DELAWARE NINE TOPS HAMPDEN-SIDNEY 8 TO 2

Reitzes Stars At Bat As Local Baseball Team Wins Fifth Game

The local nine tagged up their fifth win of the current season yesterday afternoon on Frazer Field when they snowed the Hampden-Sidney team under an avalanche of hits, winning by the score of eight to two. This is the second defeat that the local diamond artists have handed these Southerners this season. Last week they invaded the Virginians in their native lair and topped them seven to six.

Rube Hall, Delaware's sturdy ironman, was the maestro on the mound yesterday and outpitched Crawley for nine innings. The visitors made the game interesting throughout, but the hurling of the big right-hander was best in pinches and after losing the lead in the second frame the visitors never regained it. The local stars, ever anxious to give the public its money's worth, went on a batting spree in the eighth round and batted in five runs. The game had been won before this but the Delaware boys like to have at least ten hits per game and could not end the fray without a good display of their batting prowess.

The giant Isadore, Delaware's star catcher, was the hitting star of the day, keeping up his high batting average which he has maintained throughout the season. In the first inning he drove out a mighty hit that netted him three sacks and scored Hill, who had just previously batted out a triple on his own account. In the fifth inning he broke the two-run tie by scoring Steele with a single to center. He also made a smashing drive to right to start off the big eighth inning. Reitzes (Continued on Page 4.)

TRACK TEAM HAS MEET WITH SUSQUEHANNA

Runners Journey To Selinsgrove In High Hopes

At noon today the members of Delaware's track team left for a three-day trip to the northern part of Pennsylvania, where they will participate in a dual meet with Susquehanna. It is expected that the Blue and Gold track and field men will come out on top this time, because they are now in good shape, and they ought to come up to their best records of the year. Sortman, who won the century in the Haverford meet in 23 seconds flat, should have no trouble in taking both dashes, while Captain Wells will have but little opposition in the hurdles. Sam Sloan and Jack Parkinson are expected to do some big things, while McVaugh, Crooks, Caulk, Benson, and Ruggiero should capture a number of points. The team will return late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

BATTERY B WINS PRIZE IN COMPETITION

Second Platoon Of Battery B Awarded Distinction For Best Platoon

The annual competitive drill of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of the University of Delaware was held during the regular drill period on Thursday morning. Following a detailed inspection by Major J. C. Hutson, the three competing batteries took their turns at exhibiting their military skill. This was immediately followed by separate platoon drills. At the conclusion of all exhibitions the three judges, Major J. C. Hutson, Lieutenant-Colonel A. E. Tanner, and First-Lieutenant J. E. Featherston announced the following winners: Battery B, captained by Ross Ford, first; Battery C, captained by I. Taylor, second; 2nd platoon of Battery B, headed by Lieutenant Voysey, winning platoon; 1st platoon of Battery C, headed by Lieutenant Middleton, second best platoon.

MILITARY UNIT HAS INSPECTIONS

Major-General Gulick To Present Commissions To Seniors, May 27th

With the approaching close of college, the military department has been kept busy this week with inspections of the battalion. The administrative inspection was finished on Tuesday by Major John J. Toffey, the R. O. T. C. officer of the Second Corps Area.

Yesterday afternoon and today the training inspection was conducted by Major J. C. Hutson, Senior Instructor of the National Guard. The competitive drill for the best platoon and the best company was held yesterday afternoon. The judges for this competition were Major Hutson, Major H. B. Van Sciver, of the Delaware National Guard, and Lieutenant John H. Fetherston, of the Coast Artillery Corps of the Regular Army.

On May twenty-seventh, the commissions will be presented to the Seniors who have satisfactory completed their four years' work in military. The Commissions will be presented by Major General John W. Gulick, Chief of the Coast Artillery Corps of the Regular Army.

General Gulick was born in Goldsboro, North Carolina, in 1874, and served in the North Carolina Volunteer Infantry for one year during the Spanish-American War. He served in the Philippine Campaign as a member of the United States Volunteer Infantry, as a lieutenant and captain. After being honorably mustered out of service in that branch he was appointed a first lieutenant in the Artillery Corps, Regular Army. During the Mexican Campaign he was appointed a major. During the World War he rose rapidly to the rank of colonel and was made Chief of Staff of the Army Artillery, First Army. He is at present a member of the initial General Staff Eligible List.

Gen. Gulick has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, the citation for which reads as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As assistant chief of the operations section and later as chief of staff of the Army Artillery of the First Army he demonstrated a keen conception of all the tactical situations which confronted the artillery of the First Army. By his high professional attainments and sound military judgment, he handled the many complex problems of the First Army Artillery with marked skill, and thereby contributed, in no small degree, to the success of the unit in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives."

