Organization To Meet At Stanton Next Thursday

By Miss Emma S. Maclary
Stanton, Jan. 10.—The Parent-Teachers Association of the Stanton School is meeting on Thursday evening, Jan. 10th, at which time Mrs. Charles M. Pierson of the County Library Staff will talk on "Books and Their Value, in Home and School." A feature of the meeting will be the "Donation Day" being sponsored by the ways and means committee, at which time contributions of food, vegetables, etc., will be received for the cafeteria of the school.

The sixth grade, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Wright, teacher, is engaged in a unit of work on Sweden.

Mrs. Ada Helmbrecht's first and second grades are working on a community project and "Helpers in the Home," in which children are being taught to assist in home tasks.

Mrs. Paul Wier's third grade pupils at the Stanton School are making a study of the Stanton community from a business angle, having visited nearby mushroom houses, industrial operations and the clay works. Donald Clayville has shown the pupils his Indian exhibit.

Officers elect of Diamond State Grange of Stanton were installed at the meeting on Wednesday evening by worthy master of the New Castle County Pomona Grange, Paul Mitchell, and his staff. Gifts of flowers were presented to members of the installing team in appreciation of their assistance. Announcement was made that Diamond State Grange will sponsor a musical program on Wednesday in the Odd Fellows' Hall, presenting Cousin Lee and his entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. Calver Talley, of near Hockessin, were hosts Thursday evening to members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Stanton M. E. Church and their friends. This was the annual holiday party which is held at the Talley home.

Emil Mattert of Hockessin, Ill., has constructed a bass viol out of a bull's hide with hair on it; a flute out of a pig's windpipe; a violin out of cow horns; and a mandolin out of a gourd—all playable.

A room containing a radio, magazines, flowers and a telephone has been set aside at the city prison in Columbus, O., for confinement of traffic violators unable to pay their fines in cash.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CAMPAIGN

Gov. McMullen On National Committee

The name of Governor Richard C. McMullen of Delaware was added to the Honor Roll in the 1940 "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign. It was announced today by Keith Morgan, national chairman of the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday.

This was accomplished when Delaware's chief executive accepted membership in the committee's National Committee of Governors. That acceptance implied his sponsorship of anti-cooperation in the united war against the dread paralytic virus which annually wrecks the lives and warps the limbs of thousands of American youngsters.

In the case of Governor McMullen it was more than a mere implication. His letter of acceptance included his pledge to serve in this great humanitarian war.

"In reply to your letter of December 14th I will be glad to serve as a member of the National Committee for Governors in connection with the committee for Infantile Paralysis."

"I hope the curative and preventive measures will be as successful in the future as in the past, as I feel great strides have been made in conquering this dread malady."

"You may count on my cooperation."

Yours very truly,
Signed Richard C. McMullen
Governor of Delaware.

Funds raised through Delaware's participation in the "March of Dimes," which features the annual drive, will be distributed according to the fifty-fifty plan which won nationwide endorsement in 1939.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds will be left in the county where raised for the benefit of the chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis embracing that county. The other fifty per cent of the funds will be sent to the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday and be turned over by the committee to the National Foundation.

A Detroit, Mich., taxicab concern removed rear-view mirrors from its vehicles, explaining: "The drivers try to cop a peek at the honeys on the back seat and bang! They smack into somebody."

A tramp who rode a freight train 3½ miles between Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., sent the railroad company 30 cents in postage for fare.

TRACKLESS TROLLEY OPERATING

Annual Election Held At Newport; Wetherell, Elected

By Miss Emma S. Maclary
Newport, Jan. 10.—The Delaware Electric Power Company started its schedule of trackless trolley operation on Sunday on the Newport-Silview line. Employees have been working for several weeks, day and night, installing the necessary wiring. The old trolley cars became a thing of the past with the midnight car on Saturday night, and on the last trip veteran operators "took the last ride." The car was also accompanied by a number of automobiles in which officials rode, horns blew, etc., bidding adieu to the old trolley. The trackless trolley will maintain a schedule of 7½ minutes during working hours morning and evening, with a 20 minute interval during the day. This is the last line in Delaware to operate trolley cars.

