The Newark New Century Club will sponsor a two-day sale on Thursday and Friday of next week from 1 to 9 p.m. at the clubhouse on the corner of Delaware Avenue and Haines Street, to raise funds for the Newark Area Welfare Committee, and the benefit sale is to be a community project with all local service organizations invited to participate.

Taking Up The Slack
"Proceeds from the sale, we hope, will make up in part for the loss of Thrift Shop revenue," a New Century Club spokesman said.

Chairmen for next week's sale are Mrs. Robert O. Bausman, Mrs. Dutton and Anne Ritz. Residents of the community are requested to contribute articles for the sale including used, clean clothing marked for size; Scout uniforms and accessories; household goods, costume jewelry, knickknacks, and such food as cakes, pies, rolls, jellies and pickles.

Articles contributed for the welfare sale may be brought to the rear entrance of the clubhouse from 10 to noon on days of the sale, and items other than food may be left next Wednesday.

"Buyers are needed as well as donors," Miss Ritz said. "This is not a rummage sale. It is an opportunity to get bargains and at the same time aid the welfare program in the community," Miss Ritz concluded.

Tag Day Chairman
Mrs. John H. Fassnacht is chairman for the Nov. 14, Tag Day, and volunteers to solicit contributions to the welfare fund, are requested to contact Mrs. Fassnacht at 610 Apple Road.

Kenneth C. Lambert is chairman of the Newark Area Welfare Committee which includes Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty, Mrs. Carl Rees, Mrs. Walter Dew, Col. and Mrs. Dutton, Mrs. Ritz, Mrs. Fassnacht and Mrs. William E. Wilson, and the committee provides emergency aid for local, needy persons.

The annual project of providing Christmas gift baskets for needy families in the area, was officially dropped by the committee last year after withdrawal of municipal fund support, but Mrs. Wilson headed a group of volunteers for the delivery of 81 Christmas baskets to perpetuate the welfare work headed for more than a quarter-century by the late Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey.

Clarence A. Bader, of Wilmington, former Newark resident and city building inspector, has agreed to help reestablish the Newark Area Welfare Committee project providing Christmas baskets for local needy families.

Firemen Conduct Second Mailings In Fund Campaign

President C. W. Wollaston Announces $24,236 Total With Drive For $34,900

The Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. is making a second appeal this week for public contributions to meet a $34,900 goal, with a second mailing of brochures and return envelopes for the annual fund drive to maintain fire protection standards in the Newark district.

Aetna President Charles W. Wollaston announced Monday that receipts of $1,960 last week have provided a total of $24,236 in the Newark volunteer fire department's annual fund drive.

Contributions have been received from 27 per cent of those solicited in the first phase of the mail campaign, Wollaston said, with brochures sent to 10,595 homes and 300 business firms in the Newark district which includes a population of 60,000 persons in a 25-sq. mi. area.

Wollaston expressed appreciation for residential and business response, and said that in the second mailing this week, there may be some duplications with receipt of brochures by those who have contributed to the fund drive.

Newark's volunteer fire department has a budget of $80,000 for annual expenses, but funds provided by state, county, city and insurance allocations and from membership dues are $34,900 short of necessary financing. This amount must be raised from public donations, Wollaston stressed.

"If you haven't mailed your annual contribution for support of Newark's volunteer fire department," Campaign Chairman Olan R. Thomas added, "please do so as soon as you can."

Aetna firemen serve without pay, but funds are needed for operating and equipment costs. Newark's fire-fighting equipment includes a 20-year-old aerial truck, five fire trucks, a rescue wagon, and two ambulances.

PTA's To Feature Preview Program Of Sex Education

Elementary School Program Of FLASE To Be Explained At District-Wide Meetings

The proposed Family Life and Sex Education programs will be explained for parents of Newark elementary school children in district-wide PTA meetings on Wednesday evening, Nov. 12, according to Dr. John E. Allen, assistant superintendent of Newark schools.

Last year the district announced that this fall a program would be introduced in elementary schools but promised parents they would have the opportunity to preview the program and the materials before any introduction of FLASE.

The Nov. 12, meetings are the district's way of keeping that promise to parents, a school spokesman said. It was stressed that there will be no new FLASE material introduced in the secondary program this year. All emphasis in the meetings of Nov. 12, will be on the elementary school FLASE curriculum.

