spending this week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorpe and Mrs. Dolores Crosby. When they return home they will be accompanied by their daughter, Linda Anne, who has been visiting in Christiana for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sharpley and family have moved from Westminster, Maryland, to Portland, Maine, where Mr. Sharpley, an engineer, will be employed for some time. Mrs. Sharpley is the former Miss Margaret Tackach.

Miss Sylvia Biddle spent last weekend in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. This was a mild trip for Sylvia, a 1934 graduate of Wilmington High School, who was at Lackland Air Base, Texas, from June 18 to 20, as one of the two young Civil Air Patrol representatives from Delaware. The group of girls, two from each state, lived on the base during their stay in Texas and were given a sample of official WAF training. Sylvia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Biddle who moved from Hamilton Park to their new house on the Christiana-Bear Road last week.

Mrs. Helen Vlasveld, who was confined to her home by illness last week, is much improved.

A Pair Of Chicks

Ann Banks of Ocean View, Delaware, uses an electric debaking machine on day-old chicks.

More and more baby chicks on the Delaware peninsula are getting their bills clipped before leaving the hatchery, according to Silas McHenry, assistant Extension poultry specialist at the University of Delaware. "Debaking" as it is called, has reduced the amount of feather-picking and cannibalism, thereby improving the quality and appearance of the birds when marketed.

An electric debaker with a special attachment is used to remove about one-third of both beaks. The operation is painless, since the tip of the beak is made of the same material as a person's fingernail or a cow's horn. The beaks grow back but are still blunt at 11 weeks of age when the broilers are sold.

Teaching Provides Women Top Jobs Survey Discloses

Educational Field Offers More Incentive To Women Than to Men, Study Shows

Teaching salaries and working conditions still make education a relatively attractive occupation for women, according to a recent study by the Business Guidance and Placement Bureau and the School of Education of the University of Delaware.

William O. Penrose, dean of the School of Education, has revealed findings which should encourage women students to consider the teaching field where need for trained people is great and progress is rapidly being made toward a better wage standard. Statistics show that starting salaries for women in the teaching profession are now higher than those offered in other areas open to them.

Unfortunately, many of the better financial offers come from schools in other states, a situation which frequently causes the best qualified graduates to seek positions beyond the boundaries of Delaware.

The teaching wage standard is still a deterrent for qualified male students. Starting salaries for men graduates in liberal arts, science, engineering, business, and agriculture all top the initial teaching wage and a great many occupations have more wage gains in recent years than has teaching.

A study of qualified teacher-graduates in recent University of Delaware classes indicates that in addition to normal losses from the teaching ranks attributed to marriage or service in the armed forces, many students are leaving the field to accept more lucrative jobs or are refusing to enter a teaching position from the very outset.

This situation, the Penrose report concludes, continues to plague school administrators throughout the nation. It is apparent that the so-called teacher shortage is not so much a need for more instructors as it is the necessity to make the profession a sound financial occupation which will attract and hold qualified individuals at every level of instruction.

Mill Creek Hundred News

Sara Pennington Evans, Correspondent
Phone: Hockessin 7798

The hot, dry weather seems to be the most important but disastrous news to the folks in the hundred. The land is parched and gardens are just dying up.

Three dairy farmers have resorted to irrigation to aid the pasture land for their large herds of fine cattle. All three—Frank E. Hitchens at Little Baltimore—Harold Little, near Fairview, and Marvin Klair on Limestone Road—are either near creeks or have farm ponds which make it possible for them to develop such a water system.

Others are not so fortunate. We will welcome a gentle rain and a cool breeze.

Hope all the members of the Post staff had a fine vacation. Welcome back!

We did, and thank you, Mrs. Evans (Ed.).

Miss Ruth Ball with Miss Belle Chambers of old Wilmington Road, spent several days last week at Ocean City, Md.

Family Reunion

The Woodward-Klair reunion on July 24, was attended by 144 guests coming from Florida, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, along with many local people. The new officers are Mrs. Edgar White of Longwood, president; Marvin W. Klair of Limestone Road, vice president; Paul Mitchell of Woodside Farms, secretary and treasurer.

The reunion is a biennial event so the next one will be in 1956.

