ATTENDS WHITE HOUSE MEETING

Manager of Safety Council
Gives Report for Child
Conference

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

Walter Dent Smith, manager of the Delaware Safety Council, has contributed a portion of one of the most interesting reports to be submitted to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, which met in Washington yesterday. The report is in the hands of the chairman of the conference, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

Mr. Smith, who is the only Delawarean serving as a committee member of the conference, is responsible for the section of the safety education report dealing with the possibilities of association aid in furthering school safety activities.

Because of the remarkable success of the school safety program carried out by Mr. Smith, in Delaware, he was particularly well qualified to help with his committee report. He is at present chairman of the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross First Aid Committee and recently served as a member of the workers kept out of factories by machinery to find employment. Commission authorized to set up standards for the National and local Safety Councils. Due to Mr. Smith's efforts the State of Delaware in 1929 registered the greatest per cent reduction in automobile fatalities as well as in all accidental deaths of any state in the Union. The automobile death reduction is notable because in the nation as a whole such deaths increased more than 10 per cent. The improved safety habits of children contributed largely to the outstanding low Delaware automobile death record.

The report which Mr. Smith wrote in part recommends the development of a satisfactory safety program for secondary schools; better methods for coordinating safety work with the rest of the curriculum and development of effective extra-curricular activities with safety values.

TO GIVE DINNER TUESDAY NIGHT

Annual Thanksgiving Banquet at College to be Held in Old College

The annual Thanksgiving turkey dinner for students of Delaware College, University of Delaware, will be held in Old College, Newark, on Tuesday evening, November 25. Since this annual dinner was first started at the suggestion of A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator at the university it has become one of the most popular events of the college year to the students. In addition to the student body it is also attended by many members of the faculty, their wives and invited guests.

Plans for the dinner are being made by Mr. Wilkinson and members of the Student Council. Caleb Boggs of Cheswold, Delaware, president of the Student Council, will preside at the dinner. There will be a musical program and a number of short talks.

For two reasons it is likely that few of the students of the University of Delaware living at a distance from the university will return home for Thanksgiving this year. This is because of the fact that the holiday for this occasion only lasts from noon Wednesday, the day before Thanksgiving, until 8 o'clock Friday morning, and also because of the fact that the Delaware football team plays the final game of the season on Thanksgiving Day with P. M. C. at Chester, Pa., and most of the students will want to see that game.

DEAN ROBINSON ATTENDS MEETING AT WASHINGTON

Dean Robinson, of the Women's College, University of Delaware, attended the meeting in Wilmington Saturday of the District Association of Deans of Women's Colleges. She is chairman of legislation of the association, which includes memberships in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

TO GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

The Ways and Means Committee of Mincola Council will put on their first entertainment on Wednesday evening, November 26, which will be a Thanksgiving program. Everyone is invited. Entertainment starts at 9 o'clock. A silver offering will be taken at the door.

FARMS IN STATE HAVE VALUATION OF $74,226,877

9707 Farms in Delaware, Census Reports; 45%
Crop Land

TOTAL 900,815 ACRES

According to a bulletin recently issued by the Bureau of the Census, there are 9,707 farms in the State of Delaware having a total acreage of 900,815, and a total value, including land, buildings, implements and machinery, of $74,226,877. These figures are given in detail for each county and each district within the state. This is the first Federal census report to show these figures by minor civil divisions.

Of the total farm acreage 45.2 per cent, or 407,609 acres, was crop land on which crops were harvested in 1929, 9.8 per cent or 88,147 acres was crop land which lay idle or fallow, and 0.9 per cent or 8,503 acres was land on which the crops failed to mature or were not harvested for any cause. Pasture land with a total of 122,553 acres representing 13.6 per cent of the total farm acreage of the state, including 82,855 acres of plowable land, 10,070 acres of woodland, and 23,628 of other land. In addition to the land cropped and pastured, the total land in farms included 187,623 acres of woodland not used for pasture, and 86,375 acres not in forest, pasture or crops, including the land occupied by house yards, barnyards, feed lots, lanes, roads, etc.

The total value of farm land and buildings was $66,941,747, of which $31,711,364 represented the value of farm buildings, $17,370,169 the value of the farmers' dwellings. The value of farm implements and machinery, including farmers' automobiles, was $7,285,130.

NEWARK HIGH BEATS DUPONT

Wins Game 6-2; To Play
Dover in D. I. A. A.
Semi-Finals

By defeating du Pont High School by a 6-2 score Saturday afternoon in the battle of the season between the two teams, Newark High gets the chance to play Dover next week in the semi-finals. The winner of that game will then play Delmar or Millsboro for the secondary high school championship of the State.

Newark won the title last year. The two previous games between Newark and du Pont were both ties, 6-6 and 7-7. du Pont took the lead in the first quarter when they blocked a Newark kick near the latter's goal line and Martin fell on the ball back of the line for a safety.

Newark scored a touchdown in the second quarter on a forward, Barrow to Willis. Wet grounds and rain during the game slowed up both teams. Barrow for Newark and Weibel for du Pont played the best ball.

PREVENT ANEMIA IN PIGS

By Prof. W. B. Krueck

According to the Wisconsin Experiment Station, anemia in suckling pigs is due to a lack of sufficient blood-forming elements, such as iron and copper in the milk of the brood sow.

The signs of anemia are low haemoglobin (red coloring matter) content of the blood, loss of appetite, depressed growth, lack of vigor and activity, quickened breathing and often sudden death.

As the disease develops the mucous membranes become pale. Examination of a pig after death shows a spotted liver, large amounts of fluid in the abdomen, an enlarged heart, pale internal organs and muscles and an increased amount of fluid in the thorax. Probably the coating of the air cells of the lungs with mucous and excessive fluid plus an enlarged heart leads to the labored breathing which is commonly described as "thumps."

Although many pigs may develop thumps or an anemic condition sufficient to cause death, there is no question but what a great many hogs would do considerably better if they were furnished with sufficient material to build and maintain the haemoglobin content of the blood of the little pig during the period when it is suckling the brood sow.

When corn alone is fed to the little pigs during this period we do not solve this problem and neither do we furnish the amount of protein that is essential to give this pig the necessary growth which is required to put him on the market at an early date. Therefore, the use of a good mixture containing about 18 per cent of protein and provided with a reasonable amount of minerals of the right type will hasten the development of the pig and prevent the anemic condition which may exist in a great many of our farm porkers and thereby limit their speed to the market.

For this reason it will pay hog feeders to place this type of feed before the pigs by the time they are a week old and give them an opportunity to help themselves.

THE PURPOSE OF HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISM

The question on the lips of every person you may meet nowadays is, "What is going on?" Of course everybody has interest in sports, government, social life, etc., and he may get some news from friends or in everyday conversation. However, if you will study the matter, it will be found that nine out of every ten persons usually take ten or fifteen minutes a day to read his favorite newspaper, his closest connection with the outside world and that which solves his question of "What is going on?"

When we read a paper we seldom realize how much time and effort are put in by many people to supply the human thirst for news. It is true that there is a division of labor; there are reporters who find the news and turn it over to the main office. Then we have editors, assistant editors, and numerous other people of the staff. The work of each person involves more or less writing, and theme-writing becomes a pleasure and not a task to the person. The writing of articles for a school paper is going to develop the person by improving his grammar and opening up the resources of his mind for knowledge.

