C. P. Blest Black-jacked and Robbed

Attacked Without Warning by Well-dressed Thugs, Monday Night, on Lincoln Highway

C. P. Blest, manager of the Newark Opera House, was knocked out and robbed on the Lincoln Highway, Monday night, about 12.30, while on his way home to Eastburn Heights.

Blest drove out of Newark about midnight and had gone three miles when he ran out of gasoline. He had taken off his overcoat and attempted to get what little gas there was in the reserve tank to flow into the vacuum tank, and had been working about half an hour when a Ford coupe drew up in back of him.

Two young men, about 25 years old, stepped out and asked him his trouble. He told them, and they said that if he had a rope they would tow him to the next filling station. He went to the back of his car and as he bent over to reach the rope he was struck by a blunt instrument, probably a blackjack, and rendered unconscious.

It was several hours before he regained consciousness and when he came to, he found himself in a ditch with all his pockets turned out and $8 in cash, a ring and his keys missing. Other things he had had in his pockets were strewn on the ground. He was still dazed from the vicious blow he had received in the back of the skull, and stiff with cold. Before he had roused himself sufficiently to climb out of the ditch, Edward Shakespeare, of Newark, passed, and recognizing Blest's car, which still had its lights on, stopped. When he walked up to the car, he saw Blest in the ditch, and went to his assistance.

On examination they found a large lump on the back of Blest's head, but the skin was unbroken. Shakespeare drove Blest home where they arrived at a quarter to 4. They immediately notified the State police who came down to question Blest, and then broadcast descriptions of his assailants. However, the men had a long start and no trace of them has been found as yet.

Blest had a good description of the thugs, but had not seen the tags on their car. He said both were well dressed, wearing light grey topcoats and grey felt hats. One was a slim, clean-cut looking chap, but the other was burly and had the appearance of a tough. The attack was particularly cold-blooded and brutal, in that they struck him from behind and then threw him in a ditch, where he lay, unprotected from the cold, and out of sight of passing motorists.

"Shorty" Chalmers' New Sweater

A short time ago George V. "Shorty" Chalmers was presented with a very handsome dark blue sweater, decorated with a gold "N," by the boys of the town of Newark, who wanted to show him how proud they were of his athletic record. However, the sweater only adorns "Shorty's" stocky shoulders when he is at home, for, as a first year man at Tomo, he is barred from wearing his high school letter.

The sweater is one of "Shorty's" most prized possessions and he is repaying the spirit that prompted the gift by making sensational football history at Tomo.

TRACKMAN KILLED AT PENCADER

Near what is known as Davis' tower, at Pencader, at eight-thirty yesterday morning, Donato Sponore, an Italian track laborer of Wilmington was struck and killed by the Delaware City train. Death followed the accident almost immediately, the injured man, living only until long enough to be carried to the P. B. & W. Station at this place.

Witnesses of the accident state the man was working on the track and failed to make any attempt to get out of the way of the train. Robert Jones took charge of the body.

NEWARK PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

The regular meeting of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association will be held on Tuesday, November 9, at 7.45, in the Assembly room of the High School. All parents, teachers and friends are urged to attend.

Student Stricken

George Calloway from Salisbury, Maryland, a student at Delaware University, was suddenly stricken this noon with appendicitis. He was rushed to the hospital at Salisbury for immediate operation, by the Newark ambulance. William Clancy drove and was accompanied by Dr. Rhodes and Miss Pié, University nurse.

AMBULANCE MAKES A TRIP

Last Friday Wm. Clancy, in the Newark ambulance, drove a farmer named Burras, living near Christiansa, to the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Wilmington.

State Teachers To Meet At Dover

Prof. W. A. Wilkinson, President Of State Education Association, Will Preside

The eighth annual meeting of the Delaware State Education Association will convene in the Dover Opera House at ten o'clock on Thursday morning, November 11, for a two-days' session. In the few years of its existence this Association has grown to be by far the largest professional organization in the State. In its membership are included representatives of all branches of the teaching profession from the primary grade teacher to the University professor. Its annual meetings, attended as they are by hundreds of teachers from all parts of the State, have come to be regarded as the most significant educational event of the year—significant especially in the professional enthusiasm, inspiration and ideals that are fostered on such occasions.

The program, as arranged by the officers of the Association, provides for two kinds of meetings: "General" and "Departmental." The former are held in the forenoons and are attended by all members. The several departmental meetings are held in the afternoons and each is attended by those who are especially interested in that particular field.

Among those who will take part in the general meetings the names of the following well known Delaware educators appear: Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Instruction; Dr. D. A. Ward, Superintendent of Wilmington Public Schools; Dr. Walter Hullahen, President of the University of Delaware, and Mr. John Shilling, Assistant State Superintendent in charge of High Schools. The list from outside of the State includes Dean Will Grant Chambers, Pennsylvania State College; Dr. Thomas H. Briggs and Dr. Otis W. Caldwell, Columbia University, and Miss Erna Grassmuck, State Department of Education, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Will Grant Chambers is a native Pennsylvanian, having been born in Westmoreland county in 1867. He was educated in the public schools of his native county, the Central State Normal School at Lock Haven, Pennsylvania, Lafayette College, Clark University, and the University of Chicago. He began his teaching career in the public schools of Pennsylvania and has since taught in Normal Schools, Colleges, and Universities. He has been professor of Mathematics, professor of psychology and professor of education, and Dean. For eleven years he was Dean of the School of Education, University of Pittsburgh, and since 1921 Dean of the Summer School and Dean of the School of Education, Pennsylvania State College. His standing as an educator is indicated by the fact that he has been President of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association, of the National Society of College Teachers of Education and of the Child Study Department of the National Education Association.

Dean Chambers is said to be an unusually forceful speaker. He has something worthwhile to say and he says it in a highly entertaining manner. He will deliver two addresses at the meeting of the Delaware State Education Association this year, one at the general session to be held in the Dover Opera House on Thursday morning, November 11, and the other at the annual banquet to be held on the evening of the same day. This is Dean Chambers' first appearance on a Delaware State Education program and those who have heard him on other occasions are looking forward with keen pleasure to hearing him.

Newark Schools Will Have Program

Schools Closed Thursday and Friday for Education Week Association Meeting; Armistice Day Exercises Wednesday

Next week is American Education Week and the American Legion with the National Education Association have planned a program for each day of the week. However, the Newark schools will be closed Thursday and Friday to allow the teachers to attend the meeting of the State Education Association at Dover, and Professor Brinser to arranging the Education Week program to fit into the first three days of the week. On Wednesday, at 1.55, appropriate exercises for Armistice Day will be given at the High School.

The purpose of American Education Week is to arouse national enthusiasm for education and the schools. Through the American Legion and the National Education Association, intensive campaigns are fostered through different channels and the week has been, in the past, highly successful in arousing the general public to the benefits and needs of school systems.

JUNIORS ORDER RINGS

Yesterday the Junior class of the High School interviewed seven jewelry salesmen and awarded the contract for their class rings to Millard Davis, of Wilmington. The officers of the Junior class are: President, Willa Dawson; vice-president, Jeanette Thoroughgood; secretary, Pauline Robinson; treasurer, Alfred Vansant.

MRS. MARY B. DONNELL PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Mary Bedford Donnell, one of the most estimable women of this town and of the State, passed away on Sunday morning at her apartment, 910 Madison street, Wilmington, where she moved a short time ago. Mrs. Donnell has been ill for more than a year, but fought off her physical weakness and has been confined to her bed for only a few months.

