Political frenzy finally finishes

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Candidates in the Nov. 8 election have upheld their responsibilities and the community must now do its part.

According to data in the Commissioner of Elections office, there are 49,000 more registered voters than in 1990 — the last non-presidential election. What's surprising is that officials anticipate voter turnout to be low.

Joe Smack, elections representative, said he expects 58 percent of registered voters, down 2 percent from 1990, to vote on Tuesday.

"I have a feeling it will be a small turnout," said Smack. "A lot of people will Voters go to the polls Tuesday to decide races stay away because there is no big office to vote for."

Voters in the greater Newark area will decide who represents them in the state's House of Representatives, Senate and New Castle County's Council.

Some of the most interesting races this year are for the Senate seats in the 10th and 11th districts. The two long-time incumbents who held these seats, Senator James P. Neal (R-District 10) and Roger A. Martin (D-District 11) did not seek reelection.

For the first time in a decade or more, a new voice will represent people in these areas.

The balance in the Senate is what lends more weight to these races. Currently Democrats outnumber Republicans 9 to 5. There are six Senate seats up this year and depending on who wins Tuesday, the balance could shift.

Two newcomers, Anthony J. DeLuca (D) and Donna Reed (R), are running to fill Martin's District 11 seat. Both said there were three issues important to their district. They agreed on two points, education and crime prevention, but DeLuca said improved transportation issues was his third and Reed said accessible and affordable health care was hers.

DeLuca is the business manager for the National IBEW Ethics and Standards

Committee and Chair, trustee for IBEW NECA Health & Welfare, Pension Fund. He is also a former civic association president.

Reed teaches homebound students in the Christina School District and is a PTA president and civic association vice president.

Steve Amick, (R-25th Representative District) and Paul Lesniak (D) are competing for the District 10 Senate seat. Both said education, crime and development/roads, are the big issues facing their district. They also said they have many similar philosophies. "Getting the job done" is where the

Halloween thrives on Main Street

Spooky and funny costumed creatures and characters crept down Main Street Oct. 30 during Newark's 47th annual Halloween Parade.

On a sunny day with fall leaves blowing to the ground — about 90 groups including band members, baton twirlers, dancers, floats and antique cars were viewed by more than 5,000 spectators lining both sides of the street.

"It was a great turnout," said Sandra Morgan of the Newark Parks and Recreation Department, which organizes the parade. "Some people have made comments about this being the biggest and best parade ever."

The line-up included scouting troops and family groups with children dressed as M&M candies, popcorn and butter, bunnies, bumble bees, cows, power rangers, Christmas trees and even Christiana High School band member Matt Cleaver as the Duracell Battery bunny complete with bass drum.

Bands marching in the parade included Christiana, Newark, St. Mark's and Avon Grove (Pa.) high schools, along with the Caravel Academy marching and junior varsity bands.

A Haunted House float by Shao Lin San Kung Fu School won first prize in the float category, a float featuring hair nightmares by A cut Above Hair Designs placed second and a Haunted Hearse with a moving skeleton created by Tim and Kathy Glace of Elkton, Md. placed third.

In the marching group competition, Stage Light Dance Company was first, Chesapeake Bay Girl School Troop 815 was second and third prize went to Junior Brownie Troop 1036.

Family marching group awards went to the Reissman and Costello families for first prize for their "Just Married" theme of dressing children up as a bride, groom and bridesmaids. Second place went to the Dilenno family for their pumpkin patch theme.

Truck traffic also a major problem on S. College Ave.

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

West Main Street residents have received a lot of attention recently because of their "No Bypass, No Vote" campaign, but residents along South College Avenue and Old Baltimore Pike say their traffic problems are just as bad — if not worse.

Robert Boyer, who lives on South

College Avenue (Del. 896) close to the intersection of Old Baltimore Pike, said, "When I hear what Newark people complain about, it's like nothing — I'd like to have it that good." Boyer said, "But then again, I'm in a different situation, they are in town and I'm on a truck thoroughfare."

The results, however, are the same. Passing trucks cause homes to shake, plaster to crack, deafening noise and diesel fumes that are so thick sometimes, Boyer said he can't even see the trucks.

"You can always tell when a truck is really loaded because the house rumbles," Boyer said. He moved to his home 23 years ago, when the area was still considered "the country."

He and an Old Baltimore Pike neighbor, Dwight Holtzen, have conducted studies similar to those done by Newarkers. A 1991 count made by West Main Street residents, totaled 364 trucks per day.

According to Boyer's most recent counts, taken Oct. 5 during afternoon rush hour, about 187 trucks and 2,063 cars passed his home per hour.

Holtzen, a 22-year resident, counted trucks passing his Old Baltimore Pike home. In a 1987 study he presented to Deldot, Holtzen counted 109 trucks per day.

Time capsule rekindles Newark of yesteryear

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In a reunion of sorts, present-day Newark Presbyterians were connected last week to former generations of those who have shared the same religious faith.

A 67-year-old time capsule was the tie which bound the parishioners of the First Presbyterian Church in Newark to the past — a time that was revisited last Sunday (Oct. 30).

Stephen Moore, president of board of trustees at the church, had the honor of opening the small metal box and retrieving information which had been sealed for more than half a century.

The time capsule was unearthed this summer when the back part of Daugherty Hall, originally built as the Old Stone Presbyterian Church, was demolished to make way for the new University of Delaware student center on Main Street.

The time capsule contained coins dated 1927, a copy of the Newark Post, the University of Delaware's student newspaper, The Review, the Evening Journal and Delaware Ledger, history of the Newark Presbyterian Church including officers, teachers and members of the Sunday School, a photograph of the church, history of the church up to the time of its completion in 1871 and various other church records.

The Rev. Jeffrey Dandoy, associate pastor at the Presbyterian church, said there was a real sense of history when opening the capsule, "not just in the newspaper and old coins, but in the faces of the people in the crowd and in their eyes as they looked on."

Anyone with additional information regarding these crimes should contact Det. Michael Kelly or Lt. John Humphrey at the New Castle County Police Criminal Investigation Unit at 571-7924.

Main Street meeting focuses on sharing

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Could Newark's Main Street someday include a town square, an all-night cafe and a youth center? The answer is a resounding — maybe.

About 35 local residents attended the Oct. 27 Main Street meeting and brainstormed about what Main Street needs as a public space.

The topic of the meeting was "Sharing Main Street" and David Ames, director of historic architecture and engineering at the University of Delaware, said everyone shares the physical space on Main Street whether traveling on foot, by car or illegally on a skateboard.

He said Newark residents share the time during the noon rush for lunch but also have fear as the street is much less safe at night than in years past.

Ames said residents share the perception of Main Street of what it is, was or might be. "Our perceptions are all different of Main Street, from the downtown business owner to the freshman student at the University of Delaware," Ames said.

Main Street, he said, is one of the truly public spaces left in western New Castle County and is a symbol of freedom as the right to congregate. He compared it to commercially developed space of a closed-in shopping mall that is privately owned.

"I feel good about Newark's Main Street," Ames said. "Let's not recreate something that is past, but remix it up."

Bill Wilhelm, manager of 90 East Main, said he would like to possibly see Newark Nite held more than just once a year.

Jan Baty, a Newark Planning Commission member, suggested looking into ideas such as turning the old Farm and Home building into a cultural center, creating a town square by doing away with some parking lots and turning them into green spaces and building things in parking lots, which allows kids to skateboard on them.

"I encourage envisioning," Baty said. "If we had our dreams, what would they be — a fountain or courtyard, and where? The idea of envisioning starts and we can find people to come up with the funds."

University of Delaware Student Matt Scarborough disagreed with depleting parking areas. "Where will people park? There is already a crunch on where business customers park."

Scarborough did suggest that there be a place open after 11 p.m. for people under age 21. "There's no place that does what a cafe does at midnight," he said.

Other people debated whether teenagers needed or deserved a place to hang out on Main Street. "There are not a lot of places where I fit in this community," said Sid Codding, a high school junior. "It seems to me I don't. There are no public spaces for adolescents. There is no place to go and that's why people hang out and start fights. We're bored."

Pat Folk of Newark agreed, when she was a teenager in the 1950s there were more structured activities to do such as dances at the fire hall, held by the Century Club and street dances behind the police station.

Newark High School Graduate Naomi Kisen, 18, also said there is no place for kids to go and talk after 9 p.m. She suggests someone renting an empty store front and having volunteers run the place to having a community center on Main Street as opposed to the George Wilson Center. "There's a senior center on Main Street, businesses which cater to university students, but we've really done nothing for high school students," said Kisen.

When asked what she wanted, Kisen replied "Just a place, a room to sit and talk."

Newark resident Victoria Owen said the idea of a youth center didn't pan out five years ago.

The forum, sponsored by the Friends of Newark — a grassroots community group to raise awareness of the importance of community, plans to hold four Main Street meetings in 1995.

The topics will be Main Street and the importance of public occasions, Passing on the Past which will be an opportunity for older citizens to share their history and experiences of Main Street, A Place for our Youth which will be for teenagers to discuss their needs and explore the need for their own space on Main Street and a meeting on what is historic and worth preserving about Main Street.

City loses battle, but may have won war

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The City of Newark may have lost the Sleep-Inn hotel battle last week, but it gained something more important. Five-T Associates, owners of the 2.1 acres of land at 630 South College Ave., sued the city when Newark City Council members voted against a special-use permit it needed to build the hotel.

"What the judge upheld is the city's right to review special-use permits against criteria in our zoning code," said Roy Lopata, city planning director.

City officials say they lost the case on a "technicality," not on the way council members made their decision.

During its five-year struggle to build a hotel, Five-T applied for a special-use permit three times. The Chancery Court said last Thursday a 1991 permit was still valid and the hotel can be built, assuming the city does not appeal the case and win.

During debate over the hotel, many council members were careful to stress that economic issues they cited as reasons to vote against the hotel had nothing to do with competition issues.

The city's code says council can not refuse a special-use permit because a proposed use would compete with similar businesses.

After the court decision, however, council members will be able to be let down their guard somewhat when voicing economic concerns.

Ironically, the economic information that council spent so much time debating, was given to them by Five-T.

In an effort to explain its reasons to build a limited-service (Sleep Inn) rather than a full-service hotel, Five-T submitted reports from the Delaware Development Office.

The report said consumers are looking for cheaper hotel rooms and financial institutions are backing mostly budget hotels.

The same report, however, said there is more supply than demand for hotels in the Newark area.

Some council members said it did not serve the public welfare to have a glut in the hotel market.

The city's special-use permit code says council can consider the "public welfare and whether it will be injurious to property or improvements in the area."

Roger A. Aiken, the city's attorney, said, "The judge said if a record exists that allows them (council) to conclude that a proposed use will impact the surroundings they can consider it, including economic impacts."

"It broadens the power of council," said Tom Hughes, city solicitor. "It gives them more room to operate than they have now."

"It leaves the special use process where it has always been but strengthens it," said Lopata.

DelDOT surveys cause local traffic back-ups

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IF YOU were caught in a traffic jam last week caused by people taking surveys, be assured the inconvenience was caused to gather valuable information.

The Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) was trying to find out where New Castle County residents are traveling.

The Origin and Destination survey, according to Michelle Ackles of DelDOT public relations, was conducted at eight locations in the Newark area Oct. 25, 26, 29 and 30.

The surveys were stationed at U.S. 40 and Del. 301 near the Delaware/Maryland state line, Old Baltimore Pike near Otts Chapel Road, Del. 4 between Route 896 and Elkton Road, I-95 at the toll booth at the state line and I-95 off-ramps at Del. 7, Del. 273 and Del.

