FRANK COLLINS ELECTED NEWARK MAYOR TUESDAY

Defeated J. H. Hutchison, 314
To 134; Henning Wins
From Edmanson In Middle
District; Still and Haney
Elected Without Opposition

354 BALLOTS CAST

Frank Collins was elected Mayor of Newark at the town election, Tuesday, with a rather larger plurality than had been anticipated. He defeated James H. Hutchison, the only other candidate for the office, 314 to 134. In the only other contest on the ballot, Herbert Henning defeated J. H. Edmanson for Councilman from the Middle District, 92 to 36. Still and Ralph L. Haney, who were unopposed, were elected Councilmen from the Western and Eastern Districts, respectively. The mayor-elect and the new members of Council met and were sworn in at an organizational meeting, to be held next Tuesday night.

The election this year was rather quiet, but considerable interest in the contest for mayor was evident in the all of 354 votes. This was somewhat under last year, a record election in which 408 ballots were cast. However, last year there were bitter contests for Councilman in all three districts. There were eight spoiled ballots in this year's election, and the judges refused them summarily, as their inclusion in the voting would have made no change in the results of the contests. One ballot was completely cut, even the hours of voting and place of election being marked.

The vote by districts was as follows: Western District—Collins, 117; Hutchison, 50; Still, 167. Middle District—Collins, 67; Hutchison, 63; Henning, 92; Edmanson, 36. Eastern District—Collins, 30; Hutchison, 21; Haney, 51. Mr. Collins and Mr. Hutchison are near neighbors in the Western District.

The hold-over councilmen are: O. W. Widows, Western District; William P. Wallaston, Middle District; Charles C. Hubert, Eastern District. The retiring councilmen are: E. C. Wilson, William J. Lovett and William Lyman.

MOVE HOUSES TO MAKE ROOM FOR AUDITORIUM

H. Rodney Sharp has purchased the lot on Delaware avenue adjoining the tracks now used by the University Engineering School, and the University-owned Preston and Thoroughgood houses, now on South College avenue, will be moved to positions on this lot. In fact the excavations are now being made to receive the houses, and the owners are jacking up the two brick structures preparatory to moving them.

Moving these two dwellings is necessary to make room for the new $50,000 auditorium which Mr. Sharp has given the University. It is anticipated that Mr. A. L. Lauriston, a Delaware alumnus, of Wilmington, will build the auditorium and that work will start very soon. It is planned to lay the corner stone on Commencement Day, and it is expected that Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, a former president of the University, for whom the auditorium will be named, will be present at the ceremony.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY GIVES PARTY TO MRS. D. W. JACOBS

The Young Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church gave a party last night at the home of Mrs. Margaret Roberts, on Delaware Avenue, in honor of Mrs. D. W. Jacobs. At this time Mrs. Jacobs was presented with a pair of silver candlesticks as a token of the esteem of the members.

ADDRESSES FACULTY CLUB

William N. Cann, president of the Wilmington City Council, was the guest of the Delaware College Faculty Club, Monday, and gave the faculty members an interesting description of his coast to coast aeroplane flight. Dean C. A. McCue presided at the meeting.

Power Off This Sunday

The electric current in Newark will be shut off from Wilmington this coming Sunday from 7 a. m. to 12 noon. This cut-off, which is necessary because of trouble on the lines somewhere in Maryland, was scheduled for last Sunday, but was postponed.

Eagle Caught Near Here Given To Boy Scouts

Yesterday the Boy Scouts of Delaware were presented with a fine grey eagle as a mascot for their summer encampment at Caesar Rodney Camp. The bird was caught last Thursday at Strickersville by Fred Ferguson, and was taken into Wilmington and presented to the Scouts, yesterday, by Walter Powell. The eagle is in the custody of the Wilmington Zoo until the camp opens.

Mr. Ferguson caught the eagle in a hawk trap, which he had set on the top of a pole. The bird was apparently uninjured in his struggles to release himself, and Mr. Ferguson put a chain on his leg and kept him alive. Tuesday he brought him to Mr. Powell, thinking he might like to display him in the window of his restaurant, but Mr. Powell thought him too lively a specimen for a window display and suggested presenting him to the Boy Scouts.

The bird is apparently a full grown specimen of his species and measures exactly six feet from wing tip to wing tip. He sits in a calm bored manner while being exhibited, but fights viciously when handled. Since his captivity he has been fed on fish, which he seems to enjoy, but he spurns raw meat.

NEWARK TOWN BILLS PASSED

Representative Brewer Gets Favorable Action On Local Measures In Legislature;
Bond Issue Bill Goes
Through With Referendum
Amendment

Yesterday an amended bill, providing for a $65,000 bond issue for the Town of Newark, was passed by the Senate. It is expected that the House, which passed the original bill, will pass the amendment today.

The bill was defeated, Monday, in the Senate on the grounds that any such measure should call for a referendum vote of the taxpayers of the Town to which the bill applied. Representative Brewer, who presented the bill, then drew an amendment to that effect and the Senate reconsidered the bill and passed it. The amendment provides for a referendum vote to be arranged for by the Council of Newark, in which each taxpayer shall have one vote for each dollar of taxes he or she pays. $45,000 of the money is to be used to retire 5 1/2 per cent bonds of the Town, now outstanding, and to issue 4 1/2 per cent bonds in their place. The remaining $20,000, which will be provided by 4 1/2 per cent bonds is to be used for street improvement. Representative Brewer was voted thanks by the Senate for amending this bill to conform with precedent on such measures.

Two bills introduced by Representative Brewer to replace sections in the new Charter of Newark, withdrawn, have been passed by both Houses. One provides for the raising of the amount of money which the Town of Newark can borrow on notes, from $20,000 to $30,000, and the other provides for a change in the procedure of collecting delinquent taxes levied by the Town of Newark.

The bill, providing for paying a claim of $7,929 levied by the Town of Newark on University of Delaware property for sewer and curbing improvements, was reported out of committee in the Senate, yesterday, and will probably be voted on today. The bill was presented in the House by Representative Brewer about a month ago, and passed unanimously. Since then it has been held in the Senate committee.

To date Representative Brewer has had 20 measures passed by both houses, and has still some bills up for action. Excluding the mileage claims' bills, this about constitutes a record in the present Legislature for successful legislation presented by one member.

KIWANIS NIGHT, APRIL 24

The Wilmington Kiwanis Club will hold its ninth annual University of Delaware Night on Wednesday evening, April 24. The banquet will be held in Old College at 6:30. The Kiwanis Club committee planning for the occasion is composed of A. G. Wilkinson, vice-president of the club and business administrator of the University, chairman; Dr. J. F. Adams; V. C. Blackwell; W. E. Holton; and H. B. Dunbar. A. B. Robeson, president of the club, will preside at the banquet.

FATALLY BURNED IN FIELD FIRE

Frank O'Rourke, Aged Farmer, Found Unconscious On Smouldering Stubble; Dies
After Being Rushed To Hospital

Frank E. O'Rourke, 77 year old farmer, who lived near the Delaware-Maryland line near Iron Hill, was fatally burned Saturday, when he was caught in a sedge grass fire on his farm. He was unconscious and badly burned, when he was found and died in the Delaware Hospital after he had been rushed there in the Newark ambulance.

The elderly farmer, who was a cripple, had apparently started the fire himself, and after it had got beyond control, had been hemmed in the middle of it while he was trying to put it out. Neighbors saw the fire and hurried over to his farm to help fight it. They found Mr. O'Rourke lying along a fence in the smouldering stubble. His clothes had been practically burned from his body, only his charred shoes being intact. He was unconscious. The Newark ambulance, with Ira Shellander and William Clancy as crew, rushed him to the hospital, but he died an hour after he was admitted. Mr. O'Rourke's wife was in Newark at the time of the fatal accident.

Mr. O'Rourke was a native of Delaware, and had spent his life in the state. Besides his wife he is survived by one son, Francis, a graduate of the University of Delaware, who has a government position in Baltimore. Solemn requiem mass was held for Mr. O'Rourke in the Elkton R. C. Church, Tuesday morning, and interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

LAUDS CODIFICATION OF TRAFFIC MEASURES

Tuesday night at a dinner meeting of the members of the board of control of the Delaware Safety Council, Representative Wayne C. Brewer spoke on the bill just passed by the Legislature, which provides for the codification of the state traffic legislation. Mr. Brewer characterized the bill as one of the most constructive pieces of legislation presented to the present Legislature. This bill was signed the following day by Governor Buck.

I. B. Finklestein, chairman of the legislative committee, told the meeting that the passage of this bill was due largely to the work done in its behalf by Louis A. Drexler, president of the Delaware Safety Council.

Including in the new law will be compulsory examination of all new drivers applying for licenses and the filling out of applications as to the registering of all motor vehicles.

The control board members adopted a resolution prepared by John C. Saylor, in which they extended full praise to the following persons and organizations who aided in the preparation and enactment of the bill:

Representative Wayne C. Brewer, Louis A. Drexler, L. B. Finklestein, Walter D. Smith, Secretaries of State's office, State Highway Department, Street and Sewer Department, Department of Public Safety, Chamber of Commerce, Delaware Motor Club, Delaware State Grange and the Delaware Automobile Association. Copies of the resolution will be sent to each individual and organization and to Governor Buck and members of both branches of the Legislature.

REV. D. W. JACOBS HEADS WILMINGTON DISTRICT

At the conclusion of the 80th annual Wilmington M. E. Conference, concluded Sunday, the Reverend D. W. Jacobs, pastor of the Newark M. E. Church, was chosen superintendent of the Wilmington District. As his duties as district head will necessitate relinquishing his charge, the Reverend Walter E. Gunby, D. D., was assigned to the Newark Church.

Dr. Gunby, who has been superintendent of the Dover District, with residence in Dover, will move into Newark, Sunday. He will preach in the parsonage, here, sometime next week. Dr. Gunby is married and has two sons, one is with the Westinghouse Company, at Pittsburgh, the other is a student at Dickinson College.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs will remove to Wilmington, where they will occupy the district parsonage.

HAD NO LICENSE

Roy Weiss, of Pennsylvania, was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Thompson, Tuesday night, for driving a car without an operator's license. He had been stopped by Officer Cunningham because his tail-light was out, and could not produce an operator's card.

TO COMPETE IN STATE CONTEST

Dorothea Chalmers Wins Second Place In County Oratorical
Contest; To Compete
At Dover Tomorrow

Dorothea Chalmers, Newark High School senior, won second place at the New Castle County Oratorical Contest, held Friday afternoon in the Claymont School. Herbert McWalter, of Claymont, was awarded first place. Cash prizes of $5 and $3 were given the winners. Both will compete in the State Contest, tomorrow afternoon at 3, in the Temple Theatre, Dover, the winner of which will speak in the National Contest in Washington. Miss Chalmers' subject, an original essay, is "World Peace." Lillian Brown, from the Newark High School, also competed in the County Contest.

The New Castle County Declamation Contest was held Friday evening at Claymont. William Moeller and Alice McCormack, of Newark, competed but were not placed.

