Many Attend Convocation Today

President of George Washington University Speaks; Two Students Receive Degrees

The Convocation Exercises were held this afternoon at the University of Delaware. The students formed in front of Wolf Hall and marched up passed the dormitories over in front of Old College Hall. The line extended for some distance.

The procession began at 3 o'clock, standard time. After the invocation, there was a reading of the Scriptures. The students sang a hymn, "America," and the important announcements were made by President Hulihan.

The speaker of the afternoon was William Martin Lewis, LL. D., President of the George Washington University. He gave the students advice on their college careers and warned them of the dangers that await the unwary.

There was a conference of degrees by Dean Dutton and President Hulihan to those students who had to go to Plattsburg this past summer and who did not receive their degrees in June.

H. Stetser Murphy, of Milford, received a Bachelor of Science degree in the school of Arts and Science. Hyman Yanowitz received a Bachelor of Art degree in the school of Arts and Science. Both had recently completed their six weeks' military training period at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., this course being a prerequisite to graduation to those who take the advanced R. O. T. C. course. They also received their commissions as reserve second lieutenants, and will most likely be attached to the Seventy-eighth Division, the same unit to which the members of last June's class were assigned.

DEATH OF W. McG. LASHER

Father-in-Law of Dr. Crooks of University of Delaware

Mr. William McGill Lasher died at 8:40 p. m. on Sunday, at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. E. B. Crooks, of the University faculty. Mr. Lasher was born at Mariaville, N. Y., November 13th, 1840, the youngest son of James M. and Marion Kennedy Lasher.

He was a member of the class of '61 of Union College, Schenectady, graduating as an honor student with the Greek oration. For forty years he was in active business in New York City, retiring in 1908 for residence in Virginia, and came to Newark in November, 1922. Since his retirement from business he has been much of an invalid.

He married twice, his first wife being Sarah K. Lyon, mother of Mrs. E. B. Crooks. He is survived by his second wife, Ellen Phelps Lasher, his two sons, James Egbert and William Gerard Lasher, of New York City, and by his three daughters, Mrs. E. B. Crooks, Marion Eloise Lasher, of Gambier, Ohio, and Mrs. W. S. Stothoff, of New York City.

Mr. Lasher was a broadminded Christian, for many years a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Yonkers, N. Y. He had a reputation for the most fastidiously honorable standards in business, was devoted to his family and church, and was interested in all world movements, especially those of a religious character—a man whose entire life was one of spotless integrity.

The funeral was private, a short service at the home, on Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Newark. The body was taken to Mariaville, N. Y., and buried in the family plot. The burial service will be read by Dr. E. B. Crooks.

STORES CLOSED FOR FUNERAL

Following the suggestion of a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, all the merchants on Main street closed their places of business for one hour at the time of the funeral services for Mr. Samuel J. Wright yesterday afternoon.

Early Morning Wreck Near North East

A broken flange on a car wheel caused a serious wreck on the P. B. and W. Railroad at three-thirty this morning, a quarter of a mile from Northeast, Maryland. Twenty-six freight cars from a long westbound freight train were derailed. No one was injured and the portion of the train that remained on the track was quickly taken out of the way. Several of the cars had been loaded with gasoline at Marcus Hook and were soon afire. Three fire companies fought the blaze, but with little result, until the railroad company sent by special train from Wilmington a quantity of formamide, used in fighting oil fires. The company engaged the Stiltz bus to take care of the passengers for the 6:37 train from Newark.

RALLY DAY SUNDAY

The Rally Day exercises of the First Presbyterian Sabbath School will be held next Sunday, September 26, at 10:30 (standard time) in the church auditorium. The members of the school will gather in the school room at 10:10 and proceed to the church at 10:25.

A varied program is being arranged and in addition to the regular promotion exercises and presentation of diplomas there will be an address by an invited speaker, music by the girl's choir, a vocal solo and an instrumental duet.

The free will offering will be devoted to the educational work among the southern mountain children at the Asheville Farm School in North Carolina.

To all who are interested in Sabbath School work, and especially to those who have just come to our town, a cordial invitation is extended to be present at these exercises and learn how the school may serve you.

Delaware's Day At "Sesqui" Largest To Date

Anniversary of Adoption of Constitution 150 Years Ago; J. P. Nields Principal Speaker

Delaware Day at the Sesqui-Centennial was observed on Monday, September 20, and the affair was considered the biggest "state" day of the season. At six o'clock Monday evening, 1200 visitors had registered in the Delaware Building, and it is thought that not more than one in twenty had signed their names. State officials are quoted as saying that they had never seen so many Delawareans in one day.

James C. Hastings, of Newark, who is a member of the Delaware Committee, acted as aide to Governor Robinson and with Mrs. Hastings, Senator du Pont, Mrs. John Pierce Cann, Miss Eleanor Todd, and Mrs. Christopher Ward, of Wilmington, and Miss Emily Spruance of Smyrna, rode in the Governor's car. Others at the head of the procession were, with Governor and Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Donald Ashbrook of Wilmington, Mrs. George Horace Lorimer of Philadelphia, head of Women's Bureau of the Sesqui, Mrs. Harry Vivien of Bridgeville, Mr. Sutton, director of Domestic Participation at the Sesqui, and Major Hicks, the Mayor's aide.

Among the Newarkers who attended were: Mrs. Hester Lewis, Miss Hester Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. W. Heim, Dr. and Mrs. Hulihan, Miss Winifred Robinson, P. M. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Cooch, and Professor and Mrs. Elisha Conover.

The principal speaker at the exercises was John P. Nields. Mrs. Julia Ashbrook presided. The other speakers were U. S. Senator du Pont, Bayard, Congressman Houston, and Judge I. C. Grubb. Tea was served from 4 to 6 o'clock at the State House on High street.

SON OF MR. GREEN-PLATE STRICKEN

The son of Mr. J. Greenplate, who lives two miles outside of Newark, was taken to the Delaware Hospital last night in the Newark ambulance. The boy was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis. The driver was Mr. Clancy.

RAILROAD NOTICE

Several important changes in time of trains will be made on the P. B. & W. R. R., beginning Sunday, September 26.

Freshman Week Opening U. of D.

Students From All Over State Put In Appearance; New Students Seem Pleased; Lectures By Faculty

Freshman week at the University of Delaware began last Friday. Delaware College and Women's College have each an enrolling class of more than 125. The idea of the week's program which is being tried here for the first time this year, is to allow the students to become adjusted to their routine of work and with their surroundings and to become acquainted with one another. The deans and members of the faculty have been greatly assisted in the project by the heads of the various student organizations.

At the Women's College Dean Robinson has requested all freshmen, including those who will commute, to remain in college for Freshman Week. At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon there was a meeting in Wolf Hall for the new students of that college, their parents and members of the faculty of the college.

The following are the new students at the Women's College:

Frances V. Adkins, Smyrna; Virginia B. Archer, Dagsboro; Carrie E. Atkinson, New Castle; Elsie M. Baker, Avondale, Pa.; Ann W. Barclay, Narberth, Pa.; Rosalie D. Bertram, Wilmington; Violet C. Best, Milford; Jennie Bogdanoff, Wilmington; Dorothy D. Boyd, Wilmington; Gertrude R. Braderman, Wilmington; Mildred S. Burchard, Smyrna; Emma S. Camper, Frederica; Rebecca B. Cann, Newark; Iva S. Carl, Salem, N. J.; Dorothy V. Caulk, Blackbird; Evelyn M. Chambers, Wilmington; Mary E. Clark, Delaware City; Ruth L. Clark, Sewanee, Tenn.; Elizabeth D. Conrad, Dover; Sara E. Crewe, Newark; Virginia L. Dameron, Newark; Emma G. DeHuff, Cynwyd, Pa.; Catherine Dickerson, Milton.

