Newark Lad Wins Trip to Washington

Martin L. Doordan Takes First Prize in Corn Judging

Local Club Members Make Excellent Showing in Year's Work

Martin L. Doordan, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Doordan of East Newark, won first place in the corn judging contest held as part of the program for Boys' and Girls' Club week. This entitles the young man to a free trip to Washington furnished by the Charles Warner Company of Wilmington who offered three such prizes. Second and third place in the contest were won by boys 4 to 6 years older than Martin, which makes his achievement all the more noteworthy, and especially gratifying to his friends. Young Doordan was one of the members of the first garden club formed 4 years ago among the school children by Miss Agnes McCall who was then a teacher in the Newark public schools. He has served as a member each year and has cleared from his plot an average of $35 annually. His attentiveness to the work and to the instructions given won for him membership in the club formed at spring when lack of funds made it impossible to admit to membership all who desired to take its work.

The trip to Washington will probably take place sometime in February, the date to be arranged by State Club Leader T. T. Martin who will try to choose a time when the club champions from other states will be taking the trip. The club week just ended was a even more a success than was anticipated by both leaders and club members are immensely gratified.

A prompt and vigorous thrusting upward of the right hand and some cases of both hands, was a reply to Director McCue's question "How many have enjoyed the week at Delaware College?" an enthusiastic repetition of the same sign answered his second question, "How many want to come next year?"

Every boy and girl of the 47 entered and of the dozen or more who visited at various times, are delighted with the experience; every boy and girl will go back to school with new ideas and new ideals for farm and home work.

NATIVE DELAWAREAN HEADS ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

Robert W. Thoroughgood of Georgetown, Succeeds Allan R. Cullmore

Professor Robert W. Thoroughgood, at present with the State Highway Department of Delaware and residing at Georgetown, Delaware, has been appointed Head of the Civil Engineering Department in Delaware College to succeed Professor Allan R. Cullmore, resigned. Professor Thoroughgood is a native of Delaware, has attended the Dover Academy, is a graduate of Lehigh University, and has been an instructor in Civil Engineering in Cornell University and Lafayette College. For the past seven years he has been Head of the Department of Civil Engineering at the University of Florida. He has also had practical experience in civil engineering work with the Baltimore and Ohio and Missouri Pacific Railroads. While he is now employed in practical work for the State of Delaware, he has only recently left teaching work in which he had been engaged for a number of years. He is a man of ripe experience along the lines required for this position and it is considered fortunate that Delaware College has been able to secure a man of his experience on such short notice at this time of the year.

Breyer's Store Changes Hands

Mr. H. G. Torbosa, who is the present manager of Breyer's Ice Cream Store in the Opera House Building, will give up that position on Monday, January 11th. This was necessary on account of the business interests of Mr. Torbosa in Philadelphia.

Mr. Wilson Blockson of Wilmington will be the new manager and it is his aim to furnish the same kind of service as theretofore. Mr. Torbosa and his family will remain in Newark for the present.

Dwelling House At "Duck Farm" Burned

The dwelling house on the farm known as the "Delaware Duckery" and occupied by the family of Charles Mealy was burned to the ground about noon Monday.

The family was at dinner when the smell of burning wood became so insistent that an investigation was made. The roof and the upper floor were on fire, having caught apparently from a defective flue. Aid was sought at the pumping station which is nearly a quarter mile away. The Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Co. was summoned and responded as promptly as the rough frozen roads would permit. When they arrived the house was burned almost to the ground and little aid could be given. The occupants succeeded in saving a few articles from the lower floor but practically everything in the house was burned.

It is understood that the house and contents are insured.

This property is an old landmark in that section. It belonged at one time to G. Fader and was purchased some years ago by Mrs. Jane Murray a popular actress who established there a duck farm which she maintained for several years.

A number of improvements have recently been made to the dwelling house.

COUNTY NURSE REPORTS RESULT OF EXAMINATION

Health Centre To Be Opened As Soon As Equipment Arrives

The Health Centre to be established in Newark this winter will in all probability be opened next week in the Elliott Building. It had been hoped that this work would begin the first of the year but the failure of the equipment to arrive will necessitate postponement for another week. The medical inspection of school children under the direction of Miss Grace Stephens County Nurse is proceeding rapidly. The fifth grade pupils are under examination this week. The report of work thus far accomplished shows astonishing results, and a number of parents have expressed their appreciation of work done by Miss Stephens in bringing to their attention unsuspected physical defects whose early correction will mean much to the academic progress of the children and the prevention of later physical disability. The local doctors are cooperating in the follow-up work.

Her report of the work accomplished here during the month of December is as follows:

No. children examined—220
No. children instructed—220
No. children referred for treatment—15
No. home visits—16

This is to be known as the Edward Webb Memorial Fund in memory of Rev. Edward W. Webb, who was pastor of the church from 1866-1871. He was the father of Mrs. Mary E. Cooch. This fund may be augmented by voluntary contribution. It will revert to New Castle Presbytery if Pencader should cease to exist as a church.

Beginners May Enter School Feb. 1

In order to avoid misunderstanding among patrons of the public schools, Superintendent Morris announces that beginners will be received in the primary school February 1, at the close of the present term. These children can not be received previous to that time because no new classes will be organized until the date above mentioned. Those sent through misunderstanding after the holidays must of necessity, therefore, be sent home.

JAY WALKER IS COMING TO TOWN

Will Demonstrate Right and Wrong Way To Cross Street

This ingenious individual who has been giving demonstrations to Wilmington citizens of how the hen-minded type of pedestrian crosses the street will be here some time in the near future, Mayor Frazer early this week appointed Louis L. Curtis and W. Paul Bebout, a committee to make arrangements for Jay Walker's reception. He will upon arrival, be taken to the points of danger to pedestrians and will be given an opportunity to address the school children. He is touring rural New Castle County now under the auspices of the Delaware Safety Council in an effort to prevent accident and needless loss of life.

Bank Directors Presented With Grand-Sons Same Day

Assistant Dietitian Assumed Duties Monday

Miss Teresa Mathews of Le Raysville, Pa. who has recently been appointed assistant to Miss Hall, dietitian at Delaware College, arrived on Monday and has assumed her new duties.

