'Tis the Season

Santa Claus welcomed Caitlin Clifton at the Newark Shopping Center the day after Thanksgiving.

Santa Claus comes to town

IT MUST BE CHRISTMAS. SANTA Claus is welcoming children at the Newark Shopping Center and Newark's Winterfest welcomes everyone to Main Street tonight for an old-fashioned taste of the season.

Santa Claus arrived in the traditional Newark fashion on the day after Thanksgiving — by helicopter. During the holiday season, children can visit him in his "house" near Jam'n & Java from 4 to 8 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and noon to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Sponsored by the city of Newark, the University of Delaware and the Downtown Newark Partnership, Winterfest starts at 6 p.m. tonight in the area of Academy Street.

Carriage rides, roasted chestnuts, and an ice carving exhibit will be part of the three-hour downtown celebration which also includes entertainment by Broadway Bound and Jackie LaGuardia, storytelling, face painting, balloon creations and refreshments. Many restaurants also plan specials for the evening.

At 8 p.m., festival-goers can join in holiday caroling as the Christmas tree is lit on the Academy Building lawn.

Fee for the carriage rides is $2, but most other activities are free. Santa also will be available to pose for pictures, so bring a camera.

Parking is free in municipal lots 1, 3 and 4 starting at 5:30 p.m. However, meters for on-street parking will still require payment.

For additional information, call 366-7036. Raindate is tomorrow. For event status on that date, call 366-7187.

NVF plan on the move

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

JEFF LANG'S PLAN for 176 apartments and 26,000 square feet of commercial space at the former National Vulcanized Fibre site off Old Paper Mill Road is finally on its way.

The city's Planning Commission voted to recommend the rezoning, major subdivision, site plan and special use permit to allow extensive redevelopment on the 19.9-acre industrial site.

A "hodgepodge of decaying industrial buildings" containing 400,000 square feet of space will become about 220,000 square feet of restaurant/retail space and five apartment buildings.

In response to comments on his plan tabled in November, Lang and his team at Commonwealth Management made additional modifications to the final proposal.

"It's a pleasure to be here again with this interesting plan," Lang said as he started his presentation.

Rainbow expanding in Newark

Joe Maxwell continued to demonstrate his faith in the future of Main Street with plans presented to the city Planning Commission this week to expand his already extensively renovated Rainbow complex.

Maxwell, who presently operates Rainbow Records, and Rainbow Books and Music, at 54, 56, and 58 E. Main, wants to demolish the 1940s property at number 56 and replace it with a building adjoining number 58.

"The new building would have three apartments on a second floor and approximately 2,800 square feet of retail space would be added to the bookstore allowing Rainbow Books to expand its selection of books and children's section," explained Maxwell.

Maxwell, who has operated music stores on Main Street for 20 years, purchased the former mini-mall at number 58 in 1996 and completely gutted the interior first floor before renovating and opening a new and expanded store at this location.

Maxwell and his brother, James, continued to operate Rainbow Records at 54 and 56 E. Main with

The girls observed that two men were walking east on Main Street and staring at them.

The three told police one of the men pulled out a black handgun. Then the other man placed a wine bottle he was carrying on the sidewalk and pulled out a black handgun also. The boy drove to Newark Shopping Center where they notified a security guard about what had happened. Newark Police searched the area unsuccessfully for the two men, described as white males, 27 to 33 years old, one 5 feet, 10 inches tall, stocky, with black hair, shaved on the top and sides, wearing a black leather jacket and jeans, the other 5 feet, 8 inches tall with a thin build, blonde hair cut short, wearing glasses with circular lenses and a maroon or brown jacket. Pre-teen charged in stabbing

A 12-year-old Brookmont youth was arrested on Nov. 30 for stabbing his 20-year-old sister with a knife. County police were sent to the home on Raven Turn for a report of a domestic dispute and found the two siblings had a verbal altercation. The sister was not injured. The boy was charged with aggravated menacing, possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony and terroristic threatening.

Home repair fraud

New Castle County police issued two felony warrants in a home improvement fraud which occurred in the community of Salem Trace. The police reported on Nov. 24 that Timothy Narcott allegedly received money and agreed to build a deck for a resident of Maple Shade Drive but never completed the work. Narcott's last known address was in the 800 block of Liberty Boulevard in New Castle. Anyone who believes Narcott or the CJ Construction Company may have deceived them is asked to call 571-7930.

