20 Years Of Service

Arthur B. Eastman

Arthur B. Eastman, a member of the local troop committee, was presented a twenty-year veteran badge at the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America, Tuesday night at the Hotel duPont, Wilmington.

Awards Presented

The silver beaver award was presented to John W. Noble, of Preston, Md.; C. Lee Gill, of Chester, Md.; and George F. Simpson, of Wilmington. A record-breaking attendance of nearly 300 people heard Thomas J. Keane, national director of senior scouting, speak on "Scouting-Bulwark of Democracy," and saw the March of Time moving picture, "Young America," which was introduced by Westbrook Van Voorhis in person, the voice of the March of Time.

Edward R. Mack, superintendent of Wilmington parks, was also presented a 20-year service badge. The following officers were elected for the council: Charles H. Gant, president; Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, president of Washington College, and Frank C. Evans, of Wilmington, vice-presidents; Gov. Richard C. McMullen, chairman of the board; J. Thompson Brown and J. Edgar Rhoads, Wilmington; William B. Tilghman, Jr., Salisbury, and J. Wallace Woodford, Dover, vice-presidents; Garrick Mallory, Jr., scout commissioner; Harold G. Irons, treasurer; Walter Blackston, Lamont duPont, Jr., and Edwin C. Huber, of Wilmington, and William B. Tilghman, Jr., Salisbury, representatives to the National Council.

President Gant reported that membership of the Del-Mar-Va Council has continued to grow in 1939.

Boys At Camp

Members of Newark Troop No. 55, who, accompanied by Scoutmaster Vernon C. Steele, spent the week-end at Camp Rodney, were: George Loney, Oliver Suddard, Daniel Lewis, Clyde Baylis, Robert Doordan, George Hyde, Oscar Pickett, Neal Suddard, John Wells, Herbert Murphy, Manlove McMullen, Robert McKenry, Bradley Lewis, Harold Dayton, Mike O'Daniel, Daniel Boone, Oliver Suddard, George Knighon, Wayne Hanson, Sheridan Marshall, James Conahan, James Palmer, Paul Waters, Thomas Runk, Joseph McVey, John Tryens, Lynn Preston, Andrew Trivette, Thomas Lilley, Benjamin McCormick, and James Hicks.

A junior assistant scoutmaster's unit was organized at the regular meeting Monday night. Lynn Preston was elected president and Benjamin McCormick, secretary. Other members are: Henry Vinsinger, Thomas Griffin, William Balling, Frank Balling, Thomas Lilley, Stephen Gilligan, Reamer W. Argo, Jr., Andrew Tryens, Bruce Rankin, and Jam Hancock.

The group will be in charge of special instruction work and serve as warrant officers of the troop. Work will center around instruction in tests. A monthly session will be held for which guest speakers will be secured.

A moving picture benefit will be staged at the State Theatre Monday and Tuesday nights for the purpose of helping to defray expenses of operating the troop. The organization is sponsored by the J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10, American Legion.

Soil Conservation Passes
1,000,000-Acre Mark

Soil Conservation demonstration farms in the twelve northeastern states passed the million-acre mark this week, officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today. The Obyle brothers of Lehigh county, in southeastern Pennsylvania, own the millionth acre for which a soil conservation plan was made.

8,000 Farms Included

Dr. John J. Jones, in charge of Soil Conservation Service work in the region, said that nearly 8,000 farms are included in the million-acre area. The farmers in Delaware included in these million acres are centered in the demonstration districts in Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey. These farms are proving grounds where erosion control methods have been tested for five years under all kinds of soil, weather and farming conditions. The detailed plans worked out by farmers and Soil Conservation Service technicians on these farms are demonstrations of what can be done to check erosion on the 66 million acres of farming land in the northeast.

Jones said that erosion has already affected 43 million acres in

For Conflict

Henry R. Isaacs, Wilmington attorney, addressed members of the Newark Lions Club at their regular dinner meeting at the Newark Country Club, Tuesday evening.

Speaking on England, English People and the Present War, Mr. Isaacs unfolded intimate bits of knowledge and opinions concerning England, her people and customs gained from his student days at Oxford University and a recent three and a half month visit there. His talk touched on English traits, perspectives and problems. "In my judgment, said Mr. Isaacs, neither Hitler nor Stalin have any stomach for the present war. Do not be surprised if a peace pact is concluded in the surprisingly near future."

Among other reasons he cited the present inaction of the stock market as an indication that a successful peace move might soon be initiated.

Mr. Isaacs was the guest of and introduced by Wayne C. Brewer, program chairman of the meeting.

Dr. Earle E. Weggenmann reported on the trailer trip to Florida from which he and Lions Worrior and Staats returned Sunday. Lions C. Emerson Johnson and John Cunningham joined the trailer group in Miami. Postmaster C. E. Rittenhouse was the other member of the party.

President George M. Haney presided and made an appeal for aid to the Finnish Relief Fund.

J. Pearce Cann is program chairman for the January 23 meeting.

FUEL TAX REACHES
NEW HIGHDaniel Releases
More Figures
On Motor Taxes

The State of Delaware could be run for nearly three Pre-War years with the gasoline taxes paid in the single year of 1939 by the motorists of this state, H. V. Daniel, secretary of Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, disclosed today.

"In 1917 the state's total tax revenue was $780,805. During 1939 the motorists of this state paid approximately $2,179,000 in gasoline taxes to the state, an amount which is nearly three times what the state collected from all tax sources in 1917, the year that the United States entered the World War," said Mr. Daniel.

"Besides the $2,179,000 that Delaware motorists paid in state gasoline taxes, they also paid in 1939 nearly $900,000 to the federal government. Thus, our motorists' gasoline tax bill for the year totaled $2,779,000."

"These facts speak for themselves. They indicate clearly that the motorists of this state are being excessively taxed. It is almost incomprehensible that our motorists today are paying taxes on the gasoline they use several times more than the total that the state collected from all taxpayers before the World War," continued Mr. Daniel. "These facts show that the increased cost of government is falling heavily upon the motorists, a majority of whom earn about $30 per week."