Many local people attended the Harrington Fair last week. Members of the White Oak Forest Oak, and the Y's Owl 4-H Clubs, also the Union Club had a splendid array of exhibits. There were purebred, Jerseys, Guernseys, Black Angus, swine, garden products, etc.

HISTORICAL REVIEWS OF THE NEWARK AREA

By ETHEL M. HILL

A duPont employee with his family came for a picnic at Louvers, found a picnic already there, and came on down to Newark I directed them to Rittenhouse Park, where the children can swim and have all sorts of fun.

The entrance is from a new parking place on Chestnut Hill road. You walk a foot log over the stones of the old dam to the headgates of the race to the old grist mill which had been the Fisher mill in Revolutionary times. When picnicking in Rittenhouse Park what a grand opportunity one has to learn history.

Pets
I did not care much for pets when I was a child. If the pet were a kitten I can see me holding a saucer of milk and calling "Kitty, kitty," with Dash, the liver-colored bird dog, leaving his soup bone to chase Kitty up the Baldwin apple tree. Then Dash would toss his head in disdain at the saucer of milk, going back to his soup bone.

If the pet were a doll it seemed always to be losing a leg or an arm, and anyhow, we usually had a real baby at home to love and the arms and legs seemed firmly attached.

Father's Gifts
One day Father gave Blanche and me a new pet each — calves. Blanche's was a white one—gentle and mild—and she named it Lucy. She suggested that we make tar rope harness and hitch them to our express wagons.

My calf was a red one—fierce red—not gentle, and had a star in her forehead. I named her Starry. We made our tar rope harness and did a very good job, I thought.

We lived at the top of a hill and I remember when Mr. Bond, the rector of the Episcopal church in Newark, with his wife and family, stopped by our gate and asked "Does the road end here?" We told him "No, keep on down this hill and up the next and when you come to the blacksmith shop, turn right and you will be on the road to Newark."

Blanche drove Lucy, hitched to her express wagon, down this hill and enjoyed her ride.

I started with Starry, but I did not get into the express wagon. I was thinking of Blanche and the dog cart and by some mental telepathy conveyed the thought to Starry and she acted accordingly.

Runaway
She gave a lurch and a dash at the top of the hill—bounced the wagon upside down at the first brake—the losing it entirely on the bank at the side of the road, kept on at a furious pace down the hill.

I sat down on the bank and watched her go. Just before crossing the river at the foot of the hill, she stopped for a fine bunch of pink clover. I pulled the wagon, with tar ropes dangling, up the hill—and went to the wagon house for the carriage whip anticipating the pleasure of driving Starry up the hill without tar rope accessories. And I must say I found that whip all the help I needed.

No Pony
I put Starry in the orchard to think it over, or to find another bunch of pink clover, for after all calves are not meant for ponies.

Starry, as a pet, was not a real joy. She finished up as breaded veal-pellet, with green peas and butter-parried potatoes.

Among animal pets, the one I really loved was the little striped chipmunk I took from the cat by choking her before she did any further damage than pulling the fluffy fur off its tail.

It made one tired watching how it kept its cage whirling, working hard, but getting no place. And isn't that just like a lot of girls and boys—working hard but getting no place? Why? Isn't it due lack of preparation?

Lots of people think that keeping things whirling counts, but does it?

State Agriculture Census To Be Taken In October

United States Senator J. Allen Frear announced today that a census of agriculture will be taken in Delaware beginning about the end of October. The survey — which will also cover the rest of the Nation — is being carried out under the Bureau of the Census in Washington. Congress has appropriated a total of 16-million dollars for the project.

Senator Frear — who discussed the matter in his weekly statement — said that the census in Delaware will be carried out in two ways: first, questionnaires will be mailed to farm operators, who will be asked to fill them out. Later on, census takers will call on farmers to collect the questionnaires and to offer any assistance necessary in completing the reports.

THE FARMER UNDER COMMUNISM

One of the best of the national TV programs recently shown on television was a picture film taken in Communist East Germany, the cameraman, who made the film at enormous risk, had escaped with his family to the West.

