Wilburfest in hands of city, police

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The City of Newark now has the power to control the annual backyard bash, Wilburfest, held by University of Delaware students.

Council members voted unanimously Monday evening to amend its large gathering ordinance to include private property functions that charge admission to 500 or more people.

The new language was drafted at Councilman Hal Godwin's request, who unsuccessfully motioned to ban the party before it happened May 7. He objected to using taxpayers' money for police and safety, noise and traffic problems ultimately shouldered by Wilbur Street neighbors.

Wilburfest organizers will be required to get a permit for the party, attended by as many as 5,000 people, from the Chief of Police, Bill Hogan. This places the event in the same category as races and parades.

The burden now rests on Chief Hogan, who reviews permit applications for special traffic and safety provisions.

What will Hogan do if students apply for a permit for Wilburfest 1995?

"I've never denied a special event permit in my tenure as Chief," Hogan said. "I don't believe the ordinance passed on Monday night was intended to stop Wilburfest."

However, he did say he was "very concerned about the nature of activity going on later in the day."

Schooley appointed to Christina Board

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Following the graduation of her youngest daughter from Newark High last June, Terry Schooley — a very active parent in the Christina School District for years — wasn't sure what she was going to do with the time she used to spend in the schools. That won't be a problem any longer.

Schooley, 47, was appointed to the Christina School District Board of Education at Tuesday night's school board meeting at Christiana-Salem Elementary School. The former teacher (presently the director of development and public affairs for Planned Parenthood) will fill seat C which was vacated by Susan Mitchell, who resigned to in August to pursue a teaching career.

Christina's newest board member was chosen from a group of four people — Dr. Janet Crouse, Christopher G. Long and Dr.

Andrew W. Zimmerman were the other three — who were granted interviews by the board. The four came from an original pool of seven applicants.

Schooley was appointed by collecting four votes compared to two for Crouse — a former school board member, who was defeated by Mitchell in a 1993 election.

"It's very exciting," Schooley said. "I'm humbled by the faith that the board has placed in me by appointing me. And I'm humbled by the support from parents and teachers — who wrote letters to the board on my behalf."

"My kids went through the Christina School District and we were very impressed with the quality of education. I really just want to give something back."

The board will swear Schooley in at the Nov. 15 school board meeting at Drew-Pyle Elementary in Wilmington.

Schooley feels her experience as

MBNA buys Du Pont's Louviers site and golf course

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Who is the most pleased to hear that MBNA America is planning to buy a major portion of the DuPont Louviers?

Job hunters, decorators and MBNA golfers were definitely among the most pleased. Bill and Betty Davis, who own the Shell station across the street from the Louviers parking lot got an answer to their prayers.

When the Davis family started negotiations in 1992 to build the station, Mr. Davis said DuPont supported them 100 percent.

Despite DuPont's announcement to close Louviers in November, the parking lot was still full when the Davis family started to build the station, which includes a deli counter, convenience store and car wash, in early 1994.

The same day the station opened its doors for business, DuPont moved its last employees out of the building.

"We were in total shock when DuPont made the announcement they were going to close the facility in November," said Mr. Davis. "We've been praying for someone to buy it since it closed."

The Davis' said they look forward to meeting their new neighbor and anticipate a good relationship. Coincidentally, their daughter works for MBNA.

There is certainly another group happy to see MBNA move into Louviers — the Metroform Area Council of Civic Associations.

Five people — Ronald R. Russo, Diane Fratantoni, Pete Jones, Rose Marie Curran and Dennis Swartzfager — were inducted into the St. Mark's High School Hall of Honors recently. Russo, the school's current principal, also received the prestigious Anna V. Graham Award for his dedication to St. Mark's and Catholic education. Russo is only the third individual ever to win the Graham Award.

Shue School's Clark named Christina's Teacher of the Year

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Enthusiasm, communication and involvement are some of the key reasons that Alan Clark was named Christina School District's 1994 Teacher of the Year.

Clark, who has taught math at Shue-Medill Middle School for the past 16 years, was honored at Tuesday night's Christina School Board meeting at Christiana-Salem Elementary.

"It's a very humbling experience," said Clark, who has been a classroom teacher for 21 years. "It's also very, very exciting. It's especially nice to be honored by your peers."

"It's been a great, great experience. I've had a lot of good support. I have to thank Jeff Pyle, who I've worked with, for being so supportive."

Clark's impressive resume includes numerous words of support from former students.

"Alan Clark was the math teacher that changed my whole attitude when it came to numbers," said Kelly Reynolds, now a teacher in the Red Clay Consolidated School District. "He made numbers and confusing word problems speak to me in a language that finally made sense. His magic ingredients were six simple words 'I believe in you, Kelly Reynolds.'"

The praise isn't confined to students. "He constantly encourages students to do their best and they usually perform well for him," said Shue principal Bob Adams. "Alan Clark is an exemplary teacher in every sense of the word. He's an incredible teacher, who goes far beyond what you would expect in reaching his students, whose well-being and education are con-

Police said Happy Harry's got back all the merchandise except for a bag of potato chips the customer had already eaten. Total damages were $1.49.

Chrysler driver harassed

Between 8 and 8:15 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 3, the driver of a Mopar parts vehicle reported to police that a white male in a cream colored Dynasty followed him out of Chrysler and made obscene hand gestures and pretended to make his hand into a gun and shoot him. According to police records, the driver of the Dynasty, which had an Agency Rent-A-Car sticker on the window, moved in front of the parts driver, got out of his car and continued making the hand gestures, forcing the parts driver to sit through two or three green lights. The man driving the Dynasty did not follow the parts driver when he exited off Del. 896 onto I-95 southbound.

Party gives lose loot

Hosts of a party Friday night, Oct. 7, reported to police the next day at 7:37 p.m. that stereo equipment worth more than $550 was missing from their home. Police said 15 to 20 people were at the party, but they are still investigating leads.

A bike was reportedly taken during party in an apartment on East Main Street at about 12:05 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 9. About 40 people attended the party, and police are still investigating.

Malin's burglary foiled

Burglars who had reportedly pried the boards off a window and entered Malin's Market at 812 South College Avenue, were scared away, according to police, when an alarm sounded. The attempt occurred on Sunday, Oct. 9, at 3:46 a.m. Police are still investigating suspects.

Jewelry taken from home

Police report someone broke into a house Friday, Sept. 30 at 1 p.m., on Hidden Valley Road and stole about $1,500 worth of jewelry. Police said the burglar entered the house through a kitchen window after unsuccessfully trying to break in through the home's rear sliding glass door, a bar prevented the door from opening. Police believe the burglar(s) went straight for the master bedroom and took a jewelry box and its contents. Various camera and stereo equipment on the first floor was untouched, according to police. Police responded to an alarm at the house, and are currently investigating.

Warrant out for business burglar

Newark police have an arrest warrant on file for a 19-year-old Middletown man in connection with the May 25 burglary of Captain Blue Hen Comics and Cards on Main Street.

Police believe this man and possibly acquaintances of his are connected with the rash of business burglaries in Newark this summer.

More than 20 City of Newark businesses were burglarized during the months of May through August.

Newark Police Lt. Roy Clough said police are currently in the process of working to extradite the man to Delaware, because he is currently in police custody in Virginia for a burglary there.

Clough said William R. Marsh III, 19, of Middletown is facing charges of burglary third, theft over $500 and criminal mischief over $1,500.

Clough said on Sept. 9 Newark and Delaware State police executed a search warrant at Marsh's home in the 200 block of Oak Drive in Middletown. Police recovered items believed to be stolen in the burglary including comic books, comic book trading cards and an electronic sign belonging to Blue Hen Comics.

Lee to challenge DiLiberto in 14th

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Local school teacher Brian Lee (R) is challenging incumbent Richard DiLiberto (D) for his seat in the Delaware House of Representatives in the 14th district (Newark East).

Lee, 29, a reading specialist at Jennie Smith Elementary School, said although he has never run for office before it's something he's always been interested in doing. "I'm active in the community (as a volunteer for the Christiana Fire Co.) and I've become aware of people's concerns and issues facing the community," Lee said. "Being people oriented, I think I would be well-suited for this position."

DiLiberto, 33, has been in office since 1992 and said he is running for reelection because, "I think Delaware is the corporate capital but I think it should also be the people capital," he said. DiLiberto said the theme for his campaign is "People matter."

Priorities for DiLiberto are fighting crime and improving justice, education and classroom discipline and improving quality of life through clean air, water, preserving open space and a strong economy.

DiLiberto is a trial lawyer with Young, Conaway, Stargatt & Taylor in Wilmington and this past term in Dover sponsored several laws updating and improving the efficiency of Delaware's court system.

He sponsored the Slayer's Act — which prevents murderers from inheriting from the victim's estate, a law which revamps the jury system and prevents delays for jurors, the computerization of the juror summoning process and established criminal jury trials in the Court of Common Pleas to decrease the backlog of trials in Delaware Superior Court.

Currently working to amend the Delaware Constitution of 1897 to make family court a constitutional court, DiLiberto hopes if reelected to continue this work. "I believe a court which deals with our kids should be represented as important as a court which deals with our criminals," he said. The amendment has passed the general assembly in 1994 and has to be approved a second time to go into effect.

DiLiberto has also served on the Delaware Judiciary Committee, Public Safety Committee and Commission on Delaware Courts 2000.

On the issue of crime, Lee said, criminals need to be serving the sentences they are given and the system should get away from plea bargaining. "But we also need to offer suitable rehabilitation so offenders do not become repeat offenders," Lee said.

Lee said the biggest concern on his mind is the quality of education. "We need to take a very sincere look at education, continue the forward progress but be very careful not to move away from the basics of a good sound educational foundation (such as reading and writing)," he said.

