Our children's road to school leads to more than a place. It leads to understanding.

Look ahead 20 years.

What they'll be capable of achieving then depends a great deal on the quality of the education they are receiving now.

Today's teachers are to be congratulated on their contributions to the development of effective new educational techniques.

Anything and everything adults can do to help the teaching profession in its dedicated work should be done. As a company, we offer free to schools sound teaching aids in the fields of communications and science. As individuals, many telephone men and women play useful roles in volunteer school activities.

Fraternities Win Academic Honors For Local Campus

The University of Delaware has been designated a "summa cum laude" institution on the basis of academic achievement of its fraternity men.

All nine campus social fraternities compiled scholastic indices equal to or better than the university's all-men's index, on the average, for the school year 1961-62. The honor is the highest given by the National Interfraternity Council. At the time of the NIC report, only 16 institutions with a total of 68 chapter affiliates had been so designated.

Alpha Epsilon Pi and Kappa Alpha, tied for the scholastic lead among fraternities with a 2.69 average out of a possible 4.00.

La Maison Francaise, dormitory for women, led all campus living groups for the second straight semester with a near-dean's list average of 3.15. Some 27 women special students copied class honors with a 2.97 index. Senior women were next at 2.99.

RAMBLER RECORD

Rambler retail sales in the Philadelphia zone of American Motors climbed to an all-time record in the 1962 model year, according to R. W. Brost, zone manager.

Over the CLOVER

I hope most of you were able to see some of the displays set up for the Window Display Contest. The windows were very excellent in most cases and all of you did a fine job. The judges had a very difficult time, but a winner must be declared, so here are the results:

The Forest Oak Club from Newark received the first prize award for its display. They used a turning carousel for displaying available projects.

Second prize was won by the State Road Club which used a theme of "Sail Along with 4-H" using sail boats to point out their project areas.

Third prize was won by the Meado-Larks from Meadowood. This club showed a fine community called "4-H Villa" as compared to "Dis-malville" where boys and girls were not active in some project.

The Forest Oak Club will send its display to Wilmington where it will be a part of the CYO exhibit on "Youth on the Go." This will be held Nov. 25-29 and is to show our young people what youth organizations are available to them. This is open to all youth. It will be located on 1800 Howland Street in Wilmington.

This window also will represent New Castle County at the state window display contest at the State Fair in July.

Because we had so many fine windows, we want to mention a few more outstanding exhibits even though we can't award them prizes. But the Blue Hen, Y's Owl, and White Oak clubs all receive honorable mention for fine jobs.

A total of 16 clubs exhibited in New Castle County, trying to show how 4-H can help give our young people a chance to "Have Fun by Doing."

With hunting season here, please be careful. Know what you're aiming at before you fire! "Make the Best Better!"

Senior Citizens Offered Insurance In Hospital Plan

Senior citizens of Delaware who are not already members of Blue Cross and Blue Shield have until the last day of November to apply for membership. Edward J. Dugan, enrollment manager of Group Hospital Service has announced.

Today, Blue Cross and Blue Shield serve almost one-half of all age or older. Dugan said. "Most of these Delawareans in this age group have kept the same membership they had before they reached age 65," he said.

Now, through the month of November the other half of Delaware's senior citizens who do not have Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage may apply for either of two programs — a high level program — "65-National" — and a lower level program — the "65-Limited" contract.

One important feature of this month of November enrollment is that no health statements are required and no health examinations are necessary. Another important feature is that there is no upper-age limit.

Memberships are effective Jan. 1, 1963.

If you have parents or relatives or friends in the 65-and-over age group whom you wish to help, tell them about this month of November enrollment opportunity. Dugan said. "Applications and literature are available at all Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield offices."

Weight Watchers Advised On Care In Dessert Choice

Are you a weight watcher? If so, is it hard for you to give up desserts? Janet Coblentz, University of Delaware foods and nutrition specialist, says there is no reason why you should. You just need to select your desserts more carefully.

Not only desserts, but every food the weight watcher eats should contribute its share of minerals, vitamins or muscle-protecting protein, Miss Coblentz stresses.

Select desserts that are low in fat and rich in minerals and vitamins. Fats, even the unsaturated ones, have twice as many calories as the same weight of sugar, starch or protein food.

Angled food cakes, meringue pie shells, dessert souffles, baked or soft custards contain little or no fat. Many favorite recipes using fat can be made with smaller amounts.

Miss Coblentz says some other ways to cut calories when making desserts are to substitute in recipes:

Use skim for whole milk; whip cream, chilled evaporated or dry milk for whipped cream; or use one of the non-caloric sweeteners for part or all of the sugar.

Then there's the old saying—it isn't what you eat but how much you eat that makes you fat. So, if your sweet tooth calls for an occasional luscious, rich dessert—just eat a small serving and use your will power.

Five Of UD Staff Aid With Annual Land-Grant Event

Five members of the University of Delaware faculty and staff participated in the annual conference of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges in Washington, D. C., last week.