TOMATO CROP POOR

The tomato crop all over the country is only about twenty-five per cent of what might have been expected. This condition is probably due to the frequent heavy rains. The price, however, has increased proportionately. In Jersey, tomatoes are selling wholesale from eighty to eighty-five cents a basket. The price of tomato pulp, used in soups, catsup and other canned tomato products, has jumped during the last twenty-four hours from three dollars and a half per dozen to four dollars and a half.

The local cannery, supervised by Lester Scotten, is a cooperative concern, with a combined planting of four hundred and fifty acres. Colored help from Norfolk, Virginia, has been secured this year, but, due to short crop, the plant is operating only half time.

Newark People In Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Enos Slack received a telegram this morning from their daughter, Mrs. Don Jones, of Miami, assuring them of the safety of herself and her husband, but that conditions there are just as bad as reported in the press. Mrs. Jones was, before her recent marriage, Miss Elsie Slack.

Eugene Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas, east of this town, went to Miami, Florida, two weeks ago, to engage in electrical work. His parents are in anxious suspense as to his safety, since the recent disaster there. At noon today, they had received no replies to the wires they have sent.

Mrs. Mary H. Rose, of this town, has been much concerned since the newspapers reported the disastrous storm in Florida. Considerable in-

GET TOGETHER DINNER

The Wholesale Section of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce made a tour of inspection of the business interests of Cecil county on Monday, with a view of getting better acquainted with merchants of the community. They made the trip by automobiles and the first stop was Perryville. Perry Point, North East and other sections were visited, landing in Elkton for a final meeting and "get together" dinner with their merchant friends as guests at the Church House, where speeches were made by Mayor Mackall, of Elkton; I. B. Finkelstein, Chairman of the Wholesale Section; William D. Hannigan, Gerrish Gassaway, George A. Casey, Irvin T. Kepler, Harvey H. Mackey, W. D. Bratton, Murray J. Ewing, Daniel S. Terrell, D. J. Ayerst, and William Rutter.

Music was furnished at the dinner by the Currier Orchestra, of Elkton, and the Mozart Male Quartet, of Wilmington. Dinner was served by the Gleaners of the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church.

Del-Mar-Va Press To Meet In Newark

The annual fall meeting of the Del-Mar-Va Press Association will convene here Saturday, September 25, at 11:30 o'clock. Dr. Walter Hulihan, president of the University of Delaware, has invited the Association to meet at the college. Following the meeting, Dr. Hulihan will invite the members to luncheon in the college dining-room at 1 o'clock, standard time. There will be several addresses.

Liquor Found In Car; Pleads Guilty

Henry Williams, Colored, Brought Before Magistrate Thompson; Unable To Find Key To Jail

Henry Williams, colored, was brought before Magistrate Thompson last night. Williams was arrested on Main street by Motorcycle Officer N. C. Leech on a charge of operating a motor car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. When Williams' license was examined it was found that he had tags for another car on his machine.

When fined ten dollars, Williams said that he had no money. He was sentenced to thirty days in the Workhouse. But before he went over it was found that in the back of his car, a Ford touring car, he had three gallons of bootleg alcohol. To this charge he also pleads guilty.

With Williams was a woman, also colored. However, she did not show any of the influence of the liquor. Williams was taken to the Newark jail but when the Magistrate got there he was unable to find anyone who had a key to the place. This is not the first time, Magistrate Thompson says, that he has been unable to find a key to the jail. After waiting for some time there was, finally, found a man who had a key to the place, and Williams was placed there until taken to Wilmington. With the finding of the liquor, the charge against Williams took on a semblance of seriousness. Magistrate Thompson, (Continued on Page 10.)

Samuel J. Wright, Leading Citizen Of Newark, Dies

In His 74th Year; Prominent In Business Affairs And Civic Improvements; Ill Several Months; Had Many Interests

Samuel J. Wright, aged 74 years, president of the Continental Fibre Company, and one of Newark's leading citizens, died late Saturday night at his home on East Main street. It is two years since Mr. Wright has been in declining health. A few weeks ago he returned from a trip to Atlantic City, and from this date his illness started. However, a critical condition did not set in until a week ago. Due to the serious illness of his wife the funeral and interment were strictly private. Interment at M. E. Cemetery, in this town, took place yesterday afternoon.

Last night it was reported that Mrs. Wright, who has been very ill, showed somewhat of an improvement.

"Floating Univ." Touring World

Takes Idea From University of Delaware's Foreign Study Plan; 43 States Represented

Last week found the introduction of one of the strangest and most novel of all university systems. A modern college, with a student body of 500 and a faculty of 50, sailed from New York for an eight months' trip around the world.

The students were established abroad the Holland-American liner Ryndam. Here they took up their studies in the same manner that they would have had they been home. In addition to their studying they will tour foreign countries and meet persons famous in political, social and educational life.

Aboard the liner space has been remodeled into school rooms, a library, gymnasium and a swimming pool.

The student body, selected from forty-five States, is composed about equally of graduates of preparatory schools, college undergraduates who will receive full credit for their work on the "floating university," and graduates who intend to take up special studies, for which travel is a preparation.

The president of the "Floating University" is Dr. Charles F. Thwing, president emeritus of Western Reserve University. The faculty has been drawn from colleges and universities throughout the country.

The liner is now on its way to Los Angeles. The early winter will be spent in the Orient and some time in February the "Floating University" will drop anchor off Constantinople. The following three months will be spent in Europe and the touring students will return to New York in May in time to revisit at commencement the land-locked universities they formerly attended.

Students Taught Safety First

Professor Brinser Has Novel Ideas For The Welfare of Newark School Children

Due to the efforts of Professor Brinser, the Newark School System is beginning to jump into activity. During the last week many things of note have taken place. The girls in the domestic science department visited a cannery close to Newark and under the instruction of their teacher followed through the continual processes which take place in a plant of that sort. Notes were taken and the students were later questioned about the things they witnessed.

There was a special assembly last week. This was to celebrate the 137th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution. The student chairman of the occasion was Miss Frances Butler. Professor Brinser has inaugurated a new system whereby the students take part in the assemblies. The student speakers for the assembly were Paul Murray, Jeanette Thoroughgood, and Katherine Plé.

In the primary school there was an interesting and novel exercise performed. In order, according to Professor Brinser, to inculcate a sense of rhythm and time into the small children he allowed them to have a stu-

Mr. Wright had lived in Newark all his life. His success and advancement in a business way were closely connected with the growth and advancement of the town.

Every civic movement in Newark during the last fifty years has had linked with it the name of Mr. Wright. His interest was in the town and he devoted much of his time to improvements. Living in Newark all his life he loved the place with a deep affection. He received his education from the old Newark Academy. As a young man he went into the lumber business with his father, S. B. Wright, and under the firm name of S. B. Wright & Son they conducted a business on the site which is now that of E. L. Richards' lumber yard. Mr. Wright went into the fibre business in 1895, when he became associated with the local plant of the American Hard Fibre Company. This company, it will be remembered, was later bought by the American Vulcanized Fibre Company of which company Mr. Wright became vice-president.

In 1905 Mr. Wright severed his relations with the company and was instrumental in organizing the Continental Fibre Company, which now operates one of the most progressive and modern plants in the state. This plant employs several hundred men. The incorporators of the new company were with Mr. Wright, his eldest son, J. Pilling Wright and Harry L. Bonham, both of whom are still with the company. Although up to the time of his death Mr. Wright was the president of the company, he had turned over the actual management of the affairs of the plant to his sons. But up until the last Mr. Wright took a keen interest in the affairs of the plant and an interest for the employees.

Mr. Wright was also one of the incorporators of the Newark Trust and (Continued on Page 4.)

OPENING NEW BRANCH

This week there opens for business the new branch of the Wilmington Auto Company, at 162 East Main street. The business will be devoted to Sales and Service of Chevrolet and Buick cars. After extensive repairs the plant has made its initial bow to the public and has been enthusiastically welcomed by a large number of visitors.

With machinery and equipment being installed, this enables the new station to give the same calibre of service that is usually expected only in the larger cities in the repairs on the Buick and Chevrolet cars.

The branch is under the personal direction of Mr. George H. Lloyd.

