Party Principles

Tuesday, May 23, at College Hour, Miss Jeanette Eckman spoke in the chapel at Science Hall on "The Principles of the Republican Party." The college has taken quite a good deal of interest in this discussion, especially since they heard Miss Samworth speak on the Democratic party.

Miss Eckman gave some very interesting lights on women in politics. She stated definitely in what manner and way a woman may be of use in the political affairs of her community.

STUDENT BODY AND FACULTY GIVE MAJ. ROW A WRIST WATCH

Dr. Hullihen Speaks

At a mass meeting held in the Commons of Old College last Friday, Major Row bade a formal farewell to the Faculty and Student Body of Delaware College. Mr. Wilkinson, head of the business administration, took the occasion to present a gold wrist watch to Major Row as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the University.

Dr. Hullihen made a short address in which he praised Major Row for the splendid work he has done in making the R. O. T. C. unit one of the finest in the (Continued on Page 4.)

The University of Delaware won tenth place in the recent Interscholastic R. O. T. C. National Indoor Rifle Match. Delaware scored a total of 7462 points. The University of Minnesota, the winner of the match, made a total of 7795 points.

There were twenty-three states and the District of Columbia represented in Class "A" of the match. The Delaware riflemen were shooting in Class "A".

Delaware Baseball

Team Ends Splendid Season With 6 Wins

The University of Delaware baseball team closed one of the most successful seasons of all time when they won from the Haverford nine on Saturday, by a 5-0 score.

Out of the nine games played this season, Delaware has won six. This is an excellent average, and both the team and Coach McAvoy are to be congratulated. The splendid work of Earl Pryor has been one of the features of Delaware's playing.

Captain Underwood, Williams, Chun, and Murray will be lost to the team through graduation.

"Sook" Jackson New Varsity Club President

The Varsity Club held its elections for next year, Tuesday, June 3. "Sook" Jackson was elected President; "Bill" McKelvie, Vice-President; and "Jock" Gibson, Secretary-Treasurer.

Philosophy For Freshmen

The University of Chicago plans next year to offer a Freshman Philosophy course. This course "is to give the new students a technical grasp of how thinking arises, what it is, and how to do it."

Seniors of Both Colleges to Get Unique Presents

Each to Receive a Copy of the Constitution

R. H. Richards Is Donor

Mr. Robert H. Richards is presenting each member of the Graduating Class of the University of Delaware with a copy of the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Richards is one of the twenty-two men who are giving copies of the Constitution to the members of the graduating classes of the different schools throughout the State.

These particular copies of the Constitution are notable in two ways; first because they are entirely Delaware products. After vainly trying to purchase a copy of the Constitution in a separate volume, Mr. Everett Johnson decided to print some for himself. The Curtis Paper Mills furnished the paper, and the books are bound with Bancroft cloth.

The second notable feature is that these gift copies are a special edition. There will be no others of this edition. The books are bound in board and cloth, with "Declaration of Independence" and "Constitution of United States of America" in (Continued on Page 4.)

UNIVERSITY PRESS HAS PUBLISHED FOUR WORTHWHILE BOOKS

Others Being Prepared

The University of Delaware Press has published four books since its establishment over a year ago. Several other volumes are being prepared for the printer.

The four books which have been published and which are for sale are "The English Bible" by Dr. W. O. Sypherd; "An American Looks At His World" by Glenn Frank; "National Education In the United States of America" by du Pont De Nemours, and "Negro School Attendance In Delaware" by R. W. and H. Cooper.

Dr. R. W. Cooper and Mr. H. Cooper are preparing the second of their studies in school attendance, "School Attendance In One Room Rural Schools of Delaware." This will soon be in print.

To the general reader, we heartily recommend "The English Bible" and Glenn Frank's book of pertinent and "snappy" philosophical essays. For more complete information the reader can see Dr. Foster.

The laying of the cornerstone of the New Memorial Library this morning was a truly impressive ceremony. Grand Master E. W. Cooch, of the Masons, directed the exercises. Bishop Cook made a short address in which he quoted some lines of Rupert Brooke, the young English poet killed in the war.

Bishop Cook talked about the "wooden cross" as the highest decoration, and said that those who were awarded this distinction had given the most that they could to their country.

The exercises were closed with a brief benediction.

The Farewell Dance At Women's College A Delightful Affair

Last Dance of this Scholastic Year

Madden's Orchestra

The Farewell Hop at the Women's College was held in the Hilarium of Residence Hall on Friday night. Everyone who attended enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent. The weather was not of the most pleasant variety, being rather damp but not enough to dampen the spirits of the "festive throng."

Excepting the weather, the elements which make up the dance were excellent. George Madden and his orchestra were especially good; the floor was excellent; the decorations most attractive. The crowd was in holiday spirits and made the evening pass only too quickly.