No new secondary FLASE curriculum will be introduced until parents of children at the secondary level have the same opportunity for reviewing materials proposed for use in junior and senior high schools.

Parents of children in Newark elementary schools will be invited to their children's schools for PTA meetings on Nov. 12. During these meetings, printed materials will be available, visual materials will be shown, and the district educational television system will be used for part of the presentation.

Parents have the opportunity to meet and talk with FLASE teachers of their children.

School board members and members of the central administrative staff will be available in each elementary school on Nov. 12, to discuss aspects of the program with individual parents.

The starting time of the Nov. 12, meetings will vary from building to building, according to Dr. Allen, but parents of children in each elementary school will be notified of the time and location of the meetings well in advance, Allen concluded.

By combining the nationally selected menu and Delaware's own chicken menu the cafeteria food to draw attention to the quality foods which are served each day, Mrs. Rummels said.

The Type "A" Lunch served in Newark schools provides one-third of the child's daily nutritive requirements at a cost of 25 cents for elementary children and 30 cents for secondary pupils.

Schools Used 214 Times By Groups During September

According to H. Lewis Miller, director of business for Newark public schools, buildings of the district were used 214 times last month by community organizations after the close of the regular school day.

The community has used Newark schools an average of 200 times a month after the close of the regular school day.

This record of more than 200 uses a month has been a long time in developing, but almost every month since the beginning of 1969 has seen more than 200 uses of public schools by community organizations, Miller said.

Organizations using the schools last month include the Brookside Activities Council, New Castle County department of parks and recreation, City of Newark department of parks and recreation, state school lunch office, Weight Watchers, Evangelical Presbyterian Church, Elks Lodge, Parish of the Resurrection, the Square Dance and Toastmasters clubs, and Civil Air Patrol.

Miller pointed out that many of the organizations used the schools without cost. He explained that while Newark schools do not charge a fee for use of their buildings by community groups, it is necessary to collect out-of-pocket costs, for example, cost of custodial service to clean up the area, or in inter-term, the cost of light and fuel.

Newark Free Library Reports Record Circulation For Year

Mrs. Louis J. Brown, Librarian Announces 100,560 Books, Recordings Circulated In 14 Per Cent Increase; Plans For New Building Cited As Major Step Forward

More than 100,000 volumes were circulated by the Newark Free Library during the fiscal year ending June 30, Mrs. Louis J. Brown, librarian, reported this month to the Newark Library Commission.

A total of 100,560 volumes, including 2,521 recordings, were circulated among 4,935 adults and 2,026 children. This represents a circulation increase of more than 14 per cent over the preceding year, and marks the first time the 100,000 figure was surpassed.

During that time, 2914 new borrowers joined the library, a 72 per cent gain in membership.

Although 2,364 hard-bound volumes were acquired during the year, an intensive weeding program was conducted which resulted in a net gain for the library of only 376 volumes.

A paperback collection was introduced in July, 1968, and has since grown to nearly 700 volumes. The recording collection was increased by 220 for a total of more than 600 records available for loan.

Improved Services
Mrs. Brown reported two significant improvements in the services offered by the library.

A reciprocal library card was instituted, which enables the borrower to use the same card in the Newark Free Library and the Wilmington and New Castle County library systems. Books borrowed from one library may be returned to any of the four participating libraries.

Also, the library is open Saturday afternoons, extending its service to the public from 58 to 61 hours per week.

The physical plant of the library was improved by blacktopping the parking lot, major repairs to the foundation of the main library, and installation of fire walls around furnaces of both the main and children's library buildings.

Major Step

The library's most important step forward, Mrs. Brown pointed out, was in the area of planning for a much needed new building. A modern, attractive and well-designed structure, she advised, would not only provide badly needed space for the library's growing collections, but would enable the library to expand services and to attract many more patrons.

A $200,000 grant was obtained from the Longwood Foundation for the purchase of a three-acre tract at the intersection of East Main Street and F. Lawrence Avenue as the site for a new public library building. In addition, federal construction funds were applied for under Title II of the Library Services and Construction Act, and in June a grant of $133,812 was received.

More funds for the project are being sought, and selection of a qualified architect is underway.