Adults take the student's test

Parents test skills on state test

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In preparation for the Dec. 17 release of scores from the test taken by students last May, citizens throughout the state had a chance to sample the Delaware Student Testing Program on Tuesday.

Take the Test Day presented an abbreviated edition of the test, to be given to students in grades 3, 5, 8 and 10 each May, at shopping malls, retail stores and McDonald's restaurants in the Newark area.

Interested persons could try their skills at a Reading selection as well as four Mathematics questions normally posed to students in each grade. "What we were trying to do was to make people aware of the test and what the test contains," said Alexis Andrianopoulos, public information officer for the Department of Education. "We want these tests to be as public as possible so people know how to use the scores."

Andrianopoulos said the scores will point out every area in which a student is weak. A written narrative will be given to teachers and parents with suggestions on how to help the student in those areas.

Education specialist Colleen Wozniak was at the McDonald's on South College Avenue to answer questions about the test.

"I'm a parent myself and I know if I didn't work for the state I wouldn't have any idea what the test is like," Wozniak said. "Parents want to know, 'how well can my child do — is my child going to be okay with these tests?'"

Starting in the spring of the 1999, the test will be used to determine if a student should advance to the next grade level. Last year the test covered two subject areas:

math and language arts. Language arts was broken into sections covering reading and writing. This year, science and social studies sections will be added.

While Andrianopoulos has had complaints from teachers and parents who say the test is too difficult, others are supportive.

"We've heard both sides," she said. "While some people don't agree with the test, there are just as many people who say, 'yes, this test is hard but it should be, so the students are ready after high school.'"

Plan for NVF site finally ready

"You must be a masochist," joked city planning director Roy Lopata.

Lang explained that the developers will reduce the number of units in the two apartment buildings and required parking on the hill at the end of Annabella Street. "This will create more open space for the tenants as well as the local residents," said Lang. "We reduced the density from the proposed 57 units to 40 on the hillside and relocated 12 of these units to the lower site."

Lang also pointed out that the new plan created additional open space on both the hillside and the top of the property where four buildings have been consolidated into two. "This has increased our overall open space to in excess of 55 percent of the site," said Lang.

Commission members and residents from Annabella Street liked the changes but were still concerned about loss of the community garden which the residents had created over the years at the north end of the street.

After considerable discussion, the commissioners added a condition to the recommendation requiring Commonwealth to enlarge the deadend area on Annabella Street. Parking with limited assigned spaces and general reserved spaces at the end will further reduce the amount of parking lot needed for buildings three and four of the complex.

Lang also convinced the commissioners to allow for the possibility that building one with a planned restaurant might have to be rebuilt instead of reused. "If deemed advisable by our consultants after further

"We want to get in and save as much as possible."

review, we would like to reserve the right to demolish and reconstruct buildings of similar architectural appearance within the existing footprints," said Lang.

He further explained that the additions to the buildings over a century had resulted in many different elevations in flooring, making marketable reuse of the space almost impossible. "We would like to use the existing floors but if we have to raise the different elevations to make them usable, it might not be economically feasible," he said.

The commissioners settled for a condition requiring Lang to substantially reuse the buildings with portions reconstructed where necessary.

Access from Race and Deandale streets will be maintained as private roads with public access permitted. Access will be closed off from the new complex to Annabella Street in order to allow Annabella to maintain its residential character.

In response to questions about traffic, Lang claimed that his studies indicated that residential usage would generate the fewest trips. "I know that traffic is a great cause for concern, however, (our analyses show) if this property was redeveloped as an office or retail property, it would generate far more trips," he said.

The plan now goes to city council for additional review and possible approval. Lang said he is anxious to begin working on the multi-million dollar project which will be built in phases.

"Insurance issues and fires are a continuing concern," he noted. "We want to get in and save as much as possible — the roof of one building is failing already. With every month we lose, there is potential for more damage."

New system provides instant crime info

Newark Police will soon have equipment in their vehicles which will give them direct access to the local dispatchers, the Delaware Criminal Information System, and the National Crime Information computer.

"This is a great time-saver," said Police Chief William Hogan. "It's sometimes called 'silent dispatch,' and also allows officers to go on-line and talk vehicle-to-vehicle as well as to the central dispatchers."

At the present time, patrol officers must relay their requests through the communications dispatcher. "With mobile data computers, officers can check themselves to see if an individual is wanted, if a car is stolen, and verify information on a driver's license or vehicle registration."