896. "The department doesn't do this study very often because we have to stop cars," Ackles said. "But the study is very valuable in getting specific information about where people are going and why."

Ackles said surveyors noted the number of adults in each car and asked drivers where their car trip began, what their destination was, the purpose of the trip such as work, school, shopping, recreation, etc., and the number of times per week this type of trip is taken.

"The reason DelDOT did this study was to look at traffic patterns on Interstate 95," Ackles said. She said the results, which will be completed in about one month, will let the department look at other data such as the impact of car trips and the clean air act and toll information such as, are people driving other roads to avoid them.

Halloween a hit and third prize was awarded to the Toomey family for a Halloween Birthday Party theme.

Morgan said the Newark Lions and Kiwanis clubs judged the parade. She said cash prizes and ribbons were awarded to float winners and local businesses donated prizes to the winners of the other competitions. Businesses providing prizes include Dukart Management McDonalds, Jolly Rogers Family Fun Center, Bennigan's, Blue Hen Bowling Lanes, Christiana Skating Center and Pizza Hut on Christiana Road.

2,000 get treats on Main St.

In another Halloween happening, the 6th annual Trick or Treat Main Street event drew more than 2,000 costumed kids Oct. 28 to downtown businesses.

Organized by the Newark Business Association, about 85 percent of businesses on Main Street and in Newark Shopping Center participated in the festivities by handing out candy, treats and prizes, according to Deirdre Peake, economic development director of the Newark Business Association.

"The event was very successful," said Peake. "All the kids were so excited and parents were very happy that we hold such an event that offers a safe alternative to trick or treating."

Peake said about 500 children went through the NBA's first-ever haunted house, which was run by the Gamma Gamma Sigma service sorority at the University of Delaware.

Senior Center players won't have public show this year due to illness

This year, the show won't go on.

Since 1975 the Newark Senior Center Players - ages 60 to 85 - have put on a show, usually a musical, for the public the first weekend in November. This year, however, they won't.

"We're not doing a show this year, mainly because we've had so much illness (in the group)," said Senior Center Players

Director Catherine Kiernan. "Also there aren't enough people. It isn't a matter of talent, but we need newcomers to allocate details to do."

Kiernan said this season the players will perform songs and skits at local nursing homes.

She said she believes in the future, the organization will again present public performances.

Election finally here

► ELECTION, from 1A

District 10 candidates say they are definitely different.

When Amick announced he would run for the Senate, he left his Representative seat in the 25th district open. Stephanie Ulbrich (R) and Anthony Felicia (D) are now competing for it.

Once again crime and education surfaced as two of the three biggest issues for the candidates. As for the third issue, Felicia said his is controlling government/legislation intervention and Ulbrich said hers is controlling traffic and development.

This race also centers around "who can get the job done." Ulbrich said she can as full-time legislator and Felicia said his connections as a businessman will help him.

Ulbrich helps manage her family's insurance agency and is a former union member. She has also held management positions in the banking and corporate arenas.

Felicia is Director of Engineering at Zeneca Pharmaceuticals and a Newark City Councilman.

In other local races for state-level seats, Timothy U. Boulden (R) is challenging one-term incumbent Catherine W. Wojewodzki (D) for the 21st Representative District.

Incumbent Richard A. DiLiberto, Jr. (D) is challenged by Brian P. Lee (R) for the 14th Representative District.

In the Bear/Glasgow area, Barbara L. Erskine (D) is challenging incumbent Vincent A. Lofink (R) for the 27th Representative District.

Incumbent and House Majority Leader, Joseph R. Petrilli (R) is opposed by George Little (D) for the 22nd Representative District.

Pamela Sue Maier (R) and Regina F. Robb (D) are running for another open seat (Steven C. Taylor (R) did not seek reelection) in the Pike Creek area's 21st Representative District.

Carlene Whitsel-Piechocki (R) is challenging incumbent Karen G. Venezky (D) for the 5th district.

Incumbent J. Christopher Roberts (D) is opposed by Erik L. Adams (R) for the 6th district council seat.

Rte. 896 still may be widened

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Delaware Department of Transportation's delay in announcing a corridor for Route 301, will also stall plans to widen Del. 896.

Anne Canby, secretary of transportation wants to make sure the Route 301 corridor is selected before advertising for contractor bids on the Del. 896 project, according to Michelle Ackles, DelDOT public relations director.

"Based on what comes out of that (the Route 301 decision) we will decide on whether the 896 project should go ahead," Ackles said.

The Del. 896 expansion between Del. 4 and U.S. 40 is the last phase of the dualization that continues south to the Summit Bridge.

Residents say widening Del. 896 isn't necessary if DelDOT would build Route 301, which would connect U.S. 40 with I-95.

The Del. 896 expansion, assuming it happens, will be a new four-lane road (two lanes north and two lanes south) constructed to the immediate east of the existing road.

Part of Del. 896, probably the southbound lane, will be converted into a service road for residents who live alongside it, according to Ackles.

She said DelDOT already owns most of the property it needs to build the new road, including nine townhouses in the Stones Throw development that will be separated from the new road by a wall. There are also about nine partial acquisitions, such as a strip of land in front of a house, that Ackles said DelDOT still needs.

For the most part, residents along the southbound land of Del 896 are happy the road will be moved further away. However, they were concerned the expanded road will be dangerously close to Glasgow High School.

"We've worked a lot with them (residents and Glasgow High School), and one of the things we came up with was changing the entrance to Stones Throw to have it tie into Glasgow High School so everyone could come in out the same way," Ackles said.

The project will cost more than $13 million, excluding designing costs. According to Ackles, it is 80 percent federally funded and 20 percent state funded.

It will take about 850 calendar days to complete. If construction begins in spring 1995, commuters should see a finished project by the end of 1997.

Truck traffic bad in Glasgow as well as Newark

TRAFFIC, from 1A

"The volume has since gone up steadily for years," Holtzen said. "The heaviest traffic seems to be coming from Maryland and making a left turn onto 896 to get on I-95."

Holtzen and Boyer agreed the traffic problem got worse when the state removed the tolls on Del. 896.

"The state is losing millions of dollars in toll evasion using my bare bottom truck counts," Boyer said. "I thought maybe that would ring bells for the state a little, but it didn't."

Richard Koch, who lives at the corner of Old Baltimore Pike and South College Avenue, has followed DelDOT's transportation plans for decades. He has copies of transportation studies, plans and maps dating back to the late 1960s.

"The biggest solution is Route 301," Koch said. "They've been postponing it since before I lived here—34 years ago."

According to DelDOT's 1989 Newark Area Transportation Study, and estimated 63,170 vehicles would travel Route 301 (which will route traffic from U.S. 40 to I-95 when it is built) and 44,270 would travel between Old Baltimore Pike and U.S. 40, in the future.

The future is now, according to Koch, and the vehicles DelDOT said would travel on 301 are already on Del. 896.

Safety is yet another concern. "I think they've been lucky so far," Koch said. "an accident in front of the school (Glasgow High School) and that would be a disaster."

Senator Bill Roth never forgets his commitment to the people of Delaware. In fact, his record for helping Delawareans is so good that the News Journal recently noted: "No other Delaware office holder can match Roth's record for constituent work."

When it comes to dealing with the federal government, Bill Roth knows how to cut through the red-tape. During an average year, Bill Roth's office answers more than 20,000 letters and helps nearly 6,000 Delawareans who seek assistance in dealing with such agencies as Social Security or the IRS. No problem is too small...no challenge too big.

It's really quite simple... even though Bill Roth is one of the most powerful men in the United States Senate, he always comes home to Delaware to help the folks who sent him there.

Students benefit from recycled parking spaces

Rotary Club raises money by parking cars during Blue Hen football games

In a round-about way, some Newark-area college students will benefit from this year's political frenzy.

For some years now, the Newark Rotary Club has parked cars at the Delaware Trust Company branch across from the football stadium on South College Avenue. During University of Delaware home games, Rotarians collect $5 per car for vehicles that park on the bank lot.

According to Bob Mark, chairman of the Newark Rotary's fund-raiser, every dollar collected on the parking lot goes directly to scholarship awards to local students. For example, this school year, the local service club has awarded $6,000 to three scholarship winners. The bank receives none of the funds; they donate the use of their lot to the Newark club.

This year, Mark reports, many local and state political hopefuls arrive early at the home games. They rent their parking spaces from the Rotarians, then head across the street to "work the crowd" as fans flood into the stadium.

But few of them stay for the game. After the throng is seated, they return to their cars and move on to their next hand-shaking session.

And then, of course, the Rotarians are able to quickly re-rent the vacated space to latecomers, who are thrilled to find a convenient space after kick-off.

Mark estimates the scholarship fund next fall will be a "couple hundred dollars more," thanks to the campaigning politicians.

Puppy returns to school

By BETTY BURROUGHS
SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

It was a golden day for Saffron and her special sponsors.

The 14-month-old golden retriever, a future guide dog for a blind person, paid a return visit to John G. Leach School in New Castle to Michele McClay's class that adopted her last year.

She was a cuddly puppy when she went to the school to meet her sponsors then, but Saffron's mission this time was to deliver a personal thank-you to the 10 severely disabled students who raised more than $300 to help support the then puppy-in-training.

The puppy was unanimously chosen as their service project for the year and the students raised money through bake sales and donations to pay Saffron's food bill for a year and a half.

In addition to ecstatic tail-wagging and happily subjecting herself to pats, hugs and tummy rubs, Saffron's thank you included a plaque with her picture as a pup. The award will hang in the children's classroom.

Saffron is one of a number of dogs in Delaware/Maryland puppy raising programs of Guiding Eyes for the Blind of Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

On her first trip to Leach School a year ago, she was accompanied by her raiser and trainer Joan Morse of Newark, another dog in training and Lynne Young of Wilmington, who is the coordinator for the puppy raisers.

The puppy raisers, all volunteers, are not paid but veterinary expenses are covered by Guiding Eyes for the Blind. They take pups into their homes, and their hearts, and housebreak and train the dogs on a leash.

The puppy raisers, founded in 1991, are about to accept their 33rd pup from Guiding Eyes. The first Guiding Eyes puppy Morse raised, a golden retriever named Iris, went to a blind girl in South Carolina who goes to school with the dog.

For more information on becoming a puppy raiser, call Lynne Young at 478-8291.

Time capsule opened Sunday

► TIME CAPSULE, from 1A

"It was a sense of people's own lives and their parents and grandparents lives," Dandoy said. "A human drama of lives touching lives over time."

"I felt privileged to share in the the significant memories of the Presbyterians in Newark," said Dandoy. "The contents of the time capsule really represent the hopes, dreams and sense of accomplishments of hundreds and thousands of Presbyterians who lived in Newark over the last 70 years or so."

"To be a part of this moment is to be touching the lives of all of those folks," he said.

Prior to the opening of the capsule at the 10:30 a.m. church service, about 400 members of the congregation recited the same litany of rededication spoken Oct. 22, 1928 for the dedication of the new Sunday School addition to the Old Stone Church. The present-day congregation substituted the word congregation for building.

The service also included memories from former members of the Old Stone Church.

"I came to the Old Stone Church in 1921," said Virginia Hardwick. "I was born into it, as my parents were long-time members." She said she especially remembers the Sunday School Picnics with jars of lemon butter and games such as three-legged races and tug of war.

Charles Eastman, who came to the church in 1929, said he moved to Newark from Pennsylvania after the new Sunday school wing had just been erected. He said to make more room at the Christmas and Easter services ushers would carry heavy, wooden chairs up steep steps to put in the middle of rows until, he said, the fire marshal stopped the practice because of the fire hazard.