The dance broke up about 12 o'clock. Each one there said farewell to school dances for the year, and to the patronesses who were: Dean Winifred Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hullihen, Miss Rachel W. Taylor, Mrs. Emma L. Wilson, Miss Quaesita Drake, Dean and Mrs. George E. Dutton.

THE EDITORIAL THIS WEEK

I

When we started to plan the editorial for this "Commencement Issue," we started with the intention of writing an editorial of farewell. You know the type—

"And now college is over. Now we must break off cherished associations, associations to be resumed next fall, perhaps, perhaps never.

"A tear gilds glisteningly beneath our horn-rimmed spectacles as we gaze fondly upon the heating plant for the last time. We sigh at the thought of parting from the temporary 'dorms' at the Women's College and the engineering shacks at Delaware College. But a smile brightens our melancholy countenance when we look toward the splendid new library, this beautiful monument that is being erected to, to—oh, yes, to the memory of our soldier dead.

"As we realize that we may never again see some of our associates (instead of feeling thankful) we become inspired with the momentary froth of sentimentality, and we do indeed love our enemies.

"The Senior is about to go out into the unfeeling world, to fight the uphill fight of life, a fight for which he has spent four laborious years in preparation. We all must assume new responsibilities, and—"

You get the idea.

II

But we don't want to write the old, moth-eaten, conventional type of editorial. We are not fair to ourselves if we pat ourselves on the back when we deserved to be kicked out of bed. Why hid our weaknesses under a crusty cover of custom? Why do things just because they are done at other places? Do we attend classes because the students at other colleges attend classes, or is there a definite and logical reason behind our presence at lectures?

III

The other day we were lazily watching the construction of the New Memorial Library, we could not help wondering whether it would have been more worthwhile to have used that $300,000 for the purpose of providing us with some really great teachers.

We do not necessarily mean to imply that our faculty is below the average faculty of institutions of this size. We don't think that this is the case. But how many of our intellectual and moral leaders are known outside of Newark? How many deserve to be? How many of them are the sort of persons to whom one would dare to ask, "You look as if you had made up your mind about life, what do you think about it all?"

We would like to hear more lectures into which the lecturer puts his own experiences, thoughts, conclusions, and personality. We are fed up on second-hand ideas. We are tired of hearing endless quotations. Our brains are becoming covered with the scum from stagnated minds.

We want knowledge served to us with an appearance of freshness and greenness. We want inspired and inspiring teachers. We want teachers unhampered by the fear of losing their "jobs," teachers who hold truth above public opinion, who do not cater to "those higher up," and we want "those higher up" to be the type who do not encourage "handshaking" as a means of retaining a position or of gaining advancement.

We want to enjoy learning. We want to get intellectual thrills from our classroom associations. We want to be stimulated by fresh, clear-thinking intellects. We want to learn how to put into words those feeling-thoughts which stir restlessly deep down on the borders of consciousness. We want to learn a different vocabulary.

We want to get away from standardized education. We want to be enabled to make up our minds concerning life. It doesn't really matter whether George Washington crossed the Delaware River in his pajamas in 935-J or flat-footed two years later. Is that aiding us to know ourselves and our fellows?

IV

But to get back to the Library (a rather popular custom earlier in the spring)—it is going to be a credit to the University—thanks to Mr. Pierre du Pont.

We are expanding physically, but how about intellectually?

There will be a great number of books in this beautiful new addition to our University. We have many books: a few read. We have a few teachers: all listen. To the readers, who have stayed with us, do you comprehend?

Oh, well, what difference does it make? In a year or so we will be showing visitors the splendid library on our campus. We'll boast about this building, and point out its structural beauty. But when are we going to be able to show the visitors our scholars? When are we going to be able to point out our students who have been taught the beauty of life, and who are striving for a greater appreciation of this beauty? When are we going to bragg about our thinkers?

V

The initials of a friend

You will find these letters on many tools by which electricity works. They are on great generators used by electric light and power companies; and on lamps that light millions of homes.

They are on big motors that pull railway trains; and on tiny motors that make hard housework easy.

By such tools electricity dispels the dark and lifts heavy burdens from human shoulders. Hence the letters G-E are more than a trademark. They are an emblem of service—the initials of a friend.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

KATHRYN VIRGINIA LADD

"Who is Katy? what is she
That all our swains commend her?
Holy, fair, and wise is she
The Heaven such grace did lend her."

To go on with the poet, she is "kind as she is fair." Indeed, Katy has a deep appreciation of human nature. She sees the best in everybody and in everything. As a result, her judgments are unfailingly impartial. In fact, when Katy has a question to decide, it is almost possible to see through her clear brow the Scales of Justice in operation.

Katy knows the when and what of the time referred to in that familiar quotation, "There's a time for work and a time for play." Who else but Katieladd could accomplish everything that she does? Scholastically, her main interest is Biology. Innumerable are the hours that she devotes to this subject. But not yet content, she goes in for Chemistry, and English, and other courses. And then Athletics! Why she has been on about every team possible, both class and honor.