"Add to this burden the undeniable fact that Delaware is diverting to purposes other than highway improvement a substantial portion of the gasoline tax collected and you have a combination of circumstances of a most unhappy character. Tax revision downward is clearly indicated as well as an elimination of diversion of tax revenues."

For March

George M. Haney was unanimously elected president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce for the second consecutive year at the annual dinner meeting of the body held Thursday night at the Deer Park hotel. Thirty five members and guests were present.

Council C. C. Hubert spoke on town affairs citing the financial status and progress made by the town during the past twelve years. He also gave a resume of the local building and improvement program for the past year.

Former president George F. Jackson addressed the meeting briefly stressing the importance of cooperation and whole-hearted support of the Chamber's activities.

The principal speaker of the evening was F. Allyn Cooch, area manager for Delaware for the 1940 federal census. Mr. Cooch spoke on the 1940 Census and What It Means. His address was highlighted by interesting facts concerning the average business man and citizen. Talking of the business census in Newark began Friday morning. It will take one man about a week to complete the enumeration in the local area, said Mr. Cooch.

Enumeration of the population in the state will begin about April first and it is thought that it will be completed in June.

Following the speaking program four new directors were elected for three-year terms. They were Alfred Deck, George M. Haney, George F. Jackson and R. T. Ware. Samuel Handloff was elected to fill the unexpired term of C. H. Budge, resigned. Directors whose terms expired December 31, 1939 were Robert J. Boyd, Herman Handloff, George F. Jackson and George M. Haney. Holdover directors whose status remained unchanged were George Danby, J. E. Dougherty, W. S. Hamilton, J. K. Johnston, Meyer Plink and Weldon Waples.

A directors meeting was held following the adjournment of the regular meeting at which time they re-elected George M. Haney, president, W. S. Hamilton, vice-president, and J. E. Dougherty, treasurer. R. T. Ware was named secretary of the body.

The report of Treasurer Dougherty revealed a substantial balance on hand at the end of 1939, 1940 dues and fees for Christmas street lighting were discussed.

The directors authorized the third Annual Merchandising Show to be held in the local armory under the joint sponsorship of the Chamber and Battery E, during the month of March. The exact dates will be announced later.

The annual Merchandising show, inaugurated two years ago by the Chamber of Commerce, has proved highly successful and constitutes one of the most progressive and interesting promotional features Newark has ever participated in.

Christiana Church Sexton

Expires After
Long Illness

Died At Son's Home

Ward V. Lindell

Ward Vandergrift Lindell, son of Thomas and Sarah Dickinson Lindell, a life-long resident of New Castle County and for the past 20 years of Newark, passed away at the home of his son, Marvin M. Lindell, of Smythport, Pa., Saturday morning at 7:25 o'clock. Mr. Lindell, early in December, went to Smythport from Sunbury, Pa., where he had been visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ira S. Brimer, to spend the Christmas holidays. Illness overtook him, however, and he died at the age of 69 years.

Mr. Lindell was employed by the National Fibre Company for nearly 30 years. His term of service was broken by a heart attack late in 1938 from which he never fully recovered. Late in 1939, he returned to his duties at the local plant, but after a few days found that he could not continue because of his health.

Mr. Lindell was a member of Minnehaha Tribe No. 23, Improved Order of Red Men, the Knights of the Golden Eagle, and the Heptasophs. For a number of years, he served the Red Men as treasurer.

Besides his son at Smythport, the deceased is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Hannah L. Brimer, of Sunbury, and two brothers, Andrew Lindell, of Marshallton, and Thomas Lindell, of Elkton. Mr. Brimer, now superintendent of the public schools of Sunbury, was formerly head of the local education system.

Services were held Tuesday morning with interment in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

W. S. HILL
EXPIRESDied Monday
Following
Heart Attack

Wilmer S. Hill, Wilbur Street, died on Monday following a lengthy illness, at the age of 63. He had been employed by the Continental Diamond Fibre Company for many years and was a charter member of the company band.

Mr. Hill suffered a stroke about a year ago and then another just before Christmas. He had been confined to his bed two weeks prior to his death.

He was past great sachem of Minnehaha Tribe No. 23, I. O. O. F., and a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company. Funeral services were held this afternoon (Thursday) from the Jones funeral parlor. Interment was in Newark Methodist Cemetery.

Besides his widow and one son, Donald, the deceased is survived by two brothers, Harry and Leslie, and one sister, Elizabeth, all of Newark.

John W. Moore Heads
Firemen's Association

John W. Moore, Sr., Christiana, president of the New Castle County Volunteer Firemen's Association and vice-president of the State Volunteer Firemen was re-elected president of the New Castle Association at a meeting held last week.

Other officers elected were James Thorpe, vice-president and treasurer; Frank Thorpe, secretary; Charles Canane, fire chief, and Fred Miller, fire recorder.

One Of Leading Decorators
In State Here For 20 Years

Forty-six years of experience, almost half of which have been spent in serving Newark and its vicinity, is the primary factor in why I. Newton Sheaffer, interior decorator, is one of the leading craftsmen in his field in Delaware today.

A native of Lancaster County, Pa., Mr. Sheaffer served an apprenticeship for three years and following this training proceeded to take special instructions in various departments of the craft for the next four years. In 1912, he became associated with a Philadelphia concern until 1920 when he decided to come to Newark.

Mr. Sheaffer did not come to this town a stranger for he had previously done work on University of Delaware buildings, including the original decorating on Wolf Hall, Harter Hall, Sussex Hall, the dining room at the Women's College, and repair and remodeling work on Old College.

Some of the finer residences of Newark bear the Sheaffer trade-mark for the local concern, equipped to handle any decorating job, has skilled workmen with years of training behind them. Other buildings that have been decorated by Sheaffer are the Newark, Havre de Grace, and St. Georges Schools, the hospital at Conowingo, and Lincoln University. During the normal season, five to eight skilled workmen are employed.

Full Line of Stock

Carrying a full line of wallpaper, including the Imperial, Mayflower, Loyds, and San-Krow Mura products, Sheaffer's is well-prepared to furnish anything desired in the way of home decoration plans at a fair price.

