Co-Ed Dorms Approved; Will Open In September

By JOHN GILLESPIE

Final approval has been granted. The office of Residence Life and the Residence Hall Association have okayed plans to establish four experimental coeducational dorms to open in September.

Thompson and Lane will be coed by alternate floors. Harrington A will be coed every other room, and Harrington B will be coed by alternate room on the first floor, the second floor all male, and the third floor all female.

Plans to make Harrington D and Harrington E coed were killed last week when a revote failed to produce the required 75 percent majority. The revote occurred because some of the members of Harrington D and E protested the legitimacy of the hand count voting method taken in their dorm.

NOTORIZED PERMISSION

In order to live in an experimental coeducational living unit, a prospective resident of Thompson, Lane, Harrington A or Harrington B must submit a notorized parental signature with his room reservation card.

Forms for such permissions are presently available at all Residence Life offices. They can also be obtained from the hall directors of those dorms that are going coed. Room reservations without notorized parental signatures will be tentatively recognized until April 30. After that time they will be dropped.

The only condition which could cancel the experiment now would be lack of a full complement of students to fill the coed dorms. Since there will be no freshmen in coed units, and because of the current housing shortage, a waiting list of at least ten percent of the capacity of each coed dorm must be established. For this reason it is imperative that enough students from other dorms transfer to coed dorms.

SIGN UP

Women who wish to reserve a room in the alternative floor experience of Thompson and Lane should do so by registering for Thompson. Men who wish to participate in the same program should register for Lane. The corresponding procedure holds true for the alternate floor - alternate room program in Harrington A and B. Men sign up for A, women for B.

If there are not enough

Student Court

The Student Court will hear the election dispute tonight. The full election is being contested. All candidates are invited to attend.

students to fill all the rooms and the ten percent waiting list of any coed dorm, the coed program will be cut back, and the unfilled dorm will return to its present status and be opened to incoming freshmen. Those on the waiting list will get their old room back.

INCONVENIENCE

The many inconveniences of moving students into and out of coed dorms has been acknowledged. Those pushing the issue hope that the coed experience will prove well worth the present inconvenience.

In a short time the coed dorm program has come a long way from the drawing board of the Winterim study group. Since January, Harter, Cannon, Harrington D, Harrington E, Thompson, Lane, Harrington A, and Harrington B have all discussed and pushed for coed dorms. Now, only a few months later, the concrete reality exists in Thompson, Lane, Harrington A, and Harrington B.

The following letter was sent to Delaware Senators J. Caleb Boggs and William Roth, with over four hundred signed statements asking the senators to refuse to extend the draft beyond this June.

Dear Senator Roth:

There is strong feeling at the University of Delaware that military conscription must be ended now. This anti-draft feeling was expressed in an article in THE REVIEW (April 8) entitled "Draft Extension; You Can End It," and in an accompanying statement which asks that you vote against extending military conscription past June 30, 1971, as recommended by the Gates Commission Report.

Both the article and the numerous, signed pleas for an end to conscription indicate students' faith in the American legislative process, and demonstrate many students' common belief that our Senators will be responsive to the voices of students in matters which are a particular concern, as the draft is, to young men and women everywhere.

It is clear and apparent that the draft denies personal liberties to young men, subjects them to a state of involuntary servitude, often deprives them of life itself, and then taxes them in kind for their "service" by paying them half the wages they could earn in civilian life.

It is clear and apparent, from statements made by Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr and other government officials, that our continued involvement in Vietnam, which goes unsanctioned by either the American people or their elected representatives in Washington, is sustained only by the injustice of conscripting young men against their wills to bear the brunt of the combat duties in Southeast Asia.

And it is all too clear and apparent that extending the draft will not only perpetuate the injustice of military conscription, but will prolong an already long and senseless war by supplying countless more young men to suffer and even die in a war which they detest.

If the power to allocate guns and materials for war belongs to Congress, why then should the power to allocate the lives of young Americans belong to the President or the Pentagon, rather than be assumed by the elected representative of the American people?

Enclosed are a portion of over four hundred signed statements asking for an end to military conscription. Many of the people who have signed these statements will be directly affected if America's most unjust, inequitable, and unnecessary institution is allowed to live past this June. And it is the lives of these people that this institution usurps.

Sharkey Cans Visitation For New Castle In Fall

By WENDY MCDOWELL

Stuart J. Sharkey, director of residence life, met with the women of New Castle Hall last Wednesday night to discuss the new policy to convert New Castle Hall into a limited or non-visitation dorm.

Sharkey began the meeting by stressing the importance of a program of diversity in residence halls. He stated that students should be allowed to choose the type of dorm in which they wished to reside whether it be coed or non-visitation and that it was the university's responsibility to make this choice possible.

The women presented Sharkey with a list of grievances and suggestions. Their main concern was the reason why New Castle was chosen. They claimed that no formal survey had been taken to determine the exact number of women who wished a non-visitation dorm.

Trabant Forms Force To Study Living Costs

A student-staff task force has been formed at the request of President Trabant to investigate ways of reducing university expenses.

This task force will report to the president in hopes that their findings will enable the university to hold or even lower the cost of living in the resident and dining halls. This advisory group will make its first formal report Thursday to the Undergraduate Cabinet and its final report for this semester on May 11 directly to the president.

The force's primary function is to look at alternative living arrangements which will offer savings on room and board. Possible solutions include an "Economy Dormitory" in which the students would handle the cleaning and maintenance themselves. Optional meal tickets are also being considered.

FEWER SERVICES

The task force has appointed four sub-committees: Economy Dormitory; Residence-Staff; Food Service; and Housing and Food Service Operations. Their main concern is whether students will accept fewer services in order to hold the line on cost.

The room and board increases that become effective next fall will not be altered by this force's

New Castle Controversy...

capacity of New Castle, thereby making it a "token dorm." The women then urged Sharkey to wait a year, to study the matter more thoroughly, and then decide what size dorm would be needed.

Sharkey replied that in no way would New Castle serve as a "token dorm." He said he had a good estimate of the number of women who desired a non-visitation dorm. If by next semester it was obvious that a larger dorm would be needed to accommodate these women, he would then have to choose another dorm to follow New Castle's non-visitation policy. He also stressed that the need for this type of dorm was immediate and therefore he could not wait a year.

INCONVENIENCE

The women then said that they had decided not to inconvenience themselves to accommodate a few. They repeatedly stated that they would not move out of New Castle and that in the fall they would just vote for open dorms, overriding the votes of the incoming women.

Sharkey pointed out that when they registered for New Castle they would be obligated to sign a statement which reads: "By requesting a room assignment in New Castle Hall, I am affirming that I wish to live in a residency hall with students who share my desire not to have a visitation policy."

To this the women answered that they would sign the statement and ignore it in the fall. Steps are now being taken to find out if this statement is binding.

