ACCIDENT AT B. & O. CROSSING

Wm. Johnston Killed Instantly and Brother Seriously Injured—Inquest To Be Held Friday

Newark and vicinity was shocked late Sunday night by one of the most horrible accidents ever experienced in the neighborhood when William Johnston, aged 45, and brother, Atwood Johnston, aged 35, were struck by a westbound train at the B. & O. crossing, Main street, the former being instantly killed and the latter suffering severe injuries.

Messrs. Johnston had driven to the home of their sister, Mrs. James Brown, west of town, to visit their mother who was quite ill. They were returning to their home near Milford Cross Roads about eleven o'clock when the accident occurred.

For sometime the citizens of Newark have felt that the protection at this point was inadequate, in view of the fact that New London Avenue and Main street converge at this point and the trains round a curve only a few yards north of the public roads. It was learned today that representatives of the B. & O., by invitation, met with Council a few weeks ago to discuss a change, but the two parties were unable to come to an agreement and the matter was deferred. The accident of Sunday was the latest of a series which have stirred the community during the past few weeks, and some immediate change is anticipated, either the removal of the grade crossing, or the presence of two or three reliable watchmen on 8-hour shifts, to share the duties of the present one.

The watchman on duty last Sunday evening, in accordance with his outlined duties, had gone to the station, about 100 yards distant, to lock the waiting room. He was on his way back to the watchbox when a fast immigrant train rounded the curve and struck the Johnston buggy. The horse, which was killed instantly, was thrown a distance of fifty yards, while the buggy was completely demolished. William Johnston was breathing when picked up but died within five minutes. The younger man, Atwood Johnston, had suffered bad cuts about the face and the body, while it is feared he is injured internally. He was unconscious for some time, but about midnight was removed to his home under the supervision of attending physicians.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKelvey were among the first to reach the scene, and they immediately telephoned for medical assistance. Doctors Steel, Blake and Kollock arrived before the death occurred. The two men were found a short distance from the crossing west of Main street.

Contradictory statements are heard on all sides, but it is generally agreed the gates were not down when the accident occurred.

Although the condition of Atwood Johnston, who was injured in the accident at Main street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad late Sunday night was such last night that little hope was entertained for his recovery, he was reported to be slightly better this morning.

William Johnston, deceased, was a well-known carpenter, who lived on a small farm near Milford Cross Roads.

The funeral of William Johnston the brother, who was killed in the same accident, will be held from his late residence near Milford Cross Roads at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Interment will be made at White Clay Creek Cemetery.

Members of Ivy Council, Knights of Golden Eagle, Oriental Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Osceola Lodge, K. of P., are invited to attend the services.

The usual custom in regard to the coroner's jury has been broken in this case by Coroner Spring of Wilmington. His entire jury has been selected from residents of Wilmington instead of local men as has always been customary in a case of this kind. It was originally intended to hold the inquest here Friday night but for the accommodation of the Attorney General's office it has been decided to hold it in Wilmington at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The jury was brought to Newark yesterday by Coroner Springer. After viewing the body at the undertaking establishment of Robert T. Jones, the jurors visited the scene of the accident. While there are some measurements taken including the distance that the horse and the two brothers were driving was thrown when hit by the locomotive. The animal was thrown 140 feet.

A number of witnesses, including Thomas Crisp, colored, the watchman at the crossing, have been summoned to appear at the inquest.

Wedding

WESTMINSTER—Hoffman
Miss Cora Washburn of Newark, and Thomas Hoffman of Hillyard were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman, 516 Queen avenue, Hillyard, Monday evening at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Clifford Williams of the Methodist church.

They were attended by Miss Laura Hoffman, sister of the groom and George Walter. Only the members of the family witnessed the ceremony. The bride and groom left on Tuesday for a short wedding trip to the home of the bride's brother, the Rev. Robert Washburn of Chevalier.

Miss Washburn has friends in Newark, her parents now living here.

Wanted In New Jersey

State Detective Frank McCoy visited Newark on Monday afternoon and arrested Henry Segers, colored, and his sister, Ruth Segers who are wanted in New Jersey on a charge of larceny.

Modern Creamery In View

Work will begin in the near future on the new Dolfinger Creamery to be located on Elkton Road, adjoining the B. & O. A ten ton engine has been purchased, this size being required by the new process to be used for cooling the milk. Instead of operating their own ice plant, as has been done in the past, after moving into new quarters the milk will be cooled by the circulation of ammonia. Every appliance in the new plant will be of the most approved and modern type.

Initiation At Newark Grange

On Tuesday, May 13th at Odd Fellows' Hall, Newark Grange entertained the degree team of Delaware Grange, Newport, together with a large number of visitors from Newport, the occasion being the initiation of a class of new members by the local grange. The class was put through all the ceremonies connected with the first four degrees. Following these exercises refreshments were served to the guests and all joined in welcoming the new grangers: Mr. and Mrs. William Telfer of the College Farm, Mr. Arthur S. Houchin, Jr., of Delaware Avenue, and Mr. W. A. Lintner, Assistant Agronomist at the Experiment Station.

Newark Grange feels deeply in debt to Delaware Grange and especially to the degree team of that grange, for the readiness with which the members entered into the program of the evening and feels that a large part of the enjoyment on that occasion was due to them.

An idea of the steady growth of Newark Grange may be obtained from the statement that since last November fourteen new members have been secured and applications are on hand from a number of others. The time seems to be at hand when the Grange will perform that service for local farming that is supplied by other granges in this and other states.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my appreciation to the many friends and relatives who so kindly assisted during the illness and death of Mr. A. S. Mote.

CONTRIBUTION TO CARNIVAL FUND

Curtis Heads Roll Of Honor With Check For $150

Plain and unvarnished statement of the generous contribution of $150 to the Carnival Fund by the Curtis Paper Company has stirred the Firemen to renewed activity in their campaign for the Auto Fire Engine.

Rumor has it that these generous surprises will be a dominant feature in the news columns during the next few weeks.

This contribution is especially pleasing when it is realized that such a Company expresses its confidence in such a project. It is a recognition of the business sense of such an improvement and as such will carry considerable weight and lead to serious thought of all citizens.

