Time to set clocks back, officially

The Federation of the Swiss Watch Industry, the official organization representing Swiss watch members in the United States, would like to take a moment to issue this public service reminder that Daylight Saving Time is about to end.

Across the country, people will turn clocks back one hour at 2 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 29, (or before they go to bed on Saturday, Oct. 28.)

Daylight Saving Time is a practice that was begun in 1918 when U.S. Congress adopted the program as part of the World War I effort. In 1919, Congress scrapped DST, though some cities throughout the country opted to continue it. In fact, from 1918 through 1967, various states individually — and for a period the nation as a whole — were on a variety of time programs, including "War time" during World War II.

It was not until 1967 that Congress put into effect the Uniform Time Act, which instituted Daylight Saving Time for the nation, starting at 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April and ending at 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October.

In 1986, President Reagan signed a bill that became effective in 1987, that moved the start of Daylight Saving Time to the first Sunday in April, but left the end at the last Sunday in October. Currently, several U.S. states and possessions are exempt by law from implementing DST.

Along with the time-change, come a few other important time- and safety-related matters. Set clocks, watches and VCRs back one hour. Change timers on lights and security systems in homes and offices.

Because it gets dark even earlier now, remember to discuss curfews and safety tips with young children.

The Swiss Watch Federation's public service message about Daylight Saving Time is meant to bring you a safe, healthy, timely season. For other information on Swiss watches, visit the Federation's website: www.swisswatch.org.

The Great Pumpkin Search

Referendum for reservoir in Spring

Design process now underway

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark's reservoir is finally on the drawing board following city council's approval of a Wilmington engineering firm to prepare the design.

City staff recommended URS-Tatman & Lee to design the new water storage facility which will be located along Old Paper Mill Road. Assistant administrator Carol Houck said funding for the design work, as well as other construction costs, will come from bond proceeds associated with a successful bond referendum in April 2001.

The $804,000 fee proposed by URS was not the lowest bid, however.

Houck said the bids were only opened after the companies were ranked by city staff.

"A committee of four staff members reviewed six proposals received for the project and attended presentations by the firms," Houck said. "Following the presentations, and additional evaluation of the proposals, the committee members participated in ranking the firms in relation to the criteria set forth in the Request For Proposals."

Houck added the RFP allowed additional negotiation after the firm was selected. "We met with URS last week," Houck told council on Monday, "and as a result, there is a new, lower, contract cost of $749,000."

City manager Carl Luft said there is also an option to eliminate up to another $34,000 from the company's supplemental task fees for surveying, metes and bounds, and wetland delineation work. "This is subject to a condition that our existing survey data precludes URS doing these tasks," explained Luft.

Houck said the reduced fees will not affect the safety or

Charter School site search intensifies

Board hires land use attorney to assist efforts

By KATY CIAMARICONE

The proposed Newark Charter School already has more than 1,200 applicants, a student handbook, a personnel policy manual and an attorney — but still no site.

School board members have until Dec. 15 to find a location for the school or it will not open for the 2001-2002 school year, according to conditions set by the state Board of Education.

"If we have to build the school from scratch, we're going to have to start within the next six weeks," said boardmember Joan Pierson.

Pierson said officials would need at least nine months to have the school built with correct zoning. "We really don't want to have to tell 1,200 people that we aren't going to open for the 2000-2001 school year."

But so far, Pierson and fellow board members, Mayor Hal Godwin, State Representative Timothy Boulden (R-Newark) and Anthony Wexler, a professor at the University of Delaware, have been unsuccessful in their attempts to find a location suitable to fit all of the school's zoning and financial requirements.

"Property in Newark is very valuable, but there is not a lot of it," Pierson said. "There are about 16 empty buildings in the area, and we've probably looked at every one of them."

Although potential sites were not disclosed, Pierson said the boardmembers have narrowed their search down to three properties.

We went to build a new house of sticks

We found a world of new experiences

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Only a 16-hour flight from the American East Coast, men are still using oxen to plow their crops and women are cooking over open fires in the small Kenyan farming community of Katira.

With a population of less than 9,000, families here reside in homes that are 600 square feet, or smaller, with thatched roofs and dirt floors. Some children are malnourished and the women are considered second class citizens.

And even though the town is located only about 280 miles west of Kenya's capital Nairobi with its population of one million, assistance to improve their standard of living is rare.

This is why a group of Habitat for Humanity volunteers, including myself, spent nine days in August working alongside four African families to help them build new homes and new lives — cultural fusion that not only transformed the community, but us as well.

We slept on the floor of a 26x14 foot cement block building, bathed with camping sun showers in a not-so-sheltered stall, and relieved ourselves in a less-than-glamorous hole in the ground (which was enclosed by an outhouse-style structure and rigged with toilet paper).

A far cry from the typical accommodations of the 13 Americans, one Canadian and one recently relocated Chinese native. By Kenyan standards, however, our compound was luxurious.

Stolen property found during search

Newark Police arrested Michael J. Sweeny, 26, and Heather A. Elmer, 22, both of Newark, on Oct. 18 on charges of receiving stolen property, possession of a hypodermic needle and possession of drug paraphernalia. Police conducted a search in an apartment at 21 Thorn Lane, and recovered more than $1,700 of stolen property that was taken in a burglary of an apartment on Oct. 13 in the same building. The defendants were arraigned at Magistrate Court No. 18 and detectives are investigating the defendants' involvement in the burglary.

Newarker arrested for possession of crack cocaine

Larry Robinson, 45, of Kimberton, was arrested Oct. 20 and committed to Gander Hill Prison for charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of crack cocaine with the intent to deliver. New Castle County foot patrol officers were walking in Kimberton when they saw Robinson and another suspect smoking crack cocaine in the vicinity of the New Castle County Police Academy on Kimberton Drive.

The officers approached the two suspects and after a brief foot pursuit, they apprehended Robinson and found seven small baggies of crack cocaine and a 5/8" socket used to smoke crack cocaine in his possession. Robinson was sent to Gander Hill after he failed to post $5,000 secured bail.

Brookside burglary under investigation

New Castle County Police are investigating an overnight home invasion that took place Oct. 19 on Chaucer Drive in Brookside. At 8:30 p.m., police responded to a report of the home invasion, which had just occurred.

The investigation revealed that three men had entered the unsecured front door of the residence and held three teenage victims at gunpoint. One of the suspects detained the parents in the living room while another suspect rummaged through the home. All three suspects casually walked from the home after stealing an undisclosed amount of cash. The first suspect is described as a black male, about 6 feet, 2 inches tall, with a thin build, dark complexion and armed with a shotgun. The second suspect is described as a black male armed with a handgun. The third suspect is described as a white male with light hair wearing a white shirt and black pants. He was also armed with a handgun. Anyone with information regarding this incident should contact detectives at 571-7924.

Kidnapping suspect sought by police

As of deadline, police were still looking for Millard Ernest Price, 41, of Marshallton, for assaulting a 27-year-old female in Capitol Trail Farms at 9:40 a.m. on Oct. 24.

Police responded to a report of an accident in the neighborhood, but reports quickly changed to an assault in progress after several neighbors witnessed a male suspect physically assaulting the female victim. Police arrived at the scene and learned Price had forced the female into his 1999 Dodge Durango and proceeded to drive off with her inside. She was able to escape from the vehicle and flee to an approaching police officer. Price left his car behind and fled on foot.

Investigators later learned that Price had followed the female and intentionally rammed his truck into her car before taking her hostage. A police K-9 and the Delaware State Police Helicopter searched the area for Price, but he escaped.

Officers later discovered marijuana, cocaine and drug paraphernalia inside the suspect's truck. The victim, 27, was taken to the Christiana Hospital, treated for minor injuries, and released. The victim had reportedly broken off a relationship with Price prior to the incident.

Price is currently wanted for kidnapping, vehicular assault, terroristic threatening, assault in the third degree, possession of marijuana, possession of cocaine, maintaining a vehicle for keeping controlled substances and possession of drug paraphernalia. Anyone with information regarding his whereabouts should call 573-2800.

'Largest capital investment ever' in Newark design of the proposal.

"(In addition), while not a cost saving, there is a critical service that URS has provided for in their proposal," said Luft. "To our knowledge, the other engineer consultants do not provide this service which totals $20,000 and involves a proprietary computerized program called DAMSMART."

According to Luft, the program will provide real-time monitoring of the reservoir's lining for leaks.

"We feel this safety consideration is an important criteria which sets URS apart from the other firms," Luft said.

Luft told council URS has successfully designed water impoundments in Delaware and is familiar with permitting requirements.

"They also designed a water farm in Odessa, lagoons in Oxford, Pa., and the reservoir in East Marlborough, Pa., and completed geological work on the Manasquan reservoir in New Jersey," Luft said. "The geology in Manasquan is very similar to that of our reservoir site here in Newark."