The Musical and Oratorical Contests for colored schools were given at the Newark colored school, Friday evening, under the auspices of the New Castle Teachers' Association. Newark pupils won first places in both contests. Vernon W. Brown, a 7th grade boy, won the Musical Contest with a vocal solo, "Old English Air." Leonard Harris, who is also in the 7th grade, won the Declamation Contest with a humorous recitation, "Jimmie Jones."

$260,000 FOR U. D. BUILDINGS

Legislature Appropriates
$150,000 For W. C. D.
Gym; $110,000 To Complete
Engineering Building

Last Friday the Senate passed three University of Delaware appropriation bills aggregating $260,500. One provides for $110,000 to complete the construction of the new engineering building, the first story of which has been completed. A second provides for $150,000 for the construction of a gymnasium for the Women's College. The third provides for $500 for the School of Agriculture to give annual scholarships to members of 4-H Boys' and Girls' Clubs and for the maintenance of the Junior Short Course. These bills, presented by Representative Brewer, had been passed previously in the House.

The University had originally asked for $190,000 for the Women's College gymnasium, but this amount was pared to $150,000 by the budget committee before the bill was called out. This probably will mean that a swimming pool will have to be deleted from the plans for the building. The Women's College also asked for $195,000 for a new building to contain classrooms and laboratories. The bill asking this appropriation was never reported out of committee.

The present Legislature has appropriated $60,000 more for the University of Delaware than any other General Assembly. $40,000 was for new buildings, $20,000 for other needs.

NEW MANAGER AT KELLS

Mr. Bartlett F. Carley, this week, succeeded Mr. J. Spencer Brock as the manager of the Press of Kells, Incorporated. Mr. Brock has not severed his connection with Kells, but has removed his headquarters to Philadelphia, where he will maintain an agency for counsel on printing problems.

Mr. Carley is a resident of Wilmington and was graduated from the Carnegie Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in printing and publishing. He was formerly sales manager of the Press of Kells and prior to that was connected with the du Pont Company printing division in Philadelphia.

L. G. CUTLER RESIGNS

Mr. L. G. Cutler has resigned his position of shop foreman for the Delaware Ledger Printing and Publishing Company, to take charge of the commercial department of the Caldwell Messenger, Caldwell, Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Cutler expect to leave for Kansas some time next week.

Mr. Cutler has been with the Ledger Company for two years, coming here from the University of Kansas.

SELLS BUSINESS

This week Louis R. Green sold his newspaper, magazine and tobacco business to Edwin V. Armstrong.

Rubbish Collection

Next Thursday and Friday are the bi-monthly clean-up and rubbish collection days as appointed by the Council of Newark. Thursday rubbish will be collected in the west end of town from North and South College avenues to the Town limits. Friday the rest of the Town will be serviced. Rubbish should be placed on the curb early in the morning. The collectors will not go inside yards to collect, nor will they take newspapers.

WAR VETS WILL SELL POPPIES

Local Veterans Of Foreign Wars Will Distribute "Buddy
Poppies" During Memorial Day Week; Poppies To Be Placed On Graves

Wreaths of V. F. W. Buddy Poppies will be placed on all veterans' graves and strewn on the waters of the seven seas as America's annual tribute to the memory of its war dead on Memorial Day, May 30th. And in connection with these annual ceremonies, during the week of Memorial Day, Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., will carry on its annual distribution of buddy poppies in its desire to "honor the dead by helping the living."

The ambition is carried out by means of the relief fund gathered every year at this time through the sale of Buddy Poppies on the streets and in the business houses of the city. The memory of their dead comrades is in this way perpetuated, giving assistance and a helping hand to those disabled by war's cruel fire, and their dependents.

Proceeds of the annual Buddy Poppy sale are kept apart from all other funds and used exclusively for relief work, both in a local, state and national way.

The little red blossoms, emblematic of those that bloom in Flanders field, are assembled by disabled veterans in government hospitals, for several months previous to Memorial Day. The task of making these poppies is a congenial one, and it offers the soldier handicapped by illness or wounds, an opportunity to earn during his convalescence. In addition, hospital authorities testify to the therapeutic value of this work keeping the minds of the patients busily occupied, thus bringing relief to nerves drawn taut by worry and mental strain.

The poppy relief fund realized through the sale of these flowers gives the local post money with which to carry on its welfare work among comrades and their dependents in distress. It permits a system of veterans' bureau liaison service on behalf of the veteran seeking hospitalization or compensation. One cent from each poppy sold goes to the V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, a refuge created for the orphans of deceased veterans. This home, as it gradually develops and expands, is caring for children with their mothers, giving the youngsters a roof they can call their own, clothes, school facilities and the comforts that would have been theirs had their heroic fathers survived the sufferings of war.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post, held Tuesday night, a committee was appointed to devise a death benefit plan. Frank Ferro was sworn in as a member of the Post.

H. S. TEACHERS MEET HERE

On April 26 and 27 the University of Delaware will act as host to the annual conference of the Delaware High School Teachers Association. Professor W. A. Wilkinson is University committee chairman, and is planning the program. There will be a dinner in the Women's College dining room on the 26th and a luncheon the following day.

RUSH WORK ON THEATRE

The fancy plastering and decorative painting is under way in the interior of the new State Theatre, which Louis Handloff is erecting on Main street, and work is being rushed for an early opening. All the equipment for the new showhouse has arrived, including the apparatus for sound and talking pictures and the $10,000 organ.

CHIMNEY FIRE

The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company was called at 6:30 Tuesday morning to put out a chimney fire on the house of Richard Brown. When the firemen arrived the chimney was very hot, but the damage was negligible.

GOVERNOR GETS RESOLUTION ON RED MEN'S BILL

Council Drafts Official Document
Protesting Measure;
Delegation, Which Had Audience
With Governor, Believes He Will Veto Bill

EXPECT ACTION FRIDAY

At a special meeting of the Council of Newark, held Friday night, a resolution was adopted which stated the case of the Town of Newark in regard to the so-called Red Men's Bill, which has been passed by both houses of the State Legislature and is in Governor Buck's hands for signature or veto. A copy of the resolution, signed by the president, secretary and members of the Council, was sent the Governor yesterday.

The resolution was framed on the request of Governor Buck that an official resolution be sent him from the Town of Newark to aid him in studying this bill. A delegation visited him last Thursday to protest this measure, which, in effect, amounts to the cancellation of a just debt owed the Town of Newark by the Red Men's Fraternal Home Association. The delegation, which was composed of Norris N. Wright, Frank Collins and Charles C. Hubert, president pro tem of the Council, returned to Newark after a very satisfactory audience with the Governor, highly optimistic in the belief that the Governor would veto the bill.

It is thought that Governor Buck will not take action on the measure until tomorrow, when the time limit on the bill will expire. As it is expected that the Legislature will make final adjournment on that day, a veto will definitely settle the matter. It is (Continued on Page 9.)

COL. SMITH LECTURES STUDENTS ON HORSE

On April 4th Colonel S. J. Smith, U. S. Army, Retired, gave an interesting, enlightening and instructive talk and demonstration on "The Choice, Management and Training of the Saddle Horse" to the class in "Horse, Cattle, Sheep and Swine Management" of the Department of Animal Industry of the University of Delaware. This was the second class to which Colonel Smith has given talks this year. Both of these groups were greatly interested in what he had to say on this important subject, making extensive notes during the lecture.

During his long active service in the Corps of Chaplains of the Army he was an enthusiastic horseman and while stationed at Fort Leavenworth at the outbreak of the World War, owing to the scarcity of line officers, he assisted the instructor of Equitation in the training of emergency officers. The Colonel knows the saddle horse and treats the subject in an interesting and pleasing manner.

COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Last night Robert L. Shepherd, of Kembleville, as committed to the State Hospital for the Insane, at Farnhurst, after he had been taken into custody by an officer and examined by a doctor. Mr. Shepherd came into Magistrate Thompson's office while a civil case was being tried and created an interruption. As his actions were very peculiar, he was taken into custody by an officer and Dr. Burton Pearson was called. Dr. Pearson had him committed to the hospital for observation. It is said that Mr. Shepherd's aberration has been caused by influenza. He was said to have been in Newark Tuesday night acting in a peculiar manner.

ENTERTAINS CHOIR

On Monday night, Miss Delena Leak entertained the choir of the Newark Methodist Church after they had finished broadcasting the Easter cantata, "The Resurrection Song," over station WDEL, Wilmington.

University Broadcast

Due to illness, Dean C. A. McCue, who was scheduled to broadcast on the University of Delaware program over Station WDEL, Tuesday, at 7:30, was not able to speak. New Castle County Agent Ed William, Jr., spoke in his place. Next week the University program will be broadcast Monday night, at 7:30, and the probable speakers are Mr. William and George Worrior, New Castle County Club Agent. After next week the University program will probably be returned to its regular day, Tuesday.

SMITH STILL HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

Elkton police are working on two new clues which they believe may help them strengthen their case against Edward Smith, who faces charges of murder and arson in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Anna Mahoney and her son, Edward, at Pleasant Hill on March 29.

Smith has furnished alibis for his movements on the night of the Pleasant Hill tragedy but a twist suit, which it is believed belonged to him, has been discovered that may shed additional light on the crime. The coat of the suit has three red stains, believed to be human blood. The coat has been sent to Baltimore for an analysis.

The suit was found at his boarding house in Philadelphia, police declare. Meanwhile, Smith, a nephew of the dead woman, insists he knows nothing of the fatality and the burning of the Mahoney home on March 29.

A boy who cleaned out the car in which Smith and Mrs. Howard Scarborough were brought to Elkton from Newark, Del., found a $10 gold piece. It is known that Edward Mahoney had such a coin, given as a Christmas present, and prized it highly.

Smith denies he ever had such a coin.

Sheriff Logan and a Baltimore detective went to Philadelphia again Monday, hoping to get new information on Smith's movements. He came back to Philadelphia after the mysterious fire that destroyed the Mahoney home near Pleasant Hill March 30. Sheriff Logan also questioned Mrs. Scarborough, who lives at the same Philadelphia address as Smith. They believe the woman has not told all she knows of Smith's affairs.

Smith has retained Henry A. Warburton as his counsel.

Mr. Moro Cooper and son, Letcher, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrissey and daughter, Marie Ann and son, "Bobbie," all of Chester, Pa., spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nimrod Minner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Street and two children were Wilmington, Del., visitors last Saturday.

The Appleton Woman's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting in Lofland's Hall, Wednesday evening, April 17.

The club is also preparing an entertainment, consisting of a playlet, recitations and music, to be given Thursday evening, May 2.

The Appleton Girls' 4-H Club will hold a Bake Sale in Lofland's Hall, Thursday evening, April 25. All sorts of baked goodies and ice cream will be on sale.

Stanton

At the last regular meeting of St. James Branch, G. F. S., final arrangements were made for the Platter Supper to be given in the basement of the Methodist Church on Thursday evening, April 11, from 5 to 8 p. m. The committee in charge of the Lenten box work announced the articles were all ready to be sent. The G. F. S., during Lent, have been working for St. John's Mission, Christiansted, Virgin Islands. The following program committee was appointed to serve from April 1 to June 30. Mary Ellen Frederick, Alice Bradley and Margaret Ruth.