Frazer Field Dedication Plans

The joint committee of the Athletic Council of Delaware College and the student body held another meeting last night to discuss the plans for the dedication of the new athletic field. While the matter was entirely gone over in a general way the program will not be completed until after a meeting to be held next Tuesday night.

As has been announced the dedication exercises will be held on Wednesday afternoon of Commencement week which will be June 18th. Eben B. Frazer, one of the donors will present the field to the college and it will be received on behalf of the trustees by some one yet to be decided on. Some student will also make an address on behalf of the student body. During the exercises music will be furnished by the College band.

The student body has decided to give a display of fireworks in the evening previous to the farewell hop. The fireworks display and also a band concert in the evening will be held on the field.

NEWARK MAN WINS RIFLE SCORE

World's Record In A Practice Shoot

Sergeant Frank H. Clark, of Company E, Organized Militia of Delaware, established a State record on the target range in the local armory this week, when he made a possible 50 standing and 46 out of a possible 50 prone, a total of 96 out of a possible 100. This record was made in the 20-man company shoot for the First Infantry trophy. The shooting was done on the regulation range, the distance being 75 feet, and the target one-half inch.

Notwithstanding this fine record, Company E failed to win the trophy, because of the fact that but 17 men shot instead of 20. Company E did, however, win the five-man team Delaware trophy shoot a week ago.

While the work of Sergeant Clark, in the company shoot, made a record, it was not his best work on the range, and especially at prone. Several weeks ago, during practice on the range, he made 108 consecutive bull's-eyes prone on the regulation range. As far as is known, this is a world's record, but because of it being made in practice is not official. Sergeant Clark has been a member of the team from this State that competes in the national tournament for several years.

FEDERATED CLUBS IN SESSION

Reports Show Effective Work—Dover Entertains Royally Social Service Prominent Feature

The New Century Club of Newark is well represented at the annual State Federation Convention, in session Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in Dover. The State capital city had spared no pains in making the reception accorded the delegates a hearty one.

Many of the stores were decorated in green and white, the Federation colors, and American flags.

The Club house itself was tastefully trimmed with laurel, maple boughs and evergreens. White peonies were in evidence while D. S. F. W. C., 1913, daintily outlined in green gleamed from the walls.

The Chairman of Credentials reported eight officers, nine directors and chairman of committees and 36 delegates present. There are seven clubs in the federation, with a membership of 1646, an increase of seventy-three.

The many lines of work reported by the chairmen of various committees shows wide scope of activity. Among other accomplishments of the Zwaanendael Club of Lewes was their contribution for a tablet to be erected in the City Hall at Zieck Zee, Holland, in memory of Cornelius Ploekboy of the Zwaanendael Colony.

Probably the most far-reaching accomplishments have been those of the Social Service Committee reported by Miss Emily Bissell. The chairman described the plan for a baby exhibit at the next State Fair, claiming that better citizenship for Delaware begins with the babies. The babies will be judged by the physicians and nurses and all reaching the standard will be awarded blue ribbons. The fair management will give $50 in prizes.

"The greatest work of the social service committee, however," Miss Bissell said, "has been to help the remarkable group of welfare measures which have gone through the Legislature and become laws this year. The social service committee took up six of these measures—Provisions for feeble-minded girls, affiliated college for women, ten-hour law for women, amended library law, hospital for colored consumptives and amended child labor law. Of these bills all but the first were carried through and some provisions for feeble-minded girls has been made, I believe, so that it did not wholly fail. The others, though requiring in some cases a very heavy effort, were successfully passed, and your chairman is glad to speak here of the great help that many of the clubs gave in this legislative work for social service. The Lewes Club was especially active for the Ten-Hour law, and the Smyrna, Harrington, Milford, Middletown, Laurel, Wyoming, Georgetown, Delmar, Seaford, Wilmington and Dover Clubs were active in promoting the whole group. The public sentiment created for the group was something remarkable. Of course, in this work the social service committee was merely helping the education committee with the affiliated college and the library committee with the amended library law, for they were the moving powers behind these laws; but the social service committee is always glad to do its best in backing the work of any committee in the federation, and it was a pleasure to second the splendid work of the educational and library committees.

"In each town social service work has been local as well as State. Your chairman has visited eight clubs this winter on their social service days and has been delighted with the earnest support of the committee.

A reception, followed by an entertainment, was given the visitors on Tuesday evening in the Dover Armory. Besides the delegates from the Newark Club, Mrs. C. B. Evans and Miss Frances Hurd, there were Mrs. Whittingham, Mrs. E. S. Armstrong, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. W. H. Evans, Mrs. A. T. Neale, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. W. Dawson and Mrs. E. L. Richards.

Carriage Blows Over

Mrs. Herman Cook and Miss Alma Little met with a peculiar accident while driving along the public road near Fairview school-house during a storm last Friday afternoon in which the latter was painfully injured. The carriage in which the two women were riding was blown over by the wind and they were thrown out. Mrs. Cook escaped unharmed but Miss Little sustained a number of bruises and lacerations. She has been under the care of Dr. W. H. Steel and is now improving.

FIVE MINUTES FOR MEMORY

Arrangements have been made for the nationwide observance of the new, beautiful and impressive ceremony to be known as "FIVE MINUTES FOR MEMORY" on Memorial Day.

The ceremony was inaugurated two years ago by ringing the bell in old Independence Hall, the half-masting of flags and the booming of guns at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

This year bells in all parts of the country and in the nation's colonial possessions, will be tolled and millions of people will stand silently uncovered during the period between twelve o'clock and five minutes past noon.

At that time flags will be lowered to half-mast, guns on the army and navy reservations will be fired at long intervals and, so far as shall be practicable, silence shall overspread the land and all will put aside both work and play in memory of those who gave their lives that we might the more truly live. A beautiful ceremony and such a little thing.

TO THE HONORED DEAD.

FIVE MINUTES FOR MEMORY.

A Spring Walk

The pupils of Newark Grammar School, chaperoned by their teachers, enjoyed excursions into the nearby country during the first week of May. These trips formed the subject of the English lesson the following day, from which the account below is selected.

On May the second, about quarter of two, the teachers took the children of the seventh and overflow grades for a "May Walk." Some of us wanted to go to Bloodroot Mountain, and others to Iron Hill, so it was decided that we should vote. As Iron Hill got the greater number of votes, we started down the Depot road. It was very warm so we did not walk fast. When we got to the Pennsylvania Station the gates were down so we sat down to rest and wait. When we started on, the boys and some of the girls were a distance ahead of us. When we came to Welsh Tract School House we were thirsty and asked for a drink of water. The teacher asked us in to see her room. She had a very nice school.