Lee said students, especially in the upper grades, need to be held accountable and face serious consequences when they break rules. On the issue of forced busing, Lee said, "We need to look at busing and weigh options to be sure desegregation is not put at risk as a result of a decision to stop it."

DiLiberto suggests that teachers in training be required to take courses in discipline and classroom management to prepare them to deal with classroom discipline problems.

He is against forced busing because, "money used transporting children could much better be used in the classroom to support programs already existing," DiLiberto said.

DiLiberto said he has secured funding for correcting street repairs and drainage problems throughout the district.

Lee said traffic in the area needs to be weighed against the overall natural environment.

A resident of Newark for four years, Lee has been married to his wife Nadine for six years.

A Newark resident for seven years, DiLiberto has been married to his wife Faith for 12 years. They have two daughters, ages 5 and 3.

Reed to face DeLuca in 11th

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

There will be a new voice for the Newark area District 11 State Senate seat, as Roger Martin (D) will step down after 22 years of service.

Newcomer Donna Reed (R), a teacher for home-bound students in the Red Clay and Christiana school districts announced her candidacy before Martin announced he would not seek reelection.

Soon after Martin announced his retirement, however, another political upstart, Anthony DeLuca (D), entered the race.

DeLuca, general business manager for the International Brotherhood of Electricians (IBEW) Local 313, won the democratic primary against Paul Clark (D), who was backed by Martin and other high-ranking party officials.

Although members of different parties, both candidates said education and crime were two of the biggest issues facing their district.

They agreed disruptive students need to be taken out of classroom, something DeLuca, who was recently endorsed by the DSEA and Fraternal Order of Police, believes is a problem that needs to be remedied before education can get a fair shot.

He said he supports alternate funding for schools, such as the "newfound" money to be made from the state's slot machine and equalization funding to balance poorer school districts with richer ones.

Reed added that truancy in schools needs to be controlled and said she supports a testing method that ensures students' progress since some objective tests do not compare results from previous tests.

Both believe measures to keep violent criminals in prison and community surveillance programs are important and they support alternate sentences, such as boot camps, half-way houses or community service, for non-violent criminals.

DeLuca said he wants to work with police to develop programs necessary to make people feel safe in their neighborhoods.

Reed said she wants to work toward getting delinquent juveniles their GEDs while in prison.

DeLuca went on to say transportation is the third biggest problem facing his district, while Reed said health care, family values and economic growth are the big issues.

DeLuca said he supports an expanded rail system, but "a good solution to every problem doesn't come cheap...instead of funding one new road after another, divert it into alternate transportation which will also help with the Clean Air Act."

Reed said she supports using the state's money surplus to lower taxes and hopefully stimulate new economic growth. She also wants to install programs that get students training for jobs before they graduate.

As far as road projects, Reed said she would like to see the Delaware Department of Transportation limited to one project at a time and force contractors to guarantee their work.

She said she wants to work for a "working pool" health care system that would allow small businesses and individuals to come together and get the same reduced rates large groups do.

Both candidates agreed healthcare should be tax deductible. DeLuca said his experience as chairman and trustee of IBEW's healthcare plan, which covers about 2,000 people, gives him the experience necessary to work towards his healthcare goals — "to insure everyone in increments, so it's fair to everyone."

There is one issue in this campaign, however, that has little to do with the candidates' issues.

Reed said she is concerned about DeLuca's strong ties to organized labor, saying, "I think it would be difficult for him to vote against a union."

DeLuca, who was opened to this criticism during the democratic primary race, speculated that if he worked for any other company for 28 years, "no one would be questioning me." He stressed that he doesn't have a legislative agenda that is influenced by organized labor.

"Organized labor is held to a higher standard in the state than any other," DeLuca said. "I don't mind being held to that high standard."

Reed and her husband of 14 years, Chris, have two boys, 11 and 8, who attend Stubbs School.

DeLuca and his wife, Janet, have one daughter, 18.

ON THE ISSUES...

THE BYPASS

The anticipated growth on the western and northern sides of Newark makes it absolutely essential that the proposed bypass be built. This road would run from where the current Christiana Parkway deadends at Elkton Road, around the city to Rt. 273 (Nottingham Road) and eventually to Rt. 896. This road is designed to remove substantial amounts of traffic, particularly trucks, passing through Newark from our streets.

We must build it in a way which does the least damage to existing residential neighborhoods. We must build it in a way which does the least damage to the environment. But we must build it.

It will not be easy. It's pretty clear a portion of the road will have to be located in Maryland, and that means getting two State Governments to cooperate.

Our legislators have forcefully advocated for this road for some time. However, DelDOT keeps telling me that they are not hearing from Newark citizens.

I propose an active, organized campaign to convince DelDOT of Newark's support for the bypass through letters to the Editor and the Governor, bumper stickers and billboards, if necessary.

Let us work together to get it done!

University of Delaware students are attempting to curb "a growing resentment" between students and Newark "townspeople" that was spurred by recent controversy surrounding the annual spring fling, Wilburfest.

"Things are on the verge of a so called breakdown," said Ron Lieberman, president of Delaware Undergraduate Student Congress (DUSC).

A proposed ordinance that sets new parameters for Wilburfest, which is held in the backyards of five homes on Wilbur Street and attended by as many as 5,000 people, sparked debate in the community and alerted members of DUSC.

Although students, city council and Emmaus House (which receives the proceeds from Wilburfest for its homeless family shelter) representatives are currently working toward a compromise or alternate location for the party, Lieberman said the anti-student sentiment prevails around Newark.

In fact, the anti student sentiment prevails at Town and Gown Committee meetings, the forum established in 1987 to advise city council of matters that deal with the relationship between Newark and the university, according to Lieberman.

"Students aren't these negative, disgusting Cretans from out-of-state," he said. "Which is what you feel when you go to Town and Gown meetings—you feel the resentment."

Hal Godwin, city councilman and chair of the Town and Gown committee, said the committee has been positive because it has better connected the university and city.

"If students are here for an education then we welcome them with open arms, but if they're here to have 200 Wilburfests we don't...respect for your neighbor is our (Town and Gown Committee) slogan," said Godwin.

One of the first solutions DUSC will attempt to remedy conflict of lifestyle problems, according to Lieberman, is the addition of a student seat on City Council to prevent city ordinances created "without sufficient student input."

"We realize that elections are the forum for deciding who sits on the City Council but having a university situated in a town is a unique, extraordinary situation that warrants special considerations," said Lieberman.

Newark City Secretary, Sue Lamblack, said there are no special considerations to be made, short of changing the city's charter, to include a student representative.

"They have to run for election just like everyone else," Lamblack said.

As far as city ordinances that affect students, Godwin said there are many intended to control and regulate off-campus student behavior, such as the Individual Parking Regulator (IPR).

IPRs are portable parking meters available from the city for about $115 (cheaper than a regular parking meter or university decal, according to Godwin) that university representatives protested.

"The meters were an attempt to give parking back to the people who live on residential streets," Godwin said. "People living on the streets complained there was never available parking because there were students parking there."

Another proactive move by DUSC is a Student Mediation Board. Lieberman said he hopes this will help student and resident neighbors solve their problems without involving the law.

Residents who have problems with students could report them to the Mediation Board and students could talk to students about problems, that may range from loud music to parking.

Lieberman speculated that residents who call the police with every student complaint create feelings of resentment and disrespect from students.

He suggested that students make restitution to their neighbors who have legitimate complaints, such as mowing the lawn or raking leaves, and if it doesn't work—then call the police.

The mediation board would be comprised of volunteers, possibly a few paid positions, and students would be trained to deal with conflict situations.

Lieberman cited Klondike Kate's recent threat to ban patrons wearing fraternity letters as another conflict of lifestyle.

"When you have someone that thinks there isn't going to be an uproar about this, then I wonder what else can happen?" Lieberman asked. "If the students are such terrible people, then why does everyone close up when we leave for the summer?"

Construction to start in Ogletown

The Delaware 273 Ogletown interchange took a step toward construction Tuesday, awarding a $20.8 million contract to Greggo & Ferraro, who won the job by bidding $1.1 million less than what the Delaware Department of Transportation had expected.

Work should begin late this year on the project that was stopped in 1988 after discovery of protected wetlands between Red Mill Rd. and Ogletown Rd.

When the new road finally opens Red Mill Rd. and Ogletown Rd. will be closed just north of Del. 4. DelDot did agree to keep the Avon underpass open as a one-way southbound link between Newark's emergency services and homes and businesses along

Cooches Bridge standoff ties up traffic

Two accused burglars caused a four-hour standoff between themselves and heavily armed police Tuesday afternoon at a house on Old Baltimore Pike just east of South College Ave.

Police spotted the suspects' car parked near the intersection of Old Baltimore Pike and South College Ave around 10 a.m. Shortly after, a police dog followed a scent trail to a home at 1001 Old Baltimore Pike, where the suspects broke in and hid.

Over 50 police joined the siege that was finally ended around 2:30 p.m. when police talked by phone to the men and urged them to surrender.

at this year's party. Wilburfest organizers agreed to end this year's party early due to rain and crowd behavior.

Hogan said he will need Wilburfest planners to submit an application that meets all the requirements of the ordinance and "then we'll evaluate it."

Landlords, who were silent until Monday night, and local residents were at the meeting to oppose the party, which is held in five backyards on Wilbur Street. Fran Wishman, representing Gregory Lawless—owner of two of the houses where Wilburfest is held, said she personally inspected the property after this year's party.

"It was a public urinal in the basement and there were broken bottles and windows broken out and mud on the floor and walls," said Wishman. "We aren't sanctioning this at all and prefer it is moved somewhere else."

Tim Herman, owner of Herman's Meat Market at the corner of Wilbur Street and Cleveland Avenue said, "Quite frankly to this point, one of the things our customers and families in the city don't understand is why the city allows a situation like this to take place in the center of our town...the situation is out of control and my personal request is it be moved elsewhere."

