Dr. W. I. Sypherd Discusses Book of Job

Last Sunday evening Dr. W. O. Sypherd addressed the students of Women's College on the Book of Job and its significance as literature. He gave a synopsis of its contents, spoke of the many difficulties in interpreting it, applied the meaning of the book to modern life and illustrated the solemnity of the whole by an effective reading of the thirty-eighth chapter.

ATTEMPTS HOLD UP ON COOCH'S BRIDGE ROAD

Man With Shotgun Threatens Motorist from Bear Station

Another of the "hold-ups" so frequent in this vicinity recently was attempted on Sunday evening, when John Burris, of near Bear Station, a nephew of County Treasurer Walter S. Burris, was ordered to stop on the Cooch's Bridge road between the Experiment Station and Welsh Tract school. Mr. Burris at first heeded the order and slowed down his machine thinking some person in trouble needed assistance. He was confronted by a man with a shotgun whereupon he put on all speed and escaped despite a threat to blow out his brains.

Mr. Burris immediately notified chief of police James W. Thompson of this town, who deputized Osborn Banning and started in search of the culprit. They searched all roads leading from Newark to Bear Station but found no suspicious characters.

On last Thursday evening while "Bob" Wilson, a Wilmington huckster who makes trips to Newark twice a week, was on his way home, three Negroes attacked him near Harmony and robbed him of about $80 in cash, took some of his produce and then stripped him of all his clothes except his undergarments, ordering him to turn back toward Newark under threat that if he did not obey they would blow his brains out. Wilson obeyed and when he arrived at Newark was almost frozen, owing to the severity of his clothing.

NEWARK HIGH SCHOOL BOYS LEARN MILK TESTING

Inspect Model Dairy Barns on the Farm of Dr. Taylor
Young

The agricultural students of Newark High School have shown interest in the milk testing work which is being carried on in the agricultural class room. The boys bring milk samples from their home farms, from different animals of their herd and by use of the Babcock test the percentage of fat in the milk of each animal can be readily determined. When milk is sold on a butter fat selling basis a test of this kind is of great value since it enables the dairyman to determine which animals produce milk rich in butter fat. Most important of all, it enables him to pick out the cow which is giving milk of low quality so that she may be discarded. An animal of this kind does much in cutting down milk profits as she will lower the average fat percentage of the milk from the herd, and cause a lower selling price for the milk.

On Tuesday the class visited the farm managed by Dr. Taylor S. Young on New London road. The objects of particular interest at the farm were the new model dairy barn and the pure bred Hampshire pigs. These pigs while not widely bred in this state, have made some wonderful returns to Dr. Young. They have been exhibited in several places and have brought back several first prizes.

IVY CASTLE MAKES EXCELLENT RECORD FOR YEAR

Confers Degrees and Initiates Officers at Recent Meeting

One of the biggest events staged recently by Ivy Castle, No. 23, K. G. E. of this town occurred last Saturday evening when members in large numbers came from the town, from the county and from Wilmington to witness the conferring of degrees and the installation of officers.

A mixed degree team including members of the local lodge and a number from Wilmington cyries, in gorgeous uniforms, performed artistic floor work and gave an exhibition of the conferring of degrees.

The auditing committee reported a great financial gain and a corresponding increase in membership during Brother Heavell's term of office, the record during that period almost equalling that of Brother William J. Lovett, which was a record breaker. By reason of this fact Ivy Castle heads the list, their gain surpassing that of any other Castle in the State. They won, therefore, a prize, a box of good cigars, offered by Grand Chief Autman, of Wilmington.

During the evening speeches were made by Brothers Autman, Warrington, Ellis, Simpson, Ex-Senator Harris, of Glasgow, and others.

The entertainment committee had prepared an excellent report which was enjoyed by the members of Ivy Castle and their guests.

The following officers were installed:

N. C. Harvey Fulton.
P. C., W. V. Heavell.
H. P., J. T. Wilson.
K. of E., John A. Johnston.
C. of E., N. J. Brown.
S. H., William Taylor.
Rep. to Grand Castle, Ralph D. Edmondson.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS HAVE LIVELY MEETING

Will Soon Begin a Series of Entertainments for Local Post

Two new members were received into the local post Veterans of Foreign Wars at a lively meeting held last Monday evening at Center Hall. Steps were taken to form a Ladies' Auxiliary to the Post. An entertainment committee was also formed. Newark may look forward, therefore, to dances and vaudeville entertainments for the benefit of the Post which is rapidly gaining in numbers each month. They hope that all ex-foreign service men will get in on these good times and "join-up."

All mothers, wives and sisters of those who have seen foreign service are eligible to the Ladies' Auxiliary. They are asked to get into communication with Adjutant Le Due or Mrs. Le Due at the Deer Park Hotel.

LOCAL MAN HAS THRILLING EXPERIENCE IN FLORIDA

Encounters Huge Baboon in Wooded District Near Palm Beach

A story which inclines the "dear reader" to the belief that Palm Beach, still a part of the United States, is not the Sahara that the supporters of the Eighteenth Amendment intend it to be; or that newspaper reporters in that fashionable metropolis are blessed with imagination in keeping with the wealth of the winter population, appeared in a recent issue of the Palm Beach Post. Only the fact that a worthy and esteemed citizen of Newark, a man above suspicion, figures in the principal role inclines Newarkers to the belief that "there's something in it after all."

Feeding baboons at Palm Beach and killing fish with pop bottles in the waters of Lake Worth may sound like tales of 30 years ago, BUT both incidents occurred yesterday. The facts were reported by persons of unquestioned veracity and will undoubtedly be of certain interest to much of the populace of Winsted, Conn., famed as the birthplace of web-footed chickens and similar freaks as well as the source of many wondrous nature stories.

D. C. Rose and J. H. Ellison, members of the West Palm Beach Tourist Club, were fishing at the inlet yesterday afternoon when they observed a wild monkey or baboon a short distance from them. Holding out an orange they enticed the representative of our Darwinian granddads within three feet of them and then threw the orange toward him (or her). Close observation showed a vicious set of teeth and study revealed an iron band around the animal's 'midships, from which was hanging a short piece of chain. Descriptions of the creature when repeated to local zoologists indicated that it was a baboon and the detail of the band and chain partially identified it as one of the Stotesbury collection. After taking the orange the baboon disappeared into a swampy thicket nearby. It was thirty odd inches in height and presented a laughable sight as it sat "on its hunkies" eating the orange.

J. J. Malone, another winter visitor and ex-service man, was strolling along the seawall opposite the Salt Air Hotel with a young lady early last evening when he noted a fish nibbling at some refuse afloat in the water. His curiosity was aroused and a search was made for a rock or other missile to sufficiently startle the fish so as to show the variety. A pop bottle was the only thing that could be found and Malone's aim was so well and forcibly directed that a bullseye was registered. Upon pulling the fish from the water it was seen to be a croaker about 18 inches long. When Mr. Malone was asked for the name of the witness to the occurrence he blushing refused to state it.

WOULD HAVE ENERGETIC YOUNG MAN FOR PASTOR

Bishop Cook Considers Newark Strategic Parish in Diocese

Bishop Philip Cook paid his first official visit to St. Thomas's Church last Sunday. He celebrated corporate communion at 8 o'clock, visited the Sunday School for a short time at 10 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock preached. At this service he also confirmed a class of five, four of whom were the Churchman sisters, Misses Rebecca, Catherine, Dorothy and Caroline, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Churchman. The other member of the class was William Van Ehren.

The sermon was on the miracle of the loaves and fishes.

A congregational meeting followed the morning service. Both during his sermon and later at a congregational meeting held in the parish house Bishop Cook commended the work done by Mr. Haupt as rector of St. Thomas' parish. In his sermon he said the people of the parish are to be congratulated that they have had the services of Mr. Haupt, and that it was to be regretted that he finds it necessary to sever his connection with St. Thomas' to go to other fields. He spoke of his organizing the choir and building up the Sunday school.

At the congregational meeting called to discuss plans for getting a new rector, Bishop Cook presided. In opening the meeting he said St. Thomas', because of the growth of the colleges, was one of the most important in the diocese, and that he would like to see a rector secured who could build on the foundation laid by Mr. Haupt. He remarked that the "whole service today" demonstrated the good work of the rector.