The Lenten Offering of the Church School of St. James Church has reached the amount of $242.75, showing splendid cooperation and team work of the boys and girls. At the end of the drive the boys' team was $30 ahead of the girls. The contest over the school will work as always in a united effort to spread the work of our Lord.

Stanton

The library. The patronage of the library is increasing and all who use it are in the praise of the work it is accomplishing.

At the meeting of Diamond State Grange on Monday evening plans were made for the play entitled, "Peggy of Primrose Farm," to be given in the Old Fellows' Hall on Wednesday evening, April 17.

Friendship Lodge, Shepherds of Bethlehem, will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday evening in their lodge room.

The pupils of the Stanton School are practicing for the annual field meet, which will be held in May.

The annual services will be held next Sunday at St. James Church. Morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m. Church School at 9:45 a. m. Rev. E. A. Rich, rector.

There were no services in the Methodist Church on Sunday on account of conference. Much regret is heard that Mr. Lohoff will not return, he has served this congregation for the past six years and the church property has been much improved under his administration.

The pupils who attend the Wilmington High School returned to their studies on Monday after enjoying the Easter holidays.

The Building Commission of the new Stanton Consolidated School met with the State Board of Education on Monday and opened the bids for the new school building, no awards were made as the funds available after the State Board allowed an increase of funds of $5000 were not sufficient to meet the lowest bidder. Another meeting will be held in the near future to consider how the amount may be reached. The building is much needed as the old Stanton school building was destroyed by fire over a year ago.

Ogletown

Considerable excitement was caused in this little village by the explosion at the abandoned fireworks plant last Wednesday afternoon. Various rumors were afloat as to the location, the cause and the resulting damage of the explosion, but as a matter of fact a grass-fire spread to a pile of debris from the plant which was formerly operated for a short time as a branch of the Victory Sparkler Works of Elton. Explosives in this refuse-pile were set off by the fire, resulting in a noise as of a mighty blast, which was heard and felt for miles around. No one was hurt, however, and no special damage done.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eastburn and son, Warren, of Christiana, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Eastburn at their home here.

Mrs. William Dickinson and mother, Mrs. Katie Husebeck, and Mrs. Eliza Bendler were Newark visitors Saturday.

Those perfect in attendance for the month of March at Summit Bridge School were: Marvel Argoe, Mildred Sartin, Katherine Cavender, Ruth Argoe, Eleanor Golt. Percentage of attendance, 81.3. The attendance was low on account of so much illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bendler and children, Albert and Doris Bendler, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Austin, at Armstrong.

Christiana

There were no services in the Christiana and Salem M. E. Churches on Sunday, on account of the Conference which was being held in Wilmington. It is most gratifying to the people of this community, irrespective of creed or denomination, that Rev. and Mrs. Preston W. Spence, Jr., have been returned to this charge for another year. Mr. Spence has been most successful in his work here, and has won the respect and esteem of all the people in the neighborhood. Their hearty good wishes are with him as he enters upon another year of service.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church met last evening at State Road Chapel, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Appleby. Miss Anna Moody was in charge of the entertainment which followed the business session.

Another success was scored by the cast of the Epworth League play, "Anne What's-Her-Name," repeated in the Methodist Church last Wednesday evening, for the benefit of the Fire Company. Between the acts, music was furnished by the Hawaiian Serenaders, a pair of instrumentalists who may often be heard broadcasting from Station WDEL.

At the last meeting of the Christiana Improvement Association and Parent-Teacher Association the following delegates were appointed to represent the community at the meeting of the State P. T. A., to be held at Dover this coming Saturday, April 13: The two teachers—Mrs. Ethel M. Hill and Mrs. Mary C. Kennard—Mrs. George W. Davis and Mrs. Calvin Clay.

The election of officers resulted in the re-naming of the same staff, who have served so efficiently, as follows: Mr. R. Earle Dickey, president; Mr. Harry A. Marshall, vice-president; and Mrs. R. Earle Dickey, secretary.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Company held a successful Bingo Party in Odd Fellows' Hall at Stanton, last Tuesday evening, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the Company.

The Girl Reserves held their weekly meeting in the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening. Miss Ruth Kempa, of Dover, the girls' advisor, was present at the meeting, after being confined to her home by illness for the past several weeks. Lois Phelps, president of the club, was chosen to represent the girls at the State P. T. A. meeting at Dover on Saturday.

It is some time since mention has been made of our splendid little library. In case there may be any who are unfamiliar with its workings, it may be stated that its advantages are free to everybody in the community and vicinity. It is open each week from six to eight-thirty p. m. on Mondays, and from two to four-thirty p. m. on Thursdays. There are more and better books on the shelves than ever before, some 1928 and 1929 publications were being included among them. It is well worth a few minutes of anyone's time to give this library the once over—it is really surprising!

Mrs. James Appleby, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Stille Chew, of Mantua, N. J., spent Wednesday and Thursday of last week in Washington, D. C., the trip being made by motor. In Mrs. Appleby's absence, the post office was in charge of her daughter, Mrs. H. Vernon Lynam, of Stanton.

Personals

Mrs. Clarence Ware spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. J. Norris Price, in Philadelphia.

Miss Dorothea Rothwell was the overnight guest of Ruth Phelps, last Thursday.

Miss Sara Perkins, a sophomore in the Wilmington High School, visited the local school last week, with her sisters, Grace and Elsie, both of whom are regular attendants at the Christiana School.

Miss Florence M. Appleby spent last Thursday in Dover.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Earle Dickey were guests, on Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kane, of Bellevue.

Mrs. Sue Currinder and her daughter, Mrs. Ida Tomlin, entertained last week Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Vlasveld, of Atlantic City, and Ralph and Mina Manzo, children of Mina Currinder, of New York City. Mrs. Vlasveld, whose recent marriage was noted in this column, was formerly Miss Helen Marshall, daughter of Mr. Harry Marshall, of this place, and granddaughter of Mrs. Sue Currinder.

Mrs. Oliver Rothwell had as week-end guests her sisters, Mrs. Harry Hance, of State Road, and Miss Florence Appleby.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent, at their home in Wilmington.

Little Miss Ellen Moody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Moody, of Bear Station, recently visited her aunt, Mrs. George W. Davis, at her home on the Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ware had as their guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. Norris Price, Miss Elsie Love and Mr. Harry Hackman, of Philadelphia, Miss Ada Love, of Oxford, Pa., Mr. Ralph Schneibo, of Kennett Square, Miss Sara Kilvington, of Christiana, Mr. Ralph Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Moran, of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. William Howell and family visited, on Sunday, Mr. Howell's mother, Mrs. A. P. Howell, of Strickersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell also had as guests, on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vincent and daughter, Ethel, of Elkton, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eastburn and son, Warren, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. William McVey, at their home in Marshallton.

Harmony Grange

"Men's Night" was observed at Harmony Grange on Monday, when the men entertained with a pleasing program. All the offices were filled by men and those taking the women's places were: Lecturer, Abner Woodward; chaplain, Frank Klair, secretary, Charles Woodward; Ceres, Lloyd Porter; Pomona, Calvin Ball; Flora, Richard Porter, lady assistant steward, George Pierson.

The resolution committee and the chaplain, Mrs. Annie Dennison, were appointed to draw up resolutions upon the recent death of one of the members, Mrs. Ida Gilmore.

Margaret Derickson, the lecturer, announced that on April 22, former State Senator L. A. Drexler, of Bethany Beach, would address the grange at an open meeting.

The literary program arranged by Abner Woodward, was as follows: Harmonica solos, Marvin Klair and Lloyd Porter; reading, "Chickens," Eugene Woodward; Harmony Grange new notes, Steele Atwell; recitation, "The Family Financier," Joseph

The Election Results

The annual election of the Town of Newark was conducted on Tuesday, quietly, but with an apparent large interest indicated by the number of ballots cast. While the total was under that of last year, the vote represented a large majority of the eligible voters in the town, and last year's election was a bitterly contested affair.

From the way the vote ran, a goodly majority of Newark should be satisfied with the results. All the candidates on the ticket were particularly qualified for the offices they were running for, and the choice was more a matter of personal preference than platform issues.

Frank Collins, mayor-elect, should give Newark an excellent administration. As a retired banker and engineer, he is specifically qualified to bring mature judgment to bear on problems both administrative and technical. His engineering experience, which has been for the most part with electric power and water supply corporations, covers exactly the technical situation in Newark. Mr. Collins not only has the necessary experience, but he has the time to devote to the affairs of the town.

Both the new members of Council, and the hold-over members are men of achievement in their particular professions, and the combination appears properly balanced and experienced to cope successfully with every situation and need of the town.

Red Men's Issue Not Lost

The Town of Newark is still fighting the now notorious Red Men's Bill, and feels confident that Governor Buck will veto the measure, which has been passed by both Houses of the Legislature, and is now in his hands for approval or disapproval. The fight to prevent this unfair and vicious piece of class legislation from becoming a law, has been stern and complicated, and the Town has lost all but the final round. In this issue of The Post appears a resolution which has been drafted and signed by the Council of Newark and is now in the Governor's hands. It is thought that this resolution, which covers the legal and moral aspects of the case, will, in itself, be sufficient to win the Governor's disapproval of the bill.

Last week, George W. Griffin, who for forty years has been prominent in the local tribe of Red Men, published in The Post a review of the controversy, and a protest against the bill. In this letter appeared statements which could be taken as reflections on the efforts of Representative Wayne C. Brewer, of this district, to have the bill defeated. In this column, today, appears a letter from Mr. Griffin correcting this impression.

The course of this bill through the two houses of the Legislature and their committees has been devious. When the bill was first presented in the House, Representative Brewer met with the Council of Newark and its attorney, and explained the relative status and situations affecting and controlling the Red Men's bill and other bills in the House, in which the Town of Newark was interested. At this special meeting procedure was discussed that should prove effective in stopping the passage of the Red Men's bill without affecting the passage of other bills, which it was to the advantage of the Town of Newark to have passed. The plan of campaign against the Red Men's Bill seemed plausible, and its failure is speckled with broken pledges and empty promises, made for the most part by members of the Senate. Representative Brewer put into effect the plan discussed after he had laid a groundwork supported by pledges of members of his own body and of the Senate. The first reverse came when the House committee threw him down by reporting the bill out, and the second came when Senators, who had promised to vote against the bill, shifted their support over-night and rose to argue in favor of the measure. Voting pledges were broken, which were made not only to Representative Brewer, but to members of the delegations from Newark, who had visited the Legislature to protest the passage of the bill.

The issue resolved itself between the weight of pressure of the Town of Newark and its five thousand taxpayers, and the Red Men of the rest of the state. As the vote of the Newark taxpayers was of no interest or consequence to these legislators, the opposing pressure was more than sufficient to cause a repudiation of promises, principals and ethics. Representative Brewer's mistakes were in over-estimating the moral stature of his colleagues, and in under-estimating the state-wide pressure which the Red Men were exerting. However, the hole card of Representative Brewer and the Town of Newark is yet to be played, and we believe that Governor Buck's sense of fairness and constitutional propriety will be sufficient to trump the tricks the Red Men have already taken.