MASONS TO MOVE

Hiram Lodge, No. 25, of this town is to have new headquarters, in the top floor of the Opera House Building. The lodge meets at present in the room over William P. Wollaston's store. The new room will be dedicated on Friday evening of this week and will be in charge of State Grand Master Pierce, of Milford, and his staff. William J. Holton is Worshipful Master of the Masons of this town.

VISIT ALFALFA FARM

Professors G. L. Schuster, C. R. Runk, J. M. Graham, T. A. Baker and A. E. Tomhave motored to the Walker Gordon Farms, near Princeton, N. J., Monday to attend a meeting of the New Jersey Alfalfa Growers Association.

The report brought back was to the effect that the modern machinery installed on the farms makes it possible to make alfalfa meal 20 minutes after the alfalfa has been cut in the field.

State Board Of Education Makes Tour Of Schools; Some Conditions Are Deplorable

Dilapidated school buildings, poorly lighted and ventilated, all of them overcrowded, and in some instances sessions being held in isolated rooms in different buildings, were found in the great majority of the schools in rural New Castle county visited by members of the State Board of Education last week. This is according to those who made the inspection.

Practically all told the same story, and revealed the same situation, one due to many years of neglect and general indifference and because of lack of funds. It was to acquaint the members of the board with prevalent conditions in the rural districts that the tour of inspection, which included Kent and Sussex counties in its itinerary was planned by Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent.

More than $2,000,000 will be requested by the board from the legislature to finance a school building program for the schools throughout the State. It is planned first to erect modern up-to-date high schools at New Castle, Middletown and Delaware City, the need at these places being most urgent.

At the Minquidale school, 70 children on half-time were found in the rear of the first floor of a building also housing a general store in the front and a family on the upper floor. There are only accommodations for really 28.

Sessions of the Patterson school are held in the front parlor of a farmhouse, rented for that purpose by the board last winter. At the time of the visit 7 children were found in the room. The building adjoins a cannery. According to Dr. Holloway, the board had intended to close the school but had reconsidered its decision because of the opposition of the residents of that section.

Conditions were found to be particularly deplorable in Middletown. The same situation has existed there for more than two years, an old building that has been in use for over a century, poorly lighted, and in the words of Dr. Holloway, "inadequate in absolutely every respect from the standpoint of modern school requirements."

This building, which belongs to the trustees of the Academy, was founded on the sale of lottery tickets, and to this has been added a portable building which houses four grades. The agricultural and science departments are housed in another building and three other rooms have been rented in the postoffice building. The rent for the use of these places costs the board approximately $18,000 a year, the town having no school building of its own.

Ideal conditions were found as a decided contrast at St. Georges and at Taylor's Bridge. The former school was found to be slightly overcrowded, a situation which will be soon remedied by the appointment of an additional teacher. Both of these schools were built recently. The school at Townsend was found to be in fairly good condition, being in need of minor repairs.

At Smyrna there is a new up-to-date junior high school, but the other school building was found by the visitors to be poorly lighted and ventilated. It is also over-crowded, a condition that has been slightly alleviated by the addition of a two room portable building.

No Building in Delaware City

Delaware City has no school building, it having been found necessary to secure two rooms in the M. E. Church. The building was found to be entirely unsuited for educational purposes, the lack of accommodations being apparent and the sanitary arrangements being inadequate.

An old dilapidated building more than 70 years old is used for housing the children in that section was found at Deakynville. The same situation was discovered at the Walker school, this building showing every evidence of lack of care.

Three teachers and one shift of pupils were found in the small Rose Hill School, built in 1774. A section of the decrepit structure that under normal circumstances would be used as a woodshed, was found to be used for the purpose of holding classes.

Use Armory at New Castle

Educational facilities were found to be exceptionally poor at New Castle, where the public school plant sprawls all over the historic central square and is surrounded by physical conditions not conducive to efficient school administration. All of the buildings in use are aged and cramped and few changes have been made.

The High School is in the old armory, built during the war of 1812 and still owned by the U. S. Government; poorly lighted, the walls white-washed. Other pupils are housed in the old New Castle Court House, built in 1757, and other aged buildings.

New Castle voted a $125,000 bond issue for new buildings, but the amount being found insufficient, the construction is held up.

"A pessimistic critic is a useful prod of society. When two of them marry, we raise our eyebrows. When twenty form a club, look out for storms. But when ten thousand form a political party, the country is safe."

Health Crusade Off To Fine Start

Twice The Number Of Children Enrolling This Year Over 1925; Fifteen In Sussex Alone

That the public school children of Delaware like the health chores planned for them in the Modern Health Crusade of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society and that while about 10,000 children completed the twelve weeks course last year, winning the aquire degree, there is likely to be many more this year, as is indicated in the way they are starting the second year's work this fall.

Reports coming to Mrs. Edna Palmer Upton, in charge of the work for the Anti-Tuberculosis Society indicate that there is strong likelihood of the number being doubled this school year. At the meeting with Sussex county teachers last week, Mrs. Upton distributed 3000 report cards and but only half of Sussex county children were represented at this meeting. In order to try and get the work started thoroughly and more completely, Mrs. Upton plans to spend practically the entire week, this week in Sussex county.

Starting from Georgetown, her itinerary will cover Lewes, Rehoboth, Dagsboro, Millsboro, Laurel, Seaford, Bridgeville and Delmar and possibly many other towns. Through the visiting teachers she will have the information concerning the crusade spread until it reaches all sections. The State Board of Education, the State Board of Health, the Parent-Teacher Associations, the Granges and many other organizations who are adults, realize that healthy habits started now will result in healthier men and women of the next generation.

In Sussex county many schools which failed to take part in the crusade last year are starting this school year. At the meeting with

On Thursday the Foreign Missionary Society of Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church will entertain the societies of the county in the church. There will be morning and afternoon sessions. At 1:30 p. m. Miss Mace, of Pa Chow, China, will be the speaker.

The Official Board of the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church has given the contract for the installation of a steam heating plant in the church, and work of excavating for the cellar and foundation will begin at once. It is expected to be ready for use by November.

The September term of the Circuit Court for Cecil County began its session on Monday. The first day was devoted to empanelling the jury, after which the grand and petit juries began examining witnesses. A large docket on the program for this session includes the hearing of a number of appeal cases.

The Cecil County Board of Education at its session in Elkton last week awarded to Robert Mahoney, of North East, a graduate of the North East High School, a scholarship at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore. The Board also confirmed the following appointments, Miss Mary E. Miller, Racine School; Miss Agnes M. McCommine, Zion School, Miss Amelia Blanchfield, Pierce's Neck School; Miss Nellie A. Kite, Chestnut Grove School; Miss Estelle M. Wood, New Valley School; F. Willard Walter, Elkton and Chesapeake City High Schools.

Mrs. Elva G. Denny and daughter, Miss Anna G. Denny, have presented a large American flag to Jeremiah Baker Chapter of the American Revolution, in memory of Col. Henry Hollingsworth and Miss Helen Gilpin, the latter a member of the Chapter.

Four Elkton trapshooters who participated in the Havre de Grace Gun Club fall shoot carried off prizes as follows: Stanley Evans, first prize in Class A; Raymond Ott, second prize; R. Jackson, first prize in Class B; Noble Heath, second prize.

The Women's College Club of Cecil County held their first annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Grace W. Price, in Elkton, when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Slabaugh, of West Nottingham; vice-president, Miss Katherine Bratton, Elkton; secretary, Miss Grace Price, Elkton; treasurer, Miss Natalie Ayerst, Elkton.

Sunday, October 3, will be Rally Day in the Sunday School of the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church. A fine program is being arranged.

The Elkton barbers, who on September 1, increased the price of a shave from 15 cents to 25 cents and a hair cut from 35 cents to 50 cents, have discovered that the increase in price lost them business instead of gaining in revenue, and at a meeting last week they reduced the shaving price to 20 cents and a hair cut to 40 cents.

Singerly Fire Company was awarded a silver loving cup at the firemen's carnival in Chestertown on Thursday night for having most men in line.