Gen. Gulick was also awarded Citation Certificate, National Order of the Legion of Honor (officer), French.

Father Brennan, of the Newark Catholic Church, officiated. Mr. David Rutter was best man. Only a few guests were present, they being Miss Malcom, who played the wedding march, Miss Olive Murray, the maid of honor, Dean Robinson, Mrs. Steel, Justin Steel, Mr. Cooper, Dr. Rhodes, Mr. Ralph Jones, and several members of the bride's immediate family.

EXTENSIVE PLANS BEING MADE FOR SUMMER SCHOOL

Fine Faculty And Many New Courses Are Promised By Directors

Unprecedented expansion in the scope of the University of Delaware's Summer School both from the point of view of courses offered and faculty personnel, characterizes the plans for the 1930 session being formulated by Professor W. A. Wilkinson, director of the school. Professor Wilkinson has seen the school grow from a mere group of review courses to its present importance as an indispensable part of the University's curricula, which touches one of the most vital factors of society.

Explaining the changes to be made in the coming sessions, Professor Wilkinson yesterday told the Review that the added faculty strength and the variety of new courses to be offered this year should result in a record enrollment and would doubtless serve to stimulate interest generally in the work of the school.

The new courses to be offered are: Principles of Economics, Economic Geography, Methods of Teaching in Secondary Schools, Latin American History, History of Canada, General Inorganic Chemistry (two semesters of work), and Chorus Singing and Conducting. The course dealing with pedagogy in secondary schools, is the first of its kind to be offered in the Summer School and was introduced because of a general feeling among educators in direct touch with present conditions in secondary schools (Continued on Page 4.)

AGAINST PROFS WHO STAND FOR REPEAL

Sussex County W. C. T. U. Members Pass Resolution

At the sessions of the Sussex County Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held at Delmar last Tuesday, a resolution was passed that would not permit any member of the faculty to remain at the University of Delaware unless they were supporters of the eighteenth amendment. The sessions were attended by seventy-five representatives from Milford, Laurel, Bridgeville, Seaford, Greenwood and Georgetown. There were also visitors from Salisbury and Sharptown.

DEL. TRACKMEN LOSE MEET TO HAVERFORD

Local Runners Bow To Old Rivals By Large Score

Haverford's great track team defeated Delaware Tuesday afternoon in the first home track and field meet of the season, 92 to 43. Despite the one-sided score Delaware did not make a bad showing considering the fact that Haverford has one of the best track teams of the smaller colleges of the East and has several outstanding stars in any company.

Delaware won but three of the fourteen events and tied a fourth event. Morris the giant weight man of the visiting team who won the discus and finished second in the shot-put in the Intercollegiate class at the Penn Relays last Saturday, naturally won both of those events Tuesday. In the shot-put, by heaving the ball 45 feet 3 inches, established a new Frazer Field record. He won the discus by a heave of 135 feet 6 inches which, however, is not a record for the field. Delaware's first win of an event was in the 120 yards hurdle when Captain Wells came home first to tie the Delaware record at 16.2. Wells also finished second in the 220-yard low hurdle giving him eight points of the 34 scored by Delaware.

Sloan of Delaware with a jump of 5 feet 4 inches tied two Haverford men for first place in the high jump. Sloan also finished second in the pole vault event.

Sortman the speedy dash man also turned in eight points for the Blue and Gold tying Captain Wells in that respect when he finished second in the 100-yard dash and first in the 200-yard dash.

Tommy Manns, a Newark boy, and only a second year man brought honor to Delaware by capturing the javelin with a fine heave of 150 feet five and one-half inches.

Parkinson got second place in the discus. Other point scorers for Delaware were Raskin, third in shot put; Broadbent, third in one-mile; Phillips, third in two-mile and Caulk, third in 220-yard hurdle.

Haverford won all three places in three events the 440 and 880-yard dashes and the broad jump.

The summaries:
100-yard dash—Won by Rice Haverford; second, Sortman, Delaware; third, Reisner, Haverford. Time, 16.2.

DELAWARE NINE HAS FINE TRIP

Local Baseball Team Wins Three Out Of Five Games On Southern Tour

The Blue and Gold baseball team barnstormed its way through Virginia last week, winning three games out of five, and putting up a fine brand of baseball. The Delaware nine had the greatest success of any Northern team to invade the South this spring. Throughout the trip the team hit hard, and proved itself the best baseball aggregation to represent Delaware in several years. They defeated Hampden-Sidney College, William and Mary College, and Virginia Medical College, and lost to the University of Richmond, and the powerful Quantico Marines.

The first game was on Tuesday at Hampden-Sidney, and in spite of the fact that the Delaware team had no practice for ten days, they romped through to victory, but took ten innings in which to assure their success. In the first inning each team secured one run, but Delaware took the lead in the second when Hall's double scored Cain and Skura. In the seventh inning three hits for Delaware gave three runs, but the home team took four runs in its half of the frame, and tied the score in the ninth when (Continued on Page 3.)