When we left there we went down to the bridge across the Christina Creek. There some of the boys were waiting for us. We went to a house by the Baptist Church and asked for a drink of water.

Just outside of the church yard is a poplar tree and a birch tree. We took a few blossoms from the poplar. We then went by a cart road through Mr. Dolling's field up to the old pits of Iron Hill. One of the girls found a land turtle and one of the boys cut his name on it. In one of the pits was a pond of water about two or three feet deep. One of the boys caught a bull frog.

We started to climb the hill to a high cliff over the pond and when we had all gotten up we started on through the wood. On the way we found some wild apples. We came to a clear space in the wood and sat down to rest. One of the boys went ahead to find the road. He said he would call when he found it. After we had rested a short time we heard him call so we started on and when we found the road we climbed to the summit of the Hill.

We were warm and tired until we found a spring of cold water. We all took a good drink and started on our return trip by a shorter road. When we came to the Church Green we sat down to rest and then went on to the bridge and waited for the others. There were one or two little boys wading in the creek below the bridge.

When the rest came we started for Newark. At the cross roads, one of the boys found a red-winged blackbird's nest in a cedar tree. We climbed up to see it. When we got to Welsh Tract school house some of us sat down to rest, but soon resumed our walk. Among the flowers we found are: hepatica, rue anemone, wild azalea, dogwood, butter cups, forget-me-nots, cinquefoil, Jack-in-the-pulpit and strawberry blossoms.

When we came to Walter Holt-on's home at the Pennsylvania station we stopped and got another drink of water. Then we went on to Newark. It was six o'clock when we got to the "Kandy Kitchen." We were very tired but happy to think we had found so many flowers and climbed to the summit of Iron Hill.

Pupil Seventh Grade.

State Board Of Immigration

The State Board of Agriculture has organized its State Board of Immigration, in conformity with the renewal of the law creating such a department and giving it $5,000 for expenses. Governor Miller is the new president of the Board. Already work for the benefit of the farmers and farm development is being accomplished by this board. Farm laborers, chiefly white men and many of them experienced hands, have been sought and supplied to Peninsula farmers and a few have been placed in good homes. A number of families have been similarly cared for. Two families recently arrived from Michigan and, being without work, they made application at the headquarters of the board here and the board placed them. Quite a number come in to buy land, small places in particular. It is the small family which has not the means to buy at once that the board caters to, however, for there are innumerable opportunities for these to come in, set up housekeeping in a tenant house where wood for fuel and a private garden for table supply is provided, house rent is free and the husband and father, or boys too, if they are big and even the mother as household helper are provided for. Wages are substantial. The board will engage in another advertising campaign this spring. The last one undertaken brought in about 2,000 letters. When the applicants come into Delaware, some usually look up a real estate agent who will drive them over the country and in a short time they are well satisfied. An agent is sent to New York and Philadelphia occasionally to inquire in behalf of the Delaware farmers as to farm and household help at the immigrant stations. In this way young immigrants can be taught to master American farming in a few years and to be able to start out themselves.

Interesting News For Women

The announcement of Kennard & Company, of Wilmington, which appear regularly in this paper, furnish interesting reading for women folks, and place before them week after week the news of a really progressive and modern establishment, which is as much of an authority on modes and fashions as any store in any city anywhere.

Kennard & Company ask for the patronage of the people of this community only when the local merchants cannot furnish what you desire. Their slogan is "If you cannot buy it at home, buy it at Kennard's," thus showing the broad and liberal spirit that is characteristic of the firm.

College Farm Sells Bull

King Beda, the registered Guernsey bull that has been in the college herd at the Delaware College Experimental Farm for two years, has just been sold for $500. The college authorities were loth to part with this animal and were only induced to do so by the fact that the college owns a half brother who is sired by the great imported May Rose King and have a younger bull coming on.

The older bull is valued at $2,000 and he is considered by many breeders to be one of the best bred bulls of the breed. At the present time the May Rose family is the most popular one of the breed and animals containing the blood of the famous May Rose 2nd are in great demand and at exceedingly high prices.

King Beda goes to the well-known herd of Seville Brothers at Chapinville, Conn. This herd numbers about 100 head and was the former home of the herd bull now at the head of the college herd. The purchase of King Beda by Seville Brothers, is not an experiment as they are familiar with and know the value of the blood lines they have acquired by buying King Beda.

All Urged To Join In Peace Celebration

Representatives of Great Britain, of Newfoundland, of the United States, of the Dominion of Canada, of the Commonwealth of Australia, and of the Municipality of Ghent, having been in conference concerning an appropriate celebration of the centenary of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, which marked the end of the last international war between the British and American peoples, unite in offering to the governments and to the peoples of the civilized world an earnest invitation to take part in making this celebration in every way worthy of the one hundred years of peace that it commemorates. The committee issues the following invitation to the citizenship of the land:

"We invite co-operation to the end that it may be made clear and unmistakable to public opinion everywhere that the time has come when international rivalries and differences, though numerous and severe, may be settled without the carnage and horrors of war. Although it would be unreasonable to disregard the possibility of conflict arising in the future out of mutual or partial misunderstanding, yet we gratefully recognize that the chances of misunderstanding have been largely eliminated by the degree in which modern science has facilitated intercourse and accelerated communication. We are, therefore, encouraged to hope that the development of letters, science and the arts, of commerce, industry and finance, of mutual knowledge, trust and good feeling on the part of those who owe different allegiances and who speak different tongues, may profitably absorb the energy of mankind, as well as offer opportunity for the display of the noblest and finest traits of mind and of character.

Great Britain has been a unifying nation, and the United States has drawn to its population various and powerful elements from different countries and from under different flags. Therefore, a century of peace between Great Britain and her dominions beyond the sea on the one hand, and the United States on the other, touches directly both the interest and the imagination of every land to which Great Britain's sons have gone, as well as those of every nation from which the present-day population of the United States has been drawn. Such a celebration will not only mark the close of a century of exceptional significance and importance, but it will call attention to an example and an ideal that we earnestly hope may be followed and pursued in the years to come. What nations have done nations can do.