Hogan said every transaction is recorded on the system's hard drive which provides backup information for the records. "This system is already used in more than 500 police departments," he told city council.

Eventually, the system also will provide officers in the department's 15 patrol vehicles with the capabilities to write and print reports as well as upload and download files.

"Real time crime reporting" will allow officers to use mobile data computers in the field to complete investigative reports and send them over the radio frequency to the police department's records management system," explained Hogan. "The reports can then be sent to the State (making them available to other jurisdictions) via a special, high-speed telephone data transmission line which will be supplied by the State."

The system also eliminates handwritten field reports and allows the data to be entered directly into the local and state systems, thus saving time and errors.

"Most importantly, the data will be available for immediate crime analysis," said Hogan. "This will allow agencies to work more closely to identify and prosecute perpetrators."

Funding for the project was provided with $93,075 from a COPS More 1996 Federal Grant, and $85,171.35 from a Police Technology State Grant. The system will cost approximately $5,300 annually for upgrades and system maintenance.

Rainbow records set to expand

independent, alternative and imported recordings, as well as used CDs.

The Planning Commission agreed to recommend Maxwell's subdivision plan to city council with the understanding that the new building's architectural design will match that of the existing Rainbow Books and Music facility.

"I believe our vision of downtown Newark and our commitment to an esthetically pleasing appearance is evident in our conversion of what was an extremely dark and foreboding mini-mall into an award-winning building," said Maxwell. "The facade of the new building (will be) of the same materials and color as the existing building."

Commissioner Jan Baty voted against the plan because she said she wanted to make a statement about the facade. "I thought it would be fun to play around with different ideas," said Baty. "For instance, a gable roof would be more expensive to do but easier to maintain."

Architect David Dalby told the commissioners that they had considered other ideas. "We decided to extend the existing appearance because the new building is really not large enough to take on an appearance of its own," he said.

Commissioner Madeline Frame questioned the 22-space parking waiver which was also part of the plan, saying parking continued to be a concern.

"The walking trade is very heavy at that end of (Main Street)," explained city planning director Roy Lopata. "In addition, the tenants will be advised before they lease that there is no on-site parking — that has worked fairly well with other apartments at that end of the street."

According to Maxwell, the three approximately 900 square-foot apartments will be high quality with Internet and cable-access in all rooms. "These may help relieve some of the pressure local residential neighborhoods are feeling," he said. "I also can tell you that the parents who bring their kids here want these because their kids don't have cars and they can walk to campus."

The city's Subdivision Advisory Committee also noted that the use of the "cash in lieu of spaces" formula at this site will provide some funding for the city's efforts to secure additional parking downtown. The property will also be deed-restricted to specify validated parking in city lots for all businesses at the location during all hours of business operation.

Medicare HMO info on TV and at meeting

In an ongoing effort to assist Medicare beneficiaries affected by the withdrawal of Medicare HMOs from Delaware, Commissioner Donna Williams announced she is making additional information available.

A 30-minute video program production entitled "Medicare in Delaware," produced by the federal Health Care Financing Administration, gives an in-depth yet easy to understand overview of Medicare beneficiaries' options. The program will air on local cable TV stations throughout the state for the next weeks.

Suburban Cable will carry the program every Monday at 6:30 p.m. following first State News on Channel 2 (Headline News Network) through Dec. 14. WITN Channel 22 will present it every day at 9:30 a.m., and 12:30 and 5:30 p.m. through Dec. 31.

Tri-State Cablecom will have the program on Channel 40 Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 6 p.m. through Dec. 31.

Due to high demand, Williams will also hold an additional public information meeting on Dec. 15 at 10 a.m. at Claymore Senior Center, 504 S. Clayton Street, Wilmington.

Across the country, HMO companies have canceled their contracts with the federal government to deliver Medicare to seniors, effective Jan. 1, 1999. In Delaware, 11,000 Medicare beneficiaries are affected. While Medicare is not in its jurisdiction, the Insurance Department can provide information and counseling through its Elderinfo Program.

'Art club' trims tree at Amtrak station

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Margo Johnson's Art Club at Bancroft Elementary School is only supposed to meet once a week. But this year's group is so enthusiastic, they even spend their lunchtimes working on projects.

"This is a real working lunch for them," said Johnson who has taught art at Bancroft for the past 17 years.