The younger generation, or the school set, is beginning to realize the value of a paper and demand one from its school. News of school progress and proceedings should be published and sports should have a big write-up along with other social and humorous incidents all written through the medium of the journalism committee.

The school news is a strong link between the school and the community. It is the best means that we have for informing the school about our activities.

Thomas Foster, Editor-in-Chief.

A SHORT STORY

"Cornelius, that Smythe woman up on the hill got a new fur coat, and she wore it today when she called. Why can't I have a new fur coat? I might have known better than to marry you, a store clerk at thirty dollars a week, and dear knows what when you get old,—the poorhouse, I guess."

"Yes, dear, I know, but the manager said something this morning that might have meant a raise," said little Mr. Cornelius Hamtramck, who sat and listened to his wife most of the time. "And perhaps we can see about a coat on, let's see, the third of November, shall we say?" Mrs. Hamtramck, nee Amanda Baumgartner, had never for a moment lost sight of the fact that this next would be her thirty-ninth third of November, and had consequently given up, first, bread, then cream, then potatoes, according to whichever fashion column she was reading at the time; this was "to keep her figure ideal," as she told Mrs. Smythe over the tea things. Now this Mrs. Hamtramck had no mind to wait three weeks for a coat, if indeed a coat was in the offing; so with a few well chosen words calculated to sound Cornelius on her chances for a coat and also to hasten his mind if possible, she announced herself ready for bed. Cornelius was enjoined about the cat's being put out.

Mr. Hamtramck sat and thought. He would not for a moment admit it, even to himself, but the fact was that his wife's nagging and her allusions to his business "success" had annoyed him to the point of anger. He would have gone to heroic lengths to quiet her. He might even get her a coat, if that seemed the only way. And it did seem the only way. He could not afford a fur coat; so he sat and thought some more.

The clock ticked merrily on, though with a truly knowing look upon its time-worn face; it communed with itself in this wise: "Shiver my timbers and tie me to the mizzenmast! The little woman wants a new coat, eh? Well, fan my brow! And the master is thinking. What conclusion might I draw? Obviously, that he is thinking either how to put her off, or how to get her one." You see, it was a most astonishingly intelligent clock. "He frowns,—he does not wish to buy a coat. He shakes his head, no, he will not get one. He glances towards where Amanda was sitting, and immediately a tired look appears upon his face, and he wearily shakes his head, then nods it. He must get Amanda her coat."

At the store next morning, Mr. Hamtramck saw his chance. A mere matter of opening a case, slipping out a jewel, and the coat was as good as his. At night it would be a simple matter to exchange stone for paper, paper for a coat; how simple indeed is crime! Why had he not thought of that before? "If I," he continued to the gem, "am not discovered, how happy will be my life, with Amanda satisfied. The questions are, will Amanda be satisfied, and will I be discovered?" He almost skipped out, as the store closed.

The clock saw him come in, and with one of its most brilliant flashes of genius instantly divined the contents of the box Mr. Hamtramck carried under his arm. "Blow me down, he's got it. Now I wonder how he got it. Crack my hatches!" The old clock explained once to his friends, the andirons, that he was very well qualified to swear sailor's swears, since he had come from Germany on a two-master.

Mrs. Hamtramck came into the room just as Cornelius was admiring the coat, which he had thrown over his arm. She was taken completely by surprise, and was eloquently gushing over it. The doorbell rang, and Mr. Hamtramck answered it in fear and trembling, because the import of what he had done had just begun to dawn upon him. A plainclothes man snapped his wrists up and led him out to the tune of "Come along, buddy, the jug's the place for you. Next time be careful of your fingerprints."

The clock is mourning the absence of its regular Saturday night winding, a rite always performed by Mr. Hamtramck.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL HOLDS ASSEMBLY

The elementary assembly on Monday was in charge of Miss Madeline Johnston. The usual opening exercises were used including the Gloria, Lord's Prayer, Star-Spangled Banner, and the Flag Salute. The Bible was read by Miss Johnston. After the student body sang, "I Salute Thee, Old Glory," Superintendent Ira S. Brinser spoke on "The Duties of a School Child While In the Auditorium." The pupils sang "Hustle and Grin," announcements were made and assembly was dismissed.

NEWARK H. S. WINS FROM DU PONT HIGH

By defeating du Pont High School Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 2 in the third battle between the two teams this season, Newark High School gets to play Dover this coming Friday for the State semi-finals. The winner of the game will play Millsboro or Delmar for the secondary high school championship of the State. Last year Newark won the title.

The first two games between Newark and du Pont were both ties, 6 to 6 and 7 to 7.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

Under the leadership of Thomas Riley as chairman of the exhibit committee, much credit and praise was brought to the Newark School.

On the 13th and 14th of this month when the State Teachers meeting convened in Newark the Agriculture classes staged a miniature country fair in the Agriculture building of the Newark School in which all of the students in Agriculture participated. It was a very nice exhibit and favorably received by all who saw it.

The following was the committee on exhibits: Thomas Riley, chairman; Norman Dempsey, Alfred Cleaver, Joseph Cross, John Diehl, Joseph Lewis.

Poultry—Thomas Riley, Donald Connell, Joseph Cross, Joseph Lewis.

who reported. Despite this we are looking forward to a bigger turnout on Wednesday, November 19. It was decided by the students that each Wednesday at 12:30 would be the best time for practice, as quite a few of the group go home on the bus. Miss Hinkle is hoping there will be enough students interested that we may have two separate glee clubs. Later we are hoping to form an organization.

Miss Alice Sheldon, pianist, will furnish the music for the glee club.

BOY SCOUTS REBUILD TOYS FOR POOR CHILDREN'S XMAS

Members of the local Troop of Boy Scouts are going to again collect and repair toys for the poor children of the town and vicinity to be presented to them at Christmas. The boys are going to have a bench at their headquarters in Newark Academy to do the repair work on and will be glad to call at any home for the broken toys. They did the same sort of work last year and made a success of it.

It has been suggested that each family give at least one toy. Dolls are also requested and it is expected that members of the American Legion Post Auxiliary will again dress the dolls as they did last year. If any one having toys and dolls to give will notify A. E. Tomhave, T. A. Baker or Vernon Steel by telephone they will be glad to have a Scout stop for them.

This work is to be done under the auspices of the Welfare Committee of the New Century Club, of which Mrs. H. R. Wilson is chairman. After the toys and dolls are repaired and the dolls dressed, the committee will arrange for their distribution.

—OUR MOTTO.

NOVEMBER 20, 1930

Be A Builder, Not A Wrecker

In the code of ethics of one of the leading service clubs, each member pledges himself "to be careful with my criticisms and liberal with my praise; to build up and not destroy."

There are two forms of criticism—destructive and constructive. The one condemns, destroys, leaves only desolation where once was a structure—faulty, perhaps, but serving some good purpose. The other encourages, points out the better way, leads to building up, improving and advancing to nobler things.

There is enough error and wrongdoing in the world to furnish endless grounds for denunciation, complaint, or fault-finding, if people but devote themselves to it. There is also enough that is good and honest and praiseworthy in every human endeavor to furnish endless grounds for approval and encouragement and support.