Ernie Woodmansee said she came to the church in 1943 and moved to Delaware Avenue where she and her family could walk to church. "I remember we always had aprons for sale at the bazaar," she said. "And I remember teaching Sunday School, grades first through third in one room. It was mayhem."

Betty Eldridge, affiliated with the church since 1951, talked about the day the congregation walked from the old church at 17 Main Street to the new one at 292 West Main Street. "I remember the police stopped all the traffic and we streamed out the church doors and uphill to a service of communion," Eldridge said. "We prayed to God to guide us in the years to come (in our new building)."

Dandoy said the time capsule contents will most likely be displayed at the church.

Also, the 1927 cornerstone from the Old Stone Church will be placed in the Remembrance Garden behind the First Presbyterian Church on West Main Street.

CONFIDENCE

"My physician recommended the Arbors at New Castle after I'd spent six months in the hospital. It was great to be in a more home-like setting. Now I'm home again...and glad to be back teaching."

Bill Stabosz, Newark, with Joanne Williams, RN

Confidence is critical in healthcare. It's a two-way street. An exchange. Of communications. And understanding.

For patients, confidence involves belief. Belief that someone else's claims can be supported. With evidence. With positive outcomes. For caregivers, confidence involves knowledge. Knowing what one can, and cannot, do. Knowing one's ability. And experience.

In healthcare, confidence is what distinguishes the excellent from the marginal. There is no middle ground. There's no need for it. No one is willing to compromise their confidence. No one should have to.

You can see that confidence in the faces of the Arbors at New Castle. Take a closer look. Then decide. We invite you to come see us. Face to face.

Bear-Glasgow civic meeting Monday

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Bear Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations (BGCCO) will meet Monday, Nov. 7, to elect a new Secretary and Treasurer and review the first draft of a maintenance association pamphlet.

BGCCO members can be nominated at the meeting, according to Stephanie Hansen, president.

The pamphlet, to be distributed to members of maintenance associations and home buyers in New Castle County, will contain general information about responsibilities of such associations.

"Such a document does not currently exist in the New Castle County," Hansen said. "People moving in and living here need this information now."

BGCCO hosted a maintenance association seminar this summer to teach homeowners how to run the associations.

The results of the seminar were to be used in an educational pamphlet.

Hansen said she wanted the county law department to prepare an additional portion of the pamphlet that would outline homeowners' legal responsibilities, but was disappointed with the result.

"Since the county government has not stepped up to the plate to do this, we took the bull by the horns and came up with something ourselves," Hansen said.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 209 of the Glasgow Medical Center.

Christian Scientists to build on Deer Park farmhouse site

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The fate of the Old Deer Park farmhouse property at 48 W. Park Place is one step closer to being decided after Newark Planning Commission's Tuesday night meeting. After a one and one-half hour discussion, planning commissioners recommended the First Church of Christian Scientists of Newark be allowed to build on the 2.1 acres if they submit a conceptual plan of their church to Newark City Council members.

"The general concern was that people wanted to see a plan," said Roy Lopata, city planning director. "Since the church didn't submit a conceptual plan it was really hard to get a sense of what was going to happen at the site."

Lopata said the church will be "relatively small" — about 3,600 square feet.

Ed Sobolewski, the land owner, successfully lobbied to get his property subdivided into four parcels this summer. Neighbors awaited four single family homes, but now he wants council to change it back to a single lot.

He declined to comment on his change of plans.

According to Lopata, several residents at the meeting were concerned about the land being used for institutional purposes instead of residential.

The matter is scheduled to come before city council sometime in December.

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE CITY OF NEWARK announced Tuesday that a picture of Republican candidate Tim Boulden and a uniformed Newark police officer was not sanctioned by the city.

Boulden, a candidate for the 23rd district House of Representatives seat, was pictured with an officer in front of a marked police car in some of his campaign literature.

Boulden said he was unaware of any problems the photo caused.

"We used it on a literature drop once before, and heard nothing about it," Boulden said. "When nothing happened it fueled our ignorance... we certainly had no idea when we used the photo on a second piece of literature."

Newark is a non-partisan entity and remains neutral during partisan campaign election activities.

City manager, Carl Luft said, "It is my hope that the citizens of Newark understand that the photograph of the police officer in this campaign literature does not represent an endorsement of the candidate by the City of Newark nor the police department."

According to Boulden, the picture was taken when he and his photographer visited Newark's Municipal Hall.

"I stopped to ask an officer a question and the photographer snapped a picture, the officer wasn't even aware what had happened," Boulden said.

"It was an honest mistake on our part," he said. "This is the first time I've been involved in politics and I didn't now it was a problem. As soon as it was brought to our attention this week we gave it our full attention and stopped distributing the literature with the photo."

Boulden is opposed by Democratic incumbent, Cathy Wojewodzki.

A vote that counts

THE LONG POLITICAL campaign season is finally over and judgment day is Tuesday for both political candidates and voters alike.

Despite the inundation of political propaganda we all have been exposed to during the past few months, Delawareans in general and Newarkers in particular are fortunate. Local citizens have the opportunity to decide on races ranging from county council persons to state representatives to United States senator.

While many people often think that one vote doesn't mean very much, this not the case here. There are many local issues — the Newark bypass and the suggested changing of the city and university charters — that the local politicians have addressed, primarily because the Newark citizenry demanded that they do so.

These same citizens can now go to the polls Tuesday and reaffirm their position with a vote for the person they think will best address their concerns.

As for the statewide races, don't forget that a vote for a Delaware senator or representative in the United States Congress actually carries more weight than a similar vote in states with greater populations. With the population of Delaware being so much smaller than California, a vote here for a particular representative has much more overall impact than a single vote in California — or just about any other state. This is a unique ability to affect national change that only Delaware voters can boast.

While we don't feel compelled to profess how or why citizens should do their "civic duty," we are proud of the fact that, historically, Delawareans have taken advantage of this right in greater percentages than most other states.

During recent weeks on our pages, your community newspaper has offered impartial information about local candidates. We've done our best to fulfill our important responsibility to educate readers. We have published many profiles of these local political hopefuls.

Although we have chosen not to endorse candidates this year, it is something we reserve the right to do and look forward to in future elections. Until then, we hope that our efforts have given our readers a better understanding of some of the issues and the candidates' position on those issues.

PASSING THOUGHTS

One for the record books

By JAMES B. STREIT, JR.
NEWARK POST STAFFWRITER

LAST WEEK was one for the record books in the Streit household. My son broke his collarbone. My daughter spoke eloquently at a memorial service honoring one of our closest and dearest friends. I endured one of the busiest weeks in my 23-year newspaper career. Our family enjoyed the excitement of opening a time capsule at our church. And the leaves continue to fall down from the branches, only to build up on my front lawn.

Sunday night, as I prepared mentally for my return to the newspaper office the next day, I was struck how both the saddest and the most joyful of the occurrences of the past seven days involved my livelihood.

A tragic case of leukemia claimed our family friend last week.

The writer has been publisher of the Newark Post since 1992. He and his family reside in Cherry Hill in Newark.

After some initial optimism, her condition quickly deteriorated. She died in a Seattle, Wash., hospital just a few days away from what would have possibly been a life-saving bone marrow transplant.

During the visitations and before and after the memorial service last week, because of my newspaper background, friends and family commented on the importance of seeing that an accurate and complete obituary was printed about our friend in the hometown newspaper.

As my mind wandered, I recalled my grandmother's death. I was in my mid-teens and I had just started hanging around newspapers.

Around that time, I had helped (for free, of course) with this interesting thing called "paste up," a less than scientific process in which rubber cement was used to "paste" newspaper copy down onto large sheets of paper. (God help you if a headline was crooked. You had about 10 seconds to correct your error or the mistake would be preserved for posterity on the printed page!) It was these "flats" from which the community paper was printed. I was beginning to get hooked on the newspaper business and thought it might make an interesting career.

As the process goes, my family began going through my grand-

County growth at peak

The rapid development in New Castle County is about at its peak, according to County Councilman Richard LaPenta, who represents northeastern Newark.

"My sense is that things are starting to slow down," says LaPenta.

In fact, LaPenta says the county is already facing something of an office glut.

While the county facing the problem of too much office space, it also has the problem of not enough residential housing.

LaPenta says many young families can not afford the cost of housing and must consider manufactured housing or mobile homes as an alternative.

PER CHANCE

A welcome alternative

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

IT HAS BEEN suggested with increasing frequency that the news media devote disproportionate attention to negative news. Every evening at six o'clock, TV anchors recite a litany of murder, arson, drug overdose, assault, atrocity and disaster that keeps us in a perpetual state of anxiety. Little wonder that a recent national poll indicates that Americans are steadily growing more disgusted, cynical, bitter and greedy.

As a small step to counter this trend, I call to your attention a wholly positive and growing national effort known as Alternative Gift Markets, Inc., that has reached our own community. The AGMI concept originated in California and was introduced in Newark by The Rev. Barry Dawson, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church, who had become acquainted with the program while serving a church in Montana. It was developed at First Church in 1990 as the Alternative Christmas Market under the chairmanship of Eugene Pierce and is being coordinated this year by Carole and Martin Hermes.

Though about 45 church members are involved in planning, promoting and staffing the market, the givers' role is relatively easy. They are asked to select from a variety of choices ranging from international to national to local in scope. One might elect tree planting in India or Brazil, bicycles for the women of Mozambique, or assistance to war victims in Bosnia or Sudan. Opportunities in the U. S. include assistance to Sioux Indians attempting to build new buffalo herds in South Dakota, finding jobs for homeless citizens, and establishing safe havens for battered women. Among the local projects are Emmaus House, Hope Dining Room, Habitat for Humanity, Meeting Ground and Newark Area Welfare.

Harriet C. Prichard, AGMI president, brings alternative gifts "bridging healing to the sick, build self reliance and well being establish bridges of peace, feed hungry people and protect our endangered environment." She further describes the gifts as life-giving, life-saving, and life-extending for all races and religions.

Those who invest in these projects may do so in their own name or in the name of a friend or relative. A card is sent to the person in whose name the gift is purchased. In addition to First Church members, members of other area churches and the public are invited to visit the market displays on Sunday afternoon, November 20, from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Unlike other charitable organizations, some of which have been sharply criticized for allocating a high percentage of their receipts to

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bypass isn't really needed

To: The editor

From: E.L. Cains
Elkton

This replies to reports in the Newark Post on the Newark bypass—particularly Mrs. Rodgers' neighborhood item of Sept. 9 and Marty Valania's Sept. 23 report of Mayor Gardner's Rotary Club presentation. Some fallacies are perpetuated in these articles:

Fallacy #1: There is an overwhelming need for a Newark bypass (formerly the beltway). This belief is based upon an opinion the Newark's traffic ills are caused by through traffic forced downtown in their quest to get from one side of the city to the other. Some traffic does fit this category, but studies have shown it to be a minor fraction. The Newark Micro-Transportation Study, sponsored by WILMAPCO, concluded "This new section of highway (the beltway) in no way would relieve CBD (central business district) congestion or influence east-west demand characteristics." For those who dispute this, consider the CBD traffic in July and August vs. the congestion when the University is in session. The U. of Del. is Newark's largest trip generator and traffic to and from there would of necessity originate or be destined downtown.

Fallacy #2: State officials have delayed this project. The history of this project shows location indecision by Newark's government and citizens as the major deterrent. In the 50's, a simple bypass was planned along Casho Mill Rd. but the folks there thought it would be a better idea to put it along the Christiana parkland. In the 60's, the folks in Timber Creek pressured the city and it was moved on the folks in Christine Manor—who in the 70's filed a successful suit against preserving a corridor through them. Things were relatively quiet through the 80's but now the project is resurrected as one to put on the folks in Maryland! What would you guess the result will be there?

