GEN. ASSEMBLY ORGANIZED IN RECORD TIME

Senate And House Complete Business In Two Hours; Adjourn Until Monday; Simon Heads Senate; Mesick Speaker Of House

IMPORTANT BILLS

On Tuesday the General Assembly adjourned to Dover with one of the most rapid organization meetings in its history, the Senate effecting its business in one hour and forty-five minutes and the House in two hours. Senator William A. Simon, of Wilmington, was chosen president pro tempore of the Senate, and Charles Mesick, of near Laurel, was elected speaker of the House. Both branches adjourned Tuesday afternoon to convene again next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

There are said to be a number of important bills to be presented to the Legislature during its session, one of which will provide for a capitation tax of $2 to be levied on all citizens of the State, 21 years of age or over. The bill, which is said to have the backing of State Tax Collector Pierre du Pont, provides that the revenue collected from the tax be used for school building purposes.

The bill, it is said, has been brought out through the action of the Republican party organization in State assembly at Dover some time ago, incorporating in its platform an appeal for the wiping out of the capitation tax per $100 on real estate in the State for school purposes. This school tax officials feel, would reduce the individuals throughout the State of all direct part in the payment of taxes for school purposes and place the burden on the special school districts which have bonded and tax themselves and on the shoulders of corporations and income tax payers.

The bill, it is understood, will not be presented in the form of a filing but will be a direct capitation tax. It is said that the bill will not meet with any great opposition from Democrats, particularly in Kent and Sussex. These counties, it is pointed out, before the passage of the now repealed $3 filing fee law, had a form of capitation tax. This tax was repealed by the filing fee law. When the filing fee law was repealed by the General Assembly, as well as a number of the school tax on real estate, lower counties were left practically free of all school tax burden, the exception of the 15 cent tax. With the plan to cut off the filing tax on real estate, the burden will be removed and it is thought people will be willing to accept a new plan for a $2 capitation tax. Considerable needed revenue will thus be brought into the treasury for the school building program, without interfering with the plan to cut off the real estate tax.

Another bill to raise the pay of the Highway police will also be introduced, it is understood. This bill also said will favor the retention of the highway forces under the jurisdiction of the State Highway Commission as at present. There has been talk of a bill to place the police under a separate commission as a constabulary. The increase in pay is felt to be deserving the State, particularly as their duties and responsibilities have been increased each year with the expansion of the road system and the great increase in traffic.

Another bill it is understood would place the Governor of the State at the head of the State Highway Commission. This bill which is expected to be entered in the Senate early date, is designed, it is understood, to allow Governor-elect Charles Beck to still hold his service on the Highway Commission. It is said the bill will provide for the removal of the holder of the office of Secretary of State from the position in favor of the holder of gubernatorial office.

ARRESTS SPEEDER

Monday Private Bagley of the Highway Police, arrested I. Beaton, of Wilmington, for speeding the limit on the Glassboro road. Arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, a fine of $25 and was imposed on Beaton.

Shipboard Marriage Will Get Bride Into States

A romance of long standing will culminate in a shipboard marriage, scheduled for January 21, when Wilhelm Heinrich Von Ehren, of this town, will marry Miss Selma Wolfertz, of Langerfeld, Germany, on board the S. S. Albert Ballin. The Ballin is scheduled to enter quarantine at the port of New York on January 21. In order to circumvent the quota restrictions, Miss Wolfertz and Mr. Von Ehren will be married on the ship before it docks. The couple will reside in Newark.

Mr. Von Ehren is well known here, having come to Newark about 15 years ago. He was in America on a German ship when the World War broke out, and leaving the ship as she was interned, came to Newark. Mr. Von Ehren has returned to Germany several times on visits since then.

"DEADLINE" FOR 1928 TAGS, SAT.

New Tags And Operators' Licenses Must Be In Use Then Or Offenders Will Be Fined; May Be Had In Dover Saturday

Midnight Saturday will be the "deadline" for 1928 Delaware motor license tags and operators' licenses. After that hour motorists attempting to drive with old tags and licenses are liable to arrest. The customary fine for driving with improper tags is $10, and without operator's license, $25. Delaware is lenient with its motorists, allowing 5 days of grace. Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey require that new tags and licenses be in use on January 1.

Secretary of State Grantland's office will remain open as late Saturday as is necessary to accommodate all those applying for driver's licenses. Persons wishing driver's licenses must make personal application in Dover if they desire them before Sunday.

Large numbers of people have written the office of the Secretary of State saying that they did not receive the cards sent out by that department, which it is necessary to fill out before licenses can be secured. Of course they have gone astray, in some instances, but on account of the plan being new, it is believed that a number have mislaid the cards or unintentionally destroyed them. It is necessary for the Secretary of State's office to make out and mail new cards in answer to these applications and in consequence of this, the office is rushed with work. Thousands of people have written in and said that they did not get the cards upon which to make applications for licenses.

On account of the department checking up on every license for an operator's license in order to ascertain if the applicant has had his license forfeited, and whether he can secure a new one, has resulted in the office being about two days behind on the issue of operator's license. The car licenses are being sent out just as rapidly as possible after they are received and extra people are working to keep the issue up to date.

The office by Saturday will be clear of all the applications which have been received before that day. Of course those received on that day can not possibly be mailed in time to reach those desiring them by Sunday morning and therefore the decision was reached to keep the office open so that those who must have licenses before Sunday morning may drive to Dover to get them.

McKELVEY BAGS BIRDS, RABBITS ON GUNNING TRIP

James A. McKelvey, proprietor of the Deer Park Hotel, spent several days last week on a gunning trip in Virginia as the guest of Dr. S. T. Young, formerly of this town, but practicing veterinary medicine at Middleburg, Va.

Mr. McKelvey made the trip by automobile, leaving here on Wednesday and returning Saturday. He, with Dr. Young and George Conrad, a friend of the latter, spent Thursday and Friday gunning, having exceptionally good luck. The party killed 57 birds and 27 rabbits. The section around Middleburg is one of the most noted communities in the country for the breeding of thoroughbred horses. Mr. McKelvey was greatly interested in the many mammoth breeding farms, some of which he visited. Some of the most famous running horses in the country were bred in this locality.

NEWARK FIRE DAMAGE LOW

Aetna Reports Only $3,360 Fire Damage In Town During Year; Outside Damage, $567,280.

Fire Recorder Charles W. Eisner has just completed the fire report of the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company for the year 1928. This report is, in itself, an excellent recommendation of the proficiency of the Aetna Fire Company, for in the 22 fires in town during the year there was an estimated damage of only $3,360. This is an unusual record.

The company responded to 60 alarms and one call for assistance in the year. Last year the number was 43; in 1926, 68; and in 1925, 61. The estimated damage of all the fires responded to was $570,000. Of this $500,000 was the estimated damage in the mill and lumber yard fire at West Grove, Pa., at which Aetna pumped for 13½ consecutive hours after answering a call for assistance. Twenty-three companies fought this fire, and 4 ambulances, including the Newark ambulance were in attendance. The other out-of-town fire damage was estimated at $67,280. This damage covered 38 calls.

The highest number of calls came in March, when 14 alarms were answered. In September there were no fires.

The types of fires were as follows: Brush and field fires, 19; defective flue or chimney fires, 12; farmhouses, barns, or both, 11; autos, garages, or both, 5; houses (in town), 3; houses (out of town), 3; dance and recreation hall, 1; miscellaneous, 7.

On Friday night, at 8 o'clock, in the firehouse, the Aetna Fire Company will hold its annual election of officers. The officers will be elected from candidates nominated at the December meeting.

The awards will be placed by Judge Melvin Cosh, of Vineland, N. J., and will consist of cash and ribbons, with handsome rosettes for all special prizes.

The show will be of an educational nature and free to the public, who are cordially invited to visit the show which will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., daily.

New Year Welcomed

While there was no planned or official New Years Eve celebration in Newark, the infant 1929 did not slip into town unheralded or unsung, for there was impromptu and extemporaneous welcome all over town. The Continental Band marched through the streets playing and was accompanied by honking auto horns, and punctuated by shots from various firearms. The various mill whistles blew for five minutes, starting at midnight.