The meeting ended after two and a half hours with Sharkey agreeing to defer from making a decision until a representative group of the women had talked with Dr. John E. Worthen, vice-president for student affairs.

Christine Apple, AS3, chosen as representative for the New Castle women, met with Dr. Worthen, Sharkey and three other New Castle girls last Thursday at 4 p.m. Ms. Apple stated that Dr. Worthen was very firm in his decision concerning New Castle Hall. He could understand the women's problem but he had to look at the situation more broadly.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SUNDAY CINEMA: _____

SPONSORED BY STUDENT CENTER COUNCIL

Geiger, DeArmond Offer Two New BA Proposals

A calmer atmosphere prevailed at Thursday's Arts and Science faculty meeting than at last week's meeting, because two new proposals were introduced to change the Bachelor of Arts requirements.

Hopes for successful reforms were generated when Reed G. Geiger, assistant professor of history, and Anna J. DeArmond, professor of English, presented two separate proposals. After much discussion, it was decided to send both proposals plus the minority report, amended with the Bachelor of General Studies degree, into the Academic Affairs Committee, chaired by Peter B. Leavens, associate professor of geology.

James R. Soles, assistant professor of political science, suggested that the committee submit a report by Thursday. The motion passed by a sizeable margin.

Some backers of the Bachelor of General Studies amended proposal seemed to be distraught over the new proposals. One member of the English department faculty was seen to make a paper airplane of his copies of the proposals.

GEIGER PROPOSAL

The Geiger proposal divides the group requirements into areas: foreign language, literature, humanities and fine arts, non-American history, natural sciences and mathematics, and social and behavioral sciences. All of these groups would require six credit hours, with the exception of social and behavioral sciences which would need 12. The student would also have the option to drop any six credits in one area, thereby allowing him to eliminate an entire category.

The student would have only freshman English and physical education as university required courses, and Delaware history as a state requirement. Aside from his major requirements, a student would have a minimum of 54 free electives.

HUMANITIES

Dr. Geiger has also regrouped philosophy with the humanities instead of its traditional grouping with the sciences and mathematics.

The DeArmond proposal would also abolish individual course requirements other than those required by the university. The major difference in her six point proposal is that students would be required to take courses in all six areas. This means that a foreign language requirement would have to be fulfilled.

STUDENTS SPEAK

Dean Lippert suggested that six students should be allowed to voice their opinions on the amended minority report. The motion passed and six students had the opportunity to speak for five minutes each. Three students were to speak in favor of the motion and three in opposition. As no one wished to speak for the motion, only three spoke.

The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday at 4 p.m. in 130 Smith Hall. Responsible student attendance is encouraged.

This weekly column is designed to provide an easily accessible channel through which university community members may submit questions and receive a qualified answer quickly. The span of the question is restricted only by your imagination and initiative but should be relevant to the university campus. Send all questions to "Dear Sirs" c/o The Review, 301 Student Center. Your name must be included for consideration but may be withheld from publication upon your request.

No Cassette Tape Stock

Dear Sirs:

The bookstore carries Scotch 6 inch magnetic tape. Is there any possibility that they could get a supply of Scotch cassette tape? I've asked several people in the bookstore but it seems nobody can give me an answer. I (and I know of many others) like to tape lectures and other special events like concerts.

Joe Synovec BE3

The bookstore will be selling cassette tape as soon as they can get a supply.

Originally the 6-inch tape was sold because of its use in the language labs, and so no other type or size is in stock. Mr. Paul Hanke, assistant manager, said that he will get the cassettes in and see how they sell.

Break the Ice Soon?

Dear Sirs:

When will the ice rink open? There is ice in the building now, yet it has been stated that the rink will not be open for another month to six weeks. What is the cause of delay? Also, will the university offer classes in skating next year?

Carol Randolph, AS3P
William Lloyd, AS3

The rink has been officially opened, but not to students yet. Rumor has it that a few of the university's secretaries broke the ice a few weeks ago. The official opening was noted at a meeting of the committee on grounds and buildings, a standing committee of the Board of Trustees.

The university ice rink will not be open to students until the fall of 1971. William Breslin, director of recreation and intramurals, told us that the ice is ready to go, but much of the supportive equipment hasn't arrived yet. Specifically Breslin noted the rental skates and the skate sharpening equipment isn't in. This time is also being used to train personnel to properly maintain and repair the ice.

Breslin noted that the department of physical education will be offering classes in skating next fall. The rink will also be open afternoons and evenings for recreational skating. The hours will be dependent upon the demand.

No Name Library Policy

Dear Sirs:

Why won't the library divulge the names of students who have checked out books that are needed by fellow students?

Travis White, AS1

This was once the policy but, it was changed in response to the many complaints of students. Apparently borrowers were being bothered by fellow students who wanted the same book. The library changed its policy because of these complaints.

I Missed Sunday Supper

Dear Sirs: Why were the dining halls closed on the evening of Sunday, March 22, (the day the residence halls opened after spring vacation)? Why open the residence halls, if we can't use the dining halls?

I had arrived that afternoon, not knowing that I wouldn't be able to get supper. I seriously doubt that I could have found out about this beforehand; therefore, it's not my fault that I had to pay extra for Sunday supper!

Carl Moore EG4

With most students living in New Castle County, and arriving back at the University later in the evening, it would not be feasible to keep the dining halls open that night.

James Crumbaker of the Food Services Division said that the snack bars were open for students arriving before dinner, and he felt that they were using this service. If you would like to pursue this further, each dining hall has a representative who meets with Crumbaker and Gilbert Volmi once each month. Your Student Center member of the Food Service Advisory Board is Teresa Hattman, AS3, 201 Cannon Hill.

The English Department of the University of Delaware is pleased to announce Thursday, 22 April, 4:10 P.M., Room 130 Smith Hall.

MR. X. J. KENNEDY

will read from his poetry.

Mr. Kennedy's first book, NUDE DESCENDING THE STAIRCASE was awarded the coveted Lamont Prize.

Friday, 23 April, 8:00 P.M., Room 130 Smith Hall

MR. PETER TAYLOR

will read from his fiction.

Of Mr. Taylor's COLLECTED STORIES, Richard Howard wrote in the NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW: "He is one of the best writers America has ever produced."

On Friday, 23 April from 10:00 a.m. until noon, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Taylor will meet informally with interested students in Kirkbride Room, Student Center. The annual literary awards will be presented at the appropriate readings.

Mr. Kennedy's visit is sponsored by the University of Delaware Visiting Scholar Committee.

Public invited.

Communicate Respect

The Office of Residence Life has once again fallen short of its responsibility to the students. In the recent decision to convert New Castle Hall to a non-visitation dorm, the staff failed to consider the wishes of the present residents before they informed them of the action to be taken.

Why was no thorough investigation conducted before the decision was made which would have looked into all possible alternatives? Why were no open hearings held to determine the feelings of all women on campus concerning a non-visitation dorm?