The things that are not desirable can be supplemented by good things, suggested in a constructive way; and the things that are most desired are to be encouraged by liberal praise and by substantial aid and moral support.

With every service club, and with every individual working to that end; with all of their cumulative influences working to build up and not to tear down; to substitute good for evil instead of merely railing at evil; to teach fair and honest business methods instead of lamenting that some are not honest—who can doubt that this old world will not be made a better one, and that the standards of citizenship in every country will be steadily raised?

Thanks Indeed!

Thanksgiving indeed! For the right to live, the privileges enjoyed, the opportunities granted—Thanks. For "Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Fresh Air, and Work for Everybody"—Thanks. For books to read, for friends to cherish, yes—and for enemies to inspire—Thanks. For harvests abundant and the chance to share—Thanks. For church and examples of men to lead—for our State and Nation and the protection and pursuit of happiness—Thanks. For the peace enjoyed this year and the unrest to challenge and lead us on—Thanks. For college spires and workshops, we are thankful too. For men of action and men of dreams, for institutions and ideals to urge—Thanks.

And with our Thanksgiving, make us to sense our obligations to other men and climes and to know that from the joy of sharing comes the true spirit of Thanksgiving.

So whether in cathedral choir or pew, out under the dome of the Great Outdoors, or, by the Fire Altar of Home, we wish you a joyous day.

It is our day. Its observance is American in conception. Upon our attitude toward responsibilities imposed and recognition of blessings received depends the safety of Liberty itself, Nations of the Earth, false guided and misfortune to civic and social unrest, are calling to us. For leaders and the rank and file, the world looks to us while the God of Courts and Men holds balanced a Civilization's Destiny. To live in this day and take the part assigned by Worth and Circumstances—Thanks Indeed.

For the Dreams of yesterday, the Realities of today, and the Hopes of tomorrow—THANKS.—Everett C. Johnson, November 28, 1923.

Advertising More Important Now Than at Any Other Time

"Advertising today can be more beneficial to American business than at any other time." This is the opinion of John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, according to an article by H. Le B. Bercevic in the November issue of "The American Press."

Mr. Benson, who recently made a survey of the advertising business from coast to coast, is quoted in the article as follows:

"Advertising must attune itself to new conditions, and the proper kind of advertising can do a lot to bring about a business renaissance."

"The man who is out of work cannot be appeased by speeches or pretty advertisements."

"The man who has a little money is putting it away in the savings banks in fear of tomorrow."

"The man who has more money has been hit by his Wall Street speculations, and is also sitting tight."

"The mass saving of money, and the concomitant withdrawal of purchasing power has led to an economic condition where the hopeful factors are that there is a great stock of reserve cash accumulating to the credit of millions of people, who are also accumulating a necessity to buy many products which are wearing out."

"Advertising is needed to tap this rich, potent market without whose opening a business revival is impossible. There is need for co-operative 'buying' advertising by groups of industries, and, if possible, by business as a whole. There is need for a change in advertising tactics by many of our businesses."

"Advertising today can be more beneficial to American business than at any other time if it is conditioned to the new buying psychology."

"Business itself must awake to a realization of the impracticality of selfishness. All businesses must realize that their welfare, and that of the country, depends on the success of industry as a whole. One thriving business aids all businesses, by making more customers for all products."

"In this new idea of inter-relation of business, advertising can—and should—play a vital part."

"Advertising is the force that can put the American people in a buying mood."

"And, once the public is definitely in a buying mood the business revival will have started."

NATIONAL SOJOURNERS HAVE DINNER MEETING

A dinner meeting of the National Sojourners was held in the Blue Hen Tea Room on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Lieutenant Colonel S. J. Smith and Captain Scotten, of Newark, had charge of the arrangements. The speaker of the evening was Lieutenant Harris Samonisky, city editor of the Wilmington Evening News, who recounted his experiences as a newspaper reporter.

CHIMNEY FIRE

A chimney fire at the home of Harry Williams on "The Row," at about 8 o'clock last night provided a lot of excitement and drew a large crowd, but did very little damage. The burning flue made a heavy pall of smoke along "The Row," and the sparks shooting high in the air gave a Fourth of July appearance to that section of town. The Aetna Company was called, and in a short time had the fire out.

LEGION FOLLIES DELIGHTS CROWD

Large Audiences Attend
Show; Local Talent Make Big Hits

The American Legion Follies of 1930 was presented Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre to a capacity house. The show was put on under the direction of Bob Parrott of Baltimore. The cast was almost entirely composed of local talent with the exception of one specialty featuring WDEL stars. The show opened with "The Temple of Minstrelsy," with the following taking part: Harry Williamson, John Fader, Grif Moore, Raymond Buckingham, Harold Sheaffer and Eddie Parlett. Robert G. Parrott took the part of interlocuter. Ladies of the Ensemble were: Mrs. Ada Biery, Mrs. Katharine Lovett, Mrs. Edna S. C. Dickey, Mrs. Marguerite Balling, Miss Novella Du Hadaway, Miss Mary Moore, Miss Marion Ginn, Miss Mary Rose, Miss Hazel Cannon, Miss Edna Moore, Miss Pauline Moore, Miss Marion Spencer, Miss Doris Strahorn, Miss Dorothy McVey, Miss Katherine Fell, Miss Betty Heiser, Miss Virginia Evans, Miss Louise Dameron, Miss Louise Murray, Miss Josephine Blake, Miss Betty Ford. Gentlemen of the Ensemble were: James Collins, Dr. G. S. Skinner, Conrad Lewis, Guy Hancock, Bob Strahorn, Wesley Dempsey, Henry Woolen, Gerald Gilligan, Wayne C. Brewer, Lee Lewis, Sherwood Rumer, Frank Balling, Lewis Fell, T. A. Baker.

"The Land of Tulips" was put on by Dorothy Fell and Pauline Du Hadaway, supported by a chorus of girls: Camilla Heiser, Dot West, Dot Handloff, Hazel Gravenor, Dorothy Mitchell, Marie Slack, Gladys Beck, Sylvia Rose, Doris Sheaffer, Naudain Slack, Dorothy Powell, Oleta Harrington, Virginia Stikley, Katherine Mitchell, Jean Barnes and Virginia Phillips.

A specialty number with Bob Strahorn taking the solo part, was staged. Girls in the supporting chorus were: Doris Smith, Marion Spencer, Peggy Ford, Betty Wood, Rosalyn Ernest, Dorothy Dawson, Kay Spencer and Adela Thomas.

One of the most comic sketches was that by Wayne C. Brewer and Edna S. C. Dickey, called "Married."

Miss Pauline Moore and Harry Williamson did an effective song and dance number, "I'll Say So."

One of the features of the evening, which was the only part of the program not composed of local talent was "Radio Girls," by the broadcast stars of WDEL, Misses Reta Tatman, Mary Louise Pleasanton, and Mildred Ehart.

A group of local girls offered a well-received scene "The Outlaws." Those taking part were: Misses Josephine Blake, Betty Ford, Betty Heiser, Louise Murray, Doris Smith, Doris Strahorn, Marion Spencer, Mary Rose, Dorothy McVey and Virginia Evans. Miss Louise Dameron sang the specialty number, "The New Generation of Girls."

