

New Home Will Be Open For Inspection This Saturday And Sunday; Public Invited

FEATURES INCLUDED IN HOME

Doors to the Cape Cod Colonial home, just completed by Thomas A. Ross, local contractor, will be thrown open for inspection on Saturday and Sunday when residents of Newark and vicinity are invited to view features of the new construction.

Located on Townsend Road, a part of the Greater Newark Development Company section, the home has been built of brick veneer and no expense, either in material or workmanship, has been spared to make it definitely of the better type of construction.

The front door opens into a large hall which runs through the house to a powder room attractively decorated with coral fixtures and deep blue and silver wallpaper. To the left of the hall is a large dining room with a stationary china closet while on the right is the living room with an open fire place, stationary bookcases, and a French door leading to a large end porch. All floors are double. The finished floors are oak.

Modern Kitchen

The kitchen, modern in every respect, has been well planned. The sink is equipped with lineoleum countertops while an ample supply of floor and wall plugs add to the convenience of this important room which is made bright and cheery by a color scheme of red cream and black.

An open colonial stairway to the second floor faces the front door. Upstairs will be found three bedrooms, two bathrooms, servant's quarters, and ample closet space.

The master bedroom is equipped with a private bathroom with a built-in shower stall while the servant's quarters, located above the two-car garage, may be entered without going through the house, by means of a back stairway which leads outside. The main bathroom, located at the rear of the house, is equipped with a recessed tub, in-laid lineoleum floors and monotile walls.

With an eye to economy, Mr. Ross has doubled the celotex insulation upstairs where most heat loss is suffered, assuring the occupant the maximum of efficiency from the oil heater located in the basement.

Game Room In Cellar

Ample space for a game room has been provided with the heater, 20-gallon Monel hot water tank, and stationary tubs, all on the same side of the stairway. An unobstructed section of 13 feet by 25 feet has been designed, allowing room for table tennis and other forms of recreation. Four well-placed windows, one in each corner, provide excellent lighting during the day.

All water pipes are of copper tubing while hardware throughout the home is of solid brass. Authentic colonial light fixtures have been installed throughout the house including colonial doorhinges. The porches, stoops, and walks are made of flagstone, another feature of the residence on which no expense has been spared.

Built on a lot 50 feet by 150 feet, this dwelling, located in one of the finest developments in this section, will sell of $11,000. Foundation shubbery has been planted. It will be open on Saturday from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. and on Sunday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

A native of Georgetown, Md., Mr. Ross, who did construction work in California prior to coming to Newark, has had more than 15 years experience in the building trade. He has erected ten new homes during the past twelve months besides doing remodeling and rebuilding work on a number of Newark houses.

Well-embodies
Maximum Comfort

Construction

For public inspection Saturday and Sunday, the new residence just completed on Townsend by T. A. Ross is indeed a credit to the builder. Economically erected the home offers sterling quality throughout. It is constructed to give maximum comfort and durability at a minimum of cost. Local subcontractors cooperated with builder in its construction in all but one instance. Even on this work, however, the sub-contractor used labor located in one of Newark's most active residential districts. The Townsend Road residence is a typical example of this section. Only a few other homes have preceded it, being the homes of George and Mrs. E. A. Curtis and

THE song is right. Monel won't rust now, and it never will, because it can't. Water from a Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater with a Monel tank stays clean, throughout the years. The tank itself is guaranteed in writing against leaks and failures from corrosion for 20 YEARS.

Clear, clean hot water comes from the Monel tank. The Ruud Water Heater itself is up-to-the-minute, automatic, efficient. You can be proud of its appearance in your home. And it burns GAS, the modern, economical fuel.

Combine a Monel tank for cleanliness, with gas for heating, and Ruud for design, and you have the answer to your hot water problem for years to come. The annual cost is surprisingly low. Stop in at our show rooms, or phone us to have a representative call and discuss your hot water problem. No obligation, of course.

The New Townsend Road Residence is equipped with a Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater with the Monel tank. Call your plumber or The Delaware Power & Light Co.

Newark, Delaware, December 28, 1939

AN OLD-FASHIONED HOLIDAY

To all of us, young or old, Christmas and New Year's has come these many seasons. With it, always, there steals upon us one of those strange, recurring phenomena, like Spring's coming, that enrich and replenish life. There comes to each of us a pervading warmth and a glow of good cheer, an added acuteness to the love of people for people. There comes almost a thirst for sharing with others our own pleasures—the fireside; the table heavy with food and heavy, too, with its aroma and the scent of spices and pine from the wood. There is an urge to mingle more closely, and over the roads and the highways we speed from gathering to gathering, to our families and friends.

Within the memory of many of us, Old Bess was hitched to the sleigh or the carriage on early Christmas morning and with our presents, mince pies, puddings and cider, we jogged merrily at six miles per hour through the snow or over the narrow, winding roads to Grandma's. But all is different today for the automobile has come. The safe old-fashioned Christmas and New Year has gone.

