North Pole Auction Scheduled For GNRA Christmas Festival

Family Program With Community Singing, Gift Sale
To Be Presented By Greater Newark Recreation Ass'n
As First Yule Festival In Aetna Fire Hall On Dec. 13.

"Santa's workshop has been busy all year and the result is over production. Santa cannot carry everything in his sleigh, and therefore he has authorized the Greater Newark Recreation Association, at its first gala Christmas Festival, to conduct an authentic North Pole Auction," GNRA Director Glenn Smoot announced this week.

"With Santa and his helpers to add the festive touch to the program, fun and enjoyment is guaranteed," Smoot said. This program is designed especially for the entire family, with games for the children, a white elephant table, refreshments, music—and fun for all.

Honored By Society

Christmas caroling, community singing, and other appropriate music will feature the GNRA Christmas Festival.

The main attraction will be the auction, Smoot reports, with articles of most every type to be available to the public. And special surprises have been planned for the enjoyment of all who attend.

There is no charge to attend, and refreshments will be available at nominal cost.

Chalk up Sunday, Dec. 13, from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m. on your calendar and plan to visit with Santa and your friends at the Aetna Fire Hall on Ogletown Road," Smoot advises. And bring the whole family.

For further information, contact the Greater Newark Recreation Association office.

NHS Class Of '64 Provides Clock, Bulletin Board

The Newark High School Class of 1964 presented the school with a pair of gifts which can be used by every student every day of the week—a professional bulletin board and a clock.

Thanks to the metal-framed bulletin board which hangs in the main lobby, everyone has a daily reminder of important events scheduled for the week.

Two senior girls—Sally Austin and Kathy Johnson, working under the direction of art instructor Eugene Kelechava—post the date and time for all visits from representatives of various colleges, and of special tests, assemblies, and other events.

The clock, an institutional-sized timepiece, hangs in the second floor's main corridor.

As one junior wistfully said "It sure makes it tough not to have an excuse, now, to be late for class."

Clifton Murray Repeats As Soybean King; Ed Foster, Jr., Oliver Koelig Honored

For the second consecutive year, Clifton Murray of Selbyville has been named Delaware Soybean King for producing highest soybean yields in the state. The award was made at the 56th annual Delaware Crop Show last Tuesday at Capital Grange Hall, Dover.

Murray's top yield this year was 43.8 bushels per acre. Average yield among all Delaware soybean producers probably will be less than 15 bushels per acre, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, University of Delaware extension agronomist.

While the dry summer is blamed for lower yields than last year when Murray's top yield was 49.2 and the state average was 18, Murray's black soil and his excellent farming practices can be credited with his consistently high productivity, Mitchell said.

Murray's records show less than half the normal rainfall during the main part of the growing season, but the high water holding capacity of his black soil helps to explain his high yield during such a dry year, Mitchell explained.

In addition to the Delaware soybean king award, Murray was named winner of the Ford Almanac farm efficiency award for 1965 in the soy-

Attorney, Historian Edward W. Cooch Dies At Age Of 88

Former Lieut. Governor
Of Delaware, Lifelong
Local Resident Succumbs

Edward Webb Cooch, 88, author, historian and former Delaware lieutenant governor, died Sunday after a short illness.

Born in his family homestead at Cooch's Bridge, near Newark, Mr. Cooch lived in the 300-year-old house along the Christiana River all his life.

It was there he wrote his many articles and books on the history of Cooch's Bridge and the environs of Newark.

On both his father's and mother's side, Mr. Cooch was descended from notables in American and English history.

Son of Joseph Wilkins Cooch and Mary Evans Webb Cooch, he was educated in the old Newark Academy and the University of Delaware College. He graduated in 1895, the youngest in his class.

At an early age, Mr. Cooch decided he wanted to be a lawyer. In keeping with the custom of his times, he first "read" law under the preceptorship of Lewis C. Vandergrift, U. S. district attorney for Delaware. Later, he went to Harvard law school, and in 1899 was admitted to the Delaware bar.

As a Democrat, Mr. Cooch was elected lieutenant governor for Delaware in 1936.

Mr. Cooch devoted most of his adult life to his legal practice and to supervising the Cooch estate of 365 acres near Newark.

He was active in the Masons and in the writing of articles and in public speaking on historical subjects, principally in the area that had been part of the Cooch family tradition since the 1740s.

He contributed a number of historical articles to the Newark Post. Mr. Cooch was a strong supporter of the theory that the American flag of stars and stripes, as adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1776, was first used in battle at Cooch's Bridge over the Christiana River, within sight of the Cooch mansion.

Successful Drive Reported For NHS Magazine Sales

One of the most successful magazine drives at Newark High School has been concluded with better than 90 per cent of the student body having purchased at least one subscription, according to William McLain, faculty manager for the annual drive.

Everyone who brought in at least one subscription will be privileged to see, at the drive, full-length movie scheduled for Jan. 20.

McLain singled out for particular praise the volunteer work done Mrs. Mary Baird's class in business machines, whose members checked and audited daily returns during the campaign.

Jimmy Blankenship, Gregory Colpo, Sue Linton, Edith McDonough, Nancy Stancell, Virginia Ulmer, and Monette Wickwire are class members.

Proceeds from the drive will be used to finance the school newspaper "Yellow Jacket Buzz," and the American Field Service program to bring a foreign exchange student to Newark High School.

Students and members of the community hope that a portion of this AFS fund may help a Newark student travel to another country under the program. Until now, cost of travel for one of the local students has had to be assumed entirely by the individual and his family, limiting the number of applicants.

Van Wert, Wilkens Editors For NHS Yellowjacket Buzz

The first issue of "The Yellow Jacket Buzz," Newark Senior High School's newspaper for this year, is just out, and plans for this year's publication are to emphasize student editorials about activities in the school.

Wayne Bonner is news editor; Sandra Spence, feature editor; John Ludlow, sports editor; Michael Murphy, advertising editor; Jacqueline Meyer, secretary; and faculty advisors are William T. McLain and Joseph J. Mottola.

This year, the class in journalism under Mottola's direction, is working in cooperation with the "Buzz."

The class is to serve as a training ground for reporters and for studying basic principles of journalism.

The year contains one scene in which a now famous but somewhat less famous Southern aristocrat played by Eugene Bucher, for the hand of the Southern heroine played by Darlene Conrad.

"If you can help clothe or arm our Southern gentleman, please con-

"Go Ahead" For NHA Defeated By 3-4 Vote Of City Council

Audience, Mayor, Councilmen, Solicitor Debate Issue
Of Federal Public Housing In Newark; Written Report
Requested On Conference With Washington Authorities

Before an audience of some 70 persons last Monday night—most of them favoring a public housing program in a standing count called for by Mrs. Conrad Trumbore of the League of Women Voters of Newark—Newark City Council at its regular meeting opposed a motion to permit "the Newark Housing Authority to proceed" in a 3-4 vote, with Mayor Joseph A. Shields, and Councilmen William M. Coverdale,

LeRoy C. Hill, Jr., and Olan R. Thomas rejecting the proposal.