We feel that the residence staff could have benefited from the Squire Hall issue of a year ago. At that time President Trabant appointed an ad hoc committee to study possible alternatives—after a decision had been made to move Squire women out to make room for the temporary health center facilities. Why is it that conciliatory actions are always begun after the fact?

The residence staff should have informed New Castle residents in the beginning that their dorm was under consideration for the non-visitation plan. Communication is a basic to any kind of mutual respect that can exist between administrators and students.

One reason given that New Castle was selected was that the fewest possible people would be inconvenienced. Wright House, a perfect possible location, would have inconvenienced even fewer students.

But the Wright House was not selected by the residence office because "it would not give students an opportunity to live in an ordinary dorm situation." With the housing shortage as it is now, many students do not live in "ordinary dorm situations."

The Office of Residence Life must learn that they cannot expect student cooperation if they continue to make decisions without first consulting those who will be affected.

Election Controversy

The Student Government Senate cannot even go out in style. They could not even competently conduct an election above suspicion, so that another set of Senators and officers could try to salvage the remains of an ineffective government.

Dennis Burgess, AS1, an unsuccessful candidate for president, will defend his charges of election irregularities tonight before the Student Court. He must prove his allegations as to: tampering with ballots, inadequate supplies of ballots, un-manned polls, candidate-manned polls and ballot box stuffing.

All these are very serious accusations and we hope that the court realizes the profound implications of their decision. The election should not be slightly dismissed. The SGA historically has had very little prestige with the student body. The little respect that student government has will be entirely lost if it is felt that an election cannot even be properly conducted.

However, if the court sincerely feels that the evidence is sufficient, it has no alternative but to call for a new election. Some candidates feel that a partial election would be a sufficient remedy. If there is any doubt about the ability of the court to isolate those incidents of election irregularities, a complete new election should be held. This is essential to protect the integrity of the electoral process on campus.

But it is not sufficient to simply correct irregularities in this year's election. Just as important to student election credibility are student officials with the competence and integrity to insure that such incidents do not reoccur in the future. This should be a primary concern of newly elected officers whether or not new elections are held.

Agnew 'Beats' The Press

By ART HOPPE

Vice President Agnew is sore at the press. Again.

What rekindled Mr. Agnew's wrath was a New York Times' headline saying a Gallup Poll showed 12 per cent of the American citizenry would rather live in another country.

Obviously, said Mr. Agnew, this means that 88 per cent of us prefer living in America. And why, he wanted to know, couldn't these nattering nabobs of negativism headline that exciting news instead?

Quite right. The trouble here is that Mr. Agnew simply reads the wrong newspapers. He should cancel his subscription to the Times and take instead the Euphoria (Kansas) Gazette.

It was the only paper in the country, as far as is known, which ran banner headlines that day saying: "MOST AMERICANS WON'T FLEE AMERICA."

The Euphoria Gazette is edited by that sage newsmen, Bill Clark. Its motto is, "All the news that's good, we print." And its positive outlook would warm the cockles for Mr. Agnew's positive heart.

For example, every time unemployment climbs another notch, Editor Clark headlines the story: "Administration Policies Bring More Leisure Time to Millions of Americans."

In the story, Mr. Clark carefully divides the total number of hours worked by the number of workers, employed and unemployed. Then he triumphantly points out the average American works only 34.2 hours per week—"one of the lowest figures in the world." And furthermore, he says, it's getting lower every year lately.

On inflation, Mr. Clark usually begins his articles: "The Administration today released figures indicating that workers are now enjoying the highest wages in history while happy manufacturers are getting twice the prices for their goods as they did ten years ago."

The Euphoria Gazette is perhaps at its best in its coverage of Southeast Asia. At the end of the Laos incursion, its front-page account read: "Allied forces launched a massive, lightning thrust back into South Vietnam today. The rapidity of the maneuver caught the enemy by surprise."

But Mr. Agnew would also enjoy the human interest stories. Typical is this picture caption:

"Mr. and Mrs. Smiley Glad (above) wave farewell to their friends as they prepare to depart on a round-the-world cruise. The Glads financed the trip from insurance funds on their house, which was swept away by a tornado last month. 'It was a real bonanza,' said the beaming Mrs. Glad. Not shown is her great aunt, Matilda Glad, who is still missing."

Other features in the Gazette include an obituary page which simply lists the names of all Euphoria residents still alive; complete coverage of every traffic accident that results in neither property damage or personal injury; and a daily weather forecast of "Fair and Mild"—no matter what.

But Mr. Agnew would undoubtedly be most pleased by the Gazette's editorial tribute to him on the day he attacked the press. Again.

"For 24 of the last 48 hours," it began, "Mr. Agnew has scrupulously avoided attacking the press. His restraint in not attacking the press for an entire day shows he realizes that the cornerstone of our democracy is a free and unfettered press, unthreatened by the second highest elected official in the land."

"We look forward confidently to more days like that in the very near future."

Calley Analysis

By LEMUEL C. REILLY

Lemuel C. Reilly is a graduate student in the English department. Any graduate student, professor, or administrator who would like to express their opinions in this space please contact the Review office. The Editor.

It is time for a sober analysis of President Nixon's celebrated intervention in the court martial—and subsequent circus—involving Lt. Calley. Although he has veiled his intentions in a haze of rhetoric and bombast, it is obvious that the president has thrown his weight behind the lieutenant in an effort to generate support for the 1972 campaign. But it is quite possible that his choice of a popular issue might have a disastrous effect upon the very institution which Mr. Nixon is supposed to champion: law and order.

The issue of the Calley case is clear enough: the man disobeyed an order—or more accurately obeyed an order which was never given—and in so doing (or not doing) brought disgrace and embarrassment upon the military.

The president's henchmen have tried mightily to obscure this unalterable fact—for what reasons we can only tremble to speculate about—through a barrage of distracting statements about civilian deaths and top brass coverup. All of this is quite irrelevant in the face of Congressman Simon's (R Ip) findings that "over 90% of the so-called victims proved to be communists" and the few whose status was in doubt were "clearly Orientals."

These facts stand: Calley failed to obey a given order by obeying an ungiven order and by doing so he caused excruciating agony and embarrassment to our senators and generals in the Pentagon. His position as a second lieutenant was clearly one of full authority and responsibility and he was given a fair trial under the legendary rules of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

His conviction and sentence will be automatically processed through a series of higher commands which will inevitably (the army, unlike the executive branch of the government, takes care of its own) reduce the sentence to a point where it shall have been served in pretrial confinement. Reviews of this kind rarely take more than five years.

What has been gained by the president's butting in? Not much. For by declaring that he will let Calley off the hook Mr. Nixon has undermined the sacred process of law and order and, ironically, has intensified the pressure on the military to make an unprecedented search above the level of second lieutenant for a scapegoat (unfortunately all the enlisted men involved have been acquitted).