In discussing the subject of a new rector Bishop Cook said: "I am eager and alert to secure a man who will take every foundation stone already laid and build on it and also strive to reach the college body."

He said he had received six or eight letters already relative to the rectorship, and that he was in communication with the bureau of the church in New York that is in touch with available men.

The bishop said while he did not propose to tell the vestry whom to appoint, he was anxious that the right man be secured and thought he should be a young, active, alert man to meet the requirements. He referred to the matter of salary and asked the vestrymen to figure out the most they could pay, but he laughingly added that they must remember the cost of living has gone up and the cost of clergy has gone up with the cost of the plumber, sugar, etc.

Bishop Cook intimated that if the parish could not raise the amount necessary for the salary of the kind of rector needed, the diocese might make up the balance, as the work here is really broader than just parish work because of the two colleges.

It was decided to hold a meeting of the vestry some time within probably two weeks that will be suitable to the members and also to Bishop Cook, to discuss candidates and possibly elect a rector.

As soon as the time is fixed for the meeting telegrams will be sent to Alfred A. Curtis, senior warden, now in California, and David C. Rose, another active vestryman, who is in Florida, telling them of the proposed meeting and its purpose. The telegrams will be sent in time for them to return home for the meeting.

One Hundred and One Attend Baraca Supper

Class Presents Birthday Gift to Member

Congregation Hears Candidates for Vacant Pastorate

One hundred and one members of the Baraca Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church enjoyed the monthly supper given by that organization in the lecture room of the church last night.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Charles W. Dunlevy, chairman, Mrs. Pierce Whitcraft, Mrs. Thomas J. Green, Mrs. H. N. Reed, Mrs. Ed. Steele, and Mrs. William J. Rowan.

A quartette from the Minnehaha Band furnished music and all played games and enjoyed a happy social time.

The occasion was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Charles A. Bryan. On behalf of the Auxiliary she was presented with a cake and a silver pencil. Mr. Chauncey Edwards made the presentation speech.

Rev. Hugh Rendall, a brother to Rev. James H. Rendall who was offered the pastorate of the church some time ago, preached to large congregations last Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

Reverend William Stewart, of Neshaunty Falls, Pa., a candidate for the pastorate, will fill the pulpit next Sunday.

Members of the congregation and friends of the church are all asked to be present in order that they may be fully informed concerning the candidates when the next congregational meeting is held.

Do You Know What Real Hunger Is?

Can you visualize the pitiful, longing look of a starved child? Can you imagine 3½ million starving children suffering through no fault of theirs but through the rapacity and stupidity of the fiends responsible for post-war conditions? Can you resist the appeal of these little ones who require so little of your plenty to keep them nourished until the next harvest?

Act upon that good impulse today and send a contribution of $10, sufficient for one child, or any fraction of multiple of that sum that you can afford. Mayor Eben B. Frazer, George W. Griffin and the two banks will be glad to receive your contribution.

The list of individual subscribers during the past week are, W. E. Thompson (Elkton Road), $5; H. Warner McNeal, $5; Miss Margaret Anderson, $5; A. F. Fader, $5; Edna M. Pader, $5; Dr. Charles L. Penny, $10; George W. Griffin, $10.

The Feet of The Young

O, for the feet of the young to follow
Over the hill and through the hollow,
Winged and laughing and bonny sweet
With April dancing of flying feet!

Young feet treading the path of life,
And wherever their dancing goes
A fig for the trouble and toil
A cheer for the song and rose!

They have not trod on the bruising stones,
They have not followed the road that means,
They have not bled; they are sweet and bright
With treading the path of dew and light.

Young feet, strong in their dancing glee,
And wherever they skip and run
The life unchained, and the heart that's free,
Wherever they skip and run.

A flash of morn as they swing along,
A dash of joy and a dew of song;
A bounce and bubble of joy and cheer,
And nothing to shake them with life's fear.

Young feet, over the hill and hollow
Chasing the fabled fawn—
O, for the feet of the young to follow
The rainbow beauty of dawn!

For The Homemaker's Eye

Peanut butter, many people think, is good for sandwich filling or for spreading on crackers and bread. It can, however, be used in a number of dishes that are cheap, easy to make, and very wholesome, according to home economics specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Moreover, these dishes have the rich flavor of the peanut without the pasty texture of the butter.

Food experts have known for a long time that peanuts are rich in protein and fat, two things that the body needs. Within the last few years these scientists have also learned that there are many kinds of protein and that only those which supply everything needed to make body protein can be called perfect or complete. These complete proteins are found in eggs, milk and meat. While the protein or peanuts is not complete in itself, it becomes so when combined with that of wheat. For this reason peanuts and wheat eaten together, even in a desert, reduce the amount of meat actually needed.

Peanut butter, in spite of its name, is just finely-ground peanuts to which salt has been added, and particularly when ground at home or bought in bulk, is one of the cheapest foods on the market at present, considering what it furnishes. Peanut butter can easily be made at home by putting through a food grinder fresh roasted peanuts from which the red skins have been removed. Salt can generally be mixed in more thoroughly if added to the nuts before they are ground. The machine should be adjusted to grind as fine as possible. If the butter is not fine enough after one grinding, it may be put through a machine, a second time.

Maple Cup Custard.

One-half pint of milk, one tablespoonful of sweet cream, one egg, one tablespoonful of maple sugar. With the quantities of ingredients mentioned, two cups of delicious custard may be made. The sugar should be scraped from the cake and then measured. After heating the egg and sugar together thoroughly, add the milk and cream. Then fill the cups, and, setting them in a dish of hot water, bake in a slow oven until the custard sets—say, about forty minutes. Take a little care and the result will be perfectly satisfactory.

Economized Plum Pudding.

This is equal to any plum pudding and is far less expensive. Mix together a cup and a half of flour, one cup brown sugar, one cup grated suet, one cup seeded raisins, one cup currants, one cup of grated carrot, one cup of grated potato, one-quarter cup minced orange peel, nutmeg, cinnamon and clove to taste. Steam three or four hours and serve with hard or liquid sauce.

Pumpkin Pie

Mix one cupful of cooked, strained pumpkin, one cupful of rich milk, one-half cupful of molasses and one-half cupful of sugar together. To this add two slightly beaten eggs, one tablespoonful of melted butter, a tablespoonful of ginger and one tablespoonful of salt. Stir all these together well. Have ready a deep pie-plate lined with pastry which has been rolled moderately thick. Fill three-quarters full with the mixture and bake until brown in the center. In preparing pumpkins for pies use very little water. Cover the kettle in which it is cooked and steam until very soft. Then uncover the kettle and stir constantly over the fire until the water has all evaporated and the pumpkin is a smooth paste.

Spiced Graham Pudding.

Take half a loaf of stale graham bread, cut off the crust and press seeded raisins into the bread to cover the entire surface. Make a custard mixture of two cupfuls of milk, two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg. Turn the bread in the custard until well soaked and the milk is entirely absorbed. Put into a buttered mold and steam, tightly covered, one hour. Serve with maple sauce.

Rye Muffins

Take two cupfuls of rye meal, two cupfuls of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, or less, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda, one egg and two cupfuls of milk. Butter the gem pan and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Cocoa and Nut Fudge

One cup brown sugar, one cup granulated sugar, two tablespoonfuls cocoa, one-half cup cream or milk, one teaspoon vanilla extract, one-half pound walnuts. Put into a saucepan the sugar and cocoa and stir well, then add cream or milk, cook till a little dropped in cold water makes a soft ball, stir while cooking, remove from fire, add vanilla and nuts, beat till quite thick and pour in buttered pan and cut in squares.

Club Cheese Sandwiches

Cut the bread in half-inch slices, remove the crusts, toast on both sides and spread with butter mixed with half the quantity of French mustard. Use as the fillings for each sandwich a crisp leaf of lettuce, spread with mayonnaise dressing, a thin layer of American cheese and a dusting of chopped onion and chopped cucumber pickle.

Planning Too Many Things.

It is an easy habit to fall into, that of planning to do many things and neglecting to set about doing any. There are many youths ambitious to help the world and to be of use at home, and to strengthen their characters by good deeds and thoughts; but they spend so much time planning what they are going to do that they never start doing anything, and hence all their plans come to naught. It would be much better if they would decide to put every good thought into action immediately, then something would be accomplished. Do you not think it would be better to carry out one plan to the end than to make a dozen and not carry out any?