Ray Buckingham gave a specialty "Chicken Fever." Wesley Dempsey gave a group of songs. The three Tweed brothers gave a dance specialty, "Fresh from the Farm." Miss Ethel Hauber gave a specialty toe dance. Bob Parrott and Eddie Parlett put on a comedy sketch, "Goof and Goofus."

The show concluded with a novelty number, "Winter," which was very effective. Novella Du Hadaway sang the specialty number.

BONDS WORTH $1,390,000 ORDERED PAID BY STATE

Bonds to the amount of $1,390,000 were ordered redeemed at a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission Wednesday afternoon in Dover, presided over by Governor Buck. This makes a total of $9,175,000 of the State Highway Department bonds, which have been paid off since Governor Buck took office.

A total of $12,030,000 highway bonds have been issued since the organization of that department and with the bonds ordered paid Wednesday there will be a balance of but $2,855,000 to be paid. The bonds ordered paid Wednesday will be the last for the year ending December 31, 1930.

The balance of nearly $3,000,000 will be taken care of in the remaining two years of Governor Buck's administration. It is probable that Governor Buck will ask the Legislature to use some of the State surplus fund to pay off the remainder of the highway debt.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DROPS PLAN TO DECORATE STREETS

The Chamber of Commerce has decided to postpone its plan of decorating the streets of Newark for the Christmas holidays until next year, it was announced Tuesday by the President, Weldon C. Waples. Because of the general business depression, and because of the need of funds to care for people in distressed circumstances, the Chamber of Commerce decided that the expenditure of funds for the lighting equipment should be held until conditions are more favorable.

U. OF D. ORATORS TO-HOLD DEBATE

Will Argue Honor System with Haverford Team

The University of Delaware debate team will meet the Haverford team here on Friday at 8 p. m. in Mitchell Hall, on the eve of the annual football class between the two traditional rivals.

At the time the debate will be going on, the largest pep-fest in the history of the university will be in progress on another part of the campus.

The subject for discussion is: "Resolved That the Best Interest of American Colleges Demand the Universal Adoption of the Honor System." The Delaware team will take the affirmative stand.

Because of the fact that the honor system, under which examinations are conducted without faculty supervision, has been in effect at the University of Delaware for some years, the issue is one that is expected to attract considerable attention.

The members of the Delaware team are: H. Earl Shelton, Samuel M. Silver and Robert E. Curtin, Jr. Professor Dunlap, of the English department is the coach. Alternates are James Rosbrow and James Borup, who have been assisting in the collection of evidence for the debate.

Philip Kotlar, head of the Debate Council, will preside.

ing the society on his yacht and instigating the first annual banquet.

During the course of the general order of business, a number of applications for membership were received and favorably acted upon, bringing the total membership up to approximately 300. The election of officers was then held, the offices filled as follows:

President, Robert G. Houston, Georgetown.

First vice-president, James R. Kirkland, Wilmington.

Second vice-president, Mrs. Mary McCloskey, Wilmington.

Corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Bainard, Dover.

Treasurer, George Raymond, Wilmington.

The following were appointed by the president: Entertainment committee: chairman, Sheldon Fairchild, Wilmington.

Finance committee: chairman, Fred Klund, Wilmington.

Reception committee: chairman, Ralph Bailey, Wilmington.

Publicity committee: chairman, James R. Kirkland, Wilmington.

growing town in the State. He also offered a number of constructive criticisms that he things would help the town and its government in the future.

Professor Ellis told his hearers that he could suggest some improvements, but not in the sense of a criticism. Some of his suggestions are, a painting up campaign, improving the sidewalks, collection of garbage at least four times a week in hot weather, ash collections and that vacant lots be kept clear of rubbish and weeds and used as athletic fields for boys and girls. He suggested a playground for the younger children with a supervisor, and public rest rooms.

BATTERY E ENLISTS MEN

Battery "E" increased in strength by three the last drilling night. William Dill, Harold Swain and Harold Kennedy were the new members.

A large percentage of the members are showing their loyalty to the organization by attending weekly drills as regularly as possible.

Most of the non-commissioned officers are expecting to attend their bi-monthly school this evening at New Castle.

The basketball team, under the direction of Second Lieutenant Powell, is working out Thursday evenings, preparing for the coming season.

SERMON SERIES AT WHITE CLAY CREEK CHURCH

At the White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church, Lincoln Highway, east of Newark, the Pastor, the Rev. Clyde E. Rickabaugh, has begun a series of biographical sermons from the Old and New Testaments. At the regular service of worship at 11 o'clock, Sunday morning, Rev. Rickabaugh's subject will be "An Adventurer of Faith." A cordial invitation is extended to you.

DRIVERS SIGN SAFETY PLEDGE

Rev. W. E. Gunby One of
First in State to Reply to Plea

Hundreds of Delaware motorists in returning their motor registration applications to the Secretary of State's office in Dover have included also a pledge of safe driving as requested in the pamphlet sent out with the license applications by the Delaware Safety Council. But an interesting coincidence is the first pledge received came from Colonel William C. Spruance, vice-president of the du Pont Company, who served as a director of the Delaware Safety Council. The next nine received were from Edward Annett, Farmington; William J. Mulrine, Jr., Wilmington; the Rev. W. E. Gunby, Newark; Granville Brumley, Delmar; Carrie M. Metzger, Wilmington; Madison Whiteside, Elsmere; John D. Hildreth, Wilmington; Howard W. Clark, Wilmington; Marshall Pusey, Laurel.

In the pamphlet sent out for the Delaware Safety Council with the permission of the Governor and the Secretary of State, attention is directed to the fact that in 1929 the Delaware motorists by their careful driving, helped to save the lives of twelve persons from death. An appeal is set forth to continue the good work in 1930, and especially urge that the remainder of the year must witness especially competent use of the streets and highways if we are to reach the low record of 67 deaths in 1929 compared with 79 in the previous year. To date there have been 61 motor vehicle deaths in Delaware.

The pledge which is being returned to the Secretary of State's office reads as follows: "To save human life and aid in equaling the low Delaware auto death record of 1929 I hereby promise that I will co-operate with the Delaware Safety Council, watch out for children and pedestrians and drive carefully at all times."

HARMONY GRANGE VOTES AGAINST BILLBOARD BILL

On Monday night, Harmony Grange opposed a resolution to prohibit placing billboards and signs along the public highways of the State. Points brought out in the discussion were that the resolution as it stands would be class legislation as it is dealing with the property of a private individual. However, the members did feel that billboards at intersection of highways are a menace to traffic.

The second resolution presented was on the raising of subordinate grange dues to the State and National Grange. The members unanimously voted against the resolution. The sentiment expressed was that the raising of the dues at the present time would be a detriment to the best interest of the order.

Lewis Colmery, master of Hockessin Grange, was present and took part in the discussion on the resolutions offered.

Organization was perfected by the election of the following officers: President, John Wigglesworth; Brandywine Hundred Company; vice-president, James V. Campbell; New Castle; secretary, Thomas A. Killm, Talleyville Fire Company; and treasurer, John N. Jordan of the Five Points Company.

President Wigglesworth, in taking the chair, thanked those present for the honor conferred on him and pledged himself to work for the best of the new organization.