TENNIS TEAM DEFEATED BY SWARTHMORE

Netsters Lose To Little Quakers 6-0

On Friday, April 11, Swarthmore journeyed here to give the home team an overwhelming defeat by the score of 6-0. Klund was the only Delaware player to take a set from a Swarthmore man. Capt. Alex Taylor lost to Bert Hammel, Delaware clay court champion by the scores of 6-1, 6-2. Pyle lost to Capt. Nicely, of Swarthmore, 6-0, 6-0. Bond, of Swarthmore, defeated Moran 6-0, 6-0. Klund bowed to Tapham, after a hard fought match, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3. The doubles teams also felt the disadvantage of it being only their second day of practice, Taylor and Pyle losing to Hammel and Nicely, after a contested match, 6-1, 6-4. Drainard and Lynn, of Swarthmore, won over Speakman and Moran, of Delaware, 6-1, 6-0.

Last night in the Club Room of the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel in Wilmington, the athletic committee of the University of Delaware, headed by George Stewart, of Wilmington, gave a dinner to a number of alumni, newspaper men and others to explain the new sports program which has been planned for the University of Delaware for next year.

About forty men were in attendance at the banquet, which consisted of a five course dinner. After the meeting it was announced that Mr. A. B. Zeigler had been reappointed to coach football at Delaware next year, and that Charlie Rogers, of the University of Pennsylvania, had been secured as a backfield coach. The purpose of the meeting, it was announced was to stir up interest in athletics at the University. A number of fine speeches were given, the speakers including alumni, newspaper men, coaches, and friends of the University.

Alec Crothers, vice-president of the Alumni Association, was the toastmaster and introduced George Stewart, chairman of the Athletic Committee of the Association. Mr. Stewart outlined the program for sports at the University for the coming year. He stated that an assistant coach had been secured for football, and that the committee was now engaged in trying to interest newspaper men of Delaware and neighboring states in the athletics of the University of Delaware. He said that the alumni were desirous of promoting the five major sports at the University: football, basketball, swimming, track, and baseball. Seasonal coaches had been secured, he announced, Gerald P. Doherty, now graduate manager of athletics, will coach basketball and baseball, and Horace Wier is to continue to coach swimming. An assistant will be secured for Mr. Doherty, and the position of Director of Athletics will not be filled. He stated that the only thing that remains to be done is to arouse a school spirit among the student body of the University.

Lieutenant E. P. Jells, president of the Athletic Council was the next speaker. It was he who made the announcement that Charlie Rogers had been secured as a backfield coach in football, and that Mr. Zeigler had been retained as head coach in that sport. He also spoke well of the band and encouraged the purchase of suitable uniforms for them. He stated that that he personally approved of all that had been done.

Mr. Ag. G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the University was the fourth speaker. He extolled the work that had been done, and likewise (Continued on Page 4.)

KOLTAR SELECTED AS U. OF D. ORATOR

Regional Contest To Be Held At Fordham University May 15

Philip Kotlar has been selected as Delaware's representative in the Sixth National Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest, which is now being conducted throughout the country. Kotlar was chosen from a field of contestants who delivered orations on the Constitution at the Delaware elimination contest before the Easter holidays.

The president of the Debate Council and a speaker of some repute, Kotlar is expected to make quite a showing at the next elimination contest, which will be held May 15 at Fordham University, New York. The contest at Fordham will be attended by entries from New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. These states with Delaware constitute Zone 2 of the intercollegiate contest. The victor at Fordham will be the representative from Zone 2 at a sectional competition the locale for which has not yet been indicated.

The Sixth National Intercollegiate Contest is conducted by a national organization which is interested in promoting the knowledge and importance of the Constitution among college men. Considerable monetary prizes await the winners.

WE OBJECT

At a recent meeting of the Sussex County Womens Christian Temperance Union, a resolution was passed stating that the members of that organization would not permit any member of the faculty to remain at the University of Delaware unless he or she is a supporter of the Eighteenth Amendment. Thus we are informed by the staid Wilmington Every Evening.

Just how the members of this organization intend to go about enforcing this resolution, was not stated, so far as we know. Perhaps the matter were better ignored, but we cannot let it pass without somewhat of an objection.

No matter how we feel about the Eighteenth Amendment, its chances to succeed and its fitness to remain in the Constitution, we object to any attempt to make it a necessary qualification of all professors of the University of Delaware to be supporters of the Amendment. Opinion is one of the most valuable things which we possess, and as we claim for ourselves the right to our own, we cannot refuse to others a similar right.