The students have an art class once a week but also come to Johnson's room before school begins to work on their creations. "At lunchtime, they bring their lunches and eat and work at the same time," said Johnson with a laugh. "They call it the 'art club cafe.'"

This week, 10 of the 25 club members from the 5th and 6th grades went to the Amtrak station in Wilmington to decorate a tree with Faberge-style eggs. "The students made the eggs out of styrofoam and papier-mache and decorated them with sequins, plastic jewels, yarn, paint and gold spray," explained Johnson.

Johnson said she has been decorating this tree and others in Wilmington for 20 years.

"I always did papier-mache angels but we decided to try different materials and ideas this year and the kids took to it like ducks to water," said Johnson. "What they made was damn good — I was surprised."

Other members of the art club will decorate windows in the waiting area of the Pediatric Ward at Wilmington Hospital this season. "I was going to retire next year but this group is so great, I may change my mind," said Johnson.

A job well done

THIS MONTH'S PLANNING Commission meeting was not a short one but it was vastly better than last month's record-breaking marathon lasting almost five hours.

More importantly, members arrived organized, focused and ready to address the proposals on the agenda.

Chairman Joseph Wald came prepared with his written assessment of the questions and alternatives posed by the biggest item of the night, the previously tabled rezoning and subdivision of the former National Vulcanized Fibre site off Paper Mill Road.

His concisely worded and well-thought out memorandum came in handy when it was time to vote after almost three more hours of discussion.

Wald also kept the straying into non-agenda territory to a minimum and helpfully reminded commission members of their authority and functions on the various proposals.

The massive NVF plan received close and, at times, argumentative scrutiny from both the commission and the public. But such an important redevelopment on one of the largest remaining sites in Newark deserved nothing less.

Some of the discussion about the architecture of the new Rainbow building became redundant but the commissioners kept one eye on the clock and managed to arrive at consensus in reasonable order.

We want to make it clear that we applaud both the volunteer commissioners and the members of the general public who attend the various city meetings and wait, sometimes for hours, to voice their opinion on a project.

No one knows better than those of us, who record their efforts, of the sacrifice it takes to be that involved. But all the more reason to consider carefully what needs to be said and what must be said in order to bring a given matter to a successful conclusion.

Tuesday was another job well done for a hard-working Newark committee. Thank you.

A few good men

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

IN AN ERA WHEN INAPPROPRIATE conduct at the highest levels of society is tolerated and evildoers are rewarded with talk show appearances and lucrative book contracts, it is rewarding to see that good behavior still merits admiration.

Evidence to support this statement is found in several recent news stories, all of them, unfortunately, about prominent citizens who recently died.

First, let us consider Louis L. Redding, Delaware's preeminent civil rights leader, whose achievements in the advancement of human rights were compared in importance to the accomplishments of James Madison, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. For more than two hours, participants attending his memorial service celebrated his life with expressions of debt, gratitude and affection.

Closely tied to Lawyer Redding was Judge Collins J. Seitz, whose historic rulings on so-called "separate but equal public schools" preceded and influenced the, 1954 Supreme Court case, Brown versus Board of Education, that ended segregation in our nation's public schools.

These decisions created wide-ranging controversy when first announced, but how is Judge Seitz regarded today? A News-Journal editorial stated, in part, "Collins J. Seitz became the conscience of the nation. He was a mild mannered man who did not seek con-

Traveling with the Ugly American

By JAMES STREIT

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

RETURNING FROM A THANKSGIVING trip to Jacksonville and Fort Myers, Fla., I was witness to the Ugly American at its worst.

It had been a while since I last had endured the joys of holiday travel. I vividly remember that two-hour scream fest on a crowded New York Air flight that my 2-year-old son, Tyler, subjected all 137 passengers to back in 1986. The airline's bright red apple logo was plastered everywhere inside the cabin but failed to calm Tyler. His (and our) pain spurred my wife and I to an important decision. For the past decade or so, we have cooked turkey, not packed suitcases.

So it was with a bit of thankful naiveté that we accepted the Florida invitation. Sunshine and wine coolers sounded much better than dirty turkey roasters and a house full of relatives.

In a rare spell of brilliance, we scheduled our flight about 24 hours ahead of the pre-Thanksgiving crest. We scouted the lots at BWI in advance so that parking wasn't a nightmare.