The following chiefs were named as a committee to draft by-laws and rules for the association: George Stewart, Newport; John N. Jordan, Five Points; James V. Campbell, New Castle; William Haig, Talleyville; and E. J. Elson of Newark.

The committee, after drafting the by-laws, will notify President Wigglesworth, who is to call a meeting of the chiefs.

Following the business meeting addresses were made by Fire Chief Lutz of Wilmington and W. A. Thompson, chief of the Pyrites Company, Ltd., fire department.

DOROTHY BARROW NOW MASTER OF J. R. A. O. U. W.

Grand Master Workman Howard McCall, of Wilmington, accompanied by Grand Recorder E. C. Clark, Grand Past Master Workman Lawton and Grand Trustee Dennison, visited Newark for the purpose of installing the officers of the Children's Branch of Anchor Lodge, No. 4, Ancient Order of United Workmen. Although the night was stormy, there was a very good attendance, and after the regular business was transacted, the Grand Master, assisted by E. C. Clark, who acted as Grand Guide, conducted the installation ceremonies. As it is not usual for the Grand Officers to conduct these ceremonies, it was considered a great honor to the local juveniles, and they showed their appreciation by their enthusiasm and the efficient way in which they conducted their meeting.

The new officers are: Past Master Workman, Katherine Fell; Master Workman, Dorothy Barrow; Foreman, Pauline Ring; Overseer, Gladys Beck; Guide, Anna Dill; Inside Watch, George Lloyd; Outside Watch, David Harrington; Recorder, Myra Hall.

Misses Elizabeth Lindell and Edith Jackson are supervisors of the Junior Lodge. At a recent masquerade party held in Workman Hall, Wilmington, for the Children's Branch, over fifty members of the Newark Branch attended, and five out of seven prizes offered were awarded to Newark boys and girls.

of the two heavy trucks on the dirt road. After following them for a distance of 14 miles, during which time the drivers of the trucks crossed two concrete roads and continued on dirt roads, the officers pulled their machines ahead of the trucks and commanded the drivers to stop. The order was complied with and the officers at once detected the odor of liquor.

When the drivers of the trucks were questioned as to what they were hauling, both replied, according to the officers, that they were loaded with potatoes. A search of the trucks revealed that there were about 25 bags of potatoes on each truck and the remainder were bags filled with liquor.

WEDDINGS

DUNLEVY-REBURN

At a quiet wedding last evening in the new home of the bride and groom, Miss Elsie Reburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Reburn, of Worthland, became the bride of Mr. R. Dunlevy, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dunlevy, of Newark.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. W. McDowell, pastor of the Claymont M. E. Church. Miss Esther Reburn, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Mr. Richard Cooch, of Newark, was the best man. Only the immediate families and intimate friends of the young couple were present for the ceremony.

A reception was held following the wedding, after which Mr. Dunlevy and his bride left for a wedding trip in the south.

ABANDONED TOT FOUND ON PORCH

Two-Months-Old Baby Boy Left on Bench in Wilmington

A blonde haired baby boy about two months old, was found abandoned Monday night on the porch of Morris Freeman, of 1227 Market street, in Wilmington. A young woman, who was seen carrying the baby in her arms in that vicinity shortly before the child was discovered, is being hunted by police in connection with the affair.

According to the detectives, Mr. Freeman saw the woman pacing the sidewalk in front of his house, apparently in a nervous condition, frequently halting and turning around. After she had disappeared the baby was found on a bench on the porch.

The child was described as being about two months old, well dressed and in excellent health. Patrolman Lee, who was sent to the Freeman residence after the child had been found, turned him over to detectives. The boy was taken to the Babies' Hospital, in Wilmington, where it is being taken care of.

The child has light hair and a light complexion. It was wrapped in a blue and white blanket, and wore a blue bonnet and a blue and white knitted sweater. White stockings and white shoes, two white petticoats and two white shirts, also comprised the raiment. The name "Baby" was worked on the sweater. A bottle of milk was found beside the infant.

A description of the woman was given police. Detectives are investigating the affair.

OBITUARY

FRED STRAHORN

Word was received here on Sunday of the sudden death of Fred Strahorn, who died in Reading, Massachusetts, following an operation on Saturday. The deceased was well known in this community having lived here as a young man and with his brothers operated a saw mill near Pleasant Hill.

He is survived by his wife, who was the former Miss Agnes Davis, of Pleasant Hill; two daughters, the Misses Gertrude and Florence Strahorn; two sisters, Miss Cassie Strahorn of Philadelphia, and Miss Martha Strahorn of Wilmington; five brothers, Harley Strahorn, of Newport; Orlando Strahorn, of Newark; John, George and Charles Strahorn, of Baltimore.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the home in Reading. Burial was in the cemetery there.

HOWARD H. JORDAN

Howard H. Jordan, for many years a Democratic leader and prominent resident of Mill Creek Hundred, died Tuesday at his home near Mendenhall's Mill. He had lived at the home where he died for 54 years and many years ago represented Mill Creek Hundred in the Levy Court. He took an active part in politics for many years and was looked on as a Democratic leader of the hundred. He was a member of Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church. Five children survive him as follows: Mrs. Ferris Yearsley, Bayard Jordan, Mrs. Arnold Naudain, Miss Ella Jordan and Mrs. Norman Cox. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon from his late home with interment in Red Clay Creek Cemetery.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Few Americans know that the original Presidential Thanksgiving Proclamation was lost for over a hundred years; that it was found at an auction sale in 1921; that it was bought by the Library of Congress for $300.00; and that it now resides in the archives of that institution—one of the most valuable documents in the world. The Division of Information and Publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in a statement issued today, relates the story of the lost proclamation.

On September 25, 1789, Elias Boudinot introduced the following resolution in the House of Representatives: "Resolved, That a joint committee of both Houses be directed to wait upon the President of the United States, to request that he would recommend to the people of the United States a day of public Thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a Constitution of government for their safety and happiness."

Harmless as this resolution seems, there were objections to it. In reading the Annals of Congress of that period, we find that Representative Aedanus Burke, of South Carolina, thought we should not mimic Europe "where they made a mere mockery of thanksgiving."

Representative Thomas Tudor Tucker, also of South Carolina, argued that it was not the business of Congress to ask for a national day of Thanksgiving.

"They (the people) may not be inclined to return thanks for a Constitution until they have experienced that it promotes their safety and happiness."

These objections, however, were overruled; the resolution was passed and sent to the Senate for concurrence. The Senate approved and appointed its committee to wait on the President. The joint committee was made up of Ralph Izard, of South Carolina, and William S. Johnson, of Connecticut, from the Senate; Elias Boudinot, of New Jersey, Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, and Peter Sylvester, of New York, from the House.

Washington complied with the request and on October 3, 1789, issued his proclamation, calling for a National day of Thanksgiving on Thursday, November 26.