Confidence In Representative Brewer

Newark, April 8, 1929.

Editor Post:

In my letter last week relating to the Red Men's Home bill recently before the Legislature, I rather intimated that Representative Brewer had been derelict in his defense of Newark's interests. My charge was based upon misinformation, circumstantial evidence and to some extent upon the Representative's own too brief statements to me relative to the bill. Since then he has explained in detail his work in opposition to the measure and I now believe I was wrong, and am fully convinced that he acted according to his best judgment to prevent its passage, and I am glad to make such amends as I can, and hope, if any wrong impressions were created that they may be dissipated by this correction.

EXCEPTIONAL EXHIBIT AT MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Finest Examples of Etchings and Prints of All Modern Schools

There will be an exhibition of etchings and wood block prints in the Art Gallery of Memorial Library, University of Delaware, from April 9 to April 15.

This collection of forty prints by thirty-two contemporary artists evidences the great diversity today in manner and handling among print makers, for here we have examples of the work of the most conservative, those who adhere closely to tradition and the most revolutionary, the so-called progressives. Among the conservatives are such men as John Taylor Arms, President of the Brooklyn Society of Etchers; Chauncey Rider, a printer as well as etcher, Herman Webster, of international repute, and Charles H. Woodberry, of Boston, painter, etcher, and teacher.

Between the works of these men and the so-called modernists are the works of etchers like Kerr Eby and Childe Hassam. Then come the individualists, George Biddle, Arthur B.

Davies, part modernist, part classicist, and Thomas Handforth, one of the younger men who looks at things from an unusual viewpoint and sets them down as he sees them.

Finally among the workers in black and white are the extreme modernists such as Wanda Gag, Eugene Fitch, Emil Canso, Louis Sozowick, and Arnold Ronnebeck, forceful expressionists.

Rockwell Kent, painter, illustrator, block printer, and lithographer, one of the really great men of today, is represented in this group. So also are J. J. Lankes and Thomas W. Nason, two of the finest makers of wood blocks of the present day.

Side by side with the works in black and white are shown a few in color, landscapes by Gustave Bauman, Frances Gear, Norman Hall, Ernest Watson, and others.

With this collection of prints there also are some plates and blocks demonstrating the processes of etching, soft ground, dry point and block printing in color. This exhibition not only illustrates method, but has the appeal of art which must always be to the sensibilities, the emotions, and the intellect, both through the skill of the artist, and the significant charm of his or her result. Beauty, strength, humor, and charm mingle here for the enjoyment of the observer.

INTERESTING PROGRAM FOR SHORT COURSE

Just in time to help those home makers who are planning the new spring clothes for their families and those who wish to know how to launder delicate articles of clothing as well as how to use vegetables to a better advantage in the diet the University of Delaware Home Economics Extension Service through its leader, Mrs. Helen McKinley, announces a two-day short course on these subjects to be given at Wolf Hall, Newark, April 17 and 18.

The program for the two days will be:

Wednesday, April 17

10:00 A. M.—A demonstration on "Cutting and Fitting a Garment" by Mrs. Helen McKinley, State Home Demonstration Agent.

1:30 P. M.—A demonstration on "The Cooking of Vegetables," by Miss Pearl MacDonald, Nutrition Specialist of the University of Delaware.

Thursday, April 18

10:00 A. M.—A demonstration on "Laundering Sweaters, Silk Dresses and Rayon," by Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, County Home Demonstration Agent.

1:00 P. M.—A demonstration on "Short Cuts in Sewing," by Mrs. Helen McKinley.

At this last demonstration many quick and attractive finishes will be explained and taught. Each woman attending is asked to bring her regular sewing equipment such as scissors, needles, tape measure, pencil, pins, thimble, some floss of any kind and color and some scraps of wash materials for making a set-in pocket, a bound button-hole, quick binding and seams.

The short course is free to all home-makers.

"BUD" COBB PROMOTED IN CURTIS SALES RANKS

Alex D. "Bud" Cobb, Jr., eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cobb, has just received a merited promotion in the ranks of the sales force of the Curtis Publishing Company. For the past three and one-quarter years "Bud" has been a hustling agent in Newark for all the Curtis publications. He takes mail subscriptions for the three Curtis Magazines, but the biggest part of his business is personal house deliveries. Promotion is based on sales increases and general business methods, and he has just been made a junior salesman. The promotion carried with it a cash bonus and other emoluments. "Bud" has now enough credits on two of the magazines he handles for a senior salesmanship, but is lacking in credits on the third. However, he is fast beating sales resistance on this periodical, and in a short time expects to be ranked in the first flight of the sales organization, an unusual achievement for a boy of his age.

LONDON USES SLANG

As the English edition of Sinclair Lewis's novels needs a glossary to be understood, just so do visitors to London need a dictionary of colloquialisms—that is, visitors whether hailing from Flagstaff or Lincolnshire who discard Baedeker and shake hands with "London Town." Today even Charles Dickens, were he to step from a Putney Green bus, would find the most casual public-house conversation distressingly over his head.

Piccadilly is "the Dilly"; a London hobby is a "split" or "nark," as you will, and a pub is a "garden of love." And fancy calling a man's wife anything but "bother and strife." The barmaid serves up beer at the call "big's ear," and stout masquerades under "siffy water." The server of drinks after hours may find himself being put behind bars in the "clink" by the plainclothes "Jack" or "Bogey." A low cafe is not a dive, but a "caff."

They call the swells "nobs" or "what-whats," though the fashionable are also, of course, very "posh." "Mother Goose" is short for being on the loose; and the Londoner's club is often called endearingly his "bath and tub." If the girl friend says she'll see you at "dirty Gertie," you'd better be sure and make it at 3:30 o'clock.

sharp. A girl, by the way, is a "black pearl."

Though the Englishman's home may be his castle, the nicknames he gives his bric-a-brac are anything but baronial. One must break into a London middle or lower class family circle really to meet the King's English. First off, when they tell you to "put the wood in the hole," comply by losing the door. Drop your hat on a chair when the host asks you to hang your "tit for tat" on one of the "apples and pears." "Hoy Lee," the Englishman's hot afternoon cup, will probably be served on the "Cain and Abel" before long.

Remember, in piecing together the small talk, that the master of the house is "old pot and pan"; the mother "muffer" and "skin and blister" simply a fellow's sister. "The Duke of Kent" is house rent, and to inspect the second story you must climb the "wooden mountains." "Oxford scholars" are not of the schoolmen, signifying merely starched collars; over your socks called "Tilbury docks" you draw on and lace your "daisy roots"; the tails of the "dicky dirt" are tucked into "round-me-houses" or trousers; and the overcoat is a "smother."

Prime assets of variety-hall girls are their "Scotch pegs." "French paste" is a term for the face, "conk" for the nose and "bonce" for the head. "Mince pies" are eyes. Though the Cockney's hand is a "brass band," anger may suffer him to strike out with his "Oliver Twist" and possibly "derby Kelly."

On the Bowery the sign of the three balls may indicate a hook shop, but in Blackfriars it means "Uncle Bob," which is one and the same. Money is "pot of honey" and enough of anything elicits the warning "basin full"; bread is "chuck" and a herring a "one-eyed beefsteak." You start the "Aunt Myria" in the stove by striking a "coney hatch."

Any one doing the "ball and chalk" is walking; passing down the road is "frog and toad"; a fellow's mate is "put and take." Loquacious folk "blow the gaff" too much, and any sort of noise is a "box of toys." "The garden gate" implies tardiness. The park is "fire and spark" and "Eiffel Tower" the hour of day. And giving anything or any one the once over is "pot and hook."—N. Y. Times.

SHELLEY VS. MAUROIS

It appears that the general favor and success which Andre Maurois has met with in England and America have aroused suspicion in France. Such popularity, it is felt, can hardly be deserved. Many of his countrymen ask themselves why M. Maurois, of all French writers, should be singled out by English readers for such generous recognition. Georges Batault goes into the matter in some detail in an article in The Mercure de France called, "A Defense of the Poet Shelley—Remarks Apropos of Biography." He is himself a passionate admirer of Shelley and a stiff-necked opponent of the new school of fictionalized biography.

Literary production, says M. Batault, has tended to become simply a branch of commerce, subject to the tyranny of economic laws. The ideal point of perfection would be the Americanization of intellectual production in order to secure the greatest possible output. Mere esthetics give way before the law of supply and demand. Maurois was clever enough to invent just what the public wanted. Biographies had been written before, but they had held to a serious tone and a strictly historical method. M. Maurois changed all that. He turned the tricks of the novelist to the trade of biographer. He presented only the easy, the entertaining, the agreeable. He applied the Montessori kindergarten method to the life of Shelley and gentle readers lapped it up.

Analyzing the reasons for the success of "Ariel or the Life of Shelley" the French writer grants that M. Maurois is a writer of incontestable talent, of grace, elegance and flowing style. He has written the picturesque story of Shelley's troubled life, completely ignoring Shelley the poet. Because he was a dreamer, Shelley got along badly in a practical, common-sense way. His illusions led him astray. At the game of life he was more maladroit than most. Let us pity him, smile at his fumbings, showing our superiority. Precisely there is the decisive reason for Maurois's success. He is pandering to the inferiority complex of all of us small people; he has brought the winged poet down to our little level. Under a charming manner, "Ariel" is really a denigration of the poet for the edification of the rabble.

M. Batault challenges the accuracy of Maurois's account of Shelley's life. Taking a chapter of some seven or eight pages, he points out inaccuracies of time and place, transpositions of some events and omissions of others, to the tune of some thirty-five pages. But "Ariel" is relatively a short book, and strict selection was necessary. Had M. Maurois made mention of all of Shelley's work, he would have run into volumes. His book aimed at no interpretation or evaluation of the poet's work. Its author avowed it to be "the work of a novelist rather than of a historian or critic." M. Batault criticizes it by the standards of the old style, "official" biography, rather than as an example of the new "fictionized biography." The bitterness of his disapproval is measured directly by his enormous enthusiasm and admiration for the poet. His conclusions may not be altogether convincing, but his argument is interesting, stimulating, and even, at times, irritating.

SKATES OF BONES USED IN ANCIENT BRITAIN

Skates were not always made of iron or steel. According to Flavius Josephus's "History of England," in the twelfth century to fasten the bones of animals under their feet by means of thongs and side on the pushing themselves along by means of an iron-shod pole. Specimens of primitive skates have been found from time to time in the marshy fields near London.

Just who invented skating is not known. Holland, with its extensive water surfaces, is sometimes looked upon as the birthplace of the sport. But the twelfth-century same reports were some followers of the spirit in England before the Dutch spread it abroad in the thirteenth century. In twelfth-century England the skates on bone are said to have lasted for each other as in a tournament.