Change of Dating Permanent

The change in date of The Post from Wednesday to Thursday, which was adopted temporarily as an emergency measure, has proven so satisfactory both from our advertisers' standpoint, and in the collection and compilation of news, that it has been decided to make the change permanent. From now on The Post will be published and distributed on Thursday of each week.

Our largely increased circulation has made necessary an earlier press hour, and this has made it difficult for our correspondents to collect the news of their respective neighborhoods and have it in time for publication. In fact it has resulted in a curtailment of certain news for lack of time in collecting it, and we feel that the interests of our readers will be served better by publication a day later in the week.

We trust that our readers will bear with us until they have become used to the change, and we believe that they will be rewarded with an improved and enlarged news service.

COMBAT SPREAD OF EPIDEMICS IN SCHOOLS

Disinfect and Fumigate Buildings; Class of 1928 Gives Reference Volumes

PROF. BARKLEY SPEAKS

The Newark School authorities have been cooperating with the Health Board in preventing the spread of epidemics by disinfecting the schools with Lysol and fumigating with formaldehyde. Particular attention has been paid to room and effects of pupils who are absent with contagious disease.

The class of 1928 of the Newark High School has presented the School Library with a handsome 14 volume edition of the Cambridge History of English Literature. This is a valuable reference work and is being put into the English curricula.

Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of Newark Schools, and Miss Rena Allen, of the Women's College faculty, have been appointed by the State Superintendent of Education, Dr. H. V. Holloway, to serve on a committee of six, which will study the problem of teacher rating in the light of the present day knowledge of the problem. The committee will work out a new score card for rating teachers, and this card will be presented to the State Board of Education for approval.

Professor James A. Barkley, of the History Department, University of Delaware, addressed the High School assembly, yesterday, on the subject, "Napoleon and Washington, Two of the Outstanding Characters in Two Different Schools of Thought." At the Friday assembly, Mr. Harold Barker's class in trigonometry will present "The Mysteries of the Slide Rule." This year the Newark Schools added the slide rule to the mathematical curricula.

Mr. Gillespie's chemistry sections will apply the principles of chemistry practically by recharging the school fire extinguishers.

ALUMNI BEATS HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS ON COURT

The Newark High School Alumni Association basketball games and dance, held last Friday night in the Newark Armory, proved highly enjoyable for the alumni. Both the alumni boys' and girls' teams defeated the High School Varsity basketball teams. The boys winning 22 to 21 in a close and torrid scrap, and the Alumni Girls deluging the High School Girls under a score of 41 to 6.

The High School boys need feel no shame in their defeat, as they faced some of the best talent that ever wore the high school colors and were without the services of two of the strongest varsity players, "Winnie" Mayer and "Rip" Smith. The alumni was headed by the redoubtable "Shorty" Chalmers, who was the outstanding star of the game, scoring 7 field goals and 3 fouls. Other alumni in the game were Irvin Chalmers, Bland, Williamson, D. Armstrong, Morris Eubanks and Paul Jaquette. The High School lineup consisted of Holloway and Edmondson, forwards, McDowell and Amos Jaquette, center, Frank Mayer, McCully and Cole, guards.

Ann Chalmers and Pauline Robinson, who for three years were a menace to invaders to Newark basketball courts, were never in better form, and put on a sister act in the forward court that resulted in the 41 tallies.

After the game there was a dance with Chalmers' Revelers furnishing the music.

Newark High School Judging Team May Take Bankers' Cup Permanently

First Place at Corn Show, Friday. Will Give Local Team Third Leg Necessary to Take Cup; Won It Last Year

The Newark High School judging team will try to take permanent possession of the State Bankers' Association Cup for corn judging, Friday, at the twenty-second State Corn Show, which opened in Dover, yesterday. Newark has now two legs on the cup, and first place this year will bring it to Newark permanently.

The Newark team, which is coached by Thomas Malin, teacher of agriculture, is composed of Vincent Mayer, Warren Bunting and Raymond Lindell, with Rodney Eastburn and Thomas Milliken as alternates. The Bankers' cup was put into competition five years ago, with the condition that any school which won it three times, not necessarily consecutively, was to gain permanent possession of it. Seaford won it the first year, Newark the second, Bridgeville the third, and again by Newark last year.

The Newark team has been working hard to prepare itself for the event, and intends to bring the cup back.

Besides competing in the judging, five of the Newark High School students of agriculture have exhibits in the show. They are Thomas Milliken, Oliver Koellig, William Eastburn, Vincent Mayer and Frank Mayer.

What People Eat

By Kate Henley Daugherty, County Demonstration Agent

As the New Year approaches one begins to think of the resolutions that they should make for the coming year and with the recent feasts of Christmas and New Years just over, and often with disagreeable results one is tempted to think more at this time of their diet.

With all of the splendid articles that are now being published on foods and correct food habits by the many newspapers and magazines as well as thousands of talks being broadcasted on this subject over the radio every year, there is no longer any necessity for one to be ignorant on correct diets, and it is evident that they are not.

A questionnaire came to my desk recently asking if pie was losing its place as the "Great American dessert." From observation I would have replied in the affirmative, but would not have been able to prove the point. So it is with a good deal of interest that I am able to quote from an article in the American Food Journal with the title as given above. The figures in the tables were collected from several thousand hotels for the period from 1917-1927.

The following data seemed especially interesting:

Decrease.—Meat, 45%; pastry, 26%; white bread, 29%; Coffee, 12%; Tea, 7%.

Increase.—Sandwiches, 215%; Salads, 110%; ice cream, 70%; milk (malted), 63%; milk (whole), 62%; fruit (fresh), 39%; whole wheat, 35%; vegetables (fresh), 35%; vegetables (canned), 30%; fruit (canned), 33%; fruit (dried), 12%; cheese, 40%.

Doesn't this look as if the "Daily Quota" were gaining favor? Of course you know what that quota is:

Milk, 1 pint to 1 quart daily; vegetables, 3 daily; fruits, 2 daily; raw fruit or vegetable daily; whole grain cereal daily; egg, cheese, fish or meat, 1 serving daily.

JAPAN HAS ITS LEGEND OF THE MORNING GLORY

A legend tells of the introduction of the morning glory into Japan. A Japanese prince heard of a vine which blossomed only in the early morning, and notified the foreign nobleman who owned it that he was coming to see it. When he arrived the vines were no longer trailing over the walls. The entire garden had been uprooted and there was no sign of the flower.

Being angered, he started to leave. Having been invited to tea, however, his sense of politeness compelled him to turn back. Upon entering the tea-room he saw a single morning glory blossom in a vase in a raised alcove. Inquiring of the nobleman why the garden had been ruined, the prince received the reply, "I ruined the garden in order that you might really see the blossom. If it were in plenty, you could not have really served it so well as you did this single last flower saved for your eyes alone."

PLYMOUTH, with its large, roomy bodies, and generous wheel-base gives far more in seating comfort and riding ease than has ever before been obtainable in the lowest-priced field.

Not only a full-size car, but far more distinctive due to new slender-profile chromium-plated radiator, "air-wing" fenders and arched windows conforming to pleasing body contours.

Still further emphasizing Plymouth value are the power, speed and smoothness of the "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, using any gasoline; and the safety of internal-expanding hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—the only car at its price with such equipment.

Merely to see the new Plymouth is to know its very evident superiority in style, quality and luxury. To drive it is to confirm your impression that in its price class no other automobile dollar gives as great return as the dollar invested in Plymouth.

FORSEES 26,000,000 CARS ON HIGHWAYS

At present there are about 24,500,000 passenger cars, trucks and busses on this country's roads and streets. By the end of 1929 automobile registrations will be but a few less than 26,000,000 vehicles, states E. E. Duffy, Delaware Automobile Association, of Wilmington.

The saturation point of automobile ownership seems to be a first cousin of the vanishing point.