Can Mr. Nixon be counted on to protect the officers who might subsequently be brought to trial? If the trials take place after 1972 it is unlikely.

The gravity of the president's blunder cannot be underestimated. If this situation is allowed to continue the entire concept of law and order in this country could conceivably deteriorate to a point where the president himself might be held accountable for his actions in times of a military conflict.

Mass Manipulation

By KATHRYN KERR

This is not the age of mass communication so much as it may be the age of mass manipulation. Indisputably, the means of communications media are unprecedented; yet the inaccessibility of these resources presents a futility for individual expression probably unmatched by former societies. Serious frustration stems from the irony that while the individual is controlled by a vast machinery, no viable avenues exist for expression of attitudes and needs.

Our society is overrun with twisted meanings, ironical allegations of guilt and responsibility. Misconceptions have no confines; the particular distortions vary among socio-economic strata. It is an intricate web of historical obscurity; a vulnerability to emotional confusion and manipulation; subjection to deliberate, calculated misinformation from powers whose strength lies in euphemized purposes and contributions to society.

How simple to offer no alternatives to the economic bondage, no means of expression, and then speak derogatorily of "the apathy of the masses."

Those who are physically comfortable and selfishly oriented to perpetuating their chrome worlds are ultimately no more free. They are mentally confined to the empty pursuit of materiality; they are cultivated, necessary cogs in the machinery, as they aspire to the carbohydrate rewards of the system; rewards which have no vital substance—they simply make you fat.

Nothing will change until the system is scrutinized by all of its captives. Not until people decide to ask for the alternatives to ghettos and suburbias; until people demand to have products oriented to health, safety and effectiveness; until people wonder if their whole lives should be competitively oriented to achieving various levels of shelter and food; until people ask, is there no more potential than this?

Op-Editorial Page

This page will be reserved on the first and third Mondays of each month for three student columnists, other than those who regularly work for the Review. The other column will be open for administrator, faculty member, or graduate student opinions on campus and national issues. It is hoped that this page will broaden the spectrum of opinion presented in the Review.

Residence Halls

By PAT SINE

Pat Sine is the newly elected president of the Residence Hall Association. The Editor

With the large number of resident students, it is obvious that there will be a large number of interests and needs. Because of this realization, residence hall planning now is directed toward offering many options to those students.

The biggest change will be four co-ed halls which will be opening in September. Harrington A and B, and Thompson and Lane will provide opportunities for co-ed living by alternate rooms and alternate floors respectively. Co-ed dorms offer the participants an excellent opportunity to meet students of the opposite sex on a new level. Because the governments, judicial systems, and hall staffs will be co-ed, all residents must be able to accept and deal with other residents on the basis of their personal attributes rather than reacting to preconceived sexual stereotypes.

Grouping by academic interests offers students an opportunity to pursue their educational interests outside the classroom. There has been a French house on campus for many years and because of its success, there are plans for a German house to be established. This semester, a political science house was set up in which the students participate in a course set up specifically for members of the house. This has encouraged interest in a possible sociology house.

Pencader complex will offer almost limitless opportunities to develop innovative plans. It will be essentially based on units of twelve students living in one suite. There are plans to set up a political science suite which would involve a two semester course on nominations to political offices. There is also the possibility of an English suite or a sociology suite.

A co-op dorm was started this semester with the hopes of living more cheaply than is possible in a dorm. This program has been improved and will be continued next semester.

Co-ed dorms and the other situations have one big obstacle to overcome: they must have students participate. As far as new policies, the only limitation on the number of varied living situations is interest and participation, and the only way any of the situations can be successful after they are established is by all participants making some commitment to it and working throughout the year to make them work.

Humorous History

By WILLIAM ALLEN

Reading in to this University's past can reveal some interesting facts not exposed in H 203. Ever wonder why Memorial Hall was plopped in the middle of the Mall? Ever lose sleep over what social events drew students 70 years ago? Ever worry about the fight of women to gain acceptance here? These questions have now been answered by a thoughtful restudy of old, closely guarded, documents, kept deep in the basement of Hulihan Hall. Somehow they show that students of today are not that far advanced.

Today's Women's Lib fight can be traced well into the 19th. century. Male chauvinism was at its peak in the 1880's. Co-education was dropped in 1885, possibly because of the unhealthy influence of country girls over the serious city men. This was not the case, as history has proven, for men's grades soon dropped to a depressing level, and women were quickly readmitted in 1889. Governor Biggs thought it was a "burning shame" that Delaware was forced to go co-ed but the women paid little attention. It is clear that men, however, paid a great deal of attention for in 1913 the women were removed to a farm some distance away. Here they had their own campus consisting of two buildings and a model one room school house. A popular meeting spot for the men and women was a spot about half way between the two campuses where many memorable evenings were spent. So popular was this spot grateful alumni built Memorial Hall as a center for future cultural and physical explorations.

Thursday evening Deer Park patrons would have found Delaware College painful. In 1867 the Delaware Assembly declared it unlawful to sell students "spirituous or fermented liquors within two miles of the school." To occupy the spare time of Delaware athletes, the school started its physical education program, which gained great student support. The four mile cross country was the most popular but never entered a time under four hours. The spirits of students never lagged in this sport and continues today in its finest tradition.

Agriculture contests held at the College delighted students and farmers alike. In 1911 the State Legislature set up the "Boy's Corn Club Contest" to further corn production. Unfortunately this contest was discontinued after three years, for it seems that the golden silks were being smoked and the corn thrown away. Although the charges were never proven campus security was trained to spot the weed and to detect possible offenders. To date two freshmen have been apprehended but the problem quickly disappeared as the students generally preferred the imported gold.

These stories and more like them grace our university's past. It is good to know that the students today are doing their best to carry on these sacred traditions started so long ago.

Letters To The Editor

New Castle Controversy

William F. Buckley

TO THE EDITOR:

We, the women of New Castle Hall, strongly protest the authoritarian and high-handed tactics of the administration's decision to make New Castle a non-visitation dorm for 1971-72.

We realize the necessity for such an experiment in diversified housing, but the administration has refused to accept any alternatives to the dislocation of a 66-member family unit.

Wright House, the obvious ideal location for a temporary non-visitation dorm, has been "promised" to the faculty for a faculty club. It had been suggested by several members of the faculty that interest in such a club is not strong enough to warrant the dissolution of any dorm.

With the support of several campus organizations, we are petitioning the faculty to acknowledge their responsibility to the social and educational welfare of the students.

