Jury Renders Verdict Not Guilty

Clark Not Responsible For Death
Of Strauss

(Written for The Post)

Our town has been greatly interested in the trial of Frank Clark, charged with causing the death of John Strauss of Norristown, Pa. The trial has been held and Mr. Clark acquitted. But since there might possibly be a doubt in the minds of some as to his innocence, since it might be said that he owes his acquittal to shrewdness on the part of his counsel in evading the law, as one who followed the trial from the beginning I have taken it upon myself to show that the case was decided on other and higher grounds. On Sunday afternoon May 16th Mr. Clark and his friend, Mr. Daub started out for a walk, taking the road leading to Jeffersonville. In the course of the walk they met a man who stopped them to inquire the way to Audobon. Daub informed him that he was going in the opposite direction from his destination. The two young men then passed on. In the meantime the stranger, who proved to be John Strauss, encountered another man to whom he put the same question, and receiving a different answer wheeled about. By and by the two friends turned around to retrace their footsteps to Norristown. That was about three o'clock. In a short time they came up to Strauss who when within speaking distance accosted them with vile language, berating them for misdirecting them. They paid no heed to him, until he became more abusive and profane, daring them to fight. At this time they were not more than nine feet from the belligerent. Clark moved towards Strauss for the purpose of remonstrating with him and assuring him that they had directed him to the best of their knowledge, whereupon Strauss advanced and let go his right arm with a swinging blow aimed at Clark's chest. Clark threw up his left arm and warded off the blow. This action brought the two men almost breast to breast. Realizing for the first time that his assailant was under the influence of liquor, although his steps were steady, Clark with a quick movement of his right hand pushed him in the mouth. Strauss fell, striking first his hips, then his shoulders and lastly the back of his head. He laid on the ground in the attitude of a drunken man. Clark and Daub picked him up and placed him on the side of the road in order that he might not be run over by passing vehicles. Feeling certain that he was stupefied by alcohol, and fearing that he would soon awaken to renew the disturbance they left the place and returned to Norristown. That night the case was reported to the police authorities, and about 8 o'clock a patrol conveyed him to the hospital. The next morning he died. The post mortem examination revealed but one mark, scratch or bruise on any part of his body, a fracture on the right side of his head one inch above and one inch behind the ear. His skull at that point was found to be abnormally thin, only one eighth of an inch, whereas in a normal person the thickness is one quarter of an inch. The cause of his death was the bursting of the main artery due to the fracture, producing heavy pressure on the brain.

The charge against Mr. Clark was in two counts, voluntary manslaughter with a penalty of twelve years' imprisonment, and involuntary manslaughter with a penalty of two years of imprisonment. His counsel might have undertaken, and in all probability his efforts would have been successful, to

Missionary Meeting

The W. H. M. S. of the Newark M. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. Robert Gallaher. The following officers were elected for the year: Mrs. H. W. McNeal, president; Mrs. E. P. Roberts, vice-president; Mrs. M. T. Williams, secretary; Mrs. C. A. Short, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, treasurer. The Society has presented the Newark colored school district No. 110 with six volumes of the Book of Knowledge.

Home And Contents Burned

Fire of unknown origin burned the dwelling occupied by Henry Bierman, on the old Webber estate, Christiana early Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Bierman, who alone occupied the house, were awakened about three o'clock by the crackling of flames. They were merely able to make their escape from the building. Aside from the furnishings of the house, one hundred bushels of wheat, which had been stored in the dwelling, and a quantity of butter, eggs, and chickens, prepared for the Saturday's market, were burned. There was no insurance on the contents of the building. The loss of the owner of the property, Mr. Hess, of Philadelphia, was covered by insurance.

After the fire the family of A. J. Coverdale, who also live on a farm near Christiana, took care of Mr. and Mrs. Bierman, providing shelter and clothing for them. The unfortunate people will live at the Coverdale home for several days, until other plans can be made.