Furthermore, teachers should be, we have been led to believe, picked on the basis of their ability to teach, and not on the grounds of what they believe concerning problems confronting the nation. If a man is competent to teach mathematics, a belief that polygamy should be permitted, should not prevent his being appointed a professor at this University.

Back in our younger days, we heard tales of academic freedom. We have never been quite sure just what the term means, but we are absolutely certain that it is not included in any such program as the people who promoted the resolution referred to have planned.

Were the matter not so serious, we would regard it in the light of being merely silly. We do not doubt the sincerity of the ladies who passed the resolution and we admire them for the zeal with which they strive to promote that which they think is right. But we believe that any attempt to control the faculty of the University on such grounds is a step backwards into the days of intolerance and bigotry. If some people think that the Eighteenth Amendment is a failure, such belief will not affect their ability to teach mechanical engineering, English literature or dairy management.

COLLEGE HOUR

Our attention has recently been called to the conduct of the students in College Hour. We have been told that the students of Delaware College are the ne plus ultra of rudeness and that the behavior of many is such that has brought a bad name upon the institution. We have been asked to call the students to account for their unseemly behavior.

We believe, however, that what is more important is the cause of the misbehavior, rudeness, laxity of attention, and general misconduct. In the first place, all students are required to attend the College Hour, which compulsion in itself is not conducive to the best attention on the part of the students who attend. When a student has been forced to hear a lecture in which he has absolutely no interest, it is not unreasonable that he shall at times lose his attention from the address and begin to think about other things.

In the second place, most of the speakers which have been secured have been so uninteresting as to almost repel all attempts on the part of the listeners to focus their attention on the address. With the exception of two speakers, we believe that all of College Hour lecturers this year have been complete failures as speakers. What they said was a matter of little interest, in many cases, and in almost every case, the manner of delivery was so poor as to make the most interesting subject seem dry. We grant that Wolf Hall is a hard place in which to speak, but we have heard men talk there who could and did hold the attention of the audience from the beginning of their lecture until the end.

We wish to suggest then that the following things be done in other years. College Hour should be made optional, and we are rather inclined to believe that no matter what else is done, this should be carried out. Fewer and better speakers should be secured to address the assemblies, for a little of what is fine is far better than a great deal of what is mediocre. With such a plan as we have suggested carried out, we believe that there would be no necessity for the complaints which have been made concerning the conduct of the students.

Let It Stand

The W. C. T. U. has reminded us again that the great American principles of freedom of this, that, and the other, on which our great nation is supposed to have been founded, are no longer great American principles—if they ever were. The organization also makes us shake anew with fear for our country's future if the mass of people is to continue to rule it.

The Tennessee Evolution Farce with its significant implications is still fresh enough in our memory to make us moan at the slightest hint of the possibility of another similar occurrence. And along comes the W. C. T. U., right here in Delaware, with the dreaded hint. New Castle and Sussex counties we know to be considering another movement for the suppression of freedom, and, although we haven't heard from Kent, we do not doubt that the temperate ladies there are in complete accord with their sisters to the north and south. Other columns of The Review contain news accounts of that which we mention here.

At their latest meeting, we are told, the good ladies of the New Castle county chapter expressed their consternation of the amount of drinking partecipated in by members of the faculty of the University of Delaware, and agreed that steps should be taken to put a stop to this immorality and law breaking. The steps, we believe, they left undefined, for the present at least. Their statistics, on which they based their consternation and their argument, were gleaned from the prohibition poll recently held at the University by The Review. On the basis of the same statistics, the sober ladies of Sussex county likewise, expressed their consternation and moved, we believe, that those members of the University faculty who are opposed to the prohibition amendment be banned, blacklisted, discharged, or something asinine like that. And the sad part of it is that they take themselves seriously, and can probably convince others like themselves—who exist in the United States in large quantities—that they should be taken seriously. Legislators, we have all found out, are easy to convince in such matters.

The movement may die in the very beginning, and it may not. Delaware, we all hope, is not like Tennessee, but we can't tell—and those women are a persistent lot. Those who are connected with the University of Delaware know just how seriously to take The Review poll, and also know just how seriously the W. C. T. U. should be taken, but there are thousands of people in this state who have no idea how seriously to take either—and their tendency is toward seriousness rather than otherwise. These thousands, sadly enough, are the ones who control the making of the Stat's laws and edicts. The ones who know better merely form a disregarded minority which must bear, with as much patience as possible, whatever the supposedly all-important majority cares to inflict upon it. The situation is not yet alarming, but we are afraid to say what might spring from it. The mere existence of the situation disgusts us.

This kind of W. C. T. U. action makes us wonder if man (or woman) is an intelligent animal after all. Is it any wonder that Americans make fun of American freedom? Is it any wonder that American liberty and intelligence are mocked? We certainly hope that the world isn't really safe for democracy if democracy means that these people shall rule, for as sure as guns, as soon as the W. C. T. U. has eliminated truth from the country they will begin to track down beauty—and after that, the deluge!