Fallacy #3: New road capacity solves traffic congestion. In fact, when road capacity is expanded, the traffic quickly expands to fill it, and we create more congestion in more places without solving anything. Fortunately, the federal DOT recognized this and now directs increasingly higher percentages of the funds they control toward mass transit and land use efficiencies—a more effective way to stem the tide.

Where should we go from here? 1) We should support and promote the bus transit program sponsored by the U of D—it deserves better than the attitude of Newark's Planning Dept. that it won't work. 2) Eliminate the bottleneck under the railroad on Casho Mill Rd. 3) A commuter toll that encourages Md and Penn commuters going to and from Wilmington to use I-95 at the state line. With these, we would utilize facilities already in place.

Historical ordinance infringes on owner

To: The editor

From: Patrice Swadey
Newark

I was a member of the Committee to Save Daugherty Hall, and would gladly have joined a committee to save Deer Park Farm, had there been one. I sincerely hope and pray that the perpetrators of both those acts of vandalism will find them the most costly decisions they have ever made.

However, it was the promotion of historical ordinances such as Newark's proposed ordinance appears to be which caused me to resign my membership in the National Trust for Historic Preservation some years ago, after being a member for over ten years. I firmly believe that a free enterprise approach can work in the field of historic preservation, as it does in other areas of economic activity;

New exhibit displays education and culture

COVERING the "arts beat" is always interesting, but one does get to see a great deal of sameness over the years. Just last month, however, I found an exhibit that was a real first for me — and many other people too — that I want to share with you today.

The exhibit is called "Waura: Paintings by Peoples of the Rainforest of Brazil." It is now on display at the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology at 33rd and Spruce Streets in Philadelphia. Not only is the art interesting to see and enjoy, the 40 paintings offer new insights into the Waura tribe's culture, mythology and beliefs. Not bad — enjoyment and education going hand in hand!

These 40 works on handmade paper are even more interesting because the Waura people had never worked in this medium before. The small tribe, which lives in the Upper Xingu River region of the Brazilian rainforest, is famous for its pottery, but not painting. Then, you might ask, how come an exhibit of paintings and not pottery.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Good question.

The story began when anthropologist Dr. Vera Pentecost Coelho went into the rainforest to learn more about their famous pottery. After she lived with the tribe for a while, they began to share information with her about their myths and beliefs. They did their best, considering the language barrier, to describe details to Dr. Coelho, but something was lacking. She hit upon the idea of asking them to draw what they wanted to share and the Waura took her up on the request and the results were better than even the researcher dreamed.

In a letter to Bob Nugent, art professor at Sonoma State University, she wrote "Soon the Indians began to tell myths and liked the idea of drawing them for me so I could understand them better." Dr. Coelho arranged for some handmade paper fabricated by Brazilian artist Octavio Roth. She also gave the Waura people top quality painting materials with which to create their art work. The results are stunning.

When you see the show, and I hope you do, it is important to remember that this was the first time anyone in the tribe had tried to make paintings and that no one in the tribe had formal art training.

Frankly, I didn't know much about the people who created the 40 works now at the University Museum. That was my cue to ask my never ending source of information at the museum, Pam Kosty, for some details. "The Waura are one of ten tribes who live at the meeting of streams forming the Xingu River in the Brazilian rainforest. Although the tribes speak different languages, their customs are remarkably homogeneous and friendly relations among the tribes are strengthened by a trading system and their joint ceremonies at which sporting contests are featured."

She went on to explain that trade is on a barter basis with each tribe specializing in a particular artifact. The Waura make pottery — the pottery that led Dr. Coelho there in the first place. You can find out much more about the tribe, if you are interested, when you see their art works. The exhibition is well documented. There is also a 31 page catalog, called simply "Waura," edited by Hailey Franke and Michael Schwager with an opening essay by Dr. Coelho. Photos are in color and monochrome.

The drawings at the University Museum include geometric designs, anthropomorphic figures, mythological or supernatural beings and landscapes.

If you have never been to the University Museum, plan to spend some time. There is so much more to see than just this one exhibit in the large edifice at 33rd and Spruce Streets. Most of their exhibits are "family friendly" so take the kids along over the Christmas holidays. Don't miss my favorite, the Egyptology section. I was first taken there as a young child and have been back many times on my own and then with my children.

Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 5 p.m. The complex is just around the corner from the Philadelphia Civic Center and a short distance from Pennsylvania Station, 30th Street, which serves both Amtrak and SEPTA trains. If you are driving, take I-76 to the Civic Center exit. Follow the signs to the Civic Center. Go to the first traffic light past the Civic Center and turn right. The main entrance will be on your right. There is some on street parking and several patrolled parking garages in the area.

The exhibit is unique and close by. Enjoy!

and I oppose using the power of government to infringe upon the property rights of honest, law-abiding citizens, except in the most absolutely essential cases.

I do think that owners of buildings over 75 years of age should be required to apply for a special permit, decided upon by a committee of experts and citizens, before demolishing the structure, or removing any significant exterior feature. Should this demolition or removal be approved, the building should first be documented — at least by photographs, preferably also by measured drawings — before it is carried out.

Other than this, I do not believe any restrictions should be put on the rights of property owners.

A homeowner who may be struggling just to pay his taxes and utility bills should not be forced by law to maintain his home's exterior according to historically-correct standards — which can be a very expensive proposition.

Such positive news, seldom chronicled by the mainstream press, is, in itself, a welcome alternative to our customary media barrage of mayhem and misfortune.

mother's belongings. What struck me — even at such a young age — was how many newspaper clippings she had stuffed away in peculiar places.

Her sewing drawer had clippings from the 1940s that detailed my father's two brushes with death during World War II. Under the scarf on her dresser was a clipping from Nov. 1950 that announced my birth. A shoe box contained clippings about my Boy Scout awards and my sisters' achievements and sports accomplishments. There were countless obituaries of family members, about whom I would know very little today had she not saved these tattered, brittle clippings.

As a story in this edition details, the congregation of First Presbyterian Church of Newark opened a time capsule Sunday. It had been buried nearly seven decades ago when the Sunday School wing of the stone church on Main Street was dedicated. The capsule was retrieved this summer when the controversial construction of the new UD student center began and the wing was removed from what has been known recently as The Abbey.

As a lifelong Presbyterian, I understand the importance of tradition and history to any congregation. As a newcomer to the Newark membership, I am particularly interested in the contents of the time capsule. Now, I, too, can share in my church's history.

In my newspaper career — much of which has been spent directly in a news-gathering role — I have covered many capsule closings, burials and cementings. But this was my first time capsule opening.

As Steve Moore, leader of the Board of Trustees, used tin snips to open the lead box, I was struck by the sight of aged, parched, brown-edged papers that were jammed in the capsule. There were complete copies of this newspaper as well as the Evening Journal and Delaware Ledger. Within the pages, the details of the Sunday School wing capital campaign were listed. As was the groundbreaking, construction and — just before the box was sealed — the planned dedication.

Even though I claim that I "love" my job, it has its moments. But these reflections from a tumultuous week brought me to my desk Monday morning with a renewed sense of purpose for what I have chosen to be my life's work.

Newark spikers tie for Flight A title

By BRETT LOVELACE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

It was a situation of now or never for the Concord volleyball team last Friday night.

The Raiders responded with a 2-0 (15-10, 15-6) shutout of visiting Newark to force a tie in the Blue Hen Conference Flight A conference standings.

Concord's victory in front of a gym of spirited supporters avenged an earlier season loss at Newark and put both teams' records at 13-1.

"We played our best game of the year," said Concord Coach Debbie Corrado of the match. "We knew it would take a flawless performance to beat Newark."

Concord set the pace early in the first match with powerful front line play from junior Brandi Cain. Senior captain Kari Kopnicki had four service points and Marisa Alexo added three to help the Raiders to the 15-10 win.

Newark opened the second match with three straight service points from Jessica Phipps. That effort, however, was offset by a relentless Raider serving attack from Karen Kulp, whose four points gave Concord a 4-3 lead.

Newark rips Mt. Pleasant, preps for Penn

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Warning: Prolonged exposure to Newark High could cause extreme flashburn. In other words, one of the hottest teams in the state just got a little hotter.

The unbeaten Yellowjackets continued their torrid pace and singled Mount Pleasant 46-19 last Friday in a Flight A football game at Hoffman Stadium.

Jeff Strengari passed for two touchdowns and Mark Lutes ran for two more as Newark (8-0, 5-0) extended its winning streak to eight games with two conference games remaining in the regular-season against flight archrivals Christiana and William Penn.

"I guess we knew at beginning of the season it would come down (to the last two conference games)," said Newark Coach Butch Simpson. "It's no surprise that we came out of the pack and now we have two big games. We'll take one at a time. It's very important to us."

"This is an important time for us. It's just nice that we're able to be in big games. Right now, we're one of the teams to beat. For our seniors, they've never been in a big game like that. We're happy to be in it."

"I kind of wish we were playing William Penn late in September," Simpson said. "They were inexperienced at a few positions, but you knew they were going to get better. We've had it relatively easy after Sallies (a season-opening win). Now we have two of the teams that historically are our toughest games."

The 'Jackets took a 7-0 lead last in the first quarter after Doug Campbell scored his third touchdown in two games. Jeff Strengari found the streaking split end down the right sideline on a 46-yard scoring play and Steve Gwinn booted the point-after. However, Mount Pleasant tied the game with 6:17 left in the second period when Ted Ganderton hit Javar Alston from the Newark

25. "It kind of fits," Simpson said. "We started our last three games slowly. I believe we have the kind of players on this team that have to be threatened before they wake up. That's what happened (Friday). This is a team that we were a little lax for and upsets happen every day. Things don't happen just by showing up. It's a matter of people making big plays and maintaining intensity."

Newark jumped on the Green Knights for three TDs in the final five minutes of the half to command a 27-7 lead at the break.

Hens to renew Lehigh rivalry in Bethlehem

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Throwback games have been featured throughout many of this fall's pro football weekends. Saturday, the University of Delaware football team will have its own throwback when it visits Bethlehem, Pa. for a game against Lehigh University.

The Blue Hens (5-3 overall, 4-3 Yankee Conference), coming off a 42-20 victory over Northeastern behind Daryl Brown's record-breaking 272-yard rushing performance, have not visited Bethlehem since 1987. It will be their first-ever trip to Lehigh's Goodman Stadium, which opened in 1988.

Delaware leads the all-time series with Lehigh 24-16, winning 62-21 last year after a six-year hiatus in games between the two schools. In a six year span between 1980 and 1985, however, the Engineers won five of six games.

"Lehigh is a real challenge for us," said Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond. "They will be honoring their 1979 team — that's from an era when they gave us fits. I expect a bonfire of emotion."

The defending Patriot League champs enter the contest with a 4-3-1 overall record and a 2-1 mark in their conference. The Engineers topped Colgate 25-22 last week to snap a two-game losing streak.

"We started the season off strongly," said Lehigh Coach Kevin Higgins, who is in his first as head man. "Then we hit a rough spot but came back to do a nice job against Colgate last week."

Higgins realizes his team will have to play very well to become the first Patriot team to beat a Yankee Conference team (0-4) this season.

"There's a ton of difference [between the two leagues] starting with the athletic ability," Higgins said. "There's so much skill, speed and strength."

How does Higgins hope to stop Brown and the rest of the Delaware offense?