Services at the Elkton M. E. Church, W. G. Harris, pastor, will be as follows: Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Morning worship, 11:00 a. m. Epworth League, 6:45 p. m. Evening worship, 7:30 p. m. Junior Choir will sing at this service. Special music at all services and the pastor will bring important messages. A feature of the evening service is the answering by the pastor of such questions of interest as the congregation may desire to ask.

Prayer Meeting Thursday evening at the Church House at 7:30. Girl Scouts, Friday evening. Boy Scouts, Monday evening. Boy Rangers, Wednesday evening.

AGRICULTURAL SURVEY OF CECIL COUNTY

From a survey by the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, Cecil County is fourteenth in size in Maryland. Land area, 241,280 acres, 70 per cent of which is improved farm land. In value of farm property the county ranks eleventh, in value of domestic animals eighth, in value of crops thirteenth. The agricultural system followed is largely general farming, with dairying the major livestock industry and hog production next. The third in importance in livestock is poultry, with sheep and beef cattle occupying relatively minor positions. In fruits, apples and peaches are raised commercially and either sold locally or shipped to Philadelphia. There are a number of very successful orchards in the county. During the past year there has been a tendency to establish blackberries on a commercial basis. Sweet corn, oats, alfalfa hay, timothy and clover hay, tomatoes, asparagus seed, asparagus roots, asparagus, soy-bean seed, soy-bean hay, and grapes are commercial crops in this county.

312 PUPILS AT TOWER HILL

Kemblesville

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy of Kemblesville, was the scene of a very happy gathering Saturday, September 18th, when the descendants of the Rev. George W. Lybrand met for their second reunion. Rev. Lybrand served during 1874 and 1876 as pastor of Flint Hill, Landenberg, New London and Elkridge M. E. Churches. He also served as pastor of Newark M. E. Church during 1860 and 1862. Much to the regret of all, the youngest brother, William Lybrand, of the firm of Lybrand, Ross Bros., and Montgomery, accountants and auditors, with headquarters in New York City, was unable to be present.

At 3:30 dinner was served in the M. E. Hall by the ladies of the Sewing Circle. The hall was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers. Kennedy Fell delighted his relatives with several solos. His sister Alice accompanied him on the piano. Other songs were rendered by the young folks, as well as several solos on the banjo-mandolin by Gilbert Whelan, of Linwood Heights, Alice Fell accompanying him on the piano.

Those who enjoyed this glorious day were: Mrs. Mary Lybrand Gilbert of Vineland, N. J.; Mrs. Helen Lybrand, Baldwin, Mr. Lewis Baldwin and family, William Baldwin and family, Clarence Whelan and family, Linwood; Joseph Lybrand, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kennedy, of Kemblesville; Miss Elizabeth Lybrand and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Grey, of West Chester; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lybrand and son William, of Pitman, N. J.; Mrs. Laura Willard, of Kemblesville; Rev. Michael Davis and wife of West Grove, and Walker Fell and family of Newark, Mrs. Fell being a niece of Rev. Lybrand.

Christiana

Miss Minerva Drush spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Mary Drush.

Miss Nellie Appleby spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. George Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moody had as their Sunday callers, Mrs. M. J. Darlington, of Middletown; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Dunbar and family and Mr. Leonard Howell, of Iron Hill, Md.

Misses Alice and Katherine Phelps have returned home after spending the summer in Atlantic City.

Miss Elizabeth Hanna, of Wilmington, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Marvey Maclary motored to the Sesqui on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Clayville are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

Miss Betta Anderson, of Philadelphia, has returned home after spending a week with her aunt, Miss Rebecca Anderson.

Mrs. John Levey and Mrs. Ida Tomlin have been spending a few days in Philadelphia with relatives.

Mr. Henry Marshall spent last week in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Mamie Belmont was a week-end visitor with friends near Christiansa.

Robert Sapp, who was successfully operated on at the Homeopathic Hospital, for abscess of the bone is greatly improved.

Miss Elizabeth Levey spent the week-end with friends in New Jersey.

SEPTEMBER 22, 1926

Few men of our town have lived more vitally than Samuel J. Wright has lived. A staunch friend, a devoted husband and father; a business builder, a benefactor. His quiet charity has kept many a home intact when times were hard, and more often than not those who had been helped never knew who had helped them. He enjoyed his work; he had a fellowship for those who worked for him, an interest in their families and their homes; he wished them to succeed. They always spoke affectionately of him. He has left on the town the impression of his industry, his integrity, his keen business judgment, his helpfulness.

Beauty Is Not Chance

Beautiful forms and compositions are not made by chance, nor can they ever, in any material, be made at small expense. A composition for cheapness and not excellence of workmanship is the most frequent and certain cause of the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufactures.—John Ruskin.

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance, self-control, diligence, strength of will, content, and a hundred other virtues the idle never know.—Charles Kingsley.

Danger

In a recent issue of The Newark Post, there was on the front page alone accounts of five accidents and near-accidents with automobiles. For a community no larger than this that appears to be a high average for one week. That no one was killed in any of the above mentioned accidents was due more to the grace of Chance than to aught else.

It would appear, if only in consideration of the increasing number of automobile accidents everywhere and the general unconscious carelessness of the average driver, not to mention the actual number of deaths in Newark in the past year from automobile accidents, that some steps would be taken in this town to lessen the possibilities of the automobile danger.

At the intersection of Main and Chapel streets is needed an electric "stop-and-go" sign—such as is found in Middletown, Smyrna, Dover and other Delaware towns both smaller and having a lesser volume of automobile traffic than has Newark. But there is nothing at all at Chapel and Main streets to guide and control the "in-a-hurry" motorist. There probably will be nothing until a serious accident takes place there.

It took the life of a member of the Women's College faculty to bring about the sidewalk, now in the process of being built, along Depot Road to the Pennsylvania Railroad station. It took the death of two college boys at the grade crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at North College Avenue to awaken us to the danger of that particular spot.

What is it going to take to awaken us to the danger of the unmarked and uncontrolled spot where Main and Chapel streets intersect? Will it be a death, or two deaths, or will a fractured skull or the loss of an arm or leg be sufficient? Just what will be the price that some unfortunate person will have to pay to make that place more safe for the rest of the community?

Camp Vale Scene of Agriculture Show

Special Students In The Extension Department of The University To Be Sent As Delegates

Four members of the 4 H agricultural clubs of New Castle County are in the Delaware delegation of twelve attending Camp Vale, held at Springfield, Mass., this week. Ernest Weldon and Frank Andrews, pupils in the Middletown school, represent the Middletown Poultry Club, while Frances Sartin and Louise Warner of the St. Georges community are in attendance from the St. Georges Sewing Club.

This trip was awarded to these farm boys and girls on account of their special ability in the farm and home projects in which they have been enrolled under the Extension Department of the University of Delaware. The Camp, at which about 250 boys and girls from thirteen Eastern States gather annually, is held in connection with the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield.

Frank Andrews and Ernest Weldon have completed their second year as poultry club members. This summer they were selected as the two outstanding poultry club members in New Castle County, and as a judging team at the Kent-Sussex Fair won scholarships to the annual 4 H Short Course, held last month at the University of Delaware. They will take part in a poultry judging contest at Camp Vale. These two boys were sent on funds provided by local banks and other friends of 4 H club work in New Castle County.

County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark, wishes to acknowledge donations to this fund from the following sources: Delaware Trust Co., People's National Bank, A. Fogel, J. D. Reynolds, W. S. Leatherbury, E. S. Jones, and E. P. Vogel of Middletown; Delaware Trust Company of St. Georges, and Newark Trust Company of Newark.

Also the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, sponsor of several poultry clubs in this county. Security Trust and Safe Deposit Company, and A. D. Warner, Jr., of Wilmington.

Louise Warner and Frances Sartin, only in the second year as club members, served as president and secretary of the largest club group in this county last winter. Their sewing won prizes at the Kent-Sussex Fair and they were awarded scholarships to the 4 H Short Course for their work in clothing and judging.

