VOLUME XVI NEWARK, DELAWARE, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13 1926 NUMBER 50

Orpheus Club, Seventy Strong, Here Thursday

Wilmington Singers Expected to Draw Largest Audience of Season to Wolf Hall; Girl Students Sponsoring
the Benefit Concert

With tickets going fast, and an unusual amount of interest being shown, the Orpheus Club concert tomorrow night in Wolf Hall is confidently expected to be the biggest musical event of the season here.

Under the auspices of the Sophomore Class at the Women's College, the concert is being given for the "Review," the University student weekly. Every effort is being made to get a wide distribution of tickets in the community.

Seventy singers, led by Dr. H. Alexander Matthews will arrive here tomorrow evening from Wilmington in cars and go direct to Wolf Hall, where the concert begins at 8.15.

Bearing Expenses

Unlike other out of town trips, the Club is coming to Newark at their own expense. Necessary fees for the director, soloist and accompanist are the only expenses attached to the concert to be met by the students here. The cooperation of the singers on providing Newark people with an evening of beautiful choral music is explained when it is stated that one and all, they are warm friends of the University here, and have always enjoyed their trips to Newark.

Extra arrangements are being made to seat a capacity audience tomorrow night, as it is felt that the Orpheus singers, following an absence of nearly a year, will arouse a popular last minute demand for tickets.

Stuart Gracey

Mr. Stuart Gracey, baritone, has been engaged by the club as assisting soloist and will sing several numbers. The full membership will make the trip down from Wilmington together with scores of friends and admirers from that city.

MUSIC SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Professor George H. Ryden was re-elected president of the Newark Music Society at the annual meeting held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hullihen last evening.

Following the business meeting, a short musicale was given by Newark singers.

Information may be had from the Chamber of Commerce offices in the du Pont Building.

ELLISON RE- ELECTED CHIEF

Annual Meeting of Aetna Fire
Company Held In Fire House
Friday Night

Elmer J. Ellison was re-elected chief of the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company of Newark at the annual meeting held in the fire house Friday night. He won the office over Robert Crow by a comfortable margin of votes, in the only contest on the slate.

The selection of new directors of the company resulted in the election of the following men: John R. Fulton, George W. Rhodes, H. Warner McNeal, Robert S. Gallaher and Daniel Stoll.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved and showed the finances of the company to be in good condition. Considerable discussion and interest centered about the new pumper which will soon be completed and housed here. Fire Recorder Lutton read his annual report as published in The Post last week.

Robert Crow was elected first assistant chief and Walter R. Powell, second assistant.

Robert J. Crow was re-elected president. Other officers elected were Harlan Herdman, vice-president; Guy Hancock, secretary; Warren A. Singles, treasurer, and Frank M. Lutton, fire recorder.

THIS WEEK IN SPORTS

College Team Plays Two Games;
Battery Still Winning

Delaware engages Drexel in the first home game. The drill hall is being used as an experiment to determine whether sufficient spectators will attend to warrant continuance of games there. On Friday night, Swarthmore will invade Newark, the game to be played in the Gymnasium.

Battery E's fast court team continues its winning ways. Last night they soundly trounced the Polish Falcons of Wilmington, 43-20. On Saturday night last, Elkton fell before the local onslaught, 40-13. Elkton girls defeated Perry Point in a preliminary game. Eland was the star for the Newark outfit on the Elkton court, scoring 8 field goals and 5 fouls.

TO HEAD M. E. CHOIR

Philip Myers Selected For Post Last Week

Philip B. Myers, chemist at the Experimental Station of the University, has been elected director of the Methodist Episcopal choir here, to succeed H. J. Gaerthe, resigned. Mr. Gaerthe, who has held the post for over two years, has built up a splendid organization.

Mr. Myers, since his arrival in Newark, has taken a great interest in musical affairs. He has been a member of the Presbyterian choir and sang in the male quartet representing that body of singers. It is understood his duties at the M. E. Church have begun.

Annual Corn Show of Harmony Grange Reveals Culinary Art As Well As High Cultivation In the Fields; Champion Apple
Sells For $1.20 Cash In Subsequent Auction

While formally termed a Corn Show, members of Harmony Grange staged a general agricultural and culinary fair in their hall at Mermaid, Monday night.

King Corn was almost crowded off his pedestal by gorgeous pies, heavily-iced cakes, ripe red apples, fat and saucy doughnuts, and many other indoor and outdoor winter delicacies. Arranged with but a few weeks' work, the exhibit was pronounced a great success, particularly since most of the viands were consumed before the evening was over. Ladies of the Grange shared equally with the men in taking down awards in the various classes.

Apple Comes High

The champion apple of the show, grown by J. F. Brackin and Sons, was sold at auction for $1.20 at the conclusion of the judging.

Awards were made as follows:

GRADED SCHOOLS HOLD CONTESTS

Middletown Retains Attendance
Honors First Gained In November; Other County Schools Listed

The banner for the graded elementary school in New Castle County, having the highest per cent of attendance, which was won by Middletown in November will remain in that school another month, for December, Middletown elementary grades had a percentage of 94.9, which was the highest of any elementary school in this county.

An intensive drive for attendance is being made in Townsend school by the principal, Miss Ratledge, and her teachers. The children also seem to be much enthused, and Townsend is a close second to Middletown with 93.7 for December.

The banner for rural one and two-teacher schools was won this month by Augustine with a percentage of 99.6. Rockland upper room is second with 97.2; Eighth Square is third with 96.8.

The banner for colored schools goes to St. Georges with a percentage of 98.1; Iron Hill is second with 95.0.

Mrs. Martha I. Barnes, visiting teacher for the county reports the average attendance in the rural schools of more than two rooms for December as follows:

CAR TAKES SPILL; NO ONE INJURED

Dover Bus Slides Up Bank
Along Race South of Newark
Yesterday Afternoon

A Hudson sedan, owned by Alfred C. Stiltz of Newark, and driven by Ira Griffin, enroute to Dover, skidded on the icy road between Newark and Cooch's yesterday afternoon and careened into the adjacent bank.

Four passengers were in the bus at the time, including Miss Marion Skewis, dietitian at the College Commons here, and Professor W. L. Revan of the History Department of the University. No one was hurt.

The exhaust pipe of the car was damaged in dragging along the bank. The accident is understood to have occurred near the Dayett Mill race, the first reports held that the car overturned in the race. Eugene Stiltz, in discussing the matter today, stated that the bus proceeded on to Dover on schedule. Mr. Stiltz estimated the damages to be about $6.00.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR HERE

Prof. Cestre, of Sorbonne, in Paris, Appraises American Poets In Lecture Here

One of the most distinguished foreign visitors Newark has entertained in recent years, spoke to a town-college audience Thursday evening in Old College.

He is Professor Cestre, head of the department of American literature in the Sorbonne, Paris. He arrived in this country last week and stopped here enroute to Baltimore, where he lectured at Johns Hopkins University. He then proceeded to the University of Michigan, where he will spend a year as exchange professor.

Prof. Cestre chose as his topic here, a critical appraisal of three contemporary American poets: Amy Lowell, Robert Frost and Edwin Arlington Robinson. Beside the interest naturally evinced by the audience as to what place the French give to these three poets, Mr. Cestre's address, given in English, proved to be a brilliant literary effort, masterfully constructed. While his statement that the three American poets held top rank in world letters was disparaged in the minds of a majority of hearers, it is believed by many that the speaker meant to compare them with actual contemporary poets.

Prof. Cestre addressed the French department of the University in his native tongue on Friday morning at the college.

