COURSE TO BE GIVEN

Dr. J. J. Eberl
To Teach Class
In Kinetics

The division of academic extension at the University of Delaware, headed by Prof. William A. Wilkinson, has announced a special course in chemical kinetics, to be given by Dr. James J. Eberl, of the department of chemistry. The course will be given for one two-hour period per week for 15 weeks in the evening, and the first lecture will be at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, Jan. 6, in the chemical laboratory of the university.

This course will cover chemical kinetics and will consist of a study of the application of the results of reaction velocity, including heterogeneous catalysis and reactions in solution. Activation, collision diameters, and steric factors will be considered from the classical point of view; and the more recent treatment of the activated complex, with properties derived from quantum mechanics, will be discussed.

The prerequisites are calculus and one year of physical chemistry. This course may be taken for either graduate or undergraduate credit or without academic credit.

JUDGES TO VIEW DISPLAYS

Garden Club
Contest Winners
To Be Named

There is no "black out" in Newark tonight as homes are ablaze with a profusion of elaborately planned and beautifully arranged residential displays enhancing the spirit of Christmas.

Numerically, more homes than ever before are exuding illuminated electric displays ornamenting lawns, drives, porches and windows in competition for the five valuable prizes being awarded in the annual Garden Club Christmas Lighting Contest.

Friendly but keen competition exists as neighbors vie with each other for top awards in each class, for Friday night the judges will tour Newark on their rounds of inspection before announcing the winners.

All persons, whether interested in winning a prize or not, are urged to have their displays illuminated before seven o'clock and requested to leave them lighted until ten P. M. in order to give the judges ample time to view each section of the community.

One major prize will be awarded in each of the following classes: 1—Best general appearance; 2—Best Lawn; 3—Best Porch; 4—Best Door and 5—Best Window. The judges' decisions will be announced in next week's issue of The Newark Post. The second and third best display in each class will receive honorable mention.

Prizes to be awarded by the Garden Club have been contributed by the Delaware Power & Light Co., The Newark Post, Jackson's Hardware, Kirk's Florist, J. Elmer Betty and Louis Handloff.

Air Raid Drills Planned

Superintendent Carleton E. Douglass, head of the Newark Public Schools, announced yesterday that plans are being made to stage practice air raid drills in an effort to perfect methods of removing children from the buildings in case of a bombing.

HOLIDAY MAILING HITS NEW CEILING

Stamp Sales
Increase Along
With Incoming
Letters, Parcels

Standing knee deep in packages and up to his neck in cards and letters, Postmaster Cyrus E. Rittenhouse was unable to give any definite figures on the 1941 holiday mailing records, but estimated that "a substantial increase has been recorded over last year's mark."

With an extra staff of eight workers assisting the regulars, the postoffice force has been kept moving at top speed for several days. All day Sunday was spent in cleaning up the loose ends, but Monday morning saw another deluge of holiday letters and packages as the rush started all over again.

Kept on the run by the skyrocketing business, Mr. Rittenhouse was able to dig from the files, only the figures on stamp sales which have shown a large increase over last year's record mark. Up until the start of business on Monday morning, a grand total of 95,000 one and one-half cent stamps had been sold. The gradual climb started on Friday, Dec. 12, reaching a peak on Friday, Dec. 19, when 33,900 passed through the windows.

A total of 13,500 two-cent stamps have been sold, while three-cent stamps purchased have amounted to 39,700.

With the increased employment as a result of the national defense program, the increase, although it cannot be definitely stated, will probably amount to 25 per cent more than last year's final figure.

A complete account of the Christmas mailing figures will be published in next week's issue of the Post.

BATTERY E EXPRESSES GRATITUDE

Letter Received
From Lieut.
W. B. Derrickson

Appreciation for the Christmas gifts sent by the Mayor's Committee was expressed by Lieut. William B. Derrickson, Jr., in behalf of the local unit, in a letter received by Vernon C. Steele, secretary.

The letter reads as follows: "On behalf of the officers and men of Battery 'E' 98th C. A. (A. A.) I wish to express to you our most sincere appreciation for the many useful Christmas gifts to all men of the battery. We are very proud of the splendid thoughtfulness on the part of the people of our home station, Newark, Delaware.

"I wish to state that the splendid efforts of the committee and the generous gifts from the people of Newark and vicinity have helped considerably to raise the spirits of the men who know they must stick by their guns this Christmas.

"The usual thoughts we have at Christmas mixed with manning a gun is very uncheerful, but to know your thoughts are with us is very encouraging. We wish you and all the people of Newark and vicinity a Merry Christmas and hope we together can make the New Year a brighter one.

Wm. B. Derrickson, Jr.

Letters from other men serving with Battery "E" at East Hartford, Conn., will be published in next week's issue of the Newark Post.