Luft told council that URS will prepare 10 alternative layouts for the reservoir, thus ensuring a thorough search for the most appropriate one. "They are approaching our project with an open mind and will develop creative options for us to consider," he said.

In explaining why the bids varied as much as $500,000 over or under that of URS, Luft said it was staff's opinion that some firms had a "weak understanding of the effort and liability" involved in such a complex project, or came with "assumptions or preconceptions" that might limit the scope of their work.

"There is no question this is the largest single capital investment ever made in the city of Newark," said Luft. "It is my strong feeling that this is not a project the city should cut corners on with respect to all facets of this design effort, including costs."

According to URS' proposal, the draft final plans and specifications can be completed by December 2001.

Advertisement, preparation and review of bids will take about three months with construction anticipated to begin early in 2002.

New D.U.I. law lowers national BAC to .08

A provision lowering the D.U.I. national standard from .10 to .08 Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) is included in the FY 2001 Transportation Appropriations Conference Report from Congress which also includes $1 million to continue the development of Delaware's "Smart Roads" Program and $3.5 million to upgrade Delaware's public bus system.

According to the new law, states have until 2004 to pass .08 BAC. If not, they lose 2 percent of highway funds in 2004, 4 percent in 2005, 6 percent in 2006 and 8 percent in 2007. If the state passes .08 BAC by 2007, they get the money back. If they go beyond 2007, the eight percent sanction stays every year.

Delaware Congressman Michael N. Castle praised the signing of this provision into law, calling it a major step forward in preventing accidents which involve drunk driving.

Although 18 states and the District of Columbia draw the line against drunk driving at .08 percent BAC, 32 states (including Delaware) still define drunk driving at .10 percent BAC - the most lenient in the Western World.

According to Castle, if all 50 states adopted .08 BAC, about 500 highway deaths could be prevented each year.

On Tuesday, November 7th, please join Senators Steve Amick and Liane Sorenson in supporting Tim Boulden

"Tim Boulden is an exciting and dynamic new leader for Newark. I know the importance of having capable leaders like Tim Boulden working along side me representing Newark's interest in the Delaware General Assembly. He has been a leader in the fight to reduce class sizes for younger children in Delaware. Tim knows that each child has different interests and talents and giving teachers enough time to spend individually with each student is vitally important to preparing that child to succeed later in their education and in life. While other people talk about improving education... Tim Boulden is actually doing something about it!"

- Senator Steve Amick

"It is a pleasure to partner with Tim on issues of concern to Newark. As a lifelong resident of the district, he cares deeply about improving the quality of life for the community. When we led the effort to reduce class size, I saw Tim work effectively with members on both sides of the aisle to achieve tangible results. As a successful small businessman, he brings real world experience and common sense to the issues that we face. Tim has done a wonderful job for his district, and I look forward to continuing our strong working relationship."

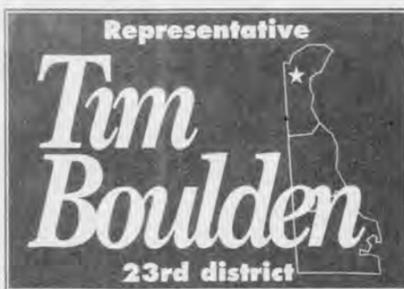

- Senator Liane Sorenson

"... a strong, effective and responsive leader for Newark families."

Science was in this Teacher of the Year's genes

Even after 19 years, the job is 'never boring'

By KATY CIAMARICONE
 NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

When Catherine Houghton was 6-years-old, she received a dissection kit as a gift. That was the day she began dreaming of a career in science.

"I became very intrigued with the way the life cycle works," Houghton said. "Initially, I wanted to become a neurosurgeon — that was around fifth grade. But then I had a biology teacher who really inspired me."

That inspiration recently paid off when, after teaching biology in Delaware for more than 19 years, Houghton was selected from approximately 1,500 teachers in 26 Christina District schools to become the District Teacher of the Year.

"This job is never boring," said Houghton, who has taught biology at Glasgow High School since 1987. "Every day presents a new challenge."

In a sense, Houghton is genetically programmed for a career in teaching science.

Her father is a chemical engineering professor at the University of Delaware, and her mother teaches education at the Department of Labor.

After graduating from Avon Grove (Pa.) High School, Houghton went on to get her bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Delaware. She recently received her master's degree in curriculum and instruction from Western Maryland College.

Houghton began her teaching career at Delcastle High School, transferred to Newark High School, worked at Gauger Middle School for one year, then Newark again until she went to Glasgow.

"I had a chance to go back to Newark, but I chose to stay (at Glasgow) because the faculty members here are so intelligent and just a pleasure to work with," she said.

Glasgow principal Robert Anderson said Houghton won this award simply because she is an excellent teacher. "She's involved with both in-school and afterschool programs, she has won national awards, she mentors all of the new teachers in the building, she has developed and directed new educational programs, she conducted the national honor society last year — she does it all," Anderson said.

In addition to teaching the grade biology and biology II, an advanced class for seniors who are in the Honor Society, Houghton is piloting a course in electronic communication this year.

Videoography and the Internet, and how to use them in multimedia presentations, are featured course topics, she added.

Teachers of the Year for other Christina schools include: Diane Bale, Broader Elementary; Heather Buchanan, Brookside Elementary; Peter Barry, Jones Elementary; Deborah Wilson, Denise Elementary; Doreen Sunken, Gallagher Elementary; Brian Lee, Leisure Elementary; Susan Rosenthal, Macular

Catherine Houghton, a biology teacher at Glasgow High School, looks almost as young as one of her students but has 19 years of experience backing up her most recent award as Christina District Teacher of the Year.

Elementary; Edith Bacon, Marshall Elementary; Glenn Niggle, McVey Elementary; Catherine Lyons, Smith Elementary; Cynthia Heckrote, West Park Elementary; Beverly Jordan, Wilson Elementary; Singe Baxter, Bayard Intermediate; Cara Ward, Drew/Pyle Elementary; Carol Ann Dougherty, Elbert-Palmer Intermediate; Martha Phalen,

Pulaski Intermediate; Claudia Raezer, Stubbs Intermediate; Tamara Grimes, Gauger-Cobbs Middle; Karen Hruz, Kirk Middle; Jennifer McHugh, Shue-Medill Middle; Jeffrey Dombchik, Christiana High; Kimberly Pyle, Newark High; Patricia Barnhouse, Douglass/Option Program; Karen Martin, Sterck School; Sandra Bechtel-Bentley, Autistic

Program; and Cheryl Gollicker, REACH Program.

Julia N. Harper, a middle school teacher at Delmar Junior-Senior High School was named Delaware's Teacher of the Year. Gov. Thomas R. Carper announced the award winners at Sheraton Inn in Dover Tuesday during a dinner held for the winners from each of Delaware's 19 school districts.

Businesses have committed $650,000

► CHARTER, from 1

Trauma facility on Independence Way for possible use by the Charter School was subsequently withdrawn by the property owner.

Expected to enroll 600 students within its first two years, the school would need a structure of considerable size.

"Ideally, for a permanent site, we would need about 60,000 square feet for that many students," Pierson said. "If we enrolled 300 students in the first year, than we would only need 30,000 (square feet), and less if we do not have a gym built on."

School director Gregory Meece, also a founding member of the Wilmington Charter School, said the Newark school has received more than $650,000 in grant donations or pledges from local businesses, including Astra Zeneca, which donated money to build a science classroom.

But, despite the generous contributions to the school, Wexler agreed that real estate is very expensive. "We had a site (for the school), but we lost it because someone else was willing to pay more money for it," Wexler said.

The members voted recently to hire land use attorney, Richard Levine of Young Conway Stargett and Taylor, LLP, to represent the school in finding a site.

"The construction industry is at its height — as solid as it's ever been," said Levine. "It's encouraging for anyone embarking on a career in development, but for people looking for property to locate an establishment, these days, it's all about who is willing to pay more money."

Pierson said with the low failure rate for Charter Schools around the state, she does not understand why any developer or realtor would not want to have one as a tenant. There are currently 10 Charter Schools in Delaware, including Thomas Edison and East Side, both in Wilmington, and Positive Outcomes in Dover.

Halloween Parade Sunday in Newark

Trick or Treat Main Street marches right behind

Those without a costume will be frightfully out of place on Main Street this Sunday as the 53rd annual Halloween Parade and Trick or Treat Main Street both explode into action.

Complete with marching bands, floats, antique automobiles, and costumed characters of all ages, the parade begins at Tyre Avenue and Main Street at 3 p.m.

Marchers, who also include local clubs, civic groups, school bands, PTA's, scout troops and church groups, will parade west on Main Street to College Avenue and then to the University of Delaware's Carpenter Sports Center and Frazier Field.

Preregistration is not necessary for individuals who come in costume and walk in the parade. A special line up space will be provided. Check in at the information booth at George Read Park by 2:30 p.m. on Sunday to obtain a line up position.

