FAST URSINUS TEAM HAS LITTLE TROUBLE DEFEATING DELAWARE

Several Blue And Gold Pitchers Could Not Stop Onslaught, Score 14 to 5

Delaware College baseball team played Ursinus at Frazier Field today and were defeated by the score of 14-5. It was a long, loosely-played game without much "pep" being displayed by either side. It looked like Delaware's game when they secured four runs in the second inning on three hits, two errors and a sacrifice, but Ursinus came back strong and through bad support on the part of Delaware were able to get a run every inning except the seventh. "Jack" Work was taken off the mound in the fifth and Anderson took his place. He pitched pretty good ball until the 7th when he made way for a pinch hitter. Sipple pitched the eighth and Cantwell finished the game. Ursinus had an easy time of it after the third inning and kept on adding to the score.

Delaware has lost all her games this season and it is hoped she will come back strong in her last game, with Swarthmore, next Saturday, at Swarthmore. There will be practice all this week and Coach Baumgartner will endeavor to instill some real baseball in the men for this game. Score:

Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania will be the only contestants likely to enter the intercollegiate rowing regatta to be held on the Hudson next June.

BASKETBALL "D's" AWARDED

Class Numerals Also Given

In chapel on Friday, April 26, Coach Baumgartner awarded letters and numerals to the basketball men. The varsity men, who received their "D's" are: D. P. Horsey, capt.; H. Marston, capt. elect; B. Carter, H. B. Alexander, W. Ritz, F. Lord, W. Barnard, and E. Wilson. Numerals were awarded as follows: '18—K. R. Bowen, A. R. Lauritsen, C. S. Holland, M. Wilson, J. Alexander, and E. P. Catts. '19—L. Plam, G. Longland, H. Downing, J. G. Craig, and E. E. Ewing. '20—P. H. Marvel, R. P. Kite, H. W. Loose, L. H. Gordy, and F. P. McCardell. '21—H. Aiken, R. N. Foulk, J. Pierson, T. Attix, and J. Wilson.

"Ag" Meeting

The Agricultural Club held its regular meeting last Tuesday evening with almost all the members present. The term of the officers expired at this time and a new election was held. The retiring officers were: Nat Taylor, president; Fred Martenis, vice president; George Long, secretary, and Clyde Holland, treasurer. John Davis presided over the meeting, and the new officers elected were: F. L. O'Rourke, president; Robert Poole, vice president; J. Lawson Cruthers, secretary, and George Cullen, treasurer.

The new president, F. L. O'Rourke, then made an address in which he thanked the club members for the honor they were conferring upon him, and he said that if the members would only back him up and show him their loyal support, he was sure that one of the most successful years in the history of the club was in store for them.

Arnold Barnard then brought up the matter of a baseball game between the members of the club and the professors of the faculty of the Agricultural course. This proposition met with instant approval, and F. L. O'Rourke was elected manager, and John Meredith, captain of the team. The manager then drafted up a challenge, and it has been sent to the Agricultural faculty.

Engineering Society Meets

On Monday evening, April 22, the Delaware College Engineering Society held a very interesting meeting in Mechanical Hall. The meeting opened with a short talk by E. Paul Catts on the modern wireless. Following this talk, J. Avery Mather presented a very interesting exposition of some anti-submarine devices which are now being used against the Huns. At this meeting there was present Mr. Marshal Jones, an alumnus of Delaware who is now employed in the sales division of the Westinghouse Electric Co. Mr. Jones spoke of the Westinghouse methods and showed the society by an organization chart just how the various departments are related to one another. He then spoke of the manufacture of the Westinghouse Direct Current motor. In connection with his talk, Mr. Jones showed a series of lantern slides illustrating the various processes of manufacture.