Ensign Richard R. Mayer

LOCAL BOY SURVIVES JAPANESE ASSAULT

Ensign Mayer
Writes Home;
Ship Sunk At Pearl Harbor

A letter, reflecting the fighting spirit of the U. S. Navy, was received Monday morning by Rev. and Mrs. Andrew W. Mayer from their son, Ensign Richard R. Mayer, who was aboard the minelayer, Oglala, when it was sunk in Japan's first assault against the United States at Pearl Harbor.

Considerable fear for the safety of Ensign Mayer has been felt since last Monday when it was officially announced that the Oglala had gone down and on the same day, Christmas presents, dated a few days before the bombing, were received. The letter, written last Wednesday, was dated Dec. 18, and received four days later. It was passed by the U. S. Board of Censors.

It is not definitely known that he was aboard the Oglala, but his letter indicates that he was at his station when the treacherous Japanese attack was launched.

His letter, in part, reads: "The Oglala is now officially sunk. That is all the story that I can tell you. I lost everything except my life. I have adopted a more or less fatalistic attitude since the attack. As I see it, it is the most sensible one to take. When those bombs started falling, I discovered that there just isn't any particular direction in which to run to escape them. If they are going to hit you they just are, and that is all there is to it.

Embroidered in the center of the Pacific war, Ensign Mayer asked his family to "keep your collective chins up."

"Whether this war be long or short, we will beat those yellow boys yet."

Ensign Mayer attended the Newark High School, Peddie School of Hightstown, N. J., and Haverford College. While in his junior year at Haverford, he enlisted in the United States Naval Reserves and received his training at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He received his commission last May and was assigned to duty at Pearl Harbor.

HOSPITAL DRIVE LAGS

Contributors Urged
To Respond Now

Contributions to the Flower Hospital campaign seem to be dwindling instead of increasing, it was indicated yesterday, as the drive remains about $150 short of its goal.

D. A. McClintock, treasurer, urges that all individuals, firms and organizations who usually contribute to this fund and plan to do so this year send their contributions in without delay as the committee desires to conclude the campaign before the New Year.

Response has lagged during the past few days and it is hoped that now, with Christmas shopping behind us, we will not neglect longer the appeal of this worthy institution. All checks should be mailed to D. A. McClintock, Treasurer.

Dr. Geo. W. Rhodes is chairman of the campaign committee assisted by Mrs. E. L. Richards, C. C. Hubert, A. E. Tomhave, Alfred Deck, Mr. McClintock and Dr. John R. Downes.

MORE THAN $700 WAS COLLECTED FOR MEN

Gifts Sent To Local Boys
In Service
By Army Truck

More than $700 was collected by the Mayor's Committee to provide local men now in service Christmas gift packages, according to the final announcement made by Vernon C. Steele, treasurer.

The gifts to Battery E were shipped by army truck last Thursday. More than 900 pounds of presents led the headquarters at 26 Academy Street.

Presents to men stationed in posts extending west to Honolulu, east to the British West Indies, south to the Gulf of Mexico, and north to New Foundland, were sent by mail.

Mayor Frank Collins praised the residents of this section for their fine response. Many civic, patriotic, and fraternal organizations, banking and business houses, joined with the industrial plants and their employees in contributing to the general fund. Faculty and students of the University of Delaware and public schools also made substantial contributions.

Merchants permitted receptacles to be placed in business houses for gifts and the management of the State Theatre cooperated by allowing public solicitation during two different performances. Many private contributions were also received.

A candy committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert T. Jones, solicited over 350 pounds of homemade candies from the women of Newark.

The junior auxiliary of the American Legion, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur E. Tomhave, prepared name cards for each stocking. Members of the primary teaching staff at the local school wrapped the boxed gifts in attractive Christmas wrappings. Mrs. Edna Lindell assisted the committee in sewing the filled stockings.

25 Families
Left Baskets
By Boy Scouts

Christmas baskets containing food and toys were distributed to twenty-five families residing in this vicinity on Wednesday afternoon.

Each basket contained canned food, potatoes, meat, pancake flour and syrup, oranges, cranberries, bread, and cake.

The contents of the baskets were supplied from a collection of food made by members of Newark's Boy Scout troop on Tuesday afternoon in a house-to-house canvass. These articles were augmented by a large supply of canned goods collected at a children's moving picture party arranged by a Newark Girl Scout troop under the leadership of Miss Jean Chambers, captain.

A "White Christmas" was held at the Newark Methodist Church and sufficient food was received to prepare six baskets. In addition to the baskets received, a cash contribution was made.

A class from the Women's College and the Eastern Star organization each provided a Christmas basket for a family whose name was provided by the Newark Welfare Committee.

Boy Scouts are providing toys from a special Christmas fund and additional toys were received from the Cub pack and Brownie troop. Baskets were delivered by Boy Scouts yesterday under the supervision of Mrs. Robert E. Price, chairman, and Mrs. E. L. Richards, treasurer, of the Newark Welfare Committee.