Christmas Tree Attracts Much Attention

An unusual number of beautifully trimmed Christmas trees were prepared for the holiday season just passed but none has attracted more attention nor shown greater ingenuity in construction than that prepared by C. Clarence Reynolds at the home of his sister, Miss Eda O. Reynolds on Elkton Avenue below Maple.

The tree beautifully trimmed with fancy balls, fairies, strings of tinsel and tights, stands in the midst of a complete and unique landscape scene. The whole occupies a space about 8 feet long and 5 feet wide, encircled by a paling fence. To the left is a large 2½ story house with six rooms, bath, and halls all completely furnished and lighted by electricity. There is a fancy porch, and adjoining the house is a yard in which are trees, flowers, a hammock with two ladies swinging therein, a pond with gold fish, ducks and frogs. A canal, over which the American flag proudly floats, is the center of bustling activity with sail and tug boats moving under their own power. Near the center of this canal is another pond with a fountain in the centre. Here swans, geese and other waterfowl disport themselves. Two electric trains with waiting station, watch box, water tower and signals, encircle the canal.

An electric power house which runs a saw, drill press, emery wheel, water mill, and other industries is part of the equipment, while a large windmill the house and a well operated by run by motor furnishes water for hand furnishes water for stock. Horses, mules, sheep, goats, pigs, turkeys, chickens and some wild animals are grouped about the out-buildings.

The occupants of this model house are seen about the grounds at work or at play, auto riding and attending to the business of the farm.

Great numbers of people have viewed the tree and Miss Reynolds has kept it up at the request of many who still desire to see it.

WEDDING Nichols—Charsha

Miss Mildred Evelyn Charsha of this town and Paul Jerome Nichols, of Wilmington were married at Harrison St. M. E. Church parsonage, Wednesday evening by the Rev. W. E. Hibbert.

NEW CENTURY CLUB TO HAVE OPEN MEETING NEXT WEEK

Art Committee Urges Photographs Of Local Industries For Picture Library

A record attendance characterized the first Century Club meeting of the New Year held yesterday afternoon at the Club House.

Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, State Chairman of Arts and Crafts was in charge of the meeting. She suggested that good photographs of the Newark industries be made and added to the circulating picture library. She called attention to the fact that 98 per cent of all the fibre produced is manufactured in the State of Delaware and that two of the largest fibre manufacturing plants are located in Newark. Additional industries include a large paper mill, a cannery, a machine shop and a factory for making fireworks.

Few realize, she said, that Newark is anything other than a college town. In addition, however, to the fortunate circumstance of having here, the State State College, Newark has the distinction of being also the most prosperous and important industrial centre outside of the city of Wilmington. Photographs of college buildings and of college activities are included in the Circulating Picture Library and those of Newark industries would make an interesting addition to the collection.

A report of the "Curtain Fund" started previous to the holidays showed a total of $36 to be expended for new curtains.

The program included an instrumental solo, "Two Arabesques," De Bussy by Mrs. William E. Holton.

Two vocal solos by Miss Eleanor Duffy, "Unit d'Etioles," De Bussy and "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Lieurance.

Miss Florence Hubbard, art instructor at the Women's College presented the interesting subject of Industrial Art in the United States Today. She emphasized particularly the textile industries and told of her visit to the New York exhibition in November. She gave also a demonstration of Batik work and explained in detail this method of color reproduction on textiles.

In the absence of Miss Ethel Pennell Brown who was detained on account of illness, Mrs. Frank Sheppard of Wilmington was induced to read a delightful paper presented recently before the Wilmington Club on "Yuletide."

Next week the club will hold an open meeting under the auspices of the civics committee who have secured as speakers Mrs. Ina Perkins, Supervisor of Child Welfare, and Miss Lockwood, supervisor of Nurses.

A social hour will follow.

Will Help Choose Bishop of Delaware

Alfred A. Curtis and Dr. George A. Harter were last week selected as delegates to the Diocesan Convention to be held at Dover, January 14 to elect a Bishop of Delaware to succeed Bishop Kinsman.

D. Lee Rose and Louis L. Curtis are the alternates.

Activities At the M. E. Church

Last Sunday's attendance at the Methodist Episcopal church was exceptionally large. In the morning, the midwinter communion service drew a large number of members and in evening the pastor, Rev. Frank Herson preached on "The Fall of a Giant." The Junior League and the Probationer's Class met at quarter to four this afternoon.

The weekly prayer meeting tonight will be followed by the regular monthly meeting of the Sunday School Board, and of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Home Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. J. Clifford Willis on South College Avenue next Friday evening.

The annual watch night service held last Wednesday evening from 11 until 12:10 was well attended.

Deed for School Site Passes to Board of Education

Architects Hold Conference With Board Saturday

Children Return to Work Monday, After Enjoyable Vacation

The deed for the Albert Lewis property on South Academy street, the site of the new school building passed to the local Board of Education yesterday and plans for the building are under consideration by them. A conference between the school architects and the local board was held on Saturday. This is the third set of plans submitted and contains many features that are acceptable to the Board.

A conference with the School Auxiliary Committee will be held sometime this week with a view to determining what aid will be given. After the generous vacation granted by the State Board of Education, teachers and pupils of the public schools resumed work on Monday morning. The weather man did his best to make the holidays pleasant. An abundance of snow for coasting and of ice for skating were furnished for those whom Santa Claus had remembered with sled or skates at Christmas time, and for those whose thrift insured the safe hold-over of these articles from previous years.

The lawn at "The Knoll," Dr. S. C. Mitchell's residence, was the favorite coasting ground for the younger boys and girls, while "Quality Hill" and the hills around Nonantum Heights furnished sport for the older boys and girls. The prevalence of mumps which had affected the attendance previous to the holiday season, prevented several pupils from returning but the enrollment was exceptionally large.

At the close of the session on Monday afternoon, Superintendent Morris called for a teachers' conference when minor matters of policy were discussed.

The subject of Red Cross membership for 1920 was discussed and a canvass is to be made this week by committees appointed for that purpose. It had been hoped to establish a record for 100 per cent membership with funds secured as a result of the play "Where Love is, There God is Also," dramatized and presented by the Eighth Grade just before the holidays. A number of other activities on the same night made the result somewhat disappointing and while the determination to make the 100 per cent membership is still strong, it will be necessary to raise funds by personal subscription or otherwise.