Cleaver Re-Elected

Henry Cleaver was re-elected president of the Board of Directors of the Delaware City National Bank at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the bank held Monday morning. C. Earl Baum was re-elected cashier. The other directors, all of whom were re-elected, are Harry C. Price, Harry C. Clark, George W. Clark, George R. Clark, Dr. Walter W. Ellis and Joseph M. Reeves. Dr. Ellis presided at the meeting.

A CORRECTION

In Section 4 of the new parking ordinance for Newark, published in The Post last week, it was stated that cars must be parked "at least twelve inches from the curb." In order to preclude any misunderstanding, the terms of the ordinance should read, "not more than twelve inches from the curb."

CARNIVAL DATES

The Aberdeen Fire Department of Aberdeen, Maryland, has chosen as the dates for its second annual Carnival, July 2nd to 10th, inclusive.

HOUSEWIVES STILL WANT GAS SERVICE ACTION BEGINS ANEW

"When do we get gas in Newark?"

This question and similar ones have been heard scores of times in homes, on the streets and in business houses the past few weeks. The query comes mostly from women, and unconsciously, has resulted in a renewal of the agitation for service from the Wilmington Gas Company.

President John K. Johnston of the Chamber of Commerce is working on the question now, endeavoring to gain some definite information from the company. Mr. Johnston's report will be published in The Post at an early date.

Meanwhile, there appears to be no let up in the hopeful attitude of Newark housewives.

CURLING IRON SLIPS INTO EYE

Women's College Student Suffers
Painful Injury In Odd
Accident Saturday

Painfully, at first believed seriously, burned about one eye, Miss Winona Bunting of Selbyville, Delaware, a student at the Women's College here, is under the care of a physician.

Miss Bunting was manipulating a curling iron in her room at the college Saturday when in some manner the hot instrument slipped from her grasp and severely burned one eye. Friends rushed to her aid and applied first aid pending the arrival of a doctor. The eyeball is not affected.

The injured girl is reported to be rapidly recovering from the ordeal and will not, it is believed, bear permanent scars.

An Obituary

He once proudly bore a master's carriage. He lived, poor fellow, to see the hated motor car's ascendancy drive him from his haunts. On crackly days as these, the pounding of his hoofs an dthe clang of sleighbells at his shafts was good music on Main street. But those were Other Days.

"Bell," a driving horse owned by Ellis P. Cullen of Choate street, Newark, died a few days ago at the age of 33.

TAKES CHARGE OF PLAY

Mrs. Herman Tyson has agreed to take charge of the play scheduled to be given in a few weeks by the Seniors of the High School here. Pressure of other work has caused Miss Mary Houston, former director, to ask for a relief of the coaching responsibility. Mrs. Tyson is an experienced coach and her acceptance has probably saved the play from collapse.

"CROSSBONES, NOT FLOWERS ON ELKTON CERTIFICATES," SAYS JUDGE

Hasty Greta Green Wedding Ends In Jersey Divorce Court;
Claim Girl Is 16; Boy 17; Decision Is Reserved

Voicing his opinion that marriage certificates issued in Elkton should bear a skull and cross bones, instead of the traditional vase of flowers, and that "some day the clergy of Elkton will get their due share," Vice-Chancellor Leaming of the Camden, N. J., court of chancery, delivered a hot broadside against the so-called Greta Green activities of the Cecil county metropolis, Monday.

It all came about when Chancellor

Center Street Development Is Latest Offering

New Thoroughfare, Tapping Hitherto Untouched Acreage in Central Newark, to Come Soon; Building Lots
Put on Market This Week

AWAKENS NEW INTEREST

A new real estate development, this time in the heart of Newark, has been launched by the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Company for the owner, Samuel J. Wright.

The tract embraces several acres between Main street and Baltimore and Ohio railroad, running eastward almost to Choate street. For years it has lain idle, hemmed in by the railroad embankment and a solid block of buildings on Main street. Since its purchase by Mr. Wright, rumors of a new street were speedily confirmed.

The thoroughfare will be called Center street, runs from Main at the Dr. Kollock residence northward to the Methodist Cemetery, and will be permanently paved by Town Council whenever that body is called upon by existing needs.

Twenty-seven

The sale of property within the Center street tract opened this week at the offices of the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Company, under personal charge of James D. Davis, Jr. Twenty-seven parcels of land are included, all tapped by both water and sewerage mains—a feature which is unusual in local real estate circles.

It is further stated by the owners that plans are made for a small park or playground along the new street for the use of residents.

The Center street development, idle so many years, has awakened unusual interest among real estate men, due principally to the location directly in the business section and to the promised cooperation of town authorities in paving operations to come. The new street will not be "blind," but will connect with a thoroughfare running eastward to Choate street.

WHAT ARE THEY

Awkward mounds of dirt and gravel have appeared in the middle of New London avenue, approaching the B. and O. tracks, and similarly on North College avenue.

It looks all very strange now but some day soon the mounds will have resolved themselves into safety barriers topped off by flashlights, which are designed to replace the inefficient safety gate system now in vogue here.

Meanwhile, opinion still divideth itself.

Unsuccessful

From all accounts the marriage was unsuccessful and the case filled with charges and counter charges, one of which was to the effect that Levy had lived with his young wife but three weeks.

The Chancellor's remarks became heated during the divorce hearing. He spoke of the unhappiness born of weddings such as practiced at Elkton, and rapped the clergy of the Maryland town for their participation in the "marriage mill."

On the Tulice marriage certificate, the name of Rev. M. E. Schweitzer was set down as the officiating minister.

Inquiry today failed to reveal a Rev. Schweitzer as a resident of Elkton in 1921. There is no one by that name living there today.

Presbytery Officers

Rev. S. Beattie Wyllie, a retired Presbyterian minister, was elected president of the Board of Trustees of the Presbytery of New Castle at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the office of Rev. A. W. Sonne, pastor of West Presbyterian Church and Moderator of the Presbytery of New Castle. Rev. H. E. Hallman, of Newark, was elected secretary and treasurer. Others elected to the Board were Judge William S. Prickett, Rev. A. W. Sonne, Rev. John Blake, of Marshallton; Rev. R. A. Boyle and L. S. Wallis, both of Salisbury, Md.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NOTES

(Written For The Post)

School called again on the fourth, after a ten-days' Christmas recess. The girls settled down to work a bit more seriously than is usual after the fluster of a holiday season. The reason for this is probably the fact that "mid-years" loom in the near future. The first exam is scheduled for January 31.

The students, faculty and friends of the college were privileged last Thursday evening to hear Dr. Cestre, of the University of Paris, who lectured in the Lounge Room. His subject was, "Three Contemporary American Poets: Amy Lowell, Robert Frost, and Edwin Robinson." Dr. Cestre spoke our language fluently and beautifully and charmed the audience with his talk.

The next morning, he addressed the French students in the French language, discussing conditions in France.

The deferred Christmas party was held in the Hilarium last Friday evening and was voted the jolliest Open Night of the school year. Red and green decorations, delicious sandwiches, punch, and good music were among the attractions.

Vespers on Sunday evening were led by Martha Maull, with Eloise Rodney at the piano. The speaker of the evening was Frank P. Mitchell, deputy warden of the New Castle County Workhouse, recently elected assistant pastor of Grace M. E. Church. Mrs. Mitchell was with her husband and accompanied him on the piano when he sang "Abide With Me" for the girls.

A new idea will soon be put into practice to increase interest in the Sunday evening services. Leaders from the different halls will be asked to conduct just such a service as she thinks would be most interesting and helpful, and at the close of the series a vote will be taken to find out which program was considered the most successful. Those girls who have been asked to lead are: Virginia Chipman, Louise Brooks, Katharine Harlan, Iva James, Louise Eskridge, Ruth Larter, Helen Stayon, Elizabeth Tomlinson, Helen Morton, and Mildred Phillips.