Miss Anne B. Moore, County Club Agent of Sussex County, H. S. Dalmier, poultry extension specialist of the University of Delaware, Mr. A. D. Cobb, State Leader of County Agents, and Mrs. Cobb accompanied the group as leaders and chaperones.

MEN HAVE JOLLY TIME

The monthly meeting of the Men's League of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held last night with a large attendance. A very interesting program was rendered and greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served in abundance. The Entertainment Committee is arranging for several other meetings this fall. The program, which included several two-minute addresses, follows:

Remarks by President Leonard Rhodes.

Address, "The Purpose of the Society—Are We Living Up to It?" Geo. M. Phipps.

Address, "What May We Do This Fall and Winter?" John Moore.

Song, "In the Garden," H. Gaerthe and League.

Address, "How I Beat the Parson at Horse Shoes," John Dean.

Address, "The Kind of a League I Would Like to See," E. F. Dawson.

Address, "Who Will Win the World's Series, and Why?" Chester Moore.

Address, "That $1000 Pledge—How Near to It," Frank Elliott.

Address, "Six Books that Every Man Should Read," Mr. Thompson.

Song, by League.

A Fish Story by Whit Day.

REGISTRATION LOW

With only one more registration day, October 16, the registration of voters in the two election districts that comprise Newark promises to be only half what it was before the last presidential election. The four registration days have totalled only 427, while two years ago the number was 800. The same condition seems to hold throughout the county and Wilmington.

SACRED CONCERT AT COLORA

There will be a sacred concert of band music on the lawn of the Colora, Maryland, M. E. Church, next Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis, of Cooch's Bridge, will sing. Reverend Thomas Pardee, pastor.

Samuel J. Wright

Safe Deposit Company. He was the president of the bank from the time it started up until two years ago. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington Trust Company and a member of the Board of Managers of the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington. He was a charter member of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company.

Being interested in the civic affairs of the town, Mr. Wright served on the school board for several years. He was a member of the Town Council when Main Street was straightened out, and was interested in the new water works. He served as chairman of the Sewer Commission that installed the modern sewers and disposal plant for Newark.

In addition to being responsible for the starting of the large fibre plant which has given employment to hundreds of residents of Newark, Mr. Wright had also been responsible for many other improvements to properties in Newark. Many years ago he purchased what was then known as "Caskey's Hall" and now the Newark Opera House. He had this building remodelled and an additional story added making a building that was a credit to the town. He sold the Opera House building several months ago to John K. Johnston and Irvin Dayett.

For some years Mr. Wright had been president of the Newark Cemetery Company, his father and mother being buried in the cemetery owned by the company. Several years ago he bought the old Curtis property on Main street opposite the Washington House by which transaction more land was secured for the cemetery. The Curtis dwelling house was raised and a street has been laid out from Main street to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, known as Centre street. One house has already been erected on this street and the project will result in a great improvement to that section of the town. These are only some of the many projects that Mr. Wright had been interested in for the civic improvement of Newark.

Since 1910 the deceased had been a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Delaware. He was a member of the commission that erected the two first buildings of the Women's College in 1914.

In politics Mr. Wright was a Republican and while he served on the Republican State Committee for a number of years he never held or sought political office.

He was a member of the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia, for many years and was also a member of the Newark Country Club.

He is survived by his wife and three sons and two daughters, as follows: J. Pilling Wright, Norris N. Wright, Ernest B. Wright, Miss M. Elsie Wright and Mrs. B. F. Proud. All three sons were associated with him in the Continental Fibre Company. He also has five grandchildren.

The Continental Fibre Company had shut down its plant ever since Saturday and it did not re-open until this morning.

The Real Things Of Home-Making

When I was yet young in this house-keeping business, of mine, I made this remark one day: "It does seem that no matter how hard I work, there is so much that seems important left undone."

My mother answered: And it will be that way just as long as you have a home."

I thought her reply poor comfort at the time, but I have been glad many a time that she did not condescend to me, but gave me just the answer that she did. It set me to thinking. I realized that, in my zeal, I was making a martyr of myself, and what I thought was ambition and industry was liable to become a restless discontent. I wanted so much and thought that I, by constant activity and thought, could accomplish all that I wished. My wants were plausible, to be sure, as the results would be benefiting others more than myself, but when I "rested on my oars" a little and thought the matter over, I began to separate the essentials from the non-essentials. I do not mean by non-essentials, in the home, to class all things except those needed for existence and actual comfort. William Morris admonished us to discard all that was not truly useful or beautiful, but just as surely as one article may be of use to one and not to another, so one may see beauty in an object that does not appeal to another. But our wants grow by what they are fed upon, and one thing calls for another. In the time we allow for the accomplishment of certain things, new ideas present themselves, and we are in a harness.

These ambitions are laudable when it is not required for their fulfillment that a woman goads herself to tasks that constantly tax her strength, or causes her husband to be thrown into debt. The end at which she is aiming—an ideal home—is lost in the struggle. She has worn away some of the sweetness of her nature, and lacks the breadth of mind that comes from social intercourse and a certain amount of leisure. The most pitiable part is that those for whom she has labored do not always value the motive, and see simply the over-worked woman, who seems never to have time to enjoy herself—and who really has not the inclination? The self-effacing housewife is not always the most appreciated.

I have a friend whose nature and determination have made her the love-lieft of home-makers. She has a husband and two sons, keeps no help and lives on a farm. Yet this woman manages her work, so that after the supper dishes are washed, she never takes sewing or work of any kind in her hands. In the evenings it is her plan to make herself entertaining to her family. They read and play and sing and have games. The result is that the family circle is seldom incomplete, and the boys are very slow about sowing their wild oats. Instead, they are proud to invite friends into their home, confident of a pleasant time. That woman is giving of herself in a manner that makes her most beloved and the sweet influence of such homes travels we know not where. We owe of our spirit, as well as the work of our hands, to those about us, and when we are gone, we shall be remembered longer by our cheery smile and exchange of thoughts, than by anything else. I do not mean by these assertions that I like to see work neglected, but I do dread to see the craving for so much that keeps a family in constant knowledge that things material rule the home. Magazines with their en-ting advertisements, the alluring descriptions of modern department-store offerings, must be read discreetly.

It is quite seldom that a couple starting out in life are willing to make just such a start as they can really afford. In nine cases out of ten the girl receives no such wholesome advice from her mother. In our community we had an elopement. It had to be so, for the girl left a fine home against the wishes of her parents to marry a very poor young man. It was quite natural that both should have wished to strain every nerve to make as good a showing as possible, but God blessed them with strong minds. They rented just such a home as they could afford, and furnished two necessary rooms. When they saved enough money they carpeted another room, then little by little furnished it, and so on until their home was neatly furnished. Never once abashed, I think they really found enjoyment in it all. Her parents, though self-made people, thought she threw herself away. We, as parents, often make mistakes in instilling a false pride into our children's minds. The need is to be fine and strong, unashamed of being poor, but steadfast in a scorn of debt. As I write, I can look about my living-room and see quite a sum of money required to make it measure up to my sense of the artistic. Yet it is comfortable and, while I shall never give up my ideals, I trust God will educate me to know that devotion to one's loved ones means development in one's self, a subjugation of restless cravings, a gaining of poise and individuality, as well as the performance of my physical tasks. There seems to me no place so calculated to develop individuality (not eccentricity) as the farm home, and it is something for our young people to realize and rejoice in. If William Brown is a poor, unlettered man, and his son inherits sturdy convictions of honor, he will nowhere stand as good a chance of becoming a factor as in a rural community.

GOOD SCHOOL LUNCHES

Here are some things you may not have tried in the school lunches: sliced meat loaf, rolls hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened with salad dressing and seasoned; salad; cheese straws; stuffed eggs; tomatoes and whole fresh fruits; cut-up fruit; brown-sugar or maple sugar sandwiches, made with crackers or hot biscuit so as to melt the sugar; sausage turnovers; stuffed prunes or dates or figs; cup custard; a small box of raisins; a cake of chocolate; little tarts, cookies or frosted cakes; sandwiches of two kinds of bread; a bottle of orange or grape juice; lemon juice sweetened ready to make into lemonade at school.