Rules governing the interclass debate for the cup donated by last year's class were also discussed and some of the rules definitely determined.

Will Hold Special Service For Mechanics

A special service will be held on Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church in honor of the Junior Order of American Mechanics who will attend in a body.

Dr. W. J. Rowan will preach a sermon on the subject "Hand to Hand for God and Country." Mrs. William Hagans of Kennett Square who has delighted church audiences several times this winter with her singing to autoharp accompaniment will be the soloist.

In the evening Dr. Rowan will preach the third of the series of sermons on the Book of Zephaniah.

Services At Head Of Christiana

Services at Head of Christiana next Sunday will be at the usual hours: Sabbath School at 10 o'clock and public worship at 10:45.

The Willing Workers will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Beers at Cowtown.

NEWARK LAD WINS FREE TRIP TO WASHINGTON

It has been demonstrated again and again that agriculture and democracy are interdependent. This makes it plain that what is done for agriculture is done for democracy. This Delaware legislator and Delaware bankers realized when they wisely decided to give boys and girls of the State access to the best educational facilities at their command.

That the week just ended is epoch making in the history of the State and that its influence will be far-reaching, no one who was privileged to have a part in the excellent program arranged by State Club Leader, T. T. Martin and his assistants, can for a moment doubt.

The self possession that comes of successful achievement was evidenced by the two young people Stanley Short of Smyrna and Mary Gruwell of Felton, who told simply and graphically, the story of their trip to Springfield during the Eastern States Exposition. The State may well feel a pardonable pride in this group of young people from the country and the country munity which has not already seen the light. No better means of bringing some light to some of the communities of the State could be formed than the illuminating program furnished during the week just ended.

Secures Service Record

At the close of the week's meetings, Club Leader Martin secured the necessary information from 45 out of the 47 champions who attended, to compile the following achievement service record which as far as the thrift features alone are concerned makes a remarkable showing and gives an idea of what is being accomplished by the thousands of boys and girls who are enrolled as club members.

- 1 Average age—15.2 years.
- 2 Average height—5.3 feet.
- 3 Average weight—105.4 pounds.
- 4 Years in Club Work—1st year—7; 2nd year—21; 3rd year—9; 4th year—1; 5th year—7.

For The Homemaker's Eye

Concentrated Foods Lead to Illness

It is quite common to find as much or more sickness among the well-to-do classes of people than there is among the laboring classes. This is due to the fact that the wealthy classes are more inclined to live on highly concentrated food which leave no residue, such as chicken, polished rice, mashed potatoes, fine white bread and pastries. A diet composed mainly of these foods will eventually result in derangement of the liver and chronic constipation, which have been found to be the real source and cause of nearly every disease. A person in this condition eventually becomes poisoned by his own waste material. Sooner or later the vitality is lowered and disease finds an easy foothold.

The diet of the laboring man usually consists of simple, plain and generally coarse foods, having a large percentage of cellulose material forming plenty of bulk necessary to perfect health. Green vegetables, legumes, fruit and some cereals are, owing to their cellulose formation, found to be laxative. Such foods as spinach, carrots, green peas, green beans, sauerkraut, cabbage, either canned or fresh; whole wheat; fruit, either fresh, canned or dried; prunes, cherries, grapes, figs, oranges, etc., may easily be worked into the menus of the selection is as important as the combination of foods. We must be sure the foods we buy are clean and wholesome from a health and efficiency viewpoint, and that there is no waste from the thrift viewpoint.

Recipe For Potato Bread

This is a very old fashioned and very good one. Three large loaves or two loaves and a pan of biscuits, may be made from the quantities given: Boil three pounds of peeled potatoes in sufficient water to cover well. Mash them and add a tablespoonful each of salt, melted butter and sugar. Soften two yeast-cakes in one cupful of tepid skim-milk or use one cupful of home-made yeast, and add to the potatoes after they have cooled sufficiently. Stir in two and one-half cupfuls of flour. Beat well, then put the sponge away in a temperature of 85 degrees until light, which will be in three or four hours. Now add enough flour, either white, whole wheat or rye, to knead; knead well, return to the bowl, and set away to become light again. Cut into loaves and knead lightly, place in greased pans, stand in a warm place for one hour or until light, and bake 50 minutes. If biscuits are desired, make them up at the last kneading, bake when light, for 20 minutes. The addition of one egg and one-fourth cupful of sugar to this dough will transform it into a very delicious rusk.

Eggless Gingerbread

Cream  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter or lard with  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup brown sugar, add  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk; sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons ginger; add to the first mixture with  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk; spread thinly on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes; cut in squares immediately after removing from oven; serve hot or cold with coffee.

Drop Cakes With One Egg

The ingredients:  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup of sugar,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup shortening, 1 egg,  $2\frac{3}{4}$  cup milk, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt,  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon vanilla.

Cream sugar and shortening and add well-beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add alternately with milk. Bake in iron gem pans in moderate oven about 10 minutes. This makes a rather stiff dough.

To make attractive you can put a current or some chopped nuts on top. This makes a dainty little gem to serve with tea.

A Lemon Pie Worth Trying

Line a deep pie plate with pastry. Add the following filling and bake slowly until the filling is firm: One cupful soft bread crumbs, one cupful boiling water, rind and juice of one lemon, three-quarters cupful sugar, one teaspoonful salt, yolks of two eggs, well beaten. Pour the boiling water over the bread crumbs. Add the rind and juice of the lemon, the sugar and well-beaten yolks. The whites are beaten stiff. Two tablespoonfuls of sugar are added and the meringue is placed over the filling after it is baked. The pie is returned to a very slow oven for 20 minutes. In this way the meringue is tender and will not stick to the knife when the pie is cut.

Chocolate Buns

Mix in a dish four ounces each of flour, sugar and grated chocolate, then rub in two ounces of butter or margarine, add one well beaten egg, one teaspoonful baking powder and a little milk. Mix well together into a nice batter. Pour into greased patty tins. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes.

A Business as an Inheritance

Men who devote their lives to creating a successful business, neglecting meanwhile to create also an estate separate therefrom, often go out of the world leaving an inheritance of doubtful value to their families.