GRAPEFRUIT ADDED TO STAMP LIST

Fresh grapefruit has been added to the December list of Blue Stamp Foods, showing butter and pork which were turned to the list in November. With citrus harvest approaching a peak, addition of grapefruit to the list not only assist growers in marketing their full crop but will be a well-timed addition to the winter diet of the 3201 persons participating in the Stamp Plan in New Castle County.

In announcing the December list, Mr. Nicholas Magnasco, local representative of the Surplus Marketing Administration, stated that the Stamp Plan is now playing an integral part in the Department of Agriculture's "Food for Freedom" program by affording farmers a wider and wider market for their increased production.

Farmers have been asked for enormous increases in production of many food products as a part of National Defense.

In order that local farm groups will be penalized for their patriotism, the Stamp Plan is functioning as a protective market channel for this increased production. At the same time it is contributing to improved diets and health of those participating in the Stamp Plan.

The complete list of Blue Stamp Foods for December is as follows: Butter, pork, shell eggs, corn meal, hominy (corn) grits, raisins, dried prunes, dry white beans, fresh vegetables (including potatoes), fresh grapefruit, fresh oranges, fresh pears, fresh apples, wheat flour and enriched wheat flour, whole wheat (graham) flour, self-raising flour and enriched self-raising flour.

PARENTS CORNER

A weekly contribution of timely and helpful suggestions for the benefit of parents and children alike, written and submitted by local members of the Parent-Teachers Association.

Peace For Our Children

As the season of "peace on earth—goodwill toward men" is at hand, we are confronted with the problem of teaching peace to our children in a world obsessed by war. How are we to sing carols proclaiming love, calmness, and holiness in these times of chaos and hysteria?

More than ever before parents should see the dire need of making the home a haven from the stress and strain of outside upheaval. We cannot disregard the plight of the world. Yet our homes should provide a place for finding quietude and rest. There should, perhaps, be less listening to tense broadcasts of war news when the children are around and fewer stirring recitations of the events of the day particularly at meal time. Substitute for these, programs of Christmas music, or conversation in a lighter vein.

In choosing stories for your child to hear at bed-time, think particularly now whether this story will be soporific or whether it will leave your child wide-eyed and afraid of the dark. By all means, censor the movies which you permit your child to see if, indeed, you feel that your son or daughter is old enough for movies. It isn't a sacrifice to permit yourself to hum a gay tune while the children are present.

By giving the appearance of calm, you will be able to transfer to those around you a more tranquil outlook. As one writer has so aptly said, "Fundamentally, I believe we can help our children to want to live peacefully, only if we so wish to live ourselves."

Let us teach our children that, in their relations with one another and in their associations with playmates, they must have tolerance for the wishes of others, respect for their personal belongings, and a generous amount of patience. The golden rule should be repeated often in the home, not as an empty phrase but as a desirable rule of conduct. Parents, ours is the responsibility for inculcating in the next generation a love of peace and a knowledge of the things which are necessary to maintain it. In this way, we may succeed in laying the foundation for peaceful settlement of international disputes, a goal which the mere "outlawing" of war has failed utterly to attain.

CORN LOAN FOR 1941

Corn loans are now available for producers in Delaware at a rate of 84 cents a bushel in commercial areas and 83 cents a bushel in non-commercial areas, according to R. O. Stelzer, executive assistant of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for Delaware. Commercial corn areas in Delaware are New Castle and Kent Counties. Sussex County is designated as a non-commercial area.

To be eligible for a loan under the corn loan program, farmers have their corn stored on the farm in an approved storage or in commercial elevators. Farm storage must afford protection against rodents, other animals, thieves and weather. For those corn producers who are interested in securing a loan, Stelzer says that a supervisor from the AAA committee will, at the request of Delaware farmers, inspect the storage space and secure a sample of the corn. This sample of corn will be used to determine the moisture of the corn since the loan rate of 84 cents a bushel is based upon corn containing not more than 20.5 per cent moisture and grading number three or better.

Delaware corn growers may receive loans on either shelled or ear corn. In the case of shelled corn, moisture content cannot be more than 13.5 per cent. Corn loans are now available and may be secured by Delaware farmers until March 31, 1942. Corn producers having excess corn on hand who wish to put it under loan should contact their local county agricultural agent or their county AAA committeeman for further details.

THREAT TO THE PRESS

The greatest threat to our vaunted freedom of the press is not the possibility of censorship. Rather it is the imposition of unnecessary economic controls masquerading as steps in the national defense interest.

So far the threat has been directed at the advertising department. The Attorney General sent a questionnaire to many advertisers to find out how much and in what ways they spend money, and for what purpose. It has been proposed in Washington that brand names be eliminated, and that articles be sold as soap, candy, or what have you. This, of course, would virtually kill advertising. And without advertising support, the cost of a newspaper would be out of reach to most buyers.

