Aetna Vols Collect $11,231.72 In Sunday Canvass Of Homes

Half Of $29,650 Goal Realized By Newark's Volunteer Firemen With House-To-House Calls, Mailed Donations; Persons Not Contacted, Urged To Send Contributions

In house-to-house calls last Sunday, volunteer firemen of the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. received $11,231.72 in cash contributions from residents of the Newark fire district, and donations mailed in through last Saturday totaled $3,564.75 for a grand total $14,796.47—almost 50 per cent of the 1956 campaign goal of $29,650.

Last Sunday's collection was below the amount anticipated, but Aetna fund drive officials attribute this to the fact that many people were away from home because of Indian summer weather, the open house program with dedication of the new John R. Downes Elementary School, and for other events.

Those who have not made their donations to the annual Aetna fund campaign, are urged to mail their contributions promptly to Aetna, Academy Street and Delaware Avenue.

Total Budget of $62,050

City, county, and state appropriations, along with revenue received from rental of the new Aetna Community Building on Oglethorpe Road, are insufficient to finance the annual Aetna budget of $62,050 for maintaining standard fire protection services in the Newark district during 1966. And the Aetnians are seeking a necessary supplement of $29,650 from public donations.

Persons mailing their contributions are urged to include their names and address so that donations may be acknowledged.

Aetna officials express public appreciation for help provided by Mariner Girl Scout Ship 198 under leadership of Nancy Custer, with the Girl Scouts addressing notes of acknowledgment, and for the Aetna Ladies Auxiliary provision of food and refreshments for campaign workers.

"We are grateful for public response to our call for Sunday," said Campaign Chairman Olan R. Thomas.

A social hour at 6 p.m., will be followed by dinner at 7, and reservations may be made with members of the banquet committee.

Vote Scheduled For Jan. 11th To Elect Coverdale Successor

Interim Appointment To Be Announced Nov. 22 To Fill 1st District Vacancy; Nomination Deadline Of Dec. 13 With Dec. 18 Registration Date Approved By Council

A special election will be conducted Jan. 11 to choose a successor to William M. Coverdale, who resigned Nov. 1 as councilman for the 1st district; a deadline of Dec. 13 for filing nominations; and a Dec. 18 registration date were scheduled as the result of Newark City Council action at last Monday night's meeting, and Mayor Joseph A. Shields stated that the temporary appointment of Coverdale's successor is to be announced at the next regular meeting of council on Nov. 22. Coverdale resigned because of his change of residence from the 1st to 2nd district.

Recommendations for the preliminaries and special municipal election were submitted by Harold M. Grant, chairman of the Newark Election Board.

Ordinances providing for city disposal of abandoned vehicles at public sale after 30 days, and establishing a revised method for municipal purchase and disposal of property and contracting for services, were approved unanimously at final readings.

Five proposed ordinances—to erect a stop sign on Benny Street at the Lovett Avenue intersection; to license business solicitors with a $2 filing fee and payment of $1 per day for use of such license, with minimum and maximum fines of $15 and $300 for violations; requiring McCampl Road traffic to stop at the Elkton and West Park Place intersections; the creation of a five-member board of ethics; and extending parking prohibitions on South Chapel Street, were approved at preliminary readings.

Parking prohibitions on South Chapel are proposed on the east side from Main Street south to the city line except from Continental Avenue to the Budd plant gate; on the west side from Main to the north property line; on the east side of South Chapel from the south property line of 21 South Chapel to the Budd gate; from Chambers Street to East Park Place, and from the Pennsylvania Railroad south to the city limits.

The proposed licensing ordinance is to be submitted to the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce for review.

A petition to the Newark Chamber of Commerce, and signed by representatives of 40 Main Street business firms, was presented at the council meeting.

"The undersigned merchants are vitally interested in the Main Street parking project because we feel that the lack of positive action will cause further deterioration of business in downtown Newark, and may cause us to move elsewhere," petitioners stated.

And at the suggestion of Councilman Henry R. Folsom, Jr., City Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., was instructed to prepare legislation to establish a parking authority in Newark to move elsewhere, petitioners stated.

"We will want to know what the powers of the authority will be before we vote on it," Mayor Shields cautioned.

A proposed ordinance granting traffic committee jurisdiction over driveway access is to be readjusted.

"I don't think we can delegate this to a committee," Shields said. "I feel the people should have some course of redress."

And Francis E. B. McCann in the audience urged council that it was "time to make the new charter and recommendations approved in the PAS report," with elimination, not creation, of committees. "You're the bosses!" he advised council.

Reappointment Group

A 10-member committee for voting district reappointment was appointed by Francis E. B. McCann as acting chairman. The committee includes Mrs. Ruth Bausman, John G. S. Billingsly, Harold Brown, Robert Downes, Harold Grant, Charles E. Grubb, Hugh Gullledge, Frank Osborne, and Francis M. Sullivan.

At the recommendation of City Manager J. Francis Neide and Public Works Director Benjamin J. Campagna, council approved construction and improvements to the College Park recreation area in the amount of $30,275.

"I recommend that we award this contract as it may cost us more later," Neide said.

Bituminous paving, a shelter building, pavilion; storm drainage; spray pool, shuffleboards, sand box, and grading are to be provided.

The purchase of 15-acres of valley stream parkland in the Timber Creek development at a cost of $30,000 within one year, was approved, along with a request by the Newark Soroptimists for the Senior Citizens Club to use the city storage building east of the Bible Presbyterian Church on East Main Street.

Kirkwood Highway Accidents Injure Six Near Newark

Six persons were injured on Wednesday of last week in two collisions on Kirkwood Highway, one on either side of White Clay Creek. They involved three cars, two trucks and a station wagon.