The film amounts to a grim exposure of the material and degradation of the people that is the hallmark of all the other communist "workers' paradises." And it is far better than words can describe, the incredibly poor and working standards imposed in the police states.

The series of scenes in the film should be of exceptional value to American farmers. A large piece of mechanized equipment, which, like practically everything else, is under government control, is brought into a village. The local authorities make a major celebration of the occasion, out of the authorities who are graciously giving them the wonderful boon of mechanized power. The rest of the scene, of course, they must do the work with their own arms, aided by a few undernourished draft animals.

In America, first-class equipment is regarded by as a basic necessity. They own it and they use it as it should. It has resulted in more production accompanied by drops in the amount of human and animal labor required. It is a bulwark of agriculture's earning power and standards. It has been largely responsible for the transformation of farming into a business. What we should never forget is that, like all the other tools we use, is a fruit of the enterprise system which is the source of our strength and progress.

To Conduct Sunday

Church Services

During the absence of the Rev.

H. Everett Hallman on vacation, regular Sunday morning services will continue at the First Presbyterian Church.

On Sunday, August 8, the guest minister will be the Rev. Robert L.

McKibben of Baltimore.

Mr. McKibben is field director for the Baltimore Synod Board of Christian Education, Presbyterian

Church. He acts as coordinator for the Westminster Foundation, the organization responsible for campus

Christian work at all the colleges and universities in the synod which includes the University of Delaware.

The following Sunday, August 15,

the guest minister will be the Rev.

George Teaz Jamieson, pastor of

Red Clay Creek Presbyterian

Church at Marshallton, and recently elected moderator of the synod.

Membership

Membership in the association will be available to any interested person. It is anticipated that tuition will be around $18 a month. It will be on a cooperative basis, making use of volunteer assistance from mothers in the classroom and from family members who can build and maintain equipment.

Because of the valuable assistance of several university faculty members, and of the high grade teaching talent available in this area in the pre-school field, the educational program of the Brookside Preschool will be consistent with the highest modern educational standards. It is felt that the need is not merely for an organized baby-sitting or child-care center but for an active program designed to guide children in their physical and social development during the important formative pre-school years.

A more detailed description of the school and its organization, as well as information about application for enrollment is being prepared for distribution to Brookside residents in the near future. Applications will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Nursery Plans

The Kingswood of Brookside

Methodist Church is making efforts to organize a cooperative nursery during the church hour. Facilities are available for children over two years. This will enable both parents to attend church together.

Any mothers interested in helping on a co-op basis please call or see

Mrs. Carolyn Preble—1007 Marrows

Rd. Phone 6017. If you have equipment we could use such as a play

Mother Goose Settings Attract Young Visitors To Lions Club Project

The Wilmington Children's Zoo has announced a policy of "community days" at the new fairland zoo in Brandywine Park, and issued an invitation to all civic and community organizations in the area to sponsor visits.

The policy will continue through the end of the season, and is scheduled to end about September 15. Irwin F. Brown, chairman of the committee for the recently-completed land of banyard makes believe animals, pointed out that the committee is anxious to bring in as many young visitors as possible during the first season.

Mr. Brown was chairman of the Wilmington Lions Club zoo committee, while the club sponsored the building of the zoo, and is now chairman of the permanent citizens' committee which functions as an advisory body to the Board of Park Commissioners, who now run the zoo for the city.

During its first month, he said, it was visited by more than 21,000 persons, with very few groups. The advantage of the special rates. Regular admission is 15 cents. Group rates are 10 cents.

Present were James Leedy, acting superintendent of the church school, Mrs. John Wright, and Mrs. John Harvey, directors of religious education, William Cooke, James Wallace, acting secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Delano Isaacson, Mrs. Pauline Kuenzle, and Mrs. Betty Wells.

A group discussed "What Is Methodism," last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Smiley on Montrose Drive, under the direction of Mr. Keene.

The erection of the church is under the direction of the Board of American Missions of the United Presbyterian Church. They purchased the main, made a 20% donation for it, and are building the first unit which includes ten Sunday School rooms, a large fellowship room, a kitchen, and a chapel seating 165 people. They are also making a donation of $15,000 toward the erection of the church and are furnishing the Sunday School materials for the first quarter, supplying 100 hymnals and 25 Bibles.