"Does this negate the previous action?" Shields asked Solicitor Kenneth W. Lewis, referring to a 4-3 decision of council on Sept. 14, 1964, to investigate the possibility of terminating the city agreement with the Newark Housing Authority for a local, public housing program to be federally financed. And a recess was declared when Solicitor Lewis observed "this is getting complicated," and asked for a copy of the council meeting minutes of the Sept. 14 meeting.

After the recess and reference to the minutes Lewis advised that Councilman David H. Doehrlert and his original motion for letting the NHA proceed with its work, to include the dissolution of the Sept. 14 motion of intent to terminate any working agreement with the Newark Housing Authority.

Defeated 3-4

Councilmen Albert R. Chittenden, Doehrlert, and Henry R. Fadden, Jr., who attempted to block plans for dissolution of the NHA agreement on Sept. 14, were defeated again last Monday, in a 3-4 decision.

In assessing Newark's "public housing dilemma," Doehrlert declared that if it were possible to change proposed sites, reduce the number of public housing units, and to convert public housing to a city-controlled project, "council would have done so."

Urging council responsibility "to get this off dead center," Doehrlert proposed "that we permit the Newark Housing Authority to continue."

Councilman Coverdale stated his belief that "we are still in the exploratory stage," and asked Solicitor Lewis "Have we exceeded our authority?"

And Lewis replied "I feel that the council is within its authority."

Concerning Lewis' recent conference with public housing officials in Washington, Coverdale asked "Have you received confirmation in writing?" And Lewis replied "Not as yet."

Mayor Shields said "Then we still don't know where we stand."

"In Writing"

Councilman Fadden stated that it is the "practice of industry" to confer conferences "in writing," and Lewis said that he had requested such confirmation, but would telephone Washington officials about the matter next morning.

Shields said he was "waiting to get a written memorandum from lawyers in Washington," and if such written communication upheld the Newark Housing Authority position with its right to proceed with the public housing program despite council opposition, "I shall join the minority."

Doehrlert had cited a Seattle (Wash.) court ruling against the city that a housing authority's determination of need "is conclusive."

Solicitor Lewis had referred to other court cases upholding housing authority decisions in opposition to council opposition, and concerning terminating the local public housing program in a court decision, advised that "chances for succeeding are not particularly good."

Emailed

Mayor Shields responded with "Once you get embroiled with the federal government, you cannot extricate yourself," and Lewis said that a court ruling on breach of contract could necessitate payment of monetary damages or performance according to contract.

"Do we have a valid contract concerning the agreement of cooperation if it was misrepresented in the night of its passage?" Coverdale asked Lewis and the attorney cited a court ruling against a municipal governing body's claim of misrepresentation for contract nullification, because of the amount of time lapse prior to registration of complaint.

ALCOHOLISM

To the average person, alcohol is not an important factor, but alcoholism today is becoming a disease problem that is disrupting more and more families.

Alcohol is not the cause of this illness, but is the agent used. The cause lies within the person who is an alcoholic. In most cases, he—or she—is a sick, miserable, unhappy person who drinks excessively in the hope of finding relief from suffering, either emotional or physical, which they find unbearable.

Two of the major contributing factors to the problem of alcoholism are social pressures for drinking, and general tolerance in our society for drunken behavior.

Because of these the alcoholic is rarely recognized in the early stages of his illness and it is not until his drinking has become far advanced that anyone, particularly the patient, himself, realizes that he has lost control.

Alcohol has become the most important thing in his life. During the day he thinks more and more often about taking a drink.

He drinks alone or in secret, he takes an "eye opener" in the morning; he suffers from indigestion and loss of appetite; and he misses time from work or obligations because of drinking.

His ability to think and reason are affected, and so he deludes himself into believing he can stop whenever he wants to and that he is not ill.

An alcoholic cannot be cured. However, he can learn to control his illness. But to do so, he must not take even an occasional drink. Total and complete abstinence is the only answer.

To achieve this he needs help, understanding and encouragement. These can come from his family, friends, doctor, clergyman and volunteer organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous.

It is important to remember the alcoholic is a sick individual—not a wicked one.

This column is a weekly service of your doctor through the Medical Society of Delaware.

White Oak 4-Hers Celebrate Club's 25th Anniversary

The White Oak 4-H Club of Hockessin, celebrated its 25th anniversary last Thursday night with a banquet in the Hockessin Fire House.

Special guests included James Baker, state leader; Maurice Field, former county leader; Wilson Pierson, Mrs. Laurence Parrish, Jr., and Mrs. Ernest Lomax. The latter three were the first club leaders.

President Kenneth Lomax, welcomed members, parents, and guests, and Sally Pierson was program chairman.

Kenneth Proud in reviewing the club history for the past 25 years, stated the club was organized in September 1939 with 22 members. Charter members William and Philip Pierson, and Joseph Mitchell, were present.

The club chose White Oak for its name because Hockessin is an Indian name and the Indians dried their animal hides on the bark of the white oak tree.

Tourist's Paradise

The tourist's paradise that the late British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin envisioned when he said:

"I would like to go down to Victoria Station, get a railway ticket and go where I like without a passport or anything."

The trend was apparent at the recent U.N. conference on international travel, which recommended that tourist red tape be trimmed to a minimum.

Globe-trotting is on the upswing as transport becomes more convenient and swift. The International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), a U.N. agency, reports that 1963 air traffic hit an all-time high. Scheduled airlines carried 134 million passengers, an 11 percent increase over 1962.

Delegates from 87 countries and 26 organizations at the Rome conference recommended a general relaxation in customs inspection, currency restrictions, police controls and the issuance of visas.

While noting that Scandinavia and the Western Hemisphere have virtually eliminated passports for regional travel, the conferees recognized that "it is not feasible at present" to abolish them worldwide.

Bevin's millenium is on the way, but it hasn't arrived yet.

State Chamber To Employ Staff Research Director

The Delaware State Chamber of Commerce has announced the addition of a research director to its staff. William R. Brown, research director for the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce for the past 15 years, will start his duties in Delaware next Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Ross E. Anderson, executive vice-president, said "We are looking forward to Mr. Brown's arrival. He is recognized as one of the leading research men in the state chamber field in the United States, and will add a great deal to our program and services to the businessmen."

CAREER GUARDSMEN

Social Security Reports

Due For Status Changes Persons receiving Social Security benefits are required to report any event that may affect their benefits.

Myron Milbauer, manager of the Wilmington social security office, reminded beneficiaries this week.

Failure to report an event promptly can cause inconvenience to the beneficiary and may delay his benefit checks.