Other than a 90-minute unexplained delay, our southward excursion was uneventful. Even all of our bags arrived with us though my hard-shelled, olive green Samsonite (circa 1970) mysteriously had been re-

Baltimore firm gets contract for new school

Contracts were signed yesterday afternoon in the office of the Delaware School Auxiliary in Wilmington for the erection and equipment of the new School building for the Newark School District.

After many months of waiting, residents of the town and community, as well as members of the local board expect to witness the actual beginning of the work in the course of a week or two. The building will be located on Academy Street, south of Delaware Avenue.

The contract for the actual construction of the building was awarded to the Northeastern Construction Company, of Baltimore, Md. Their bid was $181,000 even.

Community tree presents problem

With the approach of the holiday season, the question of whether Newark shall have another community Christmas tree on the Academy lawn has been again agitated.

Council was asked to financially back the erection of the tree. After a lengthy discussion, the Councilmen decided that in view of the heavy expenses of the past year, they would not be equal to assuming the entire bill, but would be glad to contribute to any fund being raised.

Maryland electric may extend into Delaware

The announcement made a few days ago to the effect that the Eastern Powers Company, a big concern owning plants throughout lower Chester County, Pa., and Cecil County, Md., is planning to run lines down through the Eastern Shore, is causing considerable interest among nearby residents.

Likelihood of the Company to run lines from the Iron Hill and Cooch's district is not probable, however, according to word from their Elkton office.

The current for these lines will come from the new dam at Conowingo, now being constructed.

Ecologist boils over beltway talk

At its last meeting, Newark City Council voted to eliminate large truck traffic from Park Place, which runs from S. Chapel Street to Elkton Road.

But as the Park Place residents attending the council meeting spoke against the trucks and in favor of quiet, Newark Mayor William M. Redd and Councilman James P. Neal (District 1) revived the drawn out and controversial issue of the proposed Newark beltway.

City leaders to study revitalization

Representatives of the city of Newark and the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce are visiting New London, Connecticut, this week - hoping to find out how that New England community receives and spends its share of Federal money.

Fred Rohm, executive vice president of the chamber, and Jon Ellestad, assistant to Newark City Manager Peter S. Marshall, will drive up to New London on Thursday and spend at least two days talking to New London city officials.

Metts remains mum on bussing decision

Christina School Superintendent Iris Metts is hush about Tuesday's proposed consent order to end court ordered desegregation in her district and three others.

Bob Reynolds, Christina School District's public information officer, said Metts and officials from other affected districts - Red Clay, Colonial and Brandywine - have made a pact to hold public comment until a later date.

Passenger rail is Newark bound

Commuter rail service from Newark to Wilmington could be coming as soon as April 1994.

Tom Hickey of the Delaware Railroad Administration said the department hopes to sign with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA) this month.

He said SEPTA will run the service of carrying passengers but Amtrak has to agree to let SEPTA use their railroad tracks.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To: Editor
From: Virginia Harper
Former Newark resident

It seems to me that some uncaring people have been romping over the graves of those buried in the Newark Cemetery near North Chapel Street and Cleveland Avenue. I've seen evidence of "party-time" activities there.

Since my son's recent burial there, I often frequent his gravesite, but I was very disheartened to see some left-behind beer cans and discarded candle remains at a nearby gravestone, the very spot where flowers are usually placed. At a closer glance I noticed a deep imprint of a square ended cane or that of one's heel right on my son's grave. What a display of disrespect.

Like myself, many people go to the graves of their loved ones to express their love for those they miss so dearly. We take flowers to honor their memory and spend time in quiet meditation and, of course, we shed our tears. A lot of tears have watered the graves over the years, that's for sure.

We have the right to go there, but those who trample and romp over the graves have no right to be there at all. Let them romp and party in their own backyard.

The everyday traffic of those who take a short-cut through the cemetery is another unpleasantness. The traffic offenders seem to come from the Cleveland Avenue area. They have even broken down fences in order to get to Main Street more quickly, taking the short cut route through the cemetery.

Even as a young girl I walked many blocks to get from Cleveland Avenue to my school. I never considered the graveyard there as anything but a place I respected and I held it with much reverence.

Another issue to note, if I may, is the up-keep of the cemetery itself. As I went to my son's gravesite for many weeks, it was disturbing to see that the unsightly dried-up flowers, the weathered baskets and ribbons were still there.