While competition has increased considerably since Mr. Sheaffer established his business here 20 years (Please Turn To Page 8)

CAMERAMAN
WORK HERE
ON MONDAYCommunity Life
To Be Depicted
On Local Screen
On February 1

Newark residents will be given the opportunity to see themselves as others see them on Thursday, February 1, when a motion picture of local residents and scenes, entitled "See Yourself and Your Town in the Movies," is presented at the State Theatre.

The local movie will be sponsored by the Newark New Century Club. There will be a special audience and two evening shows given. Tickets will go on sale here within the next few days. Proceeds will go into the New Century Club treasury for future disbursement.

Kenneth Roberson, a professional cameraman from the Amateur Service Productions, of Lancaster, Pa., will begin actual shooting of family scenes of Newark residents on Monday. He will also seek every historical spot, churches, clubs, factories and well known places of business for scenes of activity that may be of interest.

The religious part of the feature will be filmed on Sunday morning, January 28, when Mr. Roberson and his camera go to Newark churches to picture local houses of worship and their congregations as they enter and depart.

Scenes of University of Delaware and Newark High School buildings, campus life and individuals will be shown. Interior and exterior shots of local industries and business houses will be taken. "See Yourself and Your Town in the Movies" will be an entirely local picture taken in Newark, of Newark, and its residents and shown exclusively in Newark.

After the showing of the film it will become the permanent property of the Newark New Century Club, serving as an historical record of our community, and remain in their custody.

Serving on the New Century Club committee sponsoring the project are Mesdames Thos. D. Mylres, chairman, Chas. E. Grubb, Richard S. Snyder, Carl J. Rees, Milton Draper, R. T. Jones and R. W. Helm.

Actual filming of the production is expected to take about a week or ten days. When completed the picture will run about two hours and be packed with interesting highlights of our community.

CENSUS
REPORTCooperation
Received
From Merchants

"Excellent cooperation has been received in Newark from the merchants canvassed by George Reilly, census enumerator," F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., area director for the 1940 census announced yesterday.

Canvassing the business and manufacturing establishments will probably be continued a few more days, Mr. Cooch stated. A preliminary survey made for the Chamber of Commerce by George F. Jackson, former president, reveals that there are about 90 retailers in the community in addition to professional men and contractors.

"No one need have any fear in telling the census enumerator his financial affairs since he is sworn to secrecy and no other branch of the government, private agency or any individual outside of the Bureau of Census may see these returns," Mr. Cooch emphasized.

Miss Mary Hayes, of Newark, has been appointed to serve as clerk in the Wilmington office.

GRANGE OFFICERS INSTALLED

Conducts Rites At Newport

Newport, Jan. 17.—Officers-elect of Delaware Grange No. 46, P. of H., of Newport, were installed Monday evening by Worthy State Master Clarence E. Jester, of Milford, who was assisted by Mrs. Jester, and staff. Worthy Master B. B. Taylor, of Delaware Grange, welcomed the members and guests, including 50 Grangers from the local order and guests from Milford.

New Year greetings as issued by Worthy National Master Louis J. Taber, were read. Delaware Grange voted to send into the home of each Grange family, a copy of the "National Grange Monthly" during the coming year.

The Rev. J. C. McCoy, pastor of the Newport M. E. Church, is a patient in the Wilmington General Hospital, suffering from an infection of the nose. The condition developed early in the week, but complications set in on Thursday, at which time the pastor was removed to the hospital for treatment. In view of this illness, the Rev. J. H. Geoghegan, retired minister, of Silver was in charge of the morning service at the church on Sunday, and the evening service was dispensed with.

George P. Frederick, 77 years of age, suffered a paralytic stroke on Monday morning and died suddenly. Mr. Frederick had been engaged in the meat business here for approximately 50 years, and was still active. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith Palmer Frederick, of Newport; one daughter, Mrs. J. C. Slack, of Newport; four grandchildren, George F. Slack and Miss Alice V. Slack, of Newport; Miss Estelle Frederick and William Frederick, of Wilmington, as well as one sister, Mrs. John P. Mullins, of Marshallton, and three brothers, William Frederick, Prices Corner; John Frederick, of Centerville, and Harry Frederick, of Mt. Cuba. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. this afternoon from the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Slack, with interment in St. James P. E. Cemetery, Newport. The Rev. J. L. Sparklin, a former pastor at Newport, was in charge of the service.

Dr. H. B. King, state director of elementary education, was a visitor at the Krebs School on Friday, observing methods of instruction in the upper grades.

World's Temperance Sunday will be observed in the Newport M. E. Church on Sunday, February 4th, under the direction of the Newport Branch of the W. C. T. U. Mrs.

George L. Biddle, president of the Newport Branch, is chairman of arrangements, and Mrs. Marion Green, alcoholic educational director, is assisting with the program. Miss Hilda Emerson, assistant pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, Wilmington, will be the speaker at the evening service. Prof. Clifford Smith, of Wilmington, will have piano and accordion selections. Guests will be City Federated Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Adult Educational Classes are being conducted here under the direction of the Women's Club, of Newport. Newport is a center this season for the suburban cruises, and Miss Amy Gardner is instructor. Sessions are held Friday afternoon at 2:30 and Friday evening at 7:30 in the club headquarters.

The Town Board of Newport announces that practically all water meters within the area served by the town of Newport have recently been sealed. A new venturi meter is also being installed at the pumping station which will give an accurate account of water pressure and supply at all times.

Officers elect of Five Points Chapter No. 13, O. E. S., took place on Thursday evening in the Masonic Temple, Newport, at which time Worthy Master Mrs. George D. Baldwin, and the Worthy Patron Harold Emery were installed. The retiring worthy patron is Mrs. R. J. Thompson, of Richardson Park, and the retiring worthy patron was George D. Baldwin, of Newport. Mrs. Thompson was presented with a past matron's jewel, and Mrs. Baldwin was presented with a past patron's jewel. The installation was in charge of Mrs. Martha W. Krapf, past grand matron and her staff. Mrs. Thompson presented the past grand installing officers with gifts, in appreciation of their services in connection with the installation. Officers of the Five Points Chapter presented Mrs. Thompson, with a gift of a silk comforter, and complimented her on the very successful year under her administration. One of the many accomplishments mentioned, was the addition of six new members to the Chapter. Five Points Chapter also presented Mrs. George D. Baldwin, the incoming worthy matron with a cordwain spread. Mrs. Baldwin announced a rehearsal of the new officers for Tuesday evening, Jan. 23d, in the Masonic Temple.