The first mishap was at 11:52 a.m. west of Dilwynn Drive, Windy Hills. A tractor-trailer and a station wagon collided and tied up traffic for about an hour.

William Livesey, 46, of 107 Ash Avenue, Newark, was released after treatment at Wilmington General Hospital for abrasions and contusions. Newark police said Livesey was driving the wagon.

Danger Of Drugs For Drivers Cited By Safety Council

Although alcohol is well known for impairing mental and physical capabilities of the driver, few people realize that drugs are able to cause a drunken or intoxicated condition, the Delaware Safety Council announced today.

"To the average citizen, the term 'drug' means a potent, illicit substance with which some persons are improperly associated. The term 'dope' is often wrongly substituted for the word 'drug'."

"Some pharmaceutical substances, widely used in proper medical care are presenting an increasing problem to traffic enforcement," Manager J. James Ashton, of the Delaware Safety Council stated. "Since drugs cannot be detected on the breath or from a blood sample, we have very limited means of identifying and measuring the drug impaired driver."

"Several ounces of alcohol is needed to produce intoxication," he continued, "but drugs can cause a comparable effect when only a small amount is consumed."

The Delaware Safety Council asks motorists to be aware of the following drugs and their effects on driving—narcotics, barbiturates, tranquilizers, antihistamines, and amphetamines.

T/Sgt. George Del Santo

Enlistment Delay Program Offered By U. S. Air Force

Air Force Recruiter George Del Santo has announced a new recruiting program which allows young men to enlist in the Air Force Reserve up to 120 days before reporting for active duty. Del Santo resides in Brookside at 14 South Kingston Road.

The Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program gives men the opportunity of becoming Reservists while still in high school with a guarantee of later active duty Air Force training.

Men within four months of high school graduation, or any others 18 or older, are eligible.

This program will be advantageous to those desiring to enlist in the Air Force but are not in a position to do so because of school status, seasonal employment or other reasons.

Del Santo said.

Men enrolled in the delayed enlistment program, who are accepted for college enrollment or who incur personal hardship before their active duty date, may apply for immediate discharge, Sgt. Del Santo added.

Down-State Teams Win In Land-Judging Contest

The Kent County 4-H team, and Future Farmers of America teams from Felton and Selbyville high schools won top honors in the Delaware state land judging contest on Oct. 30 at the University of Delaware Georgetown Substation. The event was sponsored by the Delaware State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

The land judging contest provides learning experience for young people interested in soil and water conservation.

Contestants are required to decide whether the land used in the contest is best suited for continuous row crop, rotation pasture, occasional plowing, permanent pasture, trees, wildlife or recreational use.

Boneless Turkey Offers Thanksgiving Day Relief

Roast turkey is traditional for Thanksgiving, but it is no longer necessary to roast the whole bird, says Janet Goblentz, food specialist at the University of Delaware. The boneless turkey roll or roast may be ideal for your family, she suggests.

It is even possible to cater to your particular family's taste for light and dark turkey meat. Turkey rolls are available with both light and dark meat combined in the same roll, or each kind in a separate roll. In combination, the white and dark meat are present in the same proportion as in the turkey.

44th NATIONAL 4-H CLUB CONGRESS Showcase of America's Youth

NOV. 28 — DEC. 2

1,500 Boys and Girls Participate

THE National 4-H Club Congress opens for the 44th straight year in Chicago, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 28, but the young delegates start checking into the Conrad Hilton Hotel headquarters on Friday and Saturday. Activities begin at once, and never stop until the final banquet on Thursday night, Dec. 2.

The Congress theme is "Young America and World Affairs," announced Norman C. Mindrum, director of the National 4-H Service Committee which arranges the annual event in cooperation with the Extension Service of the land-grant universities, and more than 55 business firms which support the 4-H program.

The 1,500 delegates—all winners—will represent 50 states, Puerto Rico, and for the first time an "official" delegation of 10 Canadian 4-H members, one from each province. The 4-H'ers will devote the better part of two days to forums on world problems.

During the action-packed week more than 200 youths selected for superior achievement will be designated national winners of educational scholarships.

Three boys and three girls will be named to receive the highest honor bestowed during the Congress: The Presidential Silver Tray award. These champions are the top pair in achievement, citizenship and leadership programs.

Donors of funds for the trips and scholarships are business firms and foundations. They contribute more than a million dollars each year to aid 4-H, said Mr. Mindrum.

The award winners are all selected by extension personnel heading the state 4-H program. Among the award donors are: Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, American Oil Foundation, Carnation Company, Cities Service Oil Company, Conrad Hilton Hotel, Cudahy Packing Co., E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Elgin National Watch Company, Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, General Motors, Hercules Powder Company, Humble Oil & Refining Co., International Harvester, International Minerals & Chemical Corporation, Livestock Conservation, Inc.

Others are: Edwin T. Meredith Foundation, Montgomery Ward, Oliver Corporation, Pyrofax Gas Corporation, The Sears-Roebuck Foundation, Standard Brands, Incorporated, Standard Oil Company (Kentucky), The Standard Oil Company (Ohio), Sunbeam Corporation, The West Bend Company, Westinghouse Electric Corporation and Wilson & Co., Inc.

According to Mr. Mindrum, donor support averages nearly 20 years. The longest continued sponsorship totals 48 years.

Activities and events are starting to move again, and two very current activities have just been concluded—the county and state land judging contests.

The county contest was held in Newark where the top eight judges were selected for the state contest.

In consecutive order, starting with the 1st place winner the eight county winners were: Ricky Roach, Townsend; Charles Hahn, Wilmington; Elizabeth Roach, Townsend; Karen Fuhrmeister and Barry Fisher, Wilmington; Donna Connell, Corner Ketch; Kent Aist, Newark; and Georgeanna Perry, Christina.