We respectfully request His Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the Secretary of State of the United States to transmit this invitation, through the proper official channels, to the governments of the world, in order that both by the participation of governments and by the cooperation of men of good will in every land, this celebration may be so carried out as to mark not merely the close of the first one hundred years of peace between English-speaking peoples, but the opening of what we sincerely trust will be a fresh era of peace and good will between all the nations of the world.

BEES AND THINGS

Observations of a Printer's Devil on a Swarm of Bees

Just what are the secrets of Success is the desire of every man who has his own living to make. One of them is pretty generally understood—advertising. Today most men and institutions recognize this. The hustling business man who is on to his job—advertises. And strange perhaps to the unthinking, the more business he does, the more he will invest in publicity.

Church Fair enthusiasts recognize its merits and manage to get it in the rural papers under the legitimate guise of news, which makes it free. That of course is the best, and comes considerably cheaper.

There was a time when it was below the dignity of Colleges and Banks to advertise. Now those institutions who are maintaining the standards of the modern day, realize that they must be in the public eye.

"Unless ye toot your horn, the name shall not be tooted," saith the business man.

Well, the point of this story is this: Last week The Post got some free advertising. We got lots of it. "Every knock is a boost," you know. But this latest was a swarm of bees (birds of a feather, you know) paid us a visit in front of our office. The meeting was public and a large crowd of "folks" and friends were present while the young "Bull Moosers" effected an organization.

Recent reports have it that the business is prospering and they are making good honey out of any old thing they can find. Well, at the meeting! It was typical and interesting. Wit, Philosophy, Common-sense and a lot of the common-sense flowed freely.

Now if this were Masterfink, we would give you another Bee (hly)—but it isn't, so content to make these lines of Suggestions upon which the local post-philosopher may base his theme.

The Post is like a hive of bees. So long as you are a good citizen—all right. But are, or try to get funny—and you are stung. So be friendly with the Bees and The Post.

Newark has the attributes of the hive—there are queens, drones and honey gatherers—just as there were in the swarm in front of The Post—(referring to the Bees, of course.)

It is proof of a man's control of temper to enter a swarm of bees—and his friendly feeling too.

There are men who can side in a grocery store forum and tell how they could lick the town and yet they will run from a swarm of bees.

There are worse things than bees—ever get in an argument with 500,000,000,000,000,000 yellow jackets?

The Post claims no relation to yellow jackets. It belongs to the Bee family.

Did you ever realize the amount of sucking and poking it took to make good honey. Nothing compared to filling space in a rural weekly. (Just look at this.)

The quality of the honey extracted from the hive depends on the surrounding vegetation.

A Glorious Legacy

"I commit my soul into the hands of my Saviour, in full confidence that having redeemed it and washed it in His most precious blood, He will present it faultless before the throne of my Heavenly Father; and I entreat my children to maintain and defend, at all hazard, and at any cost of personal sacrifice, the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin through the blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, and through that alone."

These are the words with which the late J. Pierpont Morgan opened his will. We commend them to that peculiarly constituted element of our citizenship that regards the accumulation of great riches a sure sign of criminal character and that has been especially fond of denouncing Mr. Morgan as chief sinner amongst the malefactors of great wealth. Not that such have been at pains to acquaint themselves with Mr. Morgan's personal character or his financial career. They are quite content to assume as axiomatic that big business is only done by men with black hearts; that if failure is no guarantee of moral integrity, achievement at any rate is good evidence of moral turpitude. Such popular verdicts spring in part from blatant demagoguery; in other part from the narrow mind of ignorance.

In either case the noble and inspiring declaration of faith, with which Mr. Morgan opened his will, ought to reform the judgement and stir the soul. Mr. Morgan's last message—a message written but a few weeks before his farewell to earth, in the solemn eventide of

You furnish the flowers and The Post will be a good paper.

The drones are necessary evils. They give the active citizenship something to fight on the Sewer question.

The Bee is alright but don't you try to take advantage of him. Same way with an editor. He has the Bee instinct and three years experience gives him information which if published will sting alright. Ten to one, the reader is the one herein referred to.

A subscription library is a hive where the bees make honey entirely from the flowers of romance. When you strain it, it's insipid. Try some good literature.

It's unkind and sometimes unprofitable to meddle with bees when they are minding their own business.

Don't bother the Affiliated College Commission; they are going to swarm.

A city man knows as much about bees as a preacher about Agriculture.

The Bee is Darwinian theory of the Mosquito.

College students, professors, athletes, business men—but who dare brave the bees.

I was wondering if the Bees always agreed on their Road Supervisor in White Clay Creek Hundred.

A bee, with his sting gone is not much good. Neither is a man.

The Bee denotes Imperialism and Royalty. That's the reason the boys and girls in our shop do printing for the elect.

Did you ever go barefoot and step on a Bumble Bee—then sit down and pull the sting out from the little toe. That is one of the joys of youth (revered).

This hive of bees could make more and better honey if our church and public laws were sown to grass and planted with flowers and shrubbery. Has a tendency toward good citizenship too.

If a bee stings you, think all you please, but say nothing. It's bad policy.

You can't make honey by simply swarming in groups and buzzing. Get busy.

If bees worked no more effectively than men, the price of honey would go up.

With the co-operation practiced by a hive of bees—Newark would be some town.

A swarm of bees can effect an organization that means something worth while. Yet 16 boys will line up in Fraternities to elect a member for Athletic Council. Take bees instead of men for examples.

Good men have the advantage of bees in one striking respect: They have Charity where the bees consider only Justice.

Every man his due—with no compromise, no quarter.

The great lesson of the Bees is this:

With colleges and churches, schools and institutions with towns and men, it's the spirit of The Hive that makes for Success, for Progress, for better Life and better Living.

EMULATE THE BEES.

life—is a message that reveals the man's estimate of things. His first and chief legacy to his children is not money nor power nor earthly treasures; it is the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin. And that 'blessed doctrine' they are solemnly entreated to "maintain and defend at all hazard and at any cost of personal sacrifice." First things first. Before aught else he places, as the most precious thing in the world, the humble, confident commitment of one's soul into the keeping of Jesus Christ, our only Saviour.