Chains

Life's chains are wound
No tighter 'round your shins
Than you allow.
The fetters sound
Which later hold you in,
You're making now.

It lies with you
To break their mystic spell
And burst forth free.
Unless you do
You will in darkness dwell—
Nor happy be.

Beauty

Beauty cannot die,
It lives for you and I
All vibrant in the memory:
A castle in the sky,
Unto our vision night:
A golden, shining porphyry.
Man may come or go
As vagrant as the snow
When Winter's blasts are stilled,
But ever row on row
Earth's glowing days we know
Are still with beauty filled.

To

'Tis hard to love thee, my dear Rose,
To learn the wiles of life's fine art;
Love's silken fetters hold me close,
But yet confine a willing heart.

Harder still not to love thee, Rose,
'Twere easier to end life's idle tune
Or check the weird clouds that unclose
The bleary eyed winter moon.

To love and lose thee, lovely Rose,
Perhaps tomorrow, perhaps never,
Today with thee I'll find repose
And pray today may be forever.

Drinking Song of the Goliardi

My friends, let us merrily drink and eat
While there still lingers a pale,
flickering light,
For who may tell if we again shall meet
In any other world—or, if the night
Shall be as dark as Polyphemus' cavern
Or, if in heaven there will be a tavern?

PAUL WHITEMAN AND HIS BAND

Radio listeners throughout the United States will receive with genuine regret the announcement that Paul Whiteman and his band are nearing the end of their broadcasting engagements.

The Whiteman-Old Gold orchestra, which for the past year and a half has been one of the stellar attractions over the Columbia network, will play its concluding radio concert on the night of Tuesday, May 6th. The feature of the farewell program will be the rendition of "The Stein Song," the melody dearest to the hearts of the students and alumni of the University of Maine. This will be the first time this famous old number has ever been included on the Whiteman-Old Gold program, and it is also perhaps the first time the old college song has been presented by an orchestra of the proportions of the Whiteman group.

"The Stein Song" was included on the program of the concluding Whiteman-Old Gold broadcast in response to the numerous requests for its presentation which came from the university men and the college publications throughout the country. In an effort to furnish just the numbers for which the radio fans had expressed a preference, Mr. Whiteman readily consented to include the melody in his Old Gold package of favorites. He has personally prepared a special arrangement of the number, designed to accentuate every note of the lilting melody and to stress the infectious swing of the famous old tune which for so many years has inspired and thrilled the University of Maine students and the old grads as well.

Mr. Whiteman's closing program will be broadcast to the United States and adjacent countries over station WABC and the Columbia system between the hours of nine and ten o'clock p. m., daylight saving time, on the evening of Tuesday, May 6.

30 STUDENTS OFFER BLOOD

Six of the college students at Pennsylvania State College offered their blood to save the life of one of their professors. These did not have blood which could be used and on the following day 24 more had tests taken and from among these there was one whose blood was suitable for the purposes. The student who gave his blood underwent the transfusion without any serious effects and the professor is expected to recover quickly.

Flapper—Do you like my bathing suit? It's the last word.

Flapped—If it's the last word, it is only a whisper.

The average American man is something that can see a pretty ankle three blocks away while driving a motor car in a crowded street, but will fail to notice, in the wide open countryside, the approach of a locomotive the size of a schoolhouse and accompanied by a flock of fifty box cars.

"My, grandpa, what a lot of whiskers! Can you spit through them?"
"Yes, sonny, I can."
"Well, you'd better do it now, 'cause they're on fire from your pipe."

She leaned towards him, her slick hair gleaming in the faint rose light. Her piercing black eyes ran over his body and narrowed in a cloud of cigarette smoke. "Je t'adore," she whispered. He looked at her sneeringly, and drawled, "Aw, go shut it yourself!"

Griquerine—My mother is a ballet dancer.
Treussinine—Can't you tell me that your mother is a dancer without affecting that English manner?

SOPHS WIN TUG O' WAR

Sophomore Reporter Fails To Credit Judges With Defeat
Of Frosh

Peter Rice's freshmen had weight, size, and five to three odds; but Walt Lee's sophomores had strength, ability, superiority, and the knack of defeating freshmen. And it all came out when an official rope-pulling contest—alias tug o' war—took place along the Creek on Wednesday afternoon. While Prince carried logs across the Creek, and while Scoop Barton went after a longer rope, the Freshman anchor, Caats, got into shape by jumping rope. All of a sudden the event was ordered to start, and thirteen heavy freshmen waded across the petite river. After the starting signal, Charlie Hartman, number one man for the first year students, felt his feet getting wet, and before long his classmates had the same feeling. Then the teams changed sides, and with little trouble the freshmen gave the sophomores the same kind of beating that they had recently tasted. Following a short rest, the excited audience—including some of those things from W. C. D., the Military Department en masse, and gentlemen of the University en autos—watched the talented sophomores pull the freshmen in the Creek—Caats included—to win the contest of the season. At the beginning a certain freshman, comparing weights, shouted, "Might is right." A dignified sophomore replied, "It might be." And every one went home and said, "Those sophomores can't be beat, strength or no strength, odds or no odds."