Duplicate Grandma's Delicious Pickles Miss Krackhardt Urges New Generation

Remember the pickles Grandma used to make? Sweet or sour crisp cucumbers, tangy onions, colorful relishes, spicy pears, peaches and watermelon rind — mouth-watering memories aren't they?

You can make pickles every bit as delicious as Grandma's, says Marguerite Krackhardt, foods specialist at the University of Delaware. Follow the recipe exactly and use best quality fruits and vegetables. Then you won't need alum or lime to get crisp pickles.

Using exact proportions of fruits or vegetables, sugar, salt, vinegar and spices given in the recipe is essential.

Select tender vegetables and firm fruit. Pears and peaches may be slightly underripe.

Use unwaxed cucumbers if you're making whole pickles because brine cannot penetrate wax. Sort for uniform size and choose the size that's best for the particular recipe.

Be sure you remove all the blossoms from cucumbers. These blossoms contain enzymes that may soften cucumbers during fermentation.

Pure granulated salt is best for pickling, says Miss Krackhardt. Undiodized table salt can be used, but materials added to keep salt from caking may make the brine cloudy. Iodized salt may darken pickles, so don't use it.

Cider vinegar, with its mellow acid taste, gives a nice blend of flavors, but it may darken light-colored fruits and vegetables. When a light colored vinegar is important, use white distilled vinegar.

For good quality pickles that keep well, heat treatments are vital; it's recommended for all pickle products, emphasizes Miss Krackhardt. "There's always danger of spoilage organisms getting into the food when you're transferring them from kettle to jar, even when you're very careful."

Line Ahead Of Planting W. H. Mitchell Advises

Spread lime on fields well ahead of planting time; lime needs plenty of time to get thoroughly worked into the soil.

A good rule of thumb is to apply limestone a year in advance of legume seeding, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. It will be well worked into the soil and you'll get the maximum benefit from the lime, he adds.

FORGET-ME-NOTS TO THE FORE

The species of forget-me-not named alpestris is the perfect companion for May-flowering tulips. Blue flowers on foot-long stems appear with the tulips and underneath them.

When you think of planting tulip bulbs, think also of planting seeds of forget-me-nots for they are the perfect underplanting for tulips of any hue.

Full planted seeds pop up early in spring and flowers appear in May, along with those of the May-flowering tulips. The soft blue of the forget-me-nots cannot be equalled for its ability to set off the bright tulip colors.

Since tulips bloom best in a sunny place, the forget-me-nots, to bloom beneath them, must be chosen for a similar situation. Best to buy is the species named alpestris because, unlike most forget-me-nots, it thrives in sun.

For a foot-high brilliant blue underplanting, order seeds of the blue-flowered form. If you prefer mixed colors, order the mixture and expect flowers of white and rose as well as shades of blue. However, if you choose the mixture, be careful of the shades of pink tulips you plant for bloom atop the forget-me-nots.

Just as tulip bulbs need only to be planted, so the seeds of forget-me-nots need only be sprinkled on top of the soil after it has been raked smooth over the planted bulbs. And just as tulips must be set in a well drained place, lest the bulbs rot, so alpestris forget-me-nots demand well drained soil.

The two flowers are really perfectly paired.

The northeaster began blowing that night, and picked up steam in the morning as we headed offshore, trolling mullet and ballyhoo for king mackerel in the white seas rolling in the lee of Cape Lookout after we had abandoned a near hurricane course for amberjack in the teeth of the wind.

A portside rod suddenly strained to the strike of something big and strong and swift, and Gus Tagnon snatched the hot rod from his socket to fight a yard-long kingfish to the boat where Dick Pleasanton gaffed an 18-pound, shimmering iridescent silver shaft of big mackerel and heaved it thundering into the box.

We caught another, slightly smaller, but a king that peeled long yardage from the reel in a spectacular sweep, and then Sam Todd, the former Washington & Lee quarterback, tied into the fish of the day — a great 20-pound king mackerel that strained Todd and tackle.

Sunday was an enforced day of rest with the northeaster howling full blast, and some late afternoon trolling resulted in little more than a rough but pleasant boat ride in a classic scenic setting, and a smooth path for a couple of small boats that had been laboring in a heavy sea until they trailed the Young Lady close astern into port late that evening.