Poultry Men Entered At Banquet

Lady Eglantine, the White Leghorn Hen that up to October 11th had laid three hundred (300) eggs in 345 days, in the competition on the College Farm at Newark, has been a prominent figure on the films in several of the leading moving picture theatres in Philadelphia. On October 14th, Mr. A. A. Christian, the owner of the hen and of Eglantine Farms, where she was bred, gave a dinner and theatre party in her honor. Among the guests were Director H. Hayward of the Experiment Station, Delaware College, E. S. Edmonson, advertising manager of the Philadelphia North American, Mr. F. V. L. Turner, Secretary of the competition, A. M. Pollard, Superintendent of the competition, Professor F. H. Stoneburn, Secretary of the Executive Committee, Temple Smith, manager of Eglantine Farms, and Frank Vadakin, poultryman of Eglantine Farms. After the dinner, at which the menu cards featured Lady Eglantine, and her record to date, the party went to the Stanley Theatre and there saw a complete reel showing Lady Eglantine in her surroundings at Newark and the routine followed in carrying on the competition. Optimistic persons expect this wonderful hen to lay a total of 315 eggs in 365 days, thereby shattering all previous records.

R. crossed the State road, below Glasgow, was discussed and we are glad to say that in the near future a suitable marker will be placed.

A very interesting paper written and read by Mrs. J. W. Cooch concerning the early settlement of Delaware by the Swedes, was much enjoyed.

After the formal meeting dainty refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

BOY FALLS FROM LADDER

Sustains Painful Cuts And Bruises

Joseph Moore, a sixteen year old employee at the Jacob Thomas Company Wall Paper factory, received painful injuries last Saturday by a fall from a ladder in the elevator shaft at the factory. The elevator was not running at the time and the boy took the ladder route as the shortest way to the first floor. About half way between the floors his foot slipped, and he fell the distance of a story and a half to the cellar. Many of the workmen had left for their homes, but fortunately for the boy, a man chanced to be in the cellar Moore was taken to his home and put in the hands of Doctor Blake. He had sustained several cuts about the head, and a badly bruised ankle. The boy is still suffering from the general shock of the accident.

CONTEST FOR POSTMASTER

Number Of Candidates Mentioned

The sudden death of J. W. Brown, postmaster for Newark, will create a renewed interest in the approaching appointment to this office. The term of Mr. Brown would have expired late in December. Several names have already been mentioned as active candidates. The contest will now, no doubt, begin in earnest.

Prominent among names mentioned are Joseph H. Hossinger, Levi K. Bowen, and Frank Lutton, all of White Clay Hundred. T. Roseby McMullin of Pencader is also spoken of. The question of the selection hinges on just who is the recognized Saulsbury leader in this section. In recent years Mr. Hossinger has been so considered. If so, the appointment is generally conceded to Mr. Hossinger or to his choice. Rumors have it, however, that some of the older Democracy will take a hand. These claim to have the ear of the powers that be.

Nothing definite, of course, can be learned. Senator Saulsbury has already been reported as holding a secret conference with a prominent Democrat.

It is generally conceded that the appointment will have a significant bearing on the political situation in White Clay. The appointment of McMullin would reinstate him as leader in Pencader. White Clay Democracy, even in case of a contest, say that they will oppose an out-of-the-hundred appointment from now on the staid old Democrats will arouse themselves. A business appointment is the public issue.

Obituary

John Wilbur Brown
The entire community was grieved last Saturday morning to hear of the sudden death of J. W. Brown, postmaster of Newark. Mr. Brown, who has been greatly worried over the disorganized rural service, was stricken with apoplexy on Friday night, when delivering a special letter, at a home in Deandale. He was taken to his home by Robert Crow, but never regained consciousness.

Mr. Brown has been in uncertain health ever since sustaining injuries in an accident which occurred three years to a day previous to his death. Then, as on Friday evening, his errand was in connection with his post office duties, which he ever put before any personal inclination or interest.

Mr. Brown, who was born in Cherry Hill, Maryland, October 2, 1851, came to Newark about thirty years ago. Previous to that time his brother, Thomas B. Brown, had been conducting a store—the West End Grocery—just west of the B. and O. railroad. This business was turned over to the younger brother who developed the store into one of the best in the growing community. In the latter part of 1911, Mr. Brown sold the business to Mr. Ernest Frazer, in order to accept the position of postmaster of Newark, to which he had been appointed by President Taft. Since January 8, 1912, the duties of this office have received Mr. Brown's undivided attention.