Election Dispute

TO THE EDITOR:

In view of the current controversy over the SGA elections, I feel compelled to comment on the administration of those elections and the performance of the SGA elections committee. Let me first say, that my sympathies lie with those who are contesting the election. I do not feel that the desired result i.e. the election of those candidates whom the majority of the students desired to elect, was reached. However, my sympathies are not against the elections committee. Instead, I deplore the circumstances under which the committee was forced to operate. In no situation, could four people conduct a fair election while attempting to attract as many voters as possible. I believe it to be more desirable that those people who are concerned and informed be given the opportunity to vote than all students be lured, tempted, even begged into voting. In other words, 20% voting for good reasons, is better than 40% voting for no reasons. Finally, let us commend again, Kathy Tresham and her committee, while condemning the conditions they were forced to work under.

ROTC

TO THE EDITOR:

"You just don't know what you're missing"-stated Mike Brooks, ROTC Ranger, in a letter to the editor last Thursday defending the ROTC program.

I must agree with Brooks that I missed knowing how to break down and reassemble a rifle, how to load it and fire it effectively, and how to choose which weapon to use in which situation to kill as many of THEM as possible. But, as a feeble substitute for my gross inadequacies in military training I have tried to learn a little respect for human life, peace, and to hate the suffering caused by senseless wars. I have also tried to make the idea of killing someone else impossible to rationalize under any excuse.

Yes, Brooks, I do know what I'm missing-do you?

St. Vincent de Paul was a Christ-like priest, a warm-hearted man with unbounded love for his fellow man, especially the poor, the sick, the oppressed and the neglected. His life was spent ministering to their needs. He preached to them, taught them, fed them and even begged for them. Like Christ, he came not to be served but to serve.

Today the Vincentians, the sons of St. Vincent, carry on his work. As a Vincentian, you can ease the misery of the poor and the suffering of the sick. They counsel the troubled and the oppressed. They teach the young and console the old and enlighten men of all ages. They try to meet the needs of the Church wherever they exist. The Vincentians serve.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing this letter to try and clear up some of the apparent confusion that exists concerning Mr. William F. Buckley's response to the question concerning the FBI. This confusion exists not only with the author of the article in the Review of 15 April but with the Evening Journal of 13 April.

My question concerning the FBI was "...you spoke of the individual's right to privacy and also on the idea that one should respect this country. In light of the uncovering of spying on its citizens by both the FBI and the Army, I would like to know how one can respect one's country." It was here, in partial response to my question, that Mr. Buckley made reference to the My Lai incident and subsequent trial. He did not bring this up out of the clear blue sky as inferred in the articles.

He continued to respond that he knew of no instances in which innocent persons were harassed. His final response concerned my "enchanted ignorance" and that with the ideals that I was using to judge whether this country should be respected, I would find no country to respect.

I think the term "enchanted ignorance" is better reserved for Mr. Buckley. To say that he knew of no instances of harassment merely demonstrates a lack of awareness on his part concerning the hearings of the Senate Judiciary Committee with respect to the Army's surveillance of citizens and also the distribution of the FBI memos that were stolen from the Media, Pa. office of the FBI.

In conclusion, I believe that Mr. Buckley's handling of my question and some of the others that were posed, show him to be the master of gobbledygook that he is reputed to be.

WANTED:

College men and women for management positions in government. Must meet physical requirements. Financial aid available for in-college trainees, or applicants can enroll in special training course on graduation. Stateside and/or overseas travel guaranteed.

Here's a government position with a real future for both men and women. An officer's job in the Air Force. A management level job in anybody's book. Certainly, there's no better way to get the experience and training needed for executive responsibility.

If you have two years of college remaining, you could find yourself earning an Air Force commission while you learn, through the Air Force ROTC two-year program. Along with college credits and a commission, you'll receive $50 each month as a student. And upon graduation, that management position we promised will be waiting for you. If an advanced degree is in your plans, you'll be happy to learn that the Air Force has a number of outstanding programs to help you further your education.

If you're in your final year of college, you can get your commission through the Air Force Officer Training Program. It is open to all college grads, both men and women, who qualify.

Check it out. You'll find that the Air Force is one career that offers something for everyone. Nearly 430 different jobs, ranging from aeronautical engineering to zoology, with almost everything else, including flying, in between. But whatever your duties, you'll soon discover that the Air Force will let you move just as far and as fast as your talents can take you.

So look ahead and let your college years pay off for you with a managerial position in the U.S. Air Force. Just send in this coupon or write to USAF Military Personnel Center, Dept. A, Randolph AFB, Texas 78148, and get your postgraduate career off the ground.

Newark Planned Parenthood Offers Needed Services

This article is the second of a three-part series which will deal with abortion and birth control measures. The Editor.

By SUE WHITE

While hospitals within New York City have been able to perform more than 100,000 abortions since their state legislature liberalized the abortion laws in July, the increasing demand for abortions indicates the drastic need to make contraceptive devices and contraceptive information readily available.

Birth control information and services are available through the Delaware League for Planned Parenthood, which operates a mobil unit in Newark at the St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 276 S. College Ave.

Planned Parenthood, a world-wide non-profit organization, does not charge students for the required physical examination or birth control supplies. The League hires two gynecologists to give these examinations at the Newark branch.

The unit is located in the basement of the church. The doctor will see patients from

Water Conservation Urged For April 22

This article is written by Chemical Engineers for Ecology in order to gain support of their project. A follow-up article will be written for the April 22nd Review.

The population in Delaware is skyrocketing and with each added individual comes a demand for 50-100 gallons of water daily. The sewage plants can not cope with the amount of water coming in for treatment. Millions of gallons of sewage which has undergone primary treatment has to be dumped into the Delaware River daily.

Industries are taking steps to prevent the damage they do, but it is much more difficult and expensive to re-design a plant and develop worthwhile anti-pollution devices than many people realize. The Navy, which has been responsible for much of the polluting of oceans, also is designing sewage disposal systems for their ships and recently developed a sewage disposal unit which in the future may be adapted on a large scale basis as well.

WATER DAY

Much has been said about pollution; the buck has been passed back and forth, but it is quite obvious that it is not one person's responsibility. Domestic waste accounts for about one third of the over-all water wastes. It is because people today play such a large role as the prime polluters that the Chemical Engineers for Ecology was formed. The group's first project is Water Day in the state of Delaware. During this day they are asking everyone in Delaware to conserve as much water as possible. This project is being coordinated with the Delaware State College and Georgetown Technical Community College. The university group is concerned about the campus, Newark, and surrounding areas.

The purposes of Water Day as described by Gov. Peterson are basically to teach the

Immediate Ceasefire

Madison, Wisc. (CPS)--Voters here have approved a citywide referendum which calls for an immediate ceasefire and a withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military equipment from Southeast Asia.

The referendum, which won by a nearly two-to-one margin, was approved by city alderman, students from the University of Wisconsin, firemen, state employees, Vets for Peace, machinists and butchers locals and a commander of a local Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

The motion is similar to a referendum passed in San Francisco last November, and a previous Madison referendum which received 44 per cent of the vote in 1968.