KINDNESS ONE OF THE "DURABLE SATISFACTIONS"

Is a Little Seed from Which Comes Golden Harvest

This old world of ours needs all the kindness that you or I or any one else can put into it. Nothing that costs so little can give a greater return. Nothing is more limitless and nothing has a finer grace. It is as fine and beautiful in the humblest charwoman as it is in a queen. It is the symbol of a good heart. It makes one a member of a certain fine aristocracy, the aristocracy of the kind. There is a world of truth in these words, "Kindness is like the sun. Everywhere the kind man goes, he brings into being priceless things—golden sympathies, radiant faces, glowing and grateful hearts."

It is easy to prove this to be true in our own experience with life. It is easy to prove that kindness is a little seed from which there often comes a golden harvest. No one ever yet saw a truly great man who did not have the element of kindness strong in his nature. It is the outgrowth of a great heart. It is the attribute of something fine in one's nature. Never is it more graceful than when it reveals itself in the very poor and humble, and that is where it is often found in the greatest abundance. It is as fine a grace as a young person can acquire. I would look with suspicion upon any woman with a reputation for being habitually unkind. I think that kindness may be reckoned among the "durable satisfactions" of life. No one yet ever regretted doing a kind deed—no, not even when it has been unworthily bestowed. An old lady with the kindest of hearts once fed a tramp and in return he stole a purse containing a couple of dollars from a shelf in her kitchen. When some one asked her if she was not sorry she had fed the tramp, she replied:

"Why, no; being kind did me good, if it didn't him, and some day he may be sorry he took my purse."

The next morning the purse was found in the doorway with the money still in it, the tramp having thrown it there in the night. Kindness always pays. Its dividends are sure, and often we never know how large they are because of the way seeds of kindness have of blooming in other hearts.

A SONG OF CHEERFULNESS

Sing a song of cheerfulness
To brighten up the way.
Sing it when you labor,
And sing it when you play.
Sing it, if you're able,
No matter what they say.
Sing a song of cheerfulness
Every blessed day.

Just sing a song of cheerfulness,
"Twill glorify the day,
For the sun is shining earthward,
And God is in the way;
And heaven beams above us,
And the shining angels say.
"Sing a song of cheerfulness,
And sing it every day."

Sing a song of cheerfulness,
No matter what you meet,
Bring a joyful presence
To every friend you greet.
Confident in marching,
And hopeful in retreat;
Singing songs of cheerfulness
Helps to keep you sweet.

Sing a song of cheerfulness,
"Twill surely better prove;
Brave in all misfortunes,
No matter where you rove,
Fix your mind on duty,
And fill your heart with love;
Sing a song of cheerfulness
Trusting God above.

SIX SOUND FORMULAS FOR BUSINESS MEN

Six formulas adaptable to business men now passing through the "temporary process of contraction and readjustment," were recommended by Thomas W. Lamont, member of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., in a statement read in New York at a business men's convention.

"We are all feeling the discomforts of this process," Mr. Lamont wrote. "No one can foretell the duration of this process or estimate accurately its immediate and final results. Necessarily this period of uncertainty renders it most difficult in business to make today decisions that have a bearing upon the long future. Fixed formulas of conduct, policy and future engagements are hard to write. There are, however, some things every man engaged in active business can do:

"We can resolve not to be frightened into panic by the wolf that may not come.
"We can meet our contracts to the utmost limit of our resources.
"We can take our losses like good sportsmen.
"We can unfailingly be fair to our clients and customers.
"We can adhere just as rigidly as

DYE INDUSTRY MAKES BIG GAINS RECENTLY

Reports Recently Issued Show Encouraging Progress

The report of the United States Tariff Commission issued recently, shows marked progress in the development of the American dye industry.

The production of the various classes of dyes during 1919 was equal to, or in excess of our pre-war imports, with the exception of vat dyes other than indigo. The manufacture of these vat dyes has required the highest technical skill, long research and a large investment of capital and much progress was made in 1919.

The domestic production of indigo, which exceed the 1914 imports, the report says, is one of the most notable achievements in the production of dyes during 1919. Indigo ranks second in consumption in the United States.

Although the average price per pound for dyes during 1919 was the same as that for 1918, the consumer received better value for his money, as the dyes produced during 1919 were of a higher quality and in many instances were of a faster type than the dyes available during the previous year.

Production is 63,000,000 Pounds.

The total production of dyes during 1919 was over 63,000,000 pounds, an increase of 8 per cent in quantity over 1918, and 38 per cent in excess of the pre-war imports. An analysis of the figures for 1919 shows many instances of a decrease in those dyes which are relatively easy to make an increase in the dyes of better quality, and the appearance of many new dyes during the year. The domestic dye industry has been particularly successful in the production of those dyes for which there exists a large and constant demand.

The output of certain dyes has been developed to a point beyond the domestic consumption and large quantities of these have been exported, particularly to Japan and China. In estimating the significance of this achievement in the exportation of dyes it should be remembered little competition was met in foreign countries from German dyes. It should also be pointed out that any deductions as to the comparative strength for the domestic industry which are based on exports of dyes do not consider the fact that during 1919 the domestic production of vat and alizarin dyes was less than the requirements of this country.

TEN TIMELY THOUGHTS FOR 1921

The world will continue to exist. Business must move along. What is happening now has happened before.

It took ten years after the Civil War before economic equilibrium was restored.

Picture the state of the world's mind in the dark ages.

Men must hope.

There can be no progress or prosperity founded on gloom.

Those who are well must help the sick.

Those who have enough and to spare must help those who have not.

An ounce of good cheer goes farther than a pound of commiseration.—Life.

LOVE AND THE LIGHT OF MORNING

From the Atlanta Constitution.

A shelter rude and a crust of bread, But your hand in mine on the way I tread,

And the red blooms over the roses dead,

And Love, and the light of Morning!

A Sorrow, thrilling the lonely years, But your smile like light in a rain of tears,

And your sweet, firm faith, and your whispered prayers,

And Love, and the light of Morning!

And so we mingle, and so we meet, And shall—till the journey at last complete,

We rest, with the beautiful dreams and sweet

In Love, and the light of Morning.

On a certain Sunday a clergyman in the course of opening remarks of his sermon, explained how his preaching that morning would be on the brief side, as his manuscript had been torn by a lively dog that he happened to possess.

"So," he said, "I will continue to read my sermon from where it has not been torn."

As he concluded his sermon he apologized for the brief period he had been in the pulpit.

When the service was over, and most of the people had left the church an old woman came to the clergyman. "Your Reverence," he asked, "could you give my rector a pup of that dog you spoke about this morning? His sermons are too long."

Do Your Part in Raising Educational Standard

"By the time I finish I shall be in debt $800," writes Edward R. Gilmore in the January Boys' Life, telling how he obtained money for his education. "To have waited until I earned this sum before going to school would have delayed me several years. I can now pay it back in half the time it would have taken me to earn it then. I thus consider that I have saved at least a year in my life."

"Now, fellows, this little account of my experiences has been merely to prove to you that you all can get an education. You should all wish to attain a higher education both for your own good and the good of the community. You are not going to be satisfied with yourself in after years if you do not obtain that which is placed in the world for you. Here at your feet lies the chance for an education, now is your best and maybe only chance; if you are undecided do not make the mistake of dropping your education at graduation from high school. Grasp the opportunity offered you and with all that is in you, better yourself make this coming generation, of which you are a part, as successful as it is possible for you to. Do your part in raising the standard of your country. You do not need to have much money to do it; you do, however, need some."

"If you want an education, and you surely do if you are a red-blooded American boy, just make up your mind that you are going to get it and start out right now to put every effort into the task before you."

Roadside Nut Trees Help Mountain Highways

Michigan is the first State to offer a reward for planting nut trees beside highways. In Europe the profit from roadside nut trees assists in maintaining roads. Roadside nut trees abroad are protected from vandalism by public sentiment, and this is true of the nut orchards in the principal centers of production in this country.