With this steady increasing automobile ownership, the highway takes on a new aspect. The question is no longer whether or not the pavement mileage shall be increased. The problem is, how can more pavements be financed.

Forward looking communities now consider automobile travel to be composed of two chief costs, the direct payment of money for gas, tires, car depreciation, etc.; the indirect payment for motor comfort through the various taxes collected to improve roads.

Car costs are directly dependent upon the road surface. At one time cars lasted only half as long in Missouri as they do now since the adoption of a sensible paving program. Tires in many localities give only half the mileage that is possible over pavements. This loss alone may be $25 or $50 a year.

Highway authorities point out that by slightly increasing motor vehicle taxes, perhaps thereby increasing motor costs for a short time, cheaper motor costs will be brought about. Most road improvements are paid for in one way or another by car owners. Consequently the proper levying and expenditure of road taxes will shortly bring about a saving that more than offsets reasonable taxes.

Indiana, for instance, is considering the raising of the motor vehicle license fee by $5.00. This extra income will permit the Hoosiers to complete the paving of the state highway system in five years, rather than the 16 years that will be required if present highway income is not enlarged.

REDUCE PHONE RATES

Further reductions in telephone rates to points between 130 and approximately 1500 miles distant will be instituted by the Diamond State Telephone Company February 1, it is announced by Edward P. Bardo, district manager for the company.

Institution of the new rate schedule for out-of-town calls will mark the third time within little more than two years that the Diamond State Company will have curtailed the cost of this form of service. The impending reductions will mean an aggregate saving of approximately $14,000 to telephone users in Delaware during 1929. Throughout the nation-wide Bell System with which the Diamond State Company is associated, the public will be saved more than $5,000,000 during the new year.

To the telephone user the reductions will mean a cut of from 5 to 25 cents on day toll and long distance station-to-station calls within the distances designated. A proportionate reduction is to be made on person-to-person calls, Mr. Bardo said. In addition, appointment and messenger calls are to be provided after February 1 at regular person-to-person rates.

Elkton and Neighboring Towns

The Epworth League of the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church held Watch Night services at the Church House Monday evening.

Alonso Davis, of near Rising Sun, arrested on a charge of wife beating, when given a hearing in Magistrate Cecil E. Ewing's office, at Rising Sun attempted to shoot up the office and for a while all was in excitement, when witnesses and onlookers made a hurried exit out of the door and through the windows in the judge's office. For the past week Davis is said to have been on a "spree." Returning home Thursday he began to beat his wife, who managed to escape and going to Justice Ewing's office, had a warrant sworn out for her husband's arrest. As Davis was reported to be a bad man, it required the combined efforts of State Policemen Williams and Klaproth and Deputy Sheriff Bouchelle to make the arrest and bring the prisoner to court. Davis was in bad humor and when the magistrate found him guilty and imposed a sentence of 90 days in Elkton jail, Davis, who was standing alongside of Officer Klaproth, grabbed the latter's revolver, but before he could shoot, was knocked to the floor. A second later the officers and prisoner were rolling over the floor. Finally Officer Williams dealt Davis a stunning blow. When Davis was gotten under control Justice Ewing imposed a sentence of nine months in jail, in addition to the sentence imposed for wife beating.

Reductions in Long Distance Rates

Effective February 1, 1929

TELEPHONE RATES on Long Distance calls will be reduced again - the third reduction made by the Bell System in little more than two years.

Station-to-Station Day Rates on calls to points 130 to 1,500 miles away will be reduced by amounts varying from five cents to a quarter, and rates for Person-to-Person calls will be lowered in equal or greater amounts.

This reduction in rates—which will mean an annual saving to the American public of more than $5,000,000—is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the Bell System—to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost to the user.

Further announcements giving detailed information will appear shortly.

Newark's Fire Record

The annual report of Fire Recorder Eisner of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, which is summarized in this issue of The Post, discloses an excellent record for both the Fire Company and the Town. During 1928 there were but 22 fires in the Town of Newark, and the property damage was only $3,300. During one month there were no fires reported, and during another month there was but one.

Twenty-two fires in a year is an exceedingly low number for a town the size of Newark and reflects careful and consistent precautions on the part of the people of the town. $3,300 damage is an almost negligible amount, when compared to the fire damage in towns of equal size. It firmly attests the speed of action and proficiency of the Aetna Company, when it is called into action.

With the exception of the disastrous West Grove fire, which destroyed a half million dollars worth of property, the Aetna Company fought 38 out-of-town fires, which resulted in a property damage of $67,000. When you consider that many of these runs were back in the country, over dirt roads, to fight barn and farmhouse fires where there was no adequate or ready water supply, the out-of-town record of the company equals that of its performance within the town limits. With 23 other companies, Aetna went into service at the West Grove fire and pumped water on the blaze for 13½ hours.

Helping the University

The University of Delaware, in which the people of our state have just pride, because of the benefit it is to our boys and girls and the importance it has acquired, is fortunate in having friends who extend material help from time to time. Without this help it could not hold the high place it now does. It is true that it has been loyally maintained by the Legislature, each session of which generally shows commendable liberality, yet without private benefactions it could not have reached the heights to which it has attained.

Added interest comes from the fact that graduates are among those who are doing what they can to spread the name and fame of the university and aid it in what it is doing for the youth of the state. A striking instance of this loyalty and sympathetic interest on the part of the alumni is found in the announcement that H. Rodney Sharp, who is not only a graduate but also a member of the board of trustees, has made the university a Christmas gift of $250,000, for the erection and maintenance of an auditorium building of adequate proportions.

This benefaction overcomes what has been a noticeable deficiency. It will enable the institution to function more efficiently and should increase state interest in it, in that it will afford a meeting place of sufficient size to accommodate statewide gatherings and such other assemblies as may be helpful in promoting the work that is being done at the university. It will be a valuable asset that will go a long way toward rounding out a plant of university proportions.—Wilmington Every Evening.

The Grade Crossing Percentages

Vital statistics, compiled by the government, list the total deaths in the registration area of the United States, during 1928, at 1,236,949. Of this number the cause of 21,160 was given as the result of grade crossing accidents. That is, grade crossing accidents were responsible for over one and one-half per cent of the total deaths, from all causes, of nine-tenths of the population of this country. About 91,000 of the total deaths resulted from accidents or burns, so that grade crossing accidents were responsible for more than twenty-two per cent of all accident fatalities.

Millions of dollars are given each year by the people of the nation, and spent to reduce the fatal ravages of diseases which do not annually kill a quarter of the number of persons who are mangled by trains at grade crossings. This money is spent to reduce the death rate as it is not possible to eliminate disease. However, it is possible to absolutely eliminate grade crossing fatalities by eliminating the grade crossings.

Apparently the grade crossing percentages in the vital statistics of the country have proven alarming to the highest judiciary, for the Supreme Court has upheld legislation which gives the States power to compel railroads to do away with the grade crossing menace. It is now up to the states to put this authority into operation.

"Saving Old Ironsides"

It has needed a long, strong pull to restore "Old Ironsides" through popular subscription. Now that the patriotic work is on the way to completion interest in it should not wane. The gifts all told amount to $593,292, of which school children have subscribed a generous share. Among the cities Chicago's quota is easily in the lead, New York's standing second. To make the historic frigate Constitution shipshape, remodeled "from truck to keel exactly as she was in her days of greatest glory," $200,000 is still needed. Those who wish to give to the fund are reminded that souvenirs are waiting for them, bits of the original "Old Ironsides" in the form of miniature chain links, anchors and the like, in acknowledgement of their good will for our most treasured naval relic.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews is receiving subscriptions at the Boston Navy Yard, where the ship is docked in the shadow of Bunker Hill. "Let her square-rigged splendor be seen again in all our ports," writes Admiral Andrews, "to be an inspiration to our navy, to all our youth, a reminder of those great days of wooden ships and iron men."—N. ## SCHOOLING BY MAIL

A system of instruction by correspondence for children living in isolated sections of Manitoba, Canada, has been introduced by the Provincial Department of Education. The work is in charge of a teacher of wide experience, with two assistants. Grades 1 to 8 are covered. The system has been in operation for about nine months and 120 children have already received instruction.