With Gibby Young attempting to swallow a bit of a lump in his throat, we waved farewell to Skipper Pleasanton the next morning as he drove Gibby's Young Lady south to Florida for a reunion with Dick's family waiting at Boynton Beach — and we drove back to Newark and reality.

Podiatrists Present Research On Athlete's Foot, Cancer

Research into athlete's foot — a common but universally distressing ailment — and studies in cancer research made from virus infections which cause warts on the human foot — were two of many important foot health subjects discussed at the 57th Annual Meeting of the American Podiatric Association in Washington recently.

Dr. Paul Kaden, podiatrist of Niles, Illinois, presented findings which show that many over-the-counter remedies sold to correct athlete's foot do not effect a total cure.

He told the gathering of podiatrists that many anti-fungal remedies which prove effective at room temperature often do not work when used inside the shoe, due to the higher temperature.

He also discussed changes that occur in the fungus during self treatment. In many cases, the fungus infection, instead of being destroyed, actually changes into a mutant spore which is resistant to treatment.

"When treatment is stopped, the spores produce infective fungus once again, and the condition re-occurs," said Dr. Kaden. He said it is wise to have a podiatrist examine the foot before such remedies are applied. In this way, professional care can lessen the chance of the condition returning after home treatment is stopped.

Dr. Carl Abramson, Director of Basic Science at the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine, said that continued research into the treatment of warts may someday lead to a cure for cancer. He presented a paper which documented the study of a cancerous tumor which grew smaller after being exposed to viruses which cause warts in humans.

"Total cure did not occur," said Dr. Abramson. "But the fact that local infection did result indicates an activity by the wart, and dictates the necessity for further investigation."

In presentation, Dr. Abramson reviewed the history of nearly 40 recorded cures for warts, including the plaque wart of the foot on which the cancer studies were based. He said that there is evidence that warts are transmitted from one person to another, both directly, by contact with wart tissue, and indirectly by contact with virus-contaminated material.

Regarding cures, he said that a recent study indicated that the power of suggestion often stimulates powerful regenerative processes in the health tissue surrounding the wart, leading to an eventual cure.

He called for further study of the wart in order to fully explore the potentialities of this only isolated and known tumor virus of man.

"This study may provide a model system for the investigation of such abnormal growths," he said, "and unlock the answer to tumor formation, and from this, possibly the cure for cancer."

A GREAT TEACHER

George P. Nickle leaves a grand legacy of learning and goodness with the thousands of youngsters he taught and loved during a long, splendid career as an educator in several public school systems, and his legion of friends in the Newark School District are grateful that George Nickle taught and lived here for a fine 31-years.

Sharing his family's sorrow at the sudden passing of a fine, good, gentle man, are the Central Junior High School pupils, teaching associates and other friends of George P. Nickle.

"I have never known a teacher with greater influence for good," Miss Dorothy Markert said sadly with the absence of her across-the-hall classroom leader at Newark's Central Junior High School.

PRESTO TURNIP, PRESTO PICKLE

To make Presto pickles from Presto turnips, wash the turnips after pulling them, cut off roots and stems squarely. Then make criss-cross cuts, as shown, on one of the cut surfaces. These permit quicker penetration of the vinegar.

From Japan comes a new, very small turnip that can not only be grown in your garden but also made into the speediest pickle you ever tried.

The name of the turnip is Presto because it matures so fast. It is ready for pickling within a month after seeds are sown! The pickle also is called Presto because it can be made overnight!

In Japan seeds of this turnip are sown from February until March. Gardeners in the mid-South can follow the same schedule. But Presto will not grow in either very hot or very cold climates.

Once the turnips have reached pickling size, the rest is easy. Pull the turnip, wash them and cut off, squarely, the roots and the stems. Then make criss-cross cuts over one of these cut surfaces. The criss-hatching allows quicker penetration of the vinegar used in pickling.

Soak the cut turnips for 30 minutes to an hour in a brine of 1 tablespoon of salt to 2-2 1/2 cups of water. Remove at the end of that time and soak overnight or longer in a solution of 5 tablespoons of vinegar and 2-1/2 tablespoons of sugar. The amount of salt and sugar may be adjusted to suit your taste.

Serve the Presto pickles as a side dish or as an hors d'oeuvre. Bits of red hot pepper or pimento mixed with the turnip set off their appearance and give a tangy taste.