The town of Newport held its annual election on Monday evening, resulting as follows: Alderman, John W. Wetherell; assessor, Audrey Blansfield; treasurer, Arthur T. Groome; commissioners, George D. Baldwin, A. M. Craig and Harrison M. Day. Judges for the election were W. P. D. Megee, John Peterman and Mrs. Anna Thompson.

The interior of the Krebs School is being redecorated. W. P. A. labor is being employed for this work which was scheduled to be done during the holidays. However, the work was delayed, and an auxiliary class room is being used while the respective rooms are being painted, which necessitates the moving of grades while their rooms are being repainted.

The third grade pupils at the Krebs School, under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Lynch, teacher, conducted a toy show on Thursday. The affair was held in the auditorium of the school, and children had on display the many new and beautiful toys received for Christmas.

Adult Educational classes are being organized by the Woman's Club of Newport, and two classes are announced for Friday, at 2 and 7:30 p. m., at which time Miss Amy Gardner will be the instructor in handwork of various types.

Edward M. Bratton, president of the P.-T. A. of the Krebs School, announces that meetings of the organization will be resumed next Thursday evening in the auditorium of the school.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Minquas Fire Company will serve a turkey supper on Thursday evening, Feb. 1st in the fire hall. Mrs. R. S. Purdham is chairman of arrangements.

At a meeting of the Newport Branch of the W. C. T. U. held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Mayer, plans were made for a program under the direction of the Federated W. C. T. U. of Wilmington, at which time Mrs. Marion Green, a member of the Newport Union, will speak on "Social Service." The Newport union is also planning the observance of "World Temperance Sunday" on February 4th in the Newport M. E. Church. There will be a special program at the Sunday School Service, and Mrs. Marion Green, alcoholic education director of Newport, is planning a program for the evening service, assisted by Mrs. Blanche Mahan, loyal temperance leader, who will arrange a demonstration for members of her group.

The Minquas Fire Company elected officers at a special meeting on Wednesday evening, resulting as follows: President, Ralph Carpenter; vice-president, A. Maida; secretary, C. C. Collingwood; ass. secretary, A. Blansfield; treasurer, A. G. Craig. Earle Cunningham was elected fire chief, with William Hanna and George High as assistants. George Stuart is captain, with L. W. Mahan and Robert First as lieutenants. Nathaniel Clifton is fire marshal. The board of managers comprises—E. E. Lucas, L. W. Mahan, William Hanna, H. P. Stewart and R. Elston.

SAFETY HINTS

MOTORISTS—Cold weather and the inconvenience of lowering a window are poor excuses for failure to give hand signals when turning or stopping, the Delaware Safety Council reports. The driver behind can't read your mind. Signal your intentions. The discomfort of a little cold air is far better than being crippled for life in an accident.

ICICLES MAY add a pretty winter touch to your home, but the big ones can be dangerous when they drop on someone's head. The safest practice is to remove them. But don't do it by leaning out a window. Use a long pole to knock them loose in possible. When you use a ladder be sure it doesn't slip on the ice.

ICE SKATERS—Before you try to learn a figure eight, or other fancy ice skating, is a good idea to learn a few simple rules for ice safety. Of course, you should make sure the ice is safe before venturing out on it. And a wise skater will take a companion along to lend a hand in case something happens.

But if you are alone when the breaks, the Delaware Safety Council offers these suggestions for rescue:

1. Extend both arms on the face of the ice at the edge of the hole—and keep your head.

2. Draw your body forward, ward firm ice—breaking the head of you if necessary—until will support your weight.

3. Swerve sideways quickly with arms above the head, roll away from the edge of the hole.

4. Pull yourself forward on your stomach until you are absolutely sure you can stand up safely. Then run vigorously to warm the body.

Newark, Delaware, January 11, 1940

S. O. S.

Every true American admires the valiant stand being made by little Finland in repelling the invasion of Russia's armed forces. Americans thrill to the headlines that announce the annihilation of another Red Division by the white-clad Finnish ski troops who are fighting a battle of desperation in an attempt to preserve their freedom and independence.