See that sandwiches, cookies, slices of cake, fruit—in fact, everything that goes into the lunch box—are wrapped separately in waxed paper. This not only prevents crushing, but keeps them moist or crispier, as they happen to require. Provide paper napkins, to keep hands and clothing clean, and to spread on the desk under the lunch.

Curly endive, wrongly called chicory, may be boiled as greens, as may lettuce. French endive may be finely cut and added to such hot dishes as creamed eggs or potatoes a moment before serving. Baking or boiling it develops bitterness.

Coolidge's Grasp On Business Questions

The renomination and re-election of President Coolidge are advocated by Dr. Herbery J. Tily, president of the National Dry Goods Association and general manager of Strawbridge and Clothier.

Dr. Tily returned recently from Paul Smiths, New York, where he conferred with the President on the results of a business survey made by the National Dry Goods Association. He was accompanied on his visit to the Summer White House by Lew Hahn, managing director of the association.

This was the first time I had met President Coolidge and the first time I had met any President, for that matter," said Dr. Tily. "The astounding thing to me was how easily he let us see what a complete grasp he possessed of the various public business problems.

Interdependence Stressed

"He was particularly interested after we had reported on the business condition of the country as dry goods men saw it, with observations I made while attending the international merchandising meeting in London.

"One thing that was stressed in our conversation was the close interdependence that now exists between all groups in the Nation.

"In the course of our discussion, the problem of installment buying came up. It was mentioned that too great extension of this right to mortgage the future earning power of the individual for current needs encouraged extravagance.

"Too great indulgence in luxury was deprecated, but it was left that where credit assisted ambitious people to better their position and permit a fuller living, as it was expressed, it had a beneficial effect upon all the groups of the community.

Effect of Federal Ingress

"Throughout our conversation there was always the recurring note of profound interest in the ultimate effect of every governmental act on the whole citizenry.

"We did not ask the President for legislation to better the condition of the dry goods men. All our members are content with the present business situation. However, there was one small matter that we spoke to the President about, but which we left it was not wise to divulge yet.

"I came away strong for the renomination and re-election of President Coolidge. Once nominated, his election would be assured."

"I AM THE PRINTING PRESS"

Few creations have been as widely copied as Robert H. Davis's "I Am the Printing Press," which it is said he dictated to his stenographer. Within thirty days after it was first printed in Munsey's Magazine as an advertisement for R. Hoe & Co., it was reprinted in more than 2,000 newspapers. It has been translated into virtually every language.

Friends of Mr. Davis, whose first stories he bought, paying one cent a word for them, laugh at him for the pay he himself received for this one poem. It brought him $500, in a roundabout way: The National Cash Register Company paid him $2 a word for a paraphrase of it to be used as an advertisement.

Davis started a devastating epidemic of the "I am" style of editorial and of advertising. Strickland Gilliland subsequently contributed the following:

"I am the Ode, born of Bob Davis. My style looks easy, and many bonehead copycats think they imitate it.

"I am the particular pampered pet of the puerile paranoic, the pattered-out and parietic parodist; the hobby of self-hypnotized people who have kidded themselves into believing they are writers.

"I am the patient purveyor of Perennial platitudes that every home-grown Plato thinks he originated, right after he reads them somewhere.

"I am the champion nuisance of the solar system and property adjacent thereto and abutting thereon.

"I am the Ode—owed to Bob Davis, but never, of course, acknowledging the debt."—Editor and Publisher.

To Broadcast Five One Hour "Eastern Shore Programs"

The Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association has completed a contract with the American Radio Corporation of New York, to broadcast five one hour "Eastern Shore Programs," from WJZ, the largest and most powerful station in the world. The first program will go on at 8.30 p. m. standard time, Monday night, October 4th. Each successive Monday night, October 11, 18, 25 and November 1, the additional four programs will be presented at the same hour.

In being able to make this arrangement, members of the Publicity Committee and officials of the Association feel that they have completed the most ambitious and impelling advertising feature ever undertaken by the Eastern Shore. The fact that the officials of the American Radio Corporation in New York have given free use of the air, from WJZ, when the usual charge for broadcasting commercially is $1,000 per hour, is considered by the Association officials not only a tremendous advantage but a stamp of approval. This will be the first and largest program of its kind ever undertaken.

The Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association is not confining the broadcasting of the attractive features of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore to the Peninsula as a unit, but is collaborating with the various counties and dividing the programs so that those counties and communities who enter into the plan will receive prominent mention. Six communities, Cambridge, Snow Hill, Seaford, Salisbury, Dover and Accomac, the last named representing the Eastern Shore of Virginia Chamber of Commerce, have voted to participate and other communities will also unquestionably enter.

The advertising value of this broadcasting can be conceived when it is said that WJZ, which is the world's largest, most powerful and one of the most popular broadcasting stations, reaches nightly upwards of two million homes. Survey by radio authorities shows that an average of five persons hear programs from each individual loud speaker. Thus, it may be conservatively said that at least ten millions of people will hear the Eastern Shore programs on each occasion that they are presented.

Arrangements for broadcasting from WJZ have been made by Harvey Hill, Executive Vice-President of the Association. He has secured for the first five programs, which may be extended later, the following talent: Pete Dale Wimbrow, the Del-Mar-Va songster, a professional entertainer who ranks high in metropolitan theatrical circles and who is rated as one of the foremost recording artists at the WJZ station. Mr. Wimbrow is a native Eastern Shoreman, born and raised at Whaleyville, Md. He is the author of numerous popular songs and is known to many by his Columbia Phonograph records. Supporting Mr. Wimbrow is the world-famed Brunswick Recording Orchestra of fourteen pieces. The leader of this Orchestra is Gus Hinchon, who is recording manager for the Brunswick Phonograph Company, and the other artists will include Douglas Stanbury and the Misses Gladys Rice and Jane Smith, each of high professional qualifications and especially recognized as recording artists in both song and dialogue.

The continuity writer of the five programs to be rendered is Lester O'Leefe, of New York, one of the most brilliant men in this line today.

The announcers are Daniels, Husking, McCloud and Cross of WJZ. The accompanist is Godfrey Ludlow, nationally known as the famous WJZ violin broadcaster. The director of repertoire is Miss Brainard, of the WJZ staff.

The entire ensemble is to appear as an Eastern Shore program; the orchestra and artists are presumably to come from different cities and towns on the Eastern Shore, and the "continuity" copy is to be written around Pete Dale Wimbrow, whose stage name is Pete Dale. He will assume the various leading roles throughout the performances as a means of presenting especially prepared original and humorous songs, skits and dialogues concerning the people, communities and life on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula.

Each program to be presented will open with the song "The Good Old Eastern Shore" and by the announcers and brief dialogues then to lead to musical selections by the orchestra and vocal artists.

An outline of the tentative program offers the following: October 4—"A Cruise on an Oyster Boat Down the Chesapeake," starting at Chestertown, visiting such points as Easton, Cambridge and continuing on down to Crisfield. The program will be given by the crew and guests aboard the boat and will feature particularly the waterfront beauties, the oysters,

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Samuel Huntington, Signer

From a poor cooper to Governor of Connecticut is a summary of the career of Samuel Huntington, Signer of the Declaration of Independence. The 150th anniversary of the signing of the document is being celebrated by the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia.

He was a descendant of one of the Puritan settlers of Saybrook and Norwich, Connecticut, and the son of a farmer and clothier. While his three brothers received a liberal education, Samuel was kept at home to work on the farm and learn the cooper's trade.

The boy studied in his leisure time, borrowed some law books when he was twenty-two, and determined to become a lawyer. After practicing for a short time in Windham, he settled in Norwich in 1758, where his success was consistent and steady. In 1765 he was appointed Royal Attorney for the province. He held this office for nine years and then became a judge of the Superior Court.