There may not be heirs qualified to succeed in the management; without its founder or moving spirit the success of the business may wane; successors in control may not prove capable; obligations may exist which will strain the finances. If desirable for the estate to sell out, it may be difficult to find a buyer.

A "going business," then, does not always prove the best kind of an inheritance.

But an independent estate, such as you may create or enlarge under the "Equitable Trust Plan" can be transmitted to heirs and continued for their benefit indefinitely. It will be as good an asset after your death as while you live.

Investigate this admirable plan. Come in and talk to our Trust Officer about it. Read our booklet which describes it fully.

Need of Agricultural Education

According to Dr. A. O. Neal of the Federal Bureau of Education, 80 per cent of the property available for taxation is at the disposal of city and town schools while only about 20 per cent is accredited to rural schools which must provide for 60 per cent of our children.

"The chief task of educational leadership in the next generation" says Dean Russell of the University of Wisconsin, "will be to find out how to train teachers for rural schools and educate rural communities to the point of demanding a suitable rural education."

The source of the nation's stream of education is the rural school and no college or University can mean as much to the power and progress of the country as the rural schools which today are in the main several decades behind the times.

A recent Washington bulletin contained the following pregnant statement:

"The national industrial transition going on at the present time is forcing upon country communities, whether they will or not, a reorganization of the present educational system. The nation has long since passed from pioneering in agricultural life and must hereafter enter upon an era of scientific international commercial farming. This requires for the country community a type of school education which will do more than give farm people the tools of an education; they must be taught to become real agriculturists. The type of school that can best provide this education is the modern consolidated farm community school, furnishing both elementary and secondary education; or, where this is not practicable, a modern one-teacher school."

To do whatever may be necessary to procure this type of school is a paramount duty in every com-

ARE YOU USING COAL TO THE BEST ADVANTAGE?

Fuel Expert Gives Analysis of Problem; Anthracite Leads List

The fuel question is not so much what kind of fuel we shall have as it is whether we shall have any. But the scarcity makes it all the more important that as far as possible we use the kind of fuel best suited to our purposes.

Most of us know that all coal has a common origin, and the different varieties called anthracite, semi-bituminous and semi-anthracite, are merely modifications of bituminous coal that are produced by heat and pressure—a natural distillation. They differ from one another in that the bituminous coal is soft, friable, evolves much gas and burns with a long luminous flame. It usually produces smoke on account of an insufficient supply of air and lack of combustion space—that is, space in which the gas and air can meet and burn.

Semi-anthracite is something between bituminous and anthracite, more resembling anthracite. It is softer, kindles more readily and burns with a longer flame than anthracite.

Anthracite is hard, lustrous and dense, and shows when broken a fracture like that of glass. It kindles slowly, burns with a feeble flame and very seldom produces smoke; its heating power is somewhat less than that of semi-anthracite.

The following points should be borne in mind when selecting fuel. The amount of ash it leaves; whether it fuses and forms clinkers that stop up the grate bars and cut off the draft; whether the ash is corrosive and whether it attacks the grate or adheres to the stove linings. The addition of a few pieces of clam or oyster shells is said by many to help the vast-mentioned trouble. The amount of moisture that coal contains is another important thing.

There seems to be little or no difference or advantage in mixing coal of different sizes. If the draft is feeble, use a small-sized or a softer coal.

In a general way it may be said that without regard to cost, fuels arrange themselves in the following order:—Anthracite, semi-anthracite, coke, lignite—the last being the least desirable. The larger the size of the coal the less ash it produces. For example, furnace or egg coal contains 5.6 per cent of ash, but the pea of the same coal contains 14.6 per cent.

As local conditions—draft, stoves, furnaces—vary so greatly, the most satisfactory way for you to determine what fuel is best adapted for your particular use is to make a test on one or two 100-pound bags of the various sizes. You should record the quantity and the character of the ash, the amount of smoke, the readiness to kindle, the ease with which the fire keeps or burns out; and, of course, you must take care to have conditions, like the amount of cooking, ironing or heating, as nearly as possible for all the tests. It is a good plan to begin each test of the same day of the week. In making your calculations take account of the weather conditions—the amount and direction of the wind, as they effect the draft and the outside temperature.

Experience teaches that chestnut coal is usually the most economical for the cooking stove, and that for the furnace broken or egg—according to the size of the fire-box—is best during heavy duty in severe weather. Experience also seems to prove that banking the fire with a smaller size of coal or with cinders sifted from the ashes promotes economy.

A day's ashes, both from the stove and from the furnace or boiler should be sifted periodically to determine the completeness of the combustion. If a fresh kitchen fire is kindled each day considerable coke and unburned coal will be recovered. If the fire is continuous, as in the case of the furnace, probably not enough coal would be obtained to warrant the time and trouble involved in sifting. That will surely be the case if the furnace is operated with deep beds of ashes and coal, about six inches and ten inches respectively.

Can You Stand the Test?

What a fire burns over a country pasture or a bit of woodland, by another season the fire-swept area will be covered with vegetation quite different from that which formerly held possession. The seeds were there all the time, but were unable to get a start, because plants of another sort held the field.

After some upheaval in our lives, we are often astonished by the traits that come into prominence. Readers of David Copperfield will remember how the repining grumbling Mrs. Gummidge was transformed into a cheerful helper, when real trouble overtook the household where she had so long been sheltered. And real life records countless similar instances.

It is not only good that comes to the surface after the old growth has been swept away by some decided change. Some who are models of amiability as long as they are favorites of fortune, develop bad tempers when their wills are crossed and their purposes blocked. Sickness reveals most unlovely traits in innumerable people. These qualities were there all the time, but it took a change of circumstances to develop them.

No one is really honest who will not be honest when poor and tempted. No one is really good-tempered who becomes irritable as soon as things go wrong. To find out what we really are, we must pass through varied experiences. The weakness which comes to the front in a crisis is not the product of the emergency. It is only revealed thereby.

Our Confidence In America and Her Institutions

All the world knows that America is in a chaotic condition, but not all of the world believes that America has the brains, the will and the determination to bring sanity out of bedlam.

We, however, have confidence that such will be the final outcome of the present era of brimstone and brutality.