FINDINGS ARE KEEPINGS

Girlhood days are not so far behind our young readers that they will remember and still possibly on occasion make use of that apt little phrase, "Finding's keeping." To the writer's mind it brings up remembrances of many a picnic expedition to the woods when one or another of the party joyfully swooped down upon some such treasure as a bird's nest that had tumbled out of its place in a tree, a blue-bird's feather, a lost pocketbook, or a pen-knife, and exclaimed joyfully, "Finding's keeping!" That always settled it. No one ever felt like disputing the discoverer's claim.

There is another little phrase that is even truer, though it does sound at first like a paradox. Giving is having. This means that the only way truly to possess anything is to share it with some one else. For with all things that are truly worth while we keep what we share. And the things we try to save entirely for ourselves are the things we lose in the end.

Think of some of the things we all look forward to having. Everybody wants to enjoy "good times." That surely is a very normal sort of wish. A "good time" is like a joke, it simply must be shared in order to be a good time. Then there is knowledge. We all hope to add to our fund of learning as we grow older, and we cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that knowledge grows by being imparted to others. Men and women who have given their lives to the profession of teaching tell us that the surest way to make learning our own "for keeps" is to pass along what we have acquired to some one else.

Our friends we keep by being willing to share their friendship with others. Nothing is surer to break up a friendship than attempting to keep a dearly loved friend all to one's self. Selfishness in friendships never pays. And so it is with all the permanent possessions of life. Our minds and our hearts and our souls grow by giving with a loving spirit—and in no other way.—Exchange.

PLANS IMPOSING INAUGURAL FOR NEW GOVERNOR

Committee Recently Named Announces Tentative Program

A brilliant inaugural has been planned for the inauguration of Governor Denney. The joint committee of the Senate and House at a meeting on Monday afternoon, mapped out a tentative program for the affair. Senator Allee acted as secretary of the meeting.

Tentative plans call for a parade of civic and military organizations, the inaugural in the Dover Opera House, a band concert on the Green and a ball at night in the State Armory. D. M. Wilson, of Dover, was selected as grand marshal of the parade. Mr. Wilson will pick a number of deputy marshals.

Preceding the parade, which according to present plans, will begin at 11.15 a. m., from the Green, Governor Townsend and the members of his staff will go to Governor-elect Denney's home and escort him to the Green. The members of the legislative committee will be present at Governor-elect Denney's home.

After the governor and governor-elect arrive at the Green the parade will be revived. After the parade the party will be escorted to the Opera House where the oath of office will be administered to the new governor by Chief Justice Pennewill.

The parade will be comprised of a military escort of 60 former service men, J. Norris Robinson's Philharmonic Band, of Wilmington, three hundred cadets from Delaware College, cadets from the State Colored College, the Young Men's Republican Club of Wilmington, accompanied by the Pennsylvania Railroad Band and other delegations.

In the afternoon the Philharmonic Band will give a concert on the Green. Late in the afternoon there will be a reception for Governor Denney in the Court House building. The wives of the various State officers will act as a committee for the affair.

In the evening the State Armory will be the scene of a brilliant inaugural ball. Madden's Orchestra will provide the music.

A general citizens' committee, under the chairmanship of Representative Ottwell, will co-operate with the legislative committee in working out the details of the affair. Each Senator and Representative will appoint one member of this committee.

For the inaugural ball Senator Allee will be floor chairman and Senator Murphy will be in charge of the music. They will jointly name a floor committee. Representative F. H. Davis is chairman of a sub-committee on refreshments.

What Shall be Done With the Immigrant

Somewhat more than a year ago The Companion printed a series of editorial articles on immigration. It was not then clear whether we were about to be inundated with a veritable spring tide of immigration, or whether the European peoples were going to stay at home to reconstruct as best they could all that the war had torn down.

That question has now been answered. Every steamer that crosses the Atlantic brings all the immigrants it can find room for. At least three thousand of them on an average reach Ellis Island every day. The officials of the big steamship companies tell us that we cannot conceive the demand there is for steerage accommodation. They declare that fifteen million people are struggling for a chance to cross the Atlantic.

So far the tide of immigration gives evidence of being somewhat foul and muddy. It is drawn chiefly from countries in the east and southeast of Europe—countries that suffered the most both during the war and for some generations before. There is among them an extraordinary amount of poverty, ignorance and disease. Ellis Island is crowded beyond endurance with men and women who cannot meet the by-no-means exacting demands of our immigration laws, and who must be deported. On some days half of the shiploads that arrive are turned back as unfit to enter the country. It is natural, of course, that the most unhappy and unfortunate should be the most eager to change their lot; and it is probable also that the European countries, though making every effort to keep the intelligent and able-bodied part of their population at home, are quite willing to see the less useful members of society drawn off.

Congress is considering a bill that will put a complete stop to ordinary immigration for a year or more. It is doing so from a reasonable fear that we cannot properly assimilate such a flood of immigrants, most of them from peoples whose languages, manners and modes of thought are remote from our own. We have had our warning; we have found out that a man does not become an American merely by landing in New York and getting a job. He is likely to bring with him from Europe his prejudices, his hatreds and his smouldering discontent, and all those things are more than ordinarily acute just now. He and his like rarely go out into the country; they crowd our already overgrown industrial cities and make increasingly difficult the task of maintaining domestic peace and national unity.

One thing, however, is clear. Whatever we do about the immigrant we must do solely from the point of view of society as a whole. Six months ago eager employers of labor were clamoring for more immigration on the ground that the labor supply of the country was absurdly inadequate, to day, with diminishing business activity, the labor unions are demanding that there shall be no immigration, lest the labor market be so crowded that millions will be out of work. Obviously, we cannot consistently regulate immigration wholly on economic grounds, for within six months conditions may so change as to make any such regulation disastrous. We must try to determine what sort of immigrants we can use and how many of them we can safely admit. Then we must exercise our right to keep out those who by defect of quality or surplus of quantity threaten our national life. America cannot serve the world by letting the world destroy whatever makes America capable of service. —Youth's Companion.

MAKING MONEY

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toil—some saving of their daily wages. But we submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have achieved a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

A word to the wise is enough. Watch your neighbors gradually rise in the world and then ascertain how they are doing it.

In nine cases out of ten you will find they have purchased their home or farm—often on easy terms—while their less enterprising neighbor is still paying rent.

WILL VOTE ON COUNTY BOND ISSUE SOON

Date Announced and Meetings Planned as Preliminary Step

The date set for the vote to be taken on the $1,000,000 bond issue for the building program in New Castle county is Thursday, January 20.

Announcement to this effect was made by Superintendent of Schools Wilbur H. Jump, at a meeting of teachers held at School No. 1, Sixth and French streets, last Saturday. Mr. Jump expressed confidence in the success of the loan, based on the results of similar elections in the special districts, Laurel, Lewes and Newark. The aim, however, is to have the vote exceed that of any of the districts that have voted.

The election will be held between the hours of 1 to 8 p. m. Ballots will be cast in the school houses of the county. One vote will be allowed to each dollar or fraction of taxes paid. Miss Jeannette Cann, of Kirkwood, made a motion, which was unanimously adopted, as follows:

"I move the present Legislature be notified that the teachers in New Castle county want the school law left as it is in its essential points; that any amendments the Legislature feels need to be made must not mar its efficiency."

A. R. Spaid, State Commissioner of Education, addressed the teachers on the need of better equipment in the schools of the county, and motion pictures showing modern methods of school room seating, class changes and teaching methods were shown. Miss Ruby Miller and Miss Ina Barnes, county supervisors, gave brief addresses.

Miss Ruth Jones, attendance officer, presented a report showing that for the months of September, October, November and December, the four highest school ratings for attendance were in the order given; McClellandville, Hare's Corner, Ogleton and Mt. Pleasant.

Meetings will be held nightly next week and the week following in the various districts, at which the benefits of the proposed loan will be explained by Mr. Jump, George E. Medill, president of the county board, or by other speakers. These meetings will be held as follows during the coming week.

Monday, Kirkwood; Tuesday, Newport and Richardson Park; Wednesday, Hockessin and Yorklyn; Thursday, Townsend and Odessa; Friday, Elsmere and Marshallton; Saturday, Glasgow and Christiansa.

During the week following meetings will be held as follows. Monday, Delaware City and St. Georges; Tuesday, Mt. Pleasant, Centerville and Port Penn.