In common with many other young men of that period he entered upon a political career because the very nature of the times demanded that the best brains should be employed in the development of a new government divorced from that of the mother country.

He entered the Governor's Council in 1775. Although an officer of the King he was outspoken in his defense of liberty. On October 2, 1775, he was elected to the Continental Congress and voted for the Declaration on July 4, 1776.

He was President of Congress for two years, and on his retirement, due to increasing infirmity, Congress passed a vote of thanks in appreciation of his conduct in the chair and in execution of public business.

In 1785 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor and the following year succeeded Matthew Griswold in the Governor's chair. He held this office by successive elections until his death in 1796.

On his return to the National capital from a European trip, during which he attended the Interparliamentary Union sessions at Geneva, he said that "To hell with America" and vulgar expressions of every character "have been inscribed on the crosses."

"I wish Congress would provide appropriations to bring home the bodies of the 30,000 American dead," he declared. The Arkansas Senator said France undoubtedly loved the German more than the American or Englishman, and carrying on a campaign against her former friends was the principal occupation of her spokesmen.

He reiterated views expressed on his return to New York, criticizing the opinion of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, that war debts should be canceled, and asserted President Coolidge did not have "courage" to deal properly with the French debt situation.—Washington Post.

Return War Dead Urged By Senator

Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, favors the return to America of the bodies of the United States soldier dead buried in France, because insults have been written on the little white crosses over their graves.

GRADE CROSSING COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Mr. C. T. Bridgman, Director of the State Conference on Street and Highway Safety, announces the personnel of the sub-committee on Railroad Grade Crossings, of which Senator Louis A. Drexler is chairman, as follows: C. D. Buck, Charles E. Grubb, Claude P. Hearn, John C. Saylor, Harry Mayer, Charles W. Hardesty, W. D. Smith, J. G. Shaeffer.

This committee has appointed Messrs. Drexler, Buck, Shaeffer, and Smith to obtain certain records and facts relative to grade crossing conditions in all accidents in this State.

The Governor's Advisory Committee held their meeting in Dover, Tuesday, September 21, for the purpose of receiving the reports of progress of the various sub-committees and chairmen.

Work Advocates New Land Laws

May Ask Congress To Act; Assails
Waste Of Oil And Lumber
Generally

A revamping of the Federal laws dealing with public lands, many of which have been on the statute books for more than half a century, will be recommended to Congress at its next session by Secretary Work whose experts are trying to determine what steps should be taken to meet the present-day conditions.

This was disclosed in a foreword by the Interior Secretary to a pamphlet, which listed the department's unexpended balance from appropriations for the three years ended June 30 last at $43,805,105. The saving last year was placed at $8,710,033.

The department was described as the "custodian of our fast-disappearing natural resources." The public domain, Dr. Work said, has grazing value; but there are inadequate laws with which to "safeguard it from exhaustion and protect the small holder from the large livestock owner."

"Our oil deposits," he asserted, "are being skimmed. Native timber has been largely dissipated. We are advised that ten years from now we will realize a timber shortage and fifteen years later a lumber famine."

Dr. Work said that enactment of legislation providing for a big dam on the Colorado river "seems preposterous."

He declared that progress in

ELK MILLS CHAMPIONS OF THE TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE

The excitement is now over. The Elk Mills team won the championship of the Tri-County League last Saturday afternoon. This was the second and deciding game of the series. Elkton was easily defeated by the score of 6 to 0.

The Elk Mills team started to bang out the white sphere in the very first inning. Before the Elkton team could collect three outs the boys from Elk Mills crossed the plate four times. Things settled down then for a few innings. But in the fifth the champions got on to the Elkton ball for the total of two runs in that inning.

These two innings were Elk Mills' best. After that the Elkton nine tightened up and refused their opponents anything. The game was a fast game of ball outside of the two innings when Elk Mills collected all their runs. If the Elkton nine had played ball like they did when the Elk Mills players retired after crossing the plate then the story might have been a different one. As it was the steady playing and the excellent support given to their pitcher by the Elk Mills nine easily made of them the victors in the series for the championship.

Alaska was being retarded by "a multiplicity of Federal activities which could be centralized by reducing the number of executive departments having supervision over the territory."

McNutt played and pitched a good game for Elk Mills. He was better as far as form went than the Saturday before at which game he also won for his team. He allowed the Elkton team six hits. Bland waved a wicked stick for the Elk Mills nine. He crashed out three safeties, while Kerns, Allen and Kay each got two.

Lyons on the Elkton team, although he made a bad error at third, is deemed himself by collecting two hits.

Although the final arrangements have not as yet been made it is said that Elk Mills will journey to Wilmington this Saturday to play Lorraine. Lorraine lost the city championship to St. Mary's last Saturday, but this does not mean that the Elk Mills nine will have an easy time of it. In fact, when they go up against the Lorraine nine they will meet a fast set of ball players. Whether McNutt will pitch again is not known. He has already pitched the last two games for Elk Mills and it does not look as if he could stand up against the boys from Wilmington. If the game is played it will be in Wilmington.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our Darling Eleanor who passed from earth to heaven on September 9, 1926.

From our chain this link has broken, In the East the Stars have set, But engraved on Memory's tablet Is the name "Eleanor" we'll never forget.

Two weeks have passed, with our hearts still sore, As time goes on we miss her more. But sad and sudden was His call, Her sudden death surprised us all.

When you ask us, do we miss her? Yes, it fills our hearts with pain, But he spirit softly whispers "Weep not; In heaven we'll meet again."

Keep her in Thy keeping, Master Till we reach that shining shore, Then, oh Master, let us have her Love and keep her, as before.

Sadly missed by Mother and Father, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Brown.

The widow of a farmer had some difficulty with her hens, and wrote the following letter to the board of agriculture:

"Something is wrong with my chickens. Every morning I find two or three lying on the ground cold and stiff with their feet in the air. Can you tell me what is the matter?"

After a little while she received the following reply:

"Dear Madam: Your chickens are dead."—Tit Bits.

Cheap investments never pay. Of nothing is this more strikingly true than it is of printing. Every man of affairs is familiar with the cheap little folder that comes in the morning mail. Whether it advertises cow feed or real estate, whether it sets forth the virtues of a certain make of shoe or automobile, whether it advocates this or that—the one impression it gives is cheapness, unimportance.

Cheap paper, cheap printing, cheap ideas, cheap from cover to cover. Is it not logical for one to conclude that the wares for sale are also "cheap"? And so the little pamphlet travels on—straight through—from mailbag to scrap basket. You know.

Now and then, however, there arrives the attractive little folder, modest or pretentious, according to the value of the commodity or the firm's pocket-book. Everything about the attractive little folder is well done. It is well thought out from cover to cover—typography, arrangement, and press work are all of the best. "My firm is on the job," it shouts at everyone.

Somehow the attractive little folder, printed and arranged with care and knowledge, seems too good to be cast into the scrap basket. It is not thrown away with the rest. It is dropped into a drawer for reference, and all that it represents is unconsciously classified with efficient service and thorough-going business.

The engineer of the fast express on the great railroad brings his train in on time, with safety. And why?—

Because welded human endeavor, working as a single unit, keeps the tracks true—the way clear.

This community is our train. Working in unison, co-ordinating our efforts, we can bring it into station "Prosperity" right on the dot—and ready steaming to go onward to the next station "Greater Prosperity."

To get in on time, we must work together—Let's Go!

Eastern Shore Sweet Potatoes Shipped To "Her Majesty," Queen Of England, Last Week

The first consignment of sweet potatoes ever shipped by request to a member of the Royal Family of England, from the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore, went on record last week. The shipment was made from Machipongo, Northampton county, Virginia, and consisted of a barrel of "Golden Sweet," addressed to "Her Majesty, Queen Mary of England, Westminster Palace, London, England."