Mrs. Donnell was born November 25, 1852, at the old Cooch home, at Cooch's Bridge, and was a daughter of Levi Griffith and Sarah C. Wilkins Cooch. She was named for her grandmother, a niece of Gunning Bedford, a name famous in Delaware history. She was educated at Miss Thomas' private school in Wilmington and at Delaware College. On October 8, 1873, she was married to Samuel M. Donnell, of this town. Mr. Donnell was in the real estate business here for many years and served several terms as Mayor of the town. He died about six years ago.

For twenty-five years, Mrs. Donnell has led the women of the county in the temperance cause, having served as president of the New Castle County Women's Christian Temperance Union. She worked with Mrs. Ella Thatcher, one of the national directors, in the establishment of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Rest Room at Delaware City. The New Castle County headquarters were established through her efforts, and to her work the W. C. T. U. jubilee fund of nearly $5000, or a rate of $4 per member, was realized.

Mrs. Donnell was a member of the Presbyterian Church of this town, and a zealous worker in the church. She has, since her illness in Wilmington, attended Central Presbyterian Church in that city. Dr. Aquilla Webb, pastor of that church, will conduct the services this afternoon at three o'clock at Welsh Tract Baptist Meeting House. Interment will be made in the Welsh Tract Cemetery.

The pall-bearers will be nephews of the deceased: Edward Cooch, Francis A. Cooch, F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., of Newark; George J. Porter, Gilbert B. Porter, Jr., of Baltimore.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES JOIN IN MEETING

The Missionary Societies of the Methodist and Episcopal Churches of this town will meet with the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening, November 11, at 8 o'clock. A special address will be made. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

Three 4-H Prize Winners at Sesqui from New Castle Co.

Thirty-five dollars in prize money was won by three 4-H Club members of New Castle county at the Sesqui Poultry Show, held in Philadelphia last week. The winners were James T. Elliott, William Hopkins and Florence Megginson, all members of the Baltimore and Ohio Poultry Club around New Castle and Rose Hill. This club is under the direction of County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark.

Elliott, who is only 13 years of age, placed 5th and received $20.00. Hopkins won eight dollars, and the other entrant will receive seven dollars. There were 18 entrants and 15 prizes in the class in which these young poultry raisers showed their birds. The class featured the poultry club work done by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Illinois, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. It was one of the outstanding exhibits of the entire show. The first prize, a pen of six high class breeding stock, was won by a club member from West Virginia.

Mr. Willim, who visited the show one day last week, said that he was very well pleased with the showing that his club members made. "Of course," said the Club Agent, "we did not win first or second prizes, but our showing was good, nevertheless. Last year at a similar exhibit at the Baltimore Show, only one New Castle club member placed in the prizes. With three prizes won this year our club members are advancing, maybe slowly, but surely, in the chicken business."

Last spring ten boys and girls in the New Castle, Rose Hill communities were given 12 White Rock chickens by the B. & O. Railroad as a start in the poultry business. These members had to keep a record on the costs of raising the chickens until maturity. From now on the club members are to keep a cost record and a production record on their flock. Each member has provided a house for their chickens, and aside from a few losses all have the same number with which they started last May.

This is the third poultry club established in this county by the B. & O. Railroad in the past three years. This company believes that by assisting the boys and girls in agricultural projects they can help the agricultural development of the counties through which their lines run.

Pierre du Pont Host to 700

Last Friday Pierre du Pont held his annual theatre party for the University of Delaware and over 700 attended. These included the student body of the University, the faculty and staff of the University with their wives, the faculty of the Newark High School and the senior class of the Newark High School.

The party left Newark at 7:20 on a special train which was met by special cars to the Playhouse, where they saw Mrs. Fiske in "Ghosts." The party left Wilmington on another special train at 11:10, and while the train proceeded slowly to Newark, a luncheon of bouillon and sandwiches was served.

ACTION AGAINST TAX DELINQUENTS

Magistrate Thompson has recently received a list of delinquent taxpayers, for income taxes and filing fees, from P. S. du Pont, State School Tax Commissioner, and suit will be brought against these persons for the taxes they are in arrears.

In many cases the delinquency runs back several years. Delinquents who voluntarily pay these past accumulated taxes before action is filed against them will probably save themselves some additional expense.

BOY STRUCK BY AUTO

Willard Fell, Jr., the eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Fell, Sr., of South Chapel street, was struck down by an automobile on Sunday afternoon about four o'clock, and had his right leg broken. The accident occurred on the road between Wilmington and West Chester, as the boy attempted to cross the road. The car which struck him was driven by Parke Brook, of Coatesville. Mr. Brook took the child at once to the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington, where he is now a patient.

Republicans Carry Entire State Ticket

Bowen Defeated by 112 in White Clay Creek; Pencader Elects Democrat Representative

New Castle County Republicans yesterday won everything, but one Senate and three Representative seats in the State Legislature. One Democratic Levy Court Justice ran unopposed and was the only Democrat elected to that office in New Castle County.

The Republicans of Delaware yesterday were successful beyond anticipation and elected the head of the ticket without an exception. This victory, the most sweeping in years, was most remarkable in view of the fact that it was an off-year and the Democratic Party was considered particularly strong and solid. The figures, as yet unofficial, show that the Republicans elected the county ticket in New Castle, part of it in Sussex, while in Kent, a Democratic victory appears probable.

The next Legislature figured by the returns, so far, will be divided; the Democrats controlling the Senate, 9 to 8, and the Republicans the House, 18 to 17.

New Castle County came within an ace of being a total Republican sweep, as they took everything but one Senate seat and three in the House of Representatives. L. K. Bowen, Democratic nominee for Representative, was defeated in White Clay Creek Hundred by Clarence E. McVey, who had a majority of 112. Dilworth Buckingham won the eighth district, but John L. Deputy lost to Ford, Democrat, in Pencader Hundred. John N. Reeves was elected to the Senate from the fifth district by a majority of 1,251. Irvin J. Hollingsworth and Harry M. McCormick were both elected to the Levy Court. The Democratic Levy Court candidate in the seventh district ran unopposed.

The two governing issues apparently, were the prohibition and school questions. The Democratic leaders, who came out finally on the wet side, felt that this issue would cause dissension in Republican ranks, while the Democratic majority was expected to favor it. Apparently the Democrats had not diagnosed the public sentiment correctly, for the dry issue more than anything else, apparently polled votes for Republicans. With the school question, there was not enough difference in the opposing planks to make this much of a barometer of returns. Houston's splendid record in Congress, to top everything else, seems to be responsible for a large number of Republican votes where other issues were not paramount in the voters' minds.

The election was comparatively quiet, as aside from the wet-dry question, there wasn't anything much to struggle for except control of the Legislature. An excellent majority of those registered appear to have gone to the polls and the women seemed to take more than their usual interest in this election.

OTHER RESULTS

In Maryland Albert Ritchie seems to have retained his governorship and submerged his Republican opponent, Mulliken.

Pennsylvania went solidly Republican, though Vare, while he won, was behind others on his ticket in majority.

Al Smith was chosen for a fourth term as Governor in New York State and this has some presidential significance. However, this result was fairly generally anticipated.

Lodge Notes

Leola Council, Degree of Pochontas of Union, Del., will visit Mineola Council this evening and confer the Adoption Degree on a class of pale-faces. All members are requested to be present.

On last Monday evening Brothers Frank M. Smith, A. Sherwood Orr and John W. Powell, representing the Parade Committee on the Carnival last June, trailed to Wawa and presented cups to Wawa Tribe and Leola Council. A big delegation from Newark was there to witness the presentation.