STANTON GROUP TO CONVEENE

Meeting of P-T-A. Tonight At School

By Miss Emma S. Maclary
Stanton, Jan. 17.—The Stanton P-T-A. will meet on Thursday evening in the school building. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Charles N. Pearson, who is a graduate of the University of Delaware and a former high school teacher in Delaware. Mrs. Pearson will give a talk on "Recent Books in Reading." She will give glimpses of the new books that may be borrowed from the New Castle County library.

Stanton State Grange of Stanton sponsored a musical entertainment on Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall, at which time Cousin Sam and his entertainers were presented.

SAFETY HINTS

Many are the abuses of an automobile horn, and a good driver uses it sparingly. But there is one place where using your own horn may prevent an accident, the Delaware Safety Council states. Always signal your intention to pass another car. The other driver may not hear the horn, but he will see the signal. If he suddenly pulls out, or makes a left turn, an accident is inevitable. At night it is a good idea to flick your lights when passing instead of blowing the horn.

BUMPHES are more deadly than potholes. The Delaware Safety Council points out that the British fighting jets lost 2,100 men during the first three months of the present war with Germany. During the same period in England, traffic accidents caused 2,975 fatalities, many of them the result of blackouts!

MOTORISTS—When driving in the city, keep an eye on the row of parked cars at the right to make sure that one of them is not pulling out into the street—or that a pedestrian is not ready to step in front of your car.

ROCKSWIVES—According to statistics compiled by the Delaware Safety Council, the way to the hospital is through the kitchen. The kitchen is the most dangerous room in the house. You want to prevent accidents to yourself and your family, be constantly on the alert against hazards in your kitchen.

GILDA GAY

"Jeannine, I Dream Of Lilac Time"

By Nathaniel Shilkret and L. Wolfe Gilbert

Nathaniel Shilkret was born in New York City. His father, William, was a musician, so Nathaniel learned to play the piano before he learned the alphabet.

On January 1st, 1925, he organized and conducted the first great symphony orchestra broadcast with John McCormack and Lucania Bori as soloists.

BIRTH OF A SONG

By the time he was six, he had switched to the clarinet and had become soloist in a children's orchestra of seventy pieces.

Shilkret wrote a symphony and other music before he produced the popular song "Jeannine, I Dream Of Lilac Time." He scored over sixty major pictures in Hollywood.

His original copyrighted works earned him membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which licenses their use in public performance for profit, and protects them against infringement.

From ASCAP Files

by Joseph R. Fliesler and Paul Carruth

By the time he was twenty, he had become manager of the foreign and domestic musical departments of the Victor Talking Machine Company.

His original copyrighted works earned him membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which licenses their use in public performance for profit, and protects them against infringement.

FINLAND SHOWS UP RUSSIAN ARMY

When the historians write the story of this war, they will have many a knotty problem to unravel. One of the most interesting will deal with Italy's current policy. She is supporting the Finns against Germany's economic ally, Russia. At the same time she recently announced that she still stands firmly by the Rome-Berlin axis. The only way you can get much sense out of that is on the supposition that Mussolini has decided to keep his country out of war at all costs, while cementing her influence in the Balkans.

Also interesting is recent British-French policy toward Russia. For years Allied statesmen were kept awake nights by the fear of a Russo-German alliance—tall tales were told of the supposedly indomitable Red Army. Today England and France are actively helping Finland so far as is possible, and have thrown their whole moral weight behind the little nation. And, say correspondents abroad, it looks as if the Allies are no longer afraid of Russia joining Germany in military action. Some even say that the Allies might welcome this, as it would open a new front—the Allied high command apparently thinks it would be suicidal to attempt to storm the Siegfried Line.

One reason for this may be Russia's military showing in Finland. The Red Army, according to military experts, is a flop. Its high command is stupid, and its troops poorly trained, equipped and disciplined. And its airplanes and motorized equipment have fallen far short of the advertisements. An efficient army, such as the German or French, they say, would have taken Finland in less than a week.

NEWSPAPER FACTS

Some interesting facts concerning newspapers and advertising are contained in a book by Fred J. Haskin, veteran syndicator of information, from which the following are condensed:

Egyptians used advertising 4,000 years ago. Most early advertising was pictorial in character. The first newspaper advertising is said to have appeared in Germany in 1591.

It is estimated that about a billion and a half dollars are spent annually for all kinds of advertising in the United States. More than 360 American daily newspapers are equipped to print advertisements in color.

The fastest modern newspaper presses can turn out about 34,000 24-page papers an hour, and a somewhat larger number of 12-page or 16-page papers.

The first news agency in the modern sense is believed to have been that organized by Charles Havas of Paris in 1835. In 1840 he established a news service between Paris, London and Brussels, using carrier pigeons.

James Gordon Bennett began the publication of the first review of financial news in the New York Herald in 1835.

Newspaper editorials were originated by John Dillingham, an English journalist, and one of them got him into jail in 1645. Sometimes justly and sometimes unjustly, other editors have met a similar fate many times since.

In a suit for divorce, John F. Volez of Richmond, Calif., complained that his wife attended communist meetings and forced him to sleep in the chicken coop.

After his driver's license was suspended for reckless driving, Martin Pacheco, poundmaster of Santa Fe, pursued stray cats and dog on horseback.

Mrs. Helen Reynolds of Los Angeles complained that her husband, Raymond, spent all his spare time playing with toy trains.

Because "he didn't even want women to look at him," George Nikerson, of Colorado Springs, Colo., splashed acid on his face.

Joseph Baskey of Indiana escaped jail when he gave Judge Mark Rockwell 25 bushels of potatoes on his alimony account.