The Sophomore Class, the Review Staff, and their friends have been busy this week selling tickets for the concert to be given in Wolf Hall Thursday evening. The town folk have responded generously and seem pleased to have this opportunity to hear the Orpheus Club.

Patronesses will be Dean Robinson, Mrs. Walter Hulihan, Miss Nora Keeley, Mrs. A. G. Wilkinson, and Mrs. A. D. Warner.

Mrs. Forbes-Robertson Hale, the eminent English author and lecturer was the College Hour speaker this morning. Mrs. Hale will also speak in Forum this afternoon.

The French Club will meet this evening at 7:30 in the Common Room of Sussex Hall.

Dean Robinson will attend the luncheon of the Wilmington New Century Club tomorrow, as the guest of Mrs. A. D. Warner.

Mrs. M. H. Richardson, of Baltimore, was the guest of her daughter, Miss Richardson, over the week-end.

Miss W. H. Moore, of Baltimore, was also a guest of Miss Richardson last week-end.

Katharine Ady and Ruth Larter spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Patterson, in Wilmington.

Miss Margaret Brady spent Saturday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jefferson Poole, in Wilmington.

Mary Adelaide Hughes, of Dover, was the week-end guest of Alice Holway.

Miss Cynthia Blaine, of Pocomoke

MANY COASTERS ON HILLS HERE

Young and Old Alike Enjoy Best Sport of Winter; No Accidents Reported Despite Congestion

Youth of Newark took to its sled the past week.

Over the week-end hundreds of youngsters, and many grown-ups who could not resist the urge, capitalized the heaviest snowfall of the winter and flocked to West Main street, McLaughlin's Mill and other town and rural hills.

Despite the fact that roller skates and scooters have almost displaced them in Santa's stock, a bewildering array of sleds made their appearance overnight. Beginning Saturday, coasting has been more or less continuous.

Several Parties

A score or more of the Continental Fibre office force enjoyed a coasting party at McLaughlin's, west of town, Monday night. Smaller neighborhood parties were also noted in the crowds on town hills. West Main street on Monday was crowded with coasters. At least two hundred were present early in the evening.

Despite the many spills and crowded condition of the street, no accidents were reported. Torn stockings, snow filled galoshes and chapped hands were, however, generally considered part of the sport.

Little prospects are held out for more snow this week, according to weather forecasts.

City, visited her sister, Julia Blaine, last week-end.

A number of the girls went to Wilmington Saturday to see "The Phantom of the Opera."

Miss Ada Willum, of Wilmington, spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Kelly.

Sledding parties under the auspices of the Outing Club have been the sporting feature of the week.

THE GRANGE CORNER

In Pennsylvania 25 mutual insurance companies, conducted by the Grange in as many different counties, did a business last year covering $108,000,000 of insurance on farm property at a great money saving to the policy holders. The Mutual Casualty Insurance Company recently launched under direction of the Pennsylvania State Grange is making rapid strides and is also found of real money benefit to the Grange farmers.

Every subordinate Grange in the United States has been asked by National Master Louis J. Taber to undertake this year some definite project of community service aimed toward local improvement. Many Granges offer prizes for such work and in a number of states community service contests are carried on among the Granges through the year, with attractive cash prizes for the most outstanding accomplishments.

The Granges of Ohio are lining up for another vigorous fight against the old age pension project which was overwhelmingly defeated by the voters of that state several years ago as the result of an energetic opposition campaign fostered by the Grange.

Eighty new Grange halls were dedicated in the United States during 1925, representing a total replacement value of over $400,000. In New York State an average of more than one new Grange hall every month was dedicated, with approximately 3,000 Grange owned halls occupied at the present time. There is a likelihood of more than 100 new ones being added during 1926.

Those who favor a breaking down of the present immigration laws will get no comfort out of the attitude of the National Grange, which thus forcefully declares itself:—"We are absolutely and unqualifiedly opposed to any reopening by Congress of the immigration subject or to the changing in the slightest respect of the ineluctable alien clause of the Federal immigration law."

A new Grange just organized at Boise, Idaho, is remarkable for the nature of its charter roll, which contains the names of faculty members of the state college of agriculture, the state commissioner of agriculture and several of his deputies, and an impressive array of agricultural leaders and workers in various lines of state activity.

Every State Grange session held during the month of December put itself emphatically on record for vigorous enforcement of the prohibition laws and against weakening of the Volstead act or other prohibition enforcement machinery. This follows the emphatic utterance of the National Grange on the same subject at its Sacramento session.

No better answer to the question of school consolidation was ever given than this terse pronouncement of the National Grange:—"School consolidation is a local question and must be solved by each local community according to its own situation." This leaves the matter open for local determination and furnishes a topic of the keenest interest in hundreds of Grange meetings, together with the utmost freedom of action when it comes to determining local school policies.

The first tin-can canning club in the state of Wisconsin was organized under Grange supervision and by the master's wife of the State Grange. Several other such clubs have since been formed under Grange leadership and this farmers' organization is taking the lead in home canning activities in Wisconsin, especially for young women and girls.

AWARDED $8700 FIRE DAMAGES

Suit Against P. R. R. Won By Harford County Receiver Last Week in Elkton

After a trial lasting more than a week a jury in Circuit Court late Friday night returned a verdict in the $50,000 damage case against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the plaintiff, but awarding only $8,700 damages.

The suit was brought against the railroad by Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson, of Harford County, receiver of the Conroy Manufacturing Company, which had a plant at North East, this county. This plant was destroyed by fire last summer and it was alleged the fire was caused by sparks from a locomotive of the defendant company which set fire to a field of grass spreading to the plant.

P.T. A. NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

New Castle

A delightful reception was held in New Castle Century Club on January 4, by the Home and School Association. A musical and literary program was given, and the informal reception offered a fine opportunity for parents and teachers to become acquainted. Refreshments were served to about 85 persons who were present.

Marshalltown

Marshalltown Civic Club combined with the P.T. A. in a meeting held in the schoolhouse on Thursday, January 7. The State P.T. A. program was made use of, and the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades gave some interesting exercises. During the holiday season the club was very active—they helped in cheering those who needed some friendly aid; remembered the children of Sunnybrook Farm and Stockley Colony in a substantial way. It was decided that a "Covered Dish" supper be given by the club on January 21, which should be followed by a lecture on some pertinent topic.

Christiana Colored Association

At a meeting Christiana Colored

Association, on January 6, the State program was well carried out. The need for a new heater was discussed, and a petition signed by the members to try to secure it from the school board.

St. Georges Colored P.T. A.

The officers of St. Georges Colored P.T. A. for the coming year have been elected as follows: President, Mrs. Josephine Carter; Vice-President, Mrs. Elizabeth Meads; Secretary, Mrs. Annie Jones, and Treasurer, Mrs. Alice Carter. Miss Gladys Fields is to serve as publicity chairman. A payment on the school victrola has been made recently by the association, and the members hope now that money may be raised for electric lights in the school. The Juniors, or Young American Club, have supplied a dodge ball and will get other playground equipment for their use and enjoyment.

RACE TRACK TAXES

The Maryland Racing Commission last week mailed checks totaling $523,282.76 to State Treasurer John M. Dennis, in addition to $192,434.20 remitted to him in June, giving a grand total of $715,716.96 of revenue derived from the race tracks in the State for 1925. The Commission also remitted Baltimore county's share of the Pimlico track's 12 days' Fall racing, $36,000. Each of the four tracks pay $6,000 to the State for each racing day in the Spring and Fall and 15 per cent also of each track's net revenue.

What Good Are Kindergartens?