President John A. Perkins, chairman of the association's executive committee, presided at the first general session on Tuesday morning and presented the report of the executive committee at the second general session on Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice M. King, state home demonstration leader, presided at Monday's joint luncheon of the division of agriculture's extension service section and home economics extension, and she conducted the home economics extension section business meeting, presenting the section report at the division meeting.

Dean of Home Economics Irma Ayers presided at the research section business meeting and presented a report of the section at the home economics division meeting on Tuesday.

Dr. Ruben V. Austin, chairman of the university's department of economics and business administration, presided at a business administration division meeting on Tuesday with the topic "Relationships of the Business Program to Other Units of the Institution."

Disinfectant Use Cited For Laundry To Kill Bacteria

Disease-causing bacteria may stay alive on clothing and household fabrics even through home laundering. To curb this family health hazard, Coral Morris, University of Delaware home management specialist, suggests using an effective disinfectant in the wash water.

Warm water laundering is needed to maintain the appearance of some fabrics. But these temperatures are too low to kill bacteria.

Quaternary and phenolic disinfectants and chlorine bleaches are effective in controlling bacteria, but Miss Morris warns that a chlorine bleach may damage some fabrics.

When using a disinfectant, read the label on the container and follow instruction carefully.

A disinfectant need not be used in every wash, but it is safer to use one if there is sickness in the home or neighborhood.

If you use the community laundry, always use a disinfectant to prevent the spread of disease-causing bacteria.

Delaware Alumni Exceed National Gift Average

University of Delaware alumni are above average in their participation in annual alumni giving, according to the recent report by the American Alumni Council.

Delaware alumni rank fourth in the nation among major state universities and land grant colleges.

In the preceding year, Delaware alumni contributed $46,458. A total of 3,381 donors responded out of 12,001 solicited.

The average fund gift was $12.49.

Katharine Jones Advises On Shopping For Lamps

Don't let all new shapes, colors and pulley features dazzle you when you shop for a new lamp, cautions M. Katharine Jones, county extension agent in home economics. These features serve a purpose, but may not solve your lighting problem.

Do some careful planning before shopping so you won't be swayed by the frills and supposedly convenience features of lamps, she advises.

Decide what you want the lamp to do and what type lamp will best serve the purpose.

Seaman Richard Jenkins Serves Aboard Destroyer

Crewmembers of the ship recently presented a 19-year-old boy in a foreign country with a tape recorder to help him in his studies of the English language. The youth is blind, but studies several subjects regularly.

NATIONAL FARM-CITY WEEK
NOV. 16-22

FOR THE BETTERMENT OF ALL

John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the week of November 16 through November 22, 1962, as National Farm-City Week. I call upon our citizens throughout the Nation to participate fully in the observance of that week.

Out of the White House this month came the above Presidential Proclamation. And out across the nation some towns and rural areas were busy this week planning tours and visits by farmers and businessmen to agricultural and industrial installations . . . to cement farm-city interdependence.

The theory of interdependence of city and farm is familiar to basic United States economics. Today an individual farm worker can produce food and fiber for himself and 26 others—the greatest farm efficiency ever known.

At the same time, the American farmer is ever more dependent on the city worker to supply the machines and other tools necessary for this efficient farm production. There has never been a more glaring need for mutual cooperation between producer and consumer, farm hand and city worker. That understanding is necessary for better production of vast agricultural produce, fairer prices, better living standards, greater efficiency and, generally, for a more stable and prosperous America.

We welcome and endorse National Farm-City Week.

Letters To The Editor

Nov. 13, 1962

Sir: In response to two of my critics, Mr. Felbeck and Mr. Smith of the "Newark Better Government Association" who disagree with my letter to the Newark Post on the PAS Report, I am amused while they are confused.

This organization is far from representing a "majority" of Newark's citizens as claimed.

I restate my feelings. The secrecy in discussing this report is entirely unbecoming. The report merely parrots the feelings of a minority, and it has political implications. I call their attention to the words of a great President, Abraham Lincoln:

"If you once forfeit the confidence of your fellow citizens, you can never regain their respect and esteem. It is true that you may fool all of the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all of the time; but you can't fool all of the people all the time."

Tips On Care And Cooking Of Small Game Offered Hunters, Wives By Food Expert

For the hunter who kills small animals and waterfowl and for the housewife who prepares and cooks them, here are a few tips from Janet Coblenz, University of Delaware foods and nutrition specialist.

All game should be field dressed immediately to prevent bacterial action. This is the job of the hunter and usually means removing the viscera. Evisceration not only prevents bacterial growth but opens the body cavity to the air so the carcass can cool more rapidly.

When the hunter gets home, he should remove the skin of rabbits and squirrels and the feathers of birds—as well as their feet, head and tail.

It's then up to the homemaker to either cook the game immediately or store it.