There is a very general impression that advertising adds considerably to the retail price of goods. The fact is that when it has been intelligently used to increase the sale of articles in common use, it has resulted in improving the quality and lowering the price. Some interesting testimony on that phase of advertising was given before the House Judiciary Committee by W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil Company, (N. J.), which spends millions each year in advertising. He told the Committee:

"Although the sums expended for advertising by some companies are large, it is easy to exaggerate the part of the customer's gasoline dollar which is spent for advertising. If all the advertising expenditures of the industry were charged to gasoline alone, it is probable that they would represent less than a quarter of a cent per gallon."

As a matter of fact, a large proportion of the advertising money has been applied to other products and services. Even if it were all covered in the price of gasoline, it would not mean much to a motorist who learned that on a purchase of ten gallons, he had contributed 2½¢ for advertising and 60¢ for state and Federal sales taxes.

NO ROAD TO RICHES

No profession performs a greater service for the American people than medicine. Upon the doctor falls the great task of keeping us physically and mentally healthy. And the typical doctor does that job without regard to his own comfort, his own pleasure or his own purse.

To become a doctor takes ten years of rigorous education. And after graduation many more years must go by before the young medico can hope to develop a sizable practice. Yet the financial rewards that come to the doctor are extremely moderate in the light of the long and costly training he must undergo.

"Medical Economics" recently published a survey of the gross income of some 7,500 representative men of medicine. Slightly more than 50 per cent of these doctors had incomes ranging from $1,500 to $6,500 a year. Less than 5 per cent had incomes of more than $16,500. And only seven-tenths of one per cent enjoyed incomes in excess of $30,500.

These incomes, remember, are gross incomes. Out of them must be paid all the doctor's heavy expenses—office, supplies, nurses, transportation, etc.—before he has anything left for himself.

Medicine, in short, is no road to riches, and all doctors know it. Doctors of great reputation, with very large practices, are often modest earners—because so much of their work is done without pay. The poor man who can pay little or nothing gets the same attention from the doctor as does the rich man who can pay much. The goal of medicine is service to all.

Giant pandas brought to this country from Western China have been unlucky, seldom surviving more than two or three years. The latest to die was the 260-pound female panda, Pandora, of the Bronx Zoo. Her intended mate, Pan, died last year. One or two of these interesting animals also died at Chicago's Brookfield Zoo in recent years.

FOOD for THOUGHT

"Value Received From Meat"

BY

Charlotte Spencer Hurley

For many people, meat is what makes a meal appetizing and attractive. Meat has nutritive value, too, to recommend it. Lean meat is one of our best protein foods and is also a good supply of iron and the vitamin B complex (thiamin, riboflavin and nicotinic acid).

A good cook can make an inexpensive cut of meat into a delicious meal while a poor cook can make the most expensive cut of steak tough and flavorless. Yet the rules for meat cooking are simple and easy to follow.

The method of cooking meat must be suited to the cut. Dry heat (roasting, broiling and frying) brings out the flavor of tender steaks, chops and roasts while it toughens less tender meat. Most cuts of pork and lamb can be cooked successfully by dry heat but only certain cuts of beef and veal are tender enough to be cooked without moisture. Tender steaks, hamburgs, ribs and loin roasts of beef, and veal leg, shoulder and loin roasts come in the group suited to dry heat.

Shrinkage occurs when meat is cooked. For example, one pound of uncooked hamburger may make only three-fourths of a pound of cooked meat. This shrinkage is increased by high temperatures. Searing of meat before roasting is considered old fashioned since it does not seal the juices as was formerly thought, and it does increase the loss due to shrinkage. A slow oven (300° — 350° F) is now recommended for roasting.

Meat tender enough to roast should be cooked uncovered. A covered roast is really a pot roast since the meat cooks in steam. A roast should always be cooked with the fat side up as the melting fat dripping down eliminates the need for basting.

Broiling and frying are best done at moderate temperatures to prevent shrinkage.

Moist heat is suitable for less expensive, tougher cuts of meat, particularly beef and veal. Moist heat is provided by covering meat during cooking and by adding water or other liquid. Vinegar or acid fruit juices such as tomato or lemon makes meat more tender because the acid dissolves away some of the tough fibre. Stewing, braising, pot roasting and broiling are all methods of moist cooking and are suitable for such cuts of beef round, brisket, chuck, neck, plate, flank, and veal breast, chops, cutlet and stew meat.

Glandular meats are richer in vitamins and iron than are muscle meats. Liver, heart, kidney and sweetbreads are the glandular organs most commonly eaten.

Broiled and fried liver is most successful if cooked about ten minutes since overcooking makes it dry and leathery, or liver may be baked in a slow oven in a closely covered container.

Kidneys are generally cooked by broiling for about ten minutes. Heart should be cooked slowly by moist heat either in the oven or on top of the stove.