On next Thursday evening, November 11, the Red Men's Band will give a concert in Fraternal Hall. After the concert the evening will be given over to dancing. All are invited to attend.

Dr. Benner Lectures to Business Women

Last night Dr. C. L. Benner, head of the economics department of Delaware University, delivered the first of a series of lectures to the Business and Professional Women's Club of Wilmington.

This lecture, which was held in the clubroom in the du Pont Building, was the first of a series on current economic problems. The title was "The International Debt Situation." Other lectures to be given by Dr. Benner are, "How Is the Dawes Plan Working?" "America, Creditor," "The American Farmer and His World Market," "The Strange Case of Coal," and "Where Women Stand in the Business World."

On Thursday night Professor Grant H. Code, of the University English department will begin a series of talks before the same organization. His lecture tomorrow will be "Modern Poetry," and will stress the works of Harriet Monroe. His other lectures will include, among other poets, Amy Lowell, Edna St. Vincent Millay and Gertrude Stein.

Boyle Seeks Trouble, Finds It

Last night about closing time for the polls at Deer Park Hotel, James E. Boyle, colored, apparently prompted by a stimulant, sought a political altercation with his brother, John Boyle, just outside the polls. The argument waxed beyond verbal limits and James was the aggressor in an attack on John. Bystanders pulled him away, but he soon returned and attempted to renew the attack. Whereupon John went to Magistrate Thompson's office and had a warrant sworn out for James, charging simple assault and battery.

Officer Keeley arrested James and brought him before the Magistrate. Christopher White, colored, was called in as a witness, and his testimony not being to the liking of James, James showed his resentment by attempting to attack him in the court. James was subdued by Keeley and Magistrate Thompson and was fined $10 and costs. In default of payment of fine he was committed to the workhouse.

STATE RED MEN INSTALL

The Great Council of Delaware, Improved Order of Red Men, held its annual session at Milford last week. Robert C. Cantler was chosen as the Great Sachem, to succeed Harvey J. Davis. Mr. Davis, who was chosen Prophet and appointed delegate to the Great Council of the United States, was lauded for his work while Great Sachem.

The new Chiefs elected were as follows: Great Sachem, Robert C. Cantler, of Wilmington; Great Senior Sagamore, William F. Schell, Wilmington; Great Junior Sagamore, George H. Hall, Milford; Prophet, Harvey J. Davis, Newark; Great Chief of Records, Edward McIntire, Wilmington; Great Keeper of Wampum, Milton W. Ferguson, Wilmington; Great Representatives to the Great Council of United States, Edward V. Baker, Harvey J. Davis.

McCLELLANDSVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

The McClellandville Parent-Teacher
Association held a Hallowe'en Party in the school house Thursday evening.
The teacher and pupils had decorated the school room with autumn leaves, corn-fodder and Jack-o-lanterns.
There were ghosts in every dark corner and the old witch was in her tent, ready to tell fortunes. Several weird and ghostly selections were sung by the "Spook Orchestra." Games were played, including "a Hallowe'en pie," which was very comical and amusing.
Those winning prizes were: Grown-ups, Mrs. William Howell, most comic costume; Mr. Harry Cleaves, neatest costume; Children, Helen Thompson, most comic costume; Katherine Neilson, neatest costume; Edgar Bristow, pinning tail on donkey. Refreshments consisting of apples, candy, cider and ginger bread were served in abundant.

The next P-T. A. meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, November 9, instead of Thursday as previously planned. Also, on November 18th,
Mrs. Orville Ottey will give an entertainment at the school. Refreshments will be for sale. Admission, 15 and 25 cents.

McClellandville School Attendance

Perfect Attendance—George Hobson, Thomas Frame, Leonard Hobson,

Low Price of Cotton Dairymen's Gain

County Agent Bausman Sug- gests Dairy Ration

The unfavorable cotton prices in the South seem to be having a favor- able influence upon the dairy condi- tions in Delaware. The price of cot- ton seed meal is the lowest this fall that it has been for years. Cotton seed meal is one of the most impor- tant ingredients used in making up dairy feeds. With the present prices of corn and of cotton seed meal, Delaware dairymen could effect an ap- preciable saving by mixing their own dairy rations. A grain mixture which is suitable for use in Delaware is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Quantity. Corn and cob meal 800 lbs., Bran 600 lbs., Cotton seed meal 600 lbs., Salt 20 lbs., Total 2020 lbs.

The cost of this mixture at present prices is about $31 per ton. Bran may be substituted in part or entirely with ground oats. The mixture should be fed in conjunction with a legume hay. If a legume hay is not available the amount of cotton seed meal in the mixture should be increased from 50 to 100 pounds.

DEL-MAR-VA PRO-GRAM POPULAR

As illustration of the type of letters being received at the head- quarters of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association as a result of the first three broadcasting programs, the following is offered:

"Dear Sirs:—Kindly accept our thanks for the most enjoyable enter- tainments by your artists on Monday evenings.

"Your Del-Mar-Va program is most interesting, especially to me, because this past summer my vacation was spent in your territory, touring through Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. During our trip we heard often of the good work being done by your Association and we see now how great the results are going to be.

"If my plans work out we intend to settle in one of the three states and I wish you to send me your book- lets, cooking recipes and all other in- formation you might have at hand.

"As I write these few lines I can see the beautiful Chesapeake with the graceful pine trees stretching for miles, that glorious Pungoteague Creek with its fine clear water for bathing and boating and can picture myself fishing for Spot and catching those big blue crabs.

"As I sit here I can taste those fresh figs, the fine Virginia ham we had at Accomac, that wonderful fried chicken we had at Silver Beach and all the other delicacies we had at the towns in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

"These remembrances make me long to be down there where we were treated so cordially wherever we stopped.

"Success to the Del-Mar-Vans. Very truly yours, Chas. L. Duerkes."

19 Westside Ave., Red Bank, N. J.

Mr. Duerkes' letter is not especially singled out as there are scores of others equally as impressive and giving indication of a worthwhile interest in the Peninsula.

Monday evening the last of the five Del-Mar-Va programs was offered. The title was "An Evening In a Duck Hunter's Lodge," and the setting was at Wachapreague, Virginia.

Mermaid

On Monday, three bus loads of people from Hockessin and the Mer- maid visited the Sesqui.

On Wednesday night, October 27, the Young People's Society of the White Clay Creek Church entertained the congregation with a very good program and, later in the evening, a social time with refreshments of ice- cream and cake.

On Tuesday evening, November 2, the Young People's Society held their regular monthly meeting with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker at Little Baltimore.

The Young People's Society has chartered a bus, in order to visit the Sesqui, next Saturday.

About fifty neighbors and friends attended the "barn-raising" at the Peach home last Thursday.

Mrs. Day Torrey has returned to her home in Washington, after a visit of several days at the William P. Peach home.

Mrs. L. P. Birch, of Plainfield, N. J., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William P. Peach.

HARMONY GRANGE

Harmony Grange held an open meeting, a Hallowe'en party, on Mon- day evening. A large number of members attended, the majority of old and young were masked. After much sport, guessing the participants, un- masking took place.

The evening was spent in Hallow- e'en stunts, pinning eyes on the pump- kin, bobbing for apples, blindfolded blowing out candles, and wound up with a treat of cider and gingercakes in the form of geese and apples.