Finland the proud, upright and honest nation -- the only nation to promptly meet her obligations incurred in the World War, is deserving of American sympathy and support.

The opportunity to give our support in a material way is at hand. The Finnish Relief Fund is a national organization, headed by Herbert Hoover. It consists of community and state committees formed for the purpose of raising funds for the relief of non-combatants, women and children in the war-torn area. Their need is great and immediate. The plea for assistance has gone out.

The Newark Committee has made an appeal for contributions to this fund. All contributions received will be turned over to John B. Jessup, treasurer of the state committee, and will be applied against the Delaware quota. Citizens of Wilmington have already answered the call to the tune of about $10,000.

Local contributions should be brought or mailed either to the NEWARK POST or the Town Council office. It is sincerely hoped that every able citizen of our community will heed this humanitarian plea and send in their donation (large or small) without delay.

The Newark Committee, headed by Mayor Frank Collins, is composed of J. P. Wright, J. K. Johnston and Dr. Walter Hullahen. Only three contributions have been received to date, all from individuals.

Every civic club, fraternal organization and social group should take immediate action and authorize a donation to the Finnish Relief Fund. Checks may be made payable to the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., or John B. Jessup, treasurer. They should be sent in immediately as reports are requested at frequent intervals.

MORE POWER TO HIM

Motor Vehicle Commissioner William D. Denny has gained the undying gratitude of more than fifty thousand Delaware motorists by retaining the same type license tags, and method of issuing them, as have been used in previous years.

A distinct and unanimously unfavorable reaction was voiced by state automobile owners when the proposed changes were made public. This clamor together with the additional expense of installing a new filing system undoubtedly guided Commissioner Denny in his determination to serve the state and the public to the best of his ability.

His ability, in this respect, was soon and effectively demonstrated with the announcement that he had cancelled the order for the initialed three-digit plates and that the 1940 plates would be the same as in former years with the exception of color.

The new tags will embody the state colors of blue and gold instead of the maroon and silver used for the past two years.

Another feather in Commissioner's Denny's cap was the announcement that owners would be extended the courtesy of retaining the same numbers they have had previously provided their applications are received within the specified time to be announced later.

All in all we would say that Mr. Denny has made a very auspicious beginning. We are confident that we express the sentiment of thousands of automobile owners throughout the state when we say "Well done, Mr. Denny, we are grateful to you."

Cancellation of the new fangled tags, which would have been a complicated and confusing departure from precedent, served a dual purpose of saving the motorists and effecting an appropriate $5,000 economy in the motor vehicle commissioners office.

This bespeaks a successful beginning for Motor Vehicle Commissioner Denny whose name is not new to Delawareans. Mr. Denny is a former governor of Delaware and well schooled in meeting public demand in an efficient, practical and economical manner. More power to him.

A youth who snatched the purse of Mrs. Richard Inkelas of Salt Lake City returned it several hours later, saying: "Here's your money, lady; I'm ashamed of myself for taking it."

George Wilson of Los Angeles, unable to extinguish the flames when his car caught fire, took pictures of the burning machine and sold them to a local newspaper.

Joseph Boni of Philadelphia complained to police that a former boarder had stolen a suit of his underwear to which was pinned his life savings—$500 in bills.

A bullet which lodged in the skull of William Darnell of West Frankfort, Ill., 19 years ago, fell from his nostril recently when he sneezed.

Weekly Sermon

Starting the New Year Right
By Rev. Maurice A. Darroch,
Christian Workers Bureau
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

It's inventory time—to "take stock."

At least once each year every business concern takes inventory and closes its books for the year. Each account is considered individually, as well as the collective total business. Assets are placed over against liabilities, and profit or loss is disclosed.

Would it not be well for each of us to take inventory as we come to the end of another year? Paul says in II Corinthians 13:5, "Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves." What do your books show as to spiritual profit or loss during this past year? If God were to balance his books, what would your account show?

Possibly a few suggestions will help each of us to prepare his own inventory record and view his own books in the presence of God.

First, let us begin with the "balance on hand" at the beginning of the year. What was our spiritual condition at the beginning of 1939?