Wilburfest organizer Charissa Nasrallah, said she believed the party, which is for a "good cause" went "better than last year." This year's event raised about $23,000 for the Emmaus House—a shelter for homeless families located in Newark.

Nasrallah admitted that there are still problems. She said she has asked for help from the city and university but has received none.

"This is the one time of year we want to work with the community," Nasrallah said. "I wish we could do it all the time but unfortunately we do have other things to do, we do go to school."

Councilman Thomas Wampler criticized students for touting the event a fund raiser.

"The impression is given that it is primarily a fund raiser, but if the event were held and the money not given to charity, would people still come?" Wampler asked. "Maybe this isn't truly a fund raiser, maybe that's just an excuse."

Delaware Alcohol and Beverage Control Agents Dan Kline and James McNair, who attended Wilburfest in plain clothes, were on hand to address Nasrallah's assertion that this year's party "was better than" the last.

McNair called the event a "ticking time bomb" and Kline said he was "truly concerned about the welfare of students, police officers and agents."

"It was one of the most amazing parties I've ever been to and one of the largest I've been to where in my opinion, I believe there was a lot of underage drinking," Kline said.

The agents said the party grew so fast it would have been impossible for any officers to get through if an accident occurred.

Eventually, after about 12 arrests, McNair and Kline opted to leave because people who discovered they were agents began throwing beer cans at them.

Although community and law enforcement concerns were voiced during recent council meetings, freshman Councilman Gerald Grant, who represents the Wilbur Street area, wanted to know when Wilburfest became an issue.

"No one mentioned Wilburfest once when I was door knocking (campaigning)," said Grant. "The parties every weekend are more of a concern to homeowners than Wilburfest, which happens on one day for eight hours."

Moving Wilburfest to a new location was one solution everyone agreed would be best.

Finding a spot big enough for the crowd that also permits alcoholic consumption is proving to be a major feat.

a "hands-on" person will help her as a board member. She was a long-time member of the PTA, volunteered with the booster club and started the first After Prom at Newark High.

She also brings public relations and lobbying experience to the board.

"I'm a lobbyist," Schooley said. "I understand the General Assembly, I understand the political process. I do public relations work now and a large part of this job is having good relations with the community."

The Chapel Hill resident said not having to go through an election process wasn't her reason for wanting the vacant seat.

"It was just the right time," she said. "My youngest daughter graduated from high school last June. The timing was perfect. I probably would've run in May anyway."

Schooley will serve until May, when an election will be held. She plans to run at that time as well saying, "that she's not in this for just a couple of months".

Louviers site and golf course bought by MBNA

► LOUVIERS, from 1A

Members of the umbrella civic organization lobbied against MBNA's recent plans to expand its Westgate Complex, near Harmony Road and Del. 4, from about 900,000 square feet to 1.8 million square feet.

MBNA representatives said during negotiations with New Castle County it would build the additional space in three and one-half years. The company agreed to help fund road improvements and step up incentives for employee car pooling in return for the waiver it needed to begin additions to Westgate.

Meetings held before the county voted for MBNA's waiver included MBNA, state and county representatives and the Delaware Department of Transportation officials and residents. Residents asked the bank's officials why they wanted to build new space when Louviers was for sale.

MBNA officials said they did look at Louviers, but determined it wasn't feasible.

According to Peter Osborne of MBNA's investor relations department, the company has talked about a number of options in the "last couple years." "The price was attractive and is designed in such a way to accommodate our large department needs," said Osborne.

The company will delay expansion of its Westgate complex for two to three years, according to Osborne, and move its credit and business departments, more than 1,000 people, into Louviers.

Osborne said the company won't lease space to outside companies. MBNA plans to occupy more than 600,000 square feet in the main structure and 90,000 square feet in its engineering building.

Will this just move the traffic concerns from Metroform's backyard to Newark's backyard?

According to Bill Morris, who lives across the street from Louviers parking lot, no one has complained yet.

Morris said the traffic was there when Louviers operated in full swing, mostly in the mornings and afternoons, and it was still there after it closed.

"It doesn't bother me, I'm used to it," Morris said. "It's like being in a war when you get used to shells, you sleep right through it."

Some residents have expressed concerns about traffic in the area.

Hang tough, election nears

ANOTHER BIG ELECTION year has come and almost past. Political races and their accompanying inundation of advertisements, balloons, stickers and the omnipresent signs have a way of grating on peoples' nerves by this time of the year.

It's easy to just want to forget about the political mess and hope for the best.

Unfortunately for those who want to just bag the election, the system which we live under works best when a greater number of people participate. That's the way it was designed.

We, at the Newark Post, have tried to keep the voters in our area more informed on the decisions they will be asked to make Nov. 8 by running an ongoing series of profiles on the local races.

These decisions are as important as ever to the area. If you don't believe that ordinary voters can make a difference, just ask the people on West Main St. about their 'No Bypass - No Vote' campaign. They have made their position well known and the politicians have all jumped on the bandwagon. In fact, anybody that is elected that doesn't follow through on the bypass issue, will have a lot of explaining to do to the voters.

A citizens' attempt to have the city of Newark and the University of Delaware's charters changed has also caught the ear of politicians.

These are just several issues that have been hot in the area. Just as recently as Mondy night's City Council meeting there was genuine debate on the Wilburfest issue.

Not everyone will agree on every issue, but we find it encouraging that more and more people are getting involved in the process.

It's never been more evident than this year that the people can make a difference in an election and the political process as a whole.

So hang in there for just four more weeks. Continue to do your civic duty. We'll do the best we can to help.

A local paper is the best source to find out what is happening

By MARVIN HUMMEL

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Hummel recalls an anecdote that is appropriate as we celebrate National Newspaper Week.

IMET HIM on his first day on the job in Newark, and he claimed he already knew me quite well. (????)

Detecting my confusion, he said: "I've been reading your stuff in the Post for months."

"In Florida?" (I couldn't believe the Post was on Miami Newsstands!)

Sure! I had several job offers, and the day each one came in, I subscribed to the local paper. And the whole family decided we liked Newark the best from what we read in the Post."

"Why would you want to do that?"

"To find out about the town—how it REALLY is. What kind of activities are available there; how the schools are, the social life for us as well as our kids. Does the town have our brand of church? What kind of stores there are. The crime rate. Is there entertainment—you know, theater, concerts. Is it a retirement community or a yuppie enclave? A local paper will tell you all you need to know in about a dozen issues."

I should have been happy and shut up, but I had to ask, "Why not a regional newspaper?" And I named one.

He shook his head: "You don't live in a region, and regional papers can't possibly tell you the little details and activities of an individual town in its area."

That first-day discussion was 25 years ago, and the Post staff is working hard to get the paper back to a level of influence capable of attracting to Newark the kind of people who read about us in Florida and (possibly) California.

And, we want to deserve a new subscription from a longtime Newarker who said she used to subscribe to the Post so she'd know "...what's happening in Newark."

And, a lot has happened since the old Post ceased to be, and much of it is very good.

Landenberg has a Pennsylvania address and area code, but many of the residents "think" Newark and consider themselves Newarkers. So do many Cecil Countians.

And the University has grown in the last 25 years, carefully and thoughtfully, and visitors to Newark almost unanimously describe the campus as "beautiful." The Mall, only 10 minutes away from Newark and bearing our address, offers New York-Philadelphia stores without clogging up Main Street. The best wine shoppe on the East Coast is barely over the state line in Maryland. The Gore plants seem to form a circle around the town.

The University Theatre is doing exciting professional work at Hartshorn Hall. (What did they do with the swimming pool?) But nothing expresses the ambience of What, you may ask, is SCHTF??? and WHAT anniversary? If you have lived or worked in this area since 1974, perhaps you remember there was a particular city-county battle over the certain location of a certain proposed hospital. The Medical Center of Delaware (then Wilmington Medical Center) developed a plan called "Plan Omega".

Vociferous opponents of this plan included, Older American Coalition and the Puerto Rican Civic League. Equally vociferous (and ultimately triumphant) was SCHTF: Suburban County Hospital Task Force. Our task force was organized 20 years ago in October, 1974. Within months, a membership drive recruited over 2500 anything, a 250-bed facility would serve southwest NCC very well; "they" said we didn't need a hospital outside the city. In Task Force's opinion, that was like tossing us a bone!

Task Force's Board of Directors included: Jim Neal (then a Newark City Councilman), Sandra Evans, Laura Stark, Fritz Griesinger, Jeanette Ayars, Vic Singer, Dr. Tom Lloyd, Bill Cooke (former NCC Councilman) and myself. I have an indelible print of these facts in my mind because I had the privilege of serving as Task Force president, until we disbanded in 1982.

In my 30 years of volunteer work, I have never been associated with a more dedicated, determined or focused group of people! The "battle" was prolonged 7 years. Plan Omega was challenged in court by its opponents i=on the grounds that it "discriminates against the poor, elderly, handicapped and minorities". Bypass a good idea

By PETER HALL

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

A grass roots movement is growing in the Northwest section of Newark.

It seems the people who own or rent homes on South College Avenue, East and West Main Street and New London Road are tired of trucks driving on their residential streets.

These citizens and students feel unsafe because of the small size of the roads in this part of town and the size of the trucks that form a large part of the traffic there.

They have banded together under cries of "No Bypass, No Vote" in order to alert all candidates for the Delaware legislature that the only way to win in their district is to support the creation of a Newark Bypass.

A bypass is necessary at this time because of the danger, congestion and pollution caused by large trucks and other traffic in the city.

Currently more than 100 tractor trailers go under the Smith Hall Overpass every day. These trucks cause problems for every student trying to get to class if they have to cross South College or Main Street.

Last year, one of these trucks—which had no need to be in town except to get through it—sent a university graduate to the hospital with severe head injuries.