HEPTASOPHS WIN FIRST OF QUOT SERIES

Down Knights of Golden Eagle with Score of 5-3

The first of a series of quito games scheduled to be played between teams of the different fraternal orders of this town, was pitched last Wednesday evening between a team representing the Heptasophs and one from the Knights of the Golden Eagle. The result was a victory for the Heptasophs who won three out of five. The games were witnessed by a score or more members from each lodge. Both teams did excellent work considering the little practice they have had. The referee was called upon many times to decide close pitches. Many tie pitches were recorded.

The features of the games were the good pitching of Davis and Porter and the management of the teams by their respective captains, Widdoes and Anderson. Referee, Hopkins.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH RECOMMENDS LEGISLATION

Maps Out Needs of State for Coming Year at Recent Meeting

The State Board of Health at its quarterly meeting last week agreed to ask for appropriations to maintain medical inspections of public school pupils. The inspections already made have shown that in too many cases the diet and the teeth of pupils have been neglected.

They approved the following legislation to be asked of the Senate and the House.

1. A special appropriation for medical inspection of school children.
2. A special appropriation for the education and control of the midwives of the State.
3. An act combining the office of the cannery inspector with that of the food inspector, increasing the appropriation, thereby employing a full-time inspector.
4. An appropriation so as to continue the publication of a monthly bulletin.
5. An increased appropriation for vital statistics work and to pay for filing and binding certificates, salary of a tabulation clerk, etc.
6. An increased appropriation for disease control work.
7. A change in the law regarding coroners so that the coroner will have to be a physician or else the coroner must have a physician view the body and sign the death certificate.
8. An act requiring that the annual report of the State Board of Health must be filed not later than March 15.
9. A change in the law requires physicians to report contagious diseases to both the State and the city boards, so that the report will be sent only to the city Board of Health.
10. That the act be repealed which requires notices of deaths and births to be reported by post card, but that the certificate be filed as promptly as possible, or within the ten-day time limit now in force.

Those present at the meeting were Dr. W. P. Orr, president; Dr. J. W. Clifton, of Smyrna; Dr. W. P. Haines, of Seaford; Dr. C. A. Ritchie, Dr. L. S. Conwell, of Camden; Dr. G. W. K. Forrest, Dr. E. Q. Bullock, Dr. Herbert J. Watson and Chester H. Wells, special commissioner.

The board will hold its next meeting on January 13.

Boys Learn to Kill Hogs

On December 20th, 1920, the Vocational Agricultural class at Lewes visited the farm of E. Brittingham. During the time which the boys spent on the farm they assisted in the operation of sticking, scalding, scraping and dressing the hogs.

Proper methods were studied in the class room and then put into practice by the boys in this field trip. Following up this field trip they will also learn the best methods of pickling, curing and preserving pork, and also the manufacturing of by-products.

This is truly vocational work for the boys are learning to do things according to the best methods.

WOMEN TO TAKE ACTIVE PART IN LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

All Organizations Form Fusion to Accomplish Purpose

A fusion of all the representative women's clubs and organizations in the State in support of the legislative program of the Delaware League of Women Voters has been proposed by the league and is meeting with widespread endorsement. The plan is to have each organization appoint a representative to co-operate with the legislative committee of the league in molding a concrete program of bills affecting women and children to be presented to the present session of the General Assembly.

The program of the league which will probably be revised slightly to meet the desires of the co-operating women's organizations recommends to the legislature the passage of school legislation giving equal educational advantages to all sections of the state with sufficient salaries for teachers to attract men and women of high capacity.

More Taxes for Schools.

A recommendation will be made for a larger state appropriation so that local taxes for school purposes may be reduced. Increased safeguards for women in industry will be asked for as well as legislation to protect women during the time of child-birth.

Measures designed to give adequate protection to children will be urged including measures dealing with the latest methods of handling the problems of juvenile delinquency. A bill will be urged providing for equal rights of parents in all matters affecting their children.

The league program favors the enactment of a state budget system and adequate appropriations for continuing the work of the state program. Increased financial support is also urged for classes in Americanization work under the supervision of the educational authorities.

The women's organizations in Delaware that will co-operate with the league in the effort to present a single program of legislation to the General Assembly include the state association of Republican Women, representatives of the Democratic women, Delaware State Grange, State Federation of Women's Clubs, and other like organizations.

To Ask Improved Conditions for Women and Children

The object of the league is to bring together all the women of the state without regard to political affiliations in a concerted effort to present a legislative program that will bring about improved conditions for the women and children of Delaware.

The league also endorses the program of the National League of Women Voters.

The national organization is at present concentrating its efforts on the enactment by Congress of the Sheppard-Towner bill providing for the care of women during maternity. This bill has passed the Senate.

The members of the legislative committee of the Delaware League of Women Voters comprises: Mrs. R. L. Holliday, chairman, Dover; Mrs. Charles Warner, Wilmington; Miss Ellen Samworth, Wilmington; Miss Ella Johnson, Newport; Miss Marie Lockwood, Middletown; Miss Cora Tschudy, Smyrna; Mrs. James H. Hughes, Dover; Mrs. Harry Humes, Milford; Mrs. Etta Gray Jones, Bridgeville; Mrs. Mae Kelley, Lewes, and Miss Lyla Townsend, Selbyville.

The following chairmen of standing committees are also members of the legislative committee: Dean Winifred Robinson, Women's College of Delaware, education; Mrs. Ina Perkins, Wilmington, child welfare; Miss Clara Southwick, Wilmington, women in industry; Dr. Margaret Handy, Wilmington, health; Mrs. Cummins Speakman, Smyrna, food supply; Miss Helen Hart, Wilmington, citizenship; Miss Sibyl Ward, Wilmington, uniform laws; Mrs. Allen D. Jones, Milford, election laws and methods, and Mrs. W. W. Harrington, Dover, research.

A Musical Reminder

John Murton was certainly a steady man; but he was a bit too steady for Clara Hopkins. They had been engaged to be married fifteen years, and still he had never asked her to name the happy day. One evening John called in a romantic frame of mind, and asked Clara to sing something tender and touching—something that would move him. After a moment's thought she sat down at the piano and sang an old ballad with meaning. It was entitled, "Darling, I Am Growing Old."

NOT MUCH HOPE OF PUBLIC BUILDING FOR NEWARK

Congressman Layton Reports Little Success with Appropriations Committee

According to a statement issued from Washington this week, Newark is likely to lose out in the appropriation bill now in process of preparation in the House of Representatives. Congressman Layton has made several efforts to induce Chairman Good, of the appropriations committee of the House, to include in the bill about $45,000 each for public buildings to be erected at Newark and at Georgetown.

Chairman Good, however, has bluntly informed the Delaware Congressman that the state of the nation's finances would not justify such an expenditure. Dr. Layton called Mr. Good's attention to the urgent need of buildings in which to conduct the Federal business in the two Delaware towns, and to the fact that the committee on public buildings and grounds more than two years ago authorized this work, but without avail.

This Congress, however, seems to be bent on economy, even at the expense of efficiency, and will not spend a cent which the public interest does not absolutely require. Dr. Layton told Mr. Good that it would be almost impossible much longer to get the Federal business in the buildings in Georgetown and Newark now used for that purpose but his appeals seem to have had no effect upon the dogmatic economist who is now at the head of the Appropriations Committee of the House.

"We are entitled to the buildings," said Dr. Layton. "They were authorized in due form, and while I believe we should exercise the most rigid economy consistent with efficiency, the government should take the initiative in building. People are talking about the backward condition the country is in with regard to both public and private buildings. It seems to me it is showing a penny wise and pound foolish policy to delay by false economy the revival of general building in the United States."

Of course Delaware is not the only State that will suffer by the cheseparing policy of the House Appropriation Committee. Buildings that would cost about sixty million dollars and give employment to many thousands of men have been authorized by the committee on public grounds and buildings. None of these can be constructed because the appropriations committee refuses to make the funds available.

Senator Wolcott has been asked by Congressman Layton to assist him in obtaining the appropriation needed for the authorized Delaware buildings and an effort will be made to include the items when the bill reaches the floor. If Dr. Layton fails in the House, Senator Wolcott will try to have the bill amended in the Senate. The Senator believes with Dr. Layton that the buildings are needed and work on them should not be delayed.