One event that should be reported by recipients of Social Security checks is change of address. It is simple to report and should be made before a person moves.

FRESH CRANBERRIES — FOR THAT HOLIDAY BIRD

Fresh cranberries are now in season and ready to add special flavor and sparkle to holiday meals. A fresh cranberry stuffing that is excellent for all types of poultry... from the traditional turkey to wild pheasant, made with cornbread and cranberries. The cornbread gives the dressing a pleasantly dry consistency. There are lots of nuts and celery for texture contrast. The tangy-sweet flavor of the fresh cranberries makes all the difference between an ordinary stuffing and a gourmet delight. For decorating your bird, cut jellied cranberry sauce into pretty rounds. Interesting shapes with a cookie cutter. Make stars, crescents, Christmas trees, or holly leaves.

CRANBERRY CORNBREAD STUFFING (Makes about 10 cups)

1 1/2 cups Ocean Spray fresh cranberries
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
6 cups crumbled cornbread
1/2 cup milk

Chop cranberries coarsely. Add sugar and nuts. Sauté celery and onion in butter until golden brown. Combine sautéed vegetables, cranberry mixture and remaining ingredients; mix until well blended. Allow 1 cup of stuffing for each pound of turkey, duck, or chicken to be stuffed.

Household Hints BY JOAN MARCH WORDEN

Director, Pine Cleaner Information Center.

Working wife? There are more than 15 million of us. "Going to work" plus keeping house really equals two full-time jobs—but if you apply business practices to your household operation, you can shortcut your at-home worktime without short-changing your family. Here are five thought-starters for becoming an "organization woman" in your own home:

1. Memo—ize. Write memos, keep continuing lists for the grocery store, drug, department stores and milkman, then when you're ready to order you'll have the week's needs all in one place. If you can never find a pencil and pad try one of the magnetic combinations which include a pencil on a chain and tack it up near the telephone.

2. Put your telephone to work for you. First, tape a small file card with most-called numbers near each phone. You'll save time and energy if you buy your groceries, household supplies and whatever else you can sit down with telephone in hand. When shopping for groceries stock up on staples and you won't have to shop as often.

3. Install a bulletin board in your kitchen area. If you don't have a special place for a board, use the side of the refrigerator. You can attach notes and lists to it with miniature clothespin magnets. Good place for appointments, family job assignments and shopping lists, too!

4. Keep all appliance instructions and information in one place even if it's a brown envelope in the kitchen drawer. That way you'll be able to spot minor repair needs as they occur, and also refresh yourself from time to time on caring for your equipment. This cuts down on service calls and on the frustration of inactive household machinery.

Another tip: Make a list of repairs and services and write it on the outside of the envelope.

5. Organize your cleaning product to save steps. Put small items in a portable tote of some kind and include versatile products—one product that will do the work of two or three means less work for you. For example, a high-concentration pine oil cleaner will clean, disinfect and deodorize all in one operation. You can use this triple-duty product in every room of your house—even in the laundry room as well—as an addition to the wash water to cut down germs present in every family's wash.

All these tips will help shorten the working day's homemaker's time and at the same time streamline housekeeping for the at-home homemaker.

More hints in a later column.

HIGH STEPPING GIFT HORSE

A horse of a different color — say, Persian blue or bittersweet — will charm every teen-ager on your Christmas list. This gift horse is really a pair of fuzzy new knee-high socks in a colorful longhaired blend of Orelan acrylic fiber and mohair. To make him, stuff the socks with tissue paper, and twist them together. The head, neck, and one front leg are one sock; the body, back legs, and other front leg, the other. Use bits of felt or colored paper for the ears, eyes, and tongue. The hat, mane and tail are scraps of yarn.

CREeping CAPITALISM

It is much too early to tell what economic course the new Soviet regime will pursue but the fact remains that the Communist nation which once threatened to "bury" capitalism has, instead, been borrowing capitalistic ideas.

According to competent observers the introduction of free enterprise principles by Russia and her satellites has reached a very significant stage.

Ironically, the biggest "cup of sugar" that Russia has borrowed from our economic system is the profit motive, which has always been the prime target of Communist denunciations.

Belatedly recognizing the vital role of profits in the achievement of economic well-being, Soviet planners have instituted a profit incentive program in a number of factories, to increase production. Managers and workers get bonuses if their plant shows a profit.

Installment buying, once banned as a "capitalistic device to enslave workers" is now permitted and the volume is climbing rapidly. Last year, consumer credit hit $2.3 billion.

Czechoslovakia is putting into practice a new system of economic management under which individual businesses will be allowed much more latitude than in the past, and the amount of profit will determine wages and bonuses paid workers.

In Bulgaria more than 50 industrial enterprises are experimenting with profit motives and free competition, while state subsidies have been withdrawn.

Along the agricultural front, the "private plot" program is expanding throughout the Soviet bloc. This permits small-scale farmers to sell their produce in the open market. As a result of this special inducement, private plots are out-producing the "collectives" and immense state farms.

THE GOVERNOR

And Edward B. Cooch was affectionately and respectfully referred to as "The Governor" by his many, many friends in the Newark area where he was born and lived a full, exemplary lifetime.

Statesman, attorney, author, and historian, Mr. Cooch—and we called him "Governor," too, with the affection and respect of his other friends—was elected lieutenant-governor of the State of Delaware in 1936. And few officials during that more than a quarter-century, are so well remembered for their service.

Distinguished scion of a family distinguished for its service to America since colonial days, Edward B. Cooch with his tireless research, established immortality for the first unfurling of the Stars and Stripes in battle at Cooch's Bridge during the Revolutionary War.

And his other contributions to the recorded history of the State of Delaware and his native Newark, will provide sound knowledge for untold generations to come.

At this time of Thanksgiving, we are particularly thankful that Governor Cooch dwelt amongst us.

THE FAITH OF THE PILGRIMS

In a Thanksgiving message, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI paid a moving tribute to the Pilgrims and the ideals they left to us. Then he said: "Regrettably, too many Americans no longer care about religious ideals and heritage. To some, our country is a fantasyland filled with complimentary handouts of rights and freedoms without obligations. With patient indifference, they shirk the mere suggestion of individual responsibility. Their purpose in life is lost in moral lethargy, self-indulgence, and neglect of duty."

A cynical, unthinking attitude such as Mr. Hoover describes, if ever it becomes widespread enough, could be suicidal for this or any nation. All our material abundance could not then save us from ultimate destruction as a free people. Those who forsake duty ask for masters who will impose duty—the duty of slaves. The faith of the Pilgrims was never so greatly needed as it is today.

Thanks In Advance From The CAP

Letters To Santa Claus

Postmaster F. Allyn Cooch and his associates at the U. S. Post Office in Newark, are among the foremost of Santa's assistants, and each year process many letters addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole. After reading his mail, Santa returns some of the letters from his legion of little friends, with the request that Mr. Cooch forward a few to the Newark Post for publication to assure the little people that their letters are not neglected.