These trucks hold up traffic throughout town because they are just too big for the city's intersections. Because the trucks cannot make the turn from New London Road onto Cleveland Avenue, other cars sitting at the intersection must back up to give the trucks room. The same multi-car maneuver must be done seconds later at the intersection of Cleveland Avenue and West Main Street.

The trucks jump onto sidewalks and threaten pedestrians as well as property. When a tractor trailer turns from Elkton Road onto Delaware Avenue, the trailer swings onto the sidewalk, forcing pedestrians in the area to retreat from the sidewalk onto a lawn at the corner.

In the 1970's, the state realized traffic in Newark was growing to be a problem. After the unavoidable government BS, the Department of Transportation developed a solution—build a bypass around Newark.

Much like the Capitol Beltway around D.C., this bypass would force traffic that did not have any business in Newark to go around the town.

The bypass would take trucks and other traffic that didn't need to go through Newark from 896 south of town to Elkton Road around the west and north of the town to 273 and back to 896 north of the city. This bypass would make all the concerned parties happy.

The residents who live in the congested areas would have a safe, quiet place to live.

The truck drivers would be able to drive on roads designed with their bulk in mind.

Drivers would not have to back up from traffic lights to allow these behemoths through.

The state even has all of the plans made. Construction could begin tomorrow if only the Department of Transportation gave the word.

Part of the bypass has already been built. There is a bridge next to MBNA, over Routes 273 and 4, which currently leads to nowhere. It was built years ago to be a part of the bypass and now sits with no road on either side of it, just a bridge with no cars.

(Construction on this project was halted because it was deemed to endanger a rare, local species of . . . ? Anyone? Anyone remember? That's right: turtle. I'll take Phenomenal Wastes of Money for $1000, Alex.)

Why hasn't the bypass been built? Twenty years ago the state foresaw the problem. Why has nothing been done?

Some suburbanites were concerned with the noise that would invade their sleepy little developments. The State just shelved the plans without trying to find a compromise between the two factions.

Ignoring the fact that some people live with trucks not only in earshot, but riding up onto their front lawns, the state collapsed to the complaints of a few citizens. Ignoring those whose lives are endangered without the bypass, the state listened to those who would have been inconvenienced by its creation.

With the addition of noise barriers, the suburbanites would not have to hear or see the bypass and everyone would be happy.

For the sake of the people living on both halves of Main Street. . .

For the sake of students walking to class. . .

For the sake of those people who cannot sleep in their houses on South College Avenue. . .

For the sake of anyone who has ever had to back away from an intersection to let a load of wood through. . .

We need the bypass. We need it now.

Although women now make up more than half (57 percent) of the University of Delaware's student population, 80 years ago this gender was denied the privilege of a higher education in Delaware.

It seems fitting then this year as the university celebrates the 80th anniversary of the founding of the Women's College, that a book has been written about women and their history with the university.

University of Delaware Professor Carol Hoffecker is the author of the recently published book "Beneath Thy Guiding Hand: A History of Women at the University of Delaware."

"I saw an opportunity to review the history of women at the university going back to the beginning in 1914," said Hoffecker. She said although 1914 was the year that the Delaware Women's College was formed, women had been allowed to attend Delaware College briefly during the late 1800s.

She said it was only since 1969 that the University of Delaware introduced women's intercollegiate athletics.

"Younger people today don't realize how very recent these developments are," said Hoffecker. "There is a certain fragility to anything so recent. To have these advantages, you have to keep pressing for them."

Hoffecker, a professor of history and associate provost for graduate studies at the university, said although she considers herself a feminist, she wrote the book strictly from a historical viewpoint.

Hoffecker said she did research for the book through the University of Delaware archives looking through board of trustee minutes, old college catalogs, yearbooks and personal correspondences of the dean of the women's college and the presidents' of the University of Delaware.

Hoffecker has unique insight on this topic, not only because she is a female professor, but because she attended the university as a student in the late 1950s, graduating with a degree in history.

University of Delaware Professor Carol Hoffecker, who wrote a book on the history of women at the university, stands in front of Robinson Hall, which was called Science Hall when it was used as part of the women's college. The building was used for classrooms and held the home economic laboratories.

She said while she has memories of attending the university, she wrote about something for every age group of alumni from the 1930s to 1980s.

"I thought the university's (housing) rules were overly limiting,"

Hoffecker said about when she was a student, "but I didn't think of it in terms of gender discrimination."

While women, for decades, were required to live in residence halls and could only live off campus with an immediate relative, men attending the university were not subject to these rules.

She said the two things that struck her in the history of women and the college is the fall of the women's college and the effect the baby boom generation had in changing the rules regarding women's residential life.

"When the university did away with the strict rules for women," she said, "the underlying reasons were with the growth of the University of Delaware, they could not keep up with the building of residence halls."

"The university didn't hold firm to the old rules," she said, "because they could not do it."

The Women's College ceased to exist in 1945 when the university trustees decided, according to the book, "to organize the university around academic programs rather than gender."

So where do women now stand in equality on the Delaware campus?

Hoffecker said she believes women have gotten past the point of needing big institutional changes, for example quotas of number women faculty hired, and now news more subtle changes, such as child-care for employees. She said still today more women faculty tend to be in traditional female fields and less in technical practices.

She said she came into the faculty in 1973 when there was pressure felt by the university to hire more women. "My hiring was partly in response to that," she said. When she joined the history department, she said, there were some senior faculty women about to retire and she said for a period of time she was the only women in the department. She said treatment by male professors was varied but said she never experienced what she would call mistreatment.

She said women and men now need to encourage young women to make career decisions that in the long run will be suited to their talents. "Being a rocket scientist isn't for everybody but it needs to be committed to early on," she said.

The book, which came out in September, is available at the University of Delaware Bookstore for $15.

YOU ASKED

A feature devoted to discovering the answers to curious questions about people and places in Greater Newark.

BY NANCY TURNER

I am renting an apartment in Newark to attend the University of Delaware. I moved here from another state, but I would like to participate in local elections. Is it possible for me to register and vote as a Newark resident, or must I obtain an absentee ballot from my home state?

According to Faith Jackson, clerk to the New Castle County Department of Elections, you can register to vote in Newark's general and municipal elections if you are 18 years of age and can show proof of residency. "Such proof includes utility bills bearing your name, or mail (a few pieces including business correspondence) that has been delivered to you at the Newark address," said Jackson. "You don't have to live there for any particular amount of time."

When determining if an applicant is eligible, a registrar from the Board of Elections wants to see that the individual is intending to make Newark his permanent home. When there is a question, things like employment (i.e. paying taxes in Delaware), where the car is registered and the car insurance is held are considered. You do not have to show proof of a Delaware driver's license to register to vote; however, if you have one, in the eyes of the Department of Elections, it is definitive proof of residency for a person moving here from out of state.

A University of Delaware dormitory room is not considered a permanent residence, but that is not to say that the university doesn't give the Department of Elections plenty of business. According to one employee of the Department, in 1986, a mail-in registration drive held on campus produced 2,700 applications.

To vote in the November 8 general elections, you will need to register in person by October 20. Mail registrations closed October 4. You may register in the Carvel State Building in Wilmington during regular business hours; or at the Delaware Department of Motor Vehicles on Airport Road in New Castle (at the same time you get your driver's license changed if you are a new resident).

Whether you have a question about people or places in Greater Newark or are just plain curious about something, staff writer Nancy Turner might just be able to find an answer for you. Send your question to Nancy, in care of the Newark Post, 153 East Chestnut Hill Road, Newark DE 19713. Be sure to include a daytime telephone number where you can be reached.

Pansies are toughies — but rewarding — in the fall

IT USED TO BE THAT pansies were only available as spring seed packets or bedding plants.

They added a touch of early color with their bright patterned faces, but withered away with the onset of summer heat. Plant breeders have been busy developing varieties with better heat tolerance, while the marketers are promoting pansies as the perfect choice for late season color.

When massed together in rich moist soil, these diminutive plants provide a spark to the landscape until a severe frost finally comes. Even then pansies can overwinter with light winter protection and burst forth with renewed vigor the following spring.

Pansies have been in cultivation at least 2300 years. These cousins to violets were popular European garden plants that the English started breeding experimentally in the late 1800's.

Almost a hundred years later, the renewed interest in flower gardening has created new fans of the adaptable pansy. Modern varieties provide an astounding range of color.

It seems as though there are endless combinations of color, with or without the face markings. Pansy selections provide white through cream and yellow, orange, bronze and mahogany flowers.

The cool palette includes clear pink, lavender, violet, deep purple and black petals. Flower diameters are grouped into 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inch multiflora, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 inch medium and 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 inch large sizes.

Pansies form a bushy mound of heart-shaped, dark green leaves about 8 or 10 inches tall and wide.

The flowers are borne slightly above the foliage. Choose a spot that get afternoon shade.

Space healthy, stocky plants about 8 inches apart in prepared soil. Mulch with shredded bark or leaf mulch to moderate soil temperatures and inhibit growth of winter annual weeds such as chickweed.

Slugs are especially fond of pansies, so be prepared to take control measures with traps or commercial bait. If the weather is dry, thoroughly water the bed weekly, but avoid wetting the foliage.

Overhead watering can lead to leaf spot and mildew. Sow pansy seed in pots or cell packs in early February to set out spring plants, or in early August for fall plants.

Many pansies are sweetly fragrant, especially the yellow and blue flowers.

However, the scent seems to last only a few whiffs; apparently the olfactory nerves quickly lose sensitivity to the fragrance. All violets and pansy flowers, but not the leaves, are edible if they are free of pesticides.

Consult The Joy of Cooking by Rombauer and Becker for directions on glazed flowers to decorate desserts and salads this fall.

Steep two cups of fragrant pansy flowers in white wine vinegar for a delicately scented epicurean condiment. Pansies also press nicely for use in floral collages for pictures, bookmarks and other crafts.