"That's a great question," he said. "Since no one has stopped the Wing-T or Daryl Brown in a long time. That's a big challenge for us because it's not just a case of stopping Daryl Brown. [Quarterback Leo] Hamlett is good, the halfbacks have great speed, [split end Courtney] Batts is a great receiver and they have a great line. You have to stop them."

Lehigh's losses have come in close games with Cornell (21-17) and Bucknell (31-27) and a blowout by the Yankee Conference's New Hampshire (42-10).

Langan out 3-4 weeks

Quarterback Keith Langan's regular season came to a close Saturday after suffering a shoulder separation. Langan's recovery time is three to four weeks, making him unavailable the rest of the season unless Delaware qualifies for the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

Hens need to make up ground

If Delaware wants to make a fourth straight trip to the I-AA playoffs, it will have quite a bit of ground to make up in the next few weeks.

As of this week, they were 27th in terms of teams getting votes. Three teams — Grambling, Penn and South Carolina St. — ranked ahead of them are ineligible for the play-

Christiana seniors set record for wins

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

BILL MUEHLEISEN doesn't want any accolades or any credit. He doesn't want any blaring trumpets, no presentations, commendations or a prestigious awards banquet. He doesn't want the limelight.

But this time, the Christiana High football coach is not going to get what he wants, at least for part of the credit.

The Viking 1995 senior class broke a school record set by last year's senior class with its 48-6 Homecoming win over Concord last weekend. The 20 or so seniors on the team have won more games over their four-year stint than any other Viking team. Ever. And Muehleisen has played a major role in bringing the Vikings back from relative obscurity to one of the state's most respected and highly visible teams.

"Coach Muehleisen is the reason we are where we are," said senior lineman Tim Walz. "His attitude is 'Life is football.' He scouts every team, watches films over and over, five times in a row. He helped get us our weight room. He gets people to come out. We get psyched for Muehleisen; we win. He's a winning tradition. It feels great. Class of '95 did a lot."

He has never had a losing season at Christiana and took over a flailing

Viking program in 1989 after which he turned in back-to-back 5-5 seasons. In Muehleisen's six years, the Vikings have compiled a 43-17 record and this year's seniors are an outstanding 33-7 since 1991. That's an .825 winning percentage over four years.

"I'm very proud to be a part of this team and to be the winning-most senior at this time," said Marvin Adams, a senior split end and safety. "I'm from New Castle so I used to be a William Penn freak. I never thought about going to Christiana."

"Coach Muehleisen came and turned this whole program around. Ron Hollis (Viking basketball Coach) told me it was a nice program and he was a good coach. My mom moved into the Christiana District and I started coming to Christiana. Then I really found out how good a coach he was. He made me all-state; he made me a better receiver and safety as well as other things."

Oops, there's some more of that credit, but don't let him hear you.

"No, no, no, now wait a minute, keep me out of this," Muehleisen emphasized. "This has nothing to do with me. This is this senior class and I think you have to talk in terms of the kids. Yeah, we've done some things, this is true. But this senior class has won more games than any class in the history of their school."

"And I don't care where you are, whether you're in Podunk in lower Mississippi or you're at Notre Dame, it's an important thing. And I'm so proud of this senior class. I mean these kids have now won 33 games in their career."

"It's a remarkable record," he said. "What I told the kids is that any time

Bailey's three TDs lead Christiana past Concord

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

CHRISTIANA — In this year's shootout for the Flight A title, Christiana decided it was time to redirect its firepower.

"We didn't shoot ourselves in the foot (this weekend)," said Viking Coach Bill Muehleisen. "We didn't do the dumb things we did last week (against Brandywine). And this was a team that had beaten Brandywine, so there was a little bit of fear in how we were going to do."

Don't get too frightened. Seniors Rashad Bailey ran for three touchdowns and Jon Boney threw for 129 yards and one TD to help the Vikings shell-shock Concord 48-6 Saturday at sun-splashed Coder Field.

Christiana (6-1, 4-0) is unbeaten since an opening-game loss to Caesar Rodney and further solidified its tie with Newark for the conference lead. The Vikings racked up 471 total offensive yards as Bailey rushed for 120 yards on six carries and scored on runs of 1, 44 and 69 yards.

"The real Vikings showed up today," Muehleisen said. "I thought our blocking was very crisp, the backs ran well, and Boney and his two receivers (Curt Henry and (Marvin) Adams, well, that trio is remarkable. They're fun to watch, they really are. I think Boney had one of the best passing games I've seen on this field."

Boney, who was replaced by Andrew Allen with the game well in hand early in the third period, completed six of seven passes and connected on all six to Adams and Henry in the first half.

"We just had a bad game against Brandywine," said Adams, a 6-foot, 175-pound receiver and safety who had four receptions for 94 yards and one touchdown. "We came back and had a good practice this whole week. We had a goal to shoot for and that's what we did."

The Vikings took a quick 7-0 lead with barely two minutes gone in the game. Concord had pressed to the Viking 34, but Allen intercepted a deflected pass and raced 70 yards for a touchdown. Bailey scored his first TD on a one-yard run with 5:04 left in the quarter and then notched his second and third TDs within three minutes of each other to give Christiana a 29-0 lead with 9:15 until halftime.

"It was a great win, we needed it, especially on our Homecoming," said Henry, who remem-

DANIELLE FALKOWSKI-RULLO

DANIELLE FALKOWSKI-RULLO had 20 service points, seven aces eight digs to help Caravel defeat Sanford last week in a volleyball match that boosted the Buccaneers in the state's top 10 rankings and helped secure a post-season tournament berth.

The senior outside hitter's two-game point total was her highest ever as she scored close to 65 percent of Caravel's points in the Buccaneers sweep. Falkowski-Rullo served 11 points in the 16-14 opener and then added nine more points in the 15-3 clincher.

"I was just like really excited because we were playing the 10th-ranked team," said Falkowski-Rullo, who tallied her most points ever in two games. "We were down in the first game, but I wanted it. I wanted us to get ahead."

"This is my first year serving," she said. "The past years I've always played the front row, but this year I wanted to prove I could serve even though I didn't have a serving tradition. I worked hard to strengthen my arm."

"Her serving has really come on this season," said Caravel Coach Lori Lora. "She's very strong, has a very dependable serve and we count on her when we someone to come in a give us a couple points here and there. This would be her biggest game; one of the best she's had this season."

"I think they stated to click in the (second game) and started to realize their power," Lora said. "They came in and did what they had to do. That was a big win; we needed that, it got us into the top 10."

"Our team has come a long way," Falkowski-Rullo said. "We're starting to come together on and off the court. We have a lot of open-minded communication. We talk about what happens in the game and take some friendly advice. It's made us a lot smoother."

Holy Angels varsity gridders stay undefeated

The Holy Angels varsity football team capped an undefeated regular season with a 6-0 win over archrival St. John the Beloved Sunday afternoon in C.Y.O. action.

Brad Swift picked up the lone score of the day on a 38-yard touchdown run in the second half.

Both defenses played well the entire game with Swift also coming up with the game's biggest defensive play - an interception on the Angels' four-yard line to help prevent a St. John's score. Richie Parson also had a big play, stopping a St. John's fullback on a fourth-and-inches play.

Holy Angels will begin post-season play Sunday against Our Lady of Fatima at A.I. DuPont High.

Caravel spikers having best season

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

The Caravel Academy volleyball team as the No. 4 at-large selection has advanced to the state tournament for the second straight year and will play Flight B champion Alexis I. du Pont Saturday at St. Mark's at 8 p.m.

"In the beginning of the season, one of the team goals was to have fun, be competitive and get to the state tournament," said Coach Lori Lora, in her ninth season. "We accomplished all these. Now we're going into the tournament doing everything we worked on all season and staying focused. A loss would be disappointing, but we win no matter what."

The Buccaneers, who lost to A.I. last year in the opening round, finished the season 12-5 for their best-ever record, despite dropping a tough 15-17, 12-15 match to Padua Monday in the regular-season finale. One of the team's most important wins came against Sanford last week.

"I think we'll surprise a lot of people (in the tournament)," said senior hitter Danielle Falkowski-Rullo. "Everyone looks at us as a small school and A. I. might be taking us lightly."

"We played very well together as a team and worked really hard," said Lora. "The last part of season we played Wilmington Christian and Padua twice. Each game we got better and stronger and we proved to ourselves and other teams that we are really very good. All the players are strong and complement each other well both verbally and physically on court."

Caravel relies on senior co-captains Kara Odom (middle hitter) and Chantel Daunno (setter) and seniors Julie Shannon (middle hitter), Alyssa Sexton (outside hitter), Danielle Falkowski-Rullo (outside hitter) and junior Kelly Downey (outside hitter).

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

The football season is winding down and the playoff picture is a little clearer.

Newark has made it to this point of the year 8-0, but still has games with William Penn and Christiana. The Jackets are a lock to get in the state tournament with just one win over the last two weeks. Even with two losses to end the year, Newark would still have a good chance of playing Thanksgiving weekend. And, no matter what happens this week against Colonials, next week's matchup with Christiana will decide the Flight A championship.

Christiana is 6-1 with Glasgow, Newark and Delcastle still remaining on the schedule. The Vikings are undefeated in the conference and have a great chance of getting to the post season. Obviously, the game against Newark will be a huge one.

St. Mark's (5-1-1) hurt its chances with the loss to Salesianum and the tie against St. Elizabeth. The Spartans still have two Division II teams (Archmere and McKean) left on the schedule before ending the season against William Penn (6-1). St. Mark's would have to win out, hope Newark also beats William Penn and hope for Caesar Rodney to beat Dover in a season finale. A Dover win could give it the Henlopen North's automatic berth and throw a 9-1 CR team in the at-large pool.

Basically, it comes down to four big games over the next two weeks - Newark-William Penn, Newark-Christiana, William Penn-St. Mark's and Dover-Caesar Rodney.

It should be interesting. We went 4-1-1 last week bringing our season record to 31-11-1 - a winning percentage of .733.

CHRISTIANA (6-1) VS. GLASGOW (3-5) - Friday night at Glasgow, 6:30. Last year's game between these two schools was one of the best high school games played during the entire season. This year, however, the Vikings enter the game as clearly the better team but the Dragons have won two straight and are feeling better about themselves. To have any chance at all, Glasgow has to have a healthy Tyjuan Lewis. But even with a healthy Lewis, the Dragons will have to play by far and away their best game of the season and hope for Christiana to falter. A Christiana win will make next week's Newark-Christiana game for all the marbles in Flight A. Don't look for the Vikings to ruin that opportunity. The Pick - Christiana 26, Glasgow 14.

ST. MARK'S (5-1-1) VS. MCKEAN (2-5) - Friday night at Baynard Stadium, 7:30. The Spartans, despite stumbles in the last two weeks, still have a legitimate shot at making the state tournament. To do that, though, they have to get back on the winning track this week against Division II McKean. The post-season should be enough motivation to get the Spartans revving again. They certainly have the better football team as well. The Pick - St. Mark's 28, McKean 6.

HODGSON (3-5) VS. MIDDLETOWN (7-0) - Friday night at Middletown, 7:30. The Silver Eagles again deceived me last weekend, losing to previously winless Wilmington. Five straight weeks we have missed the Hodgson pick. A sixth straight mis-pick would mean a monumental upset this week. The undefeated Cavaliers are playing very well right now and are steaming toward the Division II state tournament. The Eagles lost one they probably think they should've won last week and will probably play tough this week. The Cavs, though, may be a little too tough. The Pick - Middletown 28, Hodgson 8.