And then the document dropped out of sight. It apparently was misplaced or attached to some private papers in the process of moving official records from one city to another when the Capital was changed. However, it happened, the original manuscript was not in the official archives until 1921 when Dr. J. C. Fitzpatrick, then Assistant Chief of the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress, and now Editor of the forthcoming George Washington Bicentennial Commission series of Washington's Writings, "found" the proclamation. It was at an auction sale being held in the American Art Galleries of New York City. Dr. Fitzpatrick, an expert in Washingtoniana, examined the document and found it to be authentic. It was written in long hand by Wm. Jackson, Secretary to President Washington at the time, and was signed in George Washington's bold hand. Dr. Fitzpatrick purchased the document for $300.00 for the Library of Congress, where it is now kept as a treasure. And no amount of money could remove it.

The original Proclamation of Thanksgiving, and, indeed, the first Presidential proclamation ever issued in the United States, reads as follows:

"By the President of the United States of America.

"Whereas it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor—and Whereas both Houses of Congress have by their joint committee requested me to recommend to the People of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness."

"Now, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the 26th day of November next, to be devoted by the People of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be—that we may then all unite in rendering unto him our sincere and humble thanks—for his kind care and protection of the People of this country previous to their becoming a Nation—for the signal and manifold mercies and the favorable interpositions of his providence, which we experienced in the course and conclusion of the late war—for the great degree of tranquility, union, and plenty, which we have since enjoyed—for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national One now lately instituted—for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge; and in general for all the great and various favors which he hath been pleased to confer upon us.

"And also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech him to pardon our national and other transgressions—to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually—to render our national government a blessing to all the People by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed—to protect and guide all Sovereigns and Nations (especially such as have shown kindness to us) and to bless them with good Government, peace, and concord. To promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us—and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to be best.

"Given under my hand at the City of New York the third day of October in the year of our Lord 1789.

(Signed) "George Washington."

Celebration of Thanksgiving Day in America can be traced back to the earliest days of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. From there the custom spread to all parts of the United States.

Sinuses

The cells or cavities contained in certain bones, as the frontal, ethmoid, sphenoid and superior maxillary, are called sinuses. The frontal sinuses are two irregular cavities extending upward and outward from their openings on each side of the nasal spine, between the inner and outer layers of the skull, and separated from one another by a thin bony septum. They give rise to the prominences above the root of the nose, called the nasal eminences.

Delaware's Northern Curve

Circle That Separates Diamond State From Neighbor Puzzling to Those Not Knowing Reason

The boundary between Pennsylvania and Delaware forms an arc of a circle of 12 miles radius with New Castle in Delaware as its center.

When Charles II gave Pennsylvania to William Penn in 1681 it was the king's intention to grant the territory west of the Delaware River and between the 42nd and 39th degrees of latitude. But this would have encroached upon the territory of the king's brother, James, Duke of York, who was then proprietor of New York and the territory west of Delaware Bay which the Dutch had taken from the Swedes. James had no objection to the Pennsylvania grant provided the new province did not come too near his town of New Castle.

Therefore the charter specified that the province of Pennsylvania was to be bounded on the south "by a circle drawn at 12 miles distance from New Castle northward and westward to the beginning of the fortieth degree of northern latitude, and thence by a straight line westward." The curved line was to begin on the Delaware River "12 miles distance northwards of New Castle."

This was the origin of the curved line which now forms the boundary between Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Penn, however, was dissatisfied with this boundary because it cut his province off from Delaware Bay and gave it inadequate access to the sea. Accordingly, being a royal favorite, he not only succeeded in getting the entire line moved farther south at the expense of Maryland, but persuaded the Duke of York to convey to him his possessions on Delaware Bay, including the town of New Castle and "all that tract of land lying within the compass or circle of 12 miles about the same." Thus Penn became proprietor of the "Three Lower Counties on the Delaware" as well as Pennsylvania.

The curved line between Pennsylvania proper and the lower counties was surveyed and marked in 1701 under a warrant from Penn himself. When these counties organized as "Delaware State" in 1776 a dispute over the boundaries arose which was not settled for nearly 150 years. Inaccuracies in the original survey made it impossible to make a single curve pass through the stones set up to mark a radius of 12 miles from the center of New Castle. A joint boundary commission found that a compound curve confronted very closely to the original line and it was finally adopted.

These Young People

Less Is Heard About The Flaming Youth

These young people will fix the drinking problem if they have correct information and are given a chance. Down in New Brunswick at the New Jersey College for Women two girl students have been suspended by the college authorities after being caught in a police raid of a speakeasy.

The interesting part is that the suspension was not the work of the faculty, but was recommended by the student council of the college which found that the girls were guilty of "willful violation of the honor system and casting discredit upon the name of the college."

When students themselves take that ground and act on such principles, there need not be despair over the drink problem. And while we are about it, there is evidence that "flaming youth" of which we were hearing so much a few years ago either does not exist or has been extinguished. Less and less is heard about it. On the whole the youth of today is probably as clean and upright as in any period in recent years, and perhaps better. The noise that a few individuals have made caused many innocent ones to be blamed.

Horrible Thought

One editor declares it is "no crime to be rich." If it were, think of how many millions we should have—many a lack breeding the law just to get the thrill of being a daredevil.—Savannah News.

An Effective Aid

Eating the proper amount of indigestible cellulose is one of the most effective means of helping the intestine with its engineering operations. Of course, many other agencies have been devised to effect the same end. One, for instance, is the replacement of the putrefactive bacteria in the colon with certain milk souring bacteria. These tend to form clean products from food residues and discourage the growth of those injurious microorganisms which normally abound in the colon.

Still another method, much used nowadays, is that of taking mineral oil. This is bland and non-irritating and is not absorbed into the blood. Therefore, it usually is considered harmless. But there are effects from its use which are not generally appreciated. The paraffin oil used is insoluble in water. It covers the food particles, waterproofing them, and preventing contact with the digestive juices. Digestion is thus hampered and delayed. And this delay in digestion is, as you shall see, a serious matter.

When paraffin oil is taken to promote elimination, the food is more effectively oiled than by ordinary fats, and stomach digestion is both delayed and decreased. Thus food entering the intestine is not prepared for the next steps in the digestive process.

It will then be readily understood that mixing an indigestible oil with the food causes digestion to be delayed and to take place farther down the intestine than if no oil were taken. Digestion thus goes on in a region where, in debilitated intestines, conditions are unhygienic and where more abnormal decomposition products are formed than in the case when digestion occurs higher in the tract. The useful and necessary products of such digestion then enter the blood contaminated with useless ones of bacterial origin. This is the significance of the delay in digestion caused by mineral oils.

The Role of Cellulose

That this is recognized is shown by the fact that some recommend that the oil be taken between meals. But some of the promoters of paraffin oil for medicinal purposes insist that it is best taken mixed with the food during the meal. This method of promoting intestinal hygiene by the use of mineral oil is based, I am convinced, upon an unsound principle. Intestinal regulation is best promoted by the use of a complete, and wholesome diet containing bland and water-holding vegetable cellulose, which does not digest, and therefore gives the intestine the right amount of bulky material, of a consistency favorable to transportation, upon which to function mechanically.

SHIFT YOUR DIGESTION INTO "HIGH"

By E. V. McCollum, Ph.D., Sc.D.

Author of "The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition," "Food, Nutrition and Health," etc., Professor of Bio-Chemistry, School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University.

NATURE is an engineer, striving continuously and furiously to regulate the body's supply and elimination of food. The giant molecules of proteins, starches and fats, entering two of Nature's special laboratories, the stomach and small intestine, are there broken up into smaller fragments which can be absorbed into the blood and recombined to become part of our muscles, blood or organs.