Many began with nothing—they were dead spiritually. But their names may now be written in the Lamb's Book of Life. "And you hath he quickened who were dead in trespasses and sins" (Eph. 2:1). Has an account been opened in your name during the year? Have you been "quickened"—have you received Christ as your Saviour and Lord?

Others began with spiritual differences, possibly professing to be Christians, but indifferent toward the things of God. Others began with a lukewarm Christianity, loving the Lord but not being greatly next one. Every business and every individual looks forward to wholehearted, earnest and sincere believers in the Lord Jesus Christ, earnestly serving Him.

Whichever group we belonged to, let us start our inventory-taking there, and see if our present condition shows a profit or a loss. Have we grown closer to Him who loved us and gave Himself for us? Has His desire for us that we "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ" been accomplished? A. J. Gordon once said: "The best proof of a man's love for God is that he puts God first in his life." Does God have first place in our lives? Are we putting His word ahead of fiction, magazines, etc., in our reading? Are we placing communion with Him ahead of fellowship with our closest friends? Is His Church and His work ahead of business and clubs? In brief, does He have the pre-eminence in our lives?

As we look back over the year with its prosperity or adversity, with its trials, problems, possibly sickness or sorrow, has God's purpose been accomplished in our lives? As we close our books, what do they show? Are we satisfied with our progress? Above all, is God satisfied?

Then having taken inventory and reviewed the past year's achievements and failures, let us confess our failures to God and be assured of His forgiveness; "close the books" and begin the new year with higher spiritual aims and desires. Let us begin by past experiences, but let us not dwell upon them.

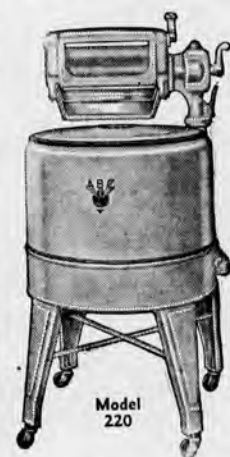

Shall we not say with Paul, "Brethren, I cannot count myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 3:13-14)?

Why not begin this new year by taking Christ into partnership? Or, if a Christian, renew that partnership and make this coming year the greatest of all.

Thoreau, the great Danish sculptor, was asked, "Which is your greatest work?" He replied, "The next one." Every business and every individual looks forward to the coming year with new hope and

MCCORMICK'S MAGIC NAME TO RED FANS

National League Champs Have Hole In Left Field To Fill

McCormick is a magic name in baseball. This is so because of the prowess of Frank McCormick, the first baseman in the National League, and the idol of a fan base that has more rabid devotion than any other in the United States.

It is no wonder the good players look for information every day about the much publicized hole in McCormick's left field.

McCormick's left field is mentioned in the name of that name, and it is a feeling that permeates the fan base.

THE PROBLEM OF FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:21-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors—Matthew 6:12.

Christianity and forgiveness belong together. Among the religions of the earth Christianity stands out as the one true faith because it properly and adequately meets the problem of sin. In Christ is provided forgiveness for sin, cleansing from all unrighteousness, a new birth by which one enters into a life of holiness and power.

Since these things are true it would seem to be almost unnecessary to urge God's children to be of a forgiving spirit. But as Bishop Ryle says, "It is a melancholy fact that there are few Christian duties so little practiced as that of forgiveness. It is sad to see how much bitterness, unmercifulness, spite, harshness and unkindness there is among men." Surely these things ought not to be so.

I. The Extent of Forgiveness (vv. 21, 22).

"How long do I have to stand it?" is the question of the human heart. The injustices of life, the offenses of our fellow men against us, all seem to pile up until the burden is about to crush us. What is the answer to man's cry?

The Jews had an answer. Three times is enough. Forgive once, yes. Again, yes. But the third time, no. Peter was big-hearted enough to move more than double that allowance of mercy. He was willing to forgive not just two or three times, but seven times. The point to be kept in mind, however, is that whether forgiveness means three times or seven times, if there is a limit, it is a matter of reckoning of keeping books, and of ultimately bringing down our judgment upon the heads of the offenders.