To wade in marshes and sea margins is the destiny of certain birds, and they are so accurately made for this that they are imprisoned in those places. Each animal out of its habitat would starve. To the physician, each man, each woman, is an amplification of one organ. A soldier, a locksmith, a bank-clerk, and a dancer could not exchange functions. And thus we are victims of adaptation.—Emerson.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

MEDITATIONS

Newark Post.

Sirs:—

Enclosed you will find a few thoughts on the New Year. If you can use the same in your next issue I would appreciate it. I also desire to express to the Post's staff my appreciation for the space given me on articles of J. O. U. A. M.

Yours truly,

A. Neal Smythe.

Another petal has been added to the Flower of Time in the ending of 1928.

The mighty unseen hand has opened another cycle at the dawning of 1929.

The narrow span known as time is widening with the passing of another year.

The midst of eternity is felt sweeping in upon our faces as we bid adieu to the old year and welcome the advent of the new.

The new year should bring new hopes and new aspirations.

The new year is as the dawn of a new day, only increased with beauty a thousand fold.

It is now that we think of our lives as being measured by timepieces.

The moments are slipping away with silence, subtleness and swift.

Infinity and eternity engulf us with their immensity and beckon us look up and forward.

Years help us to keep our chronology in order, but how insignificant a year appears when received in the light of eternity.

We have started another lap in the race of life.

Before the lap of another year ends many shall have been dropped out.

Run well the race that is set before you, knowing that time is short.

Would it not be well if all of us took this Flower of Time in our hands with tender feelings and pressed it to our bosoms with utmost care and concern?

EXPRESSES THANKS

I wish to use the columns of The Post to express my appreciation of the Christmas gift given me by the members of the Newark Country Club.

UNIFORM VEHICLE CODE FOR TRAFFIC

Adoption of the Uniform Vehicle Code for all states and the Model Municipal Traffic Ordinance for cities—both large and small—was voted the most remedial legislation now pending for the prevention of highway accidents at the annual meeting of the legislative committee of the American Motorists' Association, National body of the Delaware Automobile Association, 11th and West streets, Wilmington, held last week.

The uniform vehicle code is so designed that its provisions may be adopted in the main by each state while the model municipal traffic ordinance is drafted with an idea of giving to each city and town a uniform set of traffic regulations that will not leave an out-of-town motorist in a quandary as to how to operate his vehicle. Each of the two pieces of legislation are the outgrowth of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, of which President-elect Herbert Hoover was chairman.

Success of the uniform vehicle code is evidenced by the fact that already 19 States and the District of Columbia have partially adopted the code. They are: New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, California, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Arkansas, Idaho, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, and the District of Columbia.

The legislature in 41 states, meeting in January, will consider the adoption of the code and in states where the code has been only partially adopted will consider additional provision with the idea of having a uniform code throughout the United States, according to a survey made by the Association.

New Jersey is the first state to report a 100 per cent uniformity in its traffic code; every regulation, signal and marker pertaining to traffic, in city or country, being uniform. The uniform code became effective throughout New Jersey on September 1st, and already its operation has met with favorable comment by motorists of that state, and by visiting motorists.

Under the uniform vehicle code, probably the greatest factor in highway safety will be to make all traffic signals uniform, thus dispelling from the mind of the motorist his uncertainty as to a city's regulations for right and left-hand turns. Investigation in connection with the drafting of the code, showed that high percentage of accidents was caused by nervousness superinduced by the driver's uncertainty as to traffic light signals.

Traffic signals may no longer be located in the center of the street, but must be placed at the nearest point conveying the message direct, under the New Jersey uniform act. Jaywalking is made a misdemeanor. Coasting with clutch out, or gears in neutral, is prohibited. Stop signs are yellow, with red lettering, and slow and caution signs yellow, with black lettering. Direction, information, restrictions, detour and one-way signs are uniform, while speed limits are liberalized by the new code.

Commenting on the proposed adoption by all states and cities respectively of the new state and city model codes, J. Borton Weeks, President of the Association, declared that reasonable regulations so designed will command respect and be to a large extent self-enforcing. On the other hand, he pointed out, unreasonable or unduly restrictive measures arouse resentment and invite disobedience and cannot be enforced by an army of traffic officers.

THE ACADEMIC TIDE SLACKENS

The social problem presented by the unprecedented increase in college student enrollment since the World War may be developing its own solution. According to reports received by Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore College from the 216 colleges and universities throughout the United States which are on the approved list of the Association of American Universities, the increase of following enrollment in 1928 over 1927 is 2 per cent, the smallest annual increase since the war. This should be compared with the preceding five-year increase, 1922-27, of 25 per cent, or an average of 5 per cent a year.

Dean Walters does not pretend to explain the reason for this slackening up in the movement that threatens to swamp the country's higher educational plants, though he mentions several possible factors—namely, agricultural and industrial conditions, development of junior colleges, trend in certain areas away from small colleges to the state universities, and deliberate limitations of enrollment.

It is probably true, as he says, that it will be necessary to avoid the returns of the next half dozen years, determine whether a definite break has come in the rate of increase of college enrollment, and also to sign the causes, whether administrative or social. In the mean time it is interesting to note that where there has been a falling off it is in the colleges that have suffered or benefited, according to the point of view, more than the larger institutions, those having an enrollment of 100 students twenty-four report an increase and thirty decrease. Of instances of 500 to 1000 students thirty increase and thirty decrease.

In the upper categories, numerical speaking, there is a different report. Increases in 1928 over 1927 are: 1000 to 2000 students, 100 cases, as do those of 2000 and upward. It seems to be a repetition of the old story that "the tide that hath shall be given."

On the other hand, it should be remembered that in the list of larger universities belongs the majority of state institutions which are debarré from any selection of their students except the scholarship. And yet the fact they must take all who apply, no scholastically eligible would seem to offer some ground for believing the drop in increase of the enrollment points to a social rather than an administrative cause. Boys' girls' ambitions to attend college, not to be turned aside by what their fathers are interposed by the unendowed institutions when they be sure of a welcome at the state university.

Possibly the answer lies in the increasing number of those who go to get their education on a part-time basis or in summer sessions. Students, particularly in the great city universities, from out-number their full-time students. This is particularly true of City College and New York University in this city; of the University of Pennsylvania

HAND OF SCHOLARSHIP TO LATIN-AMERICA

In taking occasion of Mr. Hoover's visit to Buenos Aires to stretch the friendly hand of scholarship to Argentina, the Associated Harvard Clubs have not only rendered a signal service in helping to bring about better understanding between North and South America, but have given us a further reminder that in enlarging our intellectual relations with the peoples of the world we have been peculiarly backward in considering our Southern neighbors. Following the example of the Rhodes scholarships, we invited English students to come to our own universities. With France and Germany we have had similar arrangements. The number of Chinese and Japanese students in American colleges has been steadily growing. Mexicans have won scholarships in our universities.

Compared to all this, the field of Latin America has barely been scratched. Responding to the call of cultural kindred, many Latin-Americans have gone to France and Spain for university studies. A few, seeking special technical or engineering training, have come to the United States. But the small number of such students is in part responsible for the almost complete lack of understanding of American life, ideals and policies throughout Latin America. As one of the rare South Americans who knows the United States pointed out to a newspaper man with Mr. Hoover, the average South American forms his impression of us from the movies and from wholly inadequate and usually misleading news items in the Latin-American press.

The scholarship offered by the Associated Harvard Clubs should and doubtless will be followed by others in both continents. There is as much need for American understanding of South America as there is for our Southern neighbors to know us better. While it is true that international scholarships reach only a limited class, and do not bring about as sweeping changes as their founders hoped, they render a great service by creating a supply of key men who have had the opportunity to come into intimate contact with the people of other lands.