"The world is so full of a number of things. I'm sure we should be as happy as kings." But what about the happiness of the thousands of neglected little children of our land to whom no opportunity is being given to learn all about this wonderful world of ours.

"So full of a number of things." Let us give them kindergartens where through nature study, stories, games, and occupations they may become "as happy as kings" and leave no place in the child's mind for thoughts that are demoralizing.

The kindergarten withdraws the children from the influences which so many of our town children, especially, are under. It creates a right attitude at a time when a child is more open to suggestions than at any other time in his whole life. Let a child form right habits when it is easy for him to form them.—Communicated.

"The Happy Warrior"

The feature picture at the Hanark Theatre beginning Wednesday, February 20, will be "The Happy Warrior," an adaptation of A. S. M. Hutchinson's novel of an English circus and the prize ring. It is a J. Stuart Blackton production for Vitagraph. The cast includes Malcolm McGregor, Alice Calhoun, Wilfred North and Mary Alden.

DELAWARE GROWERS' ASSOCIATION CHALLENGE CUP AGAIN OFFERED

For the sixth time 4-H Club members are to have the opportunity of competing for the big silver trophy cup awarded annually by the Delaware Corn Growers' Association as the grand prize for the best club corn judge in Delaware. The winning of this cup is considered one of the biggest honors which a club member can achieve.

This cup was first offered by the Corn Growers' Association in 1920 with the understanding that if a club boy or girl should win the cup for three years in succession it would become their permanent property.

Stanley Short, of Cheswood, one of the most successful club members Delaware ever had, strated out with a rush and won the cup in 1920 and 1921. In 1922, Stanley worked hard to land the cup as a permanent addition to his collection of trophies, but Burnham Simpson, of Houston, had also been doing some preparation and his efforts were rewarded as he came through with the highest score and held the cup for the following year. Burnham tried hard the following year, but Lawrence Meredith, of Greenwood, had been raising and studying corn for three years, and as a result his name has been engraved on the cup for 1923 and 1924.

Now it goes without saying, that Lawrence would like to keep that cup, and will work hard to win it again for the third time. Will he meet the same downfall that came to Stanley Short and see a new champion rise this year?

The judging contest for club members will begin promptly at 2:00 o'clock p. m., Thursday, January 21st. All club boys and girls, whether they are corn club members or not, can enter the contest. Report to A. D. Cobb in the Armory, Dover, at 1:30 p. m. and you will have a chance to win the cup.

COUNTIES SWINGING INTO LINE FOR EASTERN SHORE DEVELOPMENT

With Sussex County, Delaware, and Wicomico County leading off the county-to-county canvass to be conducted in the interests of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association enters its active stage this week.

The Sussex County organization, under the leadership of Dr. G. Layton Grier, of Milford, says that when the returns are in Sussex County will be found in the lead.

"We are in thorough sympathy with the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association program," says Dr. Grier, "we believe the Peninsula should be advertised and publicized. We are certain that publicity and advertising will bring results, and we intend to be in a position to benefit by those results."

On Thursday, January 14, some 300 business, financial, industrial and agricultural leaders of Wicomico County will meet in the Court House at Salisbury for the purpose of deciding the part that Wicomico will play in supporting the Association.

On January 22, Sussex County will hold a similar conference.

On January 15 the members of the Worcester County Membership and Finance Committee will hold a preliminary meeting for the purpose of fixing the date for a Worcester County Conference.

The Dorchester County conference will be held on January 26th.

Committees are at work making preliminary arrangements for County conferences in Kent County, Delaware, and in Somerset County, Maryland.

Some rearrangements in Conference dates as initially announced have been made necessary in order to meet the convenience of local chairmen and their committees.

A call for a meeting of the Bankers in Queen Annes County has been issued by State Senator Dudley G. Roe, president of the Sudlersville Bank. Senator Roe is the chairman of a special Bankers Committee appointed for the purpose of arranging for banking cooperation in carrying forward the program of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association. The Queen Annes County Bankers will meet in the Courthouse, Centreville, at 2 o'clock, January 19.

JUST A REMINDER

The Ladies Aid Society of the Newark M. E. Church will hold a bake this Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the New Century Club. Cake, bread, potato-salad and cottage cheese will be for sale. In the evening at 8:15 o'clock, "The Village Lawyer," a play in four acts, will be presented by the Lebanon M. E. Church Dramatic Club, Red Lion, Delaware. The proceeds will be used for the building fund.

ALL HANDS ON DECK

It is reported that the "Argosy" is now anchored at her wharf, being put in readiness for another "cruise" on January 14th. Her bunkers are said to be filled with sauer kraut and pork—a potent cargo. Sailors are gathering from far and near to shove off on time.

(The Argosy is understood to be a social club composed of men well-known here).

Farmers Profit From Radio

There are now some 553,000 radio receiving sets on farms, compared to 145,000 sets in 1923. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in his annual report, says:

"Average number of sets on farms per county has increased from 51 in 1923 to 204 in 1925. This increase of over 300 per cent is evidence that the farmer appreciates the broadcasting service provided for him. Farmers, generally, have bought very good radio sets. Dealers in several parts of the country say that radio sets worth from $125 to $400, sell much more readily to farmers than those costing under $100.

"Farmers have discovered they need good long-distance sets to get weather and market reports and entertainment they demand. Many farmers have more than saved the price of their radio sets by profit gained from use of market information which is broadcast.

"The scope of radiophone weather service may be estimated when it is known that, for instance, in the state of Iowa alone there are over 33,500 receiving sets on farms. It is estimated that weather forecasts are available by radio, to more than half a million farms in the United States.

COACH TRAY MEALS ON B. & O.

Experiment Started On One Crack Train; May Be Broadened Later

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, in their efforts to further improve the service of their passenger trains, have, it is reported, installed a tray service on the day coaches of the Detroit-Washington Limited. The novelty was started last Sunday.

The menus of the tray lunches delivered by dining car waiters consist of sandwiches or toast with orange marmalade, coffee, tea or milk, and ice cream at a nominal charge. Should this arrangement be successful on these two trains between Washington and Detroit and found to be of convenience to coach passengers, it may be extended to other trains.

Coach porter service is also provided to take care of the cars and look after the comfort of passengers at all times.

IMPROVED STAR TOURING CAR

The improved Star Four Touring Car, by Durant Motors, Inc., embodies several interesting new features. In addition to sweeping chassis changes which improve riding qualities, sturdiness and roadability, a new body by Hayes-Hunt adds further to the comfort and beauty of the car.

In general appearance, the Touring Car has been improved by the smart stream lines and beautifully proportioned heavily-nickled radiator that now characterizes the Star models.

The body is lacquered in a highly attractive shade of royal blue, set off with a gold stripe. The one man top is of heavy, black, highly finished, water proofed, artificial leather, with side curtains to match, opening with the doors. Windshield is double ventilating, upholstery is of good quality black artificial leather and wheels are black wood, artillery type, with 30x 3½" clincher cord tires on demountable rims.

Exceptional seating capacity and leg room has been provided in the improved Star Touring, which offers roomy accommodations for five persons of generous proportions. Low price and operating economy makes this car an attractive value and assures its popularity.

INSURANCE MEN IN CONVENTION

F. Allyn Cooch, of Newark, attended the Annual Convention of the Continental Life Insurance Company in Wilmington, Delaware, last week.

The Convention, which started on Monday, January 4, and continued for four days, was primarily a business meeting, but contained such social and entertainment features as to make the meeting a most pleasant as well as profitable one to those in attendance.

The two most important events of the meeting from the standpoint of the insuring public as well as the representatives of the Company were the addressee of President Philip Burnett and Vice-President James A. Faxon.