Remember, as you speed from one gay gathering to another, that this season is the most dangerous time for driving: Most dangerous primarily because the nights are long and because you can't see in the dark. Stay on the safely lighted roads when you can. When you can't, slow down at sun down! Watch out for the pedestrian! And, if you drive, make your Season's cheer a thing of the spirit, and not of spirits!

THE 1940 CENSUS

It is estimated that about 121,000 people will be employed for varying periods during the taking of the 1940 United States census, and the questions to be asked will cover a wider range than ever before.

Among the new questions will be several dealing with employment and housing conditions, concerning which inadequate authentic information is now available to the government. Among other things, enumerators will ask whether dwellings occupied are rented or owned; what equipment, such as radios, refrigerators and other conveniences, are installed in homes; what fuels are used for heating and cooking; whether homes are mortgaged, and if so for how much. Beginning on January 2, census takers will begin obtaining information concerning factories and business enterprises. The canvass of individuals will begin on April 1, and data obtained will be considered as of that date, regardless of the actual day on which the enumerator calls.

The task of the Census Bureau in 1940 will be a tremendous one—quite different from that imposed by the first census of 1790, when very few questions were asked and the total population of the country was a little less than four million.

FARMERS INDEPENDENCE

As the year draws to its end, agriculture, like industry, takes stock of what happened in 1939. From the farmer's point of view, the year brought many problems. In many cases prices were too low to give him an adequate return for his work and investment. "Political farm relief," as usual, largely failed to realize its promises. At the same time, conditions generally were better than in the years immediately preceding.

One phase of agricultural activity deserves special mention. That is the sustained growth of the agricultural co-operative marketing movement. More and more farmers joined such organizations, which handled a rising volume of produce. This method of selling farm crops has become an integral phase of rural life in America. That is progress achieved by agriculture itself, and not by subsidies or outside agencies.

John Miller is a California ranch hand and no sissy. But he can crochet so well that he won the men's prize in the third national crochet contest. Mrs. E. N. Noble of Minneapolis won the women's prize with a tablecloth on which she spent 2,500 hours.

Psychologists say the favorite color of women is red, while that of men is blue. It was also found that most insects prefer blue, but whether this indicates any close relationship with men is not disclosed.

In 1914, shortly after the World War began, so-called experts of that day expressed the opinion that the war would last one year or longer. It lasted a little more than four years and three months. Few are making predictions about the length of the present one.

To enable its readers to form a better idea of a billion dollars, an exchange says that if that amount in one-dollar bills were laid end to end they would reach around the earth at the equator nearly four times. Uncle Sam now owes more than 41 billion dollars.

A burglar, who evidently expects to be behind the bars eventually, entered the Daniels iron works in Birmingham a few nights ago and took implements that might come handy—a bolt cutter and a hacksaw frame.

Behind the disguise is the well known face of Charlie McCarthy, and beside McCarthy is Edgar Bergen in this scene from their latest starring picture, Universal's "Charlie McCarthy, Detective." Made up for his night club entertainer role in which he bursts into song for the first time with a little ditty called "I'm Charlie McCarthy, Detective." Charlie continues as a real sleuth throughout the picture, eventually solving the murder.

THE slush in leader seams expands when frozen, causing the folds to open and resulting in leakage.

Leaks are most prevalent where leaders are not corrugated to allow for expansion.

It is advisable to solder small leaks to forestall the development of major defects.

When advanced corrosion necessitates the replacement of a section, insert upper into lower—like stovepipe sections—to prevent leakage.

For best results, solder all joints.

Q—Explain steps for replacing broken window panes.

A—Remove broken glass. Chip off old putty. Remove glazier's points. Scrape sash clean.

Prime sash with white lead paint to prevent oil absorption from new glazing putty.

Order the new pane according to sash measurements, deducting 1/8 in. from exact size to allow for expansion and irregularities.

When priming coat has dried thoroughly, spread fresh putty 1/16 in. thick in groove where glass will rest.

Good glazing putty consists of a half and half mixture of soft paste white lead and pure dry whiting, ground to proper consistency in raw linseed oil.

Mix, knead the mixture by hand, and then beat with wooden mallet or similar instrument until consistency is correct.

Lay pane in, concave side down, (determined by sighting along pane), to avoid breakage. Press gently until all edges are in water-tight contact with putty.

Drive in glazier's points—several to each side—to hold pane firmly.

Roll putty into pencil shape, leaving rolls end to end on glass next to sash.

Draw knife firmly along putty forming smooth bevel.

Spread so putty is invisible from exterior.

When hardened, apply two coats white lead paint colored to match sash.

LESSON

Lesson for December 31

FRIENDS AND FOES OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 12:54-14:4; 15:29-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.—John 15:14.