It was no pretense of faith for public effect. It was no death bed confession. It was stuff of the man, his abiding conviction through all the busy masterful years. No one who knew J. Pierpont Morgan could fail to know that back of his big, busy life was a simple, sincere Christian faith, in the light of which he daily walked. The world saw him holding the reins of many things in his hands. Those nearest him knew how, with the faith of a little child, he had put his hand in the hand of his Saviour and kept it there until the end. And with the end, he would bear witness to all the world that in the whole long category of his large achievements this commitment of himself to his Saviour is the crown jewel of his possessions. Very simply he says it. But the words stir the heart like a trumpet. They are a ringing challenge to men.—Cecil Whigg.

depends largely on the sanitary conditions in your home. Poor plumbing, besides causing frequent expense for repairs, is a constant annoyance and is often a menace to health.

Our plumbing service invariably gives satisfaction, because we employ skilled workmen and give each contract sufficient care and attention to insure long service and freedom from repairs.

We recommend "Standard" plumbing fixtures. The purchaser of this ware is protected by a guarantee against defects in the material or workmanship of his fixtures during the life of the guarantee, yet the cost is no greater than for inferior, non-guaranteed ware.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT

The accident on Sunday night at the B. and O. Crossing on Main street, is simply the natural result of negligence on the part of authorities. While the whole community was shocked, it was really nothing more serious than has been predicted by those acquainted with the conditions and management. Unheeding repeated warnings, the railroad authorities can scarcely plead ignorance of the serious dangers of this crossing.

This is no time for hysteria. We want action. It matters not to us by what method or at what cost the public safety is assured. The point is, we want it.

Personally, in our own business, we should not place cheap labor as night watchman at a post with such attending dangers and responsibility. That is not our affair, however. But what is of our concern and of vital concern, is that the public be protected. This is the third of a series of accidents at this crossing during the last few weeks, and whether the authorities recognize it or not, a change has got to be effected.

This crossing, as well as some others in the town, is a constant source of anxiety to the citizens of Newark. The railroad officials have been approached time and time again to correct the dangers but without effective answer to the requests.

We have but little patience with this continuous onslaught of criticism against railroads. So, void of any prejudice, we are expressing the public demand when we say that unless immediate provisions are made, voluntarily, to correct this evil, that Council should take action to effect the necessary change.

PERTINENT TO EDUCATION

"It is the duty of the tax-supported high school to give every student instruction carefully designed to return to society intelligent, able-bodied and progressive citizens. Moreover, hard work is to be secured, not by insistence upon uniformity of tastes and interests, but by the encouragement of special effort along lines that appeal to the individual. Our education would gain in power and in virility if we made more of the dominant interest that each boy and girl has at the time. The boy who pursues both the liberal and the vocational sees the relation of his own work to the work of others and to the welfare of society; whereas the liberal without the vocational leaves him a mere spectator in the theatre of life, and the boxes in this theatre are already overcrowded.

"Mechanic arts, agriculture, or household science should be recognized as rational elements in the education of all boys and girls, and especially of those who have not as yet chosen their vocation. Under the authority of the traditional conception of the best preparation for a higher institution, many of our public schools are to-day responsible for leading tens of thousands of boys and girls away from the pursuits for which they are adapted and in which they are needed, to other pursuits for which they are not adapted and in which they are not needed. By means of exclusively bookish curricula false ideals of culture are developed. A chasm is created between the producers of material wealth and the distributors and consumers thereof.

The high school should in a real sense reflect the major industries of the community which supports it. The high school, as the local educational institution, should reveal to boys and girls the higher possibilities for more efficient service along the lines in which their own community is industrially organized.

"Our traditional ideals of preparation for higher institutions are particularly incongruous with the actual needs and future responsibilities of girls. It would seem that such high school work as is carefully designed to develop capacity for and interest in the proper management and conduct of a home should be regarded as of importance at least equal to that of any other work. We do not understand how society can properly continue to sanction high school curricula for girls which disregard this fundamental need, even though such curricula are planned in response to the demand made by some of the colleges for women.

I need hardly say that I am not decrying cultural education. I believe in it with all my heart. But I believe that it comes second, and a long way second, to training along lines of social and industrial usefulness; and furthermore, I believe that the effort should be made to meet the widely varying individual needs of each individual boy or girl.

Dr. Henry Pritchett.

LOCAL ACTIVITIES

SEWER

May 31st, 1913 marks the day when Newark goes on record. On that day the election will be held when the property-holders will decide whether the Life and Health of the community will have their support.

No more interesting record could be had than the list of voters and how they voted.

In all this campaign, we have never had a refusal to print the name of a citizen favoring the Sewer, yet, to date, we have not a single name, opposed, willing to be so heralded. Even to quote the objections, none dare go into print.

COLLEGE SITE

The site for the Affiliated College will not be made until the return of Governor Miller, who is in California. He is expected to return early in June when the Commission will meet and vote.

Governor Miller will also take up the selection of the site for the new Armory. It is very probable that this building will be started sometime during the early summer.

SWIMMING POOL

At a meeting of the Prudential Committee of the College Board of Trustees, L. B. Jacobs, local contractor and engineer, was awarded the contract to build and equip the Swimming Pool in the Gymnasium as provided for by the last session of the General Assembly.

Mr. Jacobs expects to start on the work early next week. He is now at Gettysburg where he is installing the water works and arranging for supervision of supply for the coming Grand Reunion, the Fiftieth Anniversary of Gettysburg.

JOE FRAZER FIELD

Work on the Frazer Field is being pushed as rapidly as weather conditions will permit. Lee Rose, our local landscape gardener, now has full sweep and is doing effective work.

Every effort possible is being made for presentation on Commencement Day.

P. O. SITE AND TOWN CENTER

Choosing sites for all our new buildings is claiming much attention. The location for the Post Office Building is again the subject of heated discussion. Several sites are being proposed and Washington reports daily tips from Newark. No real information can be reported. Rumors are much in vogue—the latest being the series of maps being prepared and presented to Headquarters.

These maps purport to show the population center, the town center, business center and town growth center. With all these contradictory locations, it is reasonable to suppose that the authorities will make some personal observations and investigations.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

Every day brings encouraging reports of the Summer School and its success. The Preliminary Bulletin just issued will be followed in a few days by a Bulletin giving full and detailed information. The Faculty is now fully made up and the courses fully outlined which promise to prove of more than ordinary interest.