A Most Prosperous Year

President Burnett in his address outlined the year just closed, which was the most prosperous in the company's history. He said in part:

"It is most gratifying to be able to report that your combined efforts made 1925 the greatest year in our history.

"First of all, we issued a larger amount of new business than ever before, thus marking the high point to date in our production of new business.

"Second, the ratio of insurance terminated during the year, which has always been low with us, was still further reduced.

"Finally, the net increase of insurance in force was about 40 per cent greater than for the preceding year, and brought the total amount of insurance in force, in round figures, up to twice as much as we had on our books five years ago, and four times as much as we had in force ten years ago."

"Ships That Pass In The Night"

Guardians of the Shoals and Capes of Our Coast Lines Lauded
by Head of U. S. Lighthouse Service

George K. Putman in "The National Republic"

People living along the seacoast have seen the lighthouses and known their purpose. Some in the interior of the country may never have seen one, but all have read of the lighthouses, which are referred to in poetry and in history, as well as in fiction. They are as important to the movement of modern shipping as are the railway signal lights to railroad traffic, though in a somewhat different way. The lighthouses are important to everyone, even to those who do not travel by water, as they are necessary for the guidance of all shipping carrying goods and persons to and from this country, and on the Great Lakes and interior rivers. In ancient times when commerce was carried on mainly by water they early became necessary for the navigation of ships, and the Pharos of Alexandria, most famous of lighthouses, was built on the coast of Egypt more than two thousand years ago. In the colonial days of this country communication between the colonies was principally by water, in addition to the shipping routes to the Old World, and lighthouses were soon built; the first light station, at the entrance to Boston Harbor, has now been in commission two hundred and nine years.

For a long time the only guides provided for mariners were the lights, but unfortunately when help is most needed, in fog and thick weather, the lights become practically useless. Now fog signals of various types are maintained. Under the general term of aids to navigation are comprised all the guides specially provided for shipping, including lighthouses, minor lights, lightships, fog signals, buoys lighted and unlighted, and daymarks.

The Lighthouse Service of the United States, which under the Department of Commerce, has charge of this work in this country, now maintains nearly 18,000 aids of these different kinds, being a greater number than any other country. The work is conducted through a headquarters in Washington, and district offices in the principal seaports, the country being divided into lighthouse districts, covering the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Coasts, the Great Lakes, the interior rivers and the outlying territory, Alaska, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands, including all United States territory excepting the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal.

Two-Hundred Miles Out

These aids to navigation mark the approaches to the coast and harbors, prominent headlands, offlying shoals, submerged rocks and other dangers, and define the channels. I shall describe some of these aids, as would be observed on a voyage coming from Europe. The first mark on this side is Nantucket Lightship, for which nearly all trans-Atlantic vessels steer. This is the outermost sentry off our coast, and is anchored in the open sea, far from land, and 200 miles due east of New York. This vessel has propelling power and is equipped to remain anchored on this station for a year. The station is one of the most exposed in the world, and no vessel is called on for more severe duty than to remain anchored thus in the open sea through storms and gales. Not the least of its dangers is the risk of collision, for in fog, vessels attempt to make the lightship to obtain a new departure. Large steamers often come very close out of the fog but to the navigator, perhaps for days without a sight of the sun, the message given by this little lightship that his vessel is 200 miles east of New York, and is clear of the dangerous shoals to the north, is most valuable and reassuring. Nantucket Lightship has given this message to many thousands of shipmasters, and has been the first signpost of America to millions of passengers. This lightship has an electric light and three different fog signals, a steam whistle sounding through the air, a submarine oscillator sending a powerful sound through the water, and a radio fog signal which I shall mention again. The light flashes every fifteen seconds, and the fog signals have definite codes to distinguish them from other stations.

With these signals it is possible for a vessel to make Nantucket in the thickest fog, and then to shape a course for Fire Island Lightship, and thence for Ambrose Lightship, at the entrance to New York Harbor. Along the coast of Long Island are tall lighthouses at Montauk Point, Shinnecock, and Fire Island, primary stations with lightkeepers, but less important to shipping than formerly because of the more useful aids now anchored at sea near the steamer lanes. Near the entrance to Ambrose Channel is a tall gas and whistling buoy. The lighted buoys and the whistling buoys are very valuable aids to shipping. These lights burn acetylene gas controlled by an ingenious automatic flashing mechanism, and will operate for three months or longer on one charge of gas. The whistles are actuated by the vertical motion of the buoy caused by the sea, the buoy drawing in air as it rises, and then forcing it out through a whistle. The sides of the channels leading into New York are marked with these and other types of buoys. At some of the light stations there are fog signals, sirens, trumpets or bells.

The most important advance made in recent years, and one of the most valuable ever made for the protection of shipping, is the radio fog signal and the use of radio bearings in navigating vessels. The first signals of this kind were installed near New York four years ago and they are now widely used. The radio signals are sent during fog automatically from lighthouses and lightships, with a distinguishing characteristic for each station. With a radio compass, a rotatable coil of wire mounted on the ship, accurate bearings may be taken at distances up to 100 miles, regardless of weather conditions. Bearings may also be taken on other ships, to avoid collision, and on vessels in distress, to locate their position. Radio is also valuable for communication with lightships and tenders, and for entertainment at remote stations.

A great amount of interesting scientific apparatus is used at these stations, in order to obtain the greatest efficiency from lights and sound signals, and to give every signal a distinguishing characteristic. In the standard lamp for primary light stations kerosene oil is vaporized and burned under a mantle—we can get about eight times the illuminating power from kerosene in this way. Built up glass lenses are used at important stations, concentrating nearly all the light in beams or planes useful to the mariner. The lenses are now of moderate size, but are rotated at high speed, carried in a trough of mercury, and send out beams up to 700,000 candlepower. A large amount of automatic apparatus has been introduced in recent years, and considerable economies have been made by this and other means. While the number of aids to navigation has increased by fifty per cent in the last fifteen years, there has been practically no increase in the personnel, and the staff in Washington has actually diminished. There is no prospect, however, that the primary light stations and lightships, with powerful lights and fog signals, can be operated without keepers.

The human element is the most important in any organization. Although the pay is small, the life sometimes lonely and the work hazardous, the Lighthouse Service attracts an excellent class of faithful men, willing to take large risks in doing their duty and in helping others in distress. The whole service is on a strictly merit system, and there is no politics in it. A high degree of discipline is maintained. At all important light stations there are two or more keepers and on the lightships there are six to fifteen men. Many provisions are made for their welfare, including retirement for age and for disability.

Such a service is exposed to serious risks. This summer the light station at Santa Barbara was completely wrecked by earthquakes. A West India hurricane reaching the coast usually does much damage, and a severe winter gale and ice storm carries away buoys and lights. At these times the duty of the lightships and tenders is severe and hazardous. The small number of accidents to these vessels is evidence of the skill with which they are handled.

Old-Told Tales

Many facts or incidents, unusual or characteristics, arise in this service. The stations are notable for their neatness. The keeper of a light-house on Buzzards Bay asked the superintendent to use felt slippers over his shoes in going up into the tower, to keep the stairs clean.

A keeper raised a family of twelve children at Isle Royal Lighthouse, on a lonely rock on the north side of Lake Superior. This man had helped build the lighthouse and applied for the position of keeper, being a bachelor. The superintendent told him he wanted a married man for keeper, so he went to the mainland and was promptly married.

The keeper of a minor light on the upper Hudson River died at the age of ninety-three years, having tended his light for fifty-two years. His son had had an ambition to succeed the father in the care of his light and he did so at the age of sixty-five.

The location of the light houses and lightships in such prominent positions, and the continuous patrol of the coastal waters maintained by the tenders present frequent opportunities to keepers and crews to give or summon aid to vessels in distress, and to assist in saving life and property. The records of the service are full of heroic incidents of this character.