The third set of twins in two years was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan Merryman of Phoenix, Ariz.

By the recently probated will of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Paugh of Lebanon, O., was bequeathed a rolling pin and a potato masher.

A credit man is the fellow who directs that our orders be shipped C. O. D.

In Louisburg, N. C., the sidewalks are marked with stripes, two outside lanes for loafing and the inside for walking.

Molvie Sanjal VI, priest of a mosque in South Africa, knows from memory the Mohammedan bible, which contains 2,500,500 words.

Paul Revere of Red Wing, Minn., was recently fined $5 and costs for exceeding the speed limit.

A NEW STANDARD OF GREATNESS

LEWIS TEST—Matthew 20:17-28.
GOLDEN TEXT—Write me, we were yet sinners. Christ died for us.—Romans 5:8

The notions of the earth and their leaders are enmeshed in a struggle to determine which land and which leader is to be the greatest. They may attempt to conceal their real motive under a cloak of high-minded and well-sounding objectives, but essentially the reason for their struggle is the desire to be great. To them greatness means size, strength, wealth, and position. It means that also to the average man on the street. What a pity it is that such is the case and that such a vicious and erroneous philosophy of life has been permitted to make its way even into the Church.

The world's ideas of greatness are entirely opposite to God's standards. God's people ought to learn what His ideals of life are and to live in accordance with them even in an unbelieving world. Both they and the world would be astonished at the result.

I. Dying for Others (vv. 17-19)

With surprising clarity and detail the Lord Jesus once more revealed to His disciples that He was on His way to Jerusalem to die and to arise again. It is well worth while to note that apart from divine foreknowledge, and inspiration, it would have been utterly impossible for Him to give these facts in such exact detail.

The point we wish to stress is that the Son of God was steadfastly approaching the death of Calvary. He had no desire to live for self, to gratify His own wishes, to prolong His life, or to improve His position in the world. He had come to do not man's thing, the will of God, even to the shameful death of the cross, there to bear our sins and mine. Let us give ourselves in loyal devotion to our dying and risen Lord.

II. Living for Self (vv. 20-24)

Were it not written for us to read, we could hardly believe that the two disciples, James and John, who were so very near to our Lord, and their mother, who was a woman of earnest faith and sacrificial service to God, would be guilty of such an expression of selfishness, especially in that sacred hour when He had spoken of His approaching death. Disregarding what Jesus had said about His sufferings, they apparently could think only of His coming glory, and in thinking of that they could only covet for themselves the chief places. What a strange mixture of faith in Christ and an overwhelming desire for self-glory!

Perchance some of us have served Christ with a selfish desire for personal glory and position putting it self forward to influence our thinking and acting. Perhaps we do not see it in ourselves, but are like the other disciples who, seeing this hateful thing in John and James, were repelled by it, even as we despise it in others. It may be that the disciples were only angry because they had not thought to make the request for themselves.

III. Finding True Greatness (vv. 25-28)

"Rulers," "greatness," "exercise authority"—how modern these words from verse 25 sound! They epitomize the ambitions of the great majority of mankind today. Few indeed are those in the world who see the way to true greatness as that of the lowly Jesus. In every instance where they do rightly apprehend and live out this truth, one is satisfied that somewhere in the experience they have come to know the principles of life even though they do not know Him. Only in Him is such an attitude toward life to be found.

To be great one is to serve in the spirit of humility and self-sacrifice. This is the command of Christ. Even in the Church there are not too many who have heeded that word. If there were more of this spirit we would have less church quarrels, for essentially they root back to the desire for greatness. We may not admit that fact, but it is none the less true.

One wonders how great some of the pillars of the Church would look measured against the standard of verses 26 to 28. One wonders too how many of the humble workers of the Church realize their true greatness. Such greatness of heart is great simply because it does not so regard itself.

For Thy Name's Sake

But do thou for me, O God the Lord, for thy name's sake; because thy mercy is good, deliver thou me. For I am poor and needy, and my heart is wounded within me.—Psalm 109:21-22

Funeral Services Held Tuesday For L. C. Eastburn

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Leonard C. Eastburn, a life-long resident of New Castle County, who died at the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, on Friday.

Mr. Eastburn suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in a Wilmington store and was removed to the hospital where he died soon after. He was the son of the late Joseph and Ellen Chambers Eastburn and had always lived near Newark until he sold his farm last August and moved to Marshfield. For a number of years he was in the employ of the State Highway Department.

A member of White Clay Creek and Harmony Grange, the deceased is survived by a son, J. Buford Eastburn, of Marshfield; a granddaughter, one sister, Mrs. Nellie Wollaston, of New Garden, Pa., and four brothers, Warren, of Roselle; Jethro, Granville, and Ferris, all near Newark. Interment was in Red Clay Creek Cemetery.

HOME EDUCATION CULTIVATED APPRECIATION

HILDA RICHMOND

A cousin who had dropped in for a short call, volunteered, on leaving, to deliver messages, parcels or even the twins, to their grandmother in the town to which she was going. Of course the hostess availed herself of the privilege of sending her mother words of encouragement and greeting, but she said the children would not be able to go on account of school. However, the twins had some gifts for their dear grandmother and would be much pleased to have a chance to send them.

Inclined To Smile

The visitor was inclined to smile when she saw the array of gifts: a small bag of candy, a rather forlorn geranium in a pot, a ring from the ten-cent store, a new lead pencil and various other trifles representing small sums which the visitor knew had been hard to save up. When the children went out to fill a basket with apples to add to the collection, the guest asked if the mother did not think it a little too exacting to require her children to give when giving was really a sacrifice. No doubt Dottie would enjoy the candy, and the new pencil would be what Don would need in school, but there they were, going to a person who probably would not value them at all except as coming from dear grandchildren.

"Yes, she will value them," answered her cousin, "and she'll tell the candy and write Dottie how much she enjoyed it. You see she brought up her flock both to enjoy giving and to show appreciation for favors received, and I'm trying to follow in her footsteps. I'm so glad she taught us to give of what we had and to say what we could say, though in a childish way, to express either sympathy, welcome or thankfulness for those lessons." "But children learn those things later in life so why not let them feel free from all obligation now?"