Parade categories which require registration include: marching bands or musical groups; floats with a Halloween theme; large marching groups with at least 10 individuals, including a minimum of two adults; family marching groups, which must have at least five members and an overall theme; and antique vehicles with or without costumed drivers.

Family marching groups and floats will be eligible for awards. Winners will be announced in front of the Academy Building at approximately 4 p.m.

Politicians or political groups that plan to ride in a vehicle must preregister.

No registration is required for politicians merely walking in the parade, but they must be in costume.

For the first time, Trick or Treat Main Street is paired with the parade for twice the Halloween fun in one day. For the safety of the children, Main Street will remain closed throughout the parade and Trick or Treat.

During trick-or-treating from 4 to 6 p.m., many businesses open for shopping along Main street and in the Newark Shopping Center will have goodies for costumed children.

Children also can have their picture taken in the Pumpkin Patch for $1 or enter the costume contest on the Academy Building lawn.

All Municipal Parking lots will have free parking during the two events.

There is no rain date for the parade or trick-or-treating. For cancellation information, please call the Recreation Hotline at 366-7147 or listen to WNRK 1260.AM or WSTW 93.FM.

For additional information about the events, please call Newark Parks and Recreation at 366-7060.

Sunday is spent for the fun of it

This week the city of Newark will host its 53rd annual Halloween Parade. Traditionally held on the Sunday before the holiday, it has obviously been popular with families living in and around the town for decades.

People of all ages and walks of life, especially politicians, enjoy the opportunity to stroll around in a disguise for a day.

Newark's downtown has been the long-standing venue for this attraction and this year, the town is linking the parade with another favorite - Trick-Or-Treat Main Street.

With two parents working and time at a premium for everyone, combining these into one festivity makes sense.

But, some businesses in Newark have complained to members of the Downtown Newark Partnership, a co-sponsor of the events along with the City's Parks and Recreation Department, that they are not open on Sunday.

In addition, some businesses are unhappy that the street will be closed for three hours to safely host the two activities which bring thousands of people to town.

Perhaps it's time for these businesses to reassess their reasons for being closed on Sunday or who their customers are or would like to be.

Sundays are the only days many working people have for discretionary shopping.

Six days a week are devoted to earning money, buying food, cooking, cleaning up, washing clothes, going to doctor's appointments, maintaining cars, transporting children to activities, and a wealth of other duties which cannot be delayed.

Sunday is the day to dream, to plan, to wonder if, to wander through stores just for the fun of it and find that perfectly unnecessary-but-can't-be-resisted shirt or table or book or jewelry.

This is finally the day to spend four hours picking out the wallpaper pattern or paint color that matches the bedspread you found on vacation two years ago. This is the day to find out whether you can afford to see "Paree." This is the day to take a breath and say "maybe."

We hope plenty of families will come to Newark to join the fantastic sights and goofy sounds and giggly nonsense associated with Halloween celebrations.

We hope the city's businesses will be here to welcome them - and provide a great reason to come back soon on another Sunday afternoon of maybes.

Our mission

IT IS OUR MISSION to inform readers of local government activity that touches the lives of the citizens it serves; to celebrate the freedom of speech granted all of us by the Founding Fathers of our Constitution by publishing letters of opinion and matters of record; and, most importantly, to offer news of people, places and events that chronicles our Greater Newark community.

By JACK BARTLEY
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

The students in my seventh period, college prep biology class had just taken their seats after the bell signaling the end of the hall passing time finished its series of soft chimes.

The bell tones are reminiscent of an elevator in an old five or six story department store, Wanamaker's in Philadelphia comes to mind, and as the bell sounds, I can hear a gentle female voice in my head saying, "Men's Wear, Lingerie, Children's Clothing."

Of course, when I mention this mental mind-warp to my students they look at me as if I had dropped in from some alien planet. "An elevator where?" Department stores don't have elevators that talk!

"You mean 'escalator,' don't you?" I keep forgetting that our kids inhabit malls that rise no more than two stories above a barren asphalt landscape.

Brandon, a student in the front row, took out a newspaper and began to scan the sports section as I took roll.

I did not ask him to put it away since I figure reading of any kind, especially if it gets a student in the habit of checking out a newspaper on a regular basis, is better than the normal poking, hitting, soda-spilling, chair-tipping, hiding-someone's-book "practical joke" that normally goes on before class gets underway in earnest. I could see out of the corner of my eye that Brandon had settled in on one article. He finished it, looked at me and said, "Man, I'm down with that!"

"Um, down with what?" I assumed being "down with" something meant he was in agreement.

"Down with this," Brandon said, pointing to the paper. "This dude is being offered $32 million dollars to play baseball with the Kansas City Royals. Over five years!"

I said, "Hey, even over five years, that's an enormous amount of money for playing a game."

Brandon shook his head and looked at me like I was crazy. "You don't get it. The dude turned it DOWN. He walked. There's no way he's going to play for some team like the Royals. I wouldn't!"

"You mean to tell me that you would not play baseball, essentially a kid's game, for over $6 million a year just because you don't like the team?"

I could not believe I was hearing this. I added, "I'd play for the Louisiana Losers or the New York Knuckleheads if someone was going to pay me $6 million. I'd do it for $1 million!"

I was beginning to see why my measly 25 points for a quiz grade was failing to have an impact on Brandon. He was after bigger and better rewards.

"$1 million? That's whack!" Brandon couldn't believe what he was hearing from me. "Of course, you're just a teacher. You won't see a million in your whole life!"

"Whack?" Ignoring the fact that Brandon was probably right about the $1 million, I made a mental note to ask our ninth grade teachers why they were instructing our students to speak that way. After all, according to Governor Carper, the teachers are accountable for student performance, so our teachers must be the ones instilling our children with such linguistic loquaciousness.

"Brandon, do you play baseball or some other sport for Glasgow?" I figured he had some plan for raking in the millions that was not contingent on earning good grades since his GPA was languishing at the bottom of the class.

"Play for Glasgow? I'm not playing for some loser school like this. You're crazy!" Brandon added, in a lower voice, "Besides, my grades suck. I'll just make it when I do college. No problem."

I began to see that there was, indeed, a problem. The conversation described above was actually a fusion of several exchanges I have had with students this year.

It is becoming obvious to me that for many of our students, the points earned on tests and quizzes are worth just as much as the points on "Who's Line Is It Anyway." The points don't matter.

The problem centers on motivating a student to achieve personal goals, such as good grades, when the false reality of incredible wealth and fame seems attainable without mastering skills deemed valuable by most of society.

In fact, many of the students in my classes seem to take pride in doing poorly. They laugh when they get failing scores, and even compare work with other students to see who had the lowest score.

Is the answer to the problem of student motivation to be found in schools, where teachers have the chance to teach and influence students for a small fraction of the day?

According to many of our legislators and some members of our community, the answer is an emphatic, "Yes, the teachers and schools are accountable." To those of us who must confront society instilled student apathy on a daily basis, the motivational solution is more elusive and ephemeral.

The naive perception that schools are the panacea for societal ills has led to the creation of false expectations and misguided hope. In reality, the answer to the question, "Can schools provide the motivation to drive student academic achievement?" is a definite maybe. Success will come only if the whole community views itself as accountable.

The author, a former winner of the State Chamber of Commerce Superstars in Education award and a $750,000 grant from the National Science Foundation for education reform, was named Outstanding Biology Teacher of the Year for Delaware 2000 by the Delaware Association of Biology teachers.

Storm's fury does little damage here

Newark was swept by a screaming gale Sunday afternoon, probably the outflung edge of the tornado which took a heavy toll on life in southern states the same day.

Samuel Aiken, of Newark, sustained a badly broken leg when the automobile in which he was riding with Arthur J. Hill, of Newark, skidded on the wet roadway near Oak Grove during the afternoon and plunged into a telephone pole.

University "Family" again to be guests of Pierre duPont at Theatre Party

Announcement was made early this week through officials that the University has accepted an invitation from Pierre S. duPont extended to the student bodies, faculty and staff of both colleges, to be his guests at a mammoth theatre party next Tuesday evening in the Playhouse, Wilmington.

Mr. duPont has chosen Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," starring Julia Arthur, as the attraction.

Classes may resume for seniors

High school seniors may be back in school as soon as Thursday if New Castle County School District officials have enough teachers to man the classrooms.

The move back to classrooms depends on how many staff members return, said Dr. Joseph Johnson, deputy superintendent. The district asked Chancery Court to hold the striking New Castle County Education Association in contempt of court.

Secret water study bared

New Castle County has a legal basis for claiming rights to withdraw water from the Brandywine Creek, according to a confidential report prepared in 1974 for county officials.

The report states that the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control has the authority to allocate water within Delaware.

The confidential report appears to have significant implications for negotiations underway among the City of Wilmington, private water suppliers, and New Castle County regarding a proposal to share area water supplies.