These eight went to the state contest at the university substation where they judged in competition with other 4-H'ers throughout the state.

 HOW TO HAVE A BALL!
 What's more fun than making your own decorations and refreshments for a party? With Halloween creeping up in all its witchery and the gay holiday season dancing on its heels, here are some party ideas with which we know you'll have a ball!

First of all, let's make out a shopping list — you'll need: balloons, crepe paper, streamers, cellophane tape, string, crayons, scissors, a pack of colored construction paper, plain paper plates and cups, wooden spoons, a tablecloth and napkins. And, you'll want some paper baking cups, several fruit flavored ices (different, sanderizing and inexpensive), plus cake mix, icing mix, and assorted little candies.

Now then — the day before your party you can do the following: cut out silhouettes that illustrate the season and tape them to walls and windows. Hang up the crepe paper, which you twist as you put it up to give it a swirling effect. DO NOT give your last breath to the balloons until a few hours before the party as nothing goes flatter if done the night before — not even your first cake.

And speaking of cake — get your Mom or sister to help you make cup cakes and icing the day before as they will top the list of the "games" you'll be playing. Each guest will receive a cup cake to decorate. Using the extra baking cups, you can fill four with icing and those tiny candies we talked about. Your friends will not only create some marvelously imaginative confections — but they will be able to eat them, too!

While the cup cakes are baking, crayon the outside edges of the paper plates and cups with designs of your own. Be sure you leave room for each guest's name. They will be most flattered. When you serve the ices, top each helping with a miniature candy cane.

Captain Edmondson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Edmondson, 50 East Cleveland Ave.

Low-Calorie Fudge
 Foolproof recipe calls for an amount of oil which is half the usual amount of shortening, thereby cutting calories.

Do you have to count your calories and watch your fat intake? Does your mouth water whenever you have to say, "No, thanks," to dessert?

Cheer up. Unless you're on a hopelessly thin diet, there's probably room to maneuver within your limits so that you can enjoy some of your favorite taste treats.

One method is to substitute a liquid vegetable oil for the solid shortening you're accustomed to using in your cooking and baking. This frequently—but not always—means you can use less oil than the amount of solid shortening traditionally called for, which can mean fewer calories.

Whether using oil in this way cuts calories or not, your results will contain less saturated fats—an important consideration. The more polyunsaturated the vegetable oil, the farther it will go toward counterbalancing the saturated fats inherent in any diet. Safflower oil is the most highly polyunsaturated cooking oil on your grocers' shelves.

Smooth, creamy velvet fudge can be made easily with safflower oil. This recipe calls for an amount of oil which is half the amount of butter usually called for.

Velvet Fudge
 (Makes one 8x8x2-inch pan or 16 squares)
 2 packages (6 ounces each) 2 tablespoons Saffola oil
 semi-sweet chocolate pieces 1/2 cup hot milk
 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar 1 cup coarsely chopped nuts

Melt chocolate over hot water. Remove from heat; blend in remaining ingredients. Spread in lightly oiled 8-inch square pan. Chill until firm; cut into 16 squares. Store in refrigerator.

Neat Treat
 Add luster to your reputation with the junior and teen crowds as provider extraordinary of party treats. It's as simply said as done. Just twirl up a batch of Caramel Apples. Luscious caramel candies make a mellow coating that adds luster to autumn's bounty of crisp, juicy apples.

The recipe's foolproof — so easy that the young set can join in, dipping the fruit in the rich, melted candy. Then, for variety, they can roll them in different trimmings . . . coconut, crushed peanut brittle or chopped nuts.

Your grocer has the makings — even the wooden sticks are there, right on the 14-ounce bag of caramels. Individually wrapped, wholesome and creamy caramels are great for between-meal nibbling and lunch box surprises, too.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter
 YOU'LL FIND YOURSELF WEARING this classic looking sweater almost every day in the months to come. It's so easy to slip into and its roomy raglan sleeves make it so comfortable to wear, that you'll wonder how you ever got along without it!

HIGH COLLAR
 Part of the pleasure of knitting this sweater is that it's made in the simple stockinette stitch, knitting one row and purling one row, except for the zig zag pattern which creates an interesting effect along the front panels. Another unusual touch that makes this sweater distinctive is the sewn down collar, which gives it a very neat, finished look, while its height provides a barrier against the cool breezes. The instructions for this sweater are given for sizes 40 to 50. This multi-purpose sweater would look lovely in either a light pastel shade, or in a more utilitarian color such as navy blue, brown, grey, or perhaps black. Whichever color you choose, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that you have an addition to your wardrobe that you will enjoy owning and wearing for years and years to come.

SPECIAL PRESENT
 If you're feeling in a benevolent mood, or you have a very special present that you want to give, why not knit this sweater for a friend or relative? The "thank-you's" that you receive as a result will be overwhelming. Free instructions are available by sending a self addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet B 290.

SORT OF UNUSUAL 'BUSINESS AS USUAL'

CLOSE THE BACKDOOR

Consolidation of several federal agencies into the new Department of Housing and Urban Development has focused attention again on the billions of dollars being spent through the "backdoor."

Backdoor spending means that the authorization circumvents the normal legislative appropriation process and thus is not subject to annual Congressional scrutiny.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) has this to say: "Every major program and agency to be consolidated into the new Housing and Urban Development Department has unlimited authority to increase contingent liabilities against the Federal Treasury in insured mortgages and to guarantee local bond issues for construction of new low recent public housing units."

The new department's spending authority and outstanding loans come close to $82 billion. The two main points of concern are the fundamental mechanics—backdoor spending—and the large contingent liability created by long-range commitments.