The spirit of Christ swept all of that aside. He said that one should forgive 70 times seven. In other words, Christian forgiveness is to be unforgiving, unlimited, to know no weariness and have no boundaries. If one really forgives it is because he has a forgiving spirit and that spirit is not exhausted by use, but rather grows by exercise.

A word of caution is in order at this point. Let no one suppose that our Lord's instruction means that offenses against the law of the land or against the good order of society are to be overlooked and condoned. It relates to the cultivation of a personal spirit of forgiveness, the laying aside of revenge, of malice, of retaliation which do not become the Christian.

II. The Motive of Forgiveness (vv. 23-34).

Two motives are given in our text, the first being that since we ourselves are daily and hourly in need of forgiveness at the merciful hand of God, we should in turn be merciful toward those who sin against us. Compared with our offenses against the law of God, we know that the misdeeds of our neighbors against us are mere trifles. Remember what God has done for you, and then when you are tempted to be hard and ungracious with your brother, remember the mercy of God.

The second motive is the remembrance that a day of judgment is to come. There is always a time of reckoning ahead even as was the case with these servants. Remember not only what God has done for you and is doing for you, but what you must yet expect Him to do in that day of judgment.

III. The Importance of Forgiveness (v. 35).

A man dealing with his fellow man is apt to think that it is merely a matter between man and man. We are not dealing with a straight line between ourselves and our brother (that was Peter's error), but with a triangle at whose apex is God Himself. If I expect God to forgive me, I must let that same forgiveness flow out to my brother. If I deal with him as though God had nothing to do with the matter, then I must not try to count God's forgiveness into the picture when I stand indebted before Him.

Here again we express a word of caution. Let no one suppose that our redemption in Christ is contingent upon what we do toward our brethren. "For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8, 9). Nor does the truth of our lesson mean that we are somehow going to bargain with God, trading a bit of our forgiveness toward others for His forgiveness of us. God is not interested in such transactions. But it does mean that if you cannot or will not forgive, you may well consider whether you are a Christian at all.

Angry Words

Seest thou a man that is hasty in his words? There is more hope of a fool than of him.—Proverbs 20:20.

HOME EDUCATION THE STRANGER CHILD

LAURA GRAY

Miss Donna, a maiden lady of means, adopted a baby from an orphanage and named her Ann. A couple of years later she took another child, Barbara, who was then two years old. She cared for these little girls as any mother would for her own; she dressed them daintily, had them taught music and took them camping in the summer. People respected her highly for the way she spent her time and money.

Rivalry Develops But as the children grew, Barbara proved to be far more charming and clever than her sister Ann, and an unhappy rivalry sprang up between the two. Barbara was popular both at school and among friends. She was promoted above Ann, and it came about that this first child, who was the foster-mother's favorite, was more or less ignored by outsiders. To remedy this, Miss Donna sent Barbara back to the Home. Imagine the poor child's unhappiness! And, of course, the injury to Ann's character was no less serious.

Really adopting a child embraces more than giving him food, shelter, intellectual advantages and pleasures. It includes providing the security afforded by selfless love and the development of mutual understanding between the child and every other member of the household.

hold "The little stranger needs to know the happy meaning of 'having folks.' Then he may forget he is an adopted child. He no longer is if all members of the family have made him their own."

A woman of my acquaintance once declared, "I wouldn't bring up another person's child, it might turn out to be a failure."

Always A Problem

So might our own! Another remarked, "My neighbor adopted a daughter, and when the thankless girl grew up, she went away and left her mother!"

Isn't that what our own do? Why should the foster child be expected to feel more grateful than other children?

"Home" boys and girls in their teens are sometimes sent to farms where they work for their board and small wages. They are not considered "hired hands," but "foster children."

Often one of these finds a happy home, where the parents take him into their large kindly hearts and their children look upon the newcomer as a member of the family, not as a family slave. Allowances are made for the stranger's youth. He is invited to share and contribute to the happiness and well-being of the household. He gets a taste of real American home life.

Does he respond—show himself appreciative? No matter whether he does or not. The family has done its part, and who can say how deep the influence has gone?

