Delaware Invited To Join National Amateur Network

On Sunday, March 19, the University of Delaware was invited through Amateur Radio Station W3BTQ to join a National Collegiate Radio Network. The network has its central control station at Purdue's powerful W9YB located in West Lafayette, Indiana.

The purpose of the organization is to establish closer relationship between colleges throughout the country. Schedules will be maintained with W9YB and other college stations within the network.

The REVIEW has been asked to join the network, for the purpose of exchanging news releases. The first release was received last Tuesday night.

News Dispatch From Purdue Via Radio.

March 20.

An Eskimo sport proved to be too much for two college boys in Indiana and almost cost them their lives. Attempting to shoot the rapids of Sugar Creek, a small stream near Darlington, Indiana, William Coombe, freshman at Purdue University, and his partner, Merrill Moore, of Wabash College, narrowly escaped death Sunday when their kayak overturned Sunday. The boat capsized when it struck a log in the flood water of the normally small creek. Three nearby youths rescued the unfortunate pair with a borrowed boat.

Received on schedule with W9YB.—W3BTU

The Delaware Collegiate Soaring Club has also been invited to exchange information with the Purdue Glider Club.

One of the primary objects of the network is to use the college radio stations; but, since Delaware's station is inactive at present, W3BTU in Wilmington will represent the school. All transmissions will be in code and will be kept on 7006 kc. at 9.30 on Tuesday nights.

Notice

The Spring Recess will begin at 12.30 p. m. on Saturday, March 25, 1939, and will end at 8.00 a. m. on Monday, April 3, 1939. No student may be absent from class or laboratory for two days immediately preceding or immediately following a recess. Such absence shall cause a student to forfeit his right to all unexcused absences in all courses for the remainder of the term.

Delaware Foreign Study Group Again Fears War Scare

Current war scares are again threatening the continuance of the University of Delaware Foreign Study Division. Late last October, the unsettled conditions in Europe made it seem necessary to recall all students abroad and passages were booked for them, but due to signing of the Munich Pact, they were allowed to remain.

The sixty Delaware students now studying letters and art in Paris and the additional fourteen studying foreign relations in Geneva may be called back to this country unless conditions in Europe become more settled.

The Foreign Study Plan was inaugurated by the University of Delaware in 1923, when a select group of eight juniors was permitted to spend a year at the University of Nancy and the University of Paris under the supervision of a member of the Delaware faculty.

German Group Discontinued
The Foreign Study organization effected in 1932 for a Junior Year in Germany has been discontinued "because of disturbed conditions in that country."

An Alumnae of six hundred members has been formed of Foreign Study students. The organization is called Delfor. Cable addresses in Paris and Geneva are also Delfor. kc. at 9.30 on Tuesday nights.

Humanists Welcome W.C.D. Press Club To Concluding Smoke Talk Of Year

Last Tuesday evening the last of the series of Smoke Talks sponsored by the Humanist Society was held before a large and interested audience. The subject of the evening was a discussion of Gilbert and Sullivan Operettas. The principal speaker was Dr. Squire, an ardent Savoyard. Dr. Able acted as Master of Ceremonies and a changer of records. He "amply" carried out both duties.

Dr. Squire spoke shortly on the famous Gilbert and Sullivan Collaboration, its peculiarities and phenomenal success. Following this, Dr. Squire read from Gilbert's "Bab Ballads" and also from the operettas themselves, pointing out by means of these quotations the reason the work of the two men has not "aged."

Music

The last part of the program was devoted to the playing of selections from various operettas such as The Gondoliers, The Pirates of Penzance.

Baseballmen Again Open Season With Usual Trip South

Curtain to Rise on Monday Against Bridgewater Foe; Coach Doherty Optimistic

By Bill Gerow

Delaware's frozen baseball team will depart for a six-game tour Sunday of sunny Virginia. With a reported temperature of 84 degrees in most of Virginia, Doc Doherty's nine is eagerly looking forward to the chance of practicing and playing under warm and sunny skies. Handicapped by snow and unusually cold weather the Blue Hens have been forced to practice under wraps.

The team's first game will be Monday when they meet a fast and peppy Bridgewater College nine. After a jump across the state the Hens will tackle Lynchburg and on Wednesday the Hampden-Sydney nine will be host to Doc's tossers.