Meat is usually the most costly part of the meal. Careful preparation of all meat purchased and a knowledge of how to cook the inexpensive cuts can insure value received for the money spent.

R. D. Kenyon of Providence, R. I., received through the mail a pocketbook he had lost with its contents intact except for a $5 bill. In its place was a note saying: "Finders keepers; losers weepers."

CREATING THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

"Mother, how long is it now, before Christmas?" asked eight year old Beryl Mann.

"Four weeks. Why, dear?"

"Oh, nothing, only I was wondering what Santa Claus will bring me."

"That is hard to tell. What do you want him to bring you? Anything in particular?"

"Yes, lots of things. I was afraid I would forget some of them, so I wrote them down. See?" She gave the paper to her mother.

"Why, Beryl, dear, what a long list! Surely, you don't want all of these things?"

"Yes, I do, Mother—every single one of them." The words were insistent and a little hard. To the mother, they drove home the fact that her child was thinking only of herself. It was a shock. How had she let such an unhappy attitude develop? She did some rapid calculating. Now was the time for quick thought and action.

"Shall I get them?" The child sensed her mother's indecision.

"We'll see. It's early yet. What have you planned?"

"What—have—I—planned? Nothing but the things on that list."

"No, dear, you don't understand me. I mean, what gifts for others do you have in mind?"

"I haven't any. Who for?"

"Why, for your relatives and friends, Beryl, and there are other little children less fortunate than yourself, for whom the Christmas season promises very little this year. Perhaps you can help make it a really Merry Christmas for some of them."

"Aw, there's nothing I can do."

"I'm sure there is." The mother began speaking of first one person, then another, and what would please them. Soon the child became interested, and contributed ideas of her own. Then she grew enthusiastic, and eager to begin. She was learning the joy of thinking of others, and of planning for their pleasure. Her mother was learning that children should be given a full share in Christmas planning and doing.

Boys and girls, like adults, need first of all the true Christmas spirit. That may be stimulated by telling them over and over the always new story of the Christ Child. They never tire of hearing it. Christmas songs and verses add much.

Children should always be given a share in making Christmas very real. To do that they must understand the happiness that results from generosity. To know from experience the joy of unselfishness is a gift beyond price. Let us grant them that gift by teaching them to be unselfish—leading them to think more about others than about themselves, more of giving than of receiving.

They should be permitted to put up the usual decorations, and to trim the tree, to help with the extra baking and cooking. At first, no doubt, they will be more of a hindrance than a help, but they will be learning a valuable lesson and later their help will be a great comfort. They should have a chance now to enjoy the Christmas hustle, bustle, sights, smells and sounds.

One doesn't need to go to a lot of extra expense to create this kind of Christmas happiness for the children. Children enjoy making little cakes and cookies. Nicely arranged boxes and baskets are always a pleasure. They may be filled with cookies, tiny cakes, popcorn balls, homemade candy, jelly, or numerous other good things. There are many gifts, clever and useful, that may be made at home. And how much the recipient does appreciate even a trifle made by a child's small hands. Encourage the youthful givers to arrange all gifts as attractively as possible. Such acts of thoughtfulness for others will leave stabilizing memories of kind, generous, understanding home-folks.

Don't forget: the joy of unselfishness is a gift beyond price and you may give this gift to your children this Christmas.

Weekly Sermon

"Sing Unto The Lord"

By Dr. Henry Ostrom, Member of Extension Staff Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

Text: "And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously."—Exodus 15:21

Moses had brought Israel across the Red Sea and had thus delivered them from Egypt, the land of slavery. As the people gather along the shore and see their enemies drowned in the sea, will Miriam suggest to Moses that since the Red Sea victory had been so miraculous he should issue a manifesto? Will she ask that a dozen illustrious signatures appear beneath his own, that those who bear the names might be celebrated through future centuries? No, Miriam suggests that the people sing.

Now, we know that there is great variety in singing. But beyond the tones and the words there must have been a reason for the first singing. Probably we reach the root by contrasting the word saying with the word singing. Saying is an effort to express thought. But what is singing? It occurs after saying has failed. The soul of the sayer struggles and strives, it grasps for help, and then it lays hold of melody, only to find that its range is vast like mountains and vales, and that at each altitude it is harmonious—so it sings. Singing, then, is something vaster than saying. Saying is roofed-in, but singing ranges to the sky. Singing is confined to its dooryard, but singing reaches beyond the skyline.

Miriam considered its richness, for she caroled, "Sing to the Lord." Oh, then she was trying to tell the Lord something as it should be told. He was her audience. Men and women might listen on the side, but she was singing to Jehovah. Did He not originate music for this very use? Let us not abuse it.