It is the opinion that teachers failing to get in touch with the work as outlined will miss a treat of rare inspiration and practical worth.

CARNIVAL STARTED

A healthy incentive was given this week to the Carnival Committee when the chairman reported the receipt of $150—from the Curtis Paper Mills.

With this pleasing introduction, we can well look for Success.

It is hoped The Post will be able to report contributions every week. This new engine, for which this money is given, is an attempt to guard against fire disasters. Towns usually consider these things after the fire. Rehoboth is the latest example. The Aetna boys are certainly showing the right spirit in taking this responsibility in time. Our escape has been more good luck than good management.

Cooch's Bridge D. A. R.

The annual meeting of Cooch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the home of the regent, Miss Eleanor E. Todd, at Newark, on Wednesday afternoon, May 14th.

The registrar reported five new members since the last meeting, with more in prospect.

Welfare work was reported by the chairman, Mrs. S. M. Donnell, and two resolutions followed this report. One is to be sent to Mayor Blankenburg of Philadelphia, in commendation of the vigorous warfare he is waging against the white slave traffic in that city; and the other is a protest against the action of the National Congress in approving General Leonard Wood's report, restoring the canteen to the army.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: Regent, Miss Eleanor E. Todd; Vice-regent, Mrs. Mary Lee Rowan; Chaplain, Mrs. Mary E. M. Milligan; Secretary and press correspondent, Mrs. Fannie J. B. Reed; Registrar, Mrs. Mary B. Donnell; Historian, Mrs. Marian C. Cooch; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Cooch.

The report of the 22d Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held in Washington, D. C., April 14-19, was then read by the regent, Miss Todd, who was delegate from the Cooch's Bridge Chapter. The report was an excellent feature of what was considered an occasion long to be remembered by all who privileged to attend it.

The report was so fine that a typewritten copy is to be preserved among the records of the chapter. All rejoice that the President-General of the National Society is the gracious lady of our choice, Mrs. William Cumming Story.

St. Tammany

Exercises Postponed

We wish to announce to the Red Men as well as the public in general that the ceremonies in remembrance of St. Tammany's Day which were to be held at the Red Men's Fraternal Home on Sunday afternoon, May 18th, have been postponed; in view of the threatening weather of Friday night and all day Saturday, it being cold and a continuous rain. The committee deemed it necessary to postpone the ceremonies until a later date.

We regret very much that this had to be done on such short notice as we were unable to notify many of this decision, and after finding out on Sunday morning the kind of day it was, it being too late then to rearrange the programme. However, it is highly appreciated on the number who visited the home on Sunday afternoon, as it was noticed by one of the committee quite a number passing down the road enroute to the home, as well as a number of out-of-town visitors who were present on this occasion, and it is sincerely hoped for by the committee as well as others that the Brothers and the public will repeat in the near future their most generous efforts and trail to the home of our Old and Aged, in the near future, which will be announced through the columns of this paper.

Base Ball Observations

"Jupiter Pluvius" was monarch of all he surveyed last Saturday, and he certainly did some surveying, and also put aerimp on the opening of the baseball season in Newark, much to the disappointment of the baseball fans here.

This coming Saturday, May 24, the team goes to Aberdeen to play there, this will mak etwo straight games away from home, which means considerable loss, financially to the club, as the guarantees are not enough to pay expenses.

The team seems to be in a "rut" somehow or other. The material is there, sure.

In looking over the list of players sent in by the managers of the several clubs, I see there are many players on the various clubs that are not eligible to play with certain teams. I see there are players who do not live within fifteen miles of the club who has them signed.

It certainly looks as if some of the clubs don't care what the rules call for, in reference to the districts allotted each club.

It would be advisable for some of the club managers to read Rules 22 and 24 in reference to the players they have on their lists, and districts allotted them.

There were also three clubs who did not have their list of players' names in the hands of the Secretary of the League by the required time to make them eligible to play in the opening games of the season: viz, Oxford, Aberdeen and Havre de Grace. A list of names sent in by various club managers appear in another column.

For some unaccountable reason the secretary could not see the names of three other players on the Newark line-up. Why was this?

Ratines and Linens

Our oft-repeated mention of Ratine and Linen Suitings arises solely from our enthusiasm over being able to show such complete assortments; this feeling being increased by our daily experience of being able to show weaves and colorings that customers have not been able to find even in the largest markets.

Ratines are considered more difficult to find in the importers' hands than any other summer fabric, the demand far exceeding all early calculations. Just now we show white, colors and novelty effects at 35c, 50c, 75c, 85c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 a yard.

The line of Linens comprises every weight in white, natural and colors demanded by this season's vogue; prices range from 31c to $1.00 a yard.

CONTINENTAL FIBRE CO.

"Starve The Fly"Is Fighters Slogan

Chairman Edward Hatch, Jr., of the American Civic Association said during a convention in Baltimore, "The slogan 'swat the fly' should be changed to 'starve the fly.'"

Mr. Hatch is right. Adults and children may alike be banded in a crusade to kill as many flies as have the temerity to show themselves. But unless the breeding and feeding places of the insect that forgets to wipe its feet are broken up the campaign will be in vain—at least it will fall far short of success.

The thing is a simple factor in the arithmetic of science and health. If there are no places for flies to feed, if there are no places for flies to breed, there will be no flies to kill. The new remedy has the virtue of getting right down to cases. The "swat" formula is only a palliative.

The new wariness is an important one in that it touches the fundamentals of sanitation everywhere. England is almost a flyless country. And England gained that enviable reputation not so much by swatting the fly as by taking the fly's meal ticket away from him and at the same time issuing a close order against the places in which it is wont to breed.

There is no good reason why an enterprising town, county or state, jealous of its health, should not follow a similar course. It sounds spectacular to tell how many flies you have slaughtered, during the course of a day. It is pleasant to have their scalps dangling, so to speak, at your belt. But unless you have nullified its means of sustenance and broken up its homestead rights the few you have killed will be reinforced by millions of others just as dead and just as aggressive.

To do away with the fly breeding places is merely a matter of cleanliness. Clean houses, gardens and yards. Clean streets and alleyways. Discourage the fly in its breeding proclivities.

Carrying out the fourth step, the sale of fly traps should be encouraged in every store.