We can move forward with shared goals and initiatives

By NICHOLAS A. FISCHER
GUEST COLUMNIST

We have had a productive and successful first month of school. It is essential that parents and the schools work together in a partnership to create a positive environment, which encourages progress for all students.

As you may have heard or read, the Christina District School Board last month approved a two-year extension to my tenure as District superintendent. I will serve through June 2003.

It is with enthusiasm and determination that I intend to carry forth the school board's mandate to implement effective strategies to improve the academic achievement of all Christina students.

How do we move forward? First, we must recognize that public education in Delaware has changed dramatically in the last three years.

Educational goals and priorities for the future are no longer set exclusively by local communities. New standards required by the General Assembly hold all participants — students, educators, and parents — accountable. The way we now measure success has been taken outside the control of the local community. Our children must meet statewide standards in order to be promoted and to graduate.

The rules have changed, the agenda has shifted, and the stakes are high. We must adjust our thinking in order to meet the new challenges that systemic accountability presents. Our children are depending on this community to end polarizing and emotion-driven debate, which undermines progress. We must move forward together with shared goals in the best interest of all current and future Christina School District students.

There are only two critical questions we should ask:

Are Christina students meeting and exceeding the state academic standards?

What district-wide strategies must be implemented to help students achieve these standards?

You can be confident that we already have begun initiatives to address these questions. Not everyone agrees on how to proceed, but we intend to present our plans clearly and promptly as decisions are made. Your input is a valuable part of the decision-making process, and we appreciate your participation in public dialog.

I am aware there are inaccurate interpretations circulating through the community concerning this administration's stance on critical issues such as accountability, grouping, and instruction. I believe it is my responsibility to address these rumors and clarify my views. I look forward to the next three years as we continue to improve the educational programs offered to Christina students.

Fischer has been school superintendent for the Christina District since 1997.

Max Kennedy visits 'livable community' at Mill on White Clay Environmentalist Max Kennedy, son of Robert F. Kennedy, visited Newark last week to discuss the importance of developing "livable communities" for the 21st century.

He was joined by Lt. Governor Ruth Ann Minner, candidate for governor, and Chris Coons, candidate for New Castle County president, at the former National Vulcanized Fiber site off Paper Mill Road along White Clay Creek.

"Increasingly in the 21st Century a livable community will be an economically powerful community; a place where good schools and strong families fuel creativity and productivity," Kennedy said recently. "A place where the best minds and the best companies share ideas and shape our common future. Promoting a better quality of life for our families need never come at the expense of economic growth."

The NVF site was an active industrial facility from 1850 until the late 1980s when it was closed leaving the riverbank contaminated and unusable.

Commonwealth Development purchased the property and invested more than $400K in site studies and toxic waste remediation. When finished next year, this 19.9-acre development will be a mixed-use site with 10 buildings for 48 apartments, a restaurant, several small shops, and 126,400 square feet of

NEWARK OUTLOOK Farm news

Did you know that many of those rich-colored mums and pumpkins popping up on doorsteps and lining walks in your neighborhood were grown right here in New Castle County?

Ziping along on superhighways from city to suburb in this county, it's easy to miss the farms on the back roads and byways. Yet they are there, producing corn, vegetables, milk, ornamental plants and those jack-o-lantern pumpkins for you to buy at local stands and grocery chains.

The John Filasky family, which received the New Castle County Farm Bureau award for Farm Family of the Year, have been farming in Delaware since 1952 when John moved here with his father, mother and brother from Long Island, N.Y.

By Carl Davis

At first the Filaskys grew potatoes and cabbage; then, in 1980, they moved to a farm of their own on Bunker Hill Road outside Middletown to grow tomatoes and sweet corn.

They acquired more land and expanded their crops to include pumpkins and melons. Several years ago, they added a U-Pik pumpkin operation, which allows the family to do what they love — interact with the people who buy their produce. John Filasky has served on the New Castle County Farm Bureau board for 15 years and has spent two years on the state board. He is also on the board of the Delaware Vegetable Growers Association.

The 2000 Farm Bureau Queen is Sara Baker, 16, a senior at Middletown High School. Daughter of Pamela and Robert Baker of Middletown, she loves field hockey, swimming, track, skiing and horseback riding. Baker, who has grown up in a farm family, works on her uncle's farm during potato harvest. She is a member of the National Junior Honor Society and has taken part in the Appalachian Service Project.

Middletown resident Edward H. Schabinger received the Farm Bureau's 2000 award for Distinguished Service to Agriculture. A graduate of the University of Delaware with a degree in animal science, he was an agriculture agent for UD Cooperative Extension until his retirement in 1978.

Schabinger initiated the Greener Pasture Program in Delaware and started farm tours in Newark to educate the public about farming. He is an executive board member and past president of the Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village. He has been supervisor of the New Castle County Conservation District since 1946.

Schabinger has received the George M. Wornlow Award for Distinguished Service to Agriculture, the Distinguished Service Award from the National County Agriculture Agents Association, the Pasture Improvement Award from the Grasslands Association for Greener Pastures, and the Meritorious Service Award for Agricultural Leadership of the Contrary to national trends, there are two new medical practitioners in this area who only make house calls and do not have an office at all.

After practicing for five years in two animal hospitals, veterinarian Dr. Nancy Brady wanted to start her own practice. Her main goal was providing immediate and adequate house-call services to clients who could not get their animals to office appointments.

Brady learned about the Dodgen/Born Free company in Iowa that specializes in mobile veterinary facilities. She teamed up with Dr. Charlotte Fagraeus and they began their own "rolling" veterinary practice here.

The Animal Haven Veterinary Center is a fully-equipped, 26-foot-long refitted recreational vehicle. Brady and Fagraeus make house calls for routine appointments, sick appointments and routine or complex surgery.

In their first six weeks, the two doctors acquired more than 100 clients.

"The van is equipped with dental equipment, X-ray machines, blood testing equipment, microscopes, scales and everything we need to take care of the animals," Brady said.

The doctors have a complete pharmacy for medications, preventatives, topicals, and prescription diets.

The veterinarians are unable to provide lodging for animals that need long-term care, but refer clients to quality animal hospitals.

Clients contact the service by voice mail. The messages are checked every two to four hours and prioritized according to the condition of the animals.

"We can handle about nine house calls a day," Dr. Fagraeus said. "We allot at least an hour-and-a-half for each house call."

The doctors do not currently have a permanent office but are looking for a site. They would like to open a full, stationary practice which would include boarding and grooming, but said they would not give up the mobile service.

"The mobile service allows us to immediately provide services to our customers," Dr. Brady said. "It's a service that has not been offered in the Bear-Glasgow area before."

Although the "veterinary hospital on wheels" can mostly be seen in the Bear-Glasgow area, the doctors make calls to Wilmington, Newark, New Castle and Maryland.

"We will make calls just about anywhere," Dr. Fagraeus said. "Our practice is a unique way of giving animals complete care in a way that is convenient for the pet owners."

The Animal Haven Veterinary Center can be reached by calling: 738-2806. The hours of operation are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to noon.

Faberge exhibit is worth more than one look

Faberge revisited! If you ask why REvisited, the answer is an easy one. There is so much to see, to enjoy, to absorb that it is difficult, if not impossible, to appreciate all the great art which has been set out before us by Broughton International at the Riverfront Arts Center. There are about 1,100 works impeccably displayed at 800 South Madison Street in Wilmington.

Rather than use as the illustration with my column today another beautiful work on display, I asked my editor to run the diagram which appears close by. It is the layout of the ten galleries and what is featured in each gallery. If you are about to make a trip to see this once-in-a-lifetime exhibition, you may find this layout chart of some assistance if you examine it in advance and then take it with you.

The first item on your agenda after getting your complimentary tape playback unit is to enter the auditorium for a preview of the life and products of Peter Carl Faberge, his work masters and competitors. If you listen carefully you will be able to enjoy the following 10 galleries much more completely. You are about to enter a different world, one of another time — Tsarist Russia — and another place — royal courts whose wealth knew no bounds.

One thing which may surprise you is that this exhibition is not all Faberge eggs and grand jewelry. Not at all. One of the things that made the work of Peter Carl so special is that he made ordinary, everyday items in a most extraordinary way. There will be writing desks, cigarette cases, boxes, mirrors, music boxes, writing accessories and desk sets. All of them have great beauty and are the products of great imagination, but they could be used in royalty's everyday duties.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Also you will see the result of the time in which the items were being created, the industrial revolution. As but one example, a sterling silver writing stand made to look like a steam locomotive of the day.

There is another exquisite desk set in sterling, this one to honor the set designer for the premiere performance of the opera "Boris Godounov" Nikolai Roerich. It features Roerich and all of his group planning the event. There are piles of paper all over the place, each one an individual piece of silver. To really enjoy it, walk around the display case to see the detail on all sides of the work.