A large bowl of cider, containing two celluloid geese, caused much merriment as Brother Scott recently lost a barrel of cider, a goose having eaten the apple closing the bung-hole. The two geese were auctioned, the proceeds going toward the building fund.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT PLEASANT VALLEY SCHOOL

The annual Hallowe'en Party of the Pleasant Valley School Club was held Thursday evening, October 28. A large crowd attended with quite a number masked. The following won prizes:

Best dressed, The Misses Mabel and Margaret Steimbaker, Newport; Best Comic, Mrs. Butler, Christiana; Fancy, Miss Ruth Haines, Iron Hill; Best dressed girl as boy, Miss Helen Fisher, Newark; Best dressed woman as man, Mrs. William David, Chris- tiana; Best dressed boy as girl, Roland Stewart, pupil.

The next meeting of the Parent- Teacher Association will be held Thursday evening, November 18.

Sound Principles Stand

The election in Delaware, at least, appears to be a Republican landslide, and, in an off year, indicates an intense interest in the principles involved. The Democratic Party, who adopted the wet side as a major issue, seem to have thrown a boomerang. This was expected to cement the party and poll a large number of Republican votes. The underlying sentiment appears to have been the other way, and coupled with the fact that many Democrats were loath to overlook Mr. Houston's splendid record in Congress, cut the Democratic clan. The Republican Party has every reason to rejoice in such a vigorous vindication of its principles.

The Community Nurse

The movement to secure a visiting nurse for Newark met with instant response, and a month of good work has already been reported. We have been fortunate in securing for this work a young woman who is not only a capable nurse, but a town girl, acquainted with, and interested in, our people. We feel that this good work will continue; that the nurse and the committee will have the whole-hearted support of the town people. Suffering and helplessness make us all akin; their appeal shall win. Some day we shall wonder how we ever got along without a community nurse.

Friends of Delaware Students

The courtesy of the invitation to the students of the University of Delaware, the members of the faculty and their families to the Playhouse last Friday evening to see Mrs. Fiske in "Ghosts" was a phase of the gracious, thoughtful care that Mr. and Mrs. Pierre du Pont have shown for the youth of Delaware and for those who work with them. Quietly, unselfishly, have this man and woman used of their wealth in building schools, in assisting those boys and girls who seek an education, in leading them to a broader conception of life and of their opportunities. With a strong faith, Mr. and Mrs. du Pont are following their vision. May Delaware Youth reward them with their efforts.

A Worth While Effort

It is with considerable pleasure that The Post, published here at Kells, congratulates Every Evening on a splendid example of printing craft and a fine piece of public work. We refer to the rotogravure section issued by Every Evening in celebration of its sixtieth birthday.

This document, with high dignity and generous purpose, tells an absorbing story of civic and commercial development in Delaware. It serves not only as a compelling voice in the campaign to advertise Delaware, but has an enduring value as an historical record.

"BON VOYAGE!"

by C. A. TILGHMAN

I

It was the morning of our seventh day at sea. The ship had come some 2,600 miles and the beautiful little harbor of Plymouth was yet some 500 miles away. The sun was shining that Friday morning for the first time since we had lost sight of land. Previously each day had been cloudy; showers had been frequent; and the sea breeze had been armed with cold steel which cut through one's clothing and chilled one to the bone in a few minutes. But the seventh morning was delightfully warm and bright.

There was but one feature that might have spoiled the morning for one and that was the high sea, by far the highest we encountered during the whole voyage. But everyone appeared to have acquired his "sea-legs" by this time, and being tossed about by waves fifteen to twenty feet high was no inconvenience whatsoever.

A large number of the younger passengers were still abed, although it was nearer eleven than ten o'clock. Four of the habitual card-players were feverishly counting Honors, Tricks, Games, and Rubbers in the card-room. One or two were to be seen in the writing-room, scribbling away on the ship's stationery the wonders they were beholding with the view of astounding some friends in far-off Main Street. The bar was embellished with its regular attendants and the two bar-keepers were, as usual, driven almost frantic trying to supply the impatient Americans with "drinks." But most of the passengers were outside on deck, reading or sleeping—it is often difficult to differentiate between the two pastimes. Everything was tranquil except the ocean—by tranquil, I mean as usual.

Then, in the snap of the fingers, the half-awake, comfortable life on shipboard was shattered by a cry, as a plate glass window would be shattered by a brick, into hundreds of bits of quivering excitement, blood-chilling wonder, and trembling horror. "Man overboard!" had been the cry.

II

On the second day out a member of the crew had discovered a stowaway in one of the lifeboats. The poor fellow was slightly the worse for lack of food and drink, but yet able to be put to work. He was a Cuban and had stowed away on board our ship under the impression that we were headed for Cuba. It had been quite a shock for him to learn that he was on his way to London.

The sailors with whom he was thrown in contact had had great fun in terrifying the Cuban with dreadful stories as to what would happen to him for stowing away when England was reached. The stowaway became more and more alarmed much to the amusement of the seamen. Finally, his terror had reached such a pitch that when he had seen a French fishing vessel some half dozen miles off our stern, he had dived overboard, apparently, with the idea of swimming to and being taken aboard the little sailing boat.

Without considering the chill of the water, the high sea, nor the distance he had to cover, he had plunged off the stern, safely cleared the screws and struck out for the fishing boat in the distance. A sailor on watch in the stern, seeing the stowaway go over, had thrown a couple of life preservers and had given the warning that had so awed those on board.

The speed with which the boat was moving forward and the high sea made it unwise to put a life-boat over at that time. The ship was slowed down and turned about as soon as possible, however, and steered back over her former course. Every-

Congratulations To Dr. Harter

As Professor George A. Harter will celebrate a birthday, November 7, before the next issue of The Post, we welcome this opportunity to express our appreciation of a personality that has for many years endeared itself to Newark.

Professor Harter came to Delaware College forty-one years ago and for nineteen years served as President. In 1915 he asked to be relieved of the administrative duties that he might devote more energy to matters that were close to his heart. He has since then served as head of the Department of Mathematics of the University and his kindly, mature counsel is constantly sought by undergraduates and alumni alike.

one was now on deck—looking, eagerly searching that infinite mass of rolling green and black water for a sight of the unfortunate stowaway.

The bridge game in the card-room was neglected, half finished letters littered the desks in the writing-room, glasses as yet untouched stood on the tables in the bar awaiting eager nervous hands and thirsty throats. Books had been thrown hastily in deck-chairs. Sleep was no more.

The passengers crowded the rails. All talk was in whispers. Each looked out on the dark waves capped here and there with a pure white foam. The undisciplined imagination and the untrained eye saw the stowaway every place, on the top of every wave, in the trough between every two waves.

The ship rolled and pitched. All hung with whitened knuckles to the rail—and looked. A small group of passengers narrowly missed a drenching, perhaps being washed overboard, when a great wave broke over and flooded the bow. The group of passengers had been ordered below by the captain but a minute or two before.

A life-boat had been manned and was swinging over the side all ready to be launched the moment that the unfortunate one was sighted. But the life-boat was not lowered. No trace of the stowaway was ever seen. Not even the two life preservers which had been thrown to him were discovered.

III

As the ship was being turned around for the second time to continue on her way, after a fruitless search, I was standing near the stern where was an elderly gentleman nearby. He carefully wiped the salt from his spectacles and, gazing out to where the stowaway was supposed to have been lost, muttered something about "Bon voyage." Apparently, he did not notice that I was near.

And then I, too, looked out to where the unfortunate traveler had gone and mentally wished him another "Bon voyage."

In a few minutes the incident appeared to have been forgotten. The bar was again filled. The card game had been resumed. The writers were addressing their letters and inquiring how much postage would be necessary. The loungers on deck were again reading or sleeping. Laughter was heard. It made one wonder.