Downes Elementary volunteer spends time helping out

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Downes Elementary School Volunteer Joy Read lives up to her first name, according to Principal Charles Haywood.

"She always has a smile on her face and laughs a lot," he said.

Read has been a volunteer at the school for about five years. She spends Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. making copies and laminating papers for teachers — work they would normally spend time doing themselves.

"I love working with the teachers and helping them and in turn helping the students," Read said. "I'm taking the weight load off the teachers so they can get on with other things more worthwhile for their students."

She said teachers leave projects and worksheets in her box for her to make copies of or to laminate.

"If you ask the teachers you will find she is to them, invaluable," Haywood said. "The work is done for them when they check on it or she delivers it personally to their rooms."

Read began volunteering at the school a few months after her husband, Brian, was transferred from their home in England by the DuPont Co. in 1989. She had worked as a secretary in Great Britain for 27 years but was restricted from working for pay for two and a half-years in the U.S. until she received her Green Card.

"After 27 years, I couldn't sit around and do nothing," she said.

So she became a volunteer at Downes Elementary School.

She said in a chance encounter while shopping at Sears, she met a lady from Scotland named Gladys McDonald who put her in touch with a first grade teacher at Downes.

"I went to see School Secretary Jean Robinson and the principal of Downes and arranged to volunteer two days a week, where I have been for the last five years loving every minute of it," said Read. "I'm part of the family (which makes up the Downes staff)."

"It is lovely to see these shy little children come in for Kindergarten and go through school to grade three," she said.

She said Downes is a nice school. "I never been involved with a school before this," she said. "I don't have children, but I love them."

Read was recognized this summer as Outstanding Volunteer of the Year by the Delta Kappa Gamma Society of women educators for her weekly contribution at Downes School. She was nominated for the award by Betty Blake, a Kindergarten teacher at the school.

Read's volunteering has led into a part-time position as the substitute secretary for Downes. Her hobbies include sailing, knitting, needlework, cooking, gardening, reading and babysitting for friends.

"Unsung Heroes" is a periodic feature in the Newark Post. Readers are invited to nominate "heroes" for future features. Send a brief letter that describes how the nominee makes a difference in the community to: Unsung Heroes, The Newark Post, 153 E. Chestnut Hill Rd., Newark, DE 19713.

Christiana Hospital to celebrate 10th anniversary attended every day, I also appeared as a witness. A favorable court decision was appealed to the Third Circuit Court 3 times. Finally, in May of 1981, Plan Omega received court approval for the Medical Center to proceed with construction of its long overdue suburban hospital: Christiana Hospital.

"Fast-track" construction took 3 years, with the capital campaign being conducted simultaneously. Following a successful $130 million tax-exempt bond issue to finance the construction, a community capital campaign goal of $18 million was surpassed to the tune of $21 million. What a thrill that was! — I know, because I served willingly as chair of the Newark Area's campaign. The professional fundraiser, Dick Taylor, with whom I worked for 6 months, came from North Carolina with his wonderful southern accent and helped us organize and implement our campaign. One day, we received a big check for thousands of dollars and Dick turned to me saying, "Shirley, we are in Hoo-o-g Heaven!" I still laugh out loud whenever I think of that expression.

Christiana Hospital FINALLY opened during a weekend snowstorm on Jan. 23, 1985. I didn't get there to help out that weekend but, I was there the first week. As a new volunteer in the admitting Department, I soon learned there were no hangers in patient rooms or anywhere in the hospital. Obviously, safe transfer of patients from the old facilities in Wilmington to the new hospital took top priority. Who was thinking about hangers?! I decided to get some hangers. "Some" hangers? How about tramping around with 5000 of them! Anyway, I called my friend who (at the time) owned and operated the Newark Cleaners on Elkton Road. Jim Cox, in his usual kind and soft-spoken manner, listened to my description of the hospital's "hanger hang-up" and he provided boxes and boxes of wonderful hangers, which I hauled over to Christiana Hospital. I spent 3 days putting 2 hangers in every patient's wardrobe and I was actually applauded by the nurses in almost every unit when they saw me coming with an armload. Remember, it was a 780-bed hospital! And then there were offices, waiting rooms, labs,

And so, as we celebrate at Task Force reunion dinner in a few weeks, we look forward to the birthday celebration of Christiana Hospital next January: 10 years old! Christiana Hospital is bigger and better in more ways than any of us ever could have imagined. We were so intent upon bringing a "major, full service hospital" to our area that we never envisioned the variety of services provided there today. Sophisticated technology of the highest caliber. Outstanding medical and surgical care by outstanding personnel. Modern facility with state-of-the-art equipment. Easy access. Kind, caring people taking care of people.

Let's talk about utilization, seeing as how we "didn't need it". Ha! The Christiana Emergency Dept. was designed to handle 25,000 annual visits. At the end of its first year, ER patients numbered 35,000. This year's tally to date is 57,156. Suffice to say that construction of an expanded Emergency Dept. currently is underway!

Babies, babies and more babies make a total of 6,393 born in Christiana's Obstetrics and Gynecology Dept. in 1993. There have been 6,081 babies born to date this year. The Neo-Natal Intensive Care Unit is nearby to tend to all newborn life threatening conditions. How fantastic for those worried mothers and high-risk patients!

Of its 19 operating rooms, 3 are dedicated to open heart surgery. About 800 open heart procedures are done each year. And, to date, the Cardiac Catheterization Lab has been busy with 4,819 procedures.

Well, I know that I can speak for my SCHTF colleagues when I say that we are very, very proud of the Christiana Hospital. It is a definite asset to our community and it is sorely needed. Not because it is a huge, beautiful building but, because of the thousands of dedicated, competent and caring people who work there.

Local paper tells a lot about town

► HUMMEL, from 6A

Newark better than its plant on one side of 896, where world-class autos are made by Chrysler, and on the other side, facing Chrysler, is a handsome sports complex and convocation center. The world's premier figure skating center, replete with Russian coaches and skaters, is making Newark as well known in the athletic world as Chrysler makes us in the automotive.

But that isn't enough for a town's paper to write about. After you put on your Goretex clothes and drive your Chrysler to watch world-class skaters or 300 pound male Hens, something is still missing—you and your personal interest.

The sports section of the Post is deeply interested in any and all athletics that Newark boys and girls and men and women play. And the entire paper is dedicated to telling Newarkers about themselves and each other. If an activity is important to Newarkers and you'll let us know about it, you'll see it in the Post!!

COMPASSION

"I haven't the words to explain how friendly and helpful the nurses are at Arbor."

Today's healthcare too often focuses on technology. Granted, that's important. But shouldn't healthcare focus on compassion?

Compassionate care means more than taking care of people. It means taking a real interest in people. It means attending to the details of our patients' lives. Understanding their needs. Listening to their concerns. Building their self-esteem. Nurturing their rehabilitative progress.

Compassion lies at the heart of the Arbors at New Castle. Our staff provides compassionate care with every pleasant smile. Each knowing glance. Every reassuring touch.

You can see that compassion in the faces of the Arbors at New Castle. Take a closer look. Then decide. We invite you to come see us. Face to face.

Red Lion United Methodists mark 175th anniversary

A special Homecoming Service marked the 175th Anniversary of Red Lion United Methodist Church, Bear, on Oct. 9. Although worship services and spiritual revivals were held at this site nearly two hundred years ago, it was not until 1819 that the first church was completed. This plain wooden structure served as the worship center for thirty-four years until destroyed by fire. In 1853 the congregation erected a stately brick building with beautiful stained glass windows. Renovations and additions in the 1950s and 1960s brought the church to its current impressive structure.

Diocese to broadcast Rosary in October

The Radio Rosary will be broadcast for the 23rd year by the Diocese of Wilmington Oct. 3 through Oct. 28 from 6:05 to 6:20 p.m. Monday to Friday. The broadcast will be heard on WNRK-1260 AM, WJIC-1510 AM and WNNN-101.7 FM.

Anniversary celebration set at St. Thomas

St. Thomas A.U.M.P. Church, Newark will celebrate its 167th Anniversary with a banquet at 5 p.m. on Oct. 22, 1994. For tickets and information please call 731-7804.

The museums are coming! The museums are coming!

Remember the film of a decade or two ago that repeated the same words in the title? It was "The Russians Are Coming! The Russians Are Coming!" Well, if I may borrow the idea, I would like to title my column today "The Museums Are Coming! The Museums Are Coming!"

Certainly one of the finest museums in the coverage area of this newspaper is the Hagley Museum and Library on the banks of the historic Brandywine.

It has earned an international reputation as an industrial museum and research facility, but has never turned its back on its neighbors either.

This year, for Hagley's Craft Fair they are also bringing us a Festival of Museum Shopping. Museums from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C., will be on hand to add to the fun and excitement.

The Hagley Craft Fair is set for Saturday, Oct. 22 and Sunday, Oct. 23. More than 50 artists and crafts people will be on hand to demonstrate and to display their wares. The fair will be open both days from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year the demonstrations will include weaving, spinning, quilting, paper cutting and much more. In addition, visitors will have the opportunity to learn the background of each craft.

There will be returning artists but, according to Public Relations Coordinator Susan Dottor, 10 artists will be new to the fair this year. Among them are Allen Jay Goldberg and Helen Warren, each of whom creates decorative items using dried flowers and other natural materials and Neil Haring, a paper cutter who produces scenic works.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Two of the new artists coming to Hagley are working in wood. Kenneth Schubert, using wood from this part of the country, makes various items which incorporate hoops in the design. Christopher Waters makes inlaid wooden accessories.