Of course you won't want to miss the most famous of his works, the glorious Easter Eggs the Tsar had created each year for his wife. The most famous, the egg with the Coronation Coach inside, is featured as are many other magnificent efforts. Incidentally, the average completion time for one egg was about two years! Even though these eggs today sell for millions — if you can find one for sale — Faberge was frugal with his diamonds and gold. The value of the materials would average about $5,000. His mission in life was to create an "objet de fantaisie" for the most mundane of uses as well as to grace the members of the court of the Tsar of all the Russias.

Religion was very much a part of court life and gallery eight is devoted to some examples of Faberge's work. From the giant chalice to the most minute collection of the four gospels, about 3/8" thick and 2" high, it's all there to be seen and appreciated. The icons and so many other religious symbols are meticulously made and are as lovely today as they were a hundred years ago.

There are more works by Faberge now at the Riverfront Arts center than have ever been gathered together in one place.

The total value of the exhibit is a closely guarded secret, but curator Robert Bianchi said that the art on display is worth more than the GNP of many sovereign countries in the world today. But, even knowing that, it is their beauty which makes them so exciting to see.

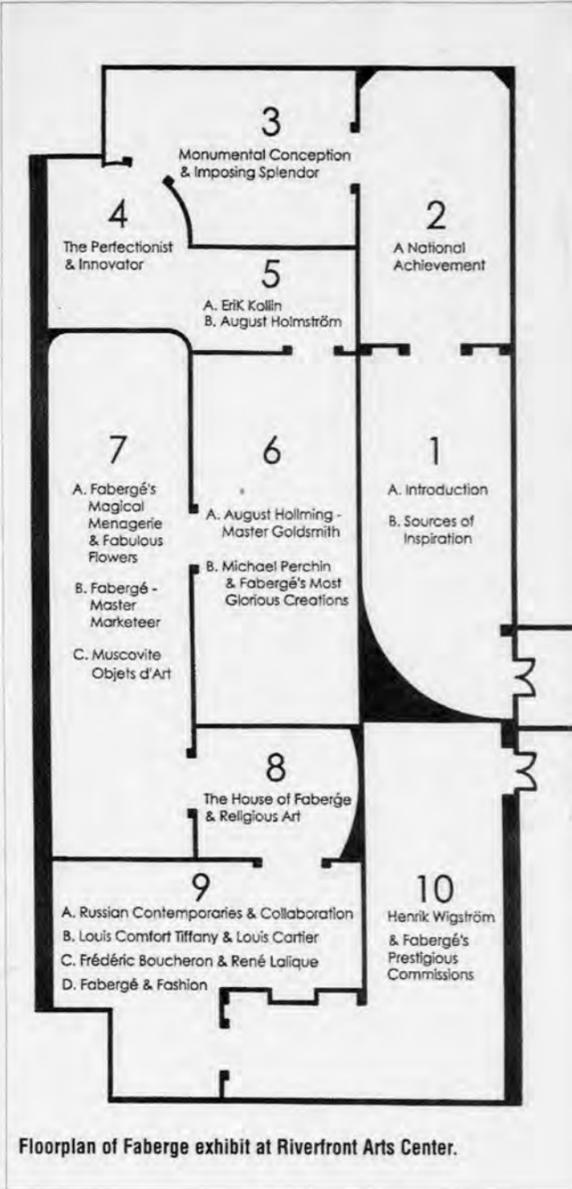

There are few large works of Faberge in existence. The Bolshevik barbarians took the jewels and melted down the precious metals to sell.

The docents are extremely well informed and happy to answer questions. There is a great book and gift shop following the last gallery. Idea: Great place to find some lovely and unusual Christmas gifts!

The box office is open for both tour groups and individual sales at 777-1600, or you may stop by the Riverfront Arts Center Tuesday through Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets are $14.50, adult; $13, seniors; youth K-12, $5; college student, $9 with a special family admission at $35.

Enjoy.

"The event you can't afford to miss!"

BEFORE SHE attended last year's Everywoman's Money Conference with friends from church, Margaret Dunnigan avoided the newspaper stock listings. Afterward, she resolved to form an investment club.

The result is LOVE — Ladies of Value and Equity.

This year's conference will again be free, fun and financially empowering. It features Barbara Stanny, author of "Prince Charming Isn't Coming." You can choose from 17 sessions on topics such as: Setting Yourself Up for Life, Money and Your Partner, and Less Debt—More Cash.

Space is limited, so register soon!

Do your feet need a hand?

The human foot is an amazing feat of engineering. Not only does this complex structure support your entire body weight, it also endures and absorbs tremendous stress when you stand, walk, run, jump and move. So it is not surprising that this everyday wear and tear can lead to pain. What is astonishing is the number of people who suffer with chronic foot problems. They assume that sore feet are a natural part of getting older. Nothing could be further from the truth.

At the Advanced Foot and Ankle Center, Doctors Raymond A. DiPretoro, Jr. and Linda L. Lawton use the most advanced surgical and non-surgical techniques to treat common as well as complex foot and ankle conditions. By targeting and correcting the root cause of the problem and restoring proper foot structure and function, patients experience real and sustained pain relief from:

- bunions
- bone spurs
- flat feet
- fractures
- hammer-toes
- heel pain
- infections and ulcerations related to diabetes
- neuromas—numbness and burning sensations
- sprains and other foot and ankle injuries

To learn more about the latest advancements in the treatment of these and other foot disorders, or to schedule an appointment, call the Advanced Foot and Ankle center today:

BAYARD AUDITORIUM NAMED FOR MUSIC TEACHER

As a tribute to Bernard M. Kosc, an instrumental music teacher for 31 years with the Christina School District, the Bayard School auditorium was named in his honor. Kosc spent the last 20 years of his career at Bayard School. PTA member Ann McMillan said at least two or three times a year, the Bayard community was treated to a Kosc-led performance by the concert band, the cadet band, the stage band, and various small ensembles.

"The Bernard M. Kosc auditorium honors a man who committed his life to the education of literally thousands of youngsters who had the good sense and fortune to play a band instrument at Bayard School," said McMillan. "This dedication is a gesture of appreciation to him and his legacy of caring, excellent instruction,"

Apps for snow removal reimbursement due

Eligible community organizations are reminded that the deadline for snow removal reimbursement applications for services within residential developments or communities, outside of incorporated areas, is Nov. 30.

Civic associations, neighborhood alliances, or homeowners associations must submit completed applications to a Delaware Department of Transportation District Office prior to the deadline in order to qualify for reimbursement. The reimbursement is for 75 percent of the actual cost of snow removal, not to exceed 75 percent of an annual cost determination analysis made by DelDOT.

Umbrella civic associations can make application on behalf of their member organizations so long as they provide a list of the other associations.

In order to be eligible for reimbursement, a snowfall must be a minimum accumulation of four inches or more, as determined by DelDOT. On the day following the completion of a storm, customers may call 1-800-652-5600 to get the official pavement accumulation measurement.

Organizations located north of the C and D Canal, who do not participate in the Program, will not receive any snow removal services.

The local contact person for this program is Lee Tunis at 323-4480.

'Outspoken women who wear pants' are as alien in Katira as cars

► Kenya, from 1

Katira included a large group of school children who, with infinite curiosity coupled with a bit of caution, ran from their playground to greet us.

Their fascination was intoxicating. It was obvious that these children do not see people from a world outside of their own very often — which explained their desire to watch every move we made, every chance they got.

Although the town had a make-shift convenience shop where glass-bottled Coke could be purchased for just a few cents, there were no hoagies or microwavable macaroni and cheese.

Instead, a group of women prepared our meals fresh from the town's crops every day. Some of our typical selections included warm peanuts, collard-green type vegetables, bananas, the occasional chicken or beef with broth and lots of potatoes.

The overwhelming favorite was the juicy pineapple we received almost daily. For beverages, we chose from coffee, hot cocoa, chai, which is hot tea with mostly milk and sugar, and passion juice.

Lunch was delivered to each of five building sites where our group worked.

Squeezing onto narrow benches to eat our dinners in a dark room lit only by candles, and frequented by a small bat, we experienced, to us, the most primitive dwelling has an area of about 24x14 feet. Inside, separate rooms were created to allow privacy for the parents.

The process for building the houses was fairly simple. First, holes needed to be dug into the ground to insert the wooden of cement and dirt to create a smooth surface and the doors and windows or shutters were installed.

It would have been impossible to build a home from start to finish in just nine days, however. Construction on the home that we completed actually began more than a month before we arrived with the help of a Fundi. This skilled craftsman, who specializes in construction, was hired by Habitat for Humanity to insure properly built and safe homes.

Habitat also requires families desiring new homes to invest hours of "sweat equity," in their house and those of others in the community.

In addition, potential homeowners must provide all locally available natural resources that can be used in construction. This helps to instill more pride in ownership.

The modern capitol city Nairobi has more in common with New York than the Kenyan village of Katira.

of lifestyles.

Modern conveniences that we take for granted were completely foreign to the villagers.