SCORE KITCHENS IN CONTEST

Mrs. Daugherty Reports Great Activity In Kitchen Improvement Contest; Speaks Of Wall Decoration

Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, Home Demonstration Agent for New Castle County, reports great interest and progress in the Kitchen Improvement Contest, which is being conducted by the Extension Department of the University of Delaware. She has been busy scoring kitchens entered in the campaign for the past several weeks. In talking of improving kitchens and making them brighter and more efficient places in which to work, Mrs. Daugherty speaks of the decoration of kitchen walls.

"The spring season that is fast approaching makes one feel the urge to brighten up their homes to keep them in pace with the beautiful works of nature out of doors." "The smoke and grease must be removed from the walls, ceilings and wood work of the kitchen, and in many instances, new finishes applied. Something must be done to the floors to make them more attractive and easy to clean and keep clean. Many requests for help on these problems are coming into the Home Demonstration Agent's office daily," continues Mrs. Daugherty. The question that so many women are asking is, what is the best way to finish the walls and ceiling of my kitchen? The answer, of course, to that depends on the condition of the walls to begin with. Kitchen walls and ceilings can be treated in many ways to make them beautiful, washable and sanitary.

If the wall is a hard finished plaster, one of the best finishes is to paint with two coats of flat wall paint and one coat of gloss or enamel. This makes an excellent durable finish, or one can obtain an interior gloss which will require only two coats making it less expensive. A flat paint finish is less glaring than the gloss and so is restful to the eye, but it is not so easy to clean and keep clean as the gloss or enamel finish.

There are many grades and prices of paint on the market today, and when one considers the labor involved in putting the paint on the kitchen, it is far better to obtain a good quality of paint and put it on properly so it will not have to be replaced so often.

Sandpaper or oil cloth pasted to the wall gives an easily cleaned surface which may be replaced or repaired when necessary, but the walls must be in good condition and properly glued with sandpaper or paper is to be used.

"Ordinary wall paper is not satisfactory for kitchen walls," continues Mrs. Daugherty, "as it absorbs grease and spots easily. If it is used at all, it should be a wall paper of varnished type and the surface should be varnished to make it washable."

All surfaces that are to be refinished should be clean, dry and free from cracks and holes. A good grade of a mild soap and warm water will clean soiled walls, rinse with clean water. Do not use an alkali soap, a strong soap powder or scrubbing compound as these are too severe. A large, coarse sponge may be used for washing the walls and if only a small area is cleaned at a time the work will not be patchy. Be careful that water does not run in streams while washing the walls.

After the walls have been washed and rinsed allow to dry thoroughly before applying the new finish.

Cracks in walls should be thoroughly cleaned before any new finish is applied. Wash with warm water to which washing soda has been added. Rinse thoroughly and dry. Give size and apply desired finish.

One tablespoon washing soda to one quart warm water.

An inexpensive commercial paint remover which can be obtained that is very satisfactory and easy to use.

A kalkamine wall may hold paper or paint, but it is easier to scrape it and scrape off the kalkamine and sand paper the surface. It is necessary to give size such a wall. To prepare a painted wall or any surface that needs the paste, a coat of sugar size should be applied. This will take the place of the glue size. Two lbs. brown sugar dissolved in one gallon hot water. Apply this mixture hot.

Before painting old kalkamine walls, wash and scrape off all of the kalkamine and fill the cracks and holes with plaster of Paris or patching plaster, apply a flat wall finish and allow to dry thoroughly. Then apply the next coat of the desired finish.

Mrs. Daugherty says after one has decided upon how the kitchen walls are to be finished, the next important step is to choose the color scheme. Colors or tones are very lovely colors, but not easily and for that reason it is sometimes wise to choose soft, soft yellow, light tan, green or greenish. The latter two are used sparingly, however, and should not be used except on the sunny side of the house, and in a kitchen that has lots of light.

She suggests soft buff walls, cream or ivory ceiling and light tan wood work as being a very desirable color scheme for a kitchen. The choice of the color has much to do with the attractiveness of the kitchen.

Painting is more frequently free-work of every day work of kitchen. —Herald Weaver.

DEL. TO OBSERVE NAT. EGG WEEK

State Poultry Association Sponsors Program To Popularize Egg As Food

Another year is about to complete its cycle and the nation will be celebrating annual egg-week, May 1 to 7, with the striking slogans, "Eggs for Health" and "Sunshine in Sealed Packages." This is a week sponsored by the National Poultry Council, supported by the Delaware State Poultry Association, and becoming famous throughout our land.

The consumption of eggs in the United States is much below that in some of the other countries. Also, from a nutrition-health standpoint, the consumption is far below what it ought to be, according to Miss Pearl MacDonald, nutrition specialist of the Extension Department of the University of Delaware.

Just why should we have an annual egg week? The reason for having such a week is based, fundamentally, says Miss MacDonald, upon the value of eggs in the diet. This value is determined by the part the food elements in the egg perform in the body nutrition.

What determines this value? There are four main factors entering into the problem:

1. The quality of the proteins in both the white and in the yolk is excellent. The proteins in eggs rank next to those of milk in their efficiency for building and maintaining the body tissues. This is a basic point to remember in selecting food for the growing child who needs the best quality of proteins available to build his muscles.

2. Egg yolk is an excellent source of vitamins A, B, and D which are essential in promoting normal growth in children and in helping to maintain the general well-being of every individual. By well-being we mean general health.

3. Eggs, both because of the kind and quality of mineral matter present, are a valuable source of supply for minerals which are needed in building tissues and in helping to regulate the working of the body machine. The egg is not as rich in lime as milk, the lime being mostly in the shell. The egg has phosphorus in proportion similar to that in milk. When eggs are used with milk, there is an excellent supply of these two minerals which are used not only for building bones and teeth but also in other important ways in the body. Egg yolk is much richer than is milk in iron which is needed for the blood. The iron both in milk and in egg yolk is in a form particularly well used in the body nutrition.

4. The fat of egg yolk ranks with the cream of milk as a source of energy. It is easily digested and well used.

For the above values, concludes Miss MacDonald, it is readily seen that eggs rank with milk as an indispensable food for the human family.

The little I have seen of the world teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsations of joy, the feverish inquietude of hope and fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellowman with Him from whose hand it came. —Longfellow.

Women's College Notes

There will be a meeting of the Forum Society today at 4 o'clock in Residence Hall. The subject for discussion will be "Hoover and His South American Trip."

At chapel on Monday, Miss Peckham, of the National Red Cross, gave a brief talk on the work being done by the Red Cross and its Junior branch since the war. At the present time, that organization is helping care for the victims of eighteen different states, including those injured and bereft by explosions, tornadoes, and floods. Miss Peckham spoke of the Junior Red Cross work being done in schools of foreign countries. She exhibited several dolls which were dressed by children in the elementary schools of Japan.

At a meeting of the Athletic Association held last week, the Honor Volleyball Team was chosen. It consists of Bertha Rothamel, Mary Moore, Sara Reville, Jeannette Cameron, Hazel Gibney, Virginia England, Emilie Gordon, Jeanne Kusselle, Eleanor Jamison, Dorothy Wood, and Emma Minner.

Edith Biddle, '28, visited at College last Thursday before she returned to Connecticut to resume teaching.

Orders for commencement announcements are being taken this week. The committee in charge consists of Louise Becker, Helen Stayton, and Estella Wheelock.

The Home Economics Club met last Thursday evening in Practice House. Miss Elizabeth Amery, former state supervisor of home economics in Delaware and now state supervisor in Maryland, was the speaker.

Louise Angerstein spent Saturday in Washington with her parents.

Eleanor Edge entertained as her guests over the week-end, Miss Anita Dillon and Miss Anna Dillon, of Wilmington.

Carrie Atkinson and Ann Nutter spent the week-end in Port Norris, N. J.

Dorothy Phillips entertained Elizabeth Colver, of Laurel, over the week-end.

Yvonne Townsend, who is at the Beebe Hospital in Lewes, is reported to be recovering rapidly from an operation for appendicitis.

Hazel Chapman spent the week-end at the home of her sister, Mrs. Walter Bankes, in Wilmington.

Miss Edith McDougall, Miss Beret Templeman, Miss Emma Ehlers, and Miss Mildred Boeke spent last Thursday in Washington, D. C.

Katherine Townsend, Agatha Hagan, Sarah Crossan, and Elizabeth Erickson enjoyed a Beach Party at Randallia on Saturday evening.

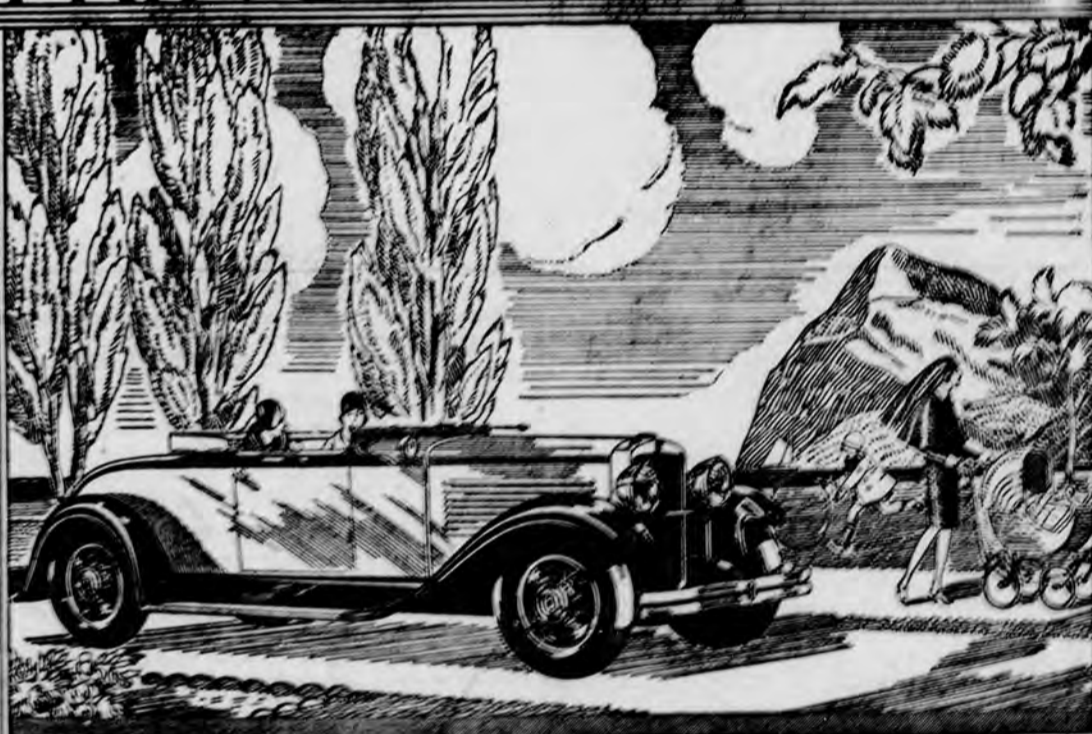

Kathryn Hubert was the guest of Miss Elizabeth Donahue at dinner in Wilmington on Saturday evening.