It is unfortunate that to the combinations of circumstances connected with our relations with our neighbors to the South which have brought about the dislike and fear of the United States in Latin America must be added two streams of anti-Americanism against which the United States is powerless to act. One has been fostered under the guise of Pan-Americanism, and the other, more sinister because less direct, has been stimulated by European resentment of American commercial and financial enterprise in countries which they formerly regarded as their own preserves. The very fact that such forces of anti-Americanism exist makes it all the more important that a better understanding be brought about. Herein lies the opportunity—and the advantage—of Harvard's new scholarship.—N. Y. Times.

FOR FREE COUNTY LIBRARY SERVICE

Again New Castle County is proving itself highly progressive. The movement now on foot to establish a free county library is entirely in line with the many other plans which have been adopted for county improvement. The telephone and the R. F. D. have both tended to knit the country closer together. Now the county library is going a step farther; it is in a sense taking men entirely out of the country and transporting them to the forum of the world's finest ideas, bringing them into contact with the world's greatest thinkers, past and present.

No man who wants to know what is going on in the world, what people are doing and thinking, how they have solved and are solving the problems that confront us all, can fail to approve the idea of having free books for everybody in the county. From the man who wants to know the latest methods of fertilization or the woman who wants to know how to make hooked rugs, everybody can obtain vital and interesting information from books. And the county library will supply the books.

The county library will keep its readers in touch with the world, will continue one's education after leaving school, will make rural life more desirable, will give the boys and girls the book advantages they would have if they lived in the city, will make the county known for its progressive and educational advantages.

A county library is a free public lending library belonging to the county or supported by it. It gives the country or rural dweller the same kind of book service that he would receive if he lived in the city. "Any child who does not have the free use of books is being cheated out of one of his rights as an American citizen." The child raised in the city has had a decided and unfair advantage over the millions of children raised in the country. The county library provides the solution of this problem. It adapts to the county a library service which already exists in most large cities. The library supplements the school in the modern scheme of education.

Christian Science Churches

"Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 30.

Golden text: "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God." (Isaiah 52:10).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined." (Isaiah 9:2).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the year 1866, I discovered the Christ Science or divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love, and named my discovery Christian Science. God had been graciously preparing me during many years for the reception of this final revelation of the absolute divine Principle of scientific mental healing."

A NEW WAY WITH OLD CHRISTMAS CARDS

The beautifully designed and handsome Christmas cards which were so welcome and so warmly cherished through Christmas days are already a source of embarrassment to the efficient housewife. What to do with them now, that is the problem. They are rather too pretty to throw into the trash basket, yet not valuable enough to keep. Here is a problem in applied economics which the efficient expert might profitably investigate.

Manufacturing Christmas cards, one assumes, must be in most cases a part-time enterprise. More cards are manufactured for Christmas than for any other occasion, but not enough to keep any well managed plant occupied throughout the year. Making greeting cards in rapidly multiplying varieties for other seasons presumably takes up the greater part of the average manufacturer's annual production schedule. Such cards are bought by the million, but there is already ground for an objection that the practice of exchanging them is overdone. It detracts somewhat from the interest of receiving a Christmas card when one is sure to get others like it on all the festive occasions of the year, from New Year's day through Thanksgiving. If fewer greeting cards were sold, the companies producing them might adapt their equipment for the greater part of the year to the making of reprints of the Old Masters, perhaps, which would be a boon to American culture.

Fewer cards would be sold, and the problem of disposing of them would be greatly simplified if all senders were to sign their names—remember, thrift is generally held to be one of the greatest of the virtues!—in the sort of ink which rapidly fades out of sight when exposed to the light. By this means, well-made cards could be used over and over again. They might be kept passing back and forth between families for half a generation. But the problem of supplying new envelopes would be an obstacle, we hear. Standardize the measurements of Christmas cards, and that difficulty would melt away. Incidentally, making all Christmas cards the same size would warm the hearts of all postal officials. Nobody but they themselves can ever know what vexation it is to handle, rapidly, Christmas cards ranging from the size of a slightly enlarged postage stamp to that of an advertising poster.—Waterbury American.

TANK TEAM TO MEET LEHIGH

Opening Swimming Meet Will Be Held In Delaware Pool Saturday

University of Delaware swimming team will start the 1929 schedule on Saturday of this week, when the Blue and Gold will meet Lehigh in the local pool. The Junior Varsity swimming team will go to Wilmington on Friday for a meet with Salesianum.

The fact that college does not open until Wednesday following the holidays gives but a short time for Horace Wier, of Philadelphia, the swimming coach, to get the team in shape to meet Lehigh.

Couch Wier, however, worked for several weeks previous to the holidays with the swimming candidates and the prospects are bright for another good team. Captain Taylor, Reese, Reybold and Henry Murray, a freshman from Wilmington High, will likely make up the Delaware relay team and this should be a fast combination. Murray lacks experience but is coming fast, and Wier, it is understood, is much pleased with his showing.

The loss of Nobis, who did not return to college this year, handicaps the team in the breaststroke. Nobis was especially good in this event, but Wier is working hard to develop a man to take his place. Gerow, Miller, Smith and Fox are trying for this event.

Bill Brown will look after the backstroke and Captain Taylor will again swim the 440 and should win in most of the Delaware meets. Reese and Reybold will swim the dasher. Delaware also has a meet scheduled for the local pool with Catholic University on Thursday of next week.

Couch Rothrock hopes to be able to bring about an improvement in the basketball team by the time of the next game, which is with Moravian College on January 10 on the local floor.

ESKIMOS DRAW PAY FOR TENDING ARCTIC LIGHT

How the lighthouse service of the Department of Commerce plays the part of Fairy God-mother to poverty-stricken Eskimos in the Arctic Circle is revealed in the files of W. C. Dill, Superintendent of Lighthouses in Alaska. The tale of the loneliest white man in the north and his band of Eskimos who tend the Point Hope light and use the small Government stipend for the relief of their needy, is a saga that a bard might sing.

The lonely man is Archdeacon Frederic W. Goodman of Point Hope Mission, Tigara, Arctic Alaska. His home is a cabin 107 miles north of the Arctic Circle and his only companions are Eskimos. Some years one boat will touch there and then again some years there will not be any boat at all. He received his 1927 Christmas mail last August and is hoping to read this year's Yuletide greetings, if he is lucky.

The Point Hope light is further north than any other light maintained by the United States. It was established in 1924. William A. Thomas, Episcopal missionary, later relieved by Archdeacon Goodman, wrote to Superintendent Dill at that time: "I intend to place one Kunuk, an old man and very poor, in charge under my supervision, and shall advance him the $10 a month. From time to time I may change keepers, so that more than one of the needy may have the benefit."

Aunt—You must have liked the book I gave you, to read it seven times.

Nephew—It isn't that. You see, Dad makes me read a chapter every time I'm late at meals.—Pearson's Weekly.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Tomato Aspic and Cheese Souffle

One can tomato soup, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 package prepared lemon gelatine, 1 cup boiling water, hard cooked eggs, stuffed olives, ¼ pound cream cheese, 1 cup whipped cream, ½ cup chopped blanched almonds, ½ tablespoon gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water, ¼ cup boiling water.

To the soup add the vinegar and lemon gelatine, dissolve in boiling water. Decorate a ring mold with slices of hard cooked egg and stuffed olive slices. Pour in a little of the tomato aspic and allow to harden. Then add half the remaining aspic and place on ice to harden. Prepare the cheese souffle by beating together the cream cheese, whipped cream, almonds and gelatine, softened in cold water and dissolved in boiling water. When the aspic is firm, arrange a layer of cheese mixture over it and then pour in the rest of the aspic. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Prepare the day before using. Recipe makes eight servings.

Tomato-Olive Salad

Six medium-sized tomatoes, salt, sugar and paprika, 2 dozen stuffed olives, 6 tablespoons cooked peas, mayonnaise.

Scald the tomatoes and slip off the skins; then scoop out some of the flesh from the stem end to form a cavity. Sprinkle the inside of each tomato with salt, paprika, and sugar, and set aside to chill. Chop up eighteen of the olives, and add to the cooked, seasoned peas. Dress with enough mayonnaise to make of the desired flavor and consistency and fill the tomato cavities. Top each tomato with a whole stuffed olive. Serve on lettuce. Recipe makes six servings.