Caryn Woodard, a habitat volunteer from Chicago, Ill., brought a Polaroid camera which proved frame supporting the home's roof.

With the roof in place, rows of bamboo-type sticks were tied to the frame and packed with mud to become the walls.

In order to get the mud, we Fascinated children hung out and watched the crews before, during and after each days' work.

Both breakfast and dinner meals were eaten in a very modest, one-room dwelling that a family vacated during our visit. This was typical of Kenyan hospitality.

Habitat group leader Dennis Kent presented the community with an electric keyboard as a gift from the crew during a Sunday church service.

to be huge entertainment for locals. Another volunteer, Kristie Fox from New York City, N.Y., brought stickers and a tape recorder which were well received by kids who wound up with stickers all over their bodies while listening to their own voices being played back on tape.

Even more remarkable was the reception given us after presenting an electric keyboard to the church choir where we attended a service one Sunday.

For almost three minutes, the congregation cheered, clapped and sang songs of gratitude for the gift. It was an overwhelmingly touching response.

Living in truly foreign conditions in Kenya did not hinder our mission. With our assistance, one home was completed, three others were half-way finished and a fifth was just begun.

Constructed of a wood frame, a corrugated steel roof, mud, sticks and plaster, each of these used hoes to churn dirt in the ground, water was added and then mixed into the dirt with our bare feet. At that point, the mud needed time to dry before a cement floor could be poured.

Finally, the walls could be covered with a plaster-like blend

Women must ride sidesaddle on the Boba Boda, or taxi bicycle, the main form of transportation in Katira.

A future Habitat homeowner transported bricks about a mile to the building site for her family's house.

Habitat for Humanity building loans to the families are repayable over a five-to-10-year period and all repayments go into a revolving fund used to build more houses within their community.

Habitat for Humanity Kenya began working with communities like Katira in 1982 in Kenya's western highlands where subsistence farmers wage a daily struggle for survival.

Located just 10 kilometers from the border of Uganda, this up-country village is made up of farmers growing banana, red and Irish potatoes, barley, maize, millet, sugar cane, sorghum, pineapple, mango, oranges, avocados, beans and, one of their most profitable crops, tobacco.

Toward the end of our stay, we had our most unusual experience when the people of Katira invited us to watch the circumcision of a boy in his early teens.

According to the locals, every two years during the month of August the town holds "traditions." This is a time when boys, who believe they are ready, pass into manhood.

These young men spend a full day running throughout the village and performing a ceremonial dance at every home. Each home is at least a half-mile apart.

In celebration of the accomplishments that week, a dedication ceremony was held on our last day there. Trees were planted in the front yard of the Habitat compound and keys to a new home were given to the proud and very grateful recipient family.

There is no doubt these

Some members of the Habitat crew posed with a future homeowner midway through the construction.

The following morning they are brought to their family's residence where relatives, friends and visitors watch as a man with a sharp blade quickly executes the procedure. Afterward, each boy is quarantined for one month and fed an abundance of protein.

With HIV awareness and an

Kenyan will forever remember a few outspoken women, who occasionally wore pants, and a few men with different opinions about how a roof should be built.

Likewise, I am sure we will always remember the appreciation, gratitude, kindness and effort put forth by a community appreciation for more professional medical practices growing, some families are beginning to opt out of such traditions.

During the dedication ceremony, a husband and wife are given keys to their newly completed Habitat house.

The tradition for men to marry more than one woman is fizzling as well. One man told us that his grandfather had close to 100 wives, but he has chosen just one. To him this represented rapid change.

Local teams among state's best

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The 2000-2001 high school sports calendar certainly has already proven how competitive the teams in our area are.

Pick the sport and there's a local team having a banner year.

Soccer: St. Mark's is four-time defending state champions and favorite to win a fifth.

Glasgow won the Flight A championship and Newark has been one of the state's strongest teams all season.

Volleyball: St. Mark's has won four of the last five state championships and began the week 16-0 and favorite to win another. Newark has had a superb year under second-year coach Lisa Phipps-Ueltzhoffer and is a threat to win the conference championship.

Field hockey: Newark is having the best season it's had in years, if not ever.

Cross country: St. Mark's is having an outstanding year and Newark is also among the best teams in the state.

Football: Newark High is ranked first in the state and going after its fourth straight Division I state championship. The Yellowjackets are also on the verge of being ranked among the Top 25 teams in the nation.

It never ceases to amaze me how this community continues to produce such winning programs.

As high school sports fans we couldn't possibly live in a better part of the state.

Big game for the Hens

The University of Delaware football team gets back into action Saturday in a big Atlantic-10 game against James Madison.

The Blue Hens are 7-0 and ranked No. 2 in the country in Division I-AA. It should be a great atmosphere Saturday at Delaware Stadium. The game itself will go a long way in determining the Atlantic-10 champion. The weather has a chance to be warm and it's Homecoming. The combination should lead to a festive time for the fans.

The only problem with the plan is that the Hens have lost their last four games following open dates. Another bad omen for Delaware is the fact that the last time it was ranked as high as No. 2 in the country was in 1993. That October the Hens had a week off and came back to lose to James Madison.

Despite the uncomfortable history, look for Delaware to come out on top Saturday.

This team has too good of a defense and too much leadership to get derailed like past teams have. This team has high goals and expects to keep winning. Its determination is unlike any recent team. That combination should lead to a festive time for the team and the coaching staff.

Newark rolls again, keeps win streak

Jackets trounce A.I. 43-0

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

It was a "no contest" from start to finish as the undefeated and untested Newark High football team thrashed Alexis I. DuPont 43-0 Friday night at Hoffman Stadium.

The win improved the Yellowjackets' record to 6-0 overall and 3-0 in Flight A. They have outscored their six opponents 244-21.

This one was over early for the Tigers as the Jackets exploded for 29 first-quarter points.

"My team played hard as long as they could," said A.I. coach Tom Hogan. "But they are the best team I've seen in a long time. You could say they are the real deal."

Running back Drew Kisner led the first period assault, opening the scoring with a 55-yard run. He also played strong defense, later scoring another first-quarter touchdown on a 20-yard interception return.

Wide receiver John Parkinson and running back Nelson Drew also scored touchdowns in the first-quarter onslaught.

"We just try to execute the game plan the way the coaches showed us in practice," said junior quarterback Erec Spiese. "And we try to put as many points on the board as we can."

There were three minutes left in the opening quarter when Newark coach Butch Simpson called off the blitzkrieg and allowed the second and third teams to see plenty of game action.

"This team always plays with lots of pride and team spirit," said

Simpson. "This was also a chance to see what our younger players could do, and they performed well."

Despite the changes in personnel, Newark continued to dominate the action. The second unit moved the ball nearly with the efficiency of the first and cracked the end zone on a 16-yard run by Andrew Ficcaro near the end of the second quarter. At the half, Newark led 36-0 but it could have been worse, as the Yellowjackets had several more scores called back on penalties.

Early in the third quarter, Newark scored its final touchdown of the night on a 63-yard run by Drew. With that final score, all of the starters were given the rest of the night off.

"Newark deserves its number one ranking," Hogan said. "They are big, fast and determined and that's a hard combination to beat."

When asked if this year's edition is his best Simpson said, "That's too early to tell, we haven't won anything yet. We still have six games to play, four regular season games and two more tournament games before we can defend our title from last season."

Two defensive TDs lead Colonials

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The William Penn Colonials sent a message to the rest of the Blue Hen Conference Flight A football teams with a determined 26-0 victory over rival Christiana Saturday afternoon at Christiana's Coder Field. The Colonials may have started the season slowly, but they are now ready to put it in high gear.

This year's team may not be as ruthlessly efficient on offense and defense as previous teams, but the Colonials are now 5-1 overall and 3-0 in Flight A.

Christiana coach Marvin Spence said his defense did a credible job against the Colonials, "I thought we played well against the run, but Penn threw a few nice passes. Their defense also did a good job against us."

William Penn coach Bruce Reynolds said he was glad to come away with the victory, but it was a frustrating day.

"We didn't execute like we are capable of," Reynolds said. "But we did play well enough to win. Our defense played pretty well, so we were able to win the game."

In fact, it was a day that saw a close game look like a rout because of two great plays by the William Penn defense. With the Colonials leading 12-0 and Christiana threatening to score, linebacker Ron Kimbrough stepped in front of a Vikings' receiver to make an interception and raced 76 yards for a touchdown.

"Yes, I think that's probably the longest run I've ever made," Kimbrough said. "I was just glad to finally reach the end zone."

William Penn then added icing to the victory cake with another defensive score. This time defensive tackle Nick ears rumbled 18 yards into the end zone with a Christiana fumble. Gears was happy he didn't have to run as far as Kimbrough.

"I doubt if I could have outrun the field if had to go seventy-some yards," Gears joked.

Glasgow wins Flight A title

Dragons clinch with win over A.I.