Delaware will have four capable first string pitchers in Captain Phil Reed, Bill Deaver, John Daly, and Bill Tibbets. But it is doubtful as to which one will hurl the opening game as a curve ball has yet to be thrown in practice, due to cold weather. Big Bill Deaver will most likely be the opening hurler as he has shown the most advanced style to date. Hard hitting Earl Sheats is a fixture behind the plate, while his understudy will either be Harrington, Cannon, or Sadowski.

Flawless fielding "Spike" McCord will again guard the initial sack, while Amy Crowley, a freshman from P. S. duPont who has shown great form in practice will be at the keystone sack. His double-play partner at short stop will be the veteran Fred Mitchell. "Lunk" Apsley will again be in the hot corner. Apsley has shown a revival of form in hitting, and his big stick should be just what the Hens need.

Howie Viden will be in his same spot in left field, while the veteran Ernie George will again be in the center spot. Bill Duffy or Phil Reed, with the former most likely to get the call, will be in the right garden.

Mitchell, ss; Crowley, 2b; George, cf; Sheats, c; Apsley, 3b; Viden, lf; McCord, 1b; Duffy, rf; Deaver or Tibbets, p.

Mr. Edwin S. Ross Appointed As Aid To Drama Group

The Federal Theatre recently announced the appointment of Mr. Edwin Ross to the position of assistant to the University of Delaware Drama Group.

Mr. Ross is well qualified for the appointment. He is one of a family of actors who have been active in local dramatic circles for a number of years. Mr. Ross gained experience with the famous actor Walter Hampden who, incidentally, played in Wilmington last summer. He also directed the Robin Hood Theatre in Arden and has appeared in the majority of its productions. Consequently Mr. Ross is well known among theatre-goers in and about Wilmington.

In view of his past experience, Mr. Ross should prove valuable to the University Group in its work.

Since the University Group's founding five years ago, it has been very active in Delaware theatricals. The general purpose of the society is to study all the aspects of drama. Its particular functions may be classified into three categories: (1) the annual production of several small plays and at least one full-length drama, (2) the publication of monthly bulletins on subjects of interest to drama groups, (3) the assistance of theatrical organizations in Delaware and vicinity.

At present Mr. G. Taggart Evans, a resident of Newark, serves as head of the University Group.

The plays undertaken by the society in the past have been presented in Mitchell Hall and have met with uniform favorable criticism. Among the group's members, both now and in the past have been many members of the University of Delaware faculty, including Dr. Kase and Dr. Gould. The latter served as its president.

A. Henn, Field Artillery, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Colonel Albert Gilmore, Coast Artillery Corps, 641 Washington St., New York City. The inspection at Newark is part of an extended inspection trip for Major Henn.

Shaw and Baker Go Oratorical At Coll. Hr. Debate

At the freshman College Hour last Tuesday the first home debate of the season was held with Washington College. Delaware upheld the affirmative of the popular "pump-priming" question set down by the Phi Kappa Delta National Forensic fraternity—Resolved, That the United States should Cease to use Public Funds (including credit) for the purpose of Stimulating Business. The Oregon Plan of non-decision debate was used.

Mr. William Eisentrob and Mr. Harry J. Hickey represented Washington College, giving the constructive address and cross-examination respectively.

The Delaware debaters were W. G. Shaw, constructive address and G. W. Baker, cross-examination. This was Shaw's initial attempt at collegiate debate, while Baker has been a mainstay of the Debating Society for the last four years.

Dr. George H. Ryden, Head of the Department of History, presided as chairman.

Dean's Honor Roll Report Reveals Delaware College Average Now 1.07

The scholastic report for Delaware College for the first semester of 1938-1939 has just been completed by Dean G. E. Dutton. Eighty-nine students, who earned an average grade of B or better, have been placed on the Honor Roll. Joe Mendenhall, new co-editor of the REVIEW, and Reid Stearns, engineer, had perfect averages.

The class averages were: Senior 1.68; Junior 1.28; Sophomore .96; Freshman .80. The average of students who are not members of fraternities was 1.29; the average of students who are members of fraternities was 1.07. The average scholastic standing of each of the fraternities was: Sigma Tau Phi 1.43; Sigma Nu 1.20; Kappa Alpha 1.18; Theta Chi .97; Sigma Phi Epsilon .84.

Minor Sports

No one will deny that athletics form an important part of college life. Athletic success is not only the largest single factor in the development of school spirit and pride in one's own college, but is also probably the best advertisement a school can have.

Often the tendency is to over-estimate the importance of athletics. This is particularly the case of several large middle-Western universities.

The athletic problem at Delaware is peculiar.

It is a problem of indifference.