Congressman George Mahon (D-Tex.) holds "backdoor spending practices indefensible" and says that it is "a misapprehension to think that Congress exercises its full spending powers through the traditional annual appropriation bills."

How much longer will the taxpayers permit federal spending to escape regular year-by-year control? It's time for Congress to close the backdoor once and for all.

"Gifts Of Health" With Christmas Seals Offered In Letters To Be Mailed Tuesday

The 1965 Christmas Seal letters will be mailed next Tuesday in Delaware, and this annual appeal which originated in Delaware more than half a century ago, will be made to protect the lives of millions of Americans from tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

Contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign in Delaware have shown a gradual increase for several years. Last year totaling more than $18,000. The TB Society annually budgets the entire returns of each year's campaign, often using reserve funds as well to finance special projects.

A substantial portion of each year's Christmas Seal returns in Delaware is used in case detection, with the Society active in a cooperative effort to stamp out tuberculosis completely. The case detection program consists principally of widespread use of X-rays and tuberculin skin tests.

Research on the local level is another function of the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society. A variety of programs are underway, including the search for means of combating drug-resistant strains of the tuberculosis germ.

The society's concern with the broad field of respiratory disease carries its activities beyond the boundaries of tuberculosis work. The affects of smoking on the respiratory system has prompted a cooperative program between the TB Society, the Delaware division of the American Cancer Society, and other groups in the area of public education. A variety of programs are held to dissuade Delawareans—teen-agers and adults alike—from smoking.

As new techniques and materials for combatting tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases are discovered, the society brings these to the attention of medical personnel in Delaware through literature and professional lectures.

Of each dollar contributed in Delaware, 93 cents will remain in the state to finance programs such as case detection, professional lectures and training, and education of direct beneficiaries in Delaware. The remaining six cents out of each dollar will be sent to the National Tuberculosis Association, which conducts research and educational programs on a country-wide basis.

Seven University of Delaware undergraduates have been nominated for Danforth and Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowships.

Both fellowships are awarded to senior students who evidence interest in careers in university teaching.

Nominated for both awards are Karen H. Hansen, Trenton, N. J.; Helen L. List, Paula Ann Murphy, and Judith Ann Powers, Wilmington.

A fifth nominee for a Danforth fellowship is Donald S. Coram, Glenide, Pa.

Additional nominees for Woodrow Wilson fellowships are Harold C. Livesey, Wilmington; and Richard M. Young, York, Pa.

Campus coordinator for Woodrow Wilson nominations is Professor A. LeRoy Bennett, chairman of the department of political science.

Dr. Ray E. Keesey, associate of the college of arts and science, serves in a similar capacity for the Danforth fellowship program.

Men well governed should seek after no other liberty, for there can be no greater liberty than a good government.

"... the agreement... is a single document which cannot be separated by council in a piecemeal fashion," the solicitor opined.

England ruled that council does not have authority to exempt persons over 65 from municipal taxation; that Newark police are not entitled to collect constables' fees except when providing specific services for a justice of the peace; that the city is within its rights in erecting a barricade across the western portion of Casho Mill Road to provide a resident with access; and that local traffic ordinances are valid.

"Be more humane in decisions on housing," Mrs. Evelyn Chambers in the audience urged council. She cited the case of a 75-year-old woman who was ill and had to move from a city-condemned house—and died as a result.

"Somebody ought to help somebody instead of putting them out in the cold in the winter," Charles Hayman of 128 New London Avenue said, citing city refusal to issue him a building permit to construct two rooms and a bath on his property because of sub-standard frontage.

Councilman David H. Doehrlert asked Hayman for "names of people who need homes. I know groups that will undertake to provide homes within their means," Doehrlert declared, and arranged to meet Hayman for a survey of the area.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:24 p.m.

City Council

Councilman Folsom said that the Senior Citizens have a membership of more than 100 persons who use Newark New Century Club facilities on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, but who need a daily meeting place.

Mrs. Margo Perkins in the audience, offered the Senior Citizens use of the proposed Newark Housing Authority community building when it is completed within the next year and a half, but Mrs. Naomi McCann of the sponsoring Soroptimists pointed out that the Senior Citizens need facilities sooner than that.

Citing the need for renovation of the city building, Albert S. Priestley in the audience, urged individuals and other groups to assist the Soroptimists in readying city facilities for use by the older people.

In a letter to council, signed by 25 members of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church in Newark, protest was registered against Sunday commercialization with the extension of store business hours. The matter was referred to Solicitor England.

A request from the Women's Democratic Club of Greenville, N.J., for a cash contribution from the city to provide Christmas gifts for servicemen in Vietnam, was rejected. But council urged individual contributions, and is to send official Christmas greetings from the city to local men in military service in Vietnam.

Council requested further negotiation with Architect Richard P. Fox in effort to approve a portion of the proposed agreement for architectural work to provide a municipal building. Council is seeking to approve this part of the agreement for schematic design phase of the work, and to defer action on fees for the second phase—design, preparation of drawings and specifications; and normal inspection of work.

Woodrow Wilson Fellowships Won By 15 At U. of D.

Since the founding of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship program 20 years ago, the University of Delaware has had 15 of its graduates elected fellows.

The Wilson Foundation has recently produced a series of publications which name all of the more than 11,000 fellows since 1945.

Delaware's 15 fellows have all been elected in the last eight years, although the report does cover two decades.

In a forword, Sir Hugh Taylor, Foundation president, and Hans Rosenhaut, national director, state, "From its inception the program has stressed the importance of close ties between teaching faculty and prospective college teachers—every elected Woodrow Wilson fellow has been nominated by a faculty member, recommended by several of his teachers, and elected by a committee of college teachers and administrators."