ALUMNI PRIZES TO BE GIVEN

Speaking Contest May 16

Arrangements have now been made for the awarding of the alumni prizes for speaking this year. These prizes which comprise a first prize of fifteen dollars, a second prize of ten dollars, and a third prize of five dollars are designed to stimulate interest and to encourage proficiency in public speaking. Previous to last year, the prizes were awarded for the three best debaters in an annual contest between the two literary societies of the college. A departure was made from this method last year and the plan then adopted is to be continued in this contest. The rules governing the speeches are as follows: (1) All speakers must select some patriotic subject. (2) The speeches must be written up and handed to some one of the English professors before May 9, 1918. (3) These speeches must contain from 500 to 600 words. (4) The Speaking contest will be held in the evening on May 16. Practically everyone in college can speak and everyone can say something within the very wide range of subject matter allowed. On this account a great amount of interest is to be expected in the contest, and every college man is urged to try his ability.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO DEPARTING PROFESSORS

Delightful Party Given In Old College

Last Tuesday evening a reception was tendered those members of the Faculty who will not return to Delaware in the fall. The reception was held in Old College and was arranged by the social committee of the college. The affair was attended by a large number of friends of the college, the members of the Faculty and their wives, several members of the Faculty of the Women's College, the Senior class, and the four class presidents.

The receiving line with Dr. Mitchell at its head greeted the guests at eight-thirty and from that time until eleven o'clock jollity and music prevailed.

To break the monotony of pleasure, refreshments were served under the guidance of Miss Stuart, and as usual they were more than enjoyed. Conversation began to wane at this point and at the suggestion of a dance, the floor was cleared for action, and in less time than it takes to tell it, every one had secured a partner and was dancing to the irresistible rag of "Charlie" Sutfin.

Everyone voted the evening's entertainment a brilliant success and it was with a spirit of hesitancy that the revellers left Old College.

It was with regret that the guests and friends bade the departing professors farewell and the reception given them can only serve as a shadow to the true appreciation which everyone feels toward them for their faithful and efficient service.

GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUB CONCERT

Large Attendance Desired

On Thursday evening, May 2, a final concert will be given by the college glee and mandolin clubs in Wolf Hall. As this will be the last time this year that we shall be able to hear our favorite musical organizations we should turn out for this concert to a man.

The glee club has been under the training of Mr. G. Leslie Carpenter for the last six months and is therefore quite capable of rendering a pleasing entertainment in songs. The mandolin club has been ardently practicing under the able leadership of Jay Robinson and is now prepared with popular selections of both classical and rag-time music.

There are those of us who are not sufficiently talented to be members of either of these musical clubs but by our presence at the concert we can show the boys and Mr. Carpenter that we are interested in the organizations and that we want them continued next year. On the success of this concert largely depends the life of the Glee Club another year.

Let us talk the thing up from now until May 2nd so that we may have every seat in Wolf Hall filled on that evening.

Tickets may be purchased from E. E. Ewing, C. I. Sutfin, or I. H. Boggs for the small sum of 25 cents. Let us all fool the movie man on this night and go to the concert in Wolf Hall.

Liberty Loan

Now that the last week of the campaign of the Liberty Loan has arrived, even greater interest is being shown by some of the classes than before. The college has responded nobly to the call, having subscribed $13,300 so far, but some of us can do still more. The individual standing of the classes is as follows: Seniors, $1,550; Juniors, $500; Sophomores, $450; Freshmen, $800.

The Seniors have worked hard and deserve a lot of credit for the grand total they have gathered; the Freshmen also deserve some credit for the $800 they have already gathered. But they have not stopped with this amount, and are now striving to reach the $1,000 mark. But what is the matter with the Junior, and especially the Sophomore classes. They can surely show better results than they have so far! The Sophomore class is priding itself on its "pep" and initiative, and the advancement of every idea brought before it. But where is that "punch" now? Is it lacking in the crisis? If not, why not get back of the Liberty Loan and put your class "over the top"?

The college has Mr. H. Rodney Sharp to thank for the splendid contribution which he placed through us of the sum of $10,000. Mr. Sharp is a true friend of the College and is always on the lookout for some means to advance the good name of the institution.

Special technical training will be given to drafted men this summer at the Wisconsin University where the buildings and equipment have been loaned to the Government for the purpose.

A Year In Harter Hall

As the year has gone by, we have become familiar with the "dorma,"—or at least with one section of them, Harter Hall, whose shape itself foreshadows what is to come. As we go down the street at night we like the friendly look of the lighted windows. We have grown familiar with the outside of the dormitory, but not all of us have known what was developing inside of it. Recently a friendly stranger while among us made some observations on student life at Delaware. He did not intend his notes for publication, but with his permission they have been used in writing the article on the dorma which follows. In fact the paper is almost a transcription. Much of it is a statement of familiar facts, but occasionally these are construed by the writer to signify developments which perhaps had not suggested themselves even to the residents concerned.