Man has suffered much loss, but music is still here. Weeping and wailing have not succeeded in annihilating it. Like its source, it never dies. Miriam was celebrating the Red Sea victory, but had she known it, her exhortation fits over centuries of time and well accords with the Christian life today. For is it not written, "In the midst of the congregation will I sing praises unto thee"? And who is this "in the midst"? Who is this leading the singing but our Lord? Hear it then, "Sing unto the Lord." Oh, yes, singing is greater than saying or He would never lead it. "The Man of Sorrows" is the Lord of melody.

FACULTY MEMBERS NEEDED AT UNIVERSITY

Shown 26 Per Cent Enrollment Has Increase During Past 10 Years

During the past 10 years, the number of students enrolled in engineering courses increased by more than 26 per cent, Dr. Walter Hullihen informed the Board of trustees on Saturday in stressing the University of Delaware's need of additional faculty members, especially in the engineering departments. The course in chemical engineering has been so greatly enlarged in scope, that five, instead of four years are now needed for study, he pointed out.

In other engineering departments, courses have been added to keep pace with the advance of engineering knowledge. He said he hoped the next session of the Assembly will appropriate at least the amounts necessary to provide an adequate teaching staff, even if it is unable to grant amounts needed for repairs and capital improvements.

The report pointed out that the university received nation-wide publicity as a result of the work of the department of dramatics.

The new dormitory for men will probably be ready for use by the end of the college year, Dr. Hullihen told the board.

Among recent gifts to the university officially reported to the board were the first unit of a field house, the gift of R. M. Carpenter, a trustee; rare tapestries for the art gallery of the Memorial Library from Mr. and Mrs. H. F. duPont; valuable additions to the library from H. Fletcher Brown, T. G. Geesey, and others. Funds for two lecture series arranged by the fine arts and English departments have been provided by Mrs. Robert Wheelwright, Thomas Bayard, H. F. duPont, H. Rodney Sharp, and Robert H. Richards.

A contribution from Miss Amy E. duPont has made it possible to add a new instructor in the home economics department. Mr. Sharp also has provided new uniforms and additional instruments for the band and has given funds for further development of the park area south of the library.

REDUCE AND LIKE IT!

Says Katharine Fisher

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

A reducing-diet regimen need not take the joy out of life. On the contrary, it adds to it in the form of a trim figure and a new feeling of well-being. In recommending a reducing program, doctors warn patients about the perils of a restricted diet; so you may continue eating most of the foods you like, but cut down on the quantity of the high-calorie foods—that is, cream, butter, other fats, sweets, and foods relatively high in starch, like cereals, potatoes, lima beans, macaroni, etc.

It is really a question of budgeting your calories, so have a list of typical servings of foods and their calorie value at hand for constant reference. We have such a list available. This list will make it easy for you to figure out your daily allowance of calories when planning your meals.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of
Good Housekeeping
Institute

If at first you keep a careful daily record of the calories your meals are giving you, it will not be long before you need check up on them only now and then. For you will have learned about how many calories this and that food in certain amounts will add. That little bit of cream on your fruit, the extra pat of butter you take in a forgetful moment, the sprinkle of sugar in your coffee, add hundreds of calories all too quickly. That is why you should keep careful count of them if you are taking this reducing business seriously. A food is "fattening" only as it adds to the total daily calories taken in.

Make generous use of the low-calorie foods—the leafy, green vegetables and fruits—for being bulky they give you a feeling of satisfaction without adding up the calories, and they richly contribute to the vitamins and minerals in your diet. As in cutting down so drastically on the day's calories you can use so little butter and cream—foods that are rich in vitamin A—you will realize that it is necessary to depend more than usual upon the leafy green vegetables for your supply of this vitamin.

Use salt very sparingly in cooking and seasoning your food at the table, as it invites increase in weight. Avoid the habit of eating between meals; but if you get hungry, drink some tomato juice, or a cup of hot broth or clear tea with lemon. Get out for long walks when you can; they will speed up the weight-and-girth losing.

Use oil dressings sparingly for your salads, sometimes substituting cooked dressing, which is of lower calorie value, or a little seasoned lemon juice or vinegar. A dressing of mineral oil is appetizing and has no calorie value; but consult your doctor before using it, as you would before using saccharine for sweetening your tea or coffee.

Consult your doctor before starting any reducing regimen. Find out if you are fat from overeating and underexercising, and not because you are a gland case or a constitutionally obese type. It is because attempts at reducing may result in serious damage that the physician resents reducing programs undertaken without adequate medical supervision. "See your doctor before you begin any reducing routine" is sound health advice.

UNSELFISHLY, "OLD MAN," WE'RE not going to ask you to present that over-laden sack of yours with presents for yourself—but we would like to see you take good care of our friends, all of whom, we assure you, are very, very good little girls and boys.

AT A TIME LIKE this, with thousands of men in service and an increasing number of army camps to visit in addition to your regular residential calls, and when every kid from six to sixty has the "gimmies," we know it would be asking too much to have our requests granted on Christmas Day, so if you will pay periodic visits throughout the next year and deliver the requested packages, we'll be extremely grateful.