IV

The tragedy was recorded on the ship's log rather briefly. All that was written there that evening was: "Detention—one hour and two minutes."

New Auto Blanks

Magistrate Thompson has recently received the new blanks for 1927 motor vehicle registration. There has been some change in the form this year.

Sylvester D. Townsend, Jr., Secretary of State, has made a new ruling relative to issuance of the same registration numbers to owners. This year a service fee of one dollar will be exacted of those wishing to retain the same numbers. There is a time limit on this ruling and anyone wishing to retain their old number should file their application with Magistrate Thompson before the end of this month.

Roosevelt Medalists

(From New York Times.)

Those who selected the candidates for the award of the Roosevelt medals undoubtedly sought to name such men as Colonel Roosevelt would have chosen—men after his own heart in the varied fields of his varied interest. They have succeeded this year. He certainly would have summoned "Uncle Dan" Beard out of millions as an out-of-door leader of youth and "the development of American character." One can't quite imagine such a figure as Daniel Carter Beard springing from any other national soil. He is uniquely American, a survival of the pioneer type—so dear to the author of "Winning of the West"—in the midst of an urban civilization. A lover of the forest solitudes and of the wide horizons, of the plains, he began to interest himself in city boys when as a young man he saw flats with the sign: "No dogs or children wanted." He would be at home on any frontier with simple, honest folk, whatever their tradition or language; but he is more especially the companion of those who are on the frontiers of youth—the boyhood of America. He has, moreover, a skill in sketching which the Presidential illustrator of his letters to his own children must have envied.

It was said of Admiral Sims when he visited his birthplace that he had already endeared himself to the people by "his official indiscretions," but that he "endeared himself anew" when he was seen and heard. His fearlessness both in war and peace, his frankness and his outspoken antipathy to hyphenated Americanism, would have endeared him to one in whom these same virtues luxuriantly flowered. Politicians have much to learn of such unafraid men; even though, as was said of Admiral Sims, one were almost constantly in enough hot water to flood a dreadnought. The London Times, in 1920, spoke of him editorially as "the American sailor who was the symbol to us all of that wonderful time of common effort and common victory." A more distinguished citation one could neither write nor desire. It is conferred by this new award.

President Roosevelt would, no doubt, have himself also selected Albert J. Beveridge for the award in the field of biography—an American historian of first rank who contributed to the making of the political history of his own day before sitting down to write the monumental work which has won admission to the shelves of all good libraries. One who remembers seeing President Roosevelt on his porch at Oyster Bay, in riding breeches, with books all about him, working on the life of Oliver Cromwell, can easily imagine with what sympathy he would view the labors of Senator Beveridge, with the political questions of his own day still buzzing at his ears. And he would be the first to give encouragement to the author of the life of John Marshall in his even greater historical enterprise—writing of the times of Abraham Lincoln and his place in them.

The Roosevelt Memorial Association is performing a high public service in recognizing the contributions to American life of such men as these three—men all of whom Roosevelt would himself have "delighted to honor."

PARTY AT GREGG HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gregg entertained at a Halloween party last Friday evening for their daughter, Marie Gregg. The evening was spent in dancing and playing Halloween games, until ten o'clock, when refreshments were served. The guests were: Miss Elizabeth Dean, Ruth Marritz, Mary Murphy, Mary Jane Rose, Rebecca Pierson, Margaret Anderson, Clara Foote, Jessie Foote, and Betty Wood; George Wood, Marion Wood, Colbert Wood, Harry Cooper, Jack Cooper, Elmer Cooper, Victor Willis, Merritt Burke, Philip Kendall, David Coverdale, and William Coverdale.

called to see two feeble-minded children, with regard to placing them in an institution. One child with defective vision has been helped by having been taken to a Wilmington eye clinic, where glasses have been secured.

Calls for the nurse may be made at her home. She will also have office hours at the Health Center from 8 to 8:30 a. m. and from 1 to 1:30 p. m. It is hoped that soon the committee will be able to place a telephone for her service at that place.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT COBB HOME

Misses Carolyn Cobb and Louise Hutchison entertained twenty young friends at a Halloween party at the Cobb home on West Main street last Saturday evening. The house was transformed for the evening into a spooky camp. The front porch was bound with shocks of corn fodder and a huge lighted pumpkin topped the front door. Orange crepe paper covered the lights within the house, and Spanish moss was draped everywhere. In a corner stood a witch's tent, black pot and all, presided over by a terrible witch (Miss Winnie Danby). Traditional Halloween games were played and delicious Halloween goodies were served.

MRS. MARY J. WEBB DIES IN OHIO

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary J. Webb, 79 years old, wife of James J. Webb, who died suddenly at her home in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Monday, will be held in McCrery's undertaking parlors, 215 West Twenty-fourth street, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in Silverbrook cemetery. She had been a resident of Newark for 20 years, moving to Mt. Vernon about three years ago. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Mary W. Cannon, Thomas W. Webb and J. Howard Webb.

Report of Visiting Nurse

Newark's visiting nurse, Miss Alice Leak, who went on duty October 1, has had a busy month and has an excellent report of work done. Miss Leak has held four infant clinics at the Health Center, one on each Wednesday. She has examined one hundred and forty children; four of them, young babies; thirty-six pre-school age; one hundred post-school age (over six years of age). She has made visits to thirty homes in the interest of these children and delivered birth certificates to as many.

A tuberculosis clinic will be held on the first Monday of each month. Last month three patients were examined. The nurse has visited two tubercular patients in their homes, those who were unable to attend the clinic. Two maternity cases have been visited and mothers and babies cared for. Ten other cases in homes have been given nursing service. Two surgical dressings have been made in homes. In her visits, Miss Leak has been

Newark Wins Northern Bracket D. I. A. A. By Beating Dover

Comes From Behind To Win Turkey Day Date By Score Of 7-6. Riley's Kick Decides Bitter Struggle

Last Friday afternoon the Newark High School, D. I. A. A. champion football team went to Dover, where a surprise party was held in their honor. The surprise consisted of inspired football on the part of Dover, which was unlooked for, as Coach Malin's invincibles were confident of an easy victory. Dover began their back-handed hospitality in the first quarter by scoring a touchdown, and continued to make matters torrid for Newark till the final blast of the whistle. However, while Newark's crown was tilted, it wasn't toppled, and the local boys will fight it out with Laurel on Thanksgiving Day for the championship.

It was a great football game from the kick-off to the last scrimmage. J. Branner, Dover's outstanding star, made the first period eventful by scoring a touchdown. However Dover missed the kick for extra point and that ended their hopes, though no one realized it at the time. From then on the game saw-sawed back and forth till the third period. Dover really had the best of it, making more first downs than Newark. In the third period Newark's resourceful general, Morris, tossed a pass to Mayer who got within three yards of Dover's goal. Morris took it over and Riley saved the day by booting the seventh point.

Branner, at fullback, played some wonderful football for Dover and was supported by a desperately fighting team. Honors were fairly evenly divided among the home boys. The line was a stonewall and Doordan and Mayer made anything bite the dirt that came their way on the wings. Morris did his usual heady directing and was on the ball in every play. Riley, besides kicking the winning point, battered the Dover line until it sagged and stopped many an offensive maneuver. Smith and Whiteman contributed some shifty and elusive running.

On Thanksgiving, Newark will face a record-breaking team for the championship. Laurel, who won the southern bracket without drawing a deep breath, piled up a total of 181 points against their opponents and were never scored on. However, while this, on the face of it, looks black for Newark, they have a splendid chance of taking the championship again this year. Laurel has met with very different opposition in piling up this astounding total.