The keeper of Pilot Island Light-house, between Lake Michigan and Green Bay, once rescued the entire crews of two schooners which were driven on the island by gales, pulling the men on to a ledge as they leaped into the water.

On one occasion the keeper of Whitefish Point Lighthouse, with the aid of two fishermen rescued eleven men from a launch which had capsized in Lake Superior.

The tender Columbine in the Hawaiian Islands rescued a British bark of four times her size after fifty-six hours of continuous work. Nothing short of valor, heroism and determination enabled the officers and crew of the Columbine to save the imperiled vessel. This action received the commendation of the President.

On one occasion Martins Industry Lightship was driven from the station in a hurricane. The ship lost all her boats and the master had three ribs broken, and the vessel dragged until nearly in the breakers; but the mate worked her back almost exactly to the regular position using sail power alone.

A German submarine, operating off our coast, lay near the lightship off Cape Hatteras, in August, 1918, torpedoing vessels as they approached. The lightship sent out warnings by radio which were the means of saving many vessels, but the warnings were picked up by the submarine, which then fired on and sank the lightship, the crew escaping in small boats.

Two years before, when the U-53 was torpedoing vessels off Nantucket, the crews of many of these sought refuge on Nantucket Lightship, and at one time there were 115 shipwrecked men on the lightship.

There have been a number of women lightkeepers. One of them, the keeper of Angel Lights in San Francisco Bay, reported that after the machinery of the fog signal was disabled at one time, "she had struck the bell by hand for twenty hours and thirty-five minutes, until the fog lifted."

A widely known lightkeeper was Ida Lewis, who died several years ago. She lived at Lime Rock Light-house, on a ledge in Newport Harbor, for fifty-seven years, her father having been appointed keeper when she was twelve years old. She was keeper of the light for thirty-two years. There are reports of her having rescued thirteen persons from drowning.

When the colonial lighthouses were taken over by the new federal government they were for a few years under the direct supervision of Alexander Hamilton, the first Secretary of the Treasury. Among the other distinguished men who have been associated with this work was Joseph Henry, who was for many years secretary of the Smithsonian Institute. He was for seven years chairman of the former Lighthouse Board and conducted extensive fog signal investigations. Well known officers of the navy and army served on this work under the former Lighthouse Board.

The lighthouse work has probably as much of romance and heroism and general interest connected with it as any government activity, and its heroism and history are of peace and protection, and it is full of interesting applications of science and engineering to the helpful service of men, to the protection of life and property upon the sea. The lightkeeper stands his vigils for all humanity, asking no questions as to the nationality or purpose of him whom he directs to safety.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS SPLIT EVEN CAESAR RODNEY SCHOOL FIVES

BOYS WIN EASILY 44-21, BUT LOCAL GIRLS LOOSE TO DOWN-STATE CHAMPS BY FOUL GOAL
ROUTE, 21-13

Newark High broke even with Caesar Rodney in the first important home game of the D. I. A. A. season in the Armory last Friday night before a big crowd of fans.

With a crippled varsity, the Newark boys managed to keep well out in front of their rivals and emerged victors in a one-sided contest, 44-21. "Shorty" Chalmers did the bulk of the offensive work, scoring twenty-four points single-handed, enough to win the game. He was aided materially by Riley and M. Armstrong and by the second string men who saw service, Williamson, Mayer and Cole.

Coach Nunn's aggregation was hit hard by injuries and the scholastic eligibility rules prior to the game, and some concern was felt for the outcome. His reserve material, however, came through in fine style and kept up the winning habits.

Medill Lost to Team

One varsity man, Leighton Medill, a forward, will likely be lost to the team for the remainder of the season. He took a nasty fall while at practice Thursday afternoon, and battered his knee so badly that he is confined to his home, and under the care of a physician. It is thought the kneecap is injured. This is a severe blow to the team, as Medill was shaping up as a good running mate to Chalmers on the offense.

Young Harry Williamson, playing his first full game Friday, gathered in three two-pointers and played a sterling floor game. His lack of weight will be the biggest handicap during the season. Part of the last half, Newark waged battle with but four men in the lineup. Their lead was too big, however, for Caesar Rodney to overcome.

For the visitors, Short and Pickering were the leaders on attack and handled the ball well at all times.

Girls Bow To Champs

Miss Johnson's girls' team was forced to taste defeat at the hands of the championship Caesar Rodney sextette in a fast and furious preliminary game, 21-13.

The first quarter saw the down-state girls step into a four point lead. It was gradually reduced as the half wore on and at half time, Newark had come abreast, 10-10. The Newark forwards, Anne Chalmers and Jack Robinson, acknowledged deadly shots, were unable to get loose in the final half for sustained scoring. Inability to shoot fouls was considered the cause of the downfall. The teams were practically even on scoring from the field. Miss Roe, however, put her team ahead by uncanny shooting from the penalty mark. Fouls were numerous in the second half, the Newark girls offending a greater number of times.

For the winners, Misses Roe, Frances and Adele Evans were the outstanding players.

Miss Frazer played a splendid game at center for Newark, getting the tap-off nearly every time. Jay Hossinger, Anne Chalmers and Marion Singles were also instrumental in keeping their team in the running.

Many in the audience said it was the fastest girls game seen here in some years. A big crowd attended and rooted loud and long for the local cause.

Kappa Alpha and Phi Kappa Tau Win Friday Night's Contests

Kappa Alpha fraternity nosed out Sigma Phi Epsilon Friday night in one of the closest court battles seen in the University gym in some years, score, 20-19.

After deadlocking the score a number of times during the final half, the two teams rushed into the last minute of play with the score still tie at 19. A double foul was called on Sigma Phi. Draper advanced to the mark, missed the first shot and made good on his second attempt, giving his team a one point lead which they held safe during the remaining few seconds of the game. Sigma Phi came on with a rush in the final stages, coming up from behind to tie the score at 19 all. Draper was high scorer for K. A. while Weggenman held the honor for the S. P. E. boys. "Down, down into the vasty vault of dead ideas
I plunged my soul. I plunged it deep into the dark,
Where, being dazzled by black lightning flash, it might,
Perchance, forget its sad aloneness, might remark

"A worthwhileness in man, in birth and life and death.
It was no use. In scanning dead men's works the view
Of crumbling faith and wilted hope were all it saw.
It would look upward then for life, although it knew

"That glaring Death's eye-socket would but meet its gaze
With somber emptiness. Therefore it dared not look.
So did it squat down stupidly in this dumb deep
And tries in vain to father God from sterile book."

The Statue of Liberty was originally intended to serve as a "silent policeman" for the whole nation. Now it is merely a decorative "keep-to-the-right" sign in New York harbor.

We set out, some time back, for Paradise. But it appears that someone (personally I suspect Joe Spivus of being the guilty person) has misplaced the road map. However, we realize that it is not us that is lost, but Paradise.

And, of course, Hell's to pay.

Like a flock of geese chasing a fox, we Americans are pursuing a material happiness. We are holding up a standardized contentment, that consists of steam heat, enclosed automobiles, davenport, and chicken dinners, as our ideal, as the symbols of success.

But be not angry with me, dear reader. I am not referring to you, but to your neighbor who does not read this column. Moreover, to make amends for what is to follow, I offer two ten dollar prizes to the two first persons who shall successfully identify the 19th century poet who composed the lines heading this week's Chafing Dish. Answers should be mailed to the Chafing Dish, care of the Newark Post.

Phi Kappa Tau Wins

Led by Vincent and Flynn the fast-moving Phi Kappa Tau five swamped Theta Chi Friday night in an inter-fraternity league game 26-9.