NEWARK (8-0) VS. WILLIAM PENN (6-1) - Saturday afternoon at William Penn's Cole Stadium, 2. This is, without a doubt, the game of the week and, frankly, Newark's toughest test of the season so far. None of the eight teams Newark has beaten this season has a winning record. Salesianum, despite its losing record, is a good team. However, the Colonials too have beaten the Sals. William Penn's lone loss is to Christiana. William Penn needs to win the game and hope that Newark beats Christiana next week to earn a piece of the Flight A title. A Newark win, though, makes next week's game for all the marbles. Both teams have strong chances to make the state tournament. The winner, though, virtually locks up a spot. The thought here is that Newark is a little stronger defensively and has enough offense to win. The Pick - Newark 14, William Penn 8.

CARAVEL (0-7) VS. WESTLAKE - Friday night at Westlake, 7:30. The Bucs are still searching for their first win of the season. This week they take on a team we know very little about. The Pick - Westlake 14, Caravel 13.

Holy Angels jayvees rip St. John's 30-0 in youth football

The Holy Angels junior varsity football team completed its regular season with a 30-0 romp over St. John the Beloved before over 200 fans Sunday afternoon. The win improved Holy Angels record to 6-0-1 on the season.

Quarterback James Vitek got Holy Angels on the scoreboard quickly with a one yard plunge on its first possession. He also added the two-point conversion to improve the lead to 8-0.

The lead grew to 16-0 on the Angels' next possession as Billy Bolen scored on a 24-yard touchdown run and added the two-point conversion.

The Angels stretched the lead to 22-0 with Bolen catching a 20-yard scoring pass from Vitek to cap a 16-play drive.

Brandon Farmer finished the scoring with a seven-yard touchdown run while Andrew Swarter added the two-point conversion.

Adams leads Glasgow past Delcastle

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Glasgow Homecoming football crowd had a chance to look into the future last Saturday — and it probably liked what it saw.

Upstart freshman running back John Adams gave a possible preview of things to come, racking up 226 all-purpose yards and three touchdowns to lead the Dragons (3-5) past Delcastle 20-10.

"John is an exciting player that your going to hear a lot about in the next three years," said Glasgow Coach Dave Scott.

Adams dazzled the Delcastle (0-7) defense with a combination of kick returns, pass receptions and high speed runs.

"I never expected any of this to happen this year," said Adams, who rushed for 131 yards in a 24-8 win over Mount Pleasant two weeks ago. "I thought I would probably sit the bench since this is my first season on the team."

Glasgow needed only four minutes to score on its opening 75-yard drive that Adams finished with a one-yard plunge over the goal line. Quarterback Tyjuan Lewis added the two-point conversion.

"Scoring on our first possession was important because it gave us the confidence we needed," Scott said.

The Dragons notched their next touchdown in the second quarter when Adams busted a two-yard run into the end zone for a 14-0 lead.

Delcastle responded with a fumble deep in Glasgow territory that was recovered by junior linebacker Matt Telep. Adams followed with his longest touchdown run of the game, a 20-yard burst through the Cougars' defense.

"I told John he was going to have to take a big load this game,"

Lewis said. "I hurt my wrist during the first quarter and couldn't run or throw the ball well."

Delcastle got its first score early in the fourth quarter when Lewis fumbled and was sacked near the goal line. The hit aggravated an existing injury, forcing him to leave the game. The Cougars grabbed a safety on the next play when Adams was tackled in the end zone.

The Cougars scored their only touchdown on a 35-yard pass with just one minute left in the game.

Glasgow hosts Christina District rival Christiana Friday night at 6:30.

Four local teams in state volleyball tournament

Four local teams qualified for the Delaware High School Volleyball Tournament, which will get underway Saturday night at various sites around New Castle County.

Flight A co-champion Newark, which compiled a 15-3 regular season record, will play Caesar Rodney at Christiana High at 6:30 while Christiana will take on St. Mark's at McKean at 8.

Caravel, making its second-ever state tournament appearance in volleyball, will play Flight B champion A.I. Du Pont at St. Mark's at 8.

Other games in the opening round of the tournament include Archmere vs. McKean; Sanford vs. Wilmington Christian; defending champion Ursuline vs. Wilmington; William Penn vs. Padua and Concord vs. Tower Hill.

The 16-team tournament will hold its championship match Saturday, Nov. 12 at the University of Delaware's Carpenter Center at 8 p.m., following the consolation match at 6:30.

The quarterfinals are Tuesday night at William Penn and Newark and the semifinals are slated for a doubleheader Thursday night at Glasgow.

DSB '81 Kickers tie Demons

The 1981 DSB Kickers tied the first place Demons 1-1 and beat Talbot 6-0 last weekend.

Goals were scored by Baaden,

McNelis, Kambe and Nimrooz. The Kickers season record is now 4-5-2 after starting the season with four straight losses.

Kirkwood Diamonds win two shutouts

The Kirkwood Diamonds under-14 girls soccer team won two games this weekend to finish the regular season with a 7-2-1 record.

The Diamonds topped Swarthmore 5-0 Saturday as Brett Armstrong scored twice to lead the way. Laruen Bailey, Caroline McIlvain and Becky Ragard each scored once for the Diamonds.

The Diamonds returned on Sunday to beat Springfield 2-0.

Bailey and McIlvain each scored once to provide the final margin.

Providing the frontline with support were Jen Kroll, Liz Pruitt, Ann Hennessey, Anjulee Alvares and Tori Guilfoyle. The defensive line was strengthened by Erin Bastien, Chrissy Wample, Melissa Braune and Armstrong. Goalkeeper Jill Snyder earned the shutouts.

Holy Angels soccer team advances to title game

The Holy Angels soccer team defeated St. Edmunds 3-1 last weekend to advance to the championship game of the C.Y.O. playoffs Sunday night at Baynard Stadium at 7.

Vikings rip Concord for sixth straight win

bers Newark's victory at Christiana's Homecoming last year. "We had to get a win instead of going to the dance and sitting there and glooming. We'll be up tonight."

"Our line is winning games for us," Henry said. "We just get the ball and do what we're supposed to do. Boney's throwing the ball well. He got a chance this year to show what he can do."

Boney connected with Adams on a 12-yard pass play with 2:44 left until halftime to give the Vikings an insurmountable 35-0 cushion. Christiana's defense, which is allowing an average of six points a game, held Concord to 184 total offensive yards. Quarterback Andy Waslyn didn't complete a pass until late in the third quarter and gained most of the yardage on the game's final drive.

"It was get-back-on-track for us," said 5-foot-9, 215-pound senior lineman Tim Walz. "This team tried to do things against our defense that they couldn't do. Our varsity has shut out every team except Dover and Caesar Rodney. The Newark game last year is still in our mind. We remember we can be beaten. It's just who plays harder each day."

Seth Davis, who had 79 yards on three carries, gave the Vikes a 42-0 lead when he broke through the line and raced 64 yards for a TD with 10:41 left in the third. Dan Tolbert scored Christiana's final touchdown with four seconds left in the period from Concord's 1 as Muehleisen substituted freely after halftime.

The Raiders scored on their final play from scrimmage when Waslyn found David Hunt in the end zone on a 29-yard scoring pass.

Newark gets ready for big Penn tilt

► NEWARK, from 1B

Strengari scored off a keeper to the right side with 4:50 left and Gwinn's PAT made it 14-7.

Newark held on the Mount Pleasant's next possession and took over on the Green Knight 44. Four plays later, Lutes gathered in a screen pass from Strengari and ran nine yards for the TD. John Bush then returned a 30-yard interception for a score with 58 seconds left until halftime.

"Strengari is probably as much as anything a key to our offense," Simpson said. "He threw for 1,000 yards last year and he'll get 1,000 this year and he hasn't played many last quarters. And last year we had to throw the ball. What makes it remarkable this year is that we don't have to throw the ball as much. We have such great balance in our offense with Lutes, (Butch) Patrick, (Sean) McCullough and Strengari."

Patrick opened the second half with an 88-yard kickoff return after he bobbled the ball on the Newark 12 and Newark led 33-7. Mount Pleasant added two more TDs, one a 25-yard run by Eric Washam in the third and a 67-yard run by Dwayne William with 1:46 remaining.

Newark concluded its scoring with a 5-yard run by Lutes early in the third and backup quarterback Barry Zehnder's sneak from the Green Knight 2 late in the game.

"What's more important than the score is that we get to substitute," Simpson said. "If you dress a kid and put him on the sidelines, we like to play him."

Olympic Development soccer tryouts for girls to be at Christiana High

THE DELAWARE Olympic Development Program is seeking female soccer players to participate in the program according to birth year. Each select team will represent the state of Delaware at the ODP Tournament in June and the ODP Training Camp in July. Player selection is based on try-outs. Tryouts will be held Nov. 5, 12, 19 at Christiana High between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Registration is at 10:45 a.m.

Probst, Larsen win Christina Cup races

Glasgow High senior Matt Larsen defended his Christina Cup title last week by outdistancing the field over the hilly 3.1-mile Carpenter State Park Course. Larsen finished in 17:35.

Melissa Probst, a junior runner for the Dragons, took first place in the girls competition for the second straight year. She ran the course in 21:36.

Viking seniors set record

you're the best in any endeavor that's something to so proud of. Absolutely. And nobody gave it to them either. They worked for it. And these 20 seniors have been with us four years. So this is truly their prize."

Before 1991, Christiana hadn't put in a post-season state tournament appearance since 1978. During Muehleisen's reign, the Vikings have been to the tournament two of the past three years and barely missed out in 1992 because of regular-season point total. They very well could get there again this year.

"He sure put the program back on its feet," said Christiana Athletic Director Bill Perdue. "He's not only an excellent football coach, he's also a very good administrator and organizer of the program."

This season the 6-1 Vikings are reminiscent of the 1991 team that lost to William Penn in the Division I state title game. Christiana has steamrolled five of its last six opponents and remains unbeaten after a loss to Caesar Rodney opening night. The Vikings have outscored their opposition 222-25 since then.

"We work hard and give it our best all the time," said senior Curt Henry. "We give 100 percent every time we go out. Every play we go hard. Every game he tells us 'You've got to have a personal commitment every play, drive and do it.'"

Somehow, I hope Bill isn't listening.

Jackets share v-ball crown

► V-BALL, from 1B

Six straight service points from Kopnicki pushed the margin to 11-3 and Concord never looked back.

"I was disappointed in the way we played," said Newark Coach Barb Apichella. "but at least now we know what we must do before the tournament."

► Jackets rebound for win

Newark came back Tuesday night to beat Concord in a playoff match to determine who would represent Flight A in Thursday night's Blue Hen Conference championship match against A.I. Du Pont.

The 'Jackets swept the Raiders 15-8, 15-5 behind Michelle Hoosty's six kills, five digs and six perfect passes.

Despite the victory, Newark and Concord will still share the official Flight A championship.

Jessica Phipps contributed to the win with 13 assists, three digs and two kills while Ursula Cornish added four digs and Heather Lloyd four aces and two kills.

Newark opens state tournament play Saturday night against Caesar Rodney at 6:30 at Christiana.

Hens look for fourth straight win

► HENS, from 1B

offs. That means that Delaware is 24th in the race to be among the 16 teams that are offered bids.

Hope isn't all dead though as last year Delaware was 22nd with just two weeks to go in the season.

Development office gets economical

Effective Nov. 1 the Delaware Development Office will officially be known as the Delaware Economic Development Office. The change was authorized in June, 1994, when Senate Bill 413 was passed.

Officials sought to change its name to reduce confusion regarding its role and mission on two levels:

- So companies interested in locating in a new region know to send inquiries to the state development office instead of the county level economic development office.