Postmaster Cooch and his friends join Santa in wishing all of these little letter-writers a very, very Merry Christmas!

Dear Santa Claus,

Faculty Member Injured By Driveway-Backing Car
A University of Delaware faculty member suffered back injuries last Thursday when his car collided with that driven by a student.

James M. Milmo, 37, member of the Agricultural Extension Service staff, was treated at the university infirmary.

Newark police said the student, Richard Rosenfeld, 22, of New York City, backed a car out of a driveway on East Park Place into the path of the Milmo car.

Edward W. Cooch

There is a monument of granite and a cannon at the entrance to the Cooch homestead that tells the story of the skirmish that took place at the bridge late in August of 1777.

Mr. Cooch wrote a book about the battle in which he examined all other claims that the American flag had been used first in battles elsewhere.

In the manner of a lawyer, he ran down these arguments, dispelled the myths and concluded that the Cooch's Bridge claim cannot be disputed.

In 1923, Mr. Cooch was elected grand master of the Delaware Masons—and as Masonic master, participated in the cornerstone layings of public buildings, including the Memorial Library at the University of Delaware, and the George Washington Memorial Temple at Alexandria, Va.

Before his election as grand master, he was commissioned by the Duke of Connaught and Strathearn, uncle of King George V of England and grandmaster of England, to represent the Grand Lodge of England in Newark. Mr. Cooch was an organizer in 1926 of the Taxpayers Research League of Delaware, was elected its first president, and served to 1929.

Among Mr. Cooch's affiliations were Hiram Lodge A.F. & M., of which he was master; Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington; the board of managers of the Masonic Home; Minnehaha Tribe of Red Men in Newark; Wilmington Kiwanis Club, and the Social Service Club.

He was a member of the State Tax Board; was chairman of the Delaware State Police Pension Board, and served on the Delaware Historical Markers Commission.

On June 9, 1906, Mr. Cooch married Eleanor Bedford Wilkins of Baltimore, Md., a daughter of Dr. Joseph and Mary (Rawlings) Wilkins.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Thomas, an attorney at Weston, Mass., and Edward W. Jr., of New Castle, and four grandchildren.

Private funeral services were conducted.

Jerold Schultz's "Adopt" Another Girl In Foster Parents' Plan To Help Needy

In place of the girl in Viet Nam, financially "adopted" a few years ago and who no longer needs Plan help, Mr. and Mrs. Jerold M. Schultz, 52 West Delaware Avenue, Newark, have financially "adopted" Marie Amanda Sanchez, a 10-year-old Colombian girl, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park Avenue South, New York.

"Adoption" isn't legal, it's strictly personal. The child is told about his foster parents as soon as "adopted," and writes a letter every month. The foster parents write monthly, too, and their letters are often the child's most treasured possession.

Foster parents receive a photograph and case history of the child. One of the abiding joys of "adoption" is to compare the first picture of the child and the story of his tragic life conditions with later photographs and progress reports.

The child describes the changes in his life... new clothes to replace rags, nourishing food, a mattress to sleep on instead of the dirt floor, a doctor to visit when something hurts—household equipment and education.

Because every foster child must go to school, former foster children include doctors, lawyers, teachers, mechanics and farmers, with 76,000 graduated from Plan care in the 27 years that Plan has been caring for destitute children overseas.

Take Time Out For Tea

AFTER A SERIES OF PARTIES with late hours and rich foods, set aside a few hours for a quiet get-together around your tea table. There's no happier way to quell hospitality and your friends will appreciate a leisurely afternoon lull with steaming cups of tea and a few simple refreshments. Tiny finger sandwiches, spread with softened cream cheese mixed with a little grated lemon rind or orange juice, are just right. So are thin slices of fruit or pound cake. Or make a two-layer white cake, cover with a fluffy white frosting and decorate with colorful chopped candied fruits.

Do be sure the tea you serve is freshly made and piping hot. The easiest way to make sure of this is to prepare a tea concentrate beforehand. Then at teatime you pour a little concentrate into the teacup and fill up with piping hot water. The usual proportions are one part of concentrate to 5 parts of water, though by varying the amount of the concentrate, you can vary the strength of the tea to suit all tastes.

HOT TEA CONCENTRATE
Bring 1½ quarts cold freshly drawn water to a full rolling boil. Remove from the heat and immediately add ¼ pound loose tea. Stir to immerse leaves. Cover. Let stand 5 minutes. Strain into a teapot until ready to serve. This makes enough concentrate for 40 to 45 cups of tea.

Westward Ho—A New Salad

A Western salad that's working its way East is this citrus and onion salad served on western iceberg lettuce with a choice of two dressings. One dressing is real mayonnaise thinned with orange juice and the other is a mixture of sour cream and real mayonnaise. For the salad, use orange and grapefruit sections and rings of mild onions and serve on crisp lettuce cups.

Orange Mayonnaise Dressing
½ cup corn syrup
¼ cup orange juice
¼ cup real mayonnaise
½ teaspoon grated onion
Gradually stir corn syrup into mayonnaise. Mix in orange juice and onion. Makes 1½ cups.

Mayonnaise Sour Cream Dressing
½ cup real mayonnaise
½ cup dairy sour cream
1½ teaspoons vinegar
½ teaspoon sugar
Blend all ingredients together. Chill. Serve over chilled raw or cooked vegetables. Makes about 1 cup dressing.
To prepare lettuce cups cut out core from lettuce head. Hold cored side up under running water to loosen leaves. Slip leaves off and drain on absorbent paper. Chill until ready to use.

Protection Against Rodents Advised By Dave Tainall

Rabbits and mice cause damage in gardens during the winter by nipping off young shoots, and gnawing and stripping bark from unprotected plants.

Dave Tainall, assistant agent in ornamental horticulture, points out that young deciduous trees and shrubs are most subject to damage by these animals. And fruit trees are particularly favored items in their winter diet.

Where rabbits and mice exist, it is wise to protect valuable plants with a 24-in. high wire mesh fence inserted an inch or so below the soil surface.

A quarter-inch mesh hardware cloth will keep meadow mice away, while a 1-in. mesh chicken wire is effective for rabbits.

FERRY CHANNEL
The Delaware River and Bay Authority has requested the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers to study feasibility of assuming responsibility for dredging and maintaining channels in Delaware Bay used by the Cape May-Lewes Ferry.

BOY SCOUT WEEK
The 55th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be observed Feb. 7-13, during Boy Scout Week, according to Walter O. Simon, president of the Del-Mar-Va Council, and the theme for the week-long celebration will be "Strengthen America's Heritage."

Commercial, ready-to-use repellents are available, and several applications are usually necessary to provide protection through the winter.