John McDaniel Cites USDA Pesticide Safety Measures

Arsenical pesticides with sodium arsenite and arsenic trioxide and pesticides with thallium sulfate have caused many accidents involving children and animals. Too often, users did not pay attention to warnings on the labels.

Therefore, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has taken action to reduce hazards from these pesticides, according to John McDaniel, extension agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware.

Arsenical pesticides intended for home use are now limited to two per cent or less of sodium arsenite and 1.5 per cent arsenic trioxide.

Also, USD has reissued a warning against using thallium sulfate pesticides in your home.

INDOOR BLUES

This beautiful plant of browallia shows you what you can grow indoors or outdoors. Browallia and exacum will both adapt to either situation. Both have blue flowers.

Two pretty plants that thrive in the house as well as the garden and boast that much-desired blue flower color are browallia and exacum. Neither of them has a common name but the Latin ones are pronounced just as you'd expect them to be.

Browallias are natives of South America and are half-hardy annuals in more northern climates. While several species are used in gardens, the best for both garden and indoor use is Browallia speciosa. This is a first-rate hanging basket plant.

The plants have slender stems which tend to become long, desirable in order to make the plants bushy. Leaves are oval and pointed and blooms are either violet-blue or white.

Seeds of browallia can be sown outdoors in July to have plants large enough to move indoors in September.

Exacum affine, the species most easily available, is really biennial, though usually treated as an annual. It will flower the first year from seeds.

The little plants have reddish stems, leaves are smooth and oval, flowers are not only blue, ringed with yellow in the throat, but are also fragrant.

This is a delightful plant for either indoor or outdoor garden. Start from seeds sown in May or June or lift plants from the garden and move them indoors well before frost.

Both browallia and exacum will flower all winter if set in a sunny window.

AMERICAN CHILDREN AID THE POORLY-CLAD

Boys and girls are surprisingly willing workers for worthy causes. Heard as well as seen, their appealing ways inspire other youngsters as well as adults to contribute generously to the world's less fortunate.

In the past, children working through scout troops, neighborhood clubs and on their own have staged door-to-door crusades for serviceable used clothing, shoes and bedding which were distributed by Catholic Relief Services to the poor of all races and religions overseas.

This year, many American youngsters again will work at the admirable task of taking used clothing to local Catholic churches during the month of November for the 21st annual Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. Donations will be shipped to the overseas needy throughout the year.

The need is great. While most American children are adequately clothed, millions of destitute youngsters in impoverished lands live and die shoeless and in rags.

Children-to-children aid programs such as these represent only a few fitting ways in which American youngsters can pitch in to assist the victims of poverty in other countries. At the same time, these and other activities give added meaning to the American spirit of thanksgiving.

Capt. Paul Watson Scores 3 Touchdowns As Yellowjackets Win 36-6; Conrad Next

Paul Watson, tri-captain and All-Conference fullback for Coach Bob Hoffman's champion Yellowjackets, scored three touchdowns last Saturday as Newark High School won its 35th straight football game in walloping the visiting Green Knights of Mt. Pleasant 36-6.

Watson drove for nine and five-yard touchdowns in the third period and planned for a three-yard score in the fourth quarter.

After a scoreless first period against the heretofore unbeaten Knights, the Yellowjackets moved out to a 6-0 lead at the half after Linebacker Dave Chapman blocked a Mt. Pleasant punt on the Knights' 10-yard line, and Ed Conroy scooped up the ball on the five to gain the end zone.

Trailing in the 22-0 count, Mt. Pleasant scored six points in the final frame when Schiabe broke away for 17-yards and a touchdown.

Following Watson's third touchdown of the day, Defensive End Mark Henderson recovered a Green Knight fumble of a Newark kickoff, and ran 13 yards for the Yellowjackets' final score.

Carmen Infante came off the bench to take charge with Tom DiMuzio and Jim Colbert out of action, and Carmel led the Hens to a big win with Newark's Dick Kelley and Pat Walker providing a lot of Delaware offense as both scored touchdowns.

Paul Billy Chicks Win Opener 27-7; Play Lehigh Friday

Delaware's freshman football team, a 27-7 winner over the Gettysburg frosh last week, will take on Lehigh's freshmen in Bethlehem, Pa., tomorrow.