To sum it all up, swat the fly before it is born.

FLY FIGHTING MAXIMS

Be up to date. Swat the fly. Clean up and boost.

Eternal vigilance should be your watchword.

The fly is a home wrecker. Destroy it.

When the fly comes in the door good health goes out the window.

It's not work that kills men, but worry. Swat the fly.

The four principal steps in organizing a campaign against the fly are as follows:

First—To educate people as to the deadly nature of the fly.

Second—To kill off all winter flies, those hiding about the houses, waiting their season to forage.

Third—To do away with all breeding places for flies.

Fourth—To trap all flies which happen to escape.

The extermination of the winter fly is a problem for the individual housewife. Don't let one fly escape. Hunt for them all and kill them early in the spring, for the winter fly is the parent of summer's terrible swarms.

UtopiaPROGRESS

"A map of the world that does not include Utopia is not worth glancing at, for it leaves out the country at which Humanity is always landing. And when Humanity lands there, it looks out, and seeing a better country, sets sail. Progress is the realization of Utopias."—Post.

The Nation's ship lies at the dock, All ready to sail away; Clear rings the Captain's "Cast Away, Make haste, for we sail today."

"Whither away, O Sailor bold, O whither away, I pray?" He casts his measured glance aloft And far o'er the ocean's spray.

"In distant isle across the sea, Lies the lure of Liberty; We sail today to make the port Where Body and Soul are free."

"And when, O Sir, shall you return, And shall you bring cargo home? And what of kindred left behind, While over the sea you roam?"

"We'll ne'er return again," said he, "To the dead Past's silent rest, But ever on we'll make our way To the hope in human breast."

Fairer isles where men are free, "For in the distance we shall see, Tho' rest we then so wearily, Thence we press for Liberty."

"Ever and ever, forever on, For mankind shall never rest,

The restless surge of the human soul Drives ever on to the Best."

The Nation's ship lies at the dock, All ready to sail away; Clear rings the Captain's "Cast Away, Make haste, for we sail today."

P. N. Cader.

From The Editor

The following is from a private letter written by a country editor, not for publication, which was reproduced in the Kansas City Star: "I know everybody in the whole country round-about by his first name. There are a thousand things to make life a joy. The youngsters in school come to office for my opinion in difficult things in their lessons. I figure out the contents of stacks of alfalfa and prairie hay for framers. I am the court of last resort when it comes to prices of corn and cattle and hogs, and during Cleveland's administration I advised 'widow-women' about their affairs. I lend the chronically impecunious sums ranging from 50 cents to $3, and always get it back. I head the list and help carry the paper to take the subscription for some one in distress."

"Our office gets the freak vegetables and big corn and fine fruits. We never get any knooks. No one ever comes round to tell us what to print. Our town has no joints. We have one drug store and it sells no booze. If our druggist should invest in a government license he knows, and his wife knows because I told him, and he told his wife, that an item would be made of such a license being granted."

"The only wrangling I ever have is with the preachers. The town has six churches—count them—six, and there is only room for one. All the preachers are on the free list. But I hardly ever go to church and when they bring in half a column of dope about their particular church I take it and boil it down to a single paragraph, and that makes them sore. And they send the presiding elder around when he comes to town to talk to me and to admonish me that I am wasting a wonderful opportunity to do real work for the Master. And I come back by telling the presiding elder that our paper is doing more to make the town a decent little hamlet in a week than all the preachers do in a year."

"A little country town like this needs a man—a MAN for spiritual adviser. A man like that and one church in a town could pull down $2,000 a year and do an immense amount of good, while as it is the women give suppers and hold bazaars and take freak ways of earning a dollar in order that the pastor may have bread and butter and a roof over him and raiment to put on."

DOMESTIC SCIENCE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

Appropos of the recent discussion before the Newark Board of Education, concerning the introduction of Manual Training and Domestic Science in the school, the following account of the public lesson given the domestic science department of the Wilmington High School is of special interest:

The demonstration extending from three to five o'clock was under the direction of Miss Jane V.
 Goessling, head of the department and Miss Elizabeth McDaniel, assistant instructor.

The guests inspected the lunch rooms and the domestic science laboratory before the lesson began, and they were very much pleased to see what has been done to make the lunch hour for the students attractive. The new counters from which the food is served, and the spotless white enameled tables and the stools were very much admired.
 In the lunch room the tables were already laid, roses, orange blossoms and wild flowers being used in their decoration. This is considered by Miss Goessling to be a phase of the work second only in importance to the preparation of the food, and every opportunity is given to the girls to go through the entire process of both getting a meal and serving it properly. At a quarter before three Miss Goessling summoned the guests to the laboratory and gave the first lesson.

Much speculation attached to the assignment of the various tasks to be accomplished, and the girls themselves were anxious until the last moment to know in what particular line each was to have the opportunity to demonstrate her efficiency.
 As Miss Goessling made the announcements, each group went to work in a thoroughly trained and business-like manner. Miss Grace Baffour and Mary Davis made white bread; Lydia Cloward and Elizabeth Taylor, nut bread; Pauline Clay and Nora Smith, Dorothy Russell and Sara Abramson, almond cakes; Dorothy Russell, Katherine Raymond, Mary Dennison and Irene Lenderman, tea biscuit; Rebecca Altman and Mabel Bliest, brown cookies; cocoa, Katherine Selover and Florence Walker.

The various salads—tomato, egg, banana, pimento, lettuce and orange special—were made, with their dressings, by Helen Merion, Elizabeth Maltman and Helen Stuart. Sandwiches were made of olives, lettuce, cheese and nut and jam checkerboard, by Mary Jones,

Nellie Quigley made mayonnaise, Clara Stroud, Jeannette Miller and dressing, experimenting with ver-rious oils to show the texture and thickening power of the different kinds.

Fannie Podolsky and Eloise Peach made frozen, custard, and Lisette Taylor and Helen Thompson prepared the chocolate sauce for it.

Miss Goessling announced that owing to the number in the class it would be necessary to work in two groups. The girls that had to use stoves worked in the laboratory, and the second group, under Miss McDaniels' supervision, prepared the salad dressings and sandwiches in the lunch room.