Her inherited histrionic ability shows itself in the cast of every play. As a dramatic director and also as an actress, she was largely responsible for the Junior victory in the Competitive Class Plays. Nor do her activities end here. She is always serving in some way: the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, the Prom Committee, the Student Council, "The Blue and Gold" staff.

Everybody knows Katy, and Katy knows everybody. In her dramatic moods—and they are legion—she is Touchstone himself. What pranks will she play next? Nobody knows. This "Connecticut Yankee" always does the unexpected. But in one minute she can turn serious and be ready for any and all situations.

Versatile—that's Katy. As a writer, an artist, a director, an actress, an athlete, a committee member, a board member, a Freshman Class President, student, a friend, an executive, and as a leader, Katy gives all her energy, and is more than successful.

And now this crowning glory—she has been chosen for the highest honor in the College, that of the President of the Student Self-Government Association. The palm of victory will, sans doute, be Katy's in her new office. She is conscientious, kind-hearted, sympathetic, loy-

Conseula slowly deliberated; she deliberated slowly. She deliberated that all her friends had left her. The gay, frivolous mob was gone. In the hustle and scramble of mid years, few men present to sympathize except for themselves. Even Bull had seen her and, looking at her mildly, passed by with a muttered, "You never can reach infinity—is it a law in algebra or Omar Khayam?"

It was the last straw, one day after the fatal finals, Cynthia sighed deeply and went out the door, she turned her footsteps determinedly to the river. It was over.

She arrived home in time to help her mother set the table. She had said to them,

"I am home."

"Home for good?" asked her father.

"Yes."

Silently he arose and reverently turned the stub ends of his checkbook.

The mother asked her to do the dishes. "Pop and me want to go to the movies tonight," she explained.

Alone, Consula wondered how she could stand it. She thought for awhile. The loneliness impressed itself upon her. She could stand it no longer. Determinedly she arose, went to her pocketbook and took it out. Long had she kept it in case she should desire quiet solace in an hour of dire need.

"This is the end," she hoarsely muttered. No one saw her leave, wildly she dashed down the street. Before a small door she paused.

"One," she gasped. The dime fell from her hand. She was in time for the last show.

SCRAPS

"Love in the Flea Market" in the June issue of the Atlantic Monthly should be a biting tale.

"Eva" has been campused a great deal lately on account of the five young men who are running her.

In the May Number of the Century Magazine is a short story worth reading. "The Stoic" by Chester T. Crowell is it.

Despite all attempts to convince her of the beauties of France, a certain student has been Fre'r in her attitude lately.

The Faculty would be interested, perhaps, in Ludwig Lewisohn's ideas concerning education. In his recent book, "Up Stream," Lewisohn devoted a chapter to "The Business of Education." The author, incidentally, has been a college professor.

Herbert Spencer would agree with Lewisohn. You are all familiar with Spencer's views about education, no doubt.

A notice on one of the bulletin boards reads, "Boy wanted to work on farm during open hours." When a young man entered Professor Detjen's office yesterday for details, the Professor became unconscious. Detjen's condition was alarming until it was explained to him that the youth was not applying for the job, but merely after a write-up.

Hamlin Garland writes on the "Limitations of Authorship in America" in the May Bookman.

The June issue of this monthly, besides containing some good magazine verse, has an article by Grant Overton entitled "Melville Davisson Post and the Use of Plot."

Good dope for those interested.

"The Violet" is the name of a story in the June Harper's. One of the characters is called Zubof. Read it if you care to.

The "Old College Singers" have disbanded until a new organization can be had.

Chewing Gum Aids Digestion

Bleeding Chicle Tree

Everyone knows we are given to eating more than we actually need, but when the table is heaped with good food, "what's a feller to do?"

Things are so tempting, and so palatable! Why not enjoy them?

But many a heavy meal which is hugely enjoyed during the process of eating is far from enjoyable during the process of digestion!

Then it is that chewing gum comes to the rescue.

Dr. W. A. Evans, former commissioner of health in Chicago, says in his book, "How to Keep Well":

"To chew gum after a meal aids digestion. Most people do not chew their food long enough to mix saliva with it thoroughly. The chewing of gum adds some saliva to the stomach contents. It is of more service in stimulating the stomach muscle. It is especially serviceable in helping the stomach to empty its contents. If one has overeaten and the stomach is heavy something is gained by chewing gum for half an hour, beginning two hours after eating." And it also helps to keep the teeth clean.

Chicle, the base of chewing gum, is the milky juice which is secreted by the inner bark of a tropical tree known as the Achras Sapota.

Only during the rainy season are the trees "bled."

After being refined and sterilized, the chicle is mixed with sugar and flavoring and moulded into the familiar form which has become so popular.