Many of those who participate in minor sports—golf, tennis and rifle—feel that they are not receiving either the notice or the support they deserve from the student body. They feel that the Athletic Council is indifferent to their needs. They feel that they are being crowded into the background. And they object to it.

As one minor sportman said it, "We don't ask for a campus-wide jamboree to reward us—all we want is a Varsity letter of which we may be proud, instead of a paper-thin penwiper with which the Athletic Council so magnanimously awards us under the present system."

Spring recess, gentlemen, should give everyone an opportunity to catch up and overtake their lessons—of that there can be no manner of doubt, no possible, probable shadow of doubt, no possible doubt whatever.

ONE AT A TIME

By ANDY CHAMBERS

Editor's Note—This week's One At A Time is written by Andy Chambers. Andy did not know he was going to write the column until a half hour before the REVIEW went to press. It was written under terrific pressure—terrific pressure, gentlemen!

There is one fraternity at the University of Delaware into which you cannot be "rushed." No one will slap you on the back, tell you what a swell fellow you are. It has no house on the campus, gives no house parties, and is mentioned in the REVIEW only about once a year. However, membership in this fraternity is one of the greatest honors that can be bestowed on anyone in the college, if not the greatest. You never hear about this fraternity until the Spring of your Freshman year. And then perhaps you do not have a clear idea of its purpose. The information, unfortunately, is presented only on the College Bulletin and there it is very sketchy.

Therefore it is the object of this short article to give you a clear understanding of this fraternity's organization and function, and how its members are elected.

This fraternity is a national fraternity with an approximate membership of sixty colleges which are scattered throughout the country. A local chapter was established at Delaware a number of years ago. It is purely an honorary one, and the basis of election are scholastic achievement and character. At the end of the second half of each term, the seniors whose grades over the preceding three and one-half years are high enough are considered for election. The local chapter here proceeds to elect certain members who are in the opinion of the committee in charge worthy of entering its ranks.

The chairman of the local committee's chapter at this time is Dr. Carl J. Rees.

Election to this fraternity makes one eligible for a scholarship amounting to about five hundred dollars. The number of scholarships offered varies from year to year, and are awarded on a national basis. The scholarships are given to deserving candidates in order to aid them to continue work in graduate school.

Two years ago Miss Mason, a student at the Women's College, received one of these scholarships.

Last year a member of our present teaching staff, Mr. Daniel Barry, received first honorable mention. This is a testament to Mr. Barry's ability, since the national fraternity is very careful to see that scholarships are fairly distributed among the colleges in its organization.

The organ of the society is published quarterly. A year's subscription to it, and the society badge is included in the initiation fee of membership. A central office is maintained at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

The badge is an eight-rayed representation of the sun surrounding the earth, across which there is a band displaying the letters of the society. It is usually worn in the form of a key, but may also be worn as a button or pen.

You are probably wondering what the name of this fraternity is.
 It is the Phi Kappa Phi.

During the past week several elections important to college activities were held. May Day preparations are being continued with the nominations and final elections of the class representatives to the court which will attend the exercises that will take place on May 13. Bea Blackwell, a senior, will preside as queen and her senior attendants are the following: maid of honor, Peg Hogan; duchess, Ruth Warrington; attendant, Joan Davis; the second attendant will be chosen from Lois Kneas and Fran Thompson, the nominees for the place. Theresa Schreppler, Lillian Marshall, and Doris Jolls are the duchesses from the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes respectively; attendants for these girls are being elected from the following group of candidates: junior class, Jeanne Remington, Mary White, and Ann Kline; sophomore class, Jean Pratt, Helen Pierson, and June Groves; and freshman class, Janet Balster, Ada Johnson, and Harriet Boone.

Staff members for the Blue and Gold year book, the bi-ennial publication of the junior and senior classes were held in chapel on Thursday. Candidates for the numerous positions were presented after a panel had been drawn up from the student body nominations by a committee consisting of Miss Edith McDougle and Miss Anna J. deArmond, faculty members of the committee on publications and the presidents of the present sophomore and junior classes. Elections were made from the following panel: Editor-in-chief, Jane Trent, Betty Hellen, Jean Motherall; Business manager, Grace Schockley, Sara Robinson, Anne Harrison; Literary editor, Betty Whitenack, Sara Baldwin, Mina Press; Art editor, Anne Kline, Edith Counahan, Georgiana Brimijoin; Photography editor, Virginia Rupert, Betty Hearn, Sally Dickinson; and Advertising manager, June Groves, Helen Adams, and Mary Lee Schuster.