Inventory time has come, and it seems that our lesson for today, although it does come to the middle of our study of the Gospel of Matthew, comes too to sort of a pause to consider what has been the result of that which Jesus had said and done thus far in our study.

The answer we find is that He had both friends and foes, both love and hatred. His foes apparently outnumbered His friends, and the hatred was evidently fiercer and the love none too warm. So Jesus was "rejected." No, far from it. As we know, He won the victory over His enemies.

The situation is not different today. Those who follow Jesus and love Him truly are quite evidently in the minority and all too often it seems that hatred for the cause of Christ has the upper hand. Are we defeated? No, Jesus will ultimately win the victory again. We are on the winning side.

I. Dismissed Because of Jesus (12:54-58).

One could have supposed that the people of the hills, almost unknown towns of Nazareth would have been thrilled at the return of its native son whose fame had also spread its name abroad and whose name was on the lips of thousands because He said about doing good.

They were astonished, but they were not ready to accept Him. They could not deny the fact either of His person or His power, but they could not permit their personal pride and jealousy to lead them to deny Him. This story teaches us the unalterable folly of refusing to accept fact because it is astonishing, yet there are thousands of people standing in that position today concerning Jesus Christ. It is utterly unscientific, not to say irrational. Here is an astonishing thing. They say we cannot understand how this man hath this wisdom. Has He the wisdom? Why, yes, we cannot escape it. Then in the name of God, let us honestly obey the injunction and postpone the investigation (G. Campbell Morgan).

II. Hated Because of Sin (14:1-12).

The pride of heart which causes many to hold themselves too good to follow the lowly Nazarene is sin. There is also that which even the world recognizes as sin which repels men from Christ. D. L. Moody is said to have written on the fly leaf of his Bible, "This book will keep you from sin, or sin will keep you from this book." That is true, and it is also true that sin will keep a man from Christ.

Herod, living in sin, had been rebuked by John and had allowed his accuser by the simple expedient of imprisonment and ultimately by beheading him. But one does not thus put away sin, and when this man heard of Jesus, he at once assumed that John had risen from the dead to plague him still. So Herod also took his place with the enemies of our Lord.

If a man shows his opposition to Christ, whether it be by indifference, or by jealousy, or in outright hatred, be sure there is sin in that man's life. Those who love righteousness love the righteous Lord.

III. Accepted Because of Service (13:29-31).

"The Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister," even to the giving of "his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28).

We have so overemphasized and misused the word service that in one almost hesitates to speak of it in connection with the name of the Lord Jesus. Yet it does summarize His earthly life and ministry. He served the needy with His teaching and preaching, with His provision for their daily needs, with His healing touch, and we read that they were amazed and glorified God (v. 31).

We said above that the majority of men appear to reject Christ, but that does not mean that He has no friends. "The communion of saints" is made up of a great and almost numberless host, including in its ranks the finest and most distinguished men and women of all ages who gladly stand side by side with the humblest of believers to be counted for the Lord Jesus.

As a means of encouraging men and women everywhere to follow Christ as they find Him in His Word, the writer of these notes will send without charge a folder, "The Why and How of Bible Reading," including a Bible-reading calendar for the entire year. Use the name and address at the head of this column and if possible enclose a stamped addressed envelope or a three-cent stamp.

Orchard Road Development Gives Promise Of More Beautiful Town

All modern conveniences are available at these attractive homesites which are being offered for sale by the Greater Newark Development Company. (See Pages 2 and 3). Consisting of 33 lots, varying in size, the plot lies in the Orchard Road vicinity, one of the finer residential districts of the town. A fair restriction on the type of home to be constructed promises to add much to the beauty of Newark.

Four new homes, the residences of Edward A. Curtis, George L. Townsend, III, Ralph W. Jones and the house recently completed by Thomas A. Ross, local contractor, have been built during the past year and a half. Lots 9 and 10 in Section A, shaded, show the Townsend property, while the Jones' home site, Lot 4 in Section E, is also shaded. Lots No. 1 in Section J has been sold while the newest home, constructed by Ross, is on Lot 4, Section D.

Homes shown along Orchard Road were once part of the original development started in 1919. The above picture is from a drawing made by Thomas D. Smith, a member of the University of Delaware's engineering faculty, who surveyed the property.

and plans are now on file in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

The company is now actively engaged in the sale of lots and transactions may be handled through Mr. Townsend, secretary-treasurer of the company, the Newark and Farmers Trust Company, or any local real estate agent.

Four new homes, the residences of Mr. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Jones, and a house recently completed by Thomas A. Ross, local contractor, have been built during the past year and a half. The new time will be open for inspection on Saturday and Sunday.

Situated in one of the most attractive sections of the town and with a fair restriction placed on the type of construction, this tract of the Greater Newark Development Company is worth the consideration of all those who wish to own their own home.