Four of the Delaware fellows hold teaching appointments; five are still in graduate school, and four were named at their graduation last June. Two fellows fall into none of these classifications.

Elizabeth Louise Carrow, English teacher at Newark High School, was a 1958 fellow who received her master of arts degree from Bryn Mawr College.

Irwin David Zimmerman, in post-doctoral research in biology at the University of Pennsylvania, graduated from Delaware in 1959.

Norman Hudson Dill, biology instructor at Delaware State College, graduated from the university in 1960 and took his master's degree at Rutgers.

TRY THE TRAY GAME
With the twitching season upon us and jolly times to come, school vacations can be made twice as festive by giving a "Holiday Party." Refreshments can be simple and inexpensive. Just lay out all the ingredients for the goopiest of sundaes imaginable and let your guests fix their own.

And—you can play games galore. It requires nothing more than pencils and paper, a little imagination, and some items readily available in your own home.

Did you ever play the Tray Game? Place 10 to 12 items on a tray (spools of thread, bobby pin, book, glass, etc.) in the center of the room. Let your guests look at them for three minutes, then remove the tray. The object is to remember all the items and write them down. The one who remembers the most items, wins.

If you have a small group over, then Oratory is the game for you. Pick out five or six different objects, such as a rubber boot, empty board, or light-house beam, and ask each guest to speak three minutes on the subject you've given him.

The Suitcase Game is truly a trunk full of fun. You'll need two suitcases, two of Dad's pajama bottoms and socks and two of Mom's hats and old dresses or blouses. Put one of each item into the suitcases, then close them. Line up your guests in two relay teams and then blow the whistle. Each member of the team has to open the suitcase; put every bit of clothing on; take everything off; close the suitcase; and then run back to her teammate, who will repeat the process. There will be so many giggles at the outlandish costumes and the struggling involved in putting the clothing on, it won't make any difference who wins.

Covered Kettle Casserole

Cookout recipes don't have to be complicated to be elegant and tasteful. Using a covered barbecue kettle lets the backyard chef prepare just about anything—including casseroles. For this menu, rings of pineapple have been added to give the cook-out a Hawaiian touch. To cook ham, acorn squash and a casserole serving six, use about 60 charcoal briquettes and spread around so there is a medium thick layer of charcoal over bottom of barbecue kettle.

Scalloped Potato Casserole
6 to 7 raw potatoes
1 small onion
1 can consommé
1 tablespoon Accent
1 tablespoon parsley flakes

Butter the casserole dish, then slice the potatoes thin. Add remaining ingredients. Bake in covered barbecue about two hours.

Ham Slices
Use slices of ham about 3/4 to 1 inch thick. Spread mustard on ham, add pineapple rings, and bake on barbecue grille about 15 to 20 minutes. Not necessary to turn. Two large slices will serve six.

Acorn Squash
Select two good size squash, cut in half lengthwise and clean out seeds carefully. Pierce the inside about 10 times with a fork, then add pat of butter and teaspoon of honey to each half. Piercing allows butter and honey to penetrate squash. Season with salt and pepper. Wrap outside (but not top) with aluminum foil.

Place the casserole in the covered barbecue, let bake for about one hour, then add squash. Last 20 minutes, add ham slices.

Author-Professor Wm. F. Ames Dedicates 511-Page Technical Book To Patient Wife

Delaware professor William F. Ames has dedicated his recently released book "Nonlinear Partial Differential Equations in Engineering" to his wife—and it seems only fair.

Ames has been working on the 511-page volume for about five years and estimates that it required about 10,000 hours of writing, editing, proofreading and mathematical computation.

A highly technical volume, it has been well received in the scientific and engineering community and has sold 1,200 copies since its release in late August. Its objective is to help mathematicians, physicists, engineers and theoretical chemists solve difficult problems in applied science through use of non-linear practical differential equations.

The book is the 18th in a series of mathematics in science and engineering by distinguished authors throughout the nation. Richard Bellman, applied mathematician at the University of Southern California, is editor of the series.

Ames holds a joint appointment in the departments of statistics and computer science and mechanical engineering.

His book contains both theory and examples drawn from a variety of scientific disciplines such as fluid mechanics, vibrations, elasticity, diffusion, heat transfer and plasma physics.

It is the outgrowth of courses he has taught since 1959 at the University of Delaware, and work done while in residence at Stanford University as recipient of a National Science Foundation faculty fellowship.

Professor Ames admits that he couldn't have written the book without "the understanding and encouragement" of his wife. It is hoped that she has a little of both in reserve. He's already started work on another volume.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Preventing Nuclear Spread

By Senator CLAIBORNE PELL (D-R.I.) Senator Pell is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee

There has been much talk for many years about the need to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons among more and more countries.

Last August the United States presented a draft treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons to the Geneva Conference of the Eighteen-Nation Committee on Disarmament. The United States treaty draft is the most significant step taken toward halting nuclear proliferation since the 1961 United Nations General Assembly Resolution which first called for conclusion of an international agreement on the subject. It has now been fortified by the eloquent appeal of Pope Paul to reduce offensive armaments.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED In the ensuing weeks, discussion of the U.S. treaty draft did not lead to agreement since the Soviet Union and its allies continued to maintain the position that a non-proliferation treaty should permit the creation of a NATO multilateral force or Atlantic nuclear force. The U.S. draft treaty does, of course, permit such forces since their creation would in no way increase the number of states and other organizations having the power to unleash nuclear weapons.

HOPE FOR FUTURE The 1965 disarmament talks in Geneva have taken place against a background of increased international tension. However, as the session progressed towards its September 16 recess date the Soviets themselves underlined the importance of reaching agreement on non-proliferation. The Communist nations represented at the Conference also endorsed a report of the Conference to the United Nations General Assembly which states in part "... the members of the Committee believe that the extensive discussions on major problems... were particularly valuable in clarifying the respective points of view..." and that "these discussions and exchanges of views may facilitate agreement in the further work of the Committee."