Various opportunities in the field of home economics which are open to women were discussed by Miss H. Chapman from the Drexel Institute of Philadelphia at the meeting of the Home Economics club held on March 22 at Women's College. Ruth Koster, vice-president of the club, poured at the tea preceding the formal meeting during which Miss Chapman, who illustrated her talk with cardboard models, advocated some ten particular fields open to college graduates.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

More Propaganda . . .
To the Editor:
I have read with interest the recent publicity relative to College Hour programs, particularly pertaining to comments under the caption "Propaganda."

Certainly the articles in the issue of March 10th were a credit to the use of that word, and the entire publication reeked with "Propaganda" of a decidedly radical flavor.

You may or may not have a radical youth organization on the campus of the University of Delaware, but this is true of several other colleges.

The so-called liberal or slightly left-wing student invariably tries to get on the staff of the school paper. That usually accounts for the American Legion receiving bad publicity in the columns of college publications.

"These students forget that the American Legion is nothing more than a cross section of the citizens of our nation who happened to be at the right age to be called into service in defense of this nation during the War, and that that cross section of citizens making up the Legion is absolutely no different than a cross section of any other age. It would not be amiss even today for the best students to live up to some of the spirit of service and sacrifice rendered by those who left their campus in 1917 and 1918 to defend everything which is good in America."

Students of all universities can well listen to the men of middle age who individually or collectively carry out the following principles.

"For God and Country we associate ourselves—to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America—to foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism—to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the Community, State, and Nation."

Did it ever occur to these students that some of these men could help in their grievances?

The first duty of any student of our schools, colleges, and other educational institutions, is to be true and loyal to their community and the America that has made their many advantages possible.

"Propaganda" is a word so commonly used by those who would condemn the principles of "Justice, freedom and democracy" and the things all good Americans live for —that it is becoming a social phenomenon.

When they see who signed this, you'll probably have to work nights on the comments, so here's wishing you lots of luck.

The Light That Failed . . .
Dear Editor,

I do not know whether Miss McCoy (Torchy) read the signs of the times and gracefully withdrew from the "vengeance to come" or whether she was asked to discontinue her Gistian-Becomian drive by the new regime. That is immaterial for the fact remains that she is no longer with us. Literally, the torch has burned out. This is one torch we hope will not be handed on to eager feminine hands.

Sincerely
A. Chambers, Jr.

Dear Editor:

There is no such word as "subsidation." It should be "subsidization."

Good Plan to Follow . . .
March 22, 1939

Dear Editor;

This week the Delaware Debating Team met the Washington College team in Mitchell Hall. The worthy opponents debated on the worthy theme of Pump-Priming. Confidentially the whole business stunk. With assinine arguments, the teams attempted to solve the nation's greatest problem and failed.

The Oregon Plan was followed—a very good plan to follow—neither side won the debate. All that was won was the decision of the freshman class not to come to any more debates. Why have any debates at all at Delaware? Nobody likes them, and they could use the time for much better things: say, writing letters to the REVIEW.

Engineers Active

A.I.E.E.

On March 13, all of the Electrical Engineering students journeyed to Haverford College to attend the A.I.E.E. Convention. The morning was spent inspecting Haverford's equipment and attending a meeting. At the meeting five papers written by students were presented, and Bob Loveless, one of our boys, acted as one of three judges.

After lunch, the boys inspected the G. E. Switchgear Plant. In the evening most students attended a meeting in the Engineers Club in Philadelphia. After that an inspection of the night life of Phila. was made.

A.S.M.E.

New officers were elected on March 22. Edward Schwartz is the new president, and William Dawson is vice-president. Doc Blumberg will continue as Treasurer and Advisor.

The first Thursday in April, at 7:15 p. m. in room 308, Evans Hall, upon returning from Spring Vacation, the A.S.M.E. will present Edward H. Cole, Assistant Superintendent of Bellanca Aircraft Co., as the speaker at their meeting. Mr. Cole has long been in the airplane game having left the University of Pennsylvania during the war to join the Naval Air Service. The Delaware Collegiate Soaring Club, a student organization, has had Mr. Cole as its instructor for some time.

It will pay you to attend this meeting as motion pictures of airplane development and experimentation will be shown.

A.S.C.E.

Last Monday night Mr. J. D. Rogers spoke before the A.S.C.E. on "Problems In Concrete Not Found In Books." The meeting, under the direction of John Healy, was attended by fifteen members.

Also present were several members of the faculty.

Since the Junior Civil Class has only two members the election of officers for the coming year will no doubt be interesting. Perhaps they will toss a coin.