The balance of the construction and the equipment costs are financed at 1% interest. If the new congregation becomes self-supporting in three years, the Board of American Missions will write off an additional $3,000 from the debt.

The Brookside Community church, sponsored by the United Presbyterian Church, seeks to minister to the spiritual needs of the entire community.

WHITE OAK CLUB PRESENTS MARKER

At its yearly community service project the White Oak 4-H Club had a marker made for the Mill Creek Friends Meeting House near Cammer Ketch which was erected and dedicated on Sunday, Aug. 1 following the worship service.

The wooden sign, designed and built by Harvey C. Woodward of Hockessin, is 21x33 painted black with gold letters. The inscription reads: "Mill Creek Meeting—Established 1837—Worship, First Day—10:30 a.m. All Welcome. It was placed facing the road on the lawn between the two driveways.

Dilworth Pierson, president of the club, made the presentation which gift was accepted by Mr. Louis J. Larson who commended the club for its public spirit so that the passersby might know the name of this meeting house and the club of its worship to which all are welcome. He complimented them on the simplicity of its design and thanked the club for its community service work. Mrs. Mary Maude Buckingham Eastburn on behalf of the trustees of the meeting, expressed their appreciation. Miss Janet Pierson read the history of the meeting as written by Frank Zebely of Wilmington.

The club members attended the worship services preceding the dedication. The speakers were Mrs. Henry C. Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Earle of Hockessin Meeting; Mr. Walker of Newark, whose grandfather was one of the founders of Mill Creek, and Mr. John Picard of Brookside.

Mill Creek Meeting House erected in 1841, and named for Mill Creek Hundred, has never had a marker. It is interesting to note that this project has been in line with its program of restoration and reactivation. Meeting for worship was discontinued in 1925 with only one yearly service which was started in 1930 and has continued ever since until this past May, the meeting house was restored and opened for weekly worship. Attendance at these services averages 25 which Mr. W. Eastburn II reports as fine. Mr. Eastburn and his brother, Evans Eastburn, started the restoration and restoration activities.

The best news in a long time comes as this is being written. IT IS RAINING—and furthermore, it is actually hot. At last our prayers have been answered.

While the city-dweller has been from the chore of mowing the lawn and has been occupied with the problem of how to keep cool, our farm friends have been faced with the much more serious problem of cattle grazing on lawns and fields and what to do about the crops drying up.

We have a hunch that we shall never forget the hot, dry summer of 1954.

During the past two weeks many people have been enjoying vacation trips.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Eastburn and daughter Alice, of near Harwood Cross Roads, returned on Sunday from a two-week motor trip to Yellowstone National Park.

Mrs. Willard Johnston, of Milford Crossroads, who is a member of the National Guard Band, is spending two weeks at the Bethany Beach camp. His parents visited him last Saturday.

Carol Lee Noonan and Dale MacNeal, of Carney's Point, N.J., are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Miller Darrell, Kirkwood Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rodenhiser, of Polly Drummond Road, enjoyed a recent motor trip to Charleston, W.Va.

Mrs. Warren Lamborn, of Possum Park road, spent this past week-end visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Miller Darrell accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Clarence MacNeal and family of Carney's Point, N.J., on a motor trip to Niagara Falls, last week.

Charles E. Thompson, Sr., of Glasgow, was feted on his 84th birthday Sunday by 21 members of his family at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Townsend on Salem Church road. Mr. Thompson has six children, six grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Vito Amoroso, son Charles, and Mrs. George Sheets of Glasgow are vacationing in Lawrence, Mass.

The recent supper served by the Salem Church young people netted $87. The church Sunday School picnic on Saturday will be held at Holloway Beach. Superintendent Alverta Johnson asks everyone to meet at the church at 1:30 p.m.

A rash of fires has plagued this area as fields get more and more scorched. They range from a small blaze on Bill Press' new property to the huge wheat-field on the Lincolnwood corner's farm along Route 40.

Basal devotee William Morgan, Jr., of the Glasgow Road recently appeared on George Frick's DWEL-TV sport's program in connection with the All-Star Little League.