The Conference of the Eighteen-Nation Committee on Disarmament agreed to resume its meetings in Geneva "... as soon as possible after the termination of the consideration of disarmament at the Twentieth Session of the General Assembly..." The United States has its draft treaty on the table. We will continue to pursue our policy of the past twenty years — policy described by President Johnson as "... our conviction that the peace of the world requires firm limits upon the spread of nuclear weapons..." As one of the sponsors of the Act which created the Disarmament Agency in 1961, I thoroughly concur.

Fulton Scores 4 TD's; Kelley, Stregari One Each, As Newark Wallops WHS 39-7

Unbeaten Wilmington High's Red Devils took the kick-off and drove 67 yards in 13 plays for a touchdown and extra point last Saturday to lead Coach Bob Hoffman's visiting Newark Yellowjackets 7-0. And that was the end of a perfect day for Coach Dean Travis' Blue Hen Conference leaders.

Led by Co-Capt. Dick Fulton with four touchdowns and three successful extra point kicks, Hoffman's great Yellowjackets squad traveled overland without the aid of a single pass to wallops Wilmington 39-7, with Halfback Dick Kelley romping 55 yards for a touchdown, and Quarterback Lou Stregari fielding a Red Devil fumble with bare seconds remaining, to race 48 yards for a final six-point.

"We knew they could move the ball, but never thought they would move like that," a stunned Coach Travis said as the Yellowjackets punched a great irreparable hole in Wilmington's drive for an undefeated season.

Newark, Wilmington, and William Penn share first place in the conference race with 6-1 records, and Wilmington faces a pair of tough ones in 4-3 Conrad and 4-2-1 P. S. du Pont before the season closes. The Colonials meet a possible stumbling block in 2-5 Brandywine—depleted defending champs—and 1-6 DeLaWarr, while Newark has to play 3-1 Dickinson and winless but improving Christiansia.

Warren Anderson with his son Parker finally hit the waterfowl jackpot with Delaware's opening day in the area and back again. From their various stands in public buildings provided by the Delaware Game & Fish Commission, many ducks and geese had been observed—in binocular range—but few within reach of chilled shot and equally chilled runners by their smooth-bore fowling pieces.

It had been a discouraging Delaware debut for Warren Anderson in his effort to introduce a son to the sport of waterfowl hunting. From their various stands in public buildings provided by the Delaware Game & Fish Commission, many ducks and geese had been observed—in binocular range—but few within reach of chilled shot and equally chilled runners by their smooth-bore fowling pieces.

Young Parker with a full head of outdoor steam, was an undismayed pupil who finally did get his goose—a lone, big, beautiful gander some two years ago—but there were many dry runs before he had the good fortune to hit a duck.

Opening day 1965 was something else. And the Andersons will long remember it.

Down on Maryland's Eastern Shore beside the Chester River below Church Hill, a number of local sportsmen have been fishing well enough with the Canadian honkers.

"I had to shoot a goose far out on the end of a flock to keep from hitting more than one," George L. "Bus" Townsend said of a recent trip after killing a first, lone goose earlier in the day. Bus called his second bird and daily limit from a great wave of peese that set their wings and planed into his decoys about a pit in a field beside the river.

Gene Brasher, Hugh Gallagher, the Rudy Taggerts—father and son—and Dick Waterford have been getting geese with some interim shooting while thousands of the mighty migrants etch their way across the skies high, high, and far away.

A visitor to the Eastern Shore of Maryland may well be led to believe that Canada geese have been flying to the far north. But they do. On Hatters Island a couple of weeks ago, we saw thousands feeding amid a complete absence of cornfields and cornfields, on the bleak sandy strip between the Atlantic Ocean and Pamlico Sound. And with these gray geese were:

Following the Wilmington scoring drive in the opening minutes of last Saturday's championship clash, with Halfback Jim Lotharp stepping one-yard to score standing up and Matusiak kicking the seventh point, Fulton led over left guard on a counter for a 58-yard touchdown, and kicked the extra point to tie the score.

Still in the first period, Yellowjacket End Conway Hayman recovered Wilmington Halfback Art Madrie's fumble on the Red Devil 27-yard line, and three plays later, Fulton broke free for 17 yards and a second touchdown—kicked the extra point—and Newark was on its way with a 14-7 lead.

In the second quarter, it was Fulton again—for a 33-yard touchdown, and then Halfback Dick Kelley sped 55 yards for the fourth Newark touchdown and the Yellowjackets' 26-7 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, Dick Fulton ran 22-yards for his fourth TD and kicked the extra point for a 116 season total and a commanding lead in the state scoring race.

With his first touchdown and extra point, Fulton set a Blue Hen Conference scoring record—breaking that set by Newark's All-State Halfback Lloyd Wells in 1960 with 95 points.

And in the fourth quarter, Lou Stregari recovered a Wilmington fumble to run 48 yards for Newark's sixth touchdown of the day.

The Yellowjackets play at home this Saturday against Dickinson at 10:30 a.m.

THE NEWARK POST

Eight The Newark Post, Newark, Delaware, Thursday, November 11, 1965

Tom Van Grofski, Purzycki, Wright Pace Hen Gridders

The 4-3 Blue Hens put on their worst offensive performance of the season in losing to Buffalo 22-0 last week, the first time the Hens had been blanked this year. They had been averaging 25 points per game.

Van Grofski had one of his worst days in two seasons as the Hens' regular quarterback, completing only seven of 20 passes for 72 yards. His season totals are still impressive with 65 completions in 133 attempts for 912 yards and eight touchdowns.