Express Gratitude

"Please tell Grandmother that we picked these apples all ourselves and tell her we thank her for the good things she sent us last week," said the puffing Don. "Yes, and tell her I earned the pennies myself for the pencil by sweeping the walk and running errands."

"And please tell her 'thank you' for me," added Dottie. "The candy is from me. It's awful good. Tell her I didn't take a single piece out of the bag. And the very first letter I write when I learn how in school is to be for Grandfather and Grandmother. Please don't forget that!"

"And did you have a good time getting these things ready?" asked the visitor.

"Of course," cried the youngsters. "We like to do things for Grandfather and Grandmother."

The visitor helped load the things into the automobile and over the children's heads she said, "Well, Mary, I have always tried to appreciate and share my blessings, but I have never tried to teach my children these things. But it isn't too late to begin. I see that I have cheated them out of something very precious and enjoyable—but live and learn. Goodbye, children! I think your gifts are very, very nice, and I'll remember to give all the messages you are sending."

BOOK SHELF

"If you keep a thing seven years," wrote Sir Walter Scott, "you are sure to find a use for it." We have completed six years of these PLEASURES OF PUBLISHING and as we start the seventh we are encouraged to learn from Sir Walter that when another January rolls around we shall be useful.

Thomas Mann comes to our support too, as we roll the lucky seven on our typewriter. It was in The Magic Mountain that he remarked: "Seven is a good handy figure in the way of piecemeal, with a savour of the method; one might say that it is more fitting to the spirit than a dull academic half-dozen."

A book no one will want to miss is Kitty Fogle by Morley Chase. And if you think authoring a book has kept our Honorary Night watchman from his duties here on the Columbia campus we have only to quote to you this sentence from Kitty Fogle: "When a Princeton man first sees Columbia it naturally opens his eyes to all sorts of things."

The signature is in green ink, so the letter must be authentic. We refer to a letter just received by THE PLEASURES OF PUBLISHING from Postmaster General Fahey, thanking us for our assistance in stirring up interest in the forthcoming series of postage stamps honoring famous Americans. We told Mr. Fahey about Ted Malone's PILGRIMAGE OF POETRY and he writes us that "I am sure that this program will serve as a very effective measure in publicizing the Famous Americans series."

Speaking of the stamps, here are the dates on which they will first go on sale. Authors: Washington Irving and James Fenimore Cooper, Jan. 29; Ralph Waldo Emerson and Louisa May Alcott, Feb. 5; Mark Twain, Feb. 13; Poets: Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and James Greenleaf Whittier, Feb. 16; James Russell Lowell and Walt Whitman, Feb. 20; James Whitcomb Riley,

Feb. 24.

And speaking of the PILGRIMAGE OF POETRY, sides have now passed the 7,000 mark in less than a month after publication. As the year ended our statistical department passed out this further new year greeting about our radio publishing: Since November, 1937, when the first issue of TOWN MEETING appeared, we have sold over 60,000 copies of all our radio items—reprints of script, students' sheets, guides, etc.

Two others have responded to our inquiry about unusual street names. Rosa Dobbe of Coward McCann wants us to be sure to include Featherbed Lane, which is in the Bronx. It is now a busy shopping center and this puzzle Miss Dobbe seems, as she says, "Featherbed Lane does not suggest business to me!" She thinks the explanation would involve Dutch housewives, but we welcome further information.

Center McCracken of Otterbein College is our other correspondent and gives us an example of how the reputation of a street may affect its name. Early in the nineteenth century, he says, a street in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was named after Judge Jesse Fell, "who lived nearby and was the supposed discoverer of anthracite coal. Fell Street, however, became the haunt of the prostitutes and the name became so unsavory that the good citizens changed the name to State Street." This is all right with Mr. McCracken except that wherever he goes now he is suspicious of any street called State.

It was certainly a Merry Christmas for THE LETTERS OF RALPH WALDO EMERSON and, we trust, for Editor Ralph L. Rusk. The New Republic chose this work as one of the hundred notable books of the year. Time Magazine listed the Letters as one of sixteen books "which are already classics." The New Yorker gave it a hearty recommendation as a Christmas gift.

For history-making 1939, from THE PURPOSE OF HISTORY, by Frederick J. E. Woodbridge: "History is not only the conserving, remembering, and the understanding of what has happened. It is also the completing of what has happened. And since in man history is consciously lived, the completing of what has happened is also the attempt to carry it to what he calls perfection."

Three-day of Los Angeles complained that the book tried to make things into history.

At W. C. D. with Mary Lee

In Chapel—

Once again the students of Women's College were reminded of approaching mid-year examinations in Chapel last Thursday. Of course, we were aware of the examination schedule, and right now we're in the very middle of it.

Next to taking no exams at all, I believe I would prefer taking them at W. C. D. Why? Because we use the honor system and not the proctor system here. That means we can go out and have a cigarette with anyone at all whenever we wish. The professor, too, can leave the room during the whole of the examinations period.

Nothing Social—

With mid-year examinations running from this past Monday to next Wednesday, studying has come completely to the foreground. Some of us are finished with our exams today, and so will have a nice mid-term vacation—that depends on our own personal exam schedule. But the examination period doesn't officially close until January 24. The new term registration is on Monday, January 29, classes beginning on Tuesday.

Our Honor Regulations—

In conclusion I'd like to quote from the Constitution of the Student Self-Government Association of the Women's College of the University of Delaware our honor resolutions:

"The object of this Association shall be to enact and enforce legislation in accordance with the charter granted to the Association by the faculty of the University of Delaware; to transact business pertaining to the whole body of students in so far as it lies within its power; and to uphold to the extent of its ability the following Honor Resolutions which are adopted by each student when she enters the college.

"The students of the Women's College of the University of Delaware, in order to express definitely the spirit of honor which they feel to be existent among themselves, adopt the following resolutions:

(a) That we, the students of the Women's College of the University of Delaware, as individuals, do earnestly endeavor to do all that is possible to foster a feeling of absolute honor and cleanliness in our college; we do not tolerate any departure from strict honesty in any phase of our college life.