The deceased during his long residence in Newark has ever been an active member of the community. Ever alert to see the opportunity for a kindly act, his hand-clasp and cheery word is a precious memory to many who have called Newark their home. For years Mr. Brown has been a devoted member of the Newark M. E. Church, of which he was treasurer at the time of his death. Since the pastorate of Dr. Roberts, which began last March, Mr. Brown has heard every sermon and attended every prayer-meeting held in the church. He was also devoted to Sunday School work, and was serving as assistant secretary at the time of his death. Mr. Brown was a member of the Minnehaha Tribe of Red Men, and the local order of Hontasoph.

Funeral services, in charge of Dr. Roberts, assisted by Dr. Rowan of the Presbyterian Church, were held at the late residence on Tuesday. A trio from the M. E. choir, sang "Nearer My God To Thee," the favorite hymn of the deceased. Dr. Roberts, in his sermon, dwelt beautifully upon the Christian's triumph over death, and the nearness of earth to Heaven. In closing he said, "Christianity taught our brother kindness. He was kind to everybody. He loved everybody. He wished you all well. He would exhort you to live the life of the just, and meet him beyond the grave." Many beautiful floral emblems expressed the sympathy of the community.

Messrs. H. W. McNeal, R. S. Gallaher, C. A. Short, Robert Crowe, Elmer Thompson, and Levi Bowen acted as pall-bearers. Interment was made in Newark M. E. Cemetery. The Red Men's Lodge had charge of the services at the grave.

A wife, two children, Bond and Marian Brown; three sisters, Mrs. Kete Holt, Mrs. Harry Mahan, and Mrs. Mary Canwell, of Cherry Hill, Md., and two brothers, Thomas B. Brown, Wilmington, and Joseph G. Brown, of Odessa, survive.

Error Corrected

The name of the minister in charge of the First Presbyterian Church, previous to the pastorate of Rev. George J. Porter, was Hamilton and not Hamill, as printed by error, in Mrs. Porter's letter, published in the people's column of last week's issue of The Post.

School-Garden Work Prizes Awarded

Authorities Pleased With The Experiment

The Home Garden Work undertaken last spring by pupils of the Newark Grammar school, under the direction of Miss Agnes Medill has been pronounced by those who planned the experiment a splendid success. The work was outlined by J. R. Randall, an expert in school gardening work, from Washington. Children who planted and continued to work their gardens throughout the year were John Clancey, Howard Reed, Earl Evans, Frank Garatva, Bayard Lindell, Earl Lindell, Leah Poole, Pearl Poole, Joseph Willis, Robert and William Hayes, Herbert Henning, Frank Durnall, Charles Blest, and John Hoffecker. A strict account of all expenses was kept by the children, and a report of the profits from sales made to Miss Medill. A prize of $2.50, offered by the Newark High School Alumni Association, and seven other prizes from friends interested in the movement, have been awarded as follows: John Clancey, $2.50; Howard Reed, $2.00; Frank Garatva, $1.50; Earl Evans, $1.25; Bayard Lindell, $1.00; Earl Lindell, $1.00; Leah Poole, $1.00; Joseph Willis, $1.00. Prof. C. A. McCue acted as judge in awarding the prizes. His decision was based on the amount of truck raised, the amount of work done, the total profit, and the general appearance of the gardens.

The work was undertaken as an experiment in connection with the plan of the General Co-operation Society of Delaware. It is believed the success of the local workers will lead to the introduction of the plan in six or eight Delaware towns this coming year.