Ham Aspic

One tablespoon gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 2 cups ground lean ham, ½ cup chopped celery, ½ cup crushed crackers, 1 pimiento, 1 green pepper, ½ small onion, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Soften the gelatine in cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Mix all ingredients, adding mayonnaise last. Mold, and when firm, slice and serve on lettuce. Recipe makes eight servings.

French Club Salad Dressing

One medium-sized onion, ½ cup sugar, 1/3 cup catsup, 1/3 cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup salad oil.

Grate the onion, mix with the sugar, catsup, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Add the oil and beat all the ingredients together until well blended.

Combination Salad Dressing

One teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cayenne, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup salad oil, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 2 tablespoons chili sauce.

Put seasonings in a bowl. Add egg unbeaten, lemon juice and one-quarter cup of oil. Beat well with an egg beater, and add remaining oil slowly. Just before serving, add the remaining ingredients. The chili sauce will thin the dressing slightly.

English Salad Dressing

One-half teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, 1 teaspoon chopped mint or mint sauce, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 4 teaspoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon vinegar, ¼ teaspoon celery seed.

Mix all the ingredients together and beat until smooth.

Spinach Cakes—Onion Sauce

One and one-quarter cups cooked spinach, 1 hard-cooked egg, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 1 onion, 1 cup thin white sauce.

Drain spinach, chop very fine with hard-cooked egg. Add salt, pepper and well-beaten egg. Let stand for fifteen minutes to stiffen, then form into flat cakes and dip into fine crumbs. Pan-fry in hot fat until brown on both sides. Add grated onion to white sauce and pour over the spinach cakes. Recipe makes four servings.

Baconed Corn Bread

One cup corn meal, 1 cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup bacon, cut in small pieces.

Sift the dry ingredients together. Beat the egg, add the milk, then dry materials. Put in greased pan and sprinkle the bacon over the top. Bake in moderately hot oven.

Time in cooking, 20 minutes. Temperature, 375 degrees. Recipe fills pan 8 x 8 inches.

Corn Pudding

Two cups grated or canned corn, 4 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk.

If canned corn is used, put it through food chopper, using fine knife. Add beaten egg yolks and the remaining ingredients. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm. This is a good way to use up left-over egg yolks. Three yolks instead of four will give satisfactory results.

Time in cooking, 45 minutes. Temperature, 325 degrees. Recipe makes eight servings.

Southern Sallies

One and one-half cups milk, 1 yeast cake, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 quart flour, 2 tablespoons melted shortening.

Heat the milk to lukewarm, add yeast, sugar, salt, and eggs well beaten. Sift flour twice and add it gradually to liquid mixture. Add shortening and beat well to a smooth batter. Cover, and set in warm place to rise (about three hours). When light, stir down and put by spoonfuls into greased muffin pans. Let rise again until light (about one hour) and bake in moderate oven until light brown.

Time in cooking, 30 minutes. Temperature, 350 degrees. Recipe makes 20 muffins.

Peanut Butter Tea Rolls

One yeast cake, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 cup scalded milk, ½ cup peanut butter, about 3½ cups flour, ¼ cup melted shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, pinch nutmeg, 2 eggs.

Dissolve the yeast cake in the lukewarm water. Into the lukewarm milk stir the peanut butter, and add one and one-half cups of flour. Beat well, and add the yeast. Let rise until light, then add shortening, sugar, salt, nutmeg and well beaten eggs. Add flour to make a soft dough. Knead and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. When light, shape into rolls. Put in a greased pan, let rise until light and bake in a hot oven.

Time in cooking, 15 minutes. Temperature, 400 degrees. Recipe makes 30 rolls.

Cocoa Biscuits

Three cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons cocoa, 2 tablespoons shortening, about 2/3 cup milk.

Sift all the dry ingredients together and rub in the shortening. Add enough milk to make a firm but not stiff dough. Turn out on slightly floured board, roll to desired thickness, cut with biscuit cutter, place close together in pan and bake in a hot oven.

Time in cooking, 15 minutes. Temperature, 400 degrees. Recipe makes 2 dozen biscuits.

Bran Bread

Two cups white flour, 2½ teaspoons soda, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups bran, 2 cups graham flour, 2 cups sour milk, 1 cup molasses, 1 egg, ½ cup hot water, 1 cup raisins, ½ cup walnut meats.

Sift white flour, soda, sugar and salt. Mix thoroughly with the bran and graham flour. Mix milk with molasses and well beaten egg, add to dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Add hot water and lastly the raisins and walnut meats, cut fine and dredged in flour. Bake in greased bread pans in moderate oven.

This recipe may be varied by using either buttermilk or sweet milk instead of sour milk, also by using two teaspoons baking powder (sifted with the flour and soda) instead of the egg. Chopped dates or figs may be added, or substituted for the raisins, and the nuts may be omitted.

Time in cooking, 1½ hours. Temperature, 350 degrees. Recipe makes 2 medium-sized loaves.

Spanish Cauliflower

Two tablespoons butter or other cooking fat, 1 small onion, few sprigs parsley, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, ¼ cup tomato catsup, 1 medium-sized cauliflower.

Cook the onion and an equal amount of chopped parsley in the butter until brown. Season with celery salt. Add flour and smooth to a paste, then add the water and stir until the mixture boils. Strain and add the catsup. Pour over the head of boiled cauliflower. Recipe makes six servings.

Baked Apples, Virginia

8 firm, winter apples, 3 cups sugar, 2 cups water, 6 blades mace, 2 small lemons, 1 peppercorn, few small bits of stick cinnamon, 32 whole cloves.

Pare the apples and drop in cold water to stand while the syrup is made. To the sugar, add the water and bring to a boil and skim twice. Add mace, shredded peel of lemons, peppercorn and cinnamon. Stick four whole cloves in each apple, drop apples into boiling syrup with strained juice of the lemons. Boil fruit rapidly for five minutes, turn it over and let it simmer until tender and transparent. Skin apples out with perforated skimmer, draining away all the syrup, and arrange in a deep glass dish. Boil the syrup until it jellies when dropped on a cold plate, dip it by spoonfuls over the apples, set in a cool place and allow to harden. Serve with ham, on separate glass plates. Recipe makes 8 servings.

Peach Custard Pie

1 cup dried peaches, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon salt, pastry.

Soak the peaches over night in cold water, cook until soft, cut in small pieces. Scald milk, add well beaten eggs, mixed with sugar, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, and salt. Add the peaches and pour into an unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle the rest of the cinnamon over the top. Put into a hot oven, after ten minutes reduce the temperature to moderate.

Time in cooking, 45 minutes. Temperature, 425-325 degrees. Recipe makes 1 pie.

Dried Fruit Salad

For each serving use two prunes, two dates and about two tablespoons raisins. Soak the prunes in cold water, and cook until tender. Stone prunes and dates. Stuff prunes with cream cheese and dates with walnut meats. Chop raisins, make into balls and roll in coconut. Arrange the fruit on lettuce, serve with cream mayonnaise or French dressing.

Fruited Indian Pudding

1 quart milk, ½ cup corn meal, 1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup dried figs, ½ cup puffed raisins.

Scald the milk, add corn meal and cook in a double boiler for fifteen minutes. Add remaining ingredients, and bake in a greased baking dish in a slow oven.

Time in cooking, 4 hours. Temperature, 350 degrees. Recipe makes 8 servings.

Gingersnaps

Time in cooking, 5 minutes. Temperature, 375 degrees.

Recipe makes about 100 cookies.

Suet Pudding

2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1 pinch nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped suet, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup water.

Mix flour, soda, spices and salt together and add the suet. Add the molasses and water, and stir the mixture thoroughly. Put into a greased mold that has a tight top. Steam about three hours.

Mix the molasses, butter, ginger and cream, and cook to the consistency of thick cream. Serve hot.