A.I.Ch.E.

The trip of the Chemicals to Sun Oil Co. which was postponed, will be made on April 12 instead. The reason for the change in date is that the Mercury Vapor Plant is under repair and will not be completed until shortly before the new date.

Economics Society

Once there was an Economics Club at the University of Delaware. Then, as many good things do, it lapsed into nothingness. Now once again this organization has been revived. The revival is due largely to Robert Hoffman, Class of '39, who, while walking across campus one day, was struck with the inspiration of having a discussion club for the members of the Economics curriculum of the school of Arts and Science.

The first thing Mr. Hoffman did was to sound out the opinion of the other students in the same curriculum. This being favorable, the organizer contacted the faculty of the Department of Economics. With Dr. Joseph Gould's permission, an organization meeting was held in the Student Council Room of Old College. Mr. Hoffman was appointed President pro tempore and Mr. Henry Layman was selected as Secretary pro tempore.

Constitution Drawn

At this first meeting a committee of three was selected to draw up a constitution. Then the finished document was submitted, certain changes were made, and on Monday, March 6, it was accepted.

Dinners Planned

Plans were made for two dinner meetings to be held on the campus, at which time prominent speakers will address the members.

Waters' Riflemen End Season Strong; Amass Fine Record

The curtain was rung down on Delaware's Rifle Season when team captain Phil Derickson fired his last shot in the match against the Wilmington Marksman's Club on Saturday afternoon. After the smoke had cleared away the Delaware shooters were out in front by the narrow margin of only five points, but they had gone through their season undefeated in dual shoulder to shoulder matches.

Derickson's final match found him amongst the five high men of his team, a place where he usually finishes in each match. He has been a capable leader and an excellent example of a good rifleman since his election to succeed former Captain Tommy Leach last January.

Top honors for the match on Saturday go to Hawkins of the Marksman's Club, with Klotz taking high score for the Blue Hens. The win against the Marksman's Club brings Delaware's total to twelve victories against six losses.

Eberhardt High for Season

Individual averages compiled from records fired during the current season indicate that Seth Eberhardt has again made the best total average. Team Captain Derickson has nosed out Dave Taxter for second place by a small margin. These men will be awarded the medals offered by the Reserve Officers' Association of Wilmington.

Variety Show

Cosmopolitanism reigned in the Hilarium Tuesday afternoon when a German puppet show, two Spanish songs, and a French play were presented to a packed house.

The puppet show, despite a sombre subject involving Death, amused the audience very much. The puppets were made and manipulated by German students. The dialogue was in German.

The French play, "L'Anglais tel qu'on le parle," was well understood because it dealt with an Englishman who couldn't speak French and had pursued his eloping daughter to France.

The Spanish songs, "La Golondrina" and "Ay, ay, ay!" were sung by four Spanish 104 girls, two of whom were afraid to open their mouths.

With the Council

By Jan Bove

John Healy announced the final results of the student referendum at the Student Council meeting Monday night. The results were 362 to 47 for the Proposed Junior Prom subsidation, and 376 to 33 against the faculty social program. The ballots will be turned over to Mr. Grubb.

P. J. Bruno informed the Council that they had moved two very expensive tables over radiators, causing them to be slightly scorched, and that should the University painter not be able to fix these tables, the Council would be held responsible.

Alumni

Conferences between several members of the Alumni Association, President Ryan and Frank Scott resulted in a proposal to establish a contact committee consisting of several members of the faculty and possibly President Hulihan concerning student problems. Action was tabled.

The question of the REVIEW was again raised. The Council felt that there was a shortage of writers. A suggestion was made that this shortage could be remedied by inviting W. C. D. to participate. Edward Wilson proposed a one hour course in journalism.

Dances

President Ryan received the approval of the group to decrease Delaware College's representation on the proposed student social program in order to meet the demands of the W. C. D. governing body so that the proposal may be submitted to faculty representatives for consideration without delay.

Frank Scott, Chairman of the Social Committee, received permission to spend up to three hundred dollars on the Spring Frolic.

John Schwind announced that there was a deficit of $204.09 from the Junior Prom. Bob Berndt, President of the Junior Class, submitted several valuable recommendations for future Proms.

The Gentle Reader

By Tom O'Suleivan

When men rose out of the slime to form communities their leaders found it feasible to govern them through symbols. These leaders were exceptionally clever and it seems they encouraged the development of the man-god or, "divine Caesar," concept. This concept embodied on implicit faith in the divine inspiration of the leader. It was an enticing idea and it caught on immediately.