A Good Friend

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has lost its "founding father" and a good friend in the death of former President Herbert Hoover.

The role was a little-known phase of his distinguished public career, rich in work for victims of both World Wars.

When World War II ended, President Truman named Hoover as head of a team to survey the food needs of war-torn populations. Part of Hoover's report referred to the need for an emergency feeding program for starving children in Europe and Asia. In a subsequent broadcast, he suggested that such a program be supported by all countries.

Six months later, in December, 1946, the U.N. General Assembly acted on the recommendations, and UNICEF was born.

But Hoover's work didn't end there. He obtained UNICEF's first contribution—$15 million—from the United States and continued to give the agency's leaders valuable advice.

In a tribute to Hoover, Maurice Pate, UNICEF's executive director since its founding, said he hoped the agency would continue "an ever expanding usefulness to honor his memory."

Grilled venison is great—but not on the front of an automobile. More than 70,000 deer in 43 states are killed each year by motor vehicles, according to a recent government survey.

All 50 states responded to the questionnaire used, but only 43 states gave figures on deer kill. Some of the figures were estimates, others were actual figures based on visual observation. Estimates from 20 states totaled 33,692. The actual count from 23 states was 37,381. This totals 71,073 for the 43 states that kept records on vehicular deer kill.

The highest estimate—24,000—was given by New York; the highest actual figure—12,153—by Pennsylvania. All figures were for 1963.

It surprises most drivers who hit deer how much damage is done to their cars, with $200 per accident as an average figure, according to the National Rifle Association's department of hunting and game conservation.

Fortunately, personal injuries to car drivers and passengers occur in less than five per cent of the cases. Most are cuts and scratches, but some people have been hurt seriously—and others have been killed. It is a frightening experience to hit a deer. In most cases the driver sees the deer for a split second before the impact. It appears from nowhere—scrambling onto the highway in front of you. Do you swerve or hit the brakes, or both? Can you risk a skid?

Swerving at high speed could flip the car, or flip you right out of the car.

If you are unlucky, you catch the deer in the middle of a leap and he

Senior Fullback Dick Baechtcl missed the final game of his high school career because of a broken leg, and Senior Ed Don Straughn is out of the line-up because of a back injury.

Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets are 5-3 for the season as defending champions of the Blue Hen Conference.

Brandywine won the 1964 crown with a 9-0 slate—the first undefeated season for Coach John Modica's Bulldogs.

Christiana, with Coach Bill Horney piloting the Vikings for his first year, are 0-8 after some near wins, including a 7-0 loss to the Brandywine champions.

Capt. John Himes Replaces Osowski With Hen Cagers

John Himes has been elected captain of the Delaware basketball team, replacing the injured Mike Osowski.

Osowski will undergo knee surgery during the Thanksgiving vacation and will be lost to the Blue Hens for the entire season.

Himes, a 6-2 junior from Wilmington, is one of three lettermen on the team and is being counted on to supply much of the Hens' scoring punch.

A stand-out at Mount Pleasant High School, he scored 24 points last season in limited action for the Blue Hens.

The injury to Osowski leaves Bill Scott, a 6-8 center from Norristown, Pa., as the only senior on the Delaware team.

Scott, Himes and Ed Szczerba are the only lettermen on the roster.

Irv "Whiz" Wisniewski, is beginning his 11th year as Delaware basketball coach.

The Hens have had fine material for the past three years, compiling a 45-23 record, but the top six men of a year ago are gone and the Hens will have to rely on speed and hustle.

Four sophomores may join Himes in the starting lineup. Al Pfatma, Bill Morley, Frank Szczerba and Dick Dunning are leading candidates for starting berths.

Ed Szczerba is still recovering from a back ailment, but is expected to join Scott, Lew Blum, Dave Mountz and Herb Messick in bids for starting berths.

"We don't have much height," says new captain Himes, "but we have more speed than we have had in several years and I think we can pull some upsets."

Opportunities for upsets should be plentiful. The Hens play the rough-around-the-edges Bucknell, Rutgers, Lafayette and Lehigh.

Games with Johns Hopkins, Western Maryland, Glassboro State, Drexel, Franklin & Marshall and Albright round out the schedule.

Because you are driving several hundred thousand pounds of "muzzle energy," this pulverizes at least half the bones in the deer and pushes the radiator into the fan; both the headlights are out, the fenders are caved in and the hood is wrinkled clear back to the windshield.

Devises for helping reduce deer loss comprise chiefly signs of various design, however, at least six states are experimenting with reflectors. These signs are generally supplied by state highway departments.

Some states use culverts as underpasses on migration routes, with game fences to divert game into the underpasses or to concentrate a migrating herd.

If vehicular deer kills are not reduced substantially, additional deer—in didn't—the deer legally will have to be taken legally by hunters, according to the National Rifle Association. It estimates that the deer harvest in the United States last year was two-million, up approximately 500,000 over 1963.

The NRA, a non-profit membership organization, conducts hunter safety courses in 34 states and two Canadian provinces; compiles the Uniform Hunter-Catalog Report (a useful contribution to the growing store of knowledge of hunting accidents); provides a Hunter's Information Service, and sponsors sighting-in days at hundreds of rifle ranges throughout the U. S. each year (enabling hunters to find out exactly where their guns shoot before they go into the field after game).

The NRA's hunter safety program is conducted by more than 40,000 NRA-trained instructors, and recently, the two-millionth graduate completed the 14-year old course which stresses proper handling of guns; provides basic information on arms and ammunition; and emphasizes the importance of good sportsmanship in the field.

Getting back to deer, motorists can learn to drive defensively so as to reduce their chances of hitting the animal.

When you see a highway sign that says "Deer Area," believe it—but don't expect the deer to be standing right by the sign. They may be a half mile down the road.

When you see a deer, slow down to a crawl; the deer doesn't think of a car as being able to kill him—he'd just as soon wait until you are right there near him before jumping in front of your car.

Joe Aneda To Head Newark Golf Team In Bermuda Play

Hamilton, Bermuda — Newark Country Club golfers — perennial competitors in the International Goodwill Tournament here, again will be represented by a four-man team in the 1964 tourney to be held on this resort island Dec. 1-4.

Professional Joe Aneda and three amateur golfers of the Newark Country Club will be among a field of 100 clubs from the United States, England, Scotland, Canada, Barbados and Bermuda.

Scheduled to take the trip with Joe the Pro Aneda are Claude C. Sweeney, William S. Whitman, and Jack McCambridge.

Last year, the Newark team failed by six strokes to qualify for the final round.

The Goodwill in its 12th year, is a 72-hole, best-ball tournament played on three of the seven golf courses on this 21-sq. mile island. The pro plays at scratch and the amateurs are allowed handicaps.