Others joining artists who represent the fair's past focus on textiles are jeweler Jean Heytler, basket maker Sue Kolvereid, nationally honored hooked rug artist Janet Stanley Reid, painted silk apparel creator Jo Hill and doll maker Louise Coates.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 4, 5 and 6, a multitude of museums will be in the beautiful Hagley setting. On Friday, the Festival of Museum Shopping will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Including Hagley Museum, there will be representatives and displays from 27 museums. The museums really are coming!

Two of the four new museums to be represented this year will appeal to railroad enthusiasts. At the Hagley Soda House guests will be welcomed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Museum.

This shop will include railroad thematic pewter items, whistles, mugs, etc. Holding forth in the Hagley Soda House will be the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Museum with reproductions of dining car china, silver, railroad art work and clothing. Both museums will also offer a wide range of railroad books and videos.

The third of the museums to be a first timer at Hagley is the Delaware Toy and Miniature Museum and they will be in the Hall of Records. Featured there will be Madame Alexander dolls, antique doll houses and furniture and hand-crafted toy boats.

The Harmonia Early Music Museum for Washington is the fourth and will offer recordings of medieval, renaissance, baroque and Colonial American music as well as tree decorations, calendars, cards and books with medieval and renaissance themes.

The returning museums include American Swedish Historical Museum, Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum, Delaware Agricultural Museum, Delaware Art Museum, Delaware Museum of Natural History, Delaware Nature Society, Delaware State Museum, Ephrata Cloister, Franklin Institute, Gloucester County Museum, Harrison Township Historical Society, Heritage Center of Lancaster County, Hershey Museum of American Life, Historical Society of Delaware, Historical Society of Talbot County, Landis Valley Museum, Montgomery County Historical Society, Mount Vernon, National Aquarium, Philadelphia Zoological Society, Rockwood Museum and the University Museum of Archeology and Anthropology, and, of course Hagley.

For these two events, please use the Buck Road entrance to Hagley, the one just off Route 100. Do not use the regular entrance off Route 141. Daily admission is $3.50 with children under six free.

Parking is also free and there is free shuttle service to the Hagley buildings and the parking lot. For more information you may call 302-568-2400.

Leave it to Hagley to set up something like this for us just ahead of the Christmas season.

By the way, if you happen upon any of my family, please tell them about this column. They just might get a hint where to shop for me!

SENATOR JAMES P. NEAL

October 14, 1994

Dear Friends,

Stephanie Ulbrich is the best choice for State Representative for the 25th Representative District.

Stephanie Ulbrich has a clear focus on the issues, whether it is to remove the disruptive students from the classrooms in our schools, develop work camps for non-violent offenders or judicious use of tax revenues for government services.

Stephanie Ulbrich's diverse experience in retail banking management, marketing and lending, and in the family business has enabled her to understand how State and local government actions and regulations directly affect the operation of a business. We need that direct personal business experience in our representatives in Dover for them to fully understand how proposed legislation will effect jobs and businesses in Delaware.

I have known Stephanie Ulbrich long enough for me to fully appreciate her honesty, integrity and strong will to do everything she attempts in a most honorable manner.

Stephanie Ulbrich, should be your vote on November 8th.

Newark soccer ties McKean

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

It's amazing how so many steps can add up to so little.

Unbeaten Newark High raced to a 0-0 standoff against previously untied McKean Tuesday night at unseasonably brisk Hoffman Stadium in a spirited non-conference soccer battle between the two of the state's top teams.

"That was probably the best fastest high school soccer I've ever seen," said Yellowjacket Coach Hugh Mitchell. "The pace was unbelievable and under control. Both teams had some nice chances. We were right on their doorstep a couple times and with the right amount of luck we could've put it in."

"I don't really believe in moral victories but it was a pleasure to see us play that well against a team that has that kind of experience," Mitchell said. "We've been a little inconsistent lately and one thing we talked about before the game was everybody picking up their own individual pace. We expected the team to pick it up and play a little harder and tonight they really did."

Newark stays undefeated with victory

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

BELVIDERE — For Newark High, the alarm clock couldn't ring fast enough, but for Delcastle, it should have been on daylight savings time.

John Bush answered an early wake-up call and caught three touchdown passes from Jeff Stengari to help lead unbeaten Newark past Delcastle 31-6 Saturday morning in a Flight A matinee at Cougar Stadium.

"I couldn't sleep the night before because of the early game time," said Bush, a senior wide receiver who caught TD passes for 48, 27 and 10 yards. "I didn't think before the game we were ready because of the 10:30 start. We were kind of staggering around. It's tough to get ready for a game that early, but we came out and played tough."

Newark struggled its first possession but then ran off 31 straight points before Delcastle scored on its final offensive play with seconds remaining.

"I've worked with these guys practicing since Aug. 19 and let me tell you they're not too pretty early in the morning," said Newark Coach Butch Simpson. "It's the difference in time; you're playing in the sun. We just got done playing four straight night games. It breaks the routine you're accustomed to."

The Yellowjackets took advantage of a Delcastle fumble recovered by Doug Campbell at midfield late in the opening period and seven plays later Mark Lutes broke tackles and scored from six yards. Steve Gwinn's point-after made it 7-0 with 1:06 left.

After holding the Cougars on downs, Sean McCullough's 17-yard run set up Bush's first of three TD catches. Stengari scrambled right from the Delcastle 48 and hit a wide-open Bush down the right side with 10:01 left in the second. Gwinn's PAT made it 14-0.

"If you get ahead early and play good defense the rest of the game, that gives us a chance to empty our bench," Simpson said, who substituted freely after the fourth TD early in the third period. "It gives us a great opportunity to play everybody and that's the most important goal to me."

Bush's second touchdown came on third-and-3 with 1:12 left in the half from the Cougar 27. Stengari rolled left and sailed a pass to Bush who had to outleap the defender in the right corner of end zone for the score.

"John Bush is without a doubt one of the best players I've had at preparing to play all his positions," said Simpson of his wide receiver, punter and defensive back. "He plays offense, defense and special teams. If

University of Delaware defensive back Kenny Bailey hopes to help lead a turnaround in the Blue Hens' fortunes in this week's game at Richmond.

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The University of Delaware football team will try and right its battered ship Saturday when it travels to Richmond for a Yankee Conference tilt against the Spiders.

Richmond enters the contest with a 3-3 overall record and a 1-2 conference record while Delaware will bring a 2-3 overall record and just a 1-3 Yankee Conference record to the table.

The Spiders, as Delaware has, have lost their last two games, including last week's 24-10 loss at Maine (who's also part of the Blue Hens' two-game slide).

The similarities don't end there, however.

Both teams have quarterback problems, neither being settled on one starter and both teams desperately need a win to turn the season around.

"It's been an up and down season for us so far," said Richmond Coach Jim Marshall, whose teams have compiled just a 1-4 record against Delaware. "Both teams are in similar positions but we just have to concern ourselves with us. It's not that we're not concerned with Delaware, it's just that we have our own problems."

One concern that Marshall did acknowledge is the that of Delaware fullback Daryl Brown running against a Richmond defense that is last in the conference against the run.

Brown, who rushed for 111 yards and three touchdowns in last year's 48-10 win over the Spiders, has rushed for 533 yards (106.6 per game) through five games this season.

"There's not a better ballplayer in the league than Daryl Brown,"

Marshall said. "I've been saying for years that he's a pro prospect."

"And you know that Delaware's skilled people are always good so you just can't key on Brown."

Offensively, Richmond has utilized two quarterbacks this season.

Sophomore Joe Elrod has started the last five games after entering the season opener due to an injury to Jason Gabrels. Gabrels, though, replaced Elrod in the second half of last week's loss to Maine, completing 7-of-15 passes for 108 yards.

Marshall wasn't going to make his mind up on a starting quarterback until late this week.

The Blue Hens, too, didn't make any commitment on a starting quarterback until late in the week.

"[Junior quarterback

Keith] Langan appears to have more control over the offense and more experience," said Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond who brings a 6-2 lifetime record versus Richmond into the game. "But then you wonder what [Leo] Hamlett could do if he were bolted in [as the starter]."

"To have two quarterbacks is to have none; I know that. But we're no different than anyone else out there. Half of the NFL teams would change their quarterbacks if they could. We've been very fortunate by having exceptional quarterbacks here — three that went to the NFL in eight years and people like [Bill] Vergantino and [Dale] Fry, who might have been better than the others. And I think there's one on this campus — I just don't know who he is."

Delaware will also be trying to get its season going on the upswing.

Field hockey has come a long way

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

NO DOUBT it was first played with weather-beaten sticks and water-smoothed stones washed up on ancient shores by the Persian Gulf and Arabian Sea. After all, it is the Persians and Pakistanis who are credited with its inception.

It was probably a noble and exclusive men's pastime back then, enjoyed and reserved primarily for the gentry and royal families. At least it was in Great Britain after the Empire brought back this strange new game from their Asian colonies.

But today, at least in this country, it is played almost exclusively by women.

"I guess it was the first sport women really played," said Glasgow Coach Angie King. "It started in England with teas and nice things like that. But those sticks are really dangerous."

Welcome to field hockey, which I kind of look at as soccer with a weapon, or as ice hockey without skates. But however it appears, one thing's for certain, once you play it, you probably won't stop.

"I've always watched it and I've always loved it. I'll definitely play next year," said Glasgow sophomore goaltender Sue Campbell, after registering her first career shutout with saves. "The hardest part for me was getting over the fear."

"I just started playing in ninth grade. We had played it in gym but not seriously. I didn't plan on playing goalie, but I came back from band camp and I was nominated. I like it when there's pressure; you're more tense. You're more aware than if everybody's at the other end of the field."

In field hockey, there are 11 players on each side playing on a field approximately 100 by 60 yards. Most are concerned with putting a solid plastic ball weighing about 5 3/4 ounces and measuring up to 9 1/4 inches in circumference into a 7 by 12 foot net. Others are more concerned with keeping it out.