This Friday Newark will welcome Wesley Collegiate Institute at Newark for another game. This is not in the D. I. A. A. schedule, and if the past is a criterion, Newark will speed the parting guests with cheers of victory. Newark won from Wesley the week preceding last, 21 to 6.

The lineup:
Dover
 Vaughn left tackle McDowell
 Shahan center Dayett
 Pikus right guard Vansant
 Spence right tackle McMurray
 A. VanSant right end Mayer
 Boggs quarterback Morris
 Roeder right halfback Smith
 J. Branner fullback Riley

Score by Periods
 Dover 6 0 0 0-6
 Newark 0 0 7 0-7
 Referee, Terry. Umpire, McGee.

High School Subs Beat Ferris Regulars

Yesterday afternoon nine of the Newark High School second team with Whiteman and George Cook, regulars, defeated Ferris Industrial School on their own grounds by a score of 7 to 6.

The game was closely fought and was won by Newark in the last five minutes of play. Ferris, unable to gain through the line, started her plays around the wings in the first period, and gained considerable ground. On a fumble by Smith, Newark fullback in the first period, Ferris made a touchdown, but failed to get the extra point by rushing. From then on the game saw-sawed evenly till the last period, when Zabenko, Newark half back, intercepted a forward pass and ran it over the line for a touchdown. Cecil Williamson kicked the extra point.

The Newark line was excellent on defense, but didn't have the knack of opening holes for the backs. Sylvester and Jaquet starred defensively.

Newark's line-up was:
 Potts and Edmundson, ends; Sylvester and Holloway, tackles; Cook and Cole, guards; Amos Jaquet, center; Williamson, quarter; Zabenko and Mayer, half-backs; Smith, fullback. Substitutions for Newark: Whiteman for Potts, Whiteman for Mayer, Crooks for Cook, Cook for Edmundson, Holloway for Smith.

The Newark first team will play next week on Wednesday instead of Friday. This is because of the State Education Association meeting at Dover. They play du Pont at Wilmington.

University vs. Swarthmore, Saturday

On Saturday, Delaware University will step back in its own class and take on a deadly rival in its annual football game with Swarthmore, at Swarthmore.

The teams appear evenly matched, and with some of the University regulars who have been out with injuries, back in the line-up it should be a tight battle.

Swarthmore was defeated last week by Princeton 33 to 0, while Delaware was being trampled by Rutgers.

TUMBLE WEEDS

Saturday, November 6, the Hanark Theatre will show William S. Hart in "Tumble Weeds," which is a story written around frontier history. Hart plays his usual strong and stern role, but is softened by the melting glances of an innocent girl. There is considerable action, gun-play and wild riding. The basis of the plot is the opening of the Oklahoma Territory for settlement. Stern and innocent virtue combine to triumph.

Changes On Country Club Course

Wok has been started on a number of holes on the Newark Country Club golf course that will by the beginning of next season, increase the sportiness of the layout and make the golf a lot more interesting.

Number 3 is to be lengthened to 305 yards. The tee on number 7 will be moved back and number 8 will be shortened 35 yards, making it a sporty par 3. The 8th green is to be enlarged and well trapped with deep pits. Number 9 will also be changed in distance. The total yardage will, however, be affected very little.

These changes will bring the par from 37 to 35 and give the bogey husters something to shoot at. J. P. Armstrong and Norris N. Wright, greens committee, with Eddie Ginther, have planned the new layout.

A great deal of credit is due Jerry Monahan, greens keeper, for the splendid shape the Newark course is in this season. With the introduction of creeping bent, Jerry has produced a crop of greens that are the envy of all the clubs in this section.

Delaware Takes To the Foils

Fencing has been added to athletic activity at the University and while not as yet recognized by the Athletic Council, has aroused considerable interest.

Professor Code of the English Department, who won his letter at Harvard as a bladesman, has been giving pointers in the graceful sport. Tex Rodney, Ed Williams and Kirber show the most promise among the candidates.

VALENTINO'S LAST EFFORT

On Thursday and Friday, this week, the Hanark Theatre will present Rudolph Valentino's last production, "The Son of the Sheik." This picture is a sequel to "The Sheik" and Alice Joyce who played opposite him in the first production was loaned to play his mother in this picture. Valentino in fact, plays a dual role—father and son. Vilma Banky, who is particularly alluring as the dancing girl, plays opposite Valentino in the love scenes.

Crippled Blue And Gold Beaten But Not Routed; Creamer Stars

Last Saturday afternoon, Delaware University left a gridiron at New Brunswick, N. J., battered, bruised and defeated, but with their honor and courage still high. They had been selected to make a Roman Holiday for the burly New Jersey eleven, and with Lohman's defensive strength and Loveland's speed benched by injuries, it seemed likely that the Rutgers steam-roller would score at will. However, while Rutgers played its best football of the season it failed to demoralize its lighter opponent and the Blue and Gold need feel no shame at the result.

Creamer, while he failed to kick his usual field goal, starred for Delaware. His punts averaged 45 yards and he made one run of 30 yards in returning one of Hanf's punts.

Rutgers' superior weight, and training facilities back of it, told from the start, but the first quarter was scoreless. The second period began with the ball on Delaware's 5-yard line, and on the third down, Young went through for a touchdown. Gardner kicked successfully for the second point.

At the beginning of the second half Delaware threw a scare into the Jersey cohorts with their overhead offense. A pass, Creamer to Di Joseph, gained 25 yards and brought the ball well into Rutgers' territory. Creamer tried to drop kick from the 30-yard line but it missed.

The kick-off in the third period hit the Rutgers center and bounced into the arms of Benson, Delaware guard, who ran to the thirty-yard line before he was downed by Lorenz, and then Creamer missed his second drop kick. Toward the end of the period, Toney Zoller, Rutgers' substitute back, circled right end and covered 50 yards before he was thrown. Young and Preletz advanced the ball through the line to within 3 yards of Delaware's goal, where Zoller went through tackle for the second score. Preletz kicked the seventh point.

In the last quarter Delaware seemed unable to advance through the line, and when Creamer attempted a pass, Captain Hanf of Rutgers intercepted it and ran 40 yards. Flackbarth in two off-tackle plunges, took it over. Hanf got the extra point.

The Blue and Gold went out of its class in this game, but it fought the good fight and earned respect for the smaller institution. Except for two

Women Plan To Make "High Street" Into Permanent Exhibit

Members Of Patriotic And Historical Societies To Launch Movement To Keep Intact Reproductions Of Buildings

A movement to make permanent "High Street of 1776" at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, in Philadelphia, has been started by women prominent in civic and patriotic organizations.

The widespread approval of the exhibit, which was erected by the women of Pennsylvania, has caused consideration of the plan to keep the buildings as a permanent record of history. "High Street" is an accurate reproduction of the buildings in existence in old High Street, now Market Street, in Philadelphia, during the time of the Revolution.

Authentic history documents were used by prominent engineers in erecting the buildings so that they would resemble, both in structure and furnishings, the homes and buildings to be found in the main part of Philadelphia at the time the Declaration of Independence was signed.

"High Street" has been the centre of notable programs since the opening of the Exposition. Many foreign dignitaries and high United States officials, including President Coolidge, have taken part in programs arranged in various buildings of the historic thoroughfare.