We believe the government at Washington, and the congress of chosen representatives of the people, will arise to the patriotic heights necessary to restore order and fairness and justice throughout this land of a self governed people.

We believe that the great mass of the American people will give to the government and the congress that loyal and unswerving support which is necessary in this hour of national travail.

We believe that every true American will exert his utmost to restore our country to that condition of tranquility which prevailed before this wave of agitation and unrest and profiteering engulfed us.

Regardless of the present deplorable conditions, we have confidence in America and American institutions.

Large Proportion of Soldiers Left the Farms

Of America's mighty war forces of more than four and a half million of men, 1,200,000, it is estimated, came from farms. Records in the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in Washington, D. C., indicate that these farm-bred or farm-raised boys carried Government life insurance amounting to over ten billion dollars.

During the earlier demobilization, it was so difficult to keep track of the discharged service men that it seemed as though a very large proportion of them did not return to their former addresses or homes. So many of the service men who had come from the farms seemed to be listening to the call of the city that it was feared more than one-half of them were not going back to the farms. Later the tide of migration set in toward the country, and now it is believed that the loss in man-power to the farms as the result of former service men settling elsewhere may not be more than 500,000.

My Lesson

Only to rest where He puts me;
Only to do His will;
Only to be what He made me.
Though I be nothing still.
Never a look beyond me,
Out of my little sphere;
If I could fill another,
God would not keep me here.

Only to take what He gives me,
Meek as a little child,
Questioning naught of the reason,
Joyful, or reconciled.
Only to do what He bids me,
Patiently, gladly to-day,
Taking no thought for the morrow;
Leaning on Him all the way.

Only to watch, in the working,
Lest I should miss His smile;
Only to still earth's voices,
Listening for His the while
Only to look to Him ever;
Only to sit at His feet;
All that He sayeth to do it—
There shall my life be complete.

Two Sides To Profit-Sharing

George W. Perkins writes an interesting article in the current issue of Rotarian Magazine, entitled "The Workers' Fair Share," in which he devotes considerable attention to profit-sharing.

At first thought profit-sharing would seem to be a ready solution to the industrial unrest now prevailing, inducing the worker to produce as much as possible in the hope of sharing in the profits, the same as stock-holders.

But there are two sides to profit-sharing, as there are to every other proposal.

The stock holders of a company have in the profits only when there are profits to share. There are lean years even with prosperous companies, when there are not only no earnings, but where losses actually are shouldered either by necessity or for the future good of the concern.

In such cases, what would the worker do who depended upon profit-sharing for a part of his yearly income?

Say he worked hard and really produced much more than he would under the present wage system. Say he had no responsibility for the failure of the company to earn a dividend, would it be fair to him to tell him there were no profits in which he could share?

And if this situation were to occur, as it is bound to do wherever profit-sharing is attempted, how is it going to be adjusted?

Profit-sharing is a very fine thing when business is booming, but it doesn't look so good from the other angle.

—Harrisburg, Pa. Telegraph.

"Out In the Fields With God"

The little cares that fretted me,
I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea.
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing of the birds,
And humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what might come—
I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the husking of the corn
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born,
Out in the fields with God.

STATE PROGRAM TO BE DISCUSSED AT FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Child Welfare and Health As Well As Agriculture Considered

The farmers of Delaware are vitally interested in the "State Program"—the plans to perfect the machinery of the State Government; and the State Board of Agriculture in arranging the program of the Institutes this year has wisely included a discussion of some of the features of this State Program. Child Welfare will be presented by Mrs. Ina J. N. Perkins, who is the Director of Child Welfare for the State Reconstruction Commission of Delaware. Mrs. Perkins was formerly in Washington, D. C., as Chief of the Child Conservation Section of The United States Council of National Defense. She directed the activities of some 18,000 child welfare committees throughout the United States and Hawaii, which were engaged upon the execution of the "Federal Children's Year" program. In her address before the Farmers' Institutes Mrs. Perkins will tell how the work of the Reconstruction Commission is reducing the appalling infant and child mortality rate of Delaware, and how its work will have far reaching results that will assure the fitness of the rising and future generations of Delaware.

The subject of "Tuberculosis in Delaware" will be presented by Dr. Charles H. Keene, Executive Secretary of the State Tuberculosis Commission, who is making an intensive study of conditions in this state. He will also give an interesting and instructive talk on "Health in the Farm Home."

There will also be given an outline of what the State Board of Agriculture should be and should do when it is fully organized. Dr. M. L. Zurkow will tell what has already been done to control Hog Cholera, and Dr. W. G. Middleton will tell what the Department is doing to cooperation with the Bureau of Animal Industry to eradicate tuberculosis from the dairy herds of the state.

Will Give Closer Supervision of Children Placed in Foster Homes

Closer supervision of children placed in foster homes in this state will be observed during the current year by the State Board of Education in conjunction with the children's Bureau. Investigation of the position of children in the homes, the kind of children, their antecedents and the reason for placing them in this state instead of in the country in their own state, are some of the inquiries to be made. State Superintendent A. R. Spaid will not accept bond from a society wishing to place children here until a thorough investigation has been made.

Submits Tentative Plan For Three Million Fund

Arthur G. Wilkinson business administrator at Delaware College on Monday sent to Henry B. Thompson, chairman of the Board of Trustees, a tentative schedule for the $3,000,000 fund which friends of the college hope to raise. Of this sum $2,000,000 is scheduled for an endowment fund, the interest to be devoted to stabilizing the faculty of the colleges and extension service; and $1,000,000 to development which would include a new engineering building with equipment, a new dormitory corresponding to Harter Hall, arts and science department endowment for equipment, and agricultural teaching endowment for equipment.

GOES UP "ON HIGH"

Wealthy Chinese Has Novel Trip to the Next World

There was a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise, and it was sometimes necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure this company for the departed. But in the territory of the China-American Trading Company, Ford dealers in Tientsin, China, they have discovered a much better aid to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the Promised Land.

It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc. The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tientsin, and who was a very wealthy man, the bereaved family outdid themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo and reed frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car was also accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The effigy of the driver as shown in the photograph, was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveside where a match was applied and it was consumed in a few minutes.