Explain Situation

One of these boys had complained to his foster-mother that he wasn't having as good a time as a friend of his who'd been adopted into a household where there was a radio and a fine car. Did the woman in turn complain of the lad's ingratitude—tell her neighbors about it? Did she threaten to send him back to the Home? No; she explained to him that all life was like that—some were rich, some poor. She pointed out that she was teaching him how to earn his own living, which was better than giving him luxuries, for if he were attentive, industrious and faithful, some day he'd be able to buy luxuries for himself. She even found ways in which he could earn extra money in his spare time, so that he could go to town occasionally to a good picture show.

The first time the boy started out for an evening's enjoyment of this kind he turned and ran back hastily. "Mrs. Baldwin," he said, breathlessly, "won't you come too? I have enough money for both of us, and — you — don't ever go to a show."

With real pleasure the woman hurriedly put on her coat and hat and went with him. The boy now felt himself one of the family—as responsible for his foster-mother's enjoyment as for his own.

The city commissioners of New Hampton, N. H., recently announced they would exempt from taxes for five years the first experienced blacksmith who would settle there and ply his trade.

NO COMPLAINTS HERE!

I'm like a hundred million other Americans—I loved Will Rogers. But there was one thing about Will I never understood. He is supposed to have said, "I never met a man I didn't like," and those words are on the statue of Will in his home town.

Now Will got around a lot, and he met a lot of people, and some of them must have been awful heels. There are mean people, just like there are mean dogs. Maybe it is because they weren't brought up right or something, but they are still mean, and I would rather not have anything to do with them. I guess Will was big enough, and big-hearted enough, to see the good in even the meanest.

I don't have any complaints, though. My business is selling Ford cars and trucks, and somehow it seems that most of the people I come in contact with are fine and decent and good people. I like to think that's because I'm selling a mighty good product at a mighty fair price—and it's easy to get along with anybody under those circumstances.

But look at the people who own Ford products in this community. You'll notice they are fine people, the kind it's a pleasure to know and to do business with, and I count most of them among my friends. If they like me as much as they like their Ford cars, I'm more than satisfied!

FOOD for THOUGHT

CHARLOTTE SPENCER

Food, State Board of Health

Article about food for older people has been requested. Nutrition has studied in great detail and child feeding. Only recently have large research laboratories turned to a similar study of food which is best suited to middle and old age.

Study Unpopular

As much more pleasant to tell what they should eat than to persuade them what they should not eat. Perhaps that is why food for older people is unpopular.

Old man asleep uses less food than a young man asleep. Yet many people continue to eat as much as sixty as did at twenty.

Regarding the digestive tract is dangerous at sixty. The kidneys, the circulatory system are all less able to stand the strain of forty life insurance records show that persons who are underweight after age live the longest lives.

Diets which are still in vogue at Cornell University indicate that animals on low calorie balanced diets have a much longer life than animals on the same diets which are allowed to eat as they want.

Adults Like Children

Old persons, like children, need nourishing and easily digested foods. Too many fried foods, rich desserts and overcooked meats cut short many lives. The protective foods: milk, eggs, fruit and dark bread should form the basis of a healthy and healthful meals.

Old people often have plenty of food. They should use this time to think about and plan their meals that will keep them vigorous and prolong their lives.

BUSY WEEK FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Error In Reporting Alarm Proves Costly

Five local fires called members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder into action during the past week.

Delay resulting from the alarm not being turned in properly again took its toll on Friday when the house on Cleveland avenue, belonging to the estate of George Watson, was badly damaged. The alarm went to the Christiana department which arrived on the scene after the blaze had gained headway.

The local department also answered when the alarm was finally received at headquarters. Three streams of water were poured on the blazing building and it was nearly two hours before it was extinguished. Greatest damage was done to the interior and roof. The dwelling was occupied by Samuel Anderson and his family.

The department was called to Iron Hill also on Friday to the Charles Watson property which proved to be a chimney fire. Another chimney fire alarm was answered at Welsh Tract Saturday however no damage was reported.

A truck belonging to Ralph Smith caught fire Sunday on South College Avenue and required the services of the department before the blaze was subdued. Damage was estimated at about $50.

Another chimney fire was reported Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. William Saunders, 65 New London Avenue, with no damage resulting.