In the Orient this concept had its birth and never died out wholly. We find it too in Egypt, where the Pharaoh was worshipped as divine. The ordinary laws were suspended for him. He might marry his own sister if he chose and he often did. Numerous prayers were directed to him, statues of him were placed throughout the empire. All this was done so as to impress upon the ignorant masses the heavenly justice of the conditions under which they existed.

In Rome the divine Caesar was disregarded during the period of the Republic, but he was reestablished under the Empire. Again statues were carved, prayers offered provinces gutted and populations bled to feed the divine Caesar's ego.

During the middle ages the concept was reaffirmed by selfish, unscrupulous men who immediately found it made a wonderful cloak for their own desires. They affirmed it vigorously, so vigorously that anyone who disagreed with them was executed at their earliest convenience. These men, with their humane teaching methods, thus fastened on the back of Europe the saddle of the divine Caesar.

Statues were carved once more, but prayers were no longer offered. He was now represented as God's representative on earth. This quibbling proved very comforting to the peasants of Europe, no doubt.

The French Revolution, with its repercussions throughout Europe abolished the fantastic delusion. At least the men who subscribed to Republican principles believed it was done away with. They went about the business of building a new and better order. On the whole they were successful in their efforts. Before the Great War Europe was slowly traveling along the bumpy road of social and economic reform. But the divine Caesars of Prussia, Austro-Hungary, and Russia, would not abandon their prerogatives voluntarily. The divine Caesar of Prussia made the first directed move. He plunged the world into a war for his own personal aggrandizement. The Central powers being defeated, the divine Caesar concept remained quiescent for a while.

Again republicans attempted to establish a new and better social order.

The Czar of Russia was replaced by another divine Caesar called Stalin. In Italy he is Il Duce.

The divine Caesar concept is exemplified today by certain men of national importance. Hague of Jersey City is one. Father Coughlin is another. President Roosevelt is considered an example by some, certainly John L. Lewis can qualify.

Sig Ep Formal

The Sig Ep lads and their ladies will swing out tonight for their annual formal in Old College. The dance will be held from 9 o'clock until 2 with Lester Lannen furnishing the music. The decorations have not yet been made public. The patrons and patronesses will be Miss de Armond and Miss Fleck from W. C. D., Dr. and Mrs. Harold E. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. Alex D. Cobb, Dr. and Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hullivan, and Dr. W. O. Sypherd. Harold Tiffany, president of fraternity, and Barbara Lee Morrell will also be in the receiving line.

ance, and The Mikado. However the limited amount of time forced the omission of some pieces. This ended the formal part of the evening's program. Dr. Able continued to play selections for the benefit of those who remained.

Coffee

Coffee was supplied through the courtesy of Mr. Grubb. Cigarettes were supplied privately. Dr. Rees, Dannenberg, and Swenhardt smoked pipes. Dr. Day, Dr. Dunlap, Dr. Squire, Mr. Willson, Pyle, Chambers, Mann, Roach, Mock, and Willard smoked cigarettes. Dr. Able smoked two cigars, and P. J. Bruno one. The Press Club smoked O.P's.

The subject was particularly appropriate at this time since the world-renowned D'Oly Carte Company is now presenting Gilbert and Sullivan in Philadelphia.

SIX STEPS TO MORE SMOKING PLEASURE

AGEING—Chesterfield's mild ripe tobaccos, like fine wines, are aged for two or more years in huge wooden casks. Here they gradually acquire that true Chesterfield mildness and better taste which give millions of smokers more pleasure.

STEMMING—"Almost human" is what they say about the interesting stemming machines, whose fingers pick up the tobacco, leaf by leaf and take out the stem, leaving only the mild, tender, good-tasting part of the leaf to go into the making of Chesterfields.

BLENDING—There is only one Chesterfield blend... the blend that can't be copied... a happy combination of the world's best American and Turkish tobaccos. Just the right proportions to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette.

PAPER—Every Chesterfield you smoke is wrapped in pure cigarette paper... the finest cigarette paper made. That's another reason why Chesterfields are milder and better-tasting.

MAKING—Almost faster than the eye can follow, Chesterfields come rolling out of the marvelous cigarette making machines. Chesterfields are always round, firm and well-filled.

PACKAGING—Truly amazing are the packaging machines which wrap and seal Chesterfields in their air-tight, moisture-proof packages. Regardless of where you buy them, Chesterfields reach you as fresh as the day they were made.