When the cooking began, the guests stood in interested groups and watched the scientific manner in which the girls went to work. As the recipes were given out, Miss Goessling asked questions to demonstrate that the girls understood the principles underlying what they were about to undertake, and they showed that they did by the way in which they went about their work. The preparation of the roy-onnaise dressing was most interesting to many.

As each task was completed all the cooking utensils were washed and put in their proper places, so that in a comparatively short time the laboratory was in perfect order with a delicious array of biscuit, bread, cakes and cookies upon the tables. In all of the laboratory work the instructors insist upon the immediate care of the utensils used, in this way saving both time and energy, and adding very much to the neatness and efficiency of the kitchen.

After all the food had been prepared the guests were seated at the tables, which had been arranged by Pauline Clay and Mary Dennison, and it was served to them by the girls who had prepared it. A delicious social hour was spent. The girls were very happy in the expressions of appreciation of their work and Miss Goessling and Miss McDaniel were congratulated upon the success of the afternoon. The mothers of the girls were especially generous in their approval of the course, and it was a revelation to those who had not been acquainted before with what the school is doing along this line.

Miss Goessling plans to have one more public demonstration before the end of the term, and it will un-

Your Part in a Better Telephone Service

We are pleased to receive suggestions that will lead to the betterment of telephone service —always.

We feel it our duty to standardize constantly and improve our equipment and operating methods to the best known standards, to maintain the highest efficiency and system, and to demand of our employees competence and courtesy.

Those are our responsibilities. But telephone service—good telephone service—does not begin and end with the Company. The way you give a call, the way the operator handles the call, the promptness with which the ring is answered, constitute good telephone service.

YOU and THEY must operate as well as she.

KEMBLESVILLE

The "Flag Day" exercises, held by Kembleville School on Thursday last, were largely attended by patrons and friends of the school. After the exercises by the school which were a credit to both teacher and pupils, the flag was unfurled and addresses were made by Prof. G. W. Moore, Mr. Geo. Coffman and Mr. G. L. Wilkinson. Music was furnished by Kembleville Cornet Band. Refreshments were served to the visitor and a tiny flag was given each one as a souvenir. The teacher, Miss Lillian Steele, was the recipient of several beautiful gifts from the pupils, showing their esteem.

Mr. Dutton Richards of Marshfield, visited Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Snyder on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond MacMillan and son Townsend, of West Chester, Pa., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richards. Mr. Stanley West and sisters, attended the funeral of their grandmother, Mrs. Ruth A. Penypacker at Phoenixville, on Monday.

Agricultural Methods At Summer School

Owing to the fact that Agriculture is to be introduced into the public schools of the State at the opening of the next term in September, the agricultural department promises to be one of the most popular among the courses offered. Very few of the teachers in Delaware have had any training in Agriculture, much less in the methods for presenting the subject.

Professor H. F. Button, director of the Manassas, Va., High School, recommended by Dr. A. C. True of the U. S. Department of Experiment Stations, has been engaged to teach methods during the latter part of the session, following the lectures and laboratory work conducted by the Delaware man.

Professor Button's work at the Manassas Agricultural High School has attracted considerable attention outside of that state as he has accomplished wonders in his line. In addition to his work at the above school he is also secretary of the Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute.

It is felt that in securing Professor Button that part of the Summer School work will be well taken care of.

Newspaper Changes Hands

A. C. Johnston, for several years past publisher of the West Grove Independent, has disposed of his interest in the paper to L. C. Webster, recently with the Oxford News. Wm. T. Dance will conduct the editorial department with Mr. Webster in charge of the Mechanical side of the business.

Here and There

100 acres of timber land, near Galeston, has been sold by John Lyons to Leroy C. Longfellow for $15,000.

Tenth, Eleventh and King streets are about to be graded by the Wilmington Street and Sewer Commission preliminary to the erection of the new combined city and county building.

The Maryland A. U. M. P. Conference opened a five day session in the Elkton Church on Wednesday with upwards of 60 pastors in attendance under the Presidency of Rev. Dr. Robinson of Baltimore.

Georgetown residents are reported as getting liquor by the gallon from Bishop, Md., making the trip and return by train in an hour.

Wilson M. Vingard and other business men of Milford are planning for the location there of several large fish oil factories.

Wilmingtonians are working to secure all-night street car service in the city or at least the running of one car each hour after 1 a. m.

The outlook is good this year for one of the largest corn crops ever grown in lower Delaware.

Wilmington members of the Grand Army of the Republic request that the church and other bells in the city be tolled for fifteen minutes on Memorial Day.

Capital Grange's new hall at Dover is to cost $6000 and will be one of the town's most striking buildings.

A dancing pavilion is to be erected in Battery Park, New Castle, by General Manager Myers of the Federal Motor Company.

William Curtis of the Milford section saved his young tomato plants from the frost of May 10 by building fires in iron pots filled with chips. The smoke protected the plants and on Tuesday he sold the bed for a sum greater, it is said than the likely returns from his intended crop, after reserving enough plants for his own use.

About 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, broke into the office of the Union Macaroni Company at Fifth and Walnut streets, Wilmington. They blew open the safe, residents nearby hearing the explosion, and got away with about $3,000 worth of plunder, including $1,000 in American, $800 in Italian and $50 in Canadian money, and a lot of gold watches, rings, necklaces, lockets and bracelets valued at $1,000.

Hambert Marnes, an employee of the company, went to the plant about 6:30 o'clock to repair some machinery and found the safe open and empty. Raffaele Julian, president of the company, of 519 Walnut street, was notified, and was overcome by the tidings. He had failed to deposit receipts on Saturday and had taken various sums from Italians to purchase drafts to be sent to relatives in Italy. The police are convinced that the robbers knew their ground and worked for a certainty.

Rock Presbyterian congregation Fair Hill, will observe on Sunday, the sixth anniversary of Rev. B. J. Brinkman's installation as pastor.

The remains of Mrs. Regina Deaton of New Castle, were interred on Sunday in Bethel Cemetery, near Chesapeake City, those attending the funeral making the trip in automobiles.

George N. Murray of Lewes, who on the advice of a lawyer, took five barrels of Near Beer from the railroad station after tendering payment of freight charges, was sentenced to five days in jail by a local magistrate for violation of the Hazel law regulating liquor shipments. The case was submitted to Judge Conrad for review, and he affirms the ruling of the magistrate. Murray proposes to make further test of the outfit.