Whiteman Allows One Hit,
Fans 17; Newark Gets
17 Hits

The Newark High School baseball team hopelessly outclassed Delaware City High School, in a game played here Tuesday, and won 17 to 0. Statistically the score sheet was full of seventeens. Newark made 17 hits, 17 runs, and Whiteman, Newark pitcher, fanned 17 Delaware City batters. Whiteman, incidentally was touched for only one hit, a double by Staplegood, Delaware City first baseman. "Winnie" Mayer starred with the stick for Newark, getting a homer and a double.

Newark will play New Castle tomorrow at New Castle.

DELAWARE NINE LOOKED GOOD IN FIRST GAMES

The University of Delaware baseball team returned home Sunday, after a five game southern trip. Coach Rothrock seemed well pleased with the showing the team made in winning two of the five games from nine which had had considerably more seasoning. Delaware won from Lynchburg College, 8 to 4 and from Virginia Medical College, 3 to 2. The Blue and Gold lost to Bridgewater College, 3 to 2; to Hampden-Sidney, 8 to 5; and to Washington and Lee, 8 to 5. Hall and Crosgrove pitched the two winning games, but in the Bridgewater game, which Delaware lost, Charley Garrett twirled no-hit ball until the ninth inning, when he was bumped for only one hit.

The Blue and Gold fielding was ragged in spots, but showed improvement as the trip progressed, and the boys all seemed to be sharpening their batting eyes. Glasser and Taylor, in particular, hit hard and consistently. Delaware will play Drexel in Philadelphia, Saturday, and will play its first home game on the 20th against P. M. C.

HOPKINS BEATS U. OF D. ON TRACK

Blue And Gold Weak On Track; Loses 86½ To 36½

Showing but little strength in the track events, the University of Delaware lost its first track and field meet of the season to Johns Hopkins, Tuesday, 86½ to 36½. Delaware was only one point behind in the field meet, but took only one first on the track. The meet was held on Frazer Field.

Harold Sortman was the only Delaware man to score on the track when he took the century. Sam Sloan was the star of the meet as far as Delaware was concerned. He accounted for 11 points by tying for first place in the pole vault and high jump and placing second in the shot put. Parkinson won the discus throw for Delaware, while Amos Collins took the javelin with a heave of 146½ feet.

Summary

100-yard dash—Won by Sortman, Delaware; second, Morrison, Hopkins; third, Wilson, Hopkins. Time, 10.3.

1-mile run—Won by Scheibel, Hopkins; second, Emmerson, Hopkins; third, McCarthy, Delaware. Time, 4:53.3.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Hershey, Hopkins; second, Wells, Delaware; third, Stafford, Hopkins. Time, 16.9.

330-yard dash—Won by Yellott, Hopkins; second, Kelly, Hopkins; third, McVaugh, Delaware. Time, 2:11.1.

440-yard dash—Won by Perry, Hopkins; second, Dunning, Hopkins; third, Riggin, Delaware. Time, 56.1.

2-mile run—Won by Scheibel, Hopkins; second, Miller, Hopkins; third, Deputy, Delaware. Time, 10:57.8.

220-yard dash—Won by Morrison, Hopkins; second, Lockerd, Hopkins; third, Neu, Hopkins. Time, 23.4.

220 low hurdles—Won by Hershey, Hopkins; second, Scheidt, Hopkins; third, Wells, Delaware. Time, 27 sec.

Shot put—Won by Dorman, Hopkins; second, Sloan, Delaware; third, Kuteher, Hopkins. Distance, 35 ft. 6½ in.

High jump—Tie for first between Sloan, Delaware, and Caldwell, Hopkins; third, tie between Garrett, Delaware, and Kirbin, Delaware, and Stafford, Hopkins. Height, 5 ft. 2 in.

Discus—Won by Parkinson, Delaware; second, Burke, Hopkins; third, Dorman, Hopkins. Distance, 109 ft. 9½ in.

Broad jump—Won by Nue, Hopkins; second, Cauldk, Delaware; third, Nue, Hopkins. Distance, 20 ft. 2½ in.

Javelin—Won by Collins, Delaware; second, Burke, Hopkins; third, Garrett, Delaware. Distance, 146 ft. 6 in.

Pole vault—Tie for first between Sloan, Delaware, and Scheidt, Hopkins; third, Bryaum, Delaware. Height, 10 ft. 3 in.

NEWARK JUNIORS SWAMP HOCKESSIN NINE, 26-1

Newark Junior High School captured its first D. I. A. A. baseball Elementary League game for this year by smothering Hockessin here, Monday, by a score of 26 to 1. The game was a seven inning contest.

Jackson, Newark's captain and pitching ace did very effective work for the locals, striking out 17 and hitting a circuit blow. Singles also made a round trip on a hard hit ball.

Newark used the following men: Roberts, c; Herdman, 2b; Worrall, 3b; Jackson, p; Singles, ss; Hugh Gallagher, rf; Lomax, cf; Dobson, 1b; McVey, lf; Walls, rf; Diehl, lf; Harry Gallagher, 1b.

Hockessin's players were: H. Reynolds, 2b; Malin, 3b; Lake, lf; H. Malin, ss; Regdon, cf; Waibel, cf; J. Reynolds, 1b; Woodward, rf; Franklin, p; Wilson, p; Hegarty, p.

SPRAY NOTES

Fruit growers in New Castle County received last week copies of Orchard Spray Notes No. 2 from the office of County Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark. These notes containing timely spraying information are prepared at various intervals by the Plant Pathologist, Dr. J. F. Adams.

This is what Dr. Adams has to say concerning spraying conditions:

Since our first letter on recommendations for the dormant spray of peaches, weather conditions have changed so that we are about two to three weeks ahead of growth development last year. The warm days and nights have pushed growth more rapidly down state. In Sussex County, peaches such as Hale and Belle were showing bloom on the 24th, while Early Ripe was in delayed dormant stage.

Aphis are very prevalent and have been in appearance for two weeks, while last year they were not observed until April 3rd.

Apples

The early blooming varieties are opening blossom buds and will be ready for the delayed dormant spray the first week of April.

Studies on apple scab show that it is two weeks further advanced than last year, which is to be expected with our seasonal development. We anticipate that spores will be ready to discharge during the first week of April. This evidence indicates that our delayed dormant spray and pink spray will be the most important for scab control.

What to Use on Apples

A. For heavy insect infestation such as Scale, Red Mite, Aphid and for Apple Scab: use oil spray with Bordeaux Mixture (3-5-50) or lime sulphur 1-40 strength (5 gallons to 195 gallons of water). Use commercial strength or home-made emulsions at a 3 per cent strength.

B. For scab and where insects are not disturbing, use Commercial Lime Sulphur at rate of 20 gallons in 180 gallons of water.

Direct your spraying so as to secure spraying from all sides and from underneath.

OFFERS TO TEST SEED

Only a few corn samples to date have been received for germination tests by County Agent Ed Willim, Jr., following his announcement that he would gladly test for germination any sample of corn sent to him by New Castle County farmers.

"This service is open to every one," says Mr. Willim, "and I hope that all who are wondering if their corn is good this spring will send in some to be tested."

Any sample sent in should be germinated and results of the test returned to the owner by two or three weeks after it has been received. This will allow time for a test during a very busy period of the agent's time and yet be early enough for the farmer who is to plant the corn, providing the sample of corn comes in soon to the agent's office in Newark.

"In securing a sample," continues the County Agent, "take about 15-20 ears of the type you wish to use for seed, and shell a row or two from tip to butt of each ear. Send in all of this shelled corn to me in some container. Take these ears from different parts of the crib because the corn on the bottom and in the center of the crib may not be dried out as much as that on the top of the crib. Be fair with yourself in taking this seed sample because you want a test on corn you expect to plant. Don't try to get a high germination test just for the sake of a good test, because if you have this good test and the sample was not representative of all of your seed, then your germination in the ground when planted may fool you.

FRANKLIN'S GIFT TO THE AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE

Story of How He First Planted Seeds of the Corn Told in An Old New England Diary

Nearly every farmer who puts a lightning rod on his barn is aware that Benjamin Franklin is the inventor to whom he is indebted for this measure of protection. The housewife who wields the broom little realizes that she owes him as much as an ally in her battle against dirt and trash, for it was Franklin who brought the broom to America.

This fact was revealed, to the surprise of many, at the recent meeting of the National Broom Manufacturers' Association, the secretary of which quoted from an old diary found in North Hadley, Mass., how a woman acquaintance of Franklin sent him a whisk-broom from India, with seeds on its stalk, which Franklin proceeded to plant. The seeds sprouted and grew up into the first American broom, made by binding several of the stalks together in a round clump.

The announcement comes not exactly as a discovery, but rather as the revival of an old story. More than fifty years ago The American Agriculturist carried a different version, taking care to point its moral as illustrative of the "importance of cultivating the powers of observation and the fact that small beginnings may often lead to great results."

"It is said that Franklin," runs the treatise, "happening to see an imported broom (some say whisk of corn) in the hands of a Philadelphia lady, had the curiosity to examine it, and finding a single seed (others have it a few seeds), he picked it off and planted it; this was the beginning of the broom-corn industry in this country."

What lay behind Franklin's first crop of broom corn is largely veiled in obscurity. Brooms, no doubt, were used by the cave women when they took a notion to tidy up, but the first of these implements of which history makes any note were not brooms proper at all—that is, made of broom corn—but merely bundles of underbrush or twigs, such as birch.

Broom corn, which The American Agriculturist of 1876 pronounced "one of those natural products, like cork, that are so perfectly adapted for the uses to which they are put that no substitute has been or is likely to be found," belongs to the sorghum family. Its origin is not known, but it is recorded that a sort of sweet sorghum with loose, open heads was used for clothes brushes in Italy more than 350 years ago, and it is thought that broom corn was obtained from this.

The first broom-corn market in this country was developed by the Shaker community at Watervliet, N. Y., in 1798. Before this a good many American brooms were made for home use on the farms that grew broom-corn, just as they continued long afterward until the factory took over the task.

In the early part of the eighteenth century broom-corn raising and broom making were largely in the hands of the Shakers and others in New England, especially in the Connecticut Valley, where the pursuit was engaged in on a seemingly large scale. Later, the centre of the industry shifted to the Mohawk Valley. Until well past the middle of the century New York and Virginia continued to be the broom country; then production started moving westward. Broom corn has been cultivated to some extent in Italy, France and Germany, but, according to a bulletin of the Department of Agriculture of a few years ago, it is now grown almost exclusively in America.

LONDON'S WALL STREET

Lombard street, the principal bank quarter of London, takes its name from the Lombards, Italian goldsmiths and money lenders who settled there in the twelfth century. At that time they were commonly called "longbeards" and the thoroughfare was called Longbroad and Longebred. A century later it was called Langebourne—meaning "long brook"—and this title is still maintained for the place where it was situated.

Christian Science Churches

"Unreality" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, April 7. Golden Text: "The Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish" (Psalms L:6).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Whither shall I go from thy spirit or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there" (Psalms 139: 7, 8).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Since God is All, there is no room for His unlikeness. God, Spirit, alone created all, and called it good. Therefore evil, being contrary to good is unreal, and cannot be the product of God."