Glasgow Picnic. The large Barzowski farm lawn at Glasgow will be the scene of the annual Glasgow home demonstration club picnic next Tuesday evening. The covered dish supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. The new voting machine will be demonstrated.

Mrs. Joan Barzowski will show colored slides of Colorado. Fred E. Schmeisser of Wilmington, chairman of the building committee of the Old Apostolic Lutheran Church, reports that construction of the building is progressing according to schedule. Begun in June, the church will be 40x50 ft. including a full basement and kitchen facilities.

The roof will be completed this fall. The outside steeple by next spring. To be of plain design, the new church, on its 2½ acre plot on Ott's Chapel road, is patterned after the Detroit church.

The local church is one of few of the denomination in the East. The mother church in the U.S. is in Minneapolis. The mother church of the whole denomination is in Swedish Lapland. The elder is Frank Granger of North East.

Salem Meeting. The July meeting of the Salem Home Demonstration Club was conducted by vice-president Mrs. Eleanor Greenwell. Reports were heard from family life chairman, Mrs. Wm. Perry; the program for next year, from Mrs. Howard Perry; and safety chairman, Mrs. Ezekiel Cooper. Mrs. Robert Lloyd was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Cooper demonstrated decorative stitchery; Mrs. Kennard Wilgins and Mrs. Howard Perry spoke on flowers. The annual picnic will be held at Lewis Beach. Mrs. Wilgins and Mrs. H. Perry will be co-hostesses for the September meeting.

Pleasant Valley road residents are rejoicing in a relatively dustless existence now that the road was recently re-surfaced.

Enterprising Mrs. Stanley Reed and Mrs. H. K. McCauley of Cooch's Bridge are preparing wonderful dinners for prospective customers of the waterless aluminum cookware they're selling.

Some 30 members and their families of the Town and Country Home Demonstration Club attended the recent picnic at Port Herman.

The church grounds on Wednesday July 28. The presiding officers were in charge of the arrangements, and following the picnic, the group enjoyed games under the direction of Remyne McCormick.

About 90 people attended the church school picnic on Saturday, July 31, at Lenape Park. The following committees had charge of the arrangements: Transportation, Frank Butterworth, Harold Stanley, Nathaniel Richards, and Willard Johnston; Ice-cream, Pusey McCormick; Mrs. Willard Johnston, and Talbert Chalmers; Tables, Mrs. Pusey McCormick, Mrs. Nathaniel Richards, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Lewis Springer, Mrs. James Bishop and Mrs. Frank Butterworth.

The White Clay Fellowship Picnic took place on Tuesday of this week on the church grounds. Margaret Johnston, Gaylor Brown and Jane Hammel were in charge of arrangements with the program in charge of Willard Johnston.

A program on Medical Missions was presented in the opening session of the school last Sunday by Mrs. Miller Darrell and Mrs. James Bishop. The missionary offering of the school for July and August is being devoted to this cause.

Audrey Butterworth and "Pat" Stanley reported to the school on the last Sunday in July, their experiences at junior-hi camp held at West Nottingham Academy. Joyce Weaver also attended the camp.

Flowers on the altar, Sunday, July 25, were presented by Louis Kraft in memory of his wife.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bishop will be on vacation during the month of August. Nathaniel Richards will serve as substitute teacher for Mr. Bishop and Frank Butterworth will lead the discussion in the Young Adult church on August 8, and Harold Stanley, on August 15.

The church will follow the usual plan of being officially closed the last two Sundays of August. The guest speaker for Sunday, August 8 at the 11 a.m. service will be George R. Seidel, of Wilmington.

Aetnammen Invited To Attend Annual State Convention

34th Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Ass'n Meeting Scheduled Sept. 10-11

The Aetna Home, Hook and Ladder Company of Newark, has been invited to attend the 34th Annual Convention of the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association on September 10 and 11 in Milton, Del. Members of the local group will join fellow firemen from Delaware and neighboring states for group meetings and festivities.

Members of the Aetna Home, Hook and Ladder Company are eligible to send two authorized delegates and two alternates for the business sessions and to enter as a unit in the firemen's parade on Saturday, September 11, at 6 p.m. The inclusion of high school bands in this parade is also expected.