ENGLISH LIEUTENANT WELL-KNOWN HERE

New Disinfectant Discovered

As a result of experiments conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service it is announced that a new disinfectant, possessing qualities superior to ordinary disinfectants, has recently been discovered. The announcement is particularly important at this time, coming as it does in the face of the shortage in coal tar derivatives which has resulted from the European conflict. The new preparation is derived from pine oil, a by-product in the manufacture of turpentine. It is easily prepared by mixing certain proportions of the oil with resin and sodium hydroxide solution, the finished product being a reddish-brown liquid, rather thick and oily in appearance but free from turbidity. With water it makes a perfectly white emulsion, much resembling milk. It has a pleasing odor, no objectionable taste, and attacks neither fabrics nor metals. It possesses over four times the disinfectant properties of carbolic acid and is altogether nontoxic, so that it may safely be used as a throat spray or mouth wash in solutions of the ordinary strength. The cost of the preparation is remarkably low as it can be manufactured for less than fifty cents a gallon, solely from products which are produced in this country.

Many of the disinfectants now on the market are neither efficient nor economical, it having been demonstrated that a number of the most expensive and widely advertised are extremely weak in disinfecting power, so much so that their strength is undeterminable by ordinary methods. The sale of compounds of this nature constitutes a fraud. A second class of proprietary preparations are of guaranteed strength, thus putting a legal responsibility upon the manufacturer, but the cost of these per unit of disinfecting power is frequently excessive. The householder is therefore often at a loss to select a disinfectant which is efficient, economical and of constant strength and it is believed that this new compound, which is to be known as "Hygienic Laboratory Pine-oil Disinfectant," will become one of the most useful preparations of that character.

Big Plant For New Castle

The new industrial plant to be located on a tract 200 by 800 feet adjoining the property of the Baldu Steel Company in New Castle, it is stated, will be a subsidiary of the General Electric Company, whose main works are located in Schenectady, N. Y. The first building to be erected will be 180 by 750 feet and would likely employ a large number of hands. A temporary building of frame 40 by 60 feet is under rapid construction for storage and other purposes and concrete and cement mixers and materials have arrived on the ground. Work on the main structure will shortly begin, it is understood.

Costly Expense To County

The New Castle Levy Court is said to view with much concern the growing cost for maintenance of prisoners in the Workhouse which for the past six months has reached $25,716. A large number of the prisoners come from Wilmington which gets any fines and costs that are paid by offenders while the county is saddled with the keep of those committed in default of payment. Many of the prisoners are men employed at Carney's Point and other munitions plants, who go "broke" in Wilmington after paydays, are arrested after carousing and committed in default of payment of fines.

OCTOBER 13, 1915

JOHN WILBUR BROWN

Men loved him. Not without reason, for he loved men. Nature is seldom so kind that when a man dies, people can say he was without enemies. J. W. Brown was such a man. Actively engaged in business and public life as postmaster, he was truly a "friend of man." So much so that, old or young, boy or girl, it was "Uncle Bill" to all. His kindness was a habit of nature. To him, all men were brother; all children he addressed as "son" or "daughter." As such we knew him.

A bit personal, going back to Freshman days at college, when all men seemed foreign, it was "Uncle Bill" who stopped for a chat and made us feel that we had our niche to fill in the world. Through all those years, he has always had an inquiring interest in our welfare. Thus was he with all men. Official duties and strain of worries wore, but his genial disposition remained the same. He shared the anxieties of his friends and bore his burdens alone.

Newark, every one of us, has lost a friend. To have known him is a privilege. Men loved him—for he loved Men.

An Invitation to the Ladies.

Ladies, we are going to let you in on a big store secret. Freely 50% of the things that men buy to wear are selected by women folks. This is not an idle estimate; it is an exact statistic of this store.

It is your judgment, your taste, your suggestion that—directly or indirectly—prompts a good half of the purchases Mr. Man makes for his wardrobe.

Mr. Man—bless his boastful heart. May not realize this himself. For woman is ever gentle and ever tactful in her goodly influence over the male wardrobe.

She knows the tender masculine vanity.

For instance—Mother says to Father: "Henry, do you know you'd look splendid in one of those gray check fabrics the men are wearing these days?"

"Nonsense, Mother, I'm too old," replies Henry.

But lo and behold—three weeks later Father walks home, proud as a peacock, adorned in one of those youngish Sol Wilson Tailored Glen Urquhart Checks, cut English style, if you please—with slender, form fitting coat, narrow, natural shoulders, soft, supple rolled lapels.