Soda Biscuits, Illinois Fashion

1 quart flour, 2 teaspoons baking soda, 1 pinch salt, ½ cup shortening, sour milk.

Sift the flour with soda and salt, and rub shortening into the flour. Add sour milk to make a moderately soft dough. Roll out, handling as little as possible, cut with a round cutter, brush over with melted butter and place in flat pans, leaving room for the biscuits to swell a bit. Bake in a hot oven.

Time in cooking, 15 minutes. Temperature, 450 degrees.

Recipe makes 1½ dozen biscuits.

DELAY IN RECLAIMING FORESTS A CRIME

The United States can not afford to let things drift in working out the most economical and advantageous use of its forest areas, Chief Forester R. Y. Stuart of the United States Department of Agriculture declared last week.

"Already conditions have been created in parts of the country which leave it doubtful whether some of the land has not passed over from the class of potentially useful into the class of permanent though artificial desert," Major Stuart said. "It may be past the point at which it will even repay public reclamation. To let this conversion go on is a crime against posterity. It is also an impairment of present values such as we can not ourselves afford."

With three-fourths of the forest land, and six-sevenths of the population, the eastern half of the United States contains less than two-fifths of the country's standing saw timber, the Chief Forester pointed out. The problem of putting the land to productive and beneficial use is particularly acute in this section. Less than one-sixth of its forests are virgin, and it is now drawing upon the virgin stands of the West for more than 20 per cent of its annual consumption of lumber. Its cut-over forests vary in present condition from second-growth ripe for the saw to land wholly denuded of valuable timber. Of the total eastern forest area more than 95 per cent is privately owned.

The United States can not afford to wait passively for economic forces to work out the problem in their slow way, says Major Stuart.

"In time," he continued, "those forces alone would largely accomplish what needs to be done. Gradually private landowners will come to grow timber crops on a larger and larger part of the 336,000,000 acres of eastern forest land which they now own. Gradually they will abandon a larger and larger part of the land which they can not make pay enough to meet its tax bills."

"Gradually forced public ownership of these abandoned and wrecked lands, brought about through a process of automatic land classification, will lead to policies of public administration and reclamation expenditures. The public and private burdens imposed by shortages of necessary forest products and in the form of impoverished localities, steeper mountains, man-made deserts, and violent changes in the character of stream flow, will sternly bring home the necessity for finding remedies. But the cost of waiting for all this and the easily preventable deterioration in the ability of the forest to respond to right practices make the suggestion of such a course monstrous."

"Two major purposes need to be pursued," Major Stuart said, in pointing out a desirable remedial program. "One of them is to hasten the economic process by which, in time, probably the major fraction of the present private forest land in the eastern half of the country—and for that matter in the West, too—will come to be used for timber growing by its owners, as a paying private enterprise. The other is to adopt public policies of forest-land acquisition and administration on a scale that will bring the East, without too long delay, into a situation more nearly comparable with that of the West and of every great nation of the civilized world having extensive forest resources."

In every part of the country, according to Major Stuart, it is important to check the forest deterioration caused by fire. Both the Federal Government and in most regions the private owners must more fully meet their responsibility in this regard. In addition, a large part of the public effort in connection with forestry must be directed toward finding out the how and where of private forestry and getting the results into practical use—toward research and industrial education. However, private forestry at best will never accomplish more than a partial solution of the forestry problem. Public forestry must attack the core from the other side through State, Federal, and municipal force acquisition, aimed primarily at obtaining the land most necessary from the standpoint of watershed protection, recreation, and like public needs, land which, under management, will tend most effectively to stimulate private interest in timber growing and land necessitating such outlay for its reclamation to good timber growing conditions that not for a long time, if ever, will private capital make use of it.

When illusions are over, when the distractions of sense, the vagaries of fancy, and the tumults of passion have dissolved even before the body is cold, which once they thronged and agitated, the soul merges into intellect, intellect into conscience, conscience into the unbroken, awful solitude of its own personal accountability; and though the inhabitants of the universe were within the spirit's ken, this personal accountability is as strictly alone and unshared, as if no being were throughout immensity but the spirit and its God.—Henry Giles.

JAPAN GIVES NEW YEAR FOURTEEN-DAY WELCOME

The Japanese New Year festival, which, since the adoption of the Gregorian calendar, begins on January 1, is celebrated with ceremony for fourteen days. Preparations begin even before that date. Several of the old-time customs still survive which pave the way for the main celebration. One ceremony, traced back to the ancient rite of expelling demons, is the scattering of parched beans in four directions, with the words: "Out with the devils; in with the good luck!" In many doorways is seen the straw rope, or shimenawa, hung to keep the Sun Goddess in the household.

The streets during the New Year's celebration are made lively by much stilt-walking, top-spinning, jumping, ball-playing and rope-pulling. Men and boys indulge in kite-flying, their air toys taking such fantastic forms as birds, cuttle fish, butterflies or huge portraits of national heroes. Girls, dressed in their best clothes, play battledore and shuttlecock or wander into the country carrying flat bamboo baskets to gather the seven Spring grasses. These greens, among them deadnettle, shepherd's purse and rock-rose, are needed for the celebration of a festival which begins on the seventh of the month.

While the youths are enjoying the outdoor sports, the older people write New Year's poems or play games. The ability to compose poems is considered necessary in a cultured person.

On the first day of the year dancers and musicians go from house to house. The latter charm away birds of ill omen, while the dancers usually enact the lion dance. The people visit their friends, exchanging small gifts such as preserves, fish, fruit, towels or other articles, carefully wrapped in paper. With each gift is a strip of fies singleness of affection. No work is done on the first day; all stores are closed.

A pretense of returning to normal life is made on the second day. The storehouse of treasures is then opened and enjoyed. On the fourth day the fire brigades of Tokio march in procession and perform feats of gymnastics. At dawn on the seventh day the master of the house washes the seven herbs in the first water drawn from the well. He chops them carefully and boils them in a kind of rice gruel, to be served with ceremony at breakfast. The burning of the kado-matsu and other decorations on the fourteenth or fifteenth day brings the festival to a close.

HYPHENS HAVE USES

In spite of the prejudice of linotypers and proofreaders against the hyphen, the Nomad must be permitted to say that there are certain words that particularly need the hyphen. There is, for instance, a word which lately has often been seen in the paper—the word "coworker." In that unhyphenated form, the term suggests a Western wielder of the lariat, or a humble employee in an Eastern dairy. The word does not, however, really signify a worker among cows. Put a hyphen in it—"co-worker"—and you have the meaning all right. Then there is the word "cooperation." It suggests barrels. At Harvard they spell it that way, and actually abbreviate it to "the coop," which suggests something else again. No doubt we must become accustomed to "coworker" as well as "cooperative." Modern typographical requirements have already done away with italics, and perhaps they are going to abolish the hyphen. The next generation will not know what the term "hyphenated American" means—and in that respect it will be lucky.—The Nomad, Boston Transcript.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF FLYING

Exactly twenty-five years ago man for the first time realized a dream as old as Daedalus. After having made some 2,000 glides without a motor to discover the secret of the soaring bird, the Wright brothers vaulted into the air with an engine-driven machine over the bleak sands of Kitty Hawk. Of the short flights made on that eventful December 17 the longest lasted less than a minute and the distance covered was less than a thousand feet. Behind the Wrights lay centuries of failure and discouragement broken only by a few tantalizing successes with small motor-driven models.

That two simple mechanics of the familiar Yankee whittler type should have succeeded where the best minds from Leonardo down had come to grief seems so anomalous that even today aeronautic engineers fail to realize that the success at Kitty Hawk marked the culmination of seven long years of cautious but persistent experimenting which had nothing of the haphazard about it and which was partly conducted with a wind-tunnel and with measuring instruments. It was, therefore, scientific in the best sense of the term. The technologist is apt to forget that every invention is an evolution. Principle is added to principle until a technical heritage is created. Then comes an Arkwright, a Morse, an Edison, the Wrights, endowed with an almost miraculous gift of imaginative synthesis—men who assemble seemingly unrelated discoveries and produce a startlingly new mechanism. Reflecting as it does the common sense of practical men, the patent law recognizes this and gives to the Wrights the full credit of having created a patentable invention even though all its elements were old.