Other Delaware Valley PGA district clubs competing are Tavistock Country Club of Haddonfield, N. J., and the Philadelphia Country Club.

On Dec. 3, all professional golfers will meet in a separate, 18-hole, prize-money tournament—the Goodwill Professional Championship.

Newark TD Club Has Steers, Flynn Luncheon Speakers

Ken Steers, Delaware cross country coach, and Jimmy Flynn, freshman football coach at the university, addressed the final luncheon meeting of the season for the Newark Touchdown Club last Monday.

Steers explained that as in golf, the low cross country team score wins—a tie with 28 points per team is unusual.

"The quality of our teams has been improving over the years," the veteran Blue Hen harrier coach said, "and that a tie with 28 points per team is unusual."

Opportunities for upsets should be plentiful. The Hens play the rough-around-the-edges Bucknell, Rutgers, Lafayette and Lehigh.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Macabre Revenge

In 1872 the Louisiana Jockey Club launched a new race track, the New Orleans Fair Grounds. Today the oldest race track in the South and the third oldest in the United States, the Fair Grounds inadvertently helped make good the extravagant threat of one Charles P. Howard against the Metairie Jockey Club, the most renowned of America's ante-bellum race courses. When, following the War between the States, the Metairie Jockey Club was revived, Mr. Howard turned membership and was turned down. In revenge for what he considered a towering affront he swore to "turn the race track into a graveyard."

A few years later, seeking to compete with the new Fair Grounds course, the Metairie offered a rich program of stakes including an international race which drew horses from Ireland, Austria, England and France as well as the U.S. The meeting attracted large fields of the best horses in training but proved to be a financial failure. Mr. Howard, who had been biding his time, stepped in and bought the mortgage on the property. Wreckers went to work and Howard's macabre threat was made good. What was once the Metairie Race Course is today the Metairie Cemetery.

Ex-Pro Football Star Les Lear, Trainer For Pimlico Galloping Gold Mine Sadair

Les Lear is a huge, affable man who would rather switch than fight. So, 12 years ago he turned his back on the violent world of professional boxing to train racehorses. The only thing he has in common with the former Detroit Lions and Cleveland (now Los Angeles) Rams guard gets these Sundays are in his coffee cup.

Lear, the old pro, is scoring heavily these days with a galloping gold mine named Sadair. Owned by Mrs. Mary B. Hecht, of New York and Miami, Sadair will rewrite the record books if he wins the rich Pimlico Futurity on Saturday. Even if the Florida-bred colt can do no better than finish third—which seems highly unlikely—he'll net $75,000. Sadair could come out of the Pimlico Futurity with earnings of over $500,000, more than double the first-season earnings of the renowned Native Dancer.

If eight start in the Baltimore race, the winner's share will be $114,812.75. Sadair could come out of the Pimlico Futurity with earnings of over $500,000, more than double the first-season earnings of the renowned Native Dancer.

"I've never had a horse like this before," says Lear, almost in disbelief. He selected the colt at the Hialeah sales last winter and persuaded Mrs. Hecht to put out $10,000 for the son of South American sire Petate. The investment has been repaid nearly 40 times over.

Sadair won the Garden State, Arlington-Washington Futurity, Saratoga Special, and Florida Juvenile Championships Stakes, but had some bad moments, too.

"Sadair coughed for six weeks as we were trying to get him ready for Monmouth's Sapling this summer," Lear says. "He has had other setbacks in the last couple of months that we've been able to get any continuity in his training program."

"He's good now, so we're going to supplement him for the Pimlico Futurity."

in the women's event, including five national champions and one with a world crown. New York's Leah Neuberger won the world mixed doubles title in 1956, and has taken U. S. singles laurels nine times.

That top players can also be young can also be demonstrated by Pete Childs, 16, of Michigan. Pete has been making a name for himself in junior events for years. This year he is a threat to the best, and is expected to rank about sixth in the men's division for 1964.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, 17-year-old Barbara Bohning of Newark will lead the Delaware women's team against New York.

Hopkins, Slattery, Toddings Honored As Gettysburg Foe

Delaware's powerful running halfback Bill Hopkins, and Temple's outstanding left tackle Ron Koehler, were unanimous choices for Gettysburg College's 1964 all-opponent football team.

Hopkins, a 185-pound senior scooted through the Gettysburg defense 23 times for a net rushing of 148 yards, and two of the Blue Hens' three TD's as his squad dropped a 22-19 verdict to the Bullets.

The second highest vote producer was Delaware's huge guard Herb Slattery, one of two sophomores selected for the first team. Slattery is a 235-pound product of Wilmington, and Gettysburg Tackle Irv Strohecker said, "He had more ability than any of the one and two-year veterans I played against all season."

The finest quarterbacking job turned in against the Bullets throughout the '64 campaign was by Juniata's second string sophomore Gary Sheppard. Despite a 41-17 lacing, Sheppard continually threw pinpoint passes to the tune of 332 yards, completing 22 of 44 tosses including two touchdowns.

Besides Sheppard and Hopkins in the backfield, the Bullets elected Temple's Jerry Preschutti, a senior halfback, and Albright's senior fullback Bill Bors. Preschutti set up two scores and scored twice himself in the Owl's decision. Bors carried the ball 16 times for 121 yards and one touchdown in the Lions upset victory.

Gettysburg's all-opponent line includes center Denny Toddings of Delaware.

Delaware Guard Manny Inusa is named on the Bullets' all-opponent second team.

A Newark Girl's Visit To Ceylon

By Edith DeLong
International Farm Youth Exchange
Representative for the U. S.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. DeLong, 56 Sunset Road, Newark, Edith DeLong is spending six months in the island country of Ceylon as a U. S. representative in the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

A college graduate and biological technician, she is one of several hundred young people from 43 countries participating in this year's exchange program to promote better understanding among people of many nations.

Delegates share ideas and ways of life with people of their host countries by living and working in the homes of rural families.

Following is Miss DeLong's latest report on her visit, which began last June.

Today is a free day, so I'm taking advantage of it. I'm sitting in an unbelievably beautiful place. I'm perched on a rock on a stream bank. Two logs next to me make a bridge. Before me are paddy fields, beyond is the jungle, and in the skyline, mountains. The sky is bright blue with just a few white fluffy clouds.

Just now, some laborers and small boys are coming from bathing. One is chasing a pair of buffaloes.

Four little urchin girls are avidly watching every move I make. About five more buffaloes are on their way to the jungle for the night. The boys are yelling and talking to them.

I really do like it here. In fact, in some ways it's my best home. It's the most rural. The well is a community one, across the field, and only the father can speak English. That's okay, though, because with the Sinhalese I'm learning, and sign language, we can get along fine.

The Sinhalese is coming. If they talk about half-normal speed, I can catch enough words to understand. Talking and sentences are not as good. Reading very little. I'm learning what sounds the symbols mean and how they change.