Lehigh's yearlings lost to the Rutgers freshmen 16-3 in their opener last Friday.

"We expect Lehigh to have a good freshman squad," says Paul Billy, who has a 9-5 record in his fourth year as Delaware freshman coach. "Our games with Lehigh the past several years have been very tough."

Billy used most of his roster in last week's win over the Gettysburg frosh and plans to do the same this week.

"We use these games as an opportunity to evaluate our personnel," Billy notes.

The Lehigh freshmen are coached by former Delaware Quarterback Berry Fetterman.

Raymond Champs Continue On Top For Lambert Cup

Delaware defeating Massachusetts 33-21 on Saturday, remains in the lead for the Lambert Cup.

The Blue Hens, who have a 2-1 record, are defending champions for the award, emblematic of outstanding football performance among Division 2 (middle-sized) colleges in the East.

Delaware earned the first place vote of six of eight members of the selection committee of sports-writers, broadcasters and athletic directors.

Lafayette, a 41-25 victor over Hofstra, remained in second place.

Coach Larry Pratt's Hens Face Rams On Saturday

Delaware's cross country team will try to even its record at 2-2 when the Blue Hens travel to West Chester on Saturday.

"West Chester has a very fine team and we are in for another tough meet," says Blue Hen Coach Larry Pratt. "Our kids will come along and we should continue to improve."

Delaware will return home to its Polly Drummond Hill course next Wednesday to host St. Joseph's and Temple in a triangular meet.

Spanish mackerel were jumping on all quarters — satin silvered spears arcing arrowlike high above the water, with an occasional skittering surface slash as the Spaniards dove into a school of scattering baitfish — while gulls and terns hovered expectantly for seaford scraps from the Spanish table.

It was impossible to troll time and again through all of this surface activity without getting a strike, but we managed to do just that. The Spanish mackerel were more playful than hungry, and pass after pass failed to produce a single strike.

The ocean was calm and beautiful as the northwest wind died at mid-morning in preparation for a northeast blasting over the next two days of our stay, and Cap'n Dick Pleasant piloted Gibby's Young Lady close to the roaring white shoals and near the Core Banks beach where surfmen were realizing some of the better dreams of the breakers brigade.

A starboardside rod suddenly whipped to the thrust of a solid strike, and a beautiful yellow-spotted, silvery green and blue, mother-of-pearl Spanish Mackerel was heaved into the fish box after a strong struggle.

That Spaniard touched off a blue-fish feeding frenzy, and with all four rods bucking, we boated 53 beautiful blues without another mackerel in sight. The fishing trolling amid the roaring surf over the Cape Lookout Shoals. The blue-fish ranged from three-quarters to a good two-pounds conservative weight, and they jumped above and raged below the surface as only a bluefish can.

Reg Rockwell was on the dock to meet us when we came into the Marshallberg harbor that evening with just enough daylight left for navigation — and not enough to avoid a horrid horde of mosquitoes with the cleaning of 54 fish at dusk.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day The Selima Room

A growing collection of American horse racing lore is to be found, appropriately enough, a four-minute gallop from Bowie race track on property that used to be part of the Belair Stud. This is no private collection but the Bowie branch of the Prince George's County Public Library, probably the first ever to devote a special room to a collection of books on Thoroughbred racing and breeding. The room is aptly named the Selima Room in honor of the daughter of the Godolphin Arabian, imported to this country by Benjamin Tasker Ogle in the early 1700's.

Earlier this year the Selima Room custodian, Mayzee Darby, was busy cataloging a gift of several hundred volumes presented by John D. Schapiro, President of Laurel Race Club, which also honors the foundation mare of the early 1700's.

The last owner of Belair Stud, the late William Woodward, breeder of two Triple Crown winners and a chairman of the Jockey Club, would be pleased to know a portion of Belair is still devoted to Thoroughbreds.

Carmen Infante Leads Hens To 33-21 Win Over Massachusetts; Kelley, Walker Star

Before the football season, Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond said that backfield depth would be one of the strengths of this year's team.

The Blue Hens proved their coach was right last Saturday in coming from behind to defeat Massachusetts, and substitutes played important roles in both offensive and defensive backfields in the 33-21 victory.

"Carmen Infante has been our demonstration guy against our opponents' offense against our defense," Raymond reports, "but we know Carmen has fine technique and he certainly did a great job."