FIND DISEASE IN POTATO SEED

County Agent Willim Advises
Treating Seed Potatoes
To Control Blight

Potato growers in the county should take every possible precaution in controlling seed borne diseases this spring. There are considerable amounts of Rhizoctonia which have been found on some of the certified seed shipped into the county for the potato growers. This statement comes through the office of County Agent, Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark.

The potatoes should be treated with corrosive sublimate, formaldehyde or one of the copper dusts used in liquid form now available on the market. If the corrosive sublimate solution is used, the seed potatoes should be soaked for one and one-half hours in 30 gallons of water to which 4 ounces of corrosive sublimate has been dissolved. The tubers should be uncut when soaked, and the solution should not be used in any metallic containers. The solution can be used four times, but the addition of one ounce of corrosive sublimate to 30 gallons of the solution after each batch of potatoes is soaked, keeps the treating solution at proper strength. The potatoes should be treated before the seeds show sign of sprout. Following this treatment the tubers should be soaked in water for 24 hours, then dried before planting.

If the formaldehyde treatment is used, 1 pint of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) is used to 30 gallons of water. The seed potatoes should be soaked for two hours and spread out on a clean surface to dry, treating them uncut as in the former case. This formaldehyde solution can be used five times before it becomes ineffective.

One of the newest treatments advocated for a control of this disease and other seed borne potato diseases, is the new dust treatment known as the instantaneous dip treatment. One of these materials is put out by the Dupont Company and can be secured from several dealers in New Castle county. The directions for use of this material will be found on the can, and if followed, good results are claimed by the company.

LIGHTING BROODERS

Lighting the brooder house at night in order that the baby chicks can see to eat and to prevent overcrowding is a new practice that has made its way into Delaware within the past few years. This statement with others of similar nature is contained in the third instruction letter in the Delaware Grow Healthy Chicks campaign sent to New Castle County poultrymen this week through County Agent Ed Willim, Jr.'s office.

Aside from this instruction letter the poultry raisers are also receiving "Hints on the Control of Coccidiosis," by Dr. Frank Hare, of the State Board of Agriculture, and a letter from the Director of Markets, Wilmer T. Derickson, in which an appeal is made to poultrymen not to consign shipments or extend credit to unknown buyers or dealers.

In his article Mr. Derickson makes the following statements: "Before making shipment or extending credit to any person or firm whom you do not know, either write or telephone this office for information or ask for information at your local bank and do not make shipment or extend credit to any unknown person or firm until you have satisfied yourself that they are reliable."

In his poultry instruction letter, Mr. H. S. Palmer wants the poultrymen to be extremely careful in endeavoring to keep the chicks healthy. Records obtained from a large number of farms last year showed that clean ground is one of the most important points in our program to grow healthy chicks, continues the article. Clean ground means ground that has had no poultry or poultry manure on it for at least six months or better still one year.

Any interested poultry grower who wants copies of any of the articles mentioned in the preceding paragraphs can secure them by writing to Mr. Willim at Newark.

The desire of excellence is the necessary attribute of those who excel. We work little for a thing unless we wish for it. But we cannot of ourselves estimate the degree of our success in what we strive for; that task is left to others. With the desire for excellence comes, therefore, the desire for approbation. And this distinguishes intellectual excellence from moral excellence; for the latter has no necessity of human tribunal; it is more inclined to shrink from the public than to invite the public to be its judge.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Financing the Road System In Delaware

By M. M. Daugherty, Assistant Agricultural Economist, Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Delaware

The automobile has profoundly affected our every-day life, and it has no less affected our system of public finance. Before the automobile became known, the local means of transportation was supported by local revenues, for the same people who used the roads paid for them. But those days are gone and now we all use roads and benefit from them. The theory underlying their support is as good now as it was then; namely, the benefit theory of taxation. But now the area of benefit is greatly increased and it is recognized that to equalize the burden of taxation in proportion to benefits, both the state and federal government should bear part of the expense. At first the local district supported the roads, then the district and county joined hands, next the state and federal government lent their aid, and now all four are contributing.

The last legislature required the Highway Department to pay the interest on the highway bonds amounting to $375,000 last year, and the general fund to meet the serial bonds as they fell due, amounting to $205,000. This $580,000 that the state assumed were obligations of the counties. It greatly eased the tax burden of the people, for in Kent and Sussex counties the road support was more than all the rest of the county expenses combined. Now it is proposed that the State Highway Department shall take over the maintenance of all the roads. According to the theory of the case, this would be a fine thing for little travel is done upon the roads except by auto. At the present, the landowner who owns an auto is supporting the roads in two ways—by auto taxes and by the tax on land. He may also benefit in two ways, but the increase of land values are not all equal. Before plunging the state into the matter, let us look at the ability of the state to finance the local roads.

The State Highway Department gets all the automobile fees, gasoline taxes, fines, etc., and judging the next two years by the last four, in 1929-1930 they will receive about $2,100,000; and in 1930-1931, about $2,250,000. That is a lot of money, but roads cost money. Judging the future two years by the last four, the counties will spend, if they continue to increase their expenditures, a minimum of about $700,000 a year on upkeep of the local roads.

If the State Highway Department takes over these roads, they will have to spend about the same amount to do as well, unless they are much more efficient than the counties. How much more efficient they are, only a trial will tell.

If the burden be placed on the Highway Department, assuming their obligations to be continuous, to do the work will take about $2,140,000 for each of the next two years even if they do not undertake any new constructions out of current revenue. Last year they spent $372,491 for new constructions out of the revenue, but if they take on the upkeep of the county roads, it is difficult to see how they can construct new roads unless they are much more efficient than are the counties. It is true that dirt roads are the most costly in the long run, but until funds are available they will, of necessity, have to be maintained.

The other alternative seems to be to give the Highway Department the job of maintaining the roads and also the funds with which to do it. But are the counties willing to turn over their funds to the state to spend? The question of the Highway Department's taking over the county roads seems to rest on the following foundation: (1) Is the State Highway Department more efficient than the counties in constructing and maintaining roads? (This fact cannot be proved without a test); (2) Does the State Highway Department have the funds with which to do it?; (3) Would the people rather have more road construction out of revenues than better local roads now or, to put it another way, do they prefer to endow the future rather than to enjoy the present?

POULTRY COSTS

One hundred seventy-nine farms reported in the Delaware Farm Egg Record Club for the month of February. These farms showed that about 61,000 birds were entered in the club which is an annual record for Delaware farm flocks. The production for the month was 13 eggs per pullet, 10.5 for hens and 11.3 for mixed flocks.

The highest average of 13.8 eggs per bird was in the large pullet flocks of 500 and over while the small mixed flocks averaged about 8.7 eggs per bird. The flocks are divided into small, medium and large; ranging from less than 100 to 500 and over.

Some figures on the cost of rearing White Leghorn pullets to six months of age during the season of 1928 are appended to this monthly summary prepared by H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman and sent to all members of the club by County Agent, Ed Willim, Jr.

This data was figured from complete cost records sent in to Mr. Palmer from 8 farms in the state. They show that including only cost of baby chicks, feed, fuel, litter and other cash expenses the net cost per pullet and cockerel on hand November 1st was .68.

Besides the above figures, plus interest on investment in land, houses, equipment and running expense, at 6 per cent for 6 months and depreciation on houses and equipment at 10 per cent, the net cost per pullet and cockerel increased to .85 each. Then with labor estimated at .40 an hour with all of the above items the average cost was $1.18.

Anyone not on the mailing list and who is interested in more detailed and complete data on these records should get in touch with Mr. Palmer or the County Agent and they will be glad to explain the figures to them.

THE PATRIOT

"The Patriot," which makes its appearance today and tomorrow at the Newark Opera House, is Emil Jannings' greatest starring vehicle.

Directed by that master of subtlety, Ernst Lubitsch, "The Patriot" brings to the screen a story of the Russian court a century ago which, for suspense, dramatic force and lavishness of production, has rarely been equalled, never surpassed, in any local theatre.

Produced in the Paramount studio in Hollywood, "The Patriot" brings to the screen the amazing attention to detail and set construction which marks Paramount pictures but it also presents a story of such sweeping force that the audience is engrossed in a study of the characters. Like the three ring circus of early memories, it is impossible to see everything which should be seen and a second viewing of the picture might be worth while, if only to observe the details of sets and costumes.

Florence Vidor, the gracious and beautiful aristocrat of the screen, plays a role opposite Jannings which offers marvelous opportunities for her suave and meticulously careful artistry. Lewis Stone, who plays the name part of "The Patriot," presents a character which, for dignity and convincing realism, might be that of the original, Count Pahlen, whose name is plastered all over the pages of Russian history a century ago.

Other members of the cast, Tullio Carminati, Vera Voronina, Harry Corring and others, under the mastery direction of Lubitsch, present character studies which are amazingly real.

Errors to be dangerous must have a great deal of truth mingled with them; it is only from this alliance that they can ever obtain an extensive circulation; from pure extravagance, and genuine, unmingled falsehood, the world never has, and never can sustain any mischief.—Sydney Smith.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance.—Emerson.

LADIES' AID NEWS

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Newark Methodist Church held its regular monthly business meeting on Thursday, April 4th. Never disregard what your enemies say. They may be severe, they may be prejudiced, they may be determined to see in only one direction, but still in that direction they see clearly. They do not speak all the truth, but they general speak the truth from one point of view; so far as that goes, attend to them.—B. R. Haydon.

GOVERNOR GETS RESOLUTION ON RED MEN'S BILL

said that the Governor slipped quietly into Newark, yesterday morning, and made an inspection of the property owned by the Red Men's Home.

The resolution, adopted and signed by the Council of Newark, reads as follows:

HON. C. DOUGLAS BUCK, Governor of Delaware.

CERTIFIED COPY OF PREAMBLE AND RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE COUNCIL OF NEWARK.