Campbell had just finished blanking Flight A rival Newark with 10 saves, many of those in the final minutes when the Yellowjackets pressured.

Glasgow beat their neighborhood rival 2-0 on Laurie Brosnahan's 11th goal of the season and seventh in her last two games. Marie Dine scored the insurance goal.

It takes great skill and concentration to score a goal, which leads to low scoring and pressure-packed affairs. Come to think of it, it also takes great skill not to score a goal. That also leads to low-scoring and pressure-packed affairs.

"It's something as a coach that you can see," King said. "A well rounded player should be able to play all positions. Usually the scorers have the speed and stickwork. The defenders object is to stop the ball and usually show more aggressive behavior."

"But it's very difficult to find goalies because nobody wants to be in that cage with all the pads and stuff. But if you're a good goalie the glory is all yours. (Campbell) saved the game; it was all hers. It's fun when they score like this. It's rewarding. It just their attitude."

Still, with all the participants fervor

Newark volleyball team tops Christiana in Flight A match

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

CHRISTIANA — Newark High remained unbeaten in the Blue Hen Conference with a 15-7, 15-8 sweep of Christiana last Friday in a Flight A volleyball match.

The Yellowjackets pulled away early in the first game, but Christiana made the clincher more interesting. The Vikings knotted the game three times before Newark scored seven straight points to secure the win.

"It's really a tremendous rivalry between us," said Newark Coach B.J. Apichella, after watching her team run their conference mark to 8-0. "There's a lot of tradition involved."

Newark took a 2-0 lead in the second game, but points by Val Rodriguez and Erin Pfozter gave the Vikes a slim 3-2 lead. With game tied 4-4, Lori Wagner aceed her serve to give the 'Jackets a 5-4 edge and then Ursula Cornish served six straight points as Newark pulled away.

"I don't always count on my serves," said Cornish, who finished the match with five aces and three kills. "I'm just trying to make it work and it's been pretty consistent this season. And we always expect teams to play their best against us; we can never let up."

Newark led 14-5 but the Vikings rallied for four consecutive points with Pfozter serving to snip the margin to 14-9. But Heather Lloyd's serve and a Christiana error ended the comeback attempt.

"We think one of our strong points is serving; we work on it in practice," Apichella said. "I always say you can't score without serving."

"Christiana played us tough the second game of our first meeting," Apichella. "And I knew it would be more difficult the second time. Everybody knows what each other is going to do and know how to prepare. Plus this was our second straight week with three games, so we're getting a little weary."

Against Christiana Michelle Hoosty had six kills, 11 digs and five perfect passes, Heidi Scott had two aces and five digs while Jessica Phipps added 12 assists for Newark.

Rodriguez led the Vikings (5-5, 4-4) with nine kills and eight digs and Pfozter chipped in with five digs and 19 assists.

Newark also beat Dover Saturday to run their overall record to 9-2, their two losses coming to

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

For the most part, last week went as expected. We picked five of the six games correctly, boosting our season record to 20-7 (.741).

St. Mark's, again, was very impressive, dominating Dover more than the 14-0 final score would indicate. The Spartans' task is a little easier this week as they face Delcastle in a tune up for next week's monster tilt with Salesianum.

Unbeaten Newark and struggling Glasgow hook up in a crosstown rivalry that always stirs up emotions. Meanwhile, Christiana is idle. That means there is just four games to focus in on.

NEWARK (5-0) VS. GLASGOW (1-4) - Friday night at Newark's Hoffman Stadium, 7. The Dragons have posted the Yellowjackets in each of the past two seasons. Two years ago Glasgow scored a last second touchdown to increase the final score to 26-0. Last year the Dragons dominated every facet of the game in a 51-7 drubbing. Things appear to be a lot different this season. The Jackets enter the contest undefeated while Glasgow has lost four straight games. The Dragons, however, did play better in last week's loss to William Penn. Newark, though, is just too strong this year and with a double dose of revenge on its mind, should prevail. The Pick: Newark 26, Glasgow 8.

HODGSON (2-3) VS. BOHEMIA MANOR (2-3) - Saturday afternoon at Hodgson, 1:30. The Silver Eagles have dropped three straight games after opening the season with two wins. Bo Manor is coming off a strong win over Friends. Hodgson needs this game if it wants to re-establish itself as a team that is on the upswing. This could be one of the most evenly matched contests of the week and we think that Hodgson will come back to even its record. The Pick: Hodgson 27, Bo Manor 26.

CARAVEL (0-4) VS. WOODBRIDGE (2-2) - Saturday afternoon at Caravel's Peoples Stadium, 2. This is the Bucs' Homecoming and it would be a great way to get their first win of the season. That's exactly the scenario that took place two years ago when Woodbridge came to Bear. Caravel was winless but was able to upset the Raiders for a Homecoming win. That will be a tall task this season as Woodbridge has already won twice while the young Caravel team has struggled. There's no doubt the Bucs will improve as the season goes along. Look for them to play their best game of the season this week but...The Pick: Woodbridge 20, Caravel 14.

ST. MARK'S (4-0) VS. DELCASTLE (0-4) - Saturday night at Baynard Stadium, 7:30. The Spartans are off to their best start in 16 years. Last week's win over Dover at Dover was a big one in establishing St. Mark's as a very real state tournament contenders. With three Division II teams on its schedule, though, St. Mark's will have to keep winning to get into the post season. That shouldn't be a problem this week as the Spartans take on the winless Cougars - that's as long as they are not looking ahead to next week's showdown with archrival Salesianum. The Pick: St. Mark's 35, Delcastle 12.

Diamonds win title

The Kirkwood Diamonds girls under-14 soccer team captured first place in the Brentwood Invitational Columbus Day Soccer Tournament held on Long Island last weekend.

The Diamonds, who compiled a 4-0-1 record on their way to the title, shutout their opponents in three straight games Saturday.

In the first game against Brentwood, Becky Ragard scored the game's lone goal in the Diamonds' 1-0 victory. The second game saw the Kirkwood club and Oceanside battle to a scoreless tie. In an exciting third game, Brett Armstrong scored with just two minutes left in the match to give the Diamonds a 1-0 victory.

The second day saw the Diamonds down Hauppauge 4-0 with goals being scored by Tori Guilfoyle, Melissa Braune, Caroline McIlvain and Erin Bastien. Liz Pruitt added an assist.

In the championship game against Lindenhurst, which also had compiled a 3-0-1 record up until that point, the Diamonds' Lauren Bailey led the way by scoring three goals in a 4-0 romp.

Bailey scored twice in the first half and once in the second half while Bastien also scored a goal.

Chrissy Wample, Anjulee Alvares, Jen Kroll, Ann Hennessey and Jill Snyder also all contributed greatly to the tournament championship.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

LAURIE BROSNAHAN - GLASGOW

Not many 7-0 field hockey wins are that memorable. However, Glasgow's 7-0 blanking of Delcastle last Friday sure is one that Laurie Brosnahan will never forget.

The Dragons' senior scored an amazing six unassisted goals in the game!

"I don't even normally get that many shots off," said Brosnahan, who needs just to stay healthy for the remainder of the school year (and continue to play basketball and softball) to become the first ever person in Glasgow history to earn 12 varsity letters. "It was pretty amazing."

Even more amazing was the fact that Brosnahan actually had two more goals called back - one for off-sides and one for having her stick too high. In all she had eight shots go in the goal during the game.

"It really wasn't all me," said the All-State athlete who carries a 3.67 grade-point-average. "I was passing and was really into the flow of the game. I don't know what happened; everything just seemed to go in."

Brosnahan scored twice in the first half and added two quick goals in the second half to raise her total to four. Twice more she was able to find the back of the cage before the game was over, bringing her total to six.

Brosnahan, twice a first-team All-State softball player, is in the process of being recruited by many schools as a softball player. Last week's field hockey game, though, will be a hard performance to top in any sport.

St. Mark's shuts out Dover

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

DOVER - The steadily growing St. Mark's football bandwagon keeps chugging along.

The Spartans, before a good-sized contingent of visiting fans, shrugged off numerous mistakes and knocked off host Dover 14-0 last Friday night to improve their record to 4-0 - their best start since 1978.

Running back Chris Hutchinson burst up the middle for a 16-yard touchdown to break a scoreless tie with a 11:12 to play in the fourth quarter. Chris Birch's extra point put St. Mark's ahead 7-0.

Hutchinson's score ended three quarters of frustration for the Spartans' offense, which dominated the game but continually hurt itself with turnovers.

"It was kind of heartbreaking," Hutchinson said of the repeated mistakes. "We were able to do what we wanted but we kept killing ourselves. We had two fumbles early in the second half when we should've scored."

"But I think we showed a lot of heart and came back tough."

Senior defensive back J.P. Budd sealed the victory with a 13-yard interception return for a touchdown with just 23 seconds remaining in the contest. Birch's second point after made the final score 14-0.

The St. Mark's defense had no such problems as it shut down a high-powered Senator ground attack.

"We just capitalized on their mistakes," said defensive signal-caller Tim Hamberger, who also caught five passes for 66 yards offensively. "We made some mistakes too, but there was no way we weren't going to win. We just have worked too hard to give up."

The Senators gained just 31 yards in total offense in the second half.

Hamberger and Hutchinson both point to the team's unity as a reason for the turnaround in the Spartans' program.

"Our team has been together since we were freshman," Hamberger said. "We hang out together even when we're not playing."

"Our weight room was packed all the time in the off-season. In previous years, there would be a few guys in there but this year it was full all the time. We just want to win so bad."

Kirkwood Phoenix play well in WAGS tourney

Melissa Shillinglaw led the Kirkwood Phoenix with two goals as the team finished with a 1-1-1 record in the under-14 A-Division of the Washington Area Girls Soccer (WAGS) Tournament last weekend.