- The Minner Commission found many Delawareans thought the primary mission of the office was to work with developers of land and buildings.

Outlook good for small business

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A recently released survey of small businesses indicates New Castle County firms are more upbeat about future sales, although profits remain under pressure.

Results of the study from the University of Delaware's Small Business and Development Center (SBDC) were announced last month.

CEOs, presidents or managers from a random sampling of 300 businesses, identified by the Dun and Bradstreet Company, were interviewed by telephone.

New Castle County businesses accounted for 63 percent of those surveyed, 22 percent from Sussex County and 15 percent from Kent County. The results reflect expectations for the last six months of 1994 compared with the same months in 1993.

When broken down, retail and service sectors made up 69 percent of the businesses surveyed. The majority of which, according to the study, have been in operation since the late 1970s.

Clinton Tymes, director of SBDC at the U of D's College of Business and Economics, said the study told him business owners are experiencing "cautious optimism as it relates to issues affecting their business."

New Castle County small businesses were more likely to expect an increase in sales over the next six months than those in Sussex and Kent counties, according to the study.

Dr. John Stapleford, director of the University of Delaware Bureau of Economic Research, said New Castle County's optimistic forecast was interesting because Sussex County has been "out performing" New Castle County for the last 10 years. Kent County's performance is second among Delaware's three counties.

"New Castle County has a large base, but downsizing of DuPont and other chemical plants has affected its economy," Stapleford said. "We think other counties are facing more competition than New Castle County, it's a tougher climate with market-share battles."

Fifty-five percent of the small business participants said they expected an increase in sales, 36 percent expect their sales to remain the same, and 9 percent expected a drop.

Of these, the manufacturing

Despite anticipated increases in inflation and interest rates, 64 percent of the businesses said their prices would remain the same and 32 percent said they would raise their prices. If the businesses are separated by industry, 35 percent of all industries except Finance, Insurance and Real Estate (FIRE) expect to increase prices. Only 8 percent of the FIRE participants expect to raise prices.

According to the study, small businesses are most hopeful about their individual business outlooks. Businesses were increasingly uncertain, but not negative, when asked to forecast state and national economies.

Forty-five percent of the small businesses view their industry outlook as "strong" or "very strong," and 55 percent view their business outlook as "strong" or "very strong."

When asked about Delaware's economy, 46 percent of the businesses said it was "stable," with 34 percent labeling Delaware's economy as "slightly weak" and 34 percent labeling it as "slightly strong."

As for the U.S. economy, 50 percent said it was stable. This view is bordered by 20 percent who said the U.S. economy is "slightly weak" and 23 percent saying it is "slightly strong."

The study also addressed employment and wage forecasts. Seventy-five percent expect their work force to remain the same, 18 percent predict an increase and 8 percent expect a decrease.

Forty-two percent of the manufacturing participants, who were the most optimistic about increased sales, said they are looking forward to an increase in employment.

The majority of businesses, 69 percent, expect average wages to remain the same. Twenty-eight percent said they anticipate increasing employee wages.

There was one issue the SBDC didn't expect to uncover. Stapleford said the "really small businesses" such as home day cares had no idea what was happening in the national economy and their knowledge of the state's economy was limited.

"Their market is so local, the state and national economy is not relevant," Stapleford said. "This raised the question, are we providing information to small businesses that is relevant to them and consumable?"

The SBDC will survey businesses every sixth month, and will have forecast results for the first six months in 1995 ready by January 1995.

For more information about the study, call Tymes at 831-1555.

Survey says, pay scale outdated

The Davis-Bacon law mandating pay scales for federally assisted construction projects is no longer relevant in today's labor market, according to a recent poll of Nation's Business readers.

Eighty percent of the readers who responded to the June survey were also strongly opposed to proposals for extension of the law's provisions and favored steps to make compliance easier.

When passed 60 years ago, the Davis-Bacon Act was intended to prevent individuals competing for scarce jobs from undercutting one another on wages. It requires that workers on construction projects involving federal funds be paid the prevailing wage for the particular region. In practice, however, the prevailing wage is usually a union scale. Davis-Bacon critics said it adds billions of dollars a year to labor costs.

Organized labor not only has been able to block repeal attempts in Congress, but also wants to expand the law's coverage from construction sites to on-site manufacturers of materials for projects and to truckers carrying those materials.

While its eventual goal is to repeal, business continues to seek modification of the law. Steps to modify include increasing the dollar threshold at which prevailing wage takes effect.

Below are the results of the Nation's Business Survey.

•Should the threshold for the Davis-Bacon Act's prevailing-wage requirements be raised from $2,000 to $100,000?

1. Yes, 75%
2. No, 23%
3. No opinion, 3%

•Should contractors covered by the act be permitted to certify compliance in lieu of submitting weekly payroll reports?

1. Yes, 72%
2. No, 23%
3. No opinion, 5%

•Should the act be extended to off-site manufacturers and suppliers of construction materials as well as to truckers carrying their goods to projects?

1. Yes, 9%
2. No, 88%
3. No opinion, 3%

•Should individuals and unions, in addition to government officials, have authority to file complaints of alleged violations of Davis-Bacon?

1. Yes, 29%
2. No, 63%
3. No opinion, 8%

•Advocates of repealing the Davis-Bacon Act say this Depression-era law is not relevant to today's labor market. What is your view?

1. Agree, 81%
2. Disagree, 16%
3. No opinion, 3%

•In determining the prevailing wage of an area for Davis-Bacon purposes, should the Labor Department consider only the pay rates in union contracts?

1. Yes, 7%
2. No, 91%
3. No opinion, 2%

Top issues

Small businesses said the following were among their most important operating conditions, according to the Small Business Development Center's (SBDC) study.

- Eighty-seven percent said taxes, 80 percent said health care costs, 70 percent said regulatory requirements, 69 percent said access to capital, 66 percent said employee training and 57 percent said cost of professional services.

When asked about the biggest problem their company anticipates in the next six months, most answered—"to continue to grow, health care, need for capital, lack of trained staff, and the economy." Less than 2 percent cited taxes as the most problem.

Dr. John Stapleford, director of the University of Delaware Bureau of Economic Research, said this surprised him because of the employee training and small business loan programs available through the SBDC.

"Many weren't aware of the programs," Stapleford said. "SBDC handled 600 clients statewide last year, existing firms don't know it's available...we have to find the right vehicle to get the information out."

The study will ask one topical question each six months. This time businesses were asked what should be done with Delaware's current fiscal surplus.

Most responded "reduce taxes," followed by "save or invest," and spend on "education or infrastructure." Less than 2 percent suggested using the funds on the "environment."

"The Governor said it (the study) will be helpful in looking at fiscal surplus," Stapleford said.

One issue that brought businesses together was sales tax.

Ninety-two percent said they do not favor a sales tax in Delaware.

The results split, however, when businesses were asked about overall business taxes. Forty-five percent said business taxes were too high and 55 percent said they were just right.

As for state's small business climate, most respondents said it was "very friendly" or "friendly."

Alyson's restaurant to change owners?

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Two Newark area Alyson's restaurants are for sale.

According to Jon Kushner, of Metro Commercial Real Estate, Inc., the current owners are looking for someone to take buy the business and keep it the same.

Kushner said the current management may also remain in place. Managers are planning to add a take-out and delivery service for their customers, according to Kushner.

The restaurants are known for the all-you-can-eat buffets and salad bar and have a loyal customer following.

"The intention is not to change anything about the restaurant," said Kushner. "It will most definitely remain Alyson's."

CAB-FORWARD DESIGN

CHRYSLER CONCORDE IS CHANGING THE ARCHITECTURE OF THE AUTOMOBILE!

Form follows function.
It is a dictum revered by master architects and verified by their best creations. Cab-Forward design is a concept that translates that dictum into a new architecture for the automobile.

Chrysler Concorde is the first example of Cab-Forward design - and the first automotive model of form following function.

Functionally, Cab-Forward design moves the windshield far forward and the wheels toward the corners of the car to increase interior space and to add stability on the road. As the design is expressed in Concorde, these functional achievements also effect a dramatic impact upon the automobile's form... a long, low silhouette that is already recognizable as the dominant shape of this decade's automotive architecture.

Concorde's innovations go well beyond its sophisticated shape. It is the luxury contained within that shape that moves this midsize sedan into a common and performance class of its own.

A longer wheelbase smooths the ride, a wider stance expands rear-seat room, the luxury of powerful performance is inherent in the standard 3.3-liter and the available 3.5-liter, 24 valve V6 engines. Road control is controlled by a four-wheel, fully independent, road-tuning suspension system, and safety is advanced with driver and front-passenger air bags and a standard four-wheel disc anti-lock braking system. Keep pounds off, still enjoy holiday season

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

ARE YOU STILL feeling guilty about sneaking candy from your children's treat-or-treat goodies?

Newark area resident Stephanie Bonney doesn't, and she isn't worried about the upcoming holidays, when the average adult gains 8 to 10 pounds.

Bonney, 25, an ex-Marine and University of Delaware science major isn't the type of person who can eat anything and get away with it, quite the opposite. She is a lifetime Weight Watcher member who watches everything she eats and has learned to cope with Thanksgiving feasts and Christmas parties.

Bonney lost 45 pounds in nine months beginning in October, 1991. Although she is proud of her weight loss, keeping it off for three years pleases her the most.

"I joined Weight Watchers because I had lost a significant amount of weight three times before, but always gained it back," Bonney said. "I didn't know how to maintain and keep the weight off."

She said she first became overweight at age 13 and then gained about 20 more pounds around age 18. Now at 5 feet 8 inches tall her achieved goal weight is 135 pounds, down from her highest weight of 180.

Not feeling good about herself led her to finally deal with getting and keeping weight off. "I have always yo-yoed before because I would think I could get to a goal weight and be done," she said. "Now I'm used to the idea that I have to always watch what I eat."

She said she has learned to eat vegetable and fruits and stretch her food out during the day. Bonney eats six or seven times a day by carrying her food with her and snacking on yogurt and fruit. And she always gives herself an extra-special low-fat and calorie treat each night before going to sleep.

"I freeze a banana (it's like a popsicle) or grapes," Bonney said. "And I love nachos and make them with low-fat tortilla chips, non-fat cheese and lots of salsa."

So what's her secret?

Bonney gives the following tips so that anyone can keep those extra pounds from adding up during the holiday season - now through New Year's Eve.

■ Before eating a holiday treat, ask yourself if this is a really special food that you can only have this time of year, or is this a food you can get anytime, anywhere. If the food is really special, have one piece and don't feel guilty about it.

■ Watch alcohol intake during the holiday season because the calories add up, you get the munchies from drinking alcohol and after a few drinks you don't care about calorie counting.

■ Look at your week before hand and plan if you want to lose, maintain or that you might gain weight for that week. Bonney said for a noontime office party during a week you can still lose weight, but for another week where six special events are planned, you might gain.

■ If you want festive foods around the house or for a party, make or buy foods that are a treat to others, but not as tempting to you.

■ Throughout the winter be sure to drink lots of liquids because the body does not distinguish between hunger and thirst. Adults should drink six to eight, 8 ounce glasses of water or non-caffeinated, low-calorie drinks daily.

Has weighing and measuring food and saying no to decadent desserts been worth it? Definitely says Bonney. "I know I'm so much healthier now," she said. "I have that feeling like I'm a superwoman all in my own right."

By his life brimly messed,
Lost his race at the Derby. No matter!
Though this strife capped last straw
For a mind tampered raw,
He was Alice's friend; the Mad Hatter!

A heavy old Skunk,
Smelly, ugly and drunk,
Lurched about in a self-conscious daze.
He scent odors to neighbors:
Stinking halt to their labors!
Then, he staggered around in a maze.