Whereas, The Council of Newark, in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, approved April 25, 1927, Volume 35, Laws of Delaware, page 356, approving the construction of sewers in the Town of Newark, Delaware, and providing means for the payment for the same, did construct an addition to its then sewer system, a part of which was along and under the streets binding the property of and furnished sewer facilities to the Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware; and

Whereas, The said sewers were constructed in strict compliance with the above recited Act of Assembly, and the assessments for the cost thereof were duly apportioned to the properties along and in front of which it was constructed, as provided in said Act, and the portion of said cost assessed to and due from the Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware was and is the sum of Three Thousand Nine Hundred and Seven Dollars and eighty-nine cents, with interest thereon from the Tenth day of June, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, the date when the said assessment became a lien against said property, in accordance with the provisions of said Act of Assembly; that the said The Council of Newark also erected and constructed curbs and gutters along said property, with the knowledge and consent of those in control of said Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, the cost of which was the sum of One Thousand Four Hundred and Eighty-five Dollars and ten cents; and

Whereas, Said Act of Assembly, in Section 10 thereof, expressly provided that The Council of Newark shall have the right to, and shall assess the cost of constructing said sewers upon the property abutting the streets along which said sewers were built, whether owned by and used for churches, schools, colleges, or any other purpose, and whether exempt, under any general or special law of the State of Delaware, for assessment for town taxes, or other assessments; and

Whereas, The University of Delaware and all other properties in said district, exempt from the payment of town taxes and assessments, have been assessed, and have paid or are paying, under the provisions of said Act, the amount so assessed against their property; and

Whereas, The Council of Newark did not, immediately after the Tenth day of June, the date when said assessments became a lien against the property of the said Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, take the legal proceedings against the said Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, provided in said Act of Assembly, for the reason that they were advised by those in control of said Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware that it would pay its assessment, and that it had started a drive for the collection of the amount due, from its members and friends in the State of Delaware; and said Council was further informed and believes that they had collected from that source the sum of approximately Six Hundred Dollars; and

Whereas, No part of said amount so collected was ever offered or tendered to The Council of Newark, but the said Council of Newark learned that those in control of the said Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware had introduced in the present General Assembly an Act to release them from the payment of said amount by attempting to indefinitely postpone the time of payment thereof, said Act being known as House Bill 112, which Act it is advised has been passed by the House of Representatives and by the Senate, and is before your Honor for approval or disapproval; and

Whereas, The Council of Newark has made no provisions in its present assessment on property and persons in said Town, and no levy of taxes based thereon, for the payment of said sum so assessed against and due from The Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, as its portion of the cost of said sewer and curbing, and is advised and believes that it has no power or authority to levy and collect the same, under its Charter, or under any act of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, other than the Act approved April 25, 1927, above referred to as authorizing the construction of the sewer in question.

Now Therefore, Be It Resolved, That The Council of Newark hereby, for itself, and for all of the citizens and property owners of the Town of Newark, does hereby most earnestly protest against the approval of the provisions of said House Bill No. 112, as unjust and unfair to the rights of said town and the citizens and property owners thereof, as unconstitutional, in that it attempts to nullify a valid lien recovered against the property of the Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, under a statute of the State of Delaware duly passed by the General Assembly, and approved April 25, 1927, and published in Volume 35, Laws of Delaware, at page 356; and we do hereby most earnestly petition your Honor to withhold your executive approval from said Act known as House Bill No. 112.

tests but in some of the field events and a dodge ball game as well.

The following pupils made no grade lower than "B" for the month of March: Hazel Johnston, Charles Nelson, Carolyn Guthrie, Betty Hollingsworth, Agnes Kwiatkowski, Esther Greer, Ethel Gray, Kathleen Starkey, Paul Nelson and Grayson Greer.

The April P. T. A. meeting will be held in the school room on Wednesday evening, April 17, at 8 o'clock. The older folks are giving a play, "The Sewing Circle Meets at Mrs. Martin's." From all reports of those who have been "let in" on the rehearsals, the play will be a success from start to finish. "Echoes from the State Convention" will be given by the teacher, Mrs. Herman Stradley. Don't fail to be on hand the evening of April 17—you'll regret it, if you're not.

We are glad to report that with three exceptions, all children present on Monday received the immunization treatment for diphtheria, administered by Dr. Hurdle. Little Miss Betty Ayars and little Master "Scottie" Guthrie also received the treatment.

Never throw mud. You may miss your mark; but you must have dirty hands.—Joseph Parker.

MILFORD CROSS ROADS SCHOOL

April is passing quickly, it seems, and May, the month of May Queens, will soon be ushered in. The children at Milford Cross Roads School have already selected their queen by popular vote. Their choice fell upon Miss Mildred Reed, sixth grade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reed. The pupils will soon begin to rehearse for their May festival.

Milford Cross Roads boys and girls are practicing for the New Castle county field and track meet to be held on Frazer Field on May 17. The pupils are not only interested in the badge national, in that it attempts to nullify a valid lien recovered against the property of the Red Men's Fraternal Home of Delaware, under a statute of the State of Delaware duly passed by the General Assembly, and approved April 25, 1927, and published in Volume 35, Laws of Delaware, at page 356; and we do hereby most earnestly petition your Honor to withhold your executive approval from said Act known as House Bill No. 112.

I. O. R. M. ANNIVERSARY

Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, I. O. R. M. celebrated their 44th anniversary on Tuesday evening at their hall. The committee in charge had a very good program. John L. Frick, the only living charter member of Minnehaha Tribe, made an address in which he made clear the advantages of fraternalism. The High School orchestra under the direction of Prof. Ira S. Brinser, opened the program, with the audience singing "America." Other numbers on the program were as follows:

Address, John Frick; sketch, "The Burglar Alarm," Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey; Mrs. Frank H. Balling and the Misses Elizabeth Lindell and Alice Fell; address, George H. Hall, Great Sachem of Delaware; solo, "A Precious Little Thing Called Love," Miss Gregg; sketch, "A Slight Misunderstanding," Mrs. Viola Ewing; James Greenplate; address, Past Great Sachem, Abernathy, of Maryland; solo, "Watching the World Go By," Wesley Dempsey; sketch, "Going Somewhere," Mrs. Devonshire, Mrs. Messick, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Brown; duet, (1) "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," (2) "Wild Irish Rose," Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Messick; address, Edward W. Cooch; sketch, "The Love of a Bonnet," Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Eissner, Mrs. McCallister, Mrs. Messick, Mrs. Wideman and Miss Laura Mearns; address, Albert H. Stetser, Great Senior Sagamore; closing, Orchestra, playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

After the entertainment the guests were invited to the banquet room where refreshments were served by the ladies of Mineola Council, No. 17, of Newark.

Among those present were the Great Chiefs of the Great Council of Delaware, and visitors from Tribes in Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

J. R. O. U. A. M.

American Flag Council, No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M. met in session Monday evening. Councilor Norton was in the chair, having returned from a recent vacation. Definite plans were formulated for several meetings of special interest. An address will be delivered at a session soon on "A Wild Man of Europe." An open meeting will take place June 3, at which time a cedar chest and a floor lamp will be given as a prize. These articles are made at "Our Home" at Tiffin, Ohio.

State Councilor Mote attended a class initiation at Smyrna last Tuesday night. Several brothers made the journey with him. Next Tuesday a class initiation will be held by the Eureka Council, No. 1, in the Junior Home, 907 Tatnall street, Wilmington. —A. Neal Smythe, Jr., Past Councilor.

MINEOLA COUNCIL

A BANKER'S ADVICE

PART OF BUSH LINE FLEET

Part of the large fleet of the Bush Line which covers Kent and New Castle Counties in Delaware, and Pennsylvania as far as West Chester, daily. Rates on the Bush Line are among the lowest enjoyed by shippers in any part of the country.

The red Bush Line truck has come to be a familiar and well recognized transportation facility in the territory from West Chester, Pa., to Camden, Delaware. Yet it has been only ten years since that fleet of trucks was first commissioned.

Satisfaction with this service is constantly being expressed in terms very gratifying to the officials of the Bush Line. The traffic arrangements and through rate arrangements with water and rail lines out of Philadelphia give shippers in Bush Line territory the advantage of all water and water and rail service and rates to all parts of the world.

Established in 1774 by Samuel Bush, the Bush Line has remained in the hands of the Bush family for 155 years. Many and revolutionary changes have come during that time.

From sail to steam, to internal combustion engines and the automobile truck. From pounds and shillings to cents and dollars. From long credits and annual settlements, to as nearly as possible, cash. From stevedore labor begging for jobs at $1.00 a day, to begging for stevedore labor at $3.50 per day. Quill pens to typewriters, adding machines, billing machines, telephones. Such has been the progress of the Bush Line and it remains today one of the strongest service-giving firms in Delaware.

Daily service is rendered by water or truck between the following points: Philadelphia, Marcus Hook, Chester, Kennett Square, Wilmington, Avondale, West Grove, Marshallton, Newark, St. Georges, Odessa, Middletown, Townsend, Smyrna, Wyoming, Dover, Camden, Thompson's Point, Carney's Point and Deepwater Point.

SPECIAL KEYS FOR

TYPEWRITERS

Shilling-Lake Co., 9th and West streets, Wilmington, report the following in regard to special typewriter keys, received from Mr. H. S. Taylor, of Washington.

"The writer has 'yes' on one key, the last typebar on the right hand side of the machine. On the typebar next to it he has the word 'no.'"

"The word 'yes' on one key is the biggest time-saver I ever had of any kind, being employed on court work, many cases having half the answers with that one word. A fellow can hit the upper case 'A' for answer, a couple of ticks on the space bar and then hit 'yes' with the right hand, while the left is ready for the carriage throw. Nobody who has not tried it long enough to get used to it can appreciate its usefulness."

SHIPPING BRICKS FOR

MINQUADALE SCHOOL

Shipments of brick were started, last week, by the Oberly Brick Company, at 909 Orange street, Wilmington, for the new school being erected at Minquedale. The company is also delivering its product to the building operation at Twelfth and Thatcher streets, where E. T. Samworth is doing the masonry. Contract has also been awarded the local company for brick to be used in the construction of a two-family house, at Concord avenue and Baynard Boulevard for David L. Topkis. In addition to all these awards, the company is supplying brick on alterations being made by A. L. Lauritsen, contractor, on several estates on the Kennett Pike and in the vicinity of Greenville.

BEST LOCK CORPORATION

908 Orange Street, Wilmington, Del. Phone 6155

HOT WEATHER

Mr. Harry Solomon, 51 192 North Union street, Wilmington, advises every automobilist to look after their battery. After the hard winter of grinding starting, the chances are good that your battery needs attention, at least a good going to help keep the summer-thrust down. You owe it to your battery to stop and let Harry Solomon give it the once over. He will tell you just what service you can expect, and will cheerfully give you his advice.

BEST LOCK CORP.

SALES INCREASING

The Best Lock Corporation reports that there is wonderful progress in its plant at Seattle. It has recently added some new automatic machines for shop use, and orders, regardless of size, are being shipped promptly, set to any master key system called for.

The company recently put several new men in the field who are bringing in much business. The March sales of locks show a considerable increase over those of previous months.

Best Lock Corporation also reports success with its Wilmington office at 908 Orange street, which will be the headquarters for the entire organization.

CANN BROS. OFFICIAL

AT TILE CONVENTION

William N. Cann, president of Cann Brothers and Kindig, printers and publishers, of Twelfth and Washington streets, Wilmington, is leaving today for Detroit, where he will attend the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Tile and Mantle Contractors' Association of America. It begins in the Statler Hotel tomorrow. Clarence F. McCauley, of this city, is president of the association.

Mr. Cann is going there in the interest of his company, which printed the official souvenir program of the convention. This work was praised by numerous members of the association, many of whom wrote word to meet these men that Mr. Cann will make the trip. He will return Wednesday night.

Among recent jobs received is one to publish 50,000 catalogues, each of 56 pages, for the Trenton Rubber Company, of Trenton, N. J. Another was for 75,000 two-color large circulars from special plates for an out-of-town concern. There were also 75,000 reply cards. They will be sent through the mails by Cann Brothers to all parts of the country. Another fine piece of work was the printing of colored booklets for the Wash Line. They are issued each season by that company. The contents include scenes on board the boats, of River view Beach, which the company operates, and also a map of the Delaware River, showing the various routes over which boats are maintained.