The buildings reproduced include the house Washington occupied from 1790 to 1797, the Washington Stables, which are used as a Marionette Theater for children; the home used by Thomas Jefferson; the house of Dr. Shippon, celebrated physician of 150 years ago, who was General Washington's personal physician; the Foreign Affairs Building, Indian Queen Inn, the Market Place, the Friends' Meeting House, the First Brick House, the little Wooden House, the home of Stephen Girard, prominent banker of the Revolution; the Loxley House, from where Benjamin Franklin is thought to have made his famous experiments with a kite; William Penn's own home and the Paul Revere Forge.

In the latter place the sound of hammer and anvil is heard daily as latches, belts, foot scrapers, hinges and various other articles are made by hand in the forge. The products, turned out by a blacksmith in the same manner they were made 150 years ago, are sold to Exposition visitors.

The buildings face each other and are in the same relation to one another as the originals were when Philadelphia was the principal city of the United States and the residence of men known to every school child. The street is unpaved, just as it was in Revolutionary times, and ancient lampposts dimly light the thoroughfare at night.

The town crier is seen broadcasting the news of the day and important events, and the street is peopled with men and women clad in the Colonial costumes, including powdered wigs, knee breeches and cocked hats.

It is planned to have the buildings as they now stand kept intact after the close of the Exposition, so that they can be shown to the rising generation as a chapter in American history.

Figures In Poultry

The following estimated cost of conducting a poultry farm is given upon the authority of B. F. Jarvis, of the Jarvis Poultry Farms, Berlin, Maryland.

Annual production per pullet 160 eggs at an average price per year of 40 cents per dozen—$6.13. Cost for feed per pullet for an average year—$2.75. Total profit per pullet—$3.38.

Therefore, on a plant of 2,000 layers a return over feed cost would be $6,760.00. (We are putting this at a low average of 160 eggs, as good birds with good attention will go well over 180 eggs per year and in some cases 200.)

The cost of housing would be approximately $5,000. That is for laying house, feed room and equipment for 2,000 birds and allowing 5 per cent depreciation on this amount would be $250.00. Net profit would be $6,510.00.

The above of course does not include taxes on the plant as that would be according to value of the plant and location.

"Let us have faith that right makes right, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

TEACHING CHILDREN TO LIE

Katharine D. Hill

Most intelligent parents distinguish between the child's romancing, or sheer inability to know truth from fancy, and the actual lie, denying guilt or placing the blame for an offense on an innocent playmate in self-defense. There was a time when I was quite proud of the tact I used in dealing with the former, and of my severity in trying to cure the latter, but I have come to feel that in these latter efforts many of us—though well-meaning parents—have actually encouraged these very faults which we are struggling to correct.

One day when I was chatting with a neighbor our respective children fell into one of those petty quarrels so common to childhood, and my boy interrupted our conversation with some sweeping accusation against his little playmate. To my friend's natural chagrin at any unseemly action on the part of her child was added annoyance at the interruption, and her manner was actually terrifying when she turned to the little girl and demanded, "Did you hit Richard?"

Self-defense being one of the strongest instincts of the human race, the child cringed and said, "No!"

Evidences were against her, but still, and ever more emphatically, she protested her innocence. In vain I tried to persuade the mother to let the matter drop for a moment, and soon a hysterical mother was dragging a hysterical child away, saying, "I won't have my child a liar. I'll make her tell the truth!"

She was exhausted when she came back a little while later to say she was convinced her little girl had been telling the truth from the beginning, for she had clung to her story even under threat of the whip if she dared to lie.

Poor child! Almost forced to lie in the first place by the demand, "Did you do it?" and by the realization that confession would mean sharp and quick punishment, and then tormented into a hysteria in which she actually came to believe in the innocence she was claiming!

And so it goes. We threaten with hand and voice, while we demand, "Did you do it?" or ask a group of children standing in trembling realization of the punishment awaiting the culprit, "Which one of you did it?" We know there is no instinct stronger than that of self-defense, and yet we ignore that fact, practically forcing the little child to lie and tempting his older brother.

So with little children I have come to avoid these questions under most

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

A Batch of Cookies Drop Ginger Cookies—One cup molasses, one half-cup shortening, one-half cup sugar, two teaspoons ginger, two teaspoons soda, one-half cup boiling water, two eggs, flour sufficient to make of proper consistency so that cakes will not flatten out, as they are dropped,—about four cups.

Hermits—One and one-half cups brown sugar, one-half cup molasses, one cup lard, one cup sour or butter-milk, one teaspoon soda, two eggs, one cup chopped raisins, one-half teaspoon each of nutmeg and cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon. Beat dry ingredients well with the eggs; add molasses, milk; soda, with flour enough to drop, not run from spoon. Grease shallow pans and drop batter by teaspoonful, allowing room to spread.

Little Ginger Cakes—One cup lard, one cup molasses, heated together; add one cup sugar, two teaspoons soda, one-half cup boiling water, two teaspoons each of ginger and cinnamon; flour enough to roll; not too stiff. Cut into little cakes and bake in quick oven.

Cry-Babies—One cup butter or lard, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one egg, one teaspoon soda, dissolved in one cup boiling water; five cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Drop by teaspoonful on greased pan and bake quickly.

Vanilla Wafers—Cream one-half cup butter and two cups sugar; add two eggs, well-beaten; three-fourths cup cold water, two heaping teaspoons yeast powder and flour enough to make stiff batter. Flavor with vanilla. Drop by teaspoonful on a well-greased baking pan and bake in a moderately quick oven until a light brown.

Cocoa Cookies—One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-third cup milk, one-half cup cocoa, four teaspoons baking powder, four cups flour. Cream the sugar and the shortening together; add the milk slowly, then the eggs, well-beaten, and the cocoa; sift the flour and baking powder together and add to make a stiff dough. Roll out a quarter of an inch thick and cut. Bake in a hot oven from twelve to fifteen minutes. Decorate with white icing.

DRIED CITRON The citron of the stores is not the citron melon, a form of Citrullus vulgaris, and a member of the Gourd family; it is Citrus Medica, belonging to the Orange family. Commercial citron is the peel of this fruit, which possesses a pleasant flavor due to the presence of certain essential oils. Citron melon may be candied, and many people use it in this way, but it has little flavor, and cannot be compared with true citron peel. The melon is candied as follows: Cut the fruit in slices and remove all seeds. Put a piece of alum the size of a hickorynut to two quarts of water; put in as much sliced citron as the water will cover, and boil until tender. Drain, then cover with syrup, using a pint of sugar to a pint of fruit. Boil for half an hour; then spread on pie plates and keep in a cool oven or other drying place until perfectly dry.

Sliced ham, baked in milk with sliced potatoes on top, is an excellent dinner dish. One of the easiest ways of preparing egg-plant is to cut it in half lengthwise and bake it with bacon laid in strips over the top. Why not use some of the windfall and specked apples to make pectin, which will be useful with fruits not ordinarily used for jelly? The U. S. Department of Agriculture will tell you how to make apple pectin.

The last green tomatoes have many uses. They make good pickles and chow chow, and also marmalade; they can be used for pie filling, for mock mince meat, and served fried.

Women's College Notes

At the meeting of Forum on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Frederick Bringham, Miss Spruance and Mrs. A. D. Warner, of Wilmington, spoke to the girls of the purpose of the League of Women Voters and urged the organization of a league on the campus.

The officers of the Glee Club have been elected as follows: President, Rosalie Steel; secretary, Eleanor Edge; treasurer, Agnes Thoms; business manager, Sally Coffin; advertising, Margaret Middleton; librarians, Lois Simmons and May Thompson.