FOR ADOLPH HITLER AND COMPANY—a complete reckoning for all the death and destruction wrought during its murderous campaign; continued defeat in Libya and Russia, and a successful uprising in the occupied countries.

Winston Churchill will thank you profusely for Adolph's carcass in a pine box; Mussolini will appreciate an excuse to get out of this mess, and Franklin Delano Roosevelt is looking forward to complete control of the Pacific during 1942.

BILL GILLESPIE, NEWARK HIGH School mentor, is looking forward to receiving a barn to house that young "horse," and a full-grown St. Bernard to team up with the Doberman that gives him an early workout every morning. He could also use "greedy, ain't he?" a few experienced gridders for next year's team.

Bill Murray, University of Delaware grid mentor, can use an abundant supply of reserve material next year and you can also claim a victory over Gettysburg into his stocking.

FOR ED PRINCE, BLUE HEN Athletic business manager, a font of "r's" to fill out that New England accent; for Bill (Shack) Martin, a bottle of liniment to reduce "mysterious swellings," and for Emory Adkins, an oversized vest to allow for chest swelling when he speaks of "my son, my son."

E. Earle Weggenman, M. D., whose calls are more frequent at homes where there are electric trains, wants a toy locomotive of his own (all the kids in town want him to get one too) and a megaphone to broadcast ALL that information he gives out on Delaware football players.

Ed Bardo needs a crying towel, an extra big one, because of the death of experienced tank material and the Hens' swimming mentor can always find use for a supply of cigarettes (a standing order). Bill Lawrence needs a piggy bank to salt away the two bucks he won from us during the soccer season and also a wad of cotton to stuff in his ears to keep out the drone of airplane motors. His house is right on the "beam."

For Freddie (Cradle Rocker) Mitchell, a book of lullabies to croon to his one and only... Hiram (Wizard) Lopez, bigger and better "fish" at the State, and Walter Martin, a little longer reach for impromptu sparring matches.

The only thing George Walker, Deer Park barkeeper wants for Christmas is World Peace... we hope he gets it... for Charlie Colmery, the eatin'est man in the state of Delaware, bigger and better banquets... the girls at Rhodes could use a strong-armed bouncer to throw out all those customers who invade the place at one minute of ten.

Miss Mary Thomas, Newark Post stenographer, would be more than glad to receive a soda fountain for office use and an alarm clock... for Dick Weaver, slave driver around this establishment, the standing order of a black snake whip... you might throw in a Royal Flush for this Friday night poker sessions, and a short-priced winner at any track (if the odds ain't less than 2-1, he won't bet 'em).

TO BILL FLETCHER: A pair of spurs to keep his feet from sliding off his desk, and a box of vitamin pills—he can use them!

John F. Sparklin, compositor, would find plenty of use for a pair of roller skates for daily trips between the office and the Pennsy station... and for Harry Balling, pressman, one—just one—winner at Delaware Park next year. You can leave Lib Taylor a box of powder to whiten up the red nose she walks in with one cold winter mornings.

MITCHELL PACING BLUE HEN CAGERS

Leader Has Racked Up 25 Points In Two Games

Captain Freddie Mitchell, with a total of 25 points, is pacing the University of Delaware cagers in the scoring column, while Conrad Sadowski, long-shot artist, is close on his heels with a total of 19.

The Blue Hens, who nosed out Pennsylvania Military College in the 1941-42 debut, 52-51 in five-minute overtime period, have retired from action until after the Christmas holidays after dropping their second start to West Chester State Teachers College, 38-30.

Mitchell enjoyed a field night against the Cadets, rolling up 21 points while Sadowski collected 15. The Hen leader has countered 12 times from the field, once from the charity stripe, while Sadowski has dropped in eight action shots and is credited with three fouls.

Barney Runcie, outstanding freshman prospect, has also fared well, with six double deakers and two fouls for 14 points. Harold (Buck) Thompson, promising recruit who compiled a brilliant record at Franklin and Marshall Prep last year, has yet to hit stride and has been held to 11 points, three two pointers and five fouls, in the two games.

Other scorers are: George Barlow, 6; Wade Pitt, 5, and Vic Lee and Fred Spots, 1 each. The Hens have rolled up 82 points while two opponents have been accounting for 90.

SECOND PERIOD PROVES TRAGIC AS TEACHERS DOWN BLUE HENS, 38-30

Rivals Outscore Blue And Gold 20-4, Trail In Three Other Stanzas, But Emerge With Win; Delaware Now Idle Until Jan. 10

A tragic second period in which they were outscored 20-4, cost the University of Delaware cagers a victory Friday night in the Wilmington Armory as West Chester State Teachers' College sent the Hens tumbling, 38-30.