What should we think when a little French child thanks us?
"Be thankful for small 'merci's'."

And then there was the case of the poisoned couple: Cy-n'-Ida!

It is not unbelievable that one might be disturbed by the barking of a dog.

It is uncharacteristic for saddened comedians to disown their funniness.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws - the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. Newarker Doug Maloney Sr. makes and decorates cakes each month for children celebrating birthdays at Jenny Smith Elementary School. This month's cake was a trick-or-treat bag with chocolate candy.

Cakes make birthdays special

By TONJA CASTANEDA

UNSUNG HERO

A tribute to people who make a difference

CHILDREN AT JENNY SMITH Elementary School can have their cake and eat it to - thanks to "The Cake Man."

The Cake Man, really Newarker Doug Maloney Sr., has each month for the past three years been baking and decorating birthday cakes for children celebrating birthdays that month.

And for kids with summer birthdays, they still get their special cake party because Maloney really whips up that buttercream icing to provide three cakes for one day before the end of school. One year he made a train with an engine, car and caboose.

The idea began when Maloney's youngest son, David, was a third grader at the school. Maloney asked his son's teacher, Judy Austin, if he could bring in a cake for his child's birthday.

Maloney did bring in a cake for his son's class and after talking to the teacher realized not all children get cakes for their birthdays, so he started baking cakes each month for Austin's class.

It was a natural progression to do this for the entire school. But in the more than 30 cakes he's made, not once has he repeated the same kind of decorated cake.

He said he gets his ideas of what to draw on the cakes by sketching and looking at sketchbooks. He spends from one to six hours creating the cakes. "The more colors on the cake, the more time it takes," Maloney said.

After teaching himself basics of decorating cakes, Maloney took classes eight years ago to learn fancy decorating. "I do cakes as a hobby and do not sell them," he said.

Some of his most memorable have been a seek and find cake with the children's names being the words to find, a dinosaur cake and a box of crayons complete with colored gum drops as the crayon tips.

This month, Maloney made a trick or treat bag cake which included chocolate candy at the top of the sack.

"I get personal satisfaction by doing this," he said. "I enjoy hearing raves about how the cakes taste and look."

But it's not the creativity the children enjoy, it's eating the cake. And teachers and bus drivers get to indulge in the left overs.

"We call him super volunteer. He's our hero."

nently disabled with neck and back problems and limited use of his hands. But Maloney said as much as he enjoys creating the cakes, he does not know how much longer he will be able to. "I don't know with this arthritis (in his hands), how much longer I can go on decorating cakes," Maloney said.

Maloney is married to his wife of 22 years, Pamela. They have four children: David, 13, twins Danny and Becky, both 17 and Doug Jr. 19.

Gobble, Gobble: prepare turkey safely

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

This week's author: Maria Pippidis

wash the bird inside and out in cool water. Pat dry with a paper towel, season and if you wish, coat the skin with oil, margarine or butter. Cover with plastic or aluminum wrap and refrigerate.

To prepare stuffing, chop and refrigerate perishable ingredients one day ahead. Combine with dry ingredients and stuff the turkey just before popping it into the oven. CAUTION: Never stuff a turkey that is to be microwaved. You can't be sure of thorough cooking. To be extra careful you should cook the stuffing separately.

To clean up use a hot, soapy water clean-up. Raw poultry and its juices carry bacteria. So wash your hands, utensils, cutting board, counters, sink and anything else that touches the raw bird before any other food comes into contact with them.

Save time by baking your turkey in a commercial oven bag or covered roaster. Cooking the bird and stuffing separately also saves time. CAUTION: Never use long-time, low-temperature (under 325 F) cooking. Don't partially cook one day and try to finish later. Both methods are unsafe.

Serving safely involves keeping in mind the two hour rule.

Remember no food should be left out longer than two hours; this includes preparation, serving and dining time. Prepare several small platters of food ahead. Take them from the oven or refrigerator as needed. CAUTION: Don't lay a table with perishables before you're ready to eat or replenish serving plates that have been out for some time.

After dinner, play it safe by removing the stuffing from the bird and refrigerating both. Later, before you go to bed, strip the meat from the carcass, and store the meat and stuffing in meal-sized portions for later use. CAUTION: Never leave the turkey out all evening for snacking.

If you have questions, call the Foods Answer Line Nov. 21 or 22 between noon and 4 p.m. and they'll be someone to assist you.

Local artist paints to preserve history and beauty of land

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Ruth M. McClean knows one sure way of preserving local farmlands and historic properties ... paint them with a watercolor brush. At age 66, this spritely artist has captured hundreds of them on paper.

"We come to a disturbing realization that our rural landscape is disappearing," said McClean. "Modern civilization is destroying it everyday, especially in our region of New Castle County. I would like to think that artists all over are preserving it for our children and grandchildren. It is fitting that we pass all this on to those who follow us."

McClean is attracted to the farming landscapes of Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania and the challenge of painting trees, streams, houses, barns, outbuildings, country schools and covered bridges.

She uses a combination of opaque and transparent watercolors — wet on wet and dry brush, and ink to produce her miniature primitives.

"Sometimes the way the paint runs suggests the mood of the painting," said McClean. "I think free of general rules. I love to sketch in early spring and in winter after the leaves have fallen from the trees. You can see for miles. Nature is always fresh and exciting."

McClean was destined to paint the world around her. Born in Blue Ball, Maryland, she grew up on farms in Pennsylvania and spent her summers, until she was 14, with her grandparents, Laura and Robert Connell, Sr. on "Walnut Hill Farm" (now Lamatan) at Corner Ketch.

"I had a wonderful time on the farm there gathering eggs, chasing little pigs, feeding baby ducks and picking apples, plums and cherries," said McClean. "My grandmother had beautiful flowers that we gathered to decorate the dining room table."

"Saturday was a big day," the artist smiled. "My grandfather took all kinds of vegetables, chickens, and flowers to the 'Wilmington Farmer's Market' on King Street."

My grandfather had a farmer's stand there for 50 years."

McClean had only a smidgen of formal training, "in later years, after I had already developed my style," she said.

She is by no means the first person in her family to pick up a paint brush. "My great Aunt Mary Webster's watercolors of country scenes hung on the walls of my grandmother's home," said McClean adding that three more generations of women in her family: mother, Marjorie Miller, herself and daughters, Milene Jones of Newark and Ruth Ellen Hubbard of West Chester, all had earned recognition with their paint boxes. McClean's mother, now 90 years old, still lives on the family farm in Kemblesville and is teaching art to grandchildren, Lorraine and Amy Bowhall.

In 1970, McClean won first place in the Delaware State Grange art show for a watercolor of her mother's chicken house and chickens eating grain in the snow. In 1986, a watercolor of a Calvert, Md. farm was featured on the cover of Chesapeake Bay Magazine. And the honors continue.

Her paintings are popular in our area. They are also reasonably priced, beginning at about $60 for a small one.

This time of year, McClean has plenty of commissioned work from individuals who want her to paint watercolor primitives of their houses.

A number of her works will be displayed this Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Arts and Crafts Show at St. John the Beloved Catholic Church on Milltown Road. They will be available at "You've Been Framed" on Main Street and Hardcastle's Gallery in the Newark Shopping Center in the near future.

On The Issues

THE BYPASS

The anticipated growth on the western and northern sides of Newark makes it absolutely essential that the proposed bypass be built. This road would run from where the current Christina Parkway deadends at Elkton Road, around the City to Rt. 273 (Nottingham Road) and eventually to Rt. 896. This road is designed to remove substantial amounts of traffic, particularly trucks, passing through Newark from our streets.

We must build it in a way which does the least damage to existing residential neighborhoods. We must build it in a way which does the least damage to the environment. But we must build it.

It will not be easy. It's pretty clear a portion of the road will have to be located in Maryland, and that means getting two State Governments to cooperate.

Our legislators have forcefully advocated for this road for some time. However, DelDOT keeps telling me that they are not hearing from Newark citizens.

I propose an active, organized campaign to convince DelDOT of Newark's support for the bypass through letters to the Editor and the Governor, bumper stickers and billboards, if necessary.

Let us work together to get it done!

HEARING AID NEWS

Can a hearing aid be virtually invisible? Today the answer is yes. You will agree when you see, or better yet when you do not see the Hearco "INVISIBLE™".

Is there a hearing aid that helps you hear in noise? The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) now requires manufacturers to produce evidence to verify all advertising claims about hearing aids.

What could be better evidence than one's own trial experience?

Today's technology produces a product that we feel is the "hearing aid" answer for so very many who need help but do not want to be seen using a device. Technology, know-how, experience and technique permit us to offer a completely new device manufactured specifically to the individuals hearing loss and ear canal. AND TO OFFER THIS ON A 21 DAY FREE TRIAL; THERE IS NO ADVANCE PAYMENT, NO DEPOSIT, NO PAYMENT OF ANY KIND. This offer is limited to those we feel are credit worthy and are motivated toward better hearing.

The hearing aid is the new HEARCO "INVISIBLE™". Yes, it is virtually invisible in your ear canal. Although mighty small, it is, because of today's technology, powerful enough for hearing losses up to 80 decibels. This is termed "severe". Of course, there are always exceptions, but the number of people this aid helps is substantial.

This new HEARCO "INVISIBLE™" will take about 14 days to manufacture after we measure your hearing loss and take a special type ear canal impression.

You use the aid for a full 21 days in your every day life. Use it at work, use it in church, use it in noise. If you find that this is not the answer to your hearing needs or if anyone sees the device in your ear, return it. Similarly, if you keep it we ask that you pay for it or lease it.

In my 49 years of fitting and supervising over 25,000 hearing aids in Delaware, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, Ohio and Florida, I have never worked with a hearing aid that was so "perfect". The quality of results and acceptance of this aid prompts me to make this 21 day free trial offer. This is better than a money back guarantee because you have made no payment.

Handelman Hearing Aids has been in Wilmington since 1932. You know of our reputation for satisfaction, quality and performance. We are here every business day for service.

Hearing aids help many people hear better, but no aid can solve all hearing problems. Find out for yourself if this tiny HEARCO "INVISIBLE™" is your answer. Phone us today for an appointment with our manager, Nettie French.

Michael R. Handelman

The HEARCO "INVISIBLE™" and the 21 day free trial, no payment offer is available only from Handelman Hearing Aids. 3605 Silverside Road in Talleyville Shopping Center, 1/2 Mile South of Concord Mall. Phone us today for information or an appointment 302/478-4169

A Message from Paul Lesniak

Dear Friends:

I am writing to ask for your vote for State Senate on Tuesday, November 8th. I am running to offer the kind of forceful leadership that the people who live in the Greater Newark area deserve in the Delaware General Assembly.

As a lifelong Newark resident, I have experienced the growth and changes that have affected our communities. I believe that forceful leadership is needed now to preserve the character of our communities and to solve the problems that have arisen.

My opponent is a gentleman. But he has had eight years in the General Assembly and the Newark Bypass is no closer to being built, our transportation woes have multiplied, and concerns about crime and our schools have increased. I believe that my opponent is too comfortable with the status quo.

I will challenge the status quo. I will fight for the Newark Bypass, mass transit, mandatory sentences for violent criminals, tax incentives for small business, smaller class size, an end to forced busing and, yes, term limits. Eight years is plenty of time for someone to make a real difference if they are effective.

This is a contest between two good people: one who represents the status quo, and one who will fight for change. If you believe that we need the kind of change that I offer, please vote for me on Election Day. Together, we can make a difference.

Sincerely,

Paul