(b) That we, as members of the Association, shall be personally responsible for all of our actions in accordance with the system of honor at the Women's College.

FOOD for THOUGHT

By CHARLOTTE SPENCER
Nutritionist, State Board of Health

Help Your Child to Learn Good Eating Habits

One child will eat everything which he has a chance to eat at meals and another will pick over his food at meal time and then eat two or three times before the next meal. Their parents are usually responsible for the difference in the way these children eat.

The mother whose child eats his meals willingly has probably allowed this child to eat regularly, even through the frequent feedings of babyhood. This child has then formed the habit of expecting to eat at a definite time each day. Children should help to feed themselves as soon as they show any inclination toward learning. Many small children will enjoy eating lettuce, celery and carrots if these vegetables are given to them raw so that they can pick them up in their hands. Children old enough to have teeth who have grown tired of orange juice will often bite eagerly into a piece of orange or a segment of tangerine.

Pleasant meal times are a big help to good eating habits. Constant fussing and scolding will destroy the best of appetites. Most family troubles can wait for solution until the dishes are done.

Too many parents unconsciously develop a "sweet tooth" in their children. If the child is not drinking as much water as the mother feels he should, she may add sugar to the drinking water. If a child does not want to take his milk, a well meaning mother may add sugar or a syrup to that. Too much sugar soon spoils his taste for anything that is not sweet.

It is usually best not to force a child to eat. If he is not hungry, feeding will not increase his appetite. Food which he refuses to eat should be taken away without too much talk, and by the next meal he may be hungry.

It is easier to teach children to eat at meal time if they are not allowed anything between meals. For most children, fruit is the only thing which should be eaten between meals. Even milk is slow to digest, and many authorities feel that if it is given in the middle of the morning or afternoon it may spoil the child's appetite for his regular meals.

Americanism

The other day I met a man who talked for a long time on the subject of Americanism, and how much he was for it. And then a couple minutes later he began denouncing a certain religious group.

Now that doesn't make good sense to me. I'm not an authority on religion, or Americanism either. But as I see it, it amounts to this. We all worship the same God Almighty, but we don't all worship in the same way. Some of the ceremonies in your church may seem strange to me, and vice versa. One reason I am so proud of being an American, and grateful for the privilege, is that I can worship God in my own way, and so can you.

That's not true of many countries these days. But because I am an American, I can choose my own religion and my own church. I can even buy this space in the newspaper and "air" my own views, and nobody will throw me into a concentration camp for it.

I notice there isn't any church in this town that has a monopoly on decent, upright, law-abiding, God-fearing citizens. And I notice there are a few wormy apples in every religious barrel, so to speak. To me, that proves that freedom of worship is one of the finest things our forefathers handed down to us.

So let's you go to your church, and I'll go to mine, and the other fellow will go to his, and we'll all get along together. That's part of what "Americanism" means to me.

Mr. Medill Promoted
Charles L. Medill, of this town, has been promoted to receiving teller at the Central National Bank of Wilmington to succeed Robt. P. Robinson who has been made Assistant Cashier. Mr. Medill's promotion has been rapid having been in the employ of the bank only eight years.

Mr. Jacobs Leases Shops
The American Machine Shops, located on Cleveland avenue, has been leased by the local contracting engineer, L. B. Jacobs. The shops under the new management will be opened for business January 25, with Howard Leak as superintendent. The work of manufacturing Hot Air Engines will be carried on as well as general repair work. These shops are especially well equipped for this class of work.

Social Notes
Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of Mount Airy, Newark, pleasantly entertained a large number of friends last Thursday evening, in honor of the twenty-first birthday of their son, Norris J. Brown. The guests were entertained with piano selections by Mrs. Cyrus Chapelle of Moore, Pa., and Miss Irene Richards, Newark. Miss Clara Sterling of New Castle gave several recitations in a very pleasing manner. Games and dancing made the hours pass merrily. The dining room, where refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee, and fruit were served, was attractively decorated in blue and gold. At a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mr. Brown many happy birthdays. Many pretty and useful gifts were received. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. Adrian Van Overen, Mrs. Henrietta Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Othson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tyson will entertain about twenty friends at a dinner-dance to be given at the Deer Park Hotel, on Saturday evening.

Mrs. C. B. Evans, president of the Newark New Century Club, entertained the members of the executive board of luncheon last Monday. The place of each guest was marked by quaint little cards, brought by the hostess from Sweden, last summer. Those entertained were Mrs. Neale, Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. W. H. Evans, Mrs. Pilling, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Penny, Mrs. Richards.

Mrs. Delaware Clark of Washington, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Harriet L. Curtis.

Miss Martha Strahorn spent the week-end with friends in Wilmington.

Mrs. McCarthy and daughter of Massachusetts, are the guests of Mrs. H. R. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Porter and son, of Baltimore, were recent guests of Mrs. S. M. Donnell.

Messrs. Claude, Norman and Howard Collins, of Renova, Pa., this week visited their mother, Mrs. Jennie Collins, who is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee Rose.

ANTI-SUBMARINE WARFARE

TO FEED GREAT BRITAIN'S 50 million people, more than 150 ships must bring their cargoes to British docks every day—because Britain must import nearly all the food she eats. Hence, the first and most pressing defensive operation of the Empire's Naval force is to rid the sea lanes of German raiders out to sink these ships.

SWIFT DESTROYERS capable of attaining a speed of 45 land miles per hour are Britain's greatest offensive weapon against the German submarine menace.