Splendid defensive play stopped the Theta Chi attack in its tracks only three field goals being registered by the losers. In the meantime, Loveland, Flynn and Vincent peppered the basket for 10 goals. Both teams were erratic in foul shooting, missing a host of attempts. Theta Chi put up a scrappy game all the way, but could not get past their opponent's defense. Wooten was the high scorer for the losers.

Perhaps, he would even expect the Almighty to pat him on the right shoulder for his good work.

How rarely do we behold a God-intoxicated man, living under the direction of his heart and not under the supervision of his intellect? Has the bootlegger become more potent than the preacher?

Our neighbor does not trust his intuition. He must have facts, reasons, proof. He cannot see the need of a pavement and adequate illumination along Depot Road until he reads the vivid account in the newspapers of a beautiful and brilliant young woman being abruptly hurled from life into the unknowable because of the lack of these very things. Even then he mutters complainingly about "the expense."

If God hopes to make any headway in this world, he will have to learn to appreciate the value of advertising. Or has He already? Are these sudden deaths, these unexpected evidences of something greater than man, but a part of a great advertising campaign of the Deity?

All things material—yes, even the charming little town of Newark—are but noise and steam concealing the glory of heaven. Or are they just—what?

A divine plumber who can turn on the spigot of faith is essential to our age. However, we can find none but union men—and they refuse to work overtime.

The famous American moron, about and from whom we hear so much, has, in a blatant gin-dream, placed a brass crown on the head of bald-headed Commonplace, and our neighbor has fallen down on his knees before this new king in breathless adoration.

ROTARY CLUB OFFERS AWARD

Dover Business Men Put Up Silver Cup For Best Ears of Corn at Show

This is the third consecutive year that the Dover Rotary Club has offered a Silver Cup to the boy under sixteen years of age who exhibits the best ten ears of corn at the Annual State Corn Show. This idea was formulated as a result of the increased interest upon the part of the members of the Rotary Club to promote the growing of better corn by the boys of Delaware.

At the State Corn Show held at Lewes last year, the cup was won by George Cook, of Newark. In 1924 this cup was won by John Talley, of Wilmington. Each of these boys were invited as a guest at one of the regular meetings of the Dover Rotary Club following the winning of the cup. At this time the prize ten ears of corn were displayed and appropriate talks were given by those connected with the Agricultural Department of the State.

Another cup is being offered by the Dover Rotary Club to the members who exhibits the choice ten ears of corn at the State Corn Show, which will be held in the Armory, Dover, January 19, 20 and 21, and it is hoped that every farm boy under sixteen years of age in the state will compete for this silver cup. This is one of the projects sponsored by the Boys' Work Committee of the Dover Club and is an annual affair as a means of approving the agriculture of the county and state and thereby making more prosperous people on their farms.

Professor Ryden Gives Interesting Talk on Present Day Russian Affairs

Due to the enforced absence of Judge Daniel O. Hastings, of Wilmington, scheduled to speak here Friday night on "Law Enforcement," the discussion on this topic by the Men's Club of St. Thomas Episcopal Church has been postponed to a later date, at which time Judge Hastings will give his address.

Professor George H. Ryden, president of the club and head of the Department of History and Political Economy of the University of Delaware, who spent some months in Russia several years ago in Red Cross work, gave an interesting talk on the Bolshevik Government. He brought out the point that the real revolution in Russia occurred some months before Lenin and Trotsky got control when the lands were seized. The Bolsheviks maintain control, he said, largely through promises to the peasants and a very efficient system of propaganda.

He showed a number of propaganda posters that he brought from Russia with him. In the opinion of the speaker the Bolshevik government will not last many years. Several others took part in a discussion which followed the talk.

The next meeting of the club will be held the second Thursday night in February.

Mrs. Forbes-Robertson Hale spoke at the college hour exercises at noon today. Later she was a luncheon guest of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hallen.

Byron Marshall and Miss Melissa Marshall, of Boston, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Detjen on East Park Place this week. Following their stay here, the Marshalls will journey to Los Angeles, California, taking up permanent residence in that city.

RIFLE CLUB IS BUSY AT W. C. D.

Girls Have Scheduled Several Meets for the Season; Get Expert Coaching

Since the Christmas holidays, great activity has been noted in the ranks of the Rifle Club of the Women's College, here, one of the leading student recreations. Under the capable coaching of Captain A. S. Whittemore, Captain William Morse and directed by Major Underwood, all of the R. O. T. C. department, the team begins to show real ability at the targets. Several meets with other girls' teams, to be conducted by wire, have been arranged. The schedule follows:

January 16—Michigan.
February 13—University of Maryland.
February 27—Drexel Institute.
March 6—George Washington.
March 13—Cornell.
March 20—University of Vermont.
March 27—University of Kansas.

The matches which were to have been fired this month have been postponed until later, due to the lack of practice. In their stead, the girls have been working for individual scores and good grouping of shots, both of which are important factors when it comes to making the varsity team.

The individual contests were completed Thursday evening and the squad, which is composed of 15 members, was chosen by Captain Whittemore, coach of the squad. The squad follows: Misses Rodney, Murray, Cooper, Wilson, Holton, Rose, Janmar, Keithly, Smedley, Conahay, Pierson, Robinson, Elliott, Thomaschewski and Sharpless.

Ten contestants will shoot in each match. The matches will be shot by mail and telegraph. Manager Francis reports the terms of the contracts for the matches are similar in requiring all contestants to use 22 calibre army rifles.

State Was Center Of Trapshooting Interest In 1925

Marshall Shoot At Yorklyn, During Which a World's Record Was Broken, Was Banner Event of Great Year Among Local Experts. Sport Rapidly Developing.

The year 1925 will loom large in the history of trapshooting in this state not only because of the important number of events held, but also because of the fine shooting which marked them. Among the year's achievements stands out the fact that Steve Crothers of Philadelphia broke the world's amateur record for consecutive targets, at the T. Clarence Marshall shoot at Yorklyn, breaking 486 straight. The best previous record was 414 straight, which was established by M. Carroll, of Kansas City.

The Wilmington Trapshooting Association had a very active year. Thirty-nine scheduled shoots were held in all by this organization at which more than 100,000 targets were trapped. This does not include the State Shoot at which about 21,000 were trapped. The year was notable also for the rise of several new stars in the trapshooting firmament in this city, including James Luke, Joseph Luke, William Luke, Charles Hayward, A. L. Lauritsen, N. A. Wright.

Delaware men also went outside the State and in the Eastern Handicap, held at Trenton, H. B. Wendling won first honors, making a score of 95x100 at 21 yards. At the Grand American Handicap, which is the amateur classic of this sport, held at Dayton, Ohio, this state was represented by Clarence Walker, Isaac Turner, James Luke, Joseph Luke, Charles Hayward, W. A. Simonton, Peter Guest, L. D. Willis. These men made very good scores, averaging 94 per cent. In the state team race, Delaware finished sixth with a total of 952x1000.

The T. Clarence Marshall shoot at Yorklyn, held during August, which has become one of the classic trapshooting tournaments in the East, lived well up to its reputation in 1925. It was attended by more than 100 shooters. It was there that "Steve" Crothers broke the world's record for straight targets. It was also featured by night shooting. This important event also gave opportunities for young shooters to take part in the sport at the traps. At the night shoot, James Luke won high honors, breaking 49x50. On the last day of the Marshall shoot, James Luke, shooting in Class B, broke 100 straight and tied with "Steve" Crothers and M. S. Haines, of Mt. Holly, both of whom broke their hundred straight in Class A. Crothers won in the shoot-off by breaking 40 straight. The Class B trophy was awarded to Luke.