With the Milton Fire Department serving as host company, the two-day assembly will include business sessions, a convention dinner, an army band concert, theatrical entertainment, a fire fighting demonstration, as well as the mammoth parade at the conclusion of the convention.

Last year's convention was held in Holloway Terrace, with the parade staged in the city of Wilmington. Similar state conventions have been held by the firemen's association since 1921.

The Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association was organized at Milford, on Feb. 21, 1921. At that meeting, delegates from nine fire companies united for the first time and adopted a list of by-laws.

Firemen Overcome

Two subsequent fires broke out on Saturday—a grass fire off Ogletown Road at 3:20 p.m. and a construction lot fire off Capitol Trail at 6:12 that same evening. No damage was reported.

On Sunday, Aetnammen responded to an alarm for a grass fire at Brookside at 6:25 p.m. The blaze was controlled after 1½ hours, with no damage reported.

On Friday, a dump and grass fire was reported at 9:40 p.m. off Capitol Trail; and two minor dump and grass fires were attended Thursday—at 2:20 p.m. off Chestnut Hill Road, and at Frank Myers property on Elkton Road. All were extinguished without damage.

Last Saturday, while assisting the Christiana firemen at a 100-acre woods fire, the Aetnammen received an urgent call to return to Newark where fire had broken out in the West Park Place house of Mrs. Herbert Strickland.

The upper floor apartment occupied by Mrs. Mary Reynolds was seriously damaged, and the roof was destroyed—the same house in which Mrs. Amy Strickland died from burns sustained in a fire last March. This time no one was injured.

The Elkton Company was called to stand-by as five Newark engines fought the blaze with Chief John C. Cunningham in charge. Cause of the fire is being investigated.

W. Park Place Classroom Available For Occupancy

In reporting on the progress of construction at the West Park Place Elementary School, Administrative Assistant Frank Mercer announced yesterday that the 15 classrooms, accommodating grades one through six, will be ready for occupancy when school convenes in September. The school cafeteria is planned for the West Park Place building is expected to be completed by October 1, Mr. Mercer stated.

Local Kindergarten To Open Sept. 9th For Third Session

The Newark Kindergarten Association will begin its third year of operation on September 9. Mrs. Betty Eldridge, will start her second term as the kindergarten's teacher. She graduated from Florida State University with an AB in Education and before coming to Newark taught kindergarten and nursery school in Florida and kindergarten in Massachusetts.

Directors of the Association point out that limited facilities make it imperative for parents interested in future enrollment to arrange for membership in the Association as early as possible.

Membership information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Worth Tracy, Newark 6590.

It is the policy of the Association to permit one teacher to oversee no more than 18 children. The morning session for the school year 1954-1955 has 17 of the 18 children enrolled. However, the Board of Directors announce that if additional enrollments justify an extra session and teacher for the coming term arrangements will be made accordingly.

Last year's convention was held in Holloway Terrace, with the parade staged in the city of Wilmington. Similar state conventions have been held by the firemen's association since 1921.

The Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association was organized at Milford, on Feb. 21, 1921. At that meeting, delegates from nine fire companies united for the first time and adopted a list of by-laws.

When Rains Fall

Results of pasture irrigation were shown during Farm Field Day yesterday at the University of Delaware's research station in Georgetown. Pasture under irrigation is examined here by Claude E. Phillips, Extension agronomist. In general, irrigation tests have increased the carrying capacity of the pastures from one to two cows per acre.

Last week the letter of Mrs. John C. Riley resigning from her post as "apathy" and "betrayal of confidence" was made public.

Mrs. Riley's job was described as administrative assistant to Colonel Dunn, but Mr. Maurer at the time described her as a "Class A stenographer" and said that her resignation was "a good thing for civil defense in New Castle County."

Colonel Dunn came to Delaware in January, 1948, as the senior instructor in charge of Organized Reserve Corps in Delaware. A member of the reserve, he served in both World Wars.

He was named head of the county civil defense organization in March, 1952, on a part-time basis at a salary of $3,000 a year, and named head of the city organization in June, 1952, at $3,000 a year. He later resigned the latter post and was named full-time county director last January.