The site for the Newark public building was chosen long before the war, when it was expected to erect a Post Office on the site opposite the Delaware Ledger Building and the College Infirmary. During the war period the matter of building was allowed to remain quiescent. Since then influential men have urged that an adequate building for the town's needs be provided.

OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS

Another remarkable and gratifying incident in Delaware was the assembling at a luncheon at the Hotel duPont of some fifty of the largest taxpayers of New Castle county, who favor an issue of $1,000,000 in bonds by the county for improving the schools. It was generally admitted that many of the school buildings in the county are disgraceful affairs and a discredit to the county. Improvement is much needed. Rural New Castle county must keep pace with any other part of the State.

A number of special districts have gone on record by an almost unanimous vote for new and improved school buildings, and similar action, which would make the success of the State program certain, should be taken by rural New Castle. Rural New Castle would receive substantial help from the School Auxiliary Association should an issue of bonds be voted. It is carrying out the principle of helping those who help themselves.

One person speaking at the luncheon said that because of the condition of the rural schools in his neighborhood he was compelled to send his children to Wilmington. This, of course, is not as it should be. The school program for the State contemplates equal advantages and opportunities for children, no matter in what part of the State they may live. —Morning News.

ing? If it's in good shape then close your eyes and watch me.

After doing a little balancing act I at last succeeded in getting safely into the upper berth after skinning my shins. You need an elevator, not a ladder, to reach it. Talk about sympathy for the poor sailor at sea on a stormy night. What about the poor passenger trying to sleep in a two-by-four bunk with the car doing the shimmy.

It seemed as if I had just closed my eyes when some wing-wang came down the aisle, telling everybody that it was the first call for "breakfast" in the "dinin' ka." At least it sounded that way to me from the dark skinned Porter's lips. Well, now that's one thing I've never missed, although I've postponed it a good many times. I arise from my downy bed after squirming, twisting and going into a series of contortions in my berth, that would have done credit to a professional contortionist; I finally emerge victorious with shoes unlaced, trousers awry, and shirt partly buttoned and my hair looking as if I had just come through a football scrimmage. I then lie me to the wash-room, in which there are eight of us trying to wash, shave and otherwise make ourselves presentable at the "breakfast" table. All this in three basins. After being jostled around for ten minutes, I have succeeded in washing my hands (below the wrist) my face, (except the left ear) and capturing two towels. As the porter was hanging around, finding odd jobs and so-forth, I hesitated about picking up souvenirs such as towels and soap.

After having performed my morning ablutions I followed the crowd to the "dinin' ka". A wait of fifteen minutes follows, then I am escorted to a seat by the "dinin' ka" conductor, a bill of fare with prices on it that make you think they (meaning the R. R.) are trying to sell you the whole outfit and an order blank. After two minutes of deliberate thought, I order buttered toast, bananas and cream, and a pot of coffee with the air of a Grand Duke. Some more waiting follows, during which interval I look around me and give my neighbors the once over or the double-over, as you might say. In front of me is a little man who is secretary of a large automobile concern (I played cards—Rummy—with him and his wife last night). He has just received an order of grape fruit and I have prepared myself to dodge the deluge should he up and send a "bomber" of his delicious, luscious morning repast in my general direction. But I soon saw that here was an expert in the art of managing grape fruit. Beside him sat a thin-faced young man also like myself patiently waiting for "de breakfast." He was certainly not in favor of the service he was getting, for he continually made remarks concerning "the daily waiter." So I surmise from his expression of "bally" that he is an Englishman. But the most interesting character was the young soldier who sat beside me. Never before have I seen so splendid an array of colors and medals as that which adorned his manly chest. Just a few that I recognized will give you an idea of his valor in the past grand mix-up of nations. Starting with the top row near the third button of his tunic was a ribbon denoting his service in the Philippines, then came ribbons showing service in China, Mexico, Nicaragua, Hayti, an Allied of British, a French and last, but not the least, a Victory ribbon with six battle stars. A beautiful Croix De Guerre was below all this. Oh, I must not forget to give honorary mention to the expert Rifleman's and expert Pistol medals. A little conversation brought out the fact that he was a Top Kicker in a Truck Company. He appeared somewhat surprised that a little insignificant fellow like me had been in a combat division, after which he shut up like a clam about his experiences "over there," with which he had interested us. And could it be possible! It seemed I caught this way scarred veteran of five service stripes blushing when I openly admired his kaleidoscopic combination of colors and medals.

About this time the waiter condescended to honor us with his presence and served us with our "breakfast" which passed off very well without anything going amiss, except for the valiant soldier's mistake of reaching hurriedly for his "ham and" during which military operation he spilled his coffee all over his nice new uniform.

I then promenaded through the cars to the club car after being held up by the "dinin' ka" conductor, who must have been an expert highwayman before getting his present position. I am now safely and most comfortably seated in a large, soft, cushioned arm chair with a mild cigar helping to digest my "breakfast." I'm all right, except for feeling stiff and sore from my experience in that berth. I'll close now, wishing you the same.

As ever,
LITTLE SAMMY.

NEW CASTLE CO. FARMERS WIN PRIZES

Make Remarkable Showing in Recent State Corn Show

That New Castle County is the greatest corn producing county in the State was again demonstrated at the State Corn Show recently held at Newark. The showing made this year is of special significance, as over 2200 ears were on exhibition, constituting the largest corn show held in Delaware in recent years.

Out of sixty prizes awarded in the State classes, thirty-seven, or practically two-thirds of them were won by New Castle county exhibitors. Of the eighteen first prizes awarded in the State class, fourteen went to New Castle county. It is of further interest that in three out of four classes where the first prize ribbon was lost, samples from New Castle county were entered. The record then for New Castle county at the 1920 State Corn Show is that in only one class where she was a contender did she fail to take the first prize ribbon. In the open classes a total of $259 was paid in prizes of which $162 was won by the northern county exhibitors.

Mr. J. T. Shallcross of Middletown deserves the title of the Corn King of Delaware. He exhibited the grand champion ten ears of corn, for which he was awarded a pure bred male hog by Delaware College. He also won two sweepstake prizes, six first prizes, one second prize and one third prize.

Mr. Fred Trimble, of Hockessin, was a close contender, winning three first prizes, two seconds and two fourths. Other prominent exhibitors from the county were Roswell Shafer of New Castle; J. A. Hopkins, of Newark; Diamond Hill Farm of Newark; H. Seeman, of Middletown, and Fred Snyder, of Newport.

THREE EMINENT AMERICANS WIN NOBEL PRIZE

The recent award of a Nobel peace prize to President Wilson makes some comment on the contribution of the United States to the Nobel prize list. In proportion to our population and our culture we have been scantily represented. Only six Americans have been honored; none has been crowned in literature, and only one in each of the departments of chemistry, physics and medicine. And two of those three were born in other countries, Dr. Carrel in France and Prof. Michelson in Germany. Prof. Richards of Harvard is the only pure bred American who has won the coveted distinction in reward for his intellectual achievements. But if American scholarship and literature have no reason to be proud of the impression they have made on the Swedish distributors of Mr. Nobel's generosity, it is a different matter when it comes to the peace prizes. Three eminent Americans—two Presidents and a Secretary of State, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Elihu Root—have been thus honored. No other nation has done better, and in the case of the other awards it has almost invariably been a private citizen who has gained the prize. No statesman of the first rank except the three Americans has ever deserved the prize that is given for serving conspicuously the cause of peace; so far as we know none has ever been considered for it. That is good confirmation of our belief that the United States is essentially a pacific nation and that its foremost statesmen are interested, not in imperialistic projects, but in helping to bring about peace on earth and good will among men.—Youth's Companion.

"IT'S UP TO THE BUSY PEOPLE"

If the busy rich people watched and rebuked the idle rich people, all would be right among them; and if the busy poor people watched and rebuked the idle poor people, all would be right among them. But each looks for the fault of the other. A hard working man of property is particularly offended by an idle beggar; and an orderly but poor workman is naturally intolerant of the licentious luxury of the rich. And what is severe judgment in the minds of the just men of either class becomes fierce enmity in the unjust—but among the unjust only. None but the dissolute among the poor look upon the rich as their natural enemies or desire to pillage their houses and divide their property. None but the dissolute among the rich speak in opprobrious terms of the vices and follies of the poor.