Another interesting feature of the year listed among the scheduled events of the Wilmington Trapshooting Association was the "Pop" Turner testimonial shoot. This veteran is still a crack shot at the traps, although he has passed his eightieth birthday. This shoot brought together some of the finest marksmen in this and adjoining states.

Some of the nearby shoots which have become local important tournaments, such as the Annual Betterton, Maryland shoot, the West Chester Anniversary shoot, and the Pen-Mar League shoots at Rising Sun, Woodlawn and Elkton, Md., and Oxford, Pa., were attended by local marksmen who thus carried the prestige of Delaware into surrounding states. The year was notable also especially at the Wilmington Trapshooting Association for close and hard fought contests for possession of various trophies which had been donated.

The Delaware State Shoot, held in June, was an especially close contest. The singles championship was won by L. D. Willis with a score of 195x200; the doubles championship, by James Luke, with 41x50; and the distance championship, by H. B. Wendling, with 96x100.

It is interesting to note that at the Wilmington Trapshooting Association, the long run trophies which always attract so much attention were won by good scores. The winners and their records are as follows:

L. C. Smith Gun, won by W. B. Cochran, with 44x50, at 21 yards; Price Jackson Cup, won by W. A. Simonton, with 45x50, at 19 yards; H. B. Wendling Trophy (complete camp stove outfit), won by J. I. Wratten, with 90x100—4 added targets; Victor du Pont League Trophy (silver basket), won by C. R. Snyder, with 25 straights; and Club Trophy (silver cup), won by E. M. Ross, with 42x50.

The Open Championship Challenge Cup, which was put up for the first time at the State Shoot and won at that time by L. D. Willis, is now in the possession of James Luke, who won it from Willis. Luke has since successfully defended it against H. B. Wendling, Clarence Walker and Charles Hayward. This cup will be shot for ten times before the shoot for final possession.

The Father and Son Shoot, which is an annual event, was won by Clarence L. Walker and son, with a total score of 91 x 100.

The weekly shoot of the Wilmington Trapshooting Association were distinguished by a fine spirit of sportsmanship and competition. At all of these shoots, take-home trophies were put up. Following are the names of the winners of these trophies and the number of times they have won.

V. du Pont, 2; H. Williams, 3; J. Anderson, 5; G. Sylvester, 2; J. H. Walker, 4; E. M. Ross, 3; W. B. Cochran, 6; J. A. Kaiser, 1; L. D. Willis, 3; W. T. Elliott, 2; Jas. Luke, 8; D. Wood, 1; I. Common Ground of Jew and Christian

by Dr. Lee J. Levinger
(Reprinted from Sunday Star)

We have more in common than we often realize, we of different traditions and different forms of worship. The fundamentals are held in common by us all, while most of our differences are in interpretations and development.

I am not thinking now of the minor differences among closely related denominations, but of the underlying agreements between such great and vitally different religious bodies as the Jewish and Christian faiths.

Jew and Christian, with all their differences of doctrine, tradition, church organization, and historic background, have more in common than they have in dispute. Compared to the religions of India and China, the Christian and Jewish faiths represent a similar point of view, a similar mode of finding our way through this perplexing and often tragic world.

We have the Old Testament in common. It is the Sacred Scripture of the Jew; it is two-thirds of the Sacred Scripture of the Christian. The Psalms are recited in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, in every house of worship, whether church, cathedral or synagogue. They are the highest pitch of faith and worship of which the human soul has attained; in these immortal words every one of us expressed his highest faith, his profoundest trust and most illimitable hope.

We have in common the Hebrew prophets. Their words of fire, first recited on the barren hills of Judea, the fertile valleys of Samaria, or in the open place before the Temple at Jerusalem, are the sacred heritage of us all. They are the inspiration of every discouraged soul, the source of love for humanity, of hope for the poor, the encouragement of every minority that struggles for its vision of the truth. The prophets are the eternal radicals. They defied priest and king and mob, foreswore their national loyalty, dared every type of ignominy, often encountered martyrdom, for their vision of the truth.

And because their vision was a universal vision, it belongs not only to the little people who brought it forth, but to the immense mass of those who read and revere the prophets.

We have in common the Ten Commandments. The question of their origin or their interpretation can be set aside. They represent the best, simplest, most practical rule of living the world has yet known. If Jew and Christian kept the Ten Commandments, we would find all our creeds no longer a cause for controversy. We would be content to differ on them, for we would have no bitterness, no crime, no vice among us anywhere.

We have in common that splendid summary of the moral law, first written in the Book of Leviticus and then repeated so powerfully in the New Testament, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This is the spirit by which the Ten Commandments are animated, the spirit in which alone they can really be observed. And this great maxim is not the teaching of either Jew or Christian alone; it is the common ideal of both religions. True, neither finds it easy to observe—but probably it has been kept as well by one group as by the other, in the long run.

I do not overlook the great and important matter on which we differ, the entire interpretation of the New Testament, the question of atonement, of a Messiah; the historic development of separation, ostracism, hatred and bitterness. Both religions have had a long course of growth during the past two thousand years, and that growth has not been identical.

But in all action we are as one. We are as one in love of peace and dread of war; we agree on social justice, on the rights of the poor, the laborer, the disinherited; we all love purity and seek it; we all hope for the uplifting and inspiring of the human race in days to come. We can work together, and do work together, in every civic, moral, and religious cause, apart from our own organizations and our own denominations.

Some day we will see together that "the earth will be full of the knowledge of God, as the waters cover the sea."

HOW TO THAW

FROZEN PIPES

Department of Agriculture Gives Timely Advice

The middle of a frozen pipe should never be thawed first, says the United States Department of Agriculture—because expansion of the water confined by ice on both sides may burst the pipe. When thawing a water pipe, work toward the supply, opening a faucet to show when the flow starts. When thawing a waste or sewer pipe, work upward from the lower end to permit the water to drain away.

Applying boiling water or hot cloths to a frozen pipe is simple and effective. Where there is no danger of fire, a torch or burning newspaper run back and forth along the frozen pipe gives quick results. Underground or otherwise inaccessible pipes may be thawed by opening the frozen pipe on the house end, inserting a small pipe or tube, and with the aid of a funnel at the other end of this small pipe, pouring boiling water into it, pushing it forward as the ice melts.
More thaw pipe should be added at the other end until a passage is made through the ice, when the thaw pipe should be quickly withdrawn.

present Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." This opera, representing the favorite of the standard compositions, will be the means of presenting one of the strongest casts from the long list of guest artists carried by the Manhattan Company, and will introduce several singers who have not been heard here before.

Many Stars

Riccardo Martin, celebrated American tenor, of the Metropolitan Opera and Civic Opera Association of Chicago, will sing the role of the United States naval officer, Lieutenant Pinkerton. The character Martin has made famous in this country through his numerous portrayals. Appearing as co-star with Mr. Martin will be Marina Polazzi, Italian lyric soprano, who recently arrived in America, and who has been especially engaged to sing the role of Cho-Cho-San. Miss Polazzi had the honor of being chosen as the most artistic interpreter of "Madame Butterfly" for the Memorial performance given for the composer, the late Giacomo Puccini, in his birthplace, in Lucca. This distinction pronounced her the successor of Mme. Storchio, the original "Butterfly," who has retired.

The symphony orchestra is one of the features of the performance. Each man has been selected especially for his efficiency as well as for his grand opera experience. The opera will be directed by Maestro Aldo Franchetti, composer of "Nedda San." he new grand opera sung in English, with scenes laid in Japan, which was given its world premiere by the Chicago Opera Company last month, on which occasion Franchetti was presented with the David Bispham Memorial Medal by the American Opera Society because of his contribution "to the advancement of music in America."