And when Mother tells him how handsome and young and smart he looks, Father, like the vain male that he is, takes all the credit to himself. Mother simply smiles to herself. She knows.

Between you and me ourselves—the average man is a poor selector of personal things. He buys too hastily—with too little thought for harmony or appropriateness. You, the women, are the skilled purchaser of the home. You are accustomed to weighing values, choosing wisely, and getting the best for the money.

You are a good judge of textures and the wearing qualities of cloth. For that reason The Store of Sol Wilson especially courts your presence. For this week is Your week—just as much as it is husband's, father's brother's or son's.

We believe it is your wish to follow the changes in materials and styles in men's clothes to know the making and the new standard of values and prices.

That is what this invitation is for. For your education as to what is best for men to wear this fall.

The invitation is open Now, this week.

SQUIRS

Alexander the Great—he cried for world's to conquer—then he went to Boston.

Only a few men know their friends. Frank Clark knows his. They flocked to him.

The Post, through courtesy of W. E. Hayes, has given the returns from the world series every day since the great match began.

A crowd watching a baseball bulletin is interesting. Equality! It's sure the melting pot. Presbyterians, Methodists, downtown, uptown, like a Quaker cemetery, all look alike from a newspaper office window.

WALTON SERVICE

Talk No. 6 Accommodation of the Eye.

Did you ever stop and think how wonderfully nature has provided for us to see clearly at different distances?

This power is called ACCOMMODATION and is an involuntary act on our part. It is caused by the contraction and relaxation of the ciliary muscle surrounding the lens of the eye.

This power of ACCOMMODATION gradually diminishes from the age of ten years but does not make its loss felt until the age of forty or forty-five years.

The symptoms then noticed are, that in reading the letters will run together and blur; and that if the paper is moved further from the eyes it will clear the print for a short time; or the print may remain clear but after reading a short time the eyes will tire and burn, due to the excessive strain on the ciliary muscle.

The only remedy is a properly fitted lens before each eye while reading and sewing.

USE IFORM LENSES.

Handy ran 95 yards on the kick-off and carried the ball over for a touchdown on the next two plays. Delaware pulled off but one forward pass for any substantial gain, this pass coming in the last quarter, O'Daniel to Smart and netting sixty yards. Note Of Triumph In Temperance Speaker's Address

The first business session of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, in session at Seattle, Washington, was addressed on Monday by Anna A. Gordon, president of the Association. The words of the leader are being read with interest by temperance workers everywhere.

"Looking backward over the last twenty months and forward to the year 1916 one might epitomize the temperance movement in retrospect and prospect as a movement of victorious yesterdays. Miss Gordon. She cited the temperance transformation of Russia, the anti-liquor measures in effect in German, French and English military circles, the abolition of alcohol in the United States navy and in the Panama Canal zone, the outlawing of the liquor traffic in Virginia, Colorado, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa, Alabama, and South Carolina, the majority vote for State-wide prohibition in both branches of Utah's Legislature, the upholding by the United States Supreme Court of the constitutionality of the prohibition provision of the Indian treaties making one-fifth of Minnesota dry, the victorious prohibition elections in forty-five of Minnesota's counties, the battle for prohibition in the District of Columbia and the decrease at the rate of $1,250,000 a month of the internal revenue collections on distilled spirits, despite the fact that wines are paying high tax as a result of the emergency war tax enacted by the last Congress.

The speaker said that all white ribboners are praying for success of the cause at the polls in Ohio next month, and in Vermont next spring.

"California, Florida, Kentucky, Indiana, Louisiana, Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Texas, Wyoming, and other near-prohibition states are fast approaching the mountain top of state-wide prohibition," she asserted.

The visiting members and friends from every State in the Union and many foreign countries were welcomed at the initial meeting by State and city officials and were accorded a special welcome by the churches and educational interests, the State Federation of Women's Clubs and the Washington State W. C. T. U.

The auditorium of the Plymouth Congregational Church, where the main sessions of the convention are held, was crowded.