"Leonidas!" exclaimed Mrs. Meekton, "are you aware that I was reading my essay on politics aloud to you?" "Yes, my dear," "But you went to sleep." Why, not? You removed every problem so completely that I saw no further reason for retaining personal consciousness."—Tolledo Blade.

STATE BOARD OBJECTS TO CHANGE IN SCHOOL LAW

Passes Resolution to that Effect at Special Meeting Friday

The State Board of Education, at a special meeting held last Friday, adopted the following resolutions with regard to the new school laws of 1920:

Whereas, The General Assembly of 1919 in regular session enacted the so-called new School Code, and

Whereas, The same legislature in special session in 1920, after a report of a commission, appointed by the legislature, had made its recommendations the new school laws of 1920 were passed by large majorities in both houses of the General Assembly, and

Whereas, The report of the Commissioner of Education for the first year under the new school laws shows marked improvement in the schools of the State; therefore be it

Resolved, That the State Board of Education go on record against recommending any further changes in the plan of administration and supervision as found in the school laws of 1920.

Be it Further Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to send a copy of these resolutions to each member of the General Assembly, and a copy to Governor William D. Denney.

He had been fishing, but with bad luck. On his way home he entered a fishmonger's shop and said to the dealer, "John, stand over there and throw me five of the biggest of those trout." "Throw 'em? Mental Trouble is Not Caused by Overstudy

Don't be afraid of thinking too much. You can't. "The more the mind does," said William James, "the more it can do." A great doctor—Dr. Boris Sidis—recently said: "In all my practice as a physician dealing with nervous and mental diseases I can say without hesitation that I have not met a single case of nervous or mental trouble caused by too much thinking or overstudy. What produces mental trouble is worry—emotional excitement—lack of interest in one's work."

So don't be afraid. Think. Study. Plan. Train your mental powers. You cannot overwork the brain as long as you allow it time to recuperate.

It is worry that destroys the brain—worry and fear and bad feelings and mental idleness.

WOMEN AND THE NEWSPAPERS

"A New Jersey judge has ruled that if a woman doesn't read the papers her husband has a right to get a divorce," says the Beaumont Journal. "But the women do read the papers. Just let a store advertise something that's been selling for $2 will be sold for ten minutes on a certain day for $1.99, and the police reserves will be needed at that store when the appointed time arrives."

Most women are discriminating readers. They unitedly favor sensible, informative, practical reading. Advertisements are practical reading, for they have to do with the expenditure of money.

No woman who is the buyer for her household can be a practical manager of her department unless she keeps herself informed as to prices. And to do that she must read the advertisements. What would we think of a buyer for the hat department in a haberdashery store, for example, who never bothered to inform herself as to quotations put out by the wholesalers and manufacturers of hats? What would we think of the candy buyer for a department store who was ignorant as to the ruling prices on sugar? Or the feed buyer who didn't keep posted as to the price of corn? The newspaper is invaluable to the careful and economical housewife, for by reading it and buying in accordance with the information gleaned from it she can save much money and be sure of obtaining better values for what she spends.—Dallas News.

The Reindeer

When Alaska becomes so cold that an ordinary Jersey cow would freeze solid without a struggle, the reindeer blows a cloud of steam over his shoulder and wonders when there'll be an end to the muggy weather. Nor is the reindeer dependent upon corn-filled silos and cottonseed meal for his winter ration. He asks only a chance to get out on the frosty barren, where he can scrape the snow from the frozen moss, and he'll obtain his own ration for the long eight months of cold weather. These are the attributes which make the reindeer the domestic animal of the natives of Alaska, to whom some form of animal industry is essential.

Realizing the economic importance of this unique animal, the Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, has established an experimental station at Unalakleet, Alaska. The new station has a grazing expert and a veterinarian in its personnel and it is supplied with a well-equipped laboratory. Its primary purpose is to serve the reindeer industry by assisting the owners to rid their heads of parasitic pests which have made considerable damage heretofore, and to obtain better utilization of the pasture by regulating the grazing lands. Crowding the herds into limited areas has encouraged the development of parasites and has lessened the reindeer's food supply. Reports received by the department indicate that the new station is already correcting these troubles. It is expected that a bulletin on the reindeer industry will be issued in a few months.

Five Years For Soldier Bandit

Homer Davis, who with two other deserters and their guard, left Fort duPont last June and robbed Frank R. Stanton Boys Join Liberty Bell Bird Club

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell had as dinner guests Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. William Little, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Little and daughter, Kathleen, Herman Little, Miss Lora Little and Earle Messimer.

The Girls' Reserve of the Y. W. C. A. of Stanton, under the direction of Miss Mabel Krall, rural secretary of the Y. W. C. A., held a meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. P. Dickey. The program of work for the year was mapped out, and chairmen of various committees appointed as follows: Scouting committee, Miss Esther Miller; outings and innings, Edna Taylor; service, Marion Goodwin.

The Stanton Athletic Association held a meeting Thursday afternoon, and voted to join the Liberty Bell Bird Club, the motto of which is "Protect Our Feathered Friends." The boys will build bird houses, and make bird shelter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pordham, of near Stanton, entertained a number of relatives and friends at their home on Saturday at a New Year's dinner. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Oliver D. Foote of Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pordham, Mr. and Mrs. George Boughman and son George, of Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haslett, of Wilmington, Mrs. Ada Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin F. Ball and daughter Dorothy.

LEARN TO ENJOY SMALL PLEASURES

"The people whom I most dread as guests," remarked a woman noted for her hospitality, "are those who have no capacity for small pleasures." Any one who is accustomed to entertain much will easily recognize the class to which the speaker referred. They are the persons who are restless unless something is continually "going on." They cannot enter into the quiet enjoyments of the family they are visiting. A walk, with no especial object in view, is to them the tamest sort of recreation. They cannot understand another's delight in finding a new flower; they wonder why you go out on the veranda to view a fine sunset, the arrival of a new book is a trifle beneath their notice.

Few of us use to the full the resources of happiness that are available. Happiness depends upon the treatment of what we have, and not of what we have not. Happiness is made and not found. The poet teaches us that if we would, after a certain age, find enjoyment in life, we must become again like little children, open our hearts to the healing influence of nature, and cease to despise simple and strife.

Detective William J. Burns was defending to a reporter his policy of silence in a bank robbery case.

"Remember," said the famous detective, "the case of Judge Bryan. Judge Bryan, you know, had a number of hams stolen from his smokehouse. He missed them at once, but said nothing about his loss to anybody."

"A few days after the robbery, a neighbor hailed him and said: 'Judge, I hear ye had some hams swiped the other night.'

"Yes, that's right," said Judge Bryan, in a low, confidential tone, 'but don't tell anybody, George. You and I are the only ones who know anything about it.'"

"A MAN AND HIS DOG"

It seems as if dog-stories, illustrative of the fidelity of man's closest comrade among the brute creation, were never so numerous among the news items as they are today. Probably dog nature has not greatly changed. The skeleton of a dog found covering his master in the ashes at Pompeii wore a collar that told how he had already saved the life of his master three times. Perhaps in the remote ancestry of that animal was the dog who met Ulysses on his return from Ithaca.

But the love of a dog for his master and the reciprocal affection break into the public prints increasingly. Here is the story of the aged man in Wisconsin, who, when he found that his dog could not be taken into the poorhouse with him, returned to the miserly shack they both called home and killed the dog and then himself. He could not think of a life apart from his comrade. A Boston man said forgivably "If they won't take my dogs to heaven I don't want to go." His thought was that of Bryant's Indian, who "thinks, admitted to that equal sky, his faithful dog shall bear him company." We have wondered what kind of dog Noah chose to go with him into the Ark. It must have been very hard to make an invidious distinction when they all wanted to go, and no doubt he wanted them all. Perhaps he took a pair of water spaniels.

WILL MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS WITH REGARD TO REHOBOTH

A commission named at the special session of the legislature to investigate conditions at Rehoboth and make recommendations at this session will advise the erection of jetties out from Cape Henlopen, which, it is claimed, will throw the current beyond the town.