The request for the sweet potatoes was relayed to the Eastern Shore by Elsie Lee, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, who is abroad with Mrs. Lee. Cable information conveying the order was brief, merely advising that a barrel of select "Sweeties" grown on the Eastern Shore of Virginia be shipped without delay to Her Majesty.

The potatoes were grown on the farm of Scott Brothers, near Machipongo, and were very carefully culled, brushed and each potato wrapped separately to stand the over-seas journey. The packing was supervised by F. H. Bell, Exchange Agent at Machipongo. The barrel was routed to connect with a steamer at New York immediately, and should be delivered at Westminster Palace in London within a week.

This incident has revived the old Eastern Shore legend to the effect that during one of his voyages in sight of North America's shore Christopher Columbus traded with Indians in canoes for "Red Potatoes," alleged to have been grown on what is now the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula. The legend has it that Columbus found this vegetable so delightful that on his return to Spain he presented his Patron Queen Isabella with a quantity which he had reserved for her. She in turn, being a good Queen, and no doubt both complimented and pleased with the gift, according to the historical legend, kissed Columbus on the forehead and knighted him.

Many of the Eastern Shoremen who recite this incident are free in saying that they have no proof to bear it out but quite substantially declare it has foundation and that they do not have to prove it—this latest order is evidence of it.

Underwriters in Annual Session

At the opening of the annual session of the Underwriters of Life Insurance held at Atlantic City this last week, Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, pictured the fundamental idea of life insurance as being sounder, safer and surer than the underlying idea in any existing political structure, whether the idea be force, manhood or woman suffrage. Addressing the convention he said in part:

"Life insurance is the cornerstone of every modern republic or democracy. The typical insured man is, in both his power and his obligation, an almost perfect illustration of what the citizen should be in a democracy."

"Life insurance has, therefore, done more than supplement social and business necessities of free men. It takes up social and business co-operation at the point where they break down, translates a part of the value of the worker when he is disabled or dead into cash and enables the beneficiaries to go on with the contract. At the same time it follows a program of democracy which sharply differs from the underlying principles of both representative and direct democracy. It emphatically denies the dogma that all human lives are of equal value and should have equal power, and yet it carefully safeguards the equity value of the most unimportant life."

Kingsley said that the total outstanding risks on the books of life insurance companies are three and one-half times the national debt of both Canada and the United States, one and one-half times the total deposits in all the banks of the two countries and 90 per cent of the national debts of Germany, Great Britain, France and the United States.

"Unalienable rights are mere abstractions unless they are embodied in a social and political structure that gives them vitality," declared Kingsley. "Hence the Constitution and laws of our country, hence life insurance comes nearer to making abstract rights realities than our Constitutions do."

Socially, he said, life insurance teaches the human life in the first value, the great value, the only value. "No other social system teaches that," he declared. "Politically, it advocates true equality, the equality that a man pays for, the equality that does not rob another. Our Constitutions fail to do that."

fall. At least fifty more schools have been enrolled in that county alone this part of the school credits won by the fall. The health chores are made a students and this fact is stimulative enough to the teachers and students to get them to enroll.

As it is voluntary, the fact that so many thousands of children are enrolling is proof of the desire of the children to become stronger and better men and women, when they mature, and is most encouraging to the officials of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

"Man is like a tack—useful if he has a good head and is pointed in the right direction—but even though he is driven, he can go only as far as his head will let him."

"In this poor, miserable, hampered, despicable Actual, wherein thou even now standest, here or nowhere is thy Ideal. . . . The Ideal is in thyself; the impediment, too, is in thyself."

"The Miracle" Comes To Phila.

Only Showing In The East; Cost Of Production Enormous; Begins October 4

The most outstanding art gesture that Philadelphia has ever known will be the presentation of the Morris Gest-Max Reinhardt production of "The Miracle" which will begin on October 4 and run for five weeks.

A committee of prominent Philadelphians requested Mr. Gest to bring the play to that city. Those on the committee were: Leopold Stokowski, Jules Mastbaum, Bishop Gariand, Albert Greenfield, Charles Harrison, Dr. Charles Hart, Mrs. Edward Bok, Countess Santa Eulalia, Craig King of the Sesqui-Centennial Committee, and a host of others.

"The Miracle" has been sought nationwide by countless spectators. It has received much newspaper space. It is due to a trinity that "The Miracle" is presented.

Cultivating through a lifetime every art of the producing stage, Max Reinhardt has used all his ability in the staging of this spectacle. Morris Gest who has been an adventurer in the theatre was the one to undertake the exploit of putting this play across to the public. Norman-Geddes has in the production of "The Miracle" proven himself to be a master in scenic effects and in costume designing and settings. It is due to these three men mainly that the production of the play is a possibility.

The preparation for the construction of "The Miracle" took a vast sum of money. Hundreds of thousands have seen the play. The cost of the showing in Philadelphia is $400,000.

It is said that it took Morris Gest many years to get Max Reinhardt to come to America to stage the music-drama-pantomime-spectacle. The play takes up three hours of pantomime with the only music by the orchestra, the occasional intervention of a chorus and the recital of the Lord's prayer by a single individual. In "The Miracle" there is a breaking away from the traditional type of theatre performance. In this play the theatre becomes a conventional church, the orchestra goes up into the balcony, the curtain is thrown away, and the audience and the actors mix.

Lady Diana, England's most loved and famous titled woman, will appear in the role of the Madonna which she created in America. She will also play the Nun, alternating with Elinor Patterson, Chicago beauty and heiress. Iris Tree, daughter of the late Sir Beerbohm-Tree, will take a part.

Grand opera is the music side of "The Miracle." It was written by the late Engelbert Humperdinck who was the composer of the operas of "Hansel and Gretel" and the "Koenigsinder." The production in Philadelphia will be the only one in the east.

Culture is properly described not as having its origin in curiosity but . . . in the love of perfection; it is a study of perfection. It moves by the force, not merely or primarily, of the scientific passion for pur knowledge, but also of the moral and social passion for doing good.—Matthew Arnold.

dent orchestra under the direction of one of the small children. The instruments were pans, spoons, whistles, sticks, and any other available utensils which would make a sound that was not too far from musical. Drums and pots were used also. The students in the second grade gave the performance. The orchestra was led by a small boy. A little girl gave a piano recital.

There was also a puppet show given last week. Dorothy Handloff stood before the grade and told the story of Little Red Riding Hood. After her telling of the story the piece was dramatized and played with puppets.

Professor Brinser is very anxious that his plan for the safety education of all school children be given some notice.

Safety education, as he defines it, is made up of several things which the school boy or girl should know.

In the first place the little child should know how to come and go from school. The students are trained in walking up and down the aisle. There is eye-training in order that the student recognizes at once what the color signals in the street mean. The gestures of the traffic policeman must be understood and recognized at once. All this training is to make the boy or girl alert and responsive in case of accident.

Traffic games are in the process of being planned so that the problems of traffic can be understood and solved by the students themselves. The student is taught how to open and close a door so that there will be no bruised fingers. If there is a strong draft the door must be closed so that it will not bang to.

In short, the training is for the purpose of making the school children of Newark more alert and responsive. There must be a quick co-ordination of their movements in case of necessity. Awkwardness in walking or standing is corrected.

For those students who have bicycles and ride to school a rule of traffic regulations is given. The children should keep close to the curb and ride at a slow rate of speed.

$4000 IN PRIZES FOR PIGEON SHOW WINNERS

Cash prizes totalling $4000 and 139 silver cups will be distributed to the owners of winners at the pigeon show to be held from October 26 to October 30 at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, in Philadelphia. The events will take place in the Auditorium under the auspices of the Philadelphia Pigeon Fanciers' Association.

There will be 1100 classes of pigeons on exhibition, embracing seventy-five distinct breeds and more than 500 varieties. Premium lists are now being distributed by the secretary, Herman B. Behrens, of Willow Grove. Entries close on October 12. The annual meeting of the American Pigeon Club will be held on October 27, in connection with the show, and there will be a banquet at the Hotel Adelphia, the official headquarters of the exhibitors.