Local Girl Scouts Entertain Mothers With Troop Dinner

Senior Troop 685, Unit 16 of District H in the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council, had a mother-daughter dinner last week at St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Newark, with dinner prepared and served by the Scouts under leadership of Mrs. John Ferron.

"Of interest to all, was the game played all evening from the time we arrived until we left," Mrs. William E. France said, "with its objective to avoid using two words—yes and no. Everytime these two words were used it would cost the user one peanut from the supply handed her when she arrived."

Mothers attending included Mrs. Julian Whitlock, Mrs. Bernice Hayman, Mrs. Richard Groo, Mrs. Robert Balmer, Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, Mrs. R. L. Marshall, Mrs. Josephus J. Frost, Jr., Mrs. Lewis Kramer, Mrs. Max Stuckey, Mrs. Gorham Lane, Mrs. Orval Lovett, Mrs. Christian Frow, and Mrs. Frame.

Scouts attending and preparing dinner were Anne Frame, Sandy Groo, Nancy Lovett, Shelley Stuckey, Terri Kremer, Ann Frost, Mary Ann Marshall, Sandy Lawter, Crystal Hayman, Anne Groo, Marilyn Balmer, and Catherine Meyer.

Take Temperature To Get Efficiency From Appliances

Modern appliances do much of the household elbow work automatically, but they do need an occasional performance checkup, according to Mrs. Suzanne Tattall, New Castle County home economics extension agent. Appliances, like people, sometimes need to have their temperatures taken, she says.

For example, a refrigerator should have a temperature of between 35 and 42 degrees F. for keeping perishable foods. Place a thermometer in several different areas of the refrigerator cabinet to be sure it is cold enough throughout.

If the freezer is separate from the refrigerator, it should maintain zero degrees or lower. Several research studies have found this low temperature is needed to maintain the best frozen food quality.

To check the temperature in the freezer, take several readings in different parts of the cabinet. The temperature you can expect to maintain in the freezing section of a refrigerator will vary with the model and age of your refrigerator.

Mrs. Tattall says the conventional refrigerator with a small ice cube and frozen food compartment can usually be expected to maintain a 20-degree temperature — not cold enough to keep frozen foods for more than a few days.

To determine water temperature in the dishwasher, stop the appliance during its final rinse and quickly check the temperature of a cup of the water.

For good dishwashing, the water should be 130 to 160 degrees F. At this temperature, most bacteria are killed in one minute. Hot water also helps to eliminate spots, films and smears on the dishes.

If your automatic clothes washer doesn't seem to get clothes clean enough, the problem might lie in the temperature of the wash water. For white clothes the wash water should be at least 135 degrees F.

Water at 140 to 145 degrees cleans even better, Mrs. Tattall points out.

Dean Of Engineering Edward W. Comings Cites Profession's Problem With P-R

For centuries the engineering profession has been closely identified with accuracy.

Split-second timing, minute measurements, precise calculations have been demanded and attained in many of the engineering feats which have turned the focus of civilization from agriculture to technology.

But in the last two decades, engineers have run into trouble. Their difficulties stem not so much from the tasks which they continue to perform with ever increasing skill, but from explaining what they do and who they are.

Dr. Edward W. Comings, dean of engineering at the University of Delaware, traces the engineer's plight to World War II and the discovery of radar and the atomic bomb.

"There used to be a generally accepted division between the engineer and the scientist," Dean Comings said.

"The scientist studied laws of nature and dealt largely with theory. The engineer took the scientist's theories and applied them in practical ways. But the demands of the war brought the physicist out of his laboratory and compelled him to work with engineers, and sometimes as an engineer.

"Engineers, in turn, found it necessary to increase their knowledge

Phone Co. Offers Films For Public

Two new films have been released by Diamond State Telephone Company for public showings.

One, with TV star Dick Van Dyke, pictorially illustrates the life-saving value of automobile seat belts.

In his film, "Before It's Too Late," Van Dyke explains how seat belts saved his life when his car went out of control and hit a stone wall.

The second, "A Ballad for the Fair," is a 14-min. film featuring folk singer Oscar Brand as the narrator, and singing an original ballad to describe the New York World's Fair.

Organizations can obtain these films by calling the Diamond State Telephone Company's local business office.

Mary Susan Dearing Wins Pembroke College Honors

Mary Susan Dearing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bruce Dearing of 114 Spherdy Drive, Newark, was named an Elisha Benjamin Andrews Scholar at a recent honors convocation at Pembroke College, the women's college of Brown University, Providence, R. I.

The award is made to members of the Pembroke student body who have maintained a high academic standing during the previous year. A junior at Pembroke, Miss Dearing is a member of Brown Youth Guidance and is a participant in the honors program in American literature.

A graduate of Newark High School, she is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree in American literature.

needs of the modern engineer-scientist.

"Our problem today is to let the engineering student learn more mathematics, more physics, and elect more courses in the humanities and social sciences than once was thought necessary or possible. All engineering students take virtually the same subjects in their freshman year, regardless of whether they plan to major in chemical, civil, electrical or mechanical engineering. They aren't really strongly committed to one curriculum until their junior year. "Engineering courses in shop, welding and manual skills are practically unheard of these days. At Delaware we offer only one course in drafting and only our civil engineers take surveying—a course once considered a must for all engineering students.

"The engineer-educator is in a somewhat unique spot," Comings concluded. "If a man works only in the laboratory on theoretical problems, acquiring new knowledge but not applying it in a major engineering way, he becomes a scientist or scientist-engineer. That's why consulting assignments in industry and government are important to the engineering professor. He has a chance to acquire knowledge in the laboratory, to disseminate it in the classroom, and put it into practice as a consultant.

"Through these multiple opportunities, the engineering professor serves both his students and his profession," the Delaware dean declared.

City Council

Lewis said that council had "two shots" at avoiding legal entanglements with public housing—at the time of determination of need for such housing, and in executing a cooperation agreement with the city.

Resolutions were adopted by council on June 27, 1961, for a cooperation agreement with the Newark Housing Authority with no obligation upon the City of Newark—and on Oct. 24 of the same year, for 125 units of low cost public housing to be federally financed.

During the debate on the local public housing problem, Mrs. Francis Owens in the audience said "this survey of housing started with the NAACP, before the League of Women Voters got into it... the need was great then—it is greater now."

She asked "why object to federal funds when we had federal help" with loans and jobs. Reading from Bill Frank's newspaper column of Oct. 11, 1964, Mayor Shields reported that in 1932, one-third of all Wilmington houses were declared slums, and that one-third of Wilmington's residents currently reside in sub-standard dwellings.

"Urban renewal is not the answer to slums," Frank wrote. "I used to think that low rent housing was the answer. It is not."