This is the first time a motor car has been burned at the grave of a Chinese, and there is every reason to believe that the deceased went up "On High."

What It Cost the Successful Candidate

The law requires candidates for office to file a report of all expenditures. A patriot of Missouri ran for office and turned in the following absolutely truthful report of what it cost him to get elected:

"Lost 1,349 hours' sleep thinking about the election. Lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent. Donated one beef, four shoats and five sheep to country barbecues. Gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses and $15 in cash."

"Kissed 126 babies. Put up four stoves. Kindled fourteen fires. Walked 4,076 miles. Shook hands with 9,508 people. Told 10,101 lies and talked enough to make in print 1,000 volumes. Attended sixteen revivals and contributed $50 to foreign missions. Made love to nine widows—five grass, four sod. Hugged forty-nine old maids. Got dog-bit thirty-nine times—and was elected by 353 majority."—Ex.

Canadian Farmers Says "Advertising Pays"

Does advertising pay the farmer? Judiciously done it decidedly does. Read what Frank Pyle says:

"The question is best answered by giving the results of some of my campaigns. This year I had three hundred crates of cherries on the trees. When they were ready to be picked I ran a four and one-half inch advertisement in the country paper. Within three days after the ad appeared there was not a cherry left on the trees and I had $924.36 in my pocket for my share of the crop."

"The advertising cost only $4.25 and the total cost to me was only $83.06. It would be hard to estimate the cost of hiring the cherries picked, hauling them to town and other expenses of selling that way. I doubt if I could have obtained enough help to pick them."

"To sell my apple crop during the year February, 1918, to February, 1919, I ran advertisements in nine local papers. Nearly all fruit was sold at the farm. In this way I sold $9,511.24 worth of apples at a cost for advertising of only $201.63 or 2.1 per cent of the returns. It would have cost at least 5 per cent to have hauled them to town not counting the time away from the work of the farm."

"Some of my advertising has seemingly fallen flat. Some of it has produced good results immediately. All of it has helped to build up a reputation for my farm. In one instance an advertisement that I considered a failure brought me a customer a year later, who told me this ad had brought him. He came from 20 miles away and since that time has purchased more than three hundred dollars worth of fruit."—Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Early Planting Best For Some Varieties of Corn

Earlier planting of large, productive varieties of corn is frequently much more profitable than the normal planting of early maturing varieties. Proof of this has been obtained in many instances, announces the Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in reporting on the results of experiments conducted to demonstrate the practicability and value of the earlier planting of corn. By much earlier than normal planting it has been found that larger varieties can be profitably grown for ensilage in northern localities with much better yields than can be had from the smaller native varieties planted at the usual date.

In the South, by planting small short-season varieties earlier than normal, much earlier maturity can be secured, affording a supply of corn for very early feeding. Many rather soft varieties that rot badly when planted late produce sound corn when planted early in southern localities. The planting of short and long season varieties in alternate rows has increased yields where moisture is a limiting factor.

Varieties differ, it has been found, in their ability to adapt themselves and their grain production to varying stands. Prolific varieties, when given increased space, have shown ability to increase their grain production much more satisfactorily than have the single ear varieties, because of their ability to make up for deficiency in stand.

The studies made by the department specialists have resulted in isolating uniform types within a variety. It has been found that so-called varieties of corn are largely conglomerates of many distinct types, and to arrive at basic facts in breeding work it is necessary to segregate these uniform types.

Tribune Tells What Women Shall Wear

It is easy enough to decide what to wear when the statistics and the experts agree. But what to do when Dr. Copeland says one thing and the mortality statistics say another! There is the rub and we gladly yield our conclusions touching the vexed and cosmic problem raised.

Briefly, our advice is to wear exactly what you wish to wear, whether that happens to agree with Dr. Copeland or the statistics. We say this all the more readily because of the obvious fact that this is exactly what women always have done and always will do. But there are some observations and a trace of science behind our dictum at that.

When Dr. Copeland spoke so triflingly of nothing mattering, whether highness of heels or tightness of corsets he neglected to define his terms. What is a high heel? And when does lacing become tight? As a matter of fact, there has been a decided change of standards in the past generation in the direction of lower heels and freer waists. Perhaps statistics and the theories of reform had something to do with this change. But, we suspect not much. The essential fact is that women are doing new and different things. They are walking more, swimming more, playing more out-of-door games. Dressing has changed to fit the part.—New York Tribune.

Majority Party In Honor of Newark Youth

Mrs. L. W. Warren and Mrs. Walter Tilghman, the hostesses are aunt and cousin respectively to Miss Jarmon and her brother.

One of the prettiest events of the holiday season was the dance last evening at the Woman's club, at which Mrs. Walter Tilghman and Mrs. L. W. Warren entertained in honor of Lewis Jarmon, who celebrated his 21st birthday yesterday.

The ballroom was profusely decorated with Christmas greens, cedar and holly and pine trees being used to advantage. On the mantel were masses of flaming poinsettias, which lent a note of color to the scene.

Mrs. Tilghman was handsome in a gown of black velvet, Mrs. Warren wore a stylish gown of taupe tricotette and Miss Jarmon wore a lovely frock of white net over blue charmeuse. Promptly at 8:30 o'clock the grand march began, led by Mr. Jarmon and Miss Catherine Howell, assisted by Robert Earnest and Miss Irene Yelverton. Miss Howell was lovely in a gown of rose crepe de chine draped with georgette and heavily embroidered. Miss Yelverton was striking in a frock of pink georgette elaborately embroidered and beaded.

Mrs. Tilghman, Mrs. Warren, Mr. Jarmon and Miss Elizabeth Jarmon, of Delaware, received the guests.

After executing several figures the leaders halted the march in front of a miniature Santa Claus, impersonated by Master John Warren Tilghman, who distributed to the guests stockings which contained the programs and favors.

After spending several hours dancing to the inspiring music, a delicious two-course supper, consisting of baked ham, cheese balls, celery, coffee, hot biscuits, ice cream and fruitcake were served.

The Calendar

The calendar hangs on each household wall. And within its fluttering folds, Silent and hid from our waiting sight, The fate of our lives it holds.

None can tell what pleasure or pain May come with the coming day— 'Tis here and has passed with the passing hours, And we tear the leaf away.