Drug Related Lyrics

The Illinois Crime Commission, which used to deal with such out-dated problems as organized crime, became relevant last December when they held hearings "on the narcotics and dangerous drugs problem." Below is their list of drug-oriented rock records and their annotations:

"Let's Go Get Stoned," Joe Cocker: "lyrics have a double meaning, referring to alcohol but also to drugs."

"A Whiter Shade of Pale," Procol Harum: "Mindbending characteristics of the psychedelics."

"Hi-De-Ho (That Old

Sweet Roll)," Blood, Sweet and Tears: "Joys of smoking marijuana."

"With a Little Help from My Friends," Sergio Mendes: "Implying that those using narcotics, marijuana or psychedelics share these drugs with one another."

"Yellow Submarine," Beatles: "Street jargon for yellow, barbiturate capsules."

"Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds," Beatles: "The song depicts the pleasure of using LSD."

"Puff the Magic Dragon," Peter, Paul and Mary: "Smoking marijuana and hashish."

Concentration Camps

The people of the United States can once again breathe a sigh of relief as the last of America's concentration camps will soon disappear under the righteous blade of the bulldozer. The Nixon administration has announced that it is "unequivocally" in favor of repealing the Emergency Detention Act of 1950, which called for the use of detention camps in times of "internal security emergency." A bill in favor of repeal has been introduced into the House, co-sponsored by 156 members. Soon, only the nostalgia will remain.

Free Food Illegal

Champaign, Ill. (CPS) You can't give away food at the University of Illinois.

At least two persons here may face arrest on criminal charges for distributing free food in the university's Illini Union.

Students involved in supporting the United Farm Workers' lettuce boycott had set up a free food table in the union to protest the university's use of non-union lettuce.

Earl Finder, the Illini Union's director, has told the Lettuce Boycott Committee to stop or face arrest and a possible 18 months in jail. Last week's settlement of the strike and boycott will probably put an end to the giveaway activities before the police do.

Listen for the sounds of love...

Where do you hear them?

APO, Gamma Sig Make Trash Trek

Members of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity and Gamma Sigma service sorority got an early start on Earth Week Saturday by gathering trash along routes 896 and 13, from Newark to Dover.

Michael Hofmann, EG4, speaking for the trash trek organizers, stated, "We know that collecting a bag of trash per mile is only a token effort, but we feel that it will alert residents of the state to the need for preserving the beauty of Delaware."

The trash trek coincided with Governor Russell W. Peterson's anti-litter campaign, and the marchers visited the Governor's office upon arriving in Dover.

The students, five at a time collected a bag of garbage every mile and dumped it in a truck that was following them.

Last fall, the same fraternity collected more than $600 for charity in a 100 mile hike down the length of the state.

Seize The Media

Let's Go To The Beach

By JAMES FORENS

"In the Big Rock Candy Mountain, All the cops have wooden legs..."

I used to think that Newark was just the place in the highway where all of the car radio stations turned to static. Then I came here to live.

My first day of school, a big-time cop with a big-time chip on his shoulder made it clear that the town hated students and expected us to return the feeling. I have been pleased to devote my fury to scholarly study of the brilliant, devious methods Newark uses to drain all the interest out of life.

In fact, I strived to become something of an expert--a kind of anti-Chamber of Commerce, with lots of facts on the things you couldn't find, couldn't do, couldn't see, in this, the second largest city in the First State. And, fool that I was, I thought that nothing about the place could surprise me.

THE LATE MAIL

Last Thursday I was washing down the last bite of veal scallopini (I think) when I caught a visionary glimpse of an envelope sitting on the desk back in my room. Just before it faded I made out something about internal revenue in the address. Money! They have my money! I had to act quick--dumped my tray of garbage on the conveyor and split for the dorm.

Once out of the heated dining hall atmosphere, I remembered that I had a full six hours to get a postmark on the envelope. No rush--I casually grab the important papers, stroll off across the American Flyer railroad tracks, past Plasticville Bank, Plasticville Church, and down to Plasticville Post Office. The building's closed, of course, so I check out the patriotic-looking out-of-town box. Mon. thru Fri., P.M.--the last time was 5:20! The space labelled "Box location for later collection" is blank. Can it be true? I can see it now, in next year's world almanac: "Earliest late mail pickup for cities over 15,000: Newark, Del., at 5:20 p.m."

Anyway, I was pissed. I hold this town completely responsible for my income tax being late.

WHAT TO DO?

But I am deviating from my real subject, which is not so much what a drag Newark is, but what we can do this spring to make things better. Last spring we had a strike, and that was cool, but unless Nixon blows it again in a big way it doesn't look too good for an official, work-cancelled, SGA-endorsed strike.

We could trust our Student Activities Committee Chairman-elect to bring speakers and bands from everywhere and deliver us from suitcase-college-syndrome land, but maybe there's something even better.

DIG IT

This Thursday, April 22, many people from all over campus--students and non-students and ex-students and future students--will generally assemble with whatever tents, sleeping gear, toys, intoxicants, musical instruments, and paraphernalia of living, on Harrington Beach. You are invited.

Bands will be there, and will be jamming. Crazies will be there, and will be freaking. Politicos will be there, and will be organizing. Jocks will be there, and will be playing various sports. In the evening, Governor Peterson will be there, and he will hold a town meeting (in the adjacent building, the Student Center). Every rumor you have heard about it is true.

Start a rumor or two yourself, if you like. But mostly, come to the beach Thursday, and plan to stay more than just the day. We will save water together with the Chem. E's.

'Anti-Hero' Plans Coup D'Etat

E-52 To Present Polish Film 'Tango'

By GRACE RESSLER

If you're looking for the unusual and the unexpected in a theatrical experience don't miss the E-52 Laboratory Theatre's production of "Tango" to be presented April 22, 23, and 24 at 8:15 p.m. in Rm. 120 Smith Hall. Admission is free.

Slawomir Mrozek is a contemporary Polish playwright exiled by the Polish government for his statement against their part in the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia. He is now in exile in Paris. In Poland his passport was canceled, his novels, short stories and plays banned from publication and withdrawn from every bookshop and library in the country. After the Czech affair "Tango" was the first Mrozek play to be produced outside Poland in 1969. Previous to this production at the Pocket Theatre in New York City, "Tango" was produced in Warsaw, Dusseldorf, Belgrade, Moscow and London by the Royal Shakespeare Company.

An elaborate farcial coup d'etat planned by the "anti-hero" Arthur is the major event of the play. His purpose is to reestablish old conventions and traditions in the chaotic household of his avant-garde parents. In his quest for an orderly world Arthur plans a wedding and tragedy, neither of which materialize.

OPPORTUNIST

However by the third act Arthur and his opportunist Uncle Eugene have forced the family at gun point to re-adopt a victorian life style. Eleanor's hoodlum lover has been made into a servant.