Delaware Nine Has Fine Trip

Toone tripled and Lawson sacrificed. In the tenth inning Hall doubled and came home on two passed balls, winning the game. Hall and Snowberger tied for hitting honors with three hits apiece.

At the University of Richmond the following day, Brown completely baffled the visiting team, holding them scoreless and letting them down with three hits. Ryan pitched a fine game for Delaware, but the southerners scored six runs. The hitting of Sherman, Gunter, and Beale was a feature of the game.

William and Mary, after nine straight victories over such powerful teams as Princeton, Dartmouth, and Boston University, was quite confident of defeating the Blue and Gold on Thursday, but the travelers found their stride and defeated their hosts by a score of eleven to seven. William and Mary took three runs in the first and looked like winners, but Delaware came back strong in the second with two runs and took four more in the fourth with four walks, two hits and a sacrifice. In the seventh Delaware took two more, but the William and Mary team backed by concentrated cheering on the part of their rooters took one run in their half of the inning, and began to look powerful. Hall, who replaced Nickle, bore down, however, and retired the side. The following inning the stands kept up their support, but with two men on, Skura's powerful drive to right field went past the fielder and all three men scored. At this point the stands emptied almost immediately. The William and Mary team scored three men in the ninth when the Delaware infield went wild, but the lead was too great. In this game Taylor scored four runs on two at-bats, and Reitzes pounded out three hits out of four trips to the plate.

After the victory over the Williamsburg aggregation, the Blue Hen's Chicks loafed through the Virginia Medical College game to win five to two. Powerful hits were the order of the day. Hill, Reitzes, Snowberger, and Smith all had two-base hits, Taylor and Skura had a triple, and Reitzes smacked one over the left field fence for a home run. The Delawareans took the lead in the third inning with two runs, and added another in the fourth, and were never tied. When the Medicos approached the northern team, the latter's bats answered the challenge, and more runs were brought in. Hall pitched a fine game, holding the sawbones to three hits, and his teammates hit safely eleven times.

In the final game with the Devil Dogs at the Quantico Marine Base, hitting was again the order of the day, but the Marines did over half of it. The Delawareans had twelve hits, but this did not match the nineteen of their hosts, and eight errors on the part of the Blue and Gold gave the game to the Marines by a score of eighteen to eight. Delaware used four pitchers in a vain attempt to stem the tide but to no avail. The Marines started a left-hander, but as the Mudhens took him over for three runs in the first inning, Yanshack came to his rescue in the second and finished the game.

The whole trip was a success, especially from the point of view of hits made. The team made forty-nine hits in five games. Reitzes had nine hits for the trip, and Hill, Taylor, and Snowberger each had eight.

"This burns me up," said the conductor, as they led him to the electric chair.

Moon Worshipper

There has, it must be admitted, been a great deal written and spoken on the College Hour situation. Perhaps it has all been said; perhaps its denunciations, like the movies, are still in their infancy; I hope so. The practice of not admitting freshmen, beside, of course, not having room for them, is an excellent idea. It seems to them that the sophomore year will hold new and greater charms, poor innocents, and encourages them to study harder and come back to school in the fall. When College Hour is held in Mitchell Hall and the whole student body can be seated, I confidently predict a huge falling off in the size of all succeeding sophomore classes.

Being cut to the hilt in Torture Hour, I naturally attended Dr. Hawkes' address to the Phi Kappa Phi's, as I will attend all such subsequent hours this semester, unless the records of attendance be lost or destroyed. Now it was reasonable to suppose that the Dean of Columbia College of Columbia University would have something to say worth listening to. He didn't. On such a wide field as Knowledge (appropriate, you understand, in an address to Phi Kappa Phi) he found absolutely nothing except the most platitudinous and moth-eaten expressions of admiration of Knowledge. I found myself admiring ignorance after listening to Dr. Hawkes' brilliant eulogy of wisdom. "Knowledge is Power" was his theme, ramified by a lengthy digression into the charming thought: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." There was also a bit about boats needing ballast as well as sail, but the entire assembly had given him up in favor of conjecture on the possibilities of lunch before one o'clock, and my attention wandered a bit. The only thing about his sermon that stirred my interest in the slightest was his refusal to differentiate between knowledge and intelligence; he used them interchangeably, in direct defiance of all the precepts of Psy. 2. And, as if it weren't enough to bore us with banalities that any self-respecting high school principal would blush to offer his graduating class, he talked ten minutes overtime, besides reading his entire speech. Why not mail us mimeographed copies, so we can get to lunch on time?