Today, with its round of treadmill cares, Makes life seem cold and gray; We are glad when the sinking sun means rest And we tear the leaf away.

But with the birth of the morrow's sun We hope for a brighter day, And with faith renewed we smile again As we tear the leaf away.

May the peace that we cannot understand Come to us all, we pray, When the last day's closing scene is o'er And the leaf is torn away.

CAPTAIN McTAVISH AND MACBETH

Representing the Scotch Highlanders He Asks Educators to Bar Play

It is a new thing and a strange thing to find Scots worrying about the good or ill repute of their ancestors. There was a time when the proudest of all highland chiefs—in spite of the English attempt to suppress the very name of his kin—could boast:—"Where the MacGregor sits is the head of the table!" Was he ashamed of the feuds, the mysterious disappearances, the cattle-driving and all the other moving incidents that marked the wild history of Clan Alpin? Not at all. The very slogan of the brood, "Ard choille," innocent in meaning as it suggests forays and raids battle murder and sudden death, and then the family with its back to the wall ready to resist to the last. Was not Rob Roy himself what they would call a "rustler" in our West? It is true he became a reformed character toward the end, but he was more inspiring in his unregenerate condition.

All this is apropos of the startling fact that Captain Ian McTavish, representing the Gordon Highlanders of this city, veterans of the great war, has called on the Board of Education to bar the play "Macbeth" from the public schools on the ground that that usurper of the throne of Duncan was a real person, and that, therefore, Shakespeare had no right to represent him as a murderer and a low character.

A "low character"! The husband of the woman who, as an actable character, satisfied even Mrs. Siddons herself a low character! This is too much. Macbeth may have been infirm of purpose, but the sometime Thane of Glamis and Cawdor is one of the most human personages in the Elizabethan drama. In this play more than any other Shakespeare reaches the fatalistic heights in which Sophocles and Euripides abode with the heroes and heroines of Greek tragedy.

Still let us not forget that the Scot, transplanted from his native health to another land, tends, like persons of other races, to lose the salt and savor of his original character; to become touchy, serious, suspicious and rather ridiculous. If anybody suggests that his men are not the bravest and his women the fairest and best in the world he is ready for a fight at the drop of a hat.

Burns in "Holy Willie's Prayer" painted the most wonderful portrait imaginable of the occasional combination of piety and roguery in his countrymen, yet his poems are the "Second Bible" of Caledonia, stern and wild. In the same way Dr. Swift could satirize the land of his birth, yet was the idol of the Irish even when he was giving them less welcome advice than to "burn everything English except the coal."

What is the explanation of the inconsistency? It may be that, in the case of the Scots, a race endowed with a form of humor that burns like a hard, bright flame, those who go abroad have been changed by the spirit of standardization and want to be like neighbors. Or, again, it is possible that they have reached the condition of the man who is willing to take a joke if it is made by a kinsman but not by an outsider.

Our advice to Captain McTavish and his Gordons is that they read "Macbeth" again, carefully and prayerfully, and thing it over. What would Scotland be but for her past? And her past lives for what it was—romantic, fierce, turbulent, but always interesting—a time when men did and spared not.—New York Herald.

Masons Dedicate New Home

The new home of Union Lodge, No. 5, A. F. & A. M., of Middletown, was dedicated Monday evening, when a reception was given its members and about 100 visitors. The lodge has had no permanent home since the old Opera House was burned, on December 30, of last year, having at that time quarters on the third floor of the building.

The reception was in honor of the twenty-one members of the lodge who were in the United States service during the recent war. One member of the lodge, Rupert Mundell Burstan, a major in the Marines, died of pneumonia soon after landing in France. A memorial tablet in memory of Major Burstan was placed in position.

WINTER

Katherine Lee Bates In Christian Science Monitor

Aha! he is here again,
His stormy trumpets blow;
The swift, dim lines of the beating rain
Blossom to starry snow.

With morning the drifts are deep,
And strangely over them go,
Like dreams on the silent heart of sleep,
Shadows of jay and crow.

But the hungry chickadees wait,
Their tree-hollow sealed with ice,
Till the sun shall open that crystal gate
To a sparkling paradise.

For never a branch so bare,
So gnarled and crooked and gray,
But it dazzles with diamonds unaware
And rainbows out at play.

Too soon the sun unfurls
Gold banners in the West;
The diamond pendants pale to pearls,
The flying shadows rest.

And the fair young moon in joy
Comes flushing up the sky,
To find our world a Christmas toy,
Carven in ivory.

Get This Habit!

"Ben Franklin is our great example of thrift. He wrote more on it and wrote it better than any other man we know. He began practicing thrift when he was 12 years of age, and he practiced it and wrote on it all his life. He became the richest man in America in his day, richest not only in money, but in health, brains, sanity, good cheer, influence. He was a scientist, a business man, a linguist, a diplomat and a philosopher. He always paid his way. He founded the University of Pennsylvania, founded the first public library in America, organized an insurance company, pretty nearly captured the lightnings, invented spectacles, manufactured the first cook stove, went to France and borrowed money on which Washington fought the War of the Revolution; and the basis of all the strength and excellence of Benjamin Franklin lay in the fact that very early in life he acquired the habit of thrift.

"Thrift is a habit. A habit is a thing you do unconsciously or automatically without thought. We are ruled by our habits. When habits are young they are like lion cubs, soft, fluffy, funny, frolicsome little animals. They grow day by day. Eventually they rule you. Choose ye this day the habit ye would have rule over you. The habit of thrift is simply the habit which dictates that you shall earn more than you spend. In other words, thrift is the habit that provides that you spend less than you earn. Take your choice." —Elbert Hubbard.

Muskrat Hides Bring High Prices

Tremendous demand for the skin of the humble muskrat, "Hudson seal" when it appears in coat and muff, has won it a high rank in the indictment against the high cost of living, according to a statement issued by the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation.

Charles and Marie had recently had the measles, and at about the same time an elderly neighbor had died of pneumonia. The children decided one rainy day to play "doctor." Marie was to be the sick patient and Charles the doctor. The doctor, dressed in his father's clothes and carrying a large traveling bag, nearly as large as himself, answered the patient's hurry up call and to his question, "What's the matter with you?" the patient answered "Monia," so said, "Well, you will just have to have measles, 'cause that's all the kind of medicine I have."