But Nature, as the body's engineer, has another function equally important. It must protect the blood, muscles and organs from food fragments which are useless, unwholesome and more or less injurious. For beneficent Nature is not the only force with the power to break up the giant molecules of foods into smaller, usable fragments. Bacteria have the same power. But, like the work of evil workmen, the final chips produced from the big blocks by bacteria are of the wrong kind, and have no business in the blood stream.

How may we co-operate with Nature? First by eating clean foods and keeping the mouth clean. Then what enters the stomach will not be seeded with bacteria which decompose foodstuffs into things which are unwholesome. Next, we may exercise care in the keeping and handling of foods. Everyone knows that an inefficient refrigerator, careless handling, or staleness from any cause, will lead to the bacterial decomposition of foods. The resulting "indigestion," caused by the fermentation of such unwholesome foods in the intestine or stomach is, unfortunately, still more familiar.

The Seat of Digestion

The person in normal health who eats clean and wholesome foods has a clean mouth, stomach and, usually, also a clean intestine in its upper half. But the large intestine is a different matter. That organ is likely to be found more and more the seat of rotting and fermentative processes which produce noxious and unwholesome products. In the large intestine or colon of most people large amounts of toxic products are constantly being formed. These are absorbed into the portal blood-vessel system and pass directly into the liver. The pollution of the blood with these somewhat poisonous products, and the ensuing detrimental effects on the liver, kidneys and body as a whole, have been stressed by many physicians.

Bad breath—that bugbear of the refined—is in many persons the result of impaired liver function, due to liver injury resulting from prolonged bathing of liver cells with a blood stream overloaded with putrefactive products. Up to a certain point the liver cells are able to destroy these. After this point is reached, the blood becomes saturated with them, and they are in part eliminated by the lungs. The result is bad breath.

We are constantly feeding into the blood another class of useless food fragments. Although not poisonous like the first, they are foreign matter and circulate as mere trash in the blood and lymph. They are created in the following manner:

When bread, rolls or other starchy foods, are browned, as is the crust in baking, some of the surface molecules of starch are violently decomposed by the high temperature. They are mingled or tattered. When such starchy foods are eaten and digested, there will be formed, principally, sugar molecules. But some of these sugar molecules may have attached to them the tags of those others which were mutilated by the high temperature of cooking.

E. V. McCollum

Waste Molecules

Now these mutilated molecules cannot be burned in the muscles as can normal sugar molecules. Such fragments are, therefore, not utilized for their energy or food value, but are merely excreted by the kidneys. Thus, in making toast, a relatively large number of starch molecules are so shattered or tattered as to become useless and foreign fragments circulating in the blood. In the frying of fats also, some of the fat and protein molecules are injured, and it is for this reason that fried foods are not so wholesome as foods cooked in other ways. Indeed, it is questionable whether we should ever search the surface of our foods to any great extent.

These illustrations are given to help visualize the most important ways in which polluting substances may enter the blood. It is apparent that merely choosing clean and wholesome foods is not enough. We must assist Nature still further if we are to keep the alimentary tract clean and efficient.

For Nature unaided has not been

COLLEGE HOUR

By Frances Jefferies, W. C. D., Class of 1932

College Hour has been an institution at the University of Delaware for years. Up until this year, both Delaware College and the Women's College assembled in Wolf Hall on Tuesdays at least once a month. At these assemblies lecturers spoke on many different topics and most of them were too steeped in their life work to be very much interested in college students; therefore, the college students were not interested in them. There were a few bright spots in the program, however, and the brightest of these was Count von Luckner, who told us about his exciting adventures during the World War.

This year College Hour has been glorified. It is now held in the spacious Mitchell Hall which, in addition to being beautiful, has comfortably upholstered seats. The programs are now given at night, and include such notable names as Frieda Hempel, Michael Strange, Abbe Dimmet, Vachal Lindsay, Carl Sandburg, and—much to the delight of the last year's audience—Count von Luckner.

Three of the programs have been given. The first, on October 9, was a lecture by Abbe Dimmet, whose book, "The Art of Thinking," is one of the most popular of its kind. Frieda Hempel was the artist at the next entertainment on October 17. She is well known in all music circles, and her beautiful voice and charming manner made her well-liked by her college audience. The Shakespeare Players were next on the program, on October 28. They presented the play, "Julius Caesar," which was especially interesting to those who are studying Shakespeare.

There are twelve entertainments arranged for the college year. The maining nine are eagerly expected. Through these College Hours the students come in contact with famous poets and singers, and also with some of the prominent men of the day. Doubtless going to have a broadening effect on the students' minds, and they will acquaint them with the worthwhile things going on in the world.

WORKING TOGETHER FOR THE YOUTH OF DELAWARE

Text of the Address Given Before the Delaware State Education Association Meeting in Newark on November 13, by Ira S. Brinser, President of the Association and Superintendent of Schools in Newark

"Working together for the Youth of Delaware sets forth the keynote and spirit of this convention. Since the key to any analysis of aims of education is to be found in an analysis of the activities of life in which people do or should engage and since the aims of education are dependent upon this viewpoint, education must be treated as that which has unity as well as continuity. Learning must be a continuous process and needs to be based on the human nature of the learner. The philosophy which treats the pupil as a unit—mind, soul and body, reminds us that we, as teachers, must work together toward the same unity if we wish to realize, in part, the high ideals toward which we have set our goal. Surely we cannot do everything through science, we have to do some things through revelation, through God and through inspiration.

"Edward Everett Hale has given us this thought: 'Together is one of the most inspiring words in the English language. Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; working together is success.'

"The Delaware State Education Association is a voluntary organization created for the purpose of developing finer teamwork in the profession of teaching so that the ideals of this State and Nation may be made realities and passed on to the next entrants on the stage. Such an organization reflects in a large way the latent possibilities of professional development through the medium of voluntary collective effort. Its representative membership is fraught with inherent power to stimulate constructive thinking and action.

"A State Education Association is the creation of educational co-workers. Its activities are neither prescribed by statute nor limited by traditional boundaries. It co-operates with the State Department of Public Instruction, the State University, and other educational and patriotic agencies, each of which has its own place in the sun, and has its own work to do in the fields of the broad meadows of citizenship. Each of these fields will have as their choicest blossoms and fruit, that which is the result of working together for a high and noble purpose. The best interests of the children of the State of Delaware demand a cordial and sympathetic relationship between the State Education Association, the State Department of Public Instruction, the State University, and other patriotic and educational agencies.

"An education association should be a pioneering organization motivated by a burning desire to discover truth and use it wisely in the development of pupils as well as vigorously in making strong the teacher as an interpreter of the highest ideals and as one who gives such ideals workable form through her greater knowledge and finer technique.