Infante, a 5-10 senior from Linwood, Pa., has been listed as the third or fourth level quarterback on the Delaware depth chart. He was inserted into the Massachusetts game when regular quarterback Tom DiMuzio was injured in the first period, and back-up quarterback Jim Colbert missed the game with a leg injury.

Infante directed the Hens on three scoring drives, scoring the winning touchdown himself on a four-yard run. And he didn't throw a pass.

Infante became the 11th player to score for the Blue Hens in the first three games of the season. Only eight men scored for Delaware all last year.

Tight End Pat ... who caught a 12-yard scoring pass from DiMuzio on Saturday is the team scoring leader with five touchdowns.

Fullback Chuck ... took over the rushing leadership with 156 yards against Massachusetts. The 156-yard effort on Saturday boosted Hall two pass plays into seventh place — Delaware's all-time rushing list. The Men full-back passed ... of 195 yards, 1955-57 and Bill Hopkins (1,265, 1962-64).

Halfback Dick Kelley is closing in on the 1,000-yard club. Kelley's 77 yards rushing on Saturday gave him 144 yards for the season. The Newark native ran for 804 yards as a sophomore last year.

Quarterback DiMuzio is the team passing and total offense leader. The senior from Philadelphia has passed for 608 yards and has 706 yards in total offense through the first three games.

Coach At Hofstra Slated For Honors At Delaware Game

Hofstra Coach Howdy Myers and members of his 1950 football team will be honored Saturday at half-time of the Delaware-Hofstra game in Hempstead, Long Island, N.Y.

"Hofstra has been getting better every week and you can bet that they will want to win this game for Howdy," says Delaware Freshman Coach Paul Billy. "This year is the first time in Myers' 20 years that Hofstra has lost its first three games."

The Flying Dutchmen dropped decisions to Bucknell (24-19), Gettysburg (30-13) and Lafayette (41-25).

"Hofstra could be 2-1 if they played the first two games like they played last week," Billy says. "They gave Lafayette a real battle and only a touchdown in the last few seconds made the score as wide as it was."

Hofstra had been having trouble at quarterback, but Myers seems to have found the answer in Senior John Dickinson.

A 185-pounder, Dickinson went the distance against Lafayette after sharing the quarterbacking with three other players in the first two games.

Hofstra's leading rusher is Halfback Wayne Huff, who has carried 39 times for 167 yards.

The Dutchmen have a pair of talented receivers. Flanker Bill Roca, a 204-pound speedster, has 14 catches for 146 yards and Split End Rusty Hoehn has 10 receptions for 143 yards.

"Our defense will have to be at its best to stop Hofstra," Billy notes. "They are a young team that is improving every week. This could be the week that they put it all together."

There will be only one change in the Delaware defensive lineup. Safety Bob Masin will start at linebacker in place of injured Dick Keller.

Bruce Fad, who had two interceptions in the Hens' come-from-behind win over Massachusetts, will join Capt. Joe Purzycki and Juniors Ron Klein and Pete Sundheim in the secondary.

The Blue Hens will leave for Hempstead tomorrow to work out on Hofstra's Astro-Turf.

Mel Brooks With 224-Yards, Three TD's Paces Turnberger Vikings For 35-0 Win

Halfback Mel Brooks ran for a touchdown and Webster kicked three touchdowns — each one a 21-yard sprint — last Saturday in leading Coach Bob Turnberger's Vikings to a Christiana record-breaking 35-0 win over the Red Devils at Wilmington High School.

Quarterback Dave Webster's five kicks for conversions: the 35 points, 27 first downs, 322 yards gained, five touchdowns, four pass interceptions, and the shutout of Wilmington, are Christiana records.

The Vikings led 7-0 when Halfback Curt Payne ran 40-yards for a touchdown and Webster kicked his first extra point.

Brooks scored on his first 21-yarder and Webster kicked the conversion to provide Christiana with a 14-0 lead at the half.

It was Brooks and Webster again in the third quarter for a 21-0 edge, and Turnberger's team nailed things down in the fourth period with Fred Neal taking Webster's pass for a 65-yard scoring play, and Brooks running for the final touchdown.

The Vikings face L-I Dickinson away this Saturday at 10 a.m.