Children are often great disappointments to parents, but did you ever think how great disappointments some parents must be to their children.

bound on the wave of prohibition and ordered 30 per cent. more than in the preceding year. The entire country apparently decided to go on a "Sugar Spree." The engineers' and longshoremen's strike tied up further shipments and alert sugar users bought up every available pound.

Cuba was the only country possessing a surplus at that time and awakened to the fact that she was selling sugar to the U. S. Government for 6 cents a pound when all America was scrambling for it and was willing to pay 12 to 15 cents a pound. Cuban planters as a result telegraphed that they would decline to sell the 1920 crop to the government, which had in the meantime delayed action until nearly half of the crop had been sold to European buyers.

Shortage Next Year Also

A repetition of the causes above mentioned will cause a shortage in August, September and October of next year, says Mr. Keller, and in the absence of the U. S. Equalization which automatically ceases to exist Dec. 31, it is quite possible that a retail price of 30 cents a pound may be reached without actual evidence of "profiteering." When for example a carload of sugar bought in New York at 14 cents a pound is hurried by express to relieve a local shortage 1000 or 2000 miles distant. The retailer will naturally add shipping charges and overhead to the cost price.

The Amount America Uses

America has been consuming one-fourth of the total sugar supply of the world. This country with its 100 million people is consuming 4 million tons a year; the rest of the world numbering 1700 million has to be satisfied with the other 12 million tons. If therefore America uses on an average 80 lbs. per capita, the rest of the world must be content with 13 pounds per capita.

When the U. S. bought the entire Cuban crop it deprived Great Britain, France, and all its other allies, of the chance to buy and cut off from their pre war source of supply, they asked and were allowed 1/3 of the Cuban crop. This was refined and shipped from New York, causing some hostility among Americans who did not realize that an agreement made in good faith had to be kept even though circumstances had arisen which would have made it desirable to cancel the contract. This agreement could not be treated as a "scrap of paper."

There will be a world shortage for the next ten years. Employers in the sugar industry are paying 120 per cent higher wages, 100 per cent higher prices for necessary materials, and must therefore demand higher prices for the finished product. The average family of five at the high rate of consumption would use 400 pounds a year, which would mean an expenditure of $18 more than last year for such a family. In the face of other enormous prices for food and clothing the sugar increase is really a small thing.

Buy An Extra Quantity This Spring

There is a generous supply of sugar to be had in March and April and if it is purchased then by the ultimate consumer it would solve the problem of carrying 2 billion pounds of sugar in storage warehouses at tremendous expense. "Buying an extra ten pounds during each week of March and April would not behoarding therefore but simply using the time of greatest production to prepare for the time of greatest consumption. No family following this advice, however, should purchase during the high summer demand, for the supplies then available should be left to those unable to prepare in advance.

Find Oil At Havre de Grace

The discovery of crude oil on the surface of the Susquehanna River and tributaries near Havre de Grace, has attracted the attention of New York capitalists to such an extent that they have bought or leased large tracts near that city on which they will bore for oil. Promoters of the enterprise are further encouraged by geological evidence that the rocks which underlie Havre de Grace and vicinity are extensions of the strata in Lancaster county, Pa., from which there has been a small flow of oil. Operations are being carried on to reach the large deposits believed to exist under the surface.

INTEREST KEEN IN OUTCOME OF BASKET- BALL SERIES

First Half Will Be Finished
Saturday Night; Tie
May Result

By Saturday evening of this week the first half of the series of basketball games for the championship of the town will have been played. The new series will begin next week. At the conclusion of the second series, the winners of the two halves will compete for the cup which has been donated as a prize.

The present outlook points to a tie between the "Y" team and that of the Jr. O. A. M. which has been playing consistently good ball during the entire series. The same is true of the "Y" team which has played 9 of the ten games scheduled while the Jr. O. A. M. has played eight. The Continental Fibre Co. team and the town team have finished the series.

Tonight, the Jr. O. A. M. plays the American Legion and the rest of the series will be played off on Saturday.

Delaware to Play Lafayette Tomorrow

The first basketball game to be played by the Blue and Gold quintet after the holidays will be that with Lafayette tomorrow in Newark. Delaware also has games with Penn and Penn State. The speed at which the team has been going so far indicates a remarkably good start for the season. The three teams which it has met and defeated are, with the possible exception of Penn and Penn State, the strongest on its schedule. It shows that they have a basketball team that can compare with the teams of any of the colleges and one that would defeat badly any of the teams from colleges the same size as Delaware.

Elkton Youths Acquitted

The trial on Friday last of Allan Poole and Paul Cameron, two Elkton young men arrested December 26 by Sheriff Seth and tried on the charge of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer resulted in the acquittal of both young men on both counts. The testimony of both officers and witnesses failed to substantiate the charges. The circumstances of the arrest as related by eye witnesses drew from Wm. Warburton, council for the defense, a scathing arraignment of Sheriff Seth for brutality. It is rumored that counter suit has been entered against the officer.

Both young men are veterans of the world war, Poole having been wounded. Cameron served with a machine gun battalion.

Missing Chester Countian Found in Florida

Charles J. Pennock, banker and ornithologist, who has been found after disappearing six years ago, is visiting his son, Richard M. Pennock, in Harrisburg. The son is safety engineer of the Pennsylvania workmen's insurance board. Mr. Pennock will return to his old home and his old life at Kennett Square, within a few days. He has little to say about the six years of wandering after he vanished from Philadelphia on the night of his last lecture at the Academy of Natural Sciences, May 15, 1918.

He was found in Florida where he was living under the name of "John Williams" by Dr. Richard J. Phillips, No. 123 South Thirty-ninth street, and was taken back to Philadelphia, where he visited at Doctor Phillip's home before starting for Harrisburg.

"There is not much to say," said Mr. Pennock, in speaking of his sudden disappearance. "I had been working too hard and my health gave way. All my affairs were in good shape and I simply wanted to go away. I do not recall many of the circumstances of my departure except that I went to the south. I have been at the gulf port. I suffered a loss of money, but I spent most of my time on the west coast and followed ornithology, coming back to myself some time ago and writing arti-