I am happy to say that the members of Phi Kappa Phi I have talked to were proud that he was a mere Phi Beta Kappa and not a Brother in the Holy Bonds.

Now all of us are fully aware that the funds available for College Hour speakers is not immense, nor is it sufficient to include exclusively presentable speakers such as, say, Sherwood Anderson, Warwick James Price, Dr. George Earl Raignel, or any number of lesser known but diverting speakers. But is it necessary to inflict people like Dr. Hawkes or the female mayor of Seattle on us, even if they will come for practically nothing? There can be no doubt that the Committee on this business does its best to get the most for its money, but there is a crying need of a College Hour Investigation Committee to get a line on these pseudo-speakers before we allow them to perform. We would consider the hour better spent watching some good sleight-of-hand artist, or a rider of one-wheeled bicycles.

N. J. COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

According to an article in the New York Times for Sunday, January 12, college girls have condemned the "gold digger" and have declared themselves in favor of the Dutch treat.

The conclusion comes as a result of the debate held at the New Jersey College for Women on the subject, "Resolved, That all college dates shall be Dutch treats." The unanimous decision of the judges and the sympathy of the student audience were in favor of the affirmative, upheld by the Senior women against the Juniors.

The arguments that won the day for the college boy's pocketbook were: Both sexes being supported by parents, most college women are as able as college men to pay for expenses incurred on dates; the Dutch treat habit eliminates gold digging; the fifty-fifty date also enables a girl to be herself with a man, eliminating the use of a "line" to show her gratitude and enabling her to ask a man for a date without embarrassment.

The negative was supported on the grounds that "chivalry is not yet dead and the Dutch treat is an insult to manly dignity."

HAVERFORD COLLEGE STARTS ART COLLECTION

By the gift of Dr. Charles W. Stork, Haverford is going to join Yale, Princeton, and others in having an art collection. Dr. Stork has presented the College with $150,000 for the establishment of the collection.

It is not intended that the new collection shall attempt to compete with the great metropolitan museums. A few choice masterpieces will be collected to form a little shrine where the Haverfordians of the future may retire and enjoy real beauty.

NOTES FROM THE SOUTHERN TRIP

And then Izzy stole third base flat-footed on the Virginia Medical College catcher.

Telegram for Captain Snowberger—"Practice House sends best wishes."

How the boys did like Farmville—nine hundred and forty girls, and all of them good-looking.

But why have Abner and Fuzzy been writing letters to Williamsburg? We can see a big rush on at Miss Uiman's School next year.

And then there are men who have dates with grass widows. Some of the boys would like to tell on him but he keeps the wife away.

The store at Mill Creek resounded with plenty of stories on Sunday afternoon. It was a shame Sticks did not get home on Saturday night before they closed up.

By the way, have you heard about the blonde who broke campus to go to the movies with our big, strong, handsome catcher, Some IT!

Sergeant Watters is a lot better than Willie Hoppe. But that is a bad shot.

Ryan pitched the only inning that the Marines did not score. They were catching their breath for the last inning.

Come on seven. I want to get married.

He took my hits and gave me his errors. Ya, Ya, Ya. Anyway I picked the toughest place on the whole trip to pick a fight with the umpire.

"What did you say when Mabel told you that you were odd?"
"I told her that I would get even."

SIGMA TAU PHI HAS BANQUET

On Wednesday evening the Sigma Tau Phi Fraternity gave a banquet in the Blue Hen in honor of the graduating seniors. Following a most enjoyable meal installation of the officers for the following year took place, and the affair ended with a speech from each fourth year man.

In a six-inning game the Jay Vees were defeated by the Salesianum Varsity nine. Up to the sixth inning the game was an even tilt, but the Sallies let loose and brought in nine more runs. Rembecki starred for Salesianum, while Haggerty and Smith starred for Delawares, the former bringing in the Blue and Gold's solitary run.

DEL. SPLITS MATCHES WITH HAVERFORD

After defeating Haverford at Newark, the Delaware golfers traveled to the Merion East Course, where they met defeat. The home match was decided when the Haverford man failed to drop a three foot putt on the 18th green, the final score being 4 to 3. At Merion, the inability of the Delaware golfers to judge the fast greens was mainly the cause of their downfall. Pie turned in the only victory.

Lewis (D) defeated Reede (H), 4 and 2.
Fulling (D) lost to Edgar (H), 5 and 4.

stressed the need of spirit. He suggested the formation of alumni chapters in cities where a large number of alumni live. He also suggested that the Review pay more attention to alumni news.