SOCCER

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In late August Glasgow soccer coach Bob Bussiere would have been happy to see his team win one game. In late October Bussiere is ecstatic to have seen his team win the Blue Hen Conference Flight A championship.

The Dragons rallied twice from one-goal deficits and went on to beat Alexis I. DuPont 3-2 Tuesday night to improve their record to 9-3-1 overall (6-0 Flight A) and win the outright conference title.

Trailing 2-1 15 minutes into the second half, the Dragons' Matt Goff scored the equalizer from in front of the goal mouth and assist from David Nimrozi. Less than a minute later Justin Esposito booted home another goal to give the Dragons the lead.

"I knew once we got that one goal we'd be OK," Bussiere said. "We've scored a lot of goals in bunches this year. In our big games, when we get one goal, we've often got another very quick one."

Glasgow goalkeeper Matt Smith preserved the victory with several outstanding saves late in the match.

"The key for Matt is when he gives up a bad goal he needs to come back and make a good save so he doesn't sit around and get down on himself," Bussiere said. "He made some big ones for us and I think that really helped him."

A.I. took an early 1-0 lead on the first of Brian Healy's two goals just four minutes into the game.

Goff tied the game for Glasgow in the 21st minute with a 10-yard blast into the lower left corner of the net.

Healy picked up his second goal late in the first half to give the Tigers a 2-1 halftime lead.

The Dragons, however, rebounded with their two-goal flurry in the second half to earn the victory and the conference title.

"I just thought we came out flat in the first half," Bussiere said. "We need to play with desire and commitment and we didn't do that early. We have to play like that to be successful."

As far as the conference championship, Bussiere was

Blue Hens prep for James Madison

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The unbeaten and No. 2 ranked University of Delaware football team begins a difficult stretch of four games Saturday afternoon against James Madison at Delaware Stadium.

The Dukes are 5-2 (3-1 Atlantic-10) and coming off a convincing 28-14 victory over William & Mary last week. James Madison defeated the Blue Hens 21-7 last year in Harrisonburg, Va.

James Madison, co-champions last year with UMass, is also the team the Hens identified before the season as a top contender for the conference title.

"I don't want to say that we've been focusing on this game all season," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond. "But we assumed that James Madison would be the team to beat."

If it weren't for a shocking 7-6 upset loss at Rhode Island two weeks ago, JMU would be undefeated in Atlantic-10 play as well. As it stands, the Dukes are one of four teams (UMass, Richmond and Villanova) with one A-10 loss and really need a victory to keep their aspirations for the conference championship amazed at the progress his team has made from the preseason when he was concerned about inexperience and a lack of cohesion.

"I can't believe it," Bussiere said of the progress and championship. "This team has met all my expectations and beyond. They've been a great group to work with. They practice hard every day. I'm very proud of them."

The game was big for Glasgow for more than the obvious reason of clinching the conference crown.

"To be honest, we weren't playing very well over the last two weeks," Bussiere said. "We lost two of our last four games and just weren't playing as well.

We had three games left on our schedule and I thought if we lost [to A.I.] we could lose out the season. But I also thought if we won, we could win out. I thought it was that big of a game."

Glasgow finishes its season with a home game against Brandywine Saturday night and a game Tuesday afternoon at Wilmington Christian.

Christiana falls to Wm. Penn

► CHRISTIANA, from 14

Spence saw his team's record fall to 3-3 overall and 3-1 in Flight A. The Vikings loss also snapped the team's three-game winning streak.

Spence said there was a great deal of frustration on his side of the field as well, especially after a Viking punt return early in the fourth quarter was called back because of a clipping penalty. The return by Leon Morris would have put Christiana in great scoring position.

"We've had a big play called back almost every week this year," Spence said. "I'm really getting sick and tired of this stuff."

After a slow and mistake-filled first quarter by both teams, William Penn finally took a 6-0 lead in the second quarter when quarterback Felix Wilkins threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Jason Rogers.

Neither team moved the ball very well until the Colonials scored again late in the third quarter. Will less than a half-minute to lay, Wilkins tossed a screen pass to halfback Rob Edwards, who dashed 50 yards down the sideline for a score to improve the William Penn lead to 12-0 after three quarters.

With only four weeks left in the regular season, the teams are aware that any more losses could be deadly to any playoff aspirations. "Even though this was only the sixth game of the year, it was still a big game for us to win," said Kimbrough. "This could help us get in the playoffs."

The Vikings will need a lot of help to make the state tournament. They cannot afford to lose another game, but still have three-time defending state champ and No. 1 ranked Newark ahead on the schedule.

The Colonials, no strangers to post-season play having qualified for the tournament for more than 10 straight years, also have a tough season-ending battle with Newark ahead.

City to offer basketball leagues

The City of Newark will be sponsoring basketball leagues for boys and girls ages 8-9, 10-11, 12-14 and 15-18.

Registration fees are $39 for 8-9 year-old Newark residents, $44 for non-residents, $46 for 10-11 year-old residents, $51 for non-residents and $51 for 12-18 year-old residents and $56 for others.

Proof of age is required at time of registration. Registration is on-going.

Practices begin in Nov. with games beginning in early Dec. Call 366-7060 for more information.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

ADAM STULLER - ST. MARK'S

St. Mark's senior Adam Stuller has made life miserable for many teams during his career. But none more than the Spartans' archrival Salesianum.

Stuller scored all three goals in St. Mark's 3-1 victory over the Sals last week at Baynard Stadium in a matchup of the state's two top-ranked teams. It marked the second straight year that Stuller has notched three goals against Salesianum.

In addition, to the hat trick against Salesianum, Stuller scored a goal in the Spartans'

3-0 victory over Newark - another team many thought would have a chance of knocking off St. Mark's this season.

Stuller, a second-team All-State selection last year, now has 15 goals this season and 60 for his career. That puts him second on the Spartans all-time scoring list to Jason Dzielak's 73.

St. Mark's had an 11-1 record at the beginning of the week and is in good position to make a run at a fifth straight state championship.

University of Delaware fullback James O'Neal runs around end against William & Mary.

Homecoming Saturday for Hens

► HENS, from 14

"We're a little different from Delaware in that we stubbed our toe in Rhode Island," said James Madison coach Mickey Matthews. "There are a lot of good football teams in the league and a lot of football left to be played, so it would be presumptuous to say that this game will decide the championship. However, the winner will have the inside track."

As has been the case with Delaware this season, defense has been the catalyst for James Madison's success.

The Dukes are second in the league (to the Hens) in almost every defensive category.

"They're an exceptional football team and the best thing is their defense," Raymond said. It's relatively small, but they're very quick. All 11 run well. When you look at them on film, you just marvel at their quickness."

Offensively, James Madison is led by Delvin Joyce.

Joyce is listed as a tailback, but he is really an all-purpose weapon that not only runs and catches the ball, but is one of the best punt and kickoff returners in the country.

The senior holds two NCAA Division I-AA career records. He holds the totals punt return yards and the total yardage record for combined kick and punt returns.

"His returns really adds another dimension to their attack," Raymond said. "It's a problem in trying to get ready for him."

The Dukes may also have some problems in getting ready for the Hens, who will try to post an eight win season for the 23rd time but first since 1997.

"Their defense is very good," Matthews said of Delaware. "It reminds of the defenses we had when I was (an assistant coach) at Marshall. The front four is so good that the secondary can sit back and play a strong zone and wait for the opponents to make mistakes. Their team speed is great. I guess we'll find out what other teams have to do when they're trying to prepare for our defense."

On offense, Matthews noted that quarterback Matt Nagy has played much better than last season and the team speed was also very good.

Off-week jinx

In addition to James Madison, the Hens will be battling an 0-4 record in games following open dates.

In fact, the last time Delaware rose as high as No. 2 in the polls (Oct., 1993), it had an off week and then lost to James Madison.

The coaching staff has tried different remedies to combat the off-week ills, but Raymond said nobody will know if they worked until Saturday's result comes in.

Climbing the rankings

Despite having the week off, Delaware made some head way in the national rankings. Portland State and Youngstown State - both ranked ahead of the Hens last week - lost. Those two setbacks vaulted the Hens from No. 4 to No. 2.

"It means about as much as UMass being selected to win the conference championship before the season," Raymond said of the Hens' highest ranking in seven years. "But it's nice for the players. I guess it's good to hear from somebody else that you're good after we yell at them all the time."

Homecoming Saturday

Saturday's game is Delaware's Homecoming and has forced changes to the normal routine.

Game time will be at noon instead of 1 p.m. and will cost $10 to park instead of the normal $5.

Delaware is 34-11 all-time on Homecoming and holds a 23-1 record against Atlantic-10 opponents.

The Hens had won seven straight Homecoming contests before falling 42-35 to Lehigh last season.

NEWARK POST ❖ OBITUARIES

Robert Kidwell, DuPont employee

Former Newark resident Robert Neal Kidwell died on Aug. 29, 2000, in Washington, N.C.