The slim senior also leads the Hens in punting with an average of 38.9 yards for 29 kicks, and in total offense with 969 yards. He is nearing his own Delaware season record for total offense of 1,043 yards, set last year.

Wright, a sophomore speedster from Rockville, Md., leads the team in rushing with 455 yards in 98 carries.

Purzycki, a junior from Newark, N. J., is the team's top pass receiver with 26 catches for 291 yards. Wright is second with 15 receptions for 197 yards.

LOREN KLINE'S BOOTERS
Delaware meets Temple here at home this Friday at 4 p.m. in a soccer game, and Coach Loren Kline's Blue Hen booters close the season next week with two away games—at LaSalle on Tuesday, and at Bucknell on the 19th.

A Dog's Life

FIRST AID FOR HUNTING DOGS
By Bob Bartos, Manager Friskies Research Kennels

Most dog owners are within a quick drive to a veterinarian's office should an accident or sickness occur. Not so the hunter, however, who is off with his dog on a trip. Consequently the Nimrod who values his dog should school himself in basic first aid techniques. And the further away he's going to go, the more help and the more dangerous the game he's after, the more informed he should be.

Most first aid schools present information applicable to both man and dog. Additional first aid information can be obtained from your veterinarian.

A first aid kit for your dog should include: thermometer; scissors; a pair of special pliers for pulling porcupine quills; 2 rolls of 3-inch gauze bandages; 2 rolls of 1-inch wide adhesive tape; cotton; a pair of forceps; eye ointment (there are combinations usable both for the eyes and ears); some antiseptic dusting powder for open wounds; a small bottle of peroxide or other similar medication for direct application to cuts and abrasions; a foot remedy for sore feet; a good flea repellent, preferably containing a residual ingredient; and some antibiotic capsules.

You should also learn how to apply a mouth tie to your dog, for if he is hurt and scared he may try to bite while you're administering to his wounds. Using a strip of bandage, place a double half-hitch around his nose, knotting it under the chin. Then draw the ends back and tie them behind the ears.

Feeding tip: Don't feed your dog just before or after he hunts. Plan to feed him an hour or more after a day in the field and make sure his fare is a good nourishing top grade of commercially prepared dog food such as Friskies Mix.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Thoroughbred "World's Fair"

John D. Schapiro, an Admiral in the non-existent Nebraska Navy, is probably the only member of that group that has anything to do with ships. Since earning his BA at Stanford in 1936 and taking the helm of his father's Boston Metals Company, he has bought and scrapped, or in some cases converted to other use, more than 1,400 warships of all types. He also bought a Maryland race track in 1950, but this he didn't scrap. Instead he spent several million dollars to convert Laurel into one of the finest courses in the country. He then launched the Thoroughbred "World's Fair" known as the Washington, D.C. International, which will be run for the fourteenth time on Veteran's Day, November 11, and built a special turf course on which to run it.

14 Seniors To Play In Final Home Game As Hens Meet Boston U. This Saturday

Fourteen seniors will be making their final appearances in Delaware Stadium when the Blue Hens host Boston University this Saturday.

Topping the list of Blue Hens players for their last home game are Capt. Paul Mueller, Quarterback Tom Van Grofski and most of the members of the offensive and defensive lines.

Mueller, the leading scorer in the Middle Atlantic Conference with five touchdowns, has been a pleasant surprise for the Hens at end after being shifted from halfback during spring drills. He has pulled down 22 passes for 262 yards.

Van Grofski, a triple-threat quarterback from Bloomfield, N. J., has been the Hens' regular signal-caller for the last two seasons. He has already set Delaware season records for completions (85) and total offense (1,043 yards), and is threatening those records and Don Miller's 1954 season passing record of 1,022 yards.

Six members of Delaware's seven-man offensive line will be playing before the home folks for the final time.

The Hens also lose five members of their defensive unit—End Bill Drueding; Tackles Jim Freeberry and Dave Stewart; Linebacker Bill Csarati; and Safety Bruce Carlyle.

Drueding and Freeberry are top candidates for All-Conference honors and have been regular members of the Hens' defensive unit.

Jackie Westrope Elected To Jockeys Hall of Fame

Jackie Westrope, who died of injuries sustained in a racing slip in 1958, has been elected the 22nd member of the National Jockeys Hall of Fame at Pimlico.

Westrope, who compiled the eighth highest number of winning races in history, held better than a 30-vote edge over Jimmy Stout, his closest rival for the honor.

Posthumous installation ceremonies will be held in Baltimore on Saturday evening, Nov. 20 in conjunction with the Maryland Racing Writers' Association's annual awards dinner.

Hoot Mon Son Brings $30,000 At Auction

The world-renowned harness expert paid $30,000 for Yankee Mon, consigned by one-time Yankee slugger Charlie Keller, master of the Yankee Farm of Frederick, Md.

Awards Program For Conservation Backed By Terry

Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., has joined the heads of four other East Coast states in supporting a new conservation recognition program.

According to the Delaware Wildlife Federation, Terry has sanctioned state approval of the National Wildlife Federation and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation effort to honor people in the state who have made outstanding contributions to the cause of conservation.

Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia have also offered support.

The Delaware Wildlife Federation will hold a dinner honoring the state choices at Wilmington's Hotel DuPont on Saturday evening, Nov. 20.

The Governor's Trophy to the outstanding conservationist will be presented by Lt. Gov. Sherman W. Tribbett.

Dinner tickets are on sale by Sparrows Clubs throughout the state and at the Wildlife Federation office, 1014 Washington Street, Wilmington.