Chairman Avery H. Goddin said that he has led the NHA for two years, and that for "something over two months, we have been under a delay. How long do you think it right and proper that this continue? Can't this be brought to a head?"

Councilman Chittenden said "I keep hearing about plans... What is this plan I keep hearing referred to?" Chittenden said that some $2 million would be involved in an adequate public housing program, and the mayor replied "Not $2 million, but more like $10,000," urging inauguration of a system which is entirely private, and citing Plan No. 4 presented by the Newark committee on housing—a block-type proposal adopted June 30, 1964 by council.

Chittenden said that "people who have money to invest are not willing to with the low type of return from low rent housing."

"The housing committee has done an excellent job," Folsom added, citing objections raised to "the number of units, the sites selected, use of federal money."

Directory Offered Of Certified Seed Produced In State

A 1964 directory of certified seed producers in Delaware has been released by the Delaware Crop Improvement Association. The organization, now in its 56th year, compiles this publication each year as a service to Delaware agriculturists.

In addition to listing sources of certified wheat, oats, barley, rye and soybeans, it also gives recommendations for seeding cover crops and discusses trends in soybean varieties.

About 3,000 acres of soybeans were inspected for certification this year, and Dr. William H. Mitchell, University of Delaware extension agronomist and secretary of the association, says that substantial adjustments are taking place in soybean varieties grown in the state.

Kent, Delmar and Bethel varieties made up about 70 per cent of the acreage during the past two years while long season varieties such as Hill, Hom and Ogden have declined in popularity.

Wool Growers Reminded Of Sales Cut-Off Date

Growers were reminded today to complete all details of marketing wool and lambs not later than Dec. 31, 1964, in order to receive payments for the current marketing year.

Paul Hastings, acting chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation state committee, points out that marketings completed after that date will be eligible for payments for the 1965 marketing year. Wool producers may file applications for payment for the 1964 marketing year with the ASC county offices between now and the end of January.

The Delaware Crop Improvement Association sponsors a variety of crop improvement activities including the state crop show and awards banquet; corn and soybean yield demonstrations; soybean weed control and fertility work and 4-H scholarships.

Copies of the 1964 Delaware Certified Seed Producers Directory are available from the Agricultural Hall Mailing Room at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Central Seniors, Vets Face Crisis In Football Season

Last Sunday at the Stanton football field, the Hummingbird and Central junior teams played to a 12-12 deadlock, and the Central Seniors won 30-0.

Frank of the Junior Hummingbirds scored on a pass over center and Bob Henry scored on a run around right end.

Butch Roy and Larry Glisson made the two TD's for Central. In the senior game, Zach Hayman scored three touchdowns; Larry Kendall, one, and Dave DiMartini, the final TD.

At the Kells Avenue field in Newark the Stanton juniors beat the Vets 20-0 and the senior Vets rolled over Stanton 46-0.

Early scored two touchdowns for Stanton—one on a quarterback buck for seven yards, and the other on a yard from Bill Fletcher for seven yards. Sullivan scored two TD's on advances of eight yards and 70 yards respectively, and Bradley Lane scored three touchdowns on drives of 16, 20, 30 and 50 yards.

Next Sunday will be the key game of the season for the senior Vets and Central teams. Central has lost only one game, and the Vets are undefeated. The Vets meet Central at Stanton, and the Green Raiders oppose the Hummingbirds at Kells Avenue.

Fine Thanksgiving Fare:

Oyster-Stuffed Cornish Game Hens

When the air is crisp and fall leaves crackle underfoot, it's time to think of Thanksgiving day dinner. This year, try making delicious Oyster-Stuffed Cornish Game Hens. Inexpensive as well as easy-to-make from crushed Hi Ho crackers and frozen oyster stew, this stuffing gives a unique, subtle flavoring to the golden brown birds. Here's how to make it:

Oyster-Stuffed Cornish Game Hens
60 Sunshine Hi Ho crackers (about 2 1/2 of 10-ounce packages)
1 teaspoon instant onion flakes
1 teaspoon green pepper flakes
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 can frozen oyster stew, 10 ounces, thawed and undiluted
4 Cornish game hens, about 1 1/2 lbs. each
1/4 cup melted butter
Break crackers into coarse crumbs; mix well with onion flakes, pepper flakes and lemon rind. Pour in thawed oyster stew. Snip whole oysters into several pieces with scissors; toss mixture well. Stuff body cavities and crops of hens lightly; do not pack. Fold wings and pin neck skin in back with small skewer; tie drum sticks to tail piece with cotton cord. Brush hens all over with melted butter and place on rack in shallow pan. Bake in hot oven (425°F) for about 55 minutes, or until drum sticks are tender and twist easily in joint. When done, remove strings and skewers before serving. Yield: 4 servings.

Syrups Make Pancake Magic

From Coast to Coast, America—especially young America—has flipped over pancake houses. These new style dining spots offer an almost irresistible assortment of good pancakes and pure fruit syrups.

Add liquid and maybe an egg to a measure of inexpensive mix and you are all set for pancakes right at home. The syrup makes the treat, but if bought ready made, it is costly. From out of the West comes the good news that one need not be a magician in order to turn a favorite berry into the syrup which gives the simple pancake its magical deliciousness.

This is what you will need: Your choice of fully ripe berries. (Probably the most popular for syrups are blueberry, boysenberry, blackberry and raspberry, but try the one you like best; takes about 3 cups of berries to make a pint of syrup.) You will also need sugar; light corn syrup. Unsweetened white facial tissues to give the syrup the magic touch of clearness. Fruit jars, preferably pint or half pint and lids. Something to use as a boiling-water bath.

This is what you do: Drip 10 tissues into 2 quarts of boiling water. Let stand a minute or two, then use forks to tear the tissues into small pieces. Turn tissues into a strainer to drain. Wash, rinse, drain thoroughly, crush and measure ripe berries. (Under-ripe fruit may cause syrup to jelly.) To each 3 cups of berries, stir to mix, 1 cup of the drained (don't squeeze) tissues. Remove from heat and let stand 2 or 3 minutes. Pour into jelly cup bowl. When cool enough to handle, twist and gently squeeze berries to remove juice. Mix 1 1/4 cups of juice with 1 1/2 cups sugar and 1/4 cup light corn syrup. Bring mixture to fast boil. Boil exactly 1 minute. Skim off foam and quickly pour hot syrup to within 1/4 inch of top of jar. Put Dome lid on jar; screw band tight. Process 10 minutes in boiling-water bath.

Coach Loren Kline Booters Conclude 2-10 Campaign

"Daddy, you forgot...every litter bit hurts!"

It happens in the best of families! Dad takes the kids out fishing and forgets that every litter bit hurts... in more ways than one. Floating litter is a safety hazard. Litter causes pollution of waterways. Litter causes good fishing spots to be closed down... spoils the natural beauty of America's parks and recreation areas. And that's not the