If it's to be stored, freezing is easiest. Game is frozen the same as other meats. It should not, however, be kept more than four months.

Since freezing does not improve the quality of any food, it is best to freeze only high quality game. Use moisture-vapor-resistant packaging materials. Label all packages with the name of the item; date frozen; and the number of servings or weight.

The best way to cook small game animals is according to their age. Age may be difficult to judge, but you can figure 80 per cent of the small game taken in season is less than one-year old. This game is tender and may be cooked by oven-roasting, broiling, or pan-broiling methods.

Because small animals are always skinned, the meat may easily become dry and tough. To avoid this, cover with an oil or fat-soaked cheesecloth during roasting. As this dries, baste with more oil or fat. Bacon fat is especially good because it masks the game flavor.

It takes about an hour to broil, roast or pot-roast squirrels and rabbits. Both, however, can be broiled. This takes only 30 to 40 minutes.

For every 1/2 to 3/4 pounds of ready-to-cook squirrel or rabbit, you will get one to two servings. Most people prefer to oven-roast ducks and geese. Without dressing, this will take about 45 minutes at 300 degrees F—with dressing, 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 hours.

Apple chunks may be used as a stuffing. The apples will absorb some of the game flavor, but should be discarded after roasting.

To add special zest to waterfowl, use spices and herbs—but with discretion. Try basil, oregano, marjoram, sage, thyme, savor or rosemary.

Plans Announced For Hi, Tri-Hi-Y At County Council

The Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y County Council met recently at the Central "Y" in Wilmington, with each club sending one representative to help plan county-wide activities.

Programs for December will include a teen-canteen at the Central YMCA, Wilmington, and a conference in Hagerstown, Md.

The teen-canteen will be open to all Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in New Castle County, and the clubs will be allowed to use the swimming pool, gym, ping-pong and pool tables, and there will be a dance afterward. This is the only social event of the year planned on a county basis.

The conference in Hagerstown will be held Dec. 7-9, and the Newark area is limited to 20 people. During this conference delegates will stay in homes of other Hi-Y members.

In March, there will be a local conference which every Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y member may attend, to provide the leadership and fellowship that officers receive.

Katharine Jones Advises Habit Of Label-Reading

Label on food products can take the guesswork out of shopping, believes M. Katharine Jones, New Castle County extension agent in Home Economics.

Miss Jones points out that labels which the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act has established for all foods that cross state lines. Develop the habit of label reading for most satisfactory buys in food products.

Winterizing Of Evergreens Advised By Dave Tattall

Your evergreen plants should be given special attention now if they are to pass the winter in good condition, advises Dave Tattall, assistant agent in ornamental horticulture.

Thoroughly water your plants before the ground freezes up. This is especially important for newly planted evergreens and those in exposed areas.

Provide extra protection for those evergreens which may receive excessive exposure to winter sun and wind, by placing snow fencing or strips of burlap tacked to wooden frames around the plants.

Ex-Prison Chief Elwood H. Wilson Succumbs At 67

Former State Director
Of Prison System Dies
After Lengthy Illness

Elwood H. Wilson, 67, of Twin Lakes Farm, Glasgow, former state director of corrections, died Sunday night at the Memorial Hospital in Wilmington.

In poor health for some time, he was taken to the hospital Saturday.

Mr. Wilson was director of the unified prison system from the time of its founding in 1936 until he resigned in 1959 on the advice of his physician.

At the time of his retirement he had nearly 40 years of public service. He served with the Wilmington police for 15 years and was in prison work for 24 years.

He began his police career in 1920. Three years later he was promoted to detective. By 1931 he had attained the rank of captain, and in 1934, was placed in charge of the detective division.

He resigned from the police force in 1935 to become warden of the New Castle County Workhouse, a position he held until 1936.

A native of Cecil County, Md., he lived most of his life in the Wilmington area.

While warden he waged a campaign urging employers to open their doors to former prisoners, and advocated an education program for prisoners.

Mr. Wilson had served as a director of the American Correctional Association and the National Jail Association. In 1955 he served as secretary of the Governor's Penal Survey Commission.

He was appointed to the State Board of Corrections in August, 1961. Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mildred E. Wilson; four sons, Arthur S., Sycamore Gardens Manor, Elwood H. Jr., Delmar Manor, Woodrow W., Brookside, and James H., Manor Park; two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Strickland, St. Louis, and Shirley Wilson, Wilmington.

He is also survived by 20 grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; three brothers, Howard P., Earl A., and Leslie, all of New Castle County, and five sisters, Mrs. Julia Stoops, Wilmington, Mrs. Laura Dugan, Wilmington, Mrs. Catherine Bateman, and Mrs. Edna Kaner, New Castle, and Mrs. Dorothy Reed, Marshallton.

Services were held Wednesday at the McCrery Funeral Home with the Rev. Everett L. Britton, pastor of Fairwinds Community Church, officiating. Interment was in Silverbrook Cemetery.