Capt. Bill Bailey Explains Vietnam War For TD Club

"A great fallacy of Caucasians is to underestimate the Asian," Capt. Bill Bailey of the University of Delaware ROTC unit said Monday in addressing the Newark Touchdown Club luncheon meeting.

Returning last June after Army service in Vietnam, Bailey cited Communist tactics with the Vietnamese as three-fold—persuasion, selective terror, and collective guilt.

The average Vietnamese doesn't care who wins the war, Bailey said, but just wants to be left alone, with the provision of safety and a degree of freedom.

The United States is attempting to provide these two things while stemming the tide of Communism.

Horseman-Att'y-Gen. Dave Buckson Wins With Pair As Georgetown Raceway Opens

Delaware Attorney-General David P. Buckson—long recognized in harness racing circles as a competent horseman—more than demonstrated this to home fans at last week's opening of the Georgetown Raceway, newest addition to the nation's list of pari-mutuel tracks.

Getting up behind two of his own Purple and Red Stable candidates—six-year-olds Fabulous Wick and Coldwell Kid on opening night at the Raceway—Buckson had two rides into the winners' circle to the delight of a big delegation of home rovers.

With Fabulous Wick, the popular sportsman drove the first trotting winner of the meet, scoring the inaugural first upset victory, as the mare rewarded her backers with a handsome $19.40 payoff.

With pacing gelding Coldwell Kid, Buckson scored the handiest of the opening night's victories. Racing away from the No. 1 rail post, Buckson sent Coldwell Kid right to the front set all the early pace, and then put in a fast final half in 1:02.4 to win off by himself in a fast 2:06.4 mile—his top effort of the season.

Dave Buckson has every right to be an outstanding horseman. His 70-year-old father, Leon J., has for four decades been one of Delaware's ranking owners, breeders, trainers and race-drivers.

The home farm at Middletown has sent out such horses for class as Roger Key, Master Scott, and Castle Key.

Of all the Buckson horses, Master Scott probably enjoys the post of stable favorite of all time. Purchased out of the Rudnick auction sales at Dover for a mere $75 back in 1947 when purses were a far cry from what they are today, the gelding went out in his first year of racing in the Buckson colors to earn $14,000.

Today the Buckson colors are riding high at all the major tracks of trotting, behind the queen of the stable, Miss Becky Pick.

Home-trained the mare turned the Liberty Bell track in Philadelphia in 2:02; sizzled over Brandywine's half-mile oval in 2:03.2; and came away with a fast fall victory at the Meadows in Western Pennsylvania in a 2:03.4 mile.

To be able to take horses, train and condition them over the home quarters, then take them out to the big time—battle with the leaders at various tracks—match your skill with the reins against the talented driving ace—the seasoned professionals—and enjoy the skills of victory—is the final mark of a real horseman.

Greg Kracher Takes Dave Clauss' Pass For CHS TD In 12-7 Loss To Dickinson

Holding a powerful Dickinson team to single touchdowns in the second and third periods, Coach Bill Horney's visiting Vikings outplayed their hosts in the fourth frame, with End Greg Kracher taking quarterback Dave Clauss' pass for a 17-yard touchdown, and Halfback Mike Horney kicked the extra point for Christiansia in a 12-7 loss.

It was the 24th successive setback for the winless Vikings in their third football season, but contrary to another newspaper report that Christiansia has been inclined to "roll over and play dead for the rest of the conference," the Vikings have played some good, hard football without winning.

"When we do win," Athletic Director Carmen Leto said wistfully, "We're going to have a party."

That first win may come about this Saturday when the Vikings face the 2-5 Green Knights in Mt. Pleasant at 10 a.m.

Dickinson, 3-3-1 in the Blue Hen Conference race, was unable to score in the first quarter, but Quarterback John Wockenwies sneaked one-yard for a touchdown in the second period to climax a drive led by Carlo DiSabatino.

In the third quarter, Ted Zink ran 17-yards for Dickinson's final score.

"Defense" Features Terriers' Tactics For Delaware Tilt

"Defense" is the key word at Boston University this week as the Terriers prepare for their weekend trip to Delaware Stadium in Newark.

"Buffalo's defensive team was the difference," Boston Scout Dave Barnes said after witnessing the Bulls' 22-0 victory over Davey Nelson's Blue Hens. "They intercepted one pass and returned it for 90 yards, when it looked like Delaware was going to break a scoreless deadlock. And then from there on in, they controlled the game."

BU has a defensive unit which has come into its own the past two weeks and Coach Schmackel is hopeful that the "black shirts" can make it three in a row. Against Rutgers two weekends ago, the defensive unit held their opponents to 25 yards on the ground and a total offense of only 158 yards. Last Saturday, Connecticut was held to 46 yards rushing and a 135-yard total offense.

"So long as we can contain Delaware's offense," says Schmackel, "we stand a good chance of bringing home a victory." BU's offensive platoon rolled up 245 yards on the ground against Rutgers and 210 against Connecticut.

The Terrier scouts were impressed with the quarterbacking of Tom Van Grofski, and the running of Fullback John Spangler. Terrier coach, a sophomore, unseated a two-year veteran for the starting job and according to Barnes, "really runs with authority."

Delaware's traps, counter-traps, and passing, are enough to pose some 50 yard problems for the Terrier defense this week. They have proven explosive with 40-7 and 42-21 victories over Lafayette and Lehigh earlier this year, and in one game recorded more than 500 yards in total offense.

Schmackel is also confident that Nelson has "the book" on the BU team. Coach Jimmy Flynn of Delaware was a consistent spectator of the Terriers all season and has proven to be somewhat of a good luck charm for Boston. He witnessed victories over Tommy Buffaloe, Rutgers, and Connecticut, while missing the tie game at Holy Cross, and losses to Maine and Massachusetts.