POSITION OF BOY SCOUT ORGANIZATION

Trains For Preparedness In Any Emergency

The attitude of the Boy Scouts of America toward the problem of national preparedness was the subject of discussion and action at the quarterly meeting of the Executive Board of the National Council of that organization held this week at the Lawyer's Club, in New York City. The position, in the organization was defined in a resolution unanimously passed as follows:

"Resolved, That the Executive Board take the position that it would be inappropriate for the Boy Scouts of America to take any official action with reference to any question of policy for the United States Government in matters capable of difference of opinion of a political character. Each official and member should be given full opportunity for freedom of thought and action as an individual but not as a representative of the Scout Movement.

"It should be clearly understood 'First—That the Boy Scout Movement is not anti-military. The Boy Scout Movement neither promotes nor discourages military training, its one concern being the development of character and personal efficiency of adolescent boys.

"Second—That the records show that the logical result of the program which the Boy Scout Movement is promoting is in reality as strong a factor as any other one agency which the country now has for preparedness, since it develops the character of boys and assists them in securing a proper conception of a citizen's responsibility. "Third—Furthermore, boys who have been Scouts will, because of their training under the motto 'Be Prepared,' prove themselves more virile and efficient in any emergency which calls for their services as citizens of the country."

21 Days To Make Powder

The du Pont Powder Company, it was learned on Thursday, has perfected a new process by which the drying of powder is hastened nearly two months, five days sufficing under the new process while the old method required 60. The finished product may now be turned out in 21 days, it is said. The big concern is reported to have contracts with the home and foreign governments to employ its present force for three years.

JURY RENDERS VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

show that he acted in self defense, since Strauss aimed a violent blow at Clark who was obliged to defend himself. But the counsel for the accused followed another line of defense, for which he had most abundant and satisfactory proof, to wit, that Clark was not responsible for the death of Strauss. The testimony given by the medical experts, all but one of whom had been summoned by the District Attorney to establish his case, was that a man receiving such an injury to the brain could not after a few minutes return to consciousness, could not rise even to a sitting posture, and once in the state of coma would remain so until death. One hour after the event, that is to say, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, two persons, father and son, arrived on the scene, observed the prostrate object lying on the embankment, raised him to a sitting posture and conversed with him. He looked at them and answered their questions, thus proving that he was in a state of consciousness. They then left him lying there in a comfortable attitude, satisfied that he was sleeping off the effects of a drunken stupor. Not long afterwards a man sitting at the window of a house about two hundred yards away saw Strauss rise to his knees and then lurch to the right. That was the moment when the drunken man fell against the telegraph pole and received the fracture to his skull. One hour later other pedestrians stopped at the spot to notice that the man had assumed a different position from the original one. No longer was he lying where Clark and Daub had placed him, and where the father and son had seen him one hour after the fracas, but between the telegraph pole and the fence. From that point on the man never regained consciousness, because his skull was fractured by its contact with the hard surface. His paper skull cracked, and the main artery burst sending spurts of blood that collected to the size of a goose egg. The fact that under the most minute examination he was found to be without mark of any kind on his whole body except the fracture on the right side of his head, and that when he was shoved down the back of his head came in contact with the ground makes it certain that Clark did not strike him a hard blow, or some part of his hips shoulders or head would have been scratched or bruised. Evidently his death came about in an other way.

The case was splendidly handled by Mr. Clark's counsel, Mr. Fox. He made no attempt to evade the issue, or to appeal to the sympathy of the jury. He asked for his client simple justice. The district attorney did as well as a man could do with a weak case. To his credit, let it be said, he was both fair and courteous, especially in cross examining witnesses. Sometimes when the defendant is acquitted by a jury there is a lingering suspicion that he has escaped conviction because of the skill of his lawyers. All the while he is guilty in the sight of God, who will bring him to judgment. Mr. Clark has no such Nemesis hanging over him to disturb his conscience like Banco's ghost. All the members of the Newark delegation who were present at the trial are convinced beyond a shadow of doubt that he is not responsible for the untimely death of John Strauss. In five minutes the jury came to the same conclusion. William J. Rowan.