B. F. Crossen, an engineer of New York City, was employed by the commission to investigate the conditions and make recommendations for protecting the beach and lighthouse. In his investigation he found that the present open space between the beach at Lewes and the new Breakwater forces a current of water from the Delaware Bay when the tide runs out, and it sweeps inward and tears away the coast for several miles. Either a jetty will have to be constructed to throw the water in another direction or else the open space must be closed by a continuation of the Breakwater to the shore.

TAKES DEFINITE STAND ON SCHOOL LAW CHANGES

Legislative Committee of State Teachers' Association Makes Position Clear

The Legislative Committee of the Delaware State Teachers' Association, at a meeting held in Dover last Saturday, adopted the following principles:

"In view of the possible enactment by the present legislature of measures affecting the public schools of the State we, the undersigned, a duly authorized committee of the Delaware State Teachers' Association, submit the following as a statement of the basic principles which we, and the teachers whom we represent, believe should be embodied in a State school law:

1. That to have a competent, well-trained teacher is the right of every child in the State.

2. That it is the business of the State to provide adequate facilities for the training of her teachers.

3. That it is the business of the State and local community, and their solemn duty in a democracy such as ours, to provide such financial support for the schools as shall guarantee to every child in the State equal educational opportunity regardless of his place of residence.

4. That the first consideration of every program of education should be the conservation of health. We, therefore, urge that in the basic school law adequate provision shall be made for medical inspection, school nursing and physical training.

5. That ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the head is so desirable that we urge that provision be made for the continuance and extension of the efforts in pre-vocational and vocational work that have been instituted in the State.

6. That the consolidation of rural schools, where practicable, is the best solution of most of the problems of rural education.

7. That adequate supervision of schools, both rural and city, is indispensable to their efficiency.

8. That it is the business of the State to provide adequate educational opportunities and to see that all the children avail themselves of these opportunities.

9. That it is the duty of every community to see that its teachers are provided with comfortable homes.

10. That ample provision should be made for the care of teachers who have spent their lives in the service by the provision on the part of the State of a retirement fund based on sound actuarial principles.

Realizing that upon the teachers of the State rests the responsibility for getting the final results in terms of better educated citizens, we believe that we are acting within our right in giving this expression of our convictions. We are committed to a program of service. Our supreme purpose is to promote, as best we can, the welfare of the childhood of Delaware. We, therefore, pledge ourselves to support in every way possible those measures that are designed to realize any or all of the foregoing aims, and to oppose with equal vigor such measures as we deem inconsistent with these principles.

College Battalion to Parade at Inaugural

An official report has been received by Dr. Hüllihen to the effect that Delaware College Battalion will be expected to parade at Dover on the occasion of the inauguration of Governor-elect Denney on Tuesday, January 18. Although detailed plans have not been announced as yet, it is the general opinion that a special car will be chartered from the railroad officials for the trip. All classes will be dispensed with for the day and every student will be expected to report in proper uniform at the designated time. Unfortunately the College band has not been organized and, as a result, the citizens of Dover will miss a big treat.

The Captains of the respective companies are busy whipping their men into some sort of shape, and intensive training is the by-word during drill periods. Everyone who can carry a gun is needed so that the Battalion can make a good showing "down-State."

Following the example of President-elect Harding, Colonel Denney has requested that the inaugural ceremony at Dover be as simple and inexpensive as possible.

Opera House Offerings

No Romantic Clinch in This Picture

One of the natural things about a Harry Carey picture is the fact that the final fade-out does not show the star and his leading woman in a romantic clinch. Life is not always that way and Harry Carey is too human to portray on the screen all the time what only happens in real life occasionally. An example of a finish that is different may now be seen in "Blue Streak McCoy," his latest story, at the Opera House tomorrow evening.

Nobody Stops in "Stop Thief"

The funny part about "Stop Thief!" Tom Moore's latest picture, is that he, or anybody else, does not stop from the beginning to the end of the film. There isn't even a hesitation, or the fraction of one in this rollicking comedy, which comes to the Opera House on Saturday. Everyone is trying to stop the thief but no one knows who he is, and if they did know it they would also know that even the thief is trying to stop himself. With two kleptomaniacs unconsciously aiding and abetting, the plot certainly is one that constantly thickens. The best part is that the audience is in on all the fun, and has the satisfaction of keeping a laugh up its sleeve in every scene.

Screen Treat is Promised

The local public is promised a positive motion picture treat in Louise Lovely's second picture as a William Fox star. "Partners of Fate," which is coming to the Opera House on Monday, is from the pen of Stephen Chalmers, an author of marked originality in theme and incident. In this new Fox play he is said to have outdone himself, and the staging of his work is described as exceedingly beautiful.

Wall St. Excitement Used in Photoplay

Interesting view of this nation's great financial battle ground, the heart of the Wall Street district, where the recent disastrous explosion occurred, are contained in "The Plunger," a William Fox picture announced as the attraction at the Opera House Tuesday. Photographs of the two extremes of Wall Street are shown, together with exciting scenes on the floor of the Stock Exchange—obtained by special permission.

"The Plunger" is said to contain many elements that add distinction to its well told romance of Wall Street. The two-million-dollar Long Island estate of a financier whose name is withheld was placed at the disposal of the producing company for some beautiful outdoor scenes.

"The Plunger" receives credit for being one of the most engrossing and well acted pictures in which George Walsh ever appeared. The star is seen as "Take a Chance" Schnyler, a millionaire broker who rose from the position of office boy.

Agricultural Education Pays

Effects of Agricultural Education is noticed in the results of student projects.

Each student in the high school agricultural department is required to carry a project in which he applies the things which he has learned. If the things which he has learned are of value, his yield is increased and if the market is normal his profits are increased.

One boy in the Dover department raised 99½ bushels of corn on the acre, whereas the average is less than 50 bushels per acre. One boy in the Harrington school raised 472 baskets of tomatoes per acre. A boy in the Bridgeville department raised 444 baskets of tomatoes per acre.

One of the boys in the Caesar Rodney Department had a total net profit of $581.67 with six head of cattle. One of the herd was found to be losing money and was sold for beef, so that this profit was really made on five head.

Education of this sort pays.

Delaware May be Represented in the Inaugural Parade

According to a statement issued recently by J. W. Smith, secretary of the inaugural committee, numerous applications have been received from organizations throughout the country for places in the inaugural parade. Among these is one for Governor Townsend and the National Guard. From present indications all parades of former years will be eclipsed if all the requests for space are granted.

GOVERNOR ENTER-TAINS HIS SUCCESSOR

Roosevelt Medallions Presented to Retiring Officers

The members and officers of the General Assembly and legislative correspondents met Governor-elect William D. Denney and other State officials at a dinner given in the du Barry room at the Hotel du Pont last night by Governor John G. Townsend, Jr. Eighty-four persons were guests of the governor. Arrangements for the delightful affair were made by Secretary of State Everett C. Johnson.

A large portrait of Governor Townsend occupied a conspicuous position in the banquet hall. The party sat at four tables forming the letter "E" and decorated with roses.

The dinner was preceded by an informal reception. An excellent menu was provided. John Norris Robinson's Orchestra played and Playhouse artists sang during the courses.

Lieutenant-Governor-elect J. Danforth Buch, on behalf of the Republican Women's Committee of the State and of the four convention districts, presented medallions of Theodore Roosevelt to Governor Townsend and Secretary of State Johnson with complimentary letters. Both were completely surprised and made brief responses.

State Senator James W. Robertson spoke for the legislators and after expressing thanks said: "Here's to John Townsend. May he live thousand years to sort of keep things lively in this vale of human tears. And here's that I may live a thousand years also. Did I say a thousand? No, a thousand and less a day, for I shall hate to have to live on earth and know that John had passed away. And when it comes his time to go he'll need no Latin chaff or biographic data put on his epitaph, but one plain line of English and of truth will let folks know the reverence and homage and gratitude they owe. He needs no other line than this—here lies the man who ran the best and brightest little State beneath the sun."

Governor Townsend introduced Governor-elect Denney and bespoke him loyal support, helpfulness and sympathy.

Governor-elect Denney expressed thanks for the welcome and congratulated Governor Townsend on his able and progressive administration.

He told the legislators and others the doors of his home and offices would be open to all.

Governor Townsend, on motion of Representative Richard Buckingham, was given a rising vote of thanks.

After the dinner the party attended the performance at the Playhouse as guests of Governor Townsend.