There had not been a dormitory at Delaware College for some years until Harter Hall was opened last fall! consequently there was no provision in the organization of the college for regulating the life of the men who would be brought together by its walls. It was a critical matter: such things do not regulate themselves. Such a building cannot remain without a soul, good or evil. What spirit would reign in Harter Hall during the years and generations to come was certain to be determined largely during this first year.

An experiment in democracy was tried. The faculty, probably simply because it had no plan, left the matter up to the students. There is a Student Government Association at Delaware College, organized in 1916, and reorganized last year, when it was principally active in conducting examinations under an honor system. The remnant of the Student Council, which had drifted over from the previous spring, acting upon the suggestion of Dean Smith and others, selected a committee which the faculty agreed to recognize and put the dormitory life into its hands. This off-shoot proved to be more vigorous than the parent stem.

The original committee consisted of the following men: John F. Davis, and Wm. H. Hann, seniors, Donald Dare, a sophomore, and two freshmen, Price and Ward; one man for each of the small sections into which the dormitory is divided. The committee elected Davis chairman, and Davis has been the head of Harter Hall. The members of the committee were to be known as floor-leaders, but they have been

A Shorter Year

Before this collegiate year is over attention should be paid to the probable necessity of shortening and "speeding-up" the next collegiate year which is scheduled to start on September 19. There are 19 days of holidays and mid-year examinations during the first term of the next session. But one of these should be observed if the war is still in progress. That is Christmas Day.

Students at Delaware feel the uselessness of holidays and feel that those days could be better utilized during the Summer vacation while they are engaged in some war work. Holidays in our present state are enemies to efficiency and production. The writer feels that with little inconvenience 30 days could be taken from the fall term. The 18 days of holidays could be increased by 12 days through a general "speed-up" program. Saturday afternoon should be an afternoon of work as well as any other time while human energy is so valuable. Much time could also be saved by more extensive classroom work per period.

Both students and faculty should know if any action on this matter will be taken. Every one has plans to make and necessarily these plans must all dovetail with the college schedule.

These 30 days would not necessarily be cut from the beginning of the term. If this war is to last four or five years the writer feels that it might be better to start college earlier in the fall (except in the case of the "Ag" students) and cut the time from the end of the second semester. Fifty days in all might be saved in this way, closing college next year on April 15 instead of June 9, 1919. This would give the nation the benefit of graduated men and students more advanced in their training than possible this year. Students in the senior class could thus begin their continuous service about two months earlier. It must also be remembered that labor will undoubtedly be in greater demand in 1919 than it is in 1918.

It is the belief of many of the students that the faculty will take the matter up with the trustees at their meeting in the near future. The students also feel that whatever decision these bodies make will be for the best interests of the nation, the college, and the students.

War And The Student

Within a very short time the academic year will have been completed, and the students will be giving their efforts to more direct activities in the service of the government, namely, the camp, the farm, the ship yard, or the munition plant. Before we leave, however, during the next three weeks, we should once more give thoughtful consideration to that all-important question,—what is the relation of the student to the war? Each individual should endeavor to determine for himself what will, in the long run, prove to be the most beneficial form of service he can perform, in the interest of his country. It is quite possible that to a certain extent, some of the men have already made their decision as to what they are going to do. There are others, however, who are not yet in a position to determine their line of work. To these men a few suggestions would not be out of place.

Profiting by the experience of men who have entered the service since the beginning of the war, others are realizing the foolishness of rashly choosing a branch merely for the sake of doing active work. These men are, to some degree, to be commended for their patriotism and ardor, in making an effort to serve. But in the true sense the man who is really doing his part, is the one who rationally selects a line of work after careful thought, and after he has determined for himself that in this work he can be of more service than in any other. It is obvious that there is some difficulty to be encountered in doing this. Every man is not sufficiently enlightened to make such a selection.

Another thing should be guarded against. Already too many men have entered the service with a view toward bettering their own personal welfare. It is only natural that a man should try to select the most advantageous branch but he should not let this thought be foremost. A man's conscience will determine for him what he should do in such a case. It is unfortunate that there are branches of service in which a man encounters less physical danger. It is too tempting to disguise one's real motives for enlistment by entering such a branch merely because it is less hazardous. The war which we are fighting is one of principle and it will require principle on the part of every man to carry it through successfully. Any man who enters some branch of the service for his own personal advancement at the expense of the country, is a detriment to the government's operations. He is not doing all that he is capable of!