Mr. Kidwell, age 86, worked for the DuPont Company for 33 years in Wilmington until he retired as Director of Marketing for Photo Products. He moved to Washington, N.C. in 1974.

He is survived by his wife of 60 years, Judith Kidwell, who he married on December 2, 1939; sons, Dr. Robert N. Kidwell, II of Marathon, Fla., Stephen C. Kidwell of South Lake, Texas, and Jay A. Kidwell of Kingman, Ariz.; daughter, Connie Kingman of Kennett Square, Pa.; grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Adolph F. Vellek, American Gem Society member

Newark area resident Adolph F. "Bud" Vellek died on Aug. 31, 2000.

Mr. Vellek was a member of the American Gem Society and the American Legion. He worked at Millard F. Davis Jewelers, Minster's Jewelers and Carl Doubet Jr. Jewelers.

He is survived by wife, Mildred Vellek; sons, Gary Vellek of Toronto, Canada, Don Vellek of Atlanta, Ga. and Bruce Vellek of Wilmington.

A memorial service was held at the Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery.

James Corle Jr., Navy Vietnam

War veteran

Newark resident James (Tom) Corle Jr. died on Sept. 7, 2000, at Christiana Hospital from complications of cancer.

Mr. Corle, 48, was a technical sales representative for Dianal Inc. of Pasadena, Texas. He was previously employed with ICI Americas and the DuPont Co. He attended Old Dominion College in Virginia and the University of Delaware. He was an avid fisherman and a member of the Delaware Mobile Surf Fisherman Association. He was a Navy veteran of the Vietnam War and a member of Aldersgate United Methodist Church.

He is survived by wife, Sonia Philhower Napolski Corle; sons, Jean and James Corle Sr. of Centerville; brother, Kenneth of Wilmington; sister, Sally Thomas of Houston, Texas; and grandmother, Mary Corle of Dunkirk, Ind.

A service of Christian Hope was held at Resurrection Parish Church.

Wanda Catherine Blazejewski Larsen, Advocate for Polish culture

Former Newark resident Wanda Catherine Blazejewski Larsen died on Sept. 8, 2000, at home after a long illness.

Mr. Blazejewski was born in New York City, N.Y. She retired as a teacher from the Sterck School for the Hard of Hearing in Newark in 1972 to become a homemaker. She attended school at the Newark State College and Rutgers University after receiving her high school equivalent diploma in 1964. She graduated from the University of Delaware at the age of 63 and continued her education by spending three summers studying at Polish universities in Krakow and Lublin in order to gain knowledge to better inform the public about the Polish culture. She presented many exhibits and lectures in the area on this subject. In 1979, Larsen received the highest civilian award possible from the Polish Government for her efforts to enlighten the public about the Polish culture. She also appeared at many bazaars, towns and stores as Mrs. Santa Claus for 23 years. She was active in the Girl Scouts and Grange. Larsen volunteered in the Muehlenberg Hospital in New Jersey and in the Fourth District Volunteers of the Union Hospital. Her biography, "Dear and not so Dear Memories" has been acquired by the University of Delaware Library for inclusion in the Special Books section which includes the Wanda Larsen Collection. Larsen is listed in the Heritage of Delaware Women and was a member of DELCIV (Delaware Council of International Visitors), AMPOL (Americans of Polish Descent Cultural Society), Descendent Women and the Union Hospital Volunteers. She attended the Immaculate Conception Church in Elkton, Md.

She is survived by her husband of 55 years, Louis T. Larsen; brothers, Joseph Blaze of Toms River, N.J. and Stanley Blaze of Roselle, N.J.

A service was held at Immaculate Conception Church.

Genevieve Donahoe Tatman, Newark Senior Center member

Newark resident Genevieve Donahoe Tatman died on Sept. 8, 2000, at Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Tatman, 85, was born in Mt. Cuba, Del. She graduated from Wilmington High School in 1937. She was a homemaker and a member of Holy Family Catholic Church. She was also a member of the Newark Senior Center helping with the newsletter and singing in the choir.

She is survived by son, Westley E. Tatman and wife Theresa of West Chester, Pa.; daughter, June A. Novack with whom she lived; brother, John Donahoe of Denver, Colo.; a granddaughter and two great granddaughters.

Mass of Christian Burial was held at Holy Family Church.

Ayanna Michelle Banks, infant

Newark resident Ayanna Michelle Banks died on Sept. 10, 2000.

Mrs. Banks was 20 days old. She is survived by parents, Karen Workman and Nathaniel Banks; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Workman and Delores Dorsey and Nathaniel Stanley; other relatives and friends.

Lillian M. McGough, food service worker

Newark resident Lillian M.

McGough died on Sept. 11, 2000, at Christiana Hospital of respiratory failure.

Mrs. McGough, 74, had been a homemaker for the past 20 years. Prior to that, she worked in food service. She was a member of Daughters of America and American Legion Stahl Post #30.

She is survived by daughters, Dorothy McCracken of Hartly, Patricia Shorter of New Castle, Colleen Viands of Lewes, Lillian Otto of Dover; sisters, Bettie Thornton of Virginia Beach, Va., Katie Schenning of Essex, Md., Martha Clarke of Smyrna Mills, Mass., Mary Jane Thomas of Dundalk, Md.; grandchildren and great grandchildren; nieces; nephews; and friends.

A service in Celebration of her Life was at Beeson Memorial Services of Christiana-Elkton.

Helen Marie Wisor, Meals on Wheels volunteer

Newark resident Helen Marie Wisor died on Sept. 12, 2000, at Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Wisor, 80, was a homemaker. She was a member of St. John's/Holy Angels Parish and its Sodality and the Newark Senior Center. Mrs. Wisor was a volunteer with the Meals on Wheels program.

She is survived by children, David C. Wisor of Phoenixville, Pa., Marjorie A. Guinard of Crofton, Md., Robert A. Wisor of North East, Md., Nancy J. Schmidt of Elkton, Md. and James P. Wisor of Portland, Texas; sisters, Elizabeth Gorzelsky, Marian Bunja, James Berger, both of Johnstown, Pa.;

brothers, Romayne Wolfe of Johnstown, Pa. and Larue Yeager of Ohio; grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was held at St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church.

Millard David Zeisberg

Former Newark resident Millard David "Zeis" Zeisberg died on Sept. 12, 2000, at home.

Mr. Zeisberg, 78, was born and raised in Wilmington. A graduate of the University of Virginia, he was a member of Alpha Chi Sigma Fraternity and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. His entire career was with the DuPont Company, where he was a Senior Research Engineer. He was a member of the Committee of 39, president and board member of the Newark PTA, the YMCA of Delaware, Board Member of Camp Tockwogh, Greater Newark Recreation Association, and Cecil County Arts Council. Mr. Zeisberg founded "Atoms and Us", a 1950's atomic energy citizen information group.

He is survived by children, Matthew Zeisberg of Newark, Carl Zeisberg of Elk Mills, Md., Madeline Bailey of California, Andrew Zeisberg of Baltimore Md., Mark Zeisberg of Elkton, Md.; and grandchildren.

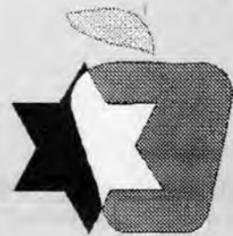

Services were privately held.

Bessie L. Ayers

Newark resident Bessie L. Ayers died on Sept. 13, 2000.

Carriage Hills

... at home in town or country

A comfortable appearance, accompanied by careful accents of brick, provide a pleasing visual effect to the exterior of the Carriage Hills. This two-story home is ideal for a sloping lot as it has an unfinished basement beneath. Total living area for the two upper floors is 1,802 square feet.

The exterior of the Carriage Hills is a combination of brick and wood. The windows each have a different look to provide the face of the home with more curb appeal. The brick facade extends to the rear of the home to give the daylight basement a unique look.

The large covered porch leads to the front entry where the formal dining room is immediately to the right through an archway. For convenience, this large open room is located within steps of the kitchen. Patio doors bring natural light into the breakfast area and offer access to the backyard.

Through an archway is the large great room, which offers a feeling of spaciousness with vaulted 13-foot ceilings and large windows on either side of the fireplace. Between the entry and the great room are the stairs both to the second floor and the unfinished basement beneath.

On the backside of the stairs are the utility and a half bath.

The master suite takes up the left side of the main floor. A private full bath includes a soaking tub enhanced with a garden window, an oversized shower, an enormous walk-in closet, and a double vanity. The spacious suite is bathed in light from the three windows facing the backyard.

Three second-floor bedrooms share a full bath and linen closet. Each bedroom has a large closet and windows to provide extra light.

The Carriage Hills would stand out in a country setting as well as in the city. While this home is a great size even without the unfinished basement, finishing the basement could provide more bedrooms, a game room, a family room, or home office space.