Great is the contrast between the primitive, unruly ten-horsepower biplane of 1903 and the swift one-seater of today. Twenty-five years ago canvas stretched over two superposed wooden frames. In front an elevator, and in the rear a rudder. The pilot at first lay prone and later sat on the lower wing and saw the earth swim past between his legs. There was no instrument board—not even a compass.

Today Lindbergh sits completely enclosed in a beautifully shaped fuselage. Two hundred and fifty horsepower drive him across the Atlantic at a speed of over 100 miles an hour. Speeds three times as great are now and then attained. Wings are so strong that they withstand the buffeting of ocean gales and Arctic blizzards. Tens of thousands think nothing of flying from one European city to another, each year, over one of the eighty European airlines.

Surely this is not the end. Astounding technical developments are forecast in the designs of engineers who boldly plan airplanes without bodies—mere wings of such span and thickness that a hundred passengers can be carried within them in comfortable cabins. More pressingly needed than these leviathans are Lindberghs of commerce—business men who are animated by the spirit of adventure that created the East India Company and who will capitalize the successes of the engineer and the transatlantic flier. To organize transatlantic and transcontinental flying so that an American may proceed to any large city and soar in easy stages to London, Paris, Berlin or Tokio in a machine which carries the greatest possible number of paying passengers is a task that should fire the mercantile imagination. What if some 500,000 pounds of mail are carried in a single month in the United States? It still takes four days to travel from New York to San Francisco and six to cross the Atlantic—and this in an age when flying is demonstrably safe. What if Europe is threatened by air lines? They are all subsidized. The transatlantic cable had its Cyrus Field, the railway its Vanderbilt, Villard and Hill, the automobile its Ford.

OLDSMOBILE SALES INCREASE 60 PER CENT.

SLOAN DECLARES MORE CAR SALES IN 1929

The production and shipments of Oldsmobiles gained 60 per cent during 1928, according to Mr. Bucher of Hammond Motors, Inc., Wilmington dealers. This increase was over the 1927 figures, which was the previous high mark, and sets a new all time record for the company.

Oldsmobile is entering 1929 with increased manufacturing schedules and officials of the company are optimistic regarding the outlook for the new year. It is expected that another substantial increase will be reported at the end of the year.

The attitude of the Oldsmobile officials is in line with that of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, of which Oldsmobile is a division. Mr. Sloan has declared his belief that more automobiles will be sold during the new year than there were during 1928.

Oldsmobile also is in physical condition to take full advantage of the prosperous conditions. During the past year eight large buildings have paralleled that of the home organization and equipment installed to permit the large production increase called for by the 1929 manufacturing schedules.

From the time of the announcement of the new Oldsmobile at the automobile shows in 1928 sales steadily increased and were limited only by the ability of the company to manufacture.

The Hammond Company's progress paralleled that of the home organization. Sales neared a 90 per cent increase over 1927, a new and larger showroom was built on the new Automobile Row—North Market street.

Mr. Bucher wishes all patrons, friends and organizations a prosperous and happy New Year.

A GOOD RESOLUTION

Mr. Warren Singles of the Newark Trust Company suggests for a 1929 New Year's resolution—"Make your will."

Of course, you love your near ones, but do you love them well enough to protect their future. No one knows what tomorrow may bring. Therefore recognizing this fact everyone should make his or her will. If this is not done, perhaps you do not realize that your estate may be distributed according to the established laws of the State. These laws are general, and they very seldom care for a distribution as would be made if the one gone could be present. Then again, you invite court delays, disappointments, and sometimes loss of chances to those who you would care for. Then again it may be necessary for the Court to appoint an administrator, and the chances are good that the one appointed would not have met with your approval.

If you make your will you are showing good judgment in practical foresight. Your estate will be distributed

Not yet has the genius of commerce appeared who will organize and direct the argosies of the air. For him we still wait to make the most of the great invention given to us by the Wrights twenty-five years ago.—N. Y. Times.

No man is nobler born than another, unless he is born with better abilities and a more amiable disposition. They who make such a parade with their family pictures, and pedigrees, are, properly speaking, rather to be called noted or notorious than noble persons. I thought it right to say this much, in order to repel the insolence of men who depend entirely upon chance and accidental circumstances for distinction, and not at all on public services and personal merit.—Seneca.

Doris Dawson "points with pride" to her new Oldsmobile laudan sedan while she "views with alarm" the camera man. Doris is with the First National Pictures and, like other Hollywood girls, is camera shy. Only her regard for her new Oldsmobile tempted her to pose for this picture—so she says.

Pictorially Speaking

according to the provisions you have made in your will. You can say, by whom, to whom, how and when your estate is to be distributed. You can arrange for distribution of insurance, property income, or cash payment, how, when and to whom you desire.

Again you can name your own executor, to see that the provisions of your will are fully carried out. It is here where the Newark Trust can prove of material assistance to you, your naming a Corporate Executor guarantees the fulfillment of your wishes.

It will not cost you anything and it might be the saving of years of trouble by just having a talk with Mr. Singles about the making of your will.

ADD COMFORT AND VALUE TO YOUR HOME

Mr. Pavoni of the Artificial Stone and Tile Company at 9th and Lincoln streets, Wilmington, is now installing the Readybuilt fireplaces and claims the reasons for so many installations are as follows.

The growing popularity of fireplaces in modern homes, the attractive beauty of the Readybuilt designs, and the comparative low cost of installation. Any house will sell better, and sell quicker with a real up-to-date fire place. In fact Mr. Pavoni claims six distinct advantages for his Readybuilt installations: 1, less expensive; 2, easy to install; 3, variety of effects; 4, stronger than brick; 5, beautiful in design, and sixth but not last, perfection of finish. When you are in Wilmington stop in and see the display. Mr. Pavoni will be very glad to show them to you.

RECORDING REMEMBRANCES

There is nothing so pleasant, and nothing so valuable as a real photograph of some interest of the past. The childhood sweetness of your children, the small beginning of your business efforts.

The Commercial Studio at No. 1 West 6th street, Wilmington, can render you a real service, they are often in Newark and a phone call or a line written to them will have them call the next time they are in town. You will be agreeably surprised at the small cost of a photograph of just the kind you have been wanting. Don't forget to call or write.

NEW MULTIGRAPHING SERVICE AT CANN BROS.

Two large catalogue contracts were closed last week by Cann Brothers and Kindig, printers at Twelfth and Washington street, Wilmington. One of the jobs, which will be in three colors, will consist of 86 pages. The other catalogue is in two colors, and will be 56 pages. Five thousand copies of each catalogue will be printed. They are for one concern and will deal with machinery, being profusely illustrated with cuts and tables of figures. The type was set on the new monotype machines and run off on the new presses.

Cann Brothers and Kindig received additional new equipment last week, which permits the multigraphing and filling in of names and addresses on envelopes at the same time. This permits of perfect color and alignment, making the copy hardly distinguishable from personal typewritten letters. A number of concerns, which had previously been opposed to multigraph work, are taking advantage of the new methods offered by this firm.

Cann Brothers did a great deal of Christmas card printing this year for many commercial firms, and also mailed them. The business in this department was much bigger than last year.

BRICK PRODUCTION HAS INCREASED 2,000,000

Two million more bricks were manufactured by the Oberly Brick Company of Wilmington during 1928, a comparison to the production for 1927. These figures were given out by Charles M. Oberly, president of the company, last week. Inasmuch as 1927 was one of the best years in the history of the company, the officials are very well satisfied with the business done in 1928. With considerable building going on and home construction on the increase, the firm is very optimistic as to the business for this year.

At the present time, the Oberly Brick Company is sending brick to the new school being built at Ashtabula and to a large residential operation at Twenty-ninth street, east of Baymont Boulevard, Wilmington, which is being constructed by Charles P. Winkler, Clinker, red and Colonial brick is included in this order.