Coach Emory Adkins' charges fared well enough in the three other quarters, outscoring their rivals 6-6 in the opening stanza, 10-5 in the third, and 8-7 in the fourth, but the second period deficit proved too much to overcome.

Delaware held the upper hand through the greater part of the opening period. After trailing in the first three minutes, George Barlow finally put the Hens in front at 6-4 with an action goal and the Blue and Gold held an 8-4 advantage at the completion of the period.

But with Fred Messick setting a blistering pace, the Teachers took complete command in the second session and held a 26-12 half-time advantage. Delaware staged a desperate rally in the two closing periods and managed to outscore the West Chester quarter in both sessions, but the gap finally proved too big to close.

West Chester gained a 15-0 advantage from the field, but Delaware led at the penalty mark 12-8. Messick, with six field goals and two fouls, was the scoring leader of the contest with 14 points. Buck Thompson was high for Delaware with six points.

The West Chester tilt climaxed the Hens' pre-Christmas campaign. They are not slated to swing into action again until Saturday, Jan. 10, when Washington College will invade Taylor Gymnasium.

Coach Ed Bardo's tankmen, who have not seen action this year, are not slated to see action until Jan. 14, when they invade Swarthmore, Pa., for the 1941 debut.

ORCHARD NOTES ARE CONCLUDED

Last Edition
Sent Out By Dr. L. A. Stearns

Many Delaware fruit growers have now received the last edition of the 1941 Orchard Spray Notes offered by the Entomology, Horticulture and Plant Pathology Departments of the University of Delaware, the State Board of Agriculture and the county Extension offices of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

Compiled and presented by Dr. L. A. Stearns, entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. K. J. Kadow, plant pathologist for the State Board of Agriculture, the letter contains facts on fall spraying and the control of peach leaf curl, scale insects and red mite.

Stearns and Kadow point out that many Delaware fruit growers have asked about the advisability of spraying their peaches in the fall instead of in the spring. For peach curl is highly recommended since spring weather conditions do not always permit applications before the buds begin to swell.

Use of oil in fall dormant spraying, however, is not recommended for either peaches or apples. Stearns and Kadow say that experiments indicate injury may result if oil is used in the fall.

Copies of the last letter of the 1941 Orchard Spray Notes may be obtained from George M. Worrlow, New Castle County agricultural agent, whose office is located in Newark. These county agents will be glad to give a copy of this letter to residents of Delaware requesting it.

the stockings to be made by a Wilmington WPA sewing unit. Members of Troop No. 55, Newark Boy Scouts, packed the stockings and gifts under the direction of Dr. John R. Downes and William H. Cunningham. Boxes were prepared for shipping by J. R. Wood and Elmer J. Ellison.

Gift stockings and packages were placed in three business houses for display and the posters used were prepared by students of the art department at the Newark schools. Greeting cards sent with each gift were provided by Mrs. Edna Sparks and George Worrlow.

Mr. Riley had been in bed for a few days, but his family did not consider his condition serious. He is survived by a wife, three brothers, Thomas Riley of Newark, Nelram Riley of Altoona, and Lawrence Riley of Chester; and one sister, Mrs. Frank Bradley of Wilmington.

Mr. Riley for a number of years was a partner in the Riley Brothers meat market, and has many friends in Newark. The body will be brought here tomorrow. High Mass will be held in the St. John's Catholic Church at ten-thirty. Interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

FOOD IS VITAL IN WAR CRISIS

America Must Be Larder As Well As Arsenal

One of our greatest assets in the world conflict into which we have been plunged is the health and morale of our people, and a major factor in maintaining that health and morale is food. In these days of total war, nations, like armies, "march on their stomachs." The speed with which we achieve final victory will be largely determined in 1942 by our ability to produce and distribute the foods essential to national health.

In no field will the complete unity of agriculture and industry be more important than in the food field, for America must be the larder as well as the arsenal of democracy. Agriculture is prepared to produce a greater quantity of foodstuffs than this nation has ever known. Already, our armed forces are getting more and better food than ever before in our national history, but it is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines shall be better fed and better nourished.

This means that food distributors have a grave responsibility to redouble their efforts to reduce the cost of moving merchandise from producer to consumer. There must be intensive effort to eliminate spoilage and waste motion in the great effort on which we are embarked. Every effort should be made to reduce unnecessary handling operations and costs.

The experience of chain stores has prepared them for this job. In recent years efficient mass distributors have devised means of moving fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs, poultry and dairy products direct from farm to retail outlet with a resultant reduction in the cost to consumers and an increase in the returns to producers.

Fortunately, the way has been cleared for such cooperative effort during the past year. Producers and distributors, working together in production areas all over the country, have worked out plans for the orderly marketing of farm produce. The machinery thus established can be geared to the tremendous job we have to do.

Today, with the nation at war, no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest—and the general public interest requires that all citizens work together wholeheartedly to speed final victory.