"The great things of life cannot be captured in the net of a neat definition. Truth and progress laugh at boundaries. The spirit of this association can only be captured by a moving picture; to act in concert; to give form and substance to our hopes and aspirations; to interpret intelligently the task to which we have dedicated our lives; to keep abreast of the times through active participation in progressive movements; to remain forward looking without being visionary or radical; to represent stability without being lulled into professional sleep under the anesthetic of ultra conservatism; to be students and scientists without overlooking the proper welding of present day theory with practice in its application to the individual differences of pupils regardless whether such children be brilliant, average or unfortunate; to continue to be learners, thereby regarding our certificates and diplomas not only as a right to teach pupils but a challenge to grow and to learn, rather than a pillow upon which we are lulled into academic slumber; and to harness the intangible forces of good will and sympathetic understanding.

"Every teacher is a better public servant if she strives to advance the knowledge of the profession of which she is an integral part because she wants to.

"This association in its general policy takes note of the resolutions and themes of the National Education Association and the Progressive Education Association, which includes the following: the rebuilding of the school curriculum to meet the needs of a changing environment; studies of pre-school children and the public kindergarten; child guidance and student counseling; problems of better articulation between grades and subjects; practical application of the principles of unity and continuity throughout the school system from the first grade to graduation from college; the need for a thorough study of rural education; character education and law observance; recruiting the best talent for teaching and a national survey of teacher training institutions in the United States toward the end that education may take the place in service and respect with other professions; the development of a greater sense of responsibility through teacher participation; fair and a just retirement act for teachers; adult education; American Education Week; international understanding toward international good will; the removal of illiteracy; the co-operation of the State Parent Teacher Association and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; the appreciation of the fine attitude and interest of the general public; the scientific study of pupil development; and the necessity of the school being an educational laboratory in which tradition and innovation are united and in which the universally accepted aims of education are recognized through the activities of pupils. There is no royal road toward the attainment of these goals. Working together will help tremendously; but each one of us must build his own road, in the same way as each pupil must build his. There then will be no blind alleys or ends but each road will pass through the meadows of fine service and 'good will towards men' to the Star of our goal where each in his separate Star will paint the thing as he sees it, 'for the God of things, as they are.'

"Our association, voluntary in its organization, great in its inherent power to stimulate constructive thinking and action, pioneering in its work, interpretive rather than directive in its efforts, co-operative rather than formative in state policies of education, is now entering the second decade of its life. May this second decade be characterized by the excellence of teaching and the fine, lasting and worthwhile achievements of its children."

HEALTH CAN BE BOUGHT

Health is not an accident. Science has shown us that certain diseases are unnecessary. Among these is tuberculosis, taking a toll twenty years ago of two hundred lives out of each 100,000, since reduced to less than 40.

An organized army is devoted to exterminating this disease entirely from society. The attack is centered on tuberculosis because of its insidious character as well as the extent of its onslaughts, for those who die because of it usually waste away slowly, and the life of the community is permeated with the by-products of the disease in depleted energy of workers, and poverty. There is another great reason why the forces arrayed under the banner of the double-barred cross, financed by the annual Christmas seal sale, concentrate on tuberculosis. This is because the measures that prevent tuberculosis also prevent many other diseases. Annihilate it and the danger of other diseases is reduced proportionately.

How may this be done or rather how has it been half-done already? The cure of the disease is by rest, fresh air, wholesome food and sunshine. The prevention is by rest, fresh air, wholesome food, sunshine and exercise.

It is so simple that people don't believe it—they would be inclined more to see value in the sudden and serious "discovery" of a cure.

PILOT STILL IS 'GOAT' IN MISHAPS

Fliers Blamed for 55.83% of Air Accidents

The pilot continues the greatest single cause of accidents in civil aviation. He is blamed for 55.83 per cent of the mishaps occurring in the first half of 1930 in the semi-annual accident report of Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics.

Only once since the government began checking in 1927 on air accidents has the pilot been blamed for fewer than half the mishaps. That was in the first half of 1928 when pilots accounted for 43.29 per cent of the accidents.

Two hundred seventy people lost their lives in the first half of the year in 930 civil aircraft accidents but the air secretary found a large increase in the safety of scheduled air transport operations.

These operations, in which the aircraft carry passengers, mail and express over fixed routes at regular intervals, covered two and one-half as many miles per fatal accident as they did in the same period of 1929.

They traversed 16,902,728 miles with six fatal accidents while in the same period of 1929 they covered 9,291,338 miles with nine fatal accidents.

Most accidents, 45.16 per cent, occurred in pleasure flying in which 56 pilots, 63 passengers, 3 students, 1 crew member, and 2 spectators lost their lives.

Increased safety in scheduled air transport, however, the secretary found, was not matched by an equal growth in safety of miscellaneous flying.

Such operations covered 51,767,200 miles for an average of 359,494 miles per fatal accident where in the first half of 1929 they flew 47,000,000 miles for an average of 398,305 miles per fatal mishap.

The weather, arch foe of the airman, maintained its menace by accounting for 6.52 per cent of all civil flying mishaps but darkness, which accounted for 1.62 per cent of the accidents in 1927, has been reduced as a hazard by night-flying aids and training to .09 per cent.

DELAWARE TIES DREXEL, 13-13

Haney Sprints 85 Yards for Score to Provide Thriller

The University of Delaware kept up its good work Saturday afternoon in Philadelphia and battled the Drexel Institute eleven to a 13 to 13 deadlock. Delaware trailed at the end of the first half and tied things up in the second half of the game.

Taking the field with a patched-up line-up, the Delaware eleven hopped off to a 7 to 0 lead in the first quarter. "Hank" Haney gave Delaware its first six points when he raced 85 yards for a six-pointer. Walker made it 7-0 when he booted the extra point.

Drexel scored twice in the second period and led at the half, 13 to 7.

Kemske scored in the third period for Delaware and the teams battled the remaining distance without either being able to tally.

The line-ups:

Delaware	Drexel
Mayer..... left end	Wright

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Two men received slight injuries last Thursday when a truck belonging to Drucker and Son, of Wilmington, skidded and crashed into a pole on the Elkton Road about two miles south of Newark.

Charles B. Thornton, driver of the truck, received lacerations of the face and neck. He was taken to Dr. J. R. Downes, where his injuries were dressed. Harry Walls, who was riding in the truck with Thornton, was cut about the face and head. He was taken to the hospital at Elkton, but was released after his injuries were dressed.

TALBOT TO SHIP 8 TONS OF TURKEY

Hundreds of Thanksgiving Day Feasts Being Served Out Daily

Eight tons of dressed turkeys are being shipped from Talbot County markets, before Thanksgiving, estimated by leading grocers and county shipping points. Approximately $1,800 worth of birds will be away each day between now and the holiday, according to the estimates. About 300 barrels will be shipped north from Easton, each barrel containing about 200 pounds of fowl, or a total of three tons the county seat alone.

Large quantities are being sent from St. Michaels and from Cambridge and McDaniel to Baltimore and way of that city to northern markets. Selling prices of fifty to seventy cents are quoted for medium-sized turkeys of the best variety averaging the most desirable size. Pallets of this kind are being sent from nine to twelve pounds some average from fifteen to twenty pounds. Turkeys weighing more than eighteen pounds dressed are very hard to sell.

After the farmer and his wife picked the turkey the tail feathers done up in one bundle and the feathers in another and placed in the barrels. Commission merchants, in turn, sell the turkeys to manufacturers of brushes and brooms. Tail feathers bring forty to a pound in a good market. Feathers are sent by the feather dealers. They are used for bedding and pillows.