There is a tendency for men of younger years to be influenced by the activities which appeal more directly to the emotions. We are now living under the stress of great excitement, and every real American is eager to do something. Opportunities will come to every man during the summer to get into something which is really active and shows more direct evidence of effort and patriotism. But we must not forget the message which has of late been brought before us so often,—that it is really a patriotic duty to continue in college, if possible, and to complete one's education. Outside influences will be brought to bear upon the student, which will tend to make him feel that he is not doing his share by remaining at his studies. Our government has advised that it is the most effective and patriotic service a college man can perform, and until the time should come when we are all needed it is our duty to stand fast and acquire all that we can now.

All arguments on this question resolve themselves into the one word,—service. If each man, relying upon the faith of his government, consciously determines for himself what his service is,—and does it,—no more can be asked.

New Student Council Constitution

The committee appointed by the acting Student Council to draw up a new constitution for the Student Self-Government Association, reports that it has finished its work, and has submitted it to the Student Council. The latter body soon hopes to present the constitution to the student body for its approval.

It will be remembered that the old constitution was found defective and lacking in many vital details. The Faculty suggested that these defects be remedied, and as a result it was decided to draw up an entirely new constitution which would more clearly define and indicate the functions of Student Self-government. A careful study of the self-governing bodies of other colleges was made by the committee in charge, and from this study were gleaned many important facts.

The new constitution is modeled on the old one, but it contains not a few important changes, and all irrelevant matter has been excluded. Provision has been made for membership which is essentially different from that in the old. An entirely new feature is the recall privilege, whereby a class may recall its representative at any time. At the same time the term of office of the new council has been settled, as well as the time set for taking up this office. There are many other minor changes, and it is hoped that the new constitution will satisfy the long felt need for a workable and practical system of Student Self-government.

Schedules of Athletic Contests

Following is the schedule of athletic contests. The small number of contests in each branch of sport is explained by the fact that college is closing on May 18, and a number of games which had been arranged after that date, were necessarily cancelled.

Dr. Moore Recites In Chapel

The Wednesday morning chapel period was given to Dr. J. R. Moore. For the second time Dr. Moore brought something interesting, humorous, and truly American. He raised the point that the greater part of the modern American literature which is considered good, originated west of the Mississippi River. He backed this statement with illustrations most conclusive in character. During the latter part of the address he recited two typical poems showing the directness, the simplicity, and forcefulness of this pure Western literature. His talk was greatly enjoyed and in the near future the student body hopes to hear him in some of the Southern ballads with which he has such an intimate knowledge as shown by the part he took in the Easter entertainment.

Mandolin Club

On Thursday morning the Mandolin Club made its initial appearance of the term in a twenty minute concert during the chapel period. Under the direction of Jay Robinson the club gave a program of real, live music of the sort that appeals to the fellows of the student body. In the near future the club will again appear in chapel, and as evinced by the generous applause on their last appearance they will surely be given a hearty welcome.

The members of the club are as follows: Jay Robinson, director; Dr. K. R. Greenfield, Draper Smith, Nathaniel Robin, Daniel Barnard, Alexander Blair, Willard Humphrey, Fred Martenis, and Harry Loose. Professor Pailthroe and Dr. Rawlins, the other two members of the club, have left college and as a result the club has been reorganized. Any student or

Faculty member who can play any string instrument should join this club, as it is a favorite among our organizations.

called "proctors" from the first, though they are not proctors in any sense in which the word is usually taken. The ideal of Davis and his associates has been to get along with as little regulation as possible: to substitute a spirit for a discipline. The committee has understood its business to be two-fold: (1) to act as the medium of communication with the college authorities, and to secure for the residents what is due them; (2) to stand for the ideals of the men in the dorms.

An example of their action in the first capacity was their resolution drawn up at a meeting in February, calling the attention of Mr. Langhorne, the business administrator to the discomfort to which the men were being put by the irregular supply of heat during the severe weather of the weeks before, and insisting upon their rights. Evidence was carefully taken, and a resolution couched in respectful but positive terms; and the whole procedure was a creditable example of orderly method, and self-control.