Stomi's theatrical experiments are called to a halt, and Cousin Ala is dressed in white after finally consenting to marry Arthur.

Everything is prepared when Arthur decides that his formalist revolution is a fiasco. He proclaims that "form can never save the world" as he collapses in a drunken stupor. In the midst of this faux pas Grandmother decides to die. The family protests that death is irrational, hypocritical and "just not done in our family" but Arthur sees death the supreme form for which he has been searching.

The final events are a complete surprise as the counter-rebellion turns tide and Arthur becomes the sacrificial victim of his own revolt. This power struggle ends... "tragedy is impossible... farce a bore... what's left by experiment?"

Planned Parenthood Provides Birth Control

Wednesdays of each month. Appointments should be made to see the doctor through Planned Parenthood's Wilmington office. On the second and fourth Thursdays the clinic is open to dispense supplies from 9 a.m. to noon.

On any morning when the doctor has hours, women sit quietly in the large waiting room. Some do talk in mute voices, but most read. The nurse in this room might be carefully explaining the procedure necessary for using the birth control method which the doctor has just recommended. Or, she might simply be talking to one of the women.

Like the nurse and her lay assistant in the waiting room, the other nurse and the doctor are eager to explain their program. Their sincerity coupled with the extensive offerings of Planned Parenthood aid a woman in deciding about the best method of birth control for her in a very honest and open manner.

Before a woman can have the Pill prescribed to her, she must have a physical examination which includes a Pap test as well as an examination of her blood pressure, weight, thyroid, abdomen and breasts.

The doctor will then decide which one of four types of pills would be appropriate for her. Planned Parenthood only distributes birth control pills which contain the lowest levels of estrogen in order to follow the federal laws for safety.

Planned Parenthood offers other valuable services for women. If a woman feels she is pregnant, she can have a pregnancy test at the clinic. Planned Parenthood does not charge a fee for this service.

Planned Parenthood does make free referrals for those women who seek abortions. Generally, this referral process is handled by the Wilmington office.

Planned Parenthood has been able to fill a void here in Newark as an honest disseminator of desperately needed birth control information.

Veterans Stadium

Al Cartwright said it was like getting out of jail. And to habitués of Connie Mack Stadium and Franklin Field, the new Veterans Stadium in South Philadelphia is a welcome escape from the dungeons.

Cartwright is the Philadelphia Phillies' publicity consultant whose hottest item this season is a 45-million-dollar octo-rad (eight-sided structure) which will be shared by the Phillies and pro football's Eagles.

Most everything in the stadium was designed with the spectator in mind, from the theatre-type seats to the Hot-Pants clad usherettes (appropriately named "Fillies"). The evergreen Astro-Turf which covers the entire playing surface blends well with the yellow, orange, and brown seats to afford a spectrum of color. To keep the fan entertained during lapses in the action on the field, three million dollars worth of computer-operated scoreboard provides animated cartoons and pertinent information.

PLENTY OF SEATS

There are seven levels of seats, enough to accommodate 56,371 for baseball and 65,000 for football. The playing field is actually twenty-five feet below sea level while the lights on the top rim of the stadium stretch 135 feet into the atmosphere. Provisions were made in construction to allow a dome to be mounted on top at some future date.

Luxury was not spared in the building of Veterans Stadium. Twenty-three superboxes can be leased for a year's sports viewing at prices ranging from $12,950 to $15,800 each. One includes 18-28 seats which have access to a private room equipped with carpet, sofa, chairs, color TV, and a small bar. Companies have rented the boxes to entertain clients.

The fourth level of the stadium contains spacious radio, TV, and press facilities, as well as the Stadium Club for season ticket holders. Four hundred can dine while viewing the game through picture windows. Also located on this level are the executive offices for the Phillies and the Eagles. Phillies' owner Robert R.M. Carpenter's office is furnished with the immense rolltop desk, secretaire, and leather chair that was used by John Wanamaker.

NEW SCOREBOARDS

Phillies' Publicity Director Larry Shenk describes the system of scoreboards at Veterans Stadium as "the largest, most expensive, and most sophisticated in all of sports." If this sounds like unfounded boasting, a trip to the new ball park will bear out his words. There are six different giants in the system which range in utility from advertising to a home run spectacular. Somewhere in between, facts, figures, and even the score are provided. The two largest will lower hydraulically for football to reveal thousands of seats.

The new facility was dedicated April 4 after nearly four years of construction. Stadium officials like to point out that it is the culmination of all the good points of other recently built stadiums. At the very least, when the calibre of play on the field is less than desirable, the fans will still be entertained in the luxurious environs of Veterans Stadium.

Hens Capture Weekend Twinbill; Temple Owls Loom As Next Foe

By LARRY HERZBERG

Delaware's baseball team continued its winning ways, sweeping conference rival Gettysburg in a doubleheader, 5-0 and 7-4 and beating Georgetown, 5-4.

Doug Hopper (4-0) hurled a two hitter in the opener Saturday against Gettysburg, striking out eight. The Hens scored twice in the first on a bunt single by Mark Cacciatore, Charlie Riley's run scoring double down the left field line and a passed ball.

Fred Blome's line drive hit up the middle spurred a three run Hen rally in the third. Joe Flickinger hit a two run single through the middle and John Aneurosis added a run scoring triple down the right field line.

Ted Zink, making his first start this season in the nightcap, pitched the entire game, getting 10 strikeouts.

After pitching two strong innings, Zink allowed two singles around a wild pitch for one run. That tied the score as the Hens had tallied first on a double steal. Flickinger appeared to be picked off but he avoided the tag long enough to give Zink a chance to head home from third. Gettysburg's second baseman threw home on a bounce which the catcher could not hold.

Zink scored the eventual winning run, streaking in from second base on Flickinger's infield hit. That occurred in the decisive third when Delaware tallied five runs on an unusual sequence of plays. The rally included only one hard hit ball, a single lined to left by Ken Wiggins. Three infield hits, a passed ball and an attempted steal by Ron Klein off a walk figured in the spree. Klein got in a rundown which allowed Flickinger to score before Klein was tagged out. All the runs were scored with two outs.

Gettysburg came back with three more runs but it wasn't enough as Zink hung on for the win.

Rams Next Home Foe

Netmen Win Two

Since losing to Johns Hopkins, 7-1 last Tuesday, Delaware's varsity tennis team has bounced back with two victories in a row to up their season log to 3-2.

In their most recent contest, the Hens had a perfect day as they shut out host Ursinus, 9-0 on Saturday. Ursinus now sports a 1-2 record.

One of the bright spots of the match was the victory by Captain Jack Henriksen, his first of the season. He downed Ursinus' Herm Kensky, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Except for Henriksen's match, all of the matches were won by large scores. The closest Ursinus ever got was 6-4, that occurring only once, in the second doubles contest.