The Phoenix opened the tourney with a 1-0 victory over the Penns Forest Outlaws - Western Pennsylvania champs. Shillinglaw, on a perfect give and go play with Ashley Dilworth, scored the game's lone with 15 minutes remaining in the contest.

Saturday's second contest saw the Phoenix drop a 1-0 decision to Virginia's Vista Team America. The Virginia squad scored off a direct kick midway through the first half and held on for the victory.

Needing a decisive victory in Sunday's contest to advance to the quarterfinals, the Phoenix settled for a 1-1 tie with the Fairfield (Ohio) Shockers. Shillinglaw scored on an assist from Jen Radke to tie the game early in the second half. Solid defense by both teams kept the score tied the rest of the game.

Other Phoenix players contributing to the successful tournament included Katie Lashomb, Beth Belanger, Laura Godsey, Amy Hunt, Danielle Murray, Stephanie Facciolo, Kelly Romanczuk, Jen Lobley, Jill Biggs, Sarah Harting, Tracey Withrow and Christy Ganc.

Newark plays to scoreless tie

► SOCCER, from 1B

Doug Timm made eight saves, mostly under pressure, while his Newark counterpart Carson Bradley stopped seven shots but was relatively secure in goal. It was the first time either team has been shut out.

The teams played evenly throughout the first half, neither mounting a threat. Dan Gennusa got off a hard shot in about the 18th minute from about 120 yards out, but it sailed high over the net.

"We'd like to think we could play with anybody," said Newark junior Tim Sylvester. "We said at halftime if we could play this well tonight, we should be able to play this well in any game."

Newark appeared the aggressor after halftime and on a few occasions Timms had to scramble in front of the net after loose balls to deter Newark scoring chances. The Highlanders had six straight shots in the final minutes, but the Yellowjackets held.

"The last five minutes was partly McKean picking it a little bit and part us being out of position," Mitchell said. "We got caught a little too far out which gave them the opportunity to keep the ball in a few times. We couldn't get it out of our zone."

"We hung in there. McKean had a real solid chance at the one end but other than that Carson wasn't really tested all night. The team does what they have to do I'd like to see a little more consistency."

"I really am pleased," Mitchell said. "I told them we have to learn to play at this level no matter whom we're playing. It was great game. Both sides played a good game. There's a lot of friendship among the kids and there was no animosity. That's what high school sports should be all about."

top-ranked St. Mark's, once two weeks ago and the first loss against the Spartans in the A.I. du Pont

"We suffered a tough loss to St. Mark's," Cornish said. "But we're putting that behind us. We're trying now to always play at our best."

"We are where we expected to be," said Apichella. "I think being undefeated in the conference pretty much says we're the best we could possibly be at this point of the sea-

Blue Hens to take on Richmond

► HENS, from 1B

"It's important to sit back and revise our objectives," Raymond said. "We obviously can't go undefeated and we most likely can't get a share of the Yankee Conference. But we can win eight games — which would make us more successful than most college programs and we can still have a winning season. And even more short term, we can create a football team here at Delaware."

NOTES — Delaware has not lost three straight games since 1989 and have only lost three straight five times during Raymond's 29-year career...Glasgow's Pat Williams rushed for 88 yards in 12 carries in last week's loss to James Madison...Delaware has sold 15,000 tickets for next week's Homecoming game against the University of Massachusetts.

there's one throwback it's that he's overused."

Bush's third TD was a 10-yard sliding catch just inside the left pylon that culminated a 62-yard, four-play drive. Gwinn's kick made it 28-0 with 3:46 left in the third. Newark's final score was set up by Terrance Harvey's interception and 11-yard return to the Cougar 39. Lutes' 20-yard run set up Gwinn's 33-yarder field goal for a 31-0 lead on the first play of the final quarter.

"The defense held Delcastle all game and the offense controlled the ball," Bush said. "We feel the defense is the main part of our game. It sets up the offense."

Newark held Delcastle to less than 5 offensive yards the first half, as the Cougars' farthest advance downfield was their own 35-yard line. Delcastle gained 98 total offensive yards, 94 of those when Dorian Coleman broke free and outran the defenders for a TD with 16 seconds left.

"We were a little concerned about the way Brandywine rant he ball against us (a 21-0 Newark win)," said Simpson. "But the defense played with the intensity and the offensive line took control of the line of scrimmage."

The Yellowjackets had 362 offensive yards, 221 rushing. McCullough ran six times for 76 yards, Lutes had 11 rushes for 71 and 34-yard reception, Butch Patrick had 51 yards and Butter Pressey gained 21. Strengari completed six of nine passes for 141 yards and three TDs. Bush finished with 94 yards.

Congress puts its own spin on the rotating chicken industry

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Congress Rotisserie has nothing to do with politics. It's a new restaurant in Astra Plaza on Elkton Road in Newark.

The restaurant's specialty is rotisserie chicken, but what makes it different than others? After all, a country singer—Kenny Rogers; cowboy—Roy Rogers; southern gentleman—Kentucky Fried Chicken, and just about every supermarket have also tapped into the rotisserie rage.

In addition to chicken, mashed potatoes and all the trimmings, the restaurant features desserts, breads (a secret recipe) and salads all made "from scratch." Owners Dan Sekowski and Lynne Savage are particularly proud of their homemade foods and say it is one of the things that surprises and delights their customers.

However, the partners' relationship also surprises customers.

Savage, 49, met Sekowski, 22, when he was in high school. At the time he was dating her daughter.

During a break from classes at South Carolina University, Sekowski said he called Savage to say hello. They went to lunch soon after and it was then that Savage said she was thinking of opening a restaurant.

"I was just sort of making conversation," Savage said.

A little more than a year later, they opened Congress Rotisserie.

"I see this partnership as an advantage, Dan has the enthusiasm and energy to run this place," Savage said. "If I were with people in my own age group I wouldn't be ashamed to say I'm tired, but with Dan I won't do that."

The partners, who said they have been asked if they are mother and son, and girlfriend and boyfriend, agree their age difference is beneficial.

In fact, Savage said the partnership is a lot like the "old time apprenticeships."

"She knows a lot about running a business and she works just as hard as anyone else," Sekowski said.

The restaurant is part of a chain that opened in 1986 on Congress Street in Hartford, Conn. that is now available as a franchise.

Sekowski said he hopes to open satellite restaurants throughout New Castle County and Cecil County, Md. The restaurant's kitchen was built so that it is big enough to supply smaller restaurants with fresh food on a daily basis.

The restaurant, modeled after European cafes, employs 51 full and part-time employees, just enough to tend the 50 chickens that can be cooked simultaneously in the rotisserie oven.

Congress Rotisserie is open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and has a sit-down dining area with a full-time wait staff. The owners hope to open for continental breakfast in the near future.

The restaurant marks the first business venture for both, who hope to open satellite restaurants in New Castle County and Cecil County, Md.

SERIOUS BUSINESS.....

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

Below are some of the most interesting business bits I've heard recently—they might not be completely confirmed or dramatically deep, but alas here they are.

Book store at Eagle Furniture is Follett

The name of the national book store chain to go in the former Eagle Furniture Store is finally a matter of public record. It seems Follett College Stores has applied for a sign permit from Newark's building department. No details about what the store will carry were available as the only person who can give details about specifics was in a conference all week and unable to be reached. However, the woman who answered the phone at the home store in Elmhurst, Ill. said they specialize in university textbooks, but sell some trade books, such as bestsellers.

Star Enterprises to blow the stink off

How much would you pay to get rid of the stink that comes upwind from Delaware City and seems to hover over the Bear/Glasgow area. If you said $2.1 million, then you're in the ballpark. That's how much Star Enterprises is paying to design, build and test two new systems aimed at assisting odor detection and control. Phase I is completed, and the rest is expected to be done by late fall of 1995.

Caldor to hire 200 for Nov. 10 opening

Gary Vasques, senior vice president of marketing at Caldor, said the company will hire about 200 people before it opens Nov. 10. All management positions, however, were filled with personnel who have been with the company.

Three schools in the Christina School District were awarded grants from the Bank of New York (Del.) last week. Shue Middle School was awarded $200 for an inventor program, Newark High School received $300 to run a mini-society and Christiana High School was given $500 to buy a video camcorder for mock interviews. The money will be used in the schools' special education classes. Canby Secretary PUBLIC WORKSHOP SALEM CHURCH ROAD (RT. 40 TO OLD BALTI-MORE PIKE) CONTRACT NO. 93-061-16/17 The Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) is preparing conceptual plans for the improvement of Salem Church Road (Rt. 40 to Old Baltimore Pike). The proposed improvements consist of widening the existing road to provide two 12' travel lanes, two 8' paved shoulders, and bypass lanes at the intersections. Drainage and stormwater management will also be included in this project. A double left turn at the intersection of Salem Church Road onto eastbound U.S. 40 also is being contemplated. The project may require the acquisition of strips of properties in the area of widening. The plans will be made available for public inspection at Christiana High School Cafeteria, 190 Salem Church Road, on Thursday, October 20, 1994, between the hours of 4:00 PM and 8:00 PM. Interested parties are invited to express their views, in writing, giving reasons for support of, or opposition to, the proposed work. If requested in advance, DelDOT will make available the services of an interpreter for the hearing impaired. If an interpreter is desired, please make the request by phone or mail to DelDOT. Everybody has their own definition of a sports car. At Eagle, we have one, too. It's called Talon. And it's all-new for 1995.

With Talon, you'll find more than you might expect in any sports car, let alone one costing something less than the national debt. Because, like all Eagles, Talon offers an abundance of the cutting-edge technology that's rapidly becoming a Chrysler Corporation trademark. Performance technology that must be driven to be appreciated.

That's why we've created The Eagle Test Drive. More than a quick trip around the block, it's a systematic evaluation of everything that goes into making an Eagle unlike any other car you've owned. Which is probably what you were looking for all along. Right?