What the writer has observed in regard to the activity of the committee under the second head, and their success in conceiving and carrying out an ideal of community life will be published in a subsequent issue of the Review.

Delaware Defeats*Haverford In Tennis

Last Saturday Delaware for the first time in years defeated the fast Haverford racket wielders by a score of 4-2. Although a brisk wind blew across Frazer Field it was a fine day for tennis. The doubles were first played, Delaware splitting even in this. The Blue and Gold men captured 3 out of the 4 singles. The results were as follows:

McMillan and Humphrey lost to Hanes and Lee, 6-4; 6-8; 2-6.

Sumwalt and Harty won from Weatherby and Webb, 7-5; 3-6; 6-3.

McMillan lost to Hanes, 3-6; 3-6.

Sumwalt won from Lee, 6-1; 6-2.

Humphrey won from Webb, 6-1; 6-2.

Harty won from Weatherby, 6-4; 8-10; 8-6.

The courts were filled with spectators and rooters. Next Saturday the team meets Swarthmore on our courts again at 1.30. Everybody out and help the team along with an occasional yell.

Kappa Alpha Holds*Fourteenth Annual Dance

On last Friday evening, April 26, the Kappa Alpha Fraternity held its fourteenth annual dance in the Newark Armory. The affair was one of the largest and the most successful dance that the fraternity has ever given. Many guests from all parts of the state and from the neighboring towns and cities were present. The Armory was tastefully decorated with crepe paper in the fraternity colors of crimson and old gold. This was arranged in three large cones having their vertices at the top and stretching down to the girders and to the side walls. The fraternity service flag containing 34 stars was ornamentally draped on the rear wall and surmounted by a large electric K. A. emblem and above that was the United States flag. A feature of the decorations was the fountain for the punch. It consisted of a bank of moss and stones with a background of cedar and laurel. The punch bowl was filled by a small pipe seeming to lead from an invisible spring. Underneath the punch bowl, a large electric light served to produce a sparkling effect below the amber punch. The patronesses' corner and the several rest rooms were comfortably fixed up.

The best of music was furnished by Draine's Orchestra of Wilmington. It consisted of eight pieces.

Most delightful refreshments were served in the basement during intermission. They consisted of chicken patties, finger rolls, ice cream, small cakes, coffee, and salted peanuts. They were furnished by Miss Stewart, director of the College Commons.

The program was of heavy paper. On the front was the K.A. coat-of-arms in gold, and above that an individual service flag with the number "34" in the center of the star. Each dance was dedicated to some branch of the service in which the boys were enlisted and to the college and the fraternity. The dance was ended by the playing of the Star Spangled Banner, when all the guests stood at attention. The central idea of the dance was of a military nature and this characteristic was emphasized by the music, programs, and decorations. Among the alumni, now in service who returned for the dance were: Harry V. Taylor, Frank Tyson, Henry Goggin, Carlton D. Pepper, Walter Derrickson, Alfred Connelley, and George Maden.

The patronesses were: Mrs. E. L. Smith, Mrs. G. E. Dutton, Mrs. Walter H. Steele, Mrs. S. J. Wright, Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, Mrs. C. B. Evans, Mrs. J. Pilling, Mrs. C. A. Short, Mrs. G. S. Counts, Mrs. J. P. Wright, Mrs. A. R. Cullimore, Miss Harriett Winslow, Mrs. J. P. Cann, Mrs. E. B. Wright, and Mrs. Herman Tyson.

Penn Relays

Our relay team showed the goods last Saturday at the Penn Relays. The team of Hearne, Craig and Graves and captained by "Davey" Crockett came up to all expectations and finished second only to the strong W. & J. team in the higher class in which it had been placed after our victory of last year. Captain Crockett led off and although Delaware was placed seventh from the pole, "Davey" took the lead and ran a strong race, allowing but one man to pass him in his trip around. Another man slipped by as Graves was touched off. He ran a heady race and finished third, passing the baton to Hearne. Hearne passed one man on the back stretch and was about eight yards behind the leading W. & J. man as he was relieved by Craig. "Specs" ran the prettiest race of the day and succeeded in cutting the lead to four yards. For this performance the men receive their hard-earned "D's," beside the gold medals awarded them at Franklin Field. With this good beginning the track season ought to be a success, and every man in college is urged to get behind the team and support them heartily.