On Thursday American University was swamped by Delaware, 7-2 in a home contest.

Hen losses occurred in the third and sixth singles, where Henriksen lost to Kip Spielfogel, 6-2, 6-3; and Mike Kallay fell to Andy Juster, 6-0, 10-8.

Meanwhile, Delaware number one singles player, Mike Fernet, shutout Tony Pollak, 6-0, 6-0.

Coach Roy Rylander looks for a tough match with West Chester tomorrow. As he put it: "They'll be tough to beat." Delaware entertains the Rams in a home contest starting at 2 p.m. on the courts adjacent to the Fieldhouse.

As Season Record Falls To 1-2

West Chester Tops Thinclads

Delaware found the confines of Morgantown, West Virginia a bit more friendly than even their home track as they participated in the West Virginia Relays over the weekend.

Overall, coach Jimmy Flynn was pleased with his squad's performances. "Considering the quality of the competition, I think we did quite well. Some of the boys turned in outstanding performances."

Flynn was especially proud of hurdlers Ed Mongan, Bob Stowe and quarter-miler Lloyd Mears. Mongan finished fourth in the intermediate hurdles but his time of 54.4 was a new school record. Stowe took second in his specialty, the high hurdles, while finishing fourth behind Mongan. Mears anchored the mile relay team to a fourth place finish with a time of 49 seconds flat.

Delaware was also second in the shuttle hurdle relay and third in the two mile relay. Coach Flynn called the meet "our best performance this year."

Against West Chester at home last Wednesday, the Hens had a rough time of it, losing 88-57 while winning only five events.

This Wednesday Delaware hosts Gettysburg.

Stickmen Top Lafayette, Swarthmore

Mickey Heineken's lacrosse team showed off its offensive prowess in a match against Lafayette at the Leopard's field Saturday.

With Dan Carnevale scoring four times alone in the first quarter, the Hen stickmen demolished the hapless Leopards, 13-1. In all, Carnevale tallied six times and had one assist. Teammate Chuck Dvorak added two more goals while handing out three assists.

Balance saw the key to the Delaware victory. In all, nine players had a hand in the scoring. But the defense also had a great day.

Goalie Skip Shifflet made 10 saves in all but spent much of the first half watching his teammates attack the Leopard goal. Shifflet only had to make two saves in the entire first half.

Coach Heineken was pleased with the team's showing. "The boys had a great game today. Both defense and offense played well. It was a nice win, particularly since it was a league contest." Delaware is now 5-1.

Last Wednesday, the Hens made Swarthmore victim number four when they prevailed by a score of 10-0. Delaware pelted the Garnet goalie with 51 shots.

Robbie Schroeder led Delaware's attack with three tallies. Six other Hens also got into the scoring act.

This Wednesday, Delaware will be taking on Lebanon Valley in a home match. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Foul Line

Plea For Sanity

By STU DROWOS

This is the concluding part in a series on basketball. The Editor

For those people who feel that the sport of basketball will continue to grow in leaps and bounds, I have some sad news for you. The bidding war between the two pro leagues is a harbinger of bad times.

The most recent draft shows the seriousness of the situation. When the Cleveland Cavaliers, owners of the worst record in the NBA chose first, they selected Notre Dame's Austin Carr. Cleveland's coach called Carr the "best available player" in the country. This meant that other top-notch collegians such as Jacksonville's Artis Gilmore and Western Kentucky's Jim McDaniels had either signed or were expected to do so with an ABA team.

The reasoning behind Cleveland's move was that since the ABA had held a not so "secret" draft some months earlier, some quality ballplayers were either committed to some ABA team or that the price they were asking was too steep. Thus, the NBA teams had to settle for "second best." This doesn't mean that Austin Carr is a second rate player; it only means that some other quality player is unavailable.

What are the implications of all of this? For one thing, it means that unless some form of merger and common draft is agreed upon soon, professional basketball will find itself bankrupt.

When bidding for a player reaches the multi-million dollar level, a team is risking financial disaster. If that player suffers an injury, the club he signs with suffers tremendously. If it's a weak team which normally doesn't draw well, the loss incurred will be even greater. Not only is that team deprived of that player's talents, but the club loses heavily at the gate. Without someone to draw the fans in, the club loses money. No one wants to come and see the team's new star sit on the bench.

Tied in with this is a second point. If the bidding war continues, collegiate stars may forsake one or more years of eligibility for the glamor and loot of the pros. Mississippi's Johnny Newman and Massachusetts' Julius Erving are examples of this. Without these quality athletes playing for the school, many collegiate teams can only hope for a good season; without a "good season," a college has little chance to grab a hotshot high school prospect. Recruiting is built on winning basketball; just ask Adolph Rupp or John Wooden. Without the personnel, a college has practically no chance to do well. It would be better off using the money from the basketball program to strengthen some other sport.

A third and final point concerns the death of pros. Without a "farm system" of sorts in which collegiate stars can develop, the pros will only be able to choose by random. High school basketball is not a good measuring stick for future stars. Maturity, both in skills as well as in mind and body, must take place before a player can perform in the big-time. If the farm system dies, then it is inevitable that the people who benefit from it will also perish.

In order to prevent such a thing, one must plead for sanity on the part of the professional leagues. If this war continues, the ultimate casualties will be the pros themselves.

Edge Bucknell, 5-2

Duffers Triumph

Bill Harman suffered his first loss of the season but his teammates continued to roll as Scotty Duncan's golf squad ran its season record to 10-0 with a 5-2 victory over Bucknell last Friday.

Delaware, playing on the familiar Louviers golf course, had a tough time of it against the Bisons. Many of the matches were close and could have gone either way. The win was only the fifth in 20 matches with Bucknell, the last victory coming in 1969.

Mark Reddy defeated Harman in the first match but the Hens came back with four straight wins to clinch their tenth victory.

Kevin Scanlon, playing number two, beat Dan Stetz, one up. Pat Nilon then scored an easy win over Bucknell's Dave Maier. The key match was the next one.

Bucknell's Greg Mordas led Mike Mueller by three strokes after 14 holes and only needed to win one more hole to win the match up for the Bisons. But Mueller fought back and beat Mordas on the last four holes. This win seemed to lift the rest of the team.

Dave Otteni then routed Bison Mike Sinkus, winning by eight strokes. Ken Helfand completed the day with a win over Keith Anderson. Bucknell's only other consolation came when George Ferrantelli edged Delaware's Dwayne Roney on the 19th hole.

Coach Duncan was elated over his squad's performance. "It's always a big thrill to beat Bucknell. We haven't had much luck with them in the past; everytime we meet it seems to be a close match."

Duncan also felt that Mueller's showing was a key point. "Mike really showed desire out there. He refused to quit and as a result, we got a badly needed match point."

Tomorrow, the Hens play host to Gettysburg and Rider. The match starts at 12:30 p.m.