The members of Dr. Crooks' philosophy classes were delightfully entertained at luncheon by Dr. and Mrs. Crooks at their home, last Wednesday, following the College Hour talk by Dr. Will Durant, who was guest of honor at the luncheon.

Since last Wednesday the freshman caps are no more than souvenirs. It seems that the freshman decision to discard the caps and the sophomore condescension to permit their removal coincided: at any rate, that phase of sophomore tyranny is history.

Thursday was "Dues Day" at W. C. D. The treasurers of the various classes, of Student Council, Dramatic Club, Athletic Club, Social Committee and The Review relieved the girls of their month's allowance in a few short hours.

The Hallowe'en Dance at the Armory on Saturday evening was one of the largest dances ever held by students of W. C. D. The decorations included the harvest moon, bats, black cats, owls, a pirates' cave, a treasure chest and other hallowe'en and spooky effects. The girls on the decorating committee were: Linda Bassett, Louise Carter, Kitty Krauss, Louise Turner, Grace Ellison and Barbara King. Savina Skewis arranged for refreshments of pretzels and sweet cider. Tacy Hurst attended to the finances. In the receiving line were Kitty Ady, social chairman; Dean Robinson, Miss Parker, and Mrs. Olson. Music was furnished by Herb Clark and his Collegians. Practically all of the girls were in costume.

The girls at the Practice House entertained at dinner on Thursday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Benner were guests. Kitty Horton was hostess; Ruth Larter, cook; Olive Murray, waitress; and Grace Smedley, host.

Kitty Ady spent Sunday at her home at Sharon, Maryland.

Helen Simon, '27, a graduate student at University of Pennsylvania, called on Newark friends Sunday.

Charlotte Dayett, Margaret Satterfield, and Louise Harris, alumnae, attended the Hallowe'en Dance.

Alice Holloway spent last week-end with Helen Pearce, in Baltimore.

An important meeting of the elected officers of the Year Book was held on Monday afternoon. Marian Steele, Editor-in-Chief presided. The other officers present were: Jean Blair and Catherine O'Neil, associate editors; Nellie Lawton, business manager; Marjorie Johnson, advertising manager. A general staff of assistants was chosen, which will co-operate with the officers, in an effort to make the Year Book a worthy achievement. Martha Maul was chosen assistant editor; Frances Malcom and Rebecca Hobson, associate editors; Margaret Burke, athletic editor, and Eleanor Edge, assistant; Virginia Smith and Catharine Holton, advertising assistants. The art editors will be selected by competition and a typist will later be chosen. A second meeting will be held on Friday of this week.

Mary Louise Robertson, '30, was called to her home in Warren, Ohio, last Friday, because of the sudden death of her father.

Anne Whaley, president of the Sophomore class, has announced that her class will sponsor a concert by the Orpheus Club of Wilmington, December 14, in Wolf Hall.

MEETING FOR FARMERS Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the McClellandville School House, New London road, there will be a meeting of dairymen and farmers. Mr. M. F. Thatcher, president of the Community Feed Mixing Machine Company will deliver the main address on "Feeds and Feeding." There will be other addresses on subjects interesting and vital to dairymen.

Newark New Century Club

The Newark New Century Club is enjoying a wealth of good things. At Monday afternoon's meeting, Miss Hurd, a charter member, gave a very interesting history of the Newark Town Library, which the club organized and has financed since its founding. Beginning in the book-store of Wilbur T. Wilson, club members serving as librarians, Miss Hurd traced its history until this time, when the Library is housed in the old Academy, with a paid librarian, and hundreds of books. Attention was called to the "book plate" designed for the Library by a former member, Mrs. L. H. Cooch, now living in California. Miss Hurd also told the history of our gavel. It was made from wood from the bullet-ridden quarters of Lt. Martin, pay-master of Dewey's flagship, the "Olympia," at the battle of Manila.

Mrs. Heim, first vice-president of the D. S. F. W. C., announced the county institute, to be held in the Claymont School, in all-day session, on Wednesday, November 10. Mrs. Heim strongly urged that all club members attend. Mrs. Cobb announced the rummage sale in the Club House on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Mrs. George Rhodes can be notified to call for articles for this sale. With the cooperation of all members this sale can be a great success.

The director, Mrs. Dayett, reported the Executive Board meeting at Dover on October 14, and brought the messages of the state chairmen.

Mrs. Durant, program chairman, outlined the program for the coming months, special attention being called to the generosity of the University faculty members, three of whom had already consented to speak, and to the fact that several out-of-town speakers, whose world travels make their talks very interesting, have promised to appear on the program. A "Suggestion Box" was on the table and Mrs. Durant asked that any suggestions or changes that members wished to make would be gratefully received by the committee.

The treat of the afternoon was in the form of a lecture by Prof. James A. Barkley on "America's Mission." The talk began with the mission of the earliest civilization, traced through all the great peoples and nations, ending in a grand climax, showing America's supreme duty to the world today.

Next Monday, the meeting will be addressed by Mrs. Albert Robin of Wilmington, on the subject, "Education in Russia." Mrs. Sonia Tarumeanz will entertain with selections of Russian music. The meeting will be at the Club House at 2.30.

—Secretary, pro tem.

Poultry Tour En With B

Largest Ever Held; Sta Association Organ

On Wednesday and Thursday last week the poultrymen of the Extension Department of the University of Delaware held the largest and most successful tour that was ever held in Delaware. At 9:00 a. m. Wednesday, 118 poultrymen, New Jersey and Delaware, were assembled on the Delaware River. By the time the tour was reached on the following day there were eighty-three poultrymen.

Decision to conduct such a tour was reached during a meeting of the poultrymen at the University of Delaware on Farmers' Day last year. At that time W. V. Cosden, of Delaware, was appointed chairman of a committee to make general arrangements for the tour, and Mr. H. R. Lemex, of Delaware, was made chairman of the committee. The task of the committee was to visit and speak for the program was left to the Extension Department of the University of Delaware, and County Agricultural Agents were selected on which certain phases of poultry management were outstanding.

Following are the farms visited: 1. Pullets according to maturity; 2. Hens to maintain fall production and layers fed on home-grown feed; 3. Record of eggs and cost; 4. Oil-can water four times a week; 5. Yarding, sanitation and green food; 6. Preparing eggs for market. (Continued on Page 9)

Mayor Of Elkton Suddenly At Hi

William H. Mackall Str Heart Attack; Succ Two Hours

William Hollingsworth, Mayor of Elkton, died at his home on Broad Street at about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The result of dilation of the heart was the cause of his death in the 68th year of his age. Mayor Mackall was in good health up to 9 o'clock Sunday evening as he sat at his desk. At that time he complained of some pains about his chest, which grew worse, and, despite the ministrations of physicians, who had been called, he died about two hours later.

He was the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Richard H. Mackall, who was born in Elkton in 1858. He was a graduate of the University of Delaware and for several years was vice-president of the Fertilizer Company of Elkton. He was a Democrat and aspired to any political office. He was a vestryman of Trinity Church for more than 30 years and was active in church work. His widow, who was Mrs. Evans, of Bel Air, and Mrs. Harry S. Young, of Philadelphia, are surviving. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal Church. Rev. Fredrik Virgin, Inc. will officiate. He is buried in Elkton Cemetery.

DANIEL STOLL AW SEWER C

At the meeting of the Sewer Commission held last week, Daniel Stoll was awarded the contract for the extension of the sewer on Depot road. The bid was reported to be the lowest and was submitted by Stoll. Plans call for an eight-foot sewer.