HOME OWNERS FORUM
By ABNER GORDON
BEFORE applying paint on either block construction, allow the blocks to weather thoroughly for several months, so that the chemically active alkaline substances present in cement will be neutralized by carbon dioxide in air. This will prevent destruction of the paint film.
If immediate painting is necessary, artificially neutralize the cement blocks by washing them with a solution of 2 lbs. of zinc sulfate in 1 gal. of water.
Wall must be dried out before painting. Even after neutralization of surface areas when wall is slightly damp—water due to rain or excessive humidity—interior moisture containing soluble alkaline compounds will be drawn to surface causing injury to paint.
Apply 3 coats brushed on well to seal blocks against moisture, allowing for uneven absorption in priming coat by porous surface.
For priming coat 3 parts (by volume) soft paraffin white lead, 5 parts half and half mixture of raw linseed oil and lead mixture or lead reducing oil is recommended.
Follow with body and finish coats of 3 parts soft paraffin white lead, 4 parts lead mixing or lead reducing oil.
For colors, add colors-in-oil to paint mixed as above.
Q.—Suggest a coating for copper and brass to prevent tarnishing.
A.—A coating of clear lacquer will preserve the polish and prevent tarnishing for a considerable time.
Before applying the lacquer, wipe metal well with benzine to remove all traces of dirt and grease. Benzine is inflammable, handle with care.
Q.—Where can I obtain information concerning chimney and fireplace construction?
A.—Write to U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for farmers' bulletin No. 1230. The title is CHIMNEYS AND FIREPLACES, HOW TO BUILD THEM. The price, as listed, is 5 cents.

Take Care Of Your Floors
By Katharine Fisher
Director, Good Housekeeping Institute
Floors are underfoot and so must resist the continual grinding in of dust and dirt. Since we don't take off our shoes, as do the Japanese, floors should have a hard, resistant, easily cleaned surface. Dust and dirt should be removed regularly "to prevent its being ground into the surface."
Anything spilled on the floor should be promptly wiped up with a cloth or with soft paper, such as a paper towel. If rolls of dust collect in corners, or under beds or other furniture, you can remove them quickly with the vacuum cleaner or carpet sweeper. Then a rub-up with a clean dry mop will leave floors bright and shining.

The old rule of protecting the surface to save the floor is just as true today as it ever was, and so, whether the surface of your floor be linoleum, a felt-base covering, varnished, or waxed wood, you can avoid a shabby appearance if you keep the surface intact.
USE WAX FOR UPKEEP. Whatever finish or covering the floor has, wax is excellent for keeping it in good condition. Use either polishing or non-polishing wax. Every time you think wax is needed, apply a thin coat. The floor should, of course, be clean and dry before the wax is put on. If you use polishing wax, buff it well, when dry. An electric polishing machine makes this an easy job. Some vacuum cleaners have an electric-polisher attachment.

When dull or dark patches appear in hallways, doorways, staircases, or anywhere the traffic is great, attend to them promptly. First, clean the worn place with a cloth moistened with turpentine; then apply a new coat of wax, and buff well with the electric polisher or a weighted brush. Remember, though, that turpentine is inflammable, so be sure that there is no open flame and that no one is smoking nearby when you are using it. And safely dispose of the cloths used in a tightly covered metal garbage or rubbish can.

LINEOLEUM FLOORS. If you wish to keep your linoleum appearing well and prevent its wearing out, you must care for it properly. Here again, save the surface by protecting it. A non-rubbing wax is excellent and easy to apply. Put the wax on when the floor is clean and dry, and it will prevent dirt and grit from grinding down into the linoleum. The soil will remain on the surface and be wiped up with the wax when the floor is cleaned. Then apply a new coat.
Don't use too much soap and water when cleaning linoleum. Muddy and dingy spots on any floor are usually best removed with a cloth wrung tightly out of light suds. Never wash a floor with a streaming mop.

FELT-BASE FLOOR COVERINGS. Felt-base floor coverings, often incorrectly called linoleum, have designs printed on the surface of the waterproofed felt base. They are made into attractive colorful rugs, and can also be bought by the yard. These felt-base coverings are low in cost, and while they cannot be expected to serve permanently, they will give good wear if properly cared for. Water-emulsion or non-polishing wax is suitable as a finish on felt base coverings. Simply pour a sufficient quantity of wax on the floor and spread it evenly with a wax applicator. Allow the wax to dry before stepping on the floor.
WAXING NEW WOOD FLOORS. This should be done by an expert, and floors should, of course, be clean and smooth before being finished. If the floor needs a general cleaning, the use of an electric sanding machine is advisable. If only spots need attention, sandpaper may be used.
A wood filler or wax should be used to fill the pores of the wood before waxing. A little coloring pigment may be added to the filler to bring out the grain of the wood or to darken the color. Soften the paste wax, apply evenly, let dry, and polish with an electric polisher. Build up the finish with another coat of wax, and again polish to get a hard, lustrous surface. It is easy to keep a waxed floor looking well. Dust the floor daily, and treat it with a thin coating of wax now and then, as directed.

REFINISHING NEGLECTED WOOD FLOORS. It is usually necessary to remove all the old finish—whatever it may be—when a floor has been badly neglected. If wax only has been used, it can be removed with turpentine. Again, don't forget that turpentine is inflammable, and take precautions accordingly. If, after the wax has been removed, the floor is found to be badly stained, clean it with a sanding machine or sandpaper. When the floor is clean, smooth and dry, you may proceed to have it resealed just as if it were a new floor.
VARNISHING FLOORS. It is usually best to use an electric sanding machine for removing old varnish. This requires skill and should be done by an expert. When all the old varnish has been removed, and the floor is smooth, clean and dry, proceed as in varnishing a new floor.
VARNISHING NEW WOOD FLOORS. Although shellac is often used for wood floors, varnish is more resistant to water stains and scratches. It wears much better, too. A wood filler should be used to fill the pores of the wood before varnishing. Of course, the floor should be smooth, very clean and dry before the varnish is applied. At least two coats should be used over the filler. Quick-drying floor varnishes require a comparatively short time to dry; but be sure the varnish is hard before stepping on the floor or applying a new coat. The first coat should be sandpapered before another is applied. An extra coat of varnish where the traffic is greatest will postpone wear.

PLAYING A BIG PART in her anti-submarine war are Britain's own submarines, today equipped with new and improved underwater sound receivers—an sensitive that, lying in wait on the ocean floor, they can detect the presence and position of an enemy submarine operating miles away.

MORE DESTRUCTIVE now than ever before is the depth bomb, most useful weapon in Britain's anti-submarine warfare. A group of destroyers in pursuit of a submarine can drop several of these depth bombs over a wide area in a very short time with unusual effectiveness.