Mr. Cummings, editor of the Wilmington Morning News, urged that the alumni stand back of the coaches. Following this talk, short speeches were made by Allen Barton, President of the Student Council of the University, Coach Lou Young, of the University of Pennsylvania, Coach Zeigler, Assistant Coach Rogers, Mr. Russ Kauffman, a Philadelphia sports writer, Mr. Bill Hayes, local sports writer and fan, Gerald Doherty, graduate manager of athletics, Earnie Wilson, a former football captain, Skutch Lauritson, a former football man, J. also caught his usual superb game behind the plate. Fuzzy Hill had a triple and a single and Captain Snowberger and Cain each had two singles.

The local infield did not show up too well. Roman had two errors at third, miffing slow rollers, and Hill and Taylor each dropped a throw. Frankie Skura played his usual good game on the second sack, taking eight chances without a mishap. As throughout the season, he appeared to be the best player in the Delaware infield.

Delaware scored one run in the first round, but the visitors came back strong in the second and scored two runs. This, however, finished the scoring for Coach Bemier's minions. In the second frame Taylor walked, stole second and third and scored on Skura's sacrifice fly to center. Reitzes scoring for Coach Berier's minions, scoring Steele, and the game remained as it was until the mighty eighth.

Hill had little trouble with the visitors, letting them down with five hits. The score:

Extensive Plans Being Made For Summer School

that here more than anywhere else there is need for improvement in methods.

The Morrison Unit Plan of teaching will be stressed in this course. The central idea of this plan is to conduct courses in such a way that each step is thoroughly mastered before proceeding to the next.

The innovations in the Summer School were made possible by an increase in the appropriation for the work by the last State Legislature. Those in charge of the work are confident that the 1930 session will demonstrate that this increase was amply justified.

The prime significance of the expansion, Professor Wilkinson said, is the fact that the Summer School has undeniably risen to the position of integral importance as a constituent of the University's general program. While the most benefit is likely to accrue to teachers in the State schools, the school is fundamentally designed to supplement the regular courses in both colleges. This is most clearly indicated by the fact that all of the courses represent credit in standard college work in proportion to the amount of time it is possible to devote to them during the summer sessions.

This advantage opens a broad field of possibilities both for teachers employed at the present in State schools and for undergraduates in both colleges of the University. It is possible for a teacher, taking Summer School courses, to earn a bachelor's degree, which otherwise her economic status would preclude. Students deficient in their regular college work are provided with the opportunity of compensating such deficiencies and thereby avoiding a considerable waste of time. On the other hand, students who so desire may shorten their tenure here by accumulating credits in Summer School work.

In line with the liberal policy laid down by the directors, admissions are not conditioned by examinations. Adequate provision is made, however, to prevent wasting money on students who would not benefit by the school. A cursory review of the March University Bulletin covering the Summer School work leaves an indelible impression of the scope and importance of this phase of the institution. Listed therein is a wide variety of attractive courses comparing favorably with those offered in the regular University curricula.

The faculty includes nine persons who have never before conducted courses in the Summer School. Among these, some are drawn from the regular University faculty. These are: Mr. W. K. Blair, Assistant Professor of English; Dr. J. S. Gould, Assistant Professor of Economics; Mr. H. Clay Reed, Instructor in History; and Dr. Alice Van de Voort, Associate Professor of Education.

Mr. John Shilling, Assistant State Superintendent of Instruction in charge of High Schools, will conduct a course covering junior high school methods. Mr. Shilling, who has done graduate work in the University of Chicago, made a special study of the Morrison "unit" method of teaching. As supervisor of secondary education in this State, Mr. Shilling has been working toward two major improvements, namely, the development of the Junior High School, and methods of teaching in all secondary schools. Mr. Allan Hulsizer, who will conduct several courses in education, came to Delaware in 1929 to accept the position of Director of the State Demonstration School at Georgetown. He is an outstanding exponent of what is sometimes called "progressive" education.

Others who will conduct courses for the first time are: Miss Vanessa Glenn, formerly head of the department of physical education, State Teachers' College, Fresno, Calif.; Miss Mildred B. Stanton, Assistant in Psychology, Teachers' College, Columbia University; and Mr. Cornelius Tilghman, Instructor in English, Geneva College, Beaver Falls, Pa.

GOODMAN INJURED ON TENNIS COURTS

David Goodman, a junior at the University of Delaware, ripped his right hand on the galvanized iron fence surrounding the tennis courts. After medical treatment at the Flower Hospital he was rushed to Wilmington, where he received an injection to prevent tetanus. Due to the excellent medical treatment received, his injured hand is not in a serious condition, and a hurried healing is expected.