In my daughter's disgust, she took upon herself the chore of removing the remains of the once beautiful blankets of flowers and such. She carefully chose to carry it to a nearby tree near the railroad fence — away from disturbing anyone's grave. She honored her brother's resting place and had to get rid of all that eyesore.

But, to this day, it's still under the same tree, never touched by human hands since my daughter put it there. It would only take two, only two hands, to give the tree back its eloquence and dignity without all that clutter.

I do hope that the cemetery will always be a place of solace and a quiet undisturbed place for me and others to celebrate the memory of our loved ones each time we go there.

Travel turns ugly at holiday time

► STREIT, from 8

inforced by packing tape.

The return trip was a significantly different story as we watched the American public exhibit its worst while dealing with the same problems as the Streits.

After returning our rental car to appointed spot Z-99, where the terminal barely was in sight and sky-caps were not, we arrived breathless at the ticket counter to learn that our flight was delayed. (I was hardly annoyed. I was distracted trying to get feeling back into my fingers after carrying the 40-pound meshed bale of grapefruits the four miles to the check-in counter.)

This time, the delay was explained as "engine trouble." (I spent much of the idle wait time trying to decide whether it was good or bad news that we were delayed.)

I listened as people first sweet-talked, then loudly demanded, seats on the overbooked planes to LaGuardia. The airline staff, who seemed to have "closed" etched into their facial expressions, politely said "no," often over and over again to the same pushy travelers.

I watched as a woman argued mid-aisle (with dozens of people blocked in the queue behind her) that her carry-on luggage was not too large even though she — with the force of her sizeable body behind her — could not cram it in the appointed space at her feet.

After a few minutes, the standstill crowd grew impatient and started chastising the human blockage as she demanded a ruler from the flight attendant.

I tapped my foot to calm my nerves after midnight Tuesday morning as the world's dumbest rent-a-cop decided to check every baggage claim ticket belonging to every bag owned by every passenger on the three-hour delayed Jacksonville-to-BWI flight. Thank God he did; no one stole the grapefruits.

Outside the airport, I watched open-mouthed as an angry traveler used a golf club to smash all the windows of a car that had jumped the line at the curb.

My family nodded off in our car as I dove up I-95 and lamented the impatience and ugliness of our fellow-travelers, the inconsiderate few who made a flight miserable for many, and how relaxed, friendly attitudes could have made the nightmare bearable.

Then, without warning, my faith in the traveling public was restored. The Baltimore Harbor Tunnel toll taker actually smiled AND offered "thank you!"

frontation. But he was also a man of high principle and keen mind. He did not shrink from doing what was right.

Noting that Judge Seitz "had the foresight and fortitude to do what was right and just," Sen. Joseph R. Biden, Jr., has disclosed that he has recommended to President Clinton that Judge Seitz be posthumously awarded the Medal of Freedom, an honor previously bestowed on Dr. Martin Luther King, Justice Thurgood Marshall and Gen. Collin Powell. Sen. Biden correctly observes that Judge Seitz "was a man of unparalleled courage who profoundly changed America with his bold decision."

Totally unrelated to civil rights was another lengthy obituary appearing in October in the New York Times. It dealt with the death of the noted actor Roddy McDowall, whose long career began in Hollywood at age seven and continued through 130 motion pictures and countless plays and television appearances.

In assessing his career, which included roles in the film classics, "How Green Was My Valley" and "Lassie Come Home", and the later "Planet of the Apes" series, writer Mel Gussow stated: "In a business marked by competitiveness and coldbloodedness, he was known as a man to be trusted. His sense of loyalty could be traced back to his earliest years, when he took heart and also a moral lesson from those idealistic films that first made his reputation."

Though they represent widely different backgrounds and professions, Louis L. Redding, Collins J. Seitz and Roddy McDowall became successful without sacrificing honor or integrity. They deserve not only recognition for their significant accomplishments, but our respect for the quality of their lives.

Choosing and caring for live Christmas trees

Buying, decorating, then planting an evergreen tree that has been dug rather than cut would seem to be a practical and economical way to celebrate Christmas and landscape the yard. Careful choice of a plant and proper care indoors will greatly improve your chances of gaining a healthy permanent addition to your yard.

Nurseries and Christmas tree growers both may offer balled and burlapped trees at this time of year. Some may even allow you to tag a tree in the field for later digging near a date that suits you.

Look for a well-shaped, rich green tree of a species you admire. White and scotch pines are popular choices as are Douglas-fir and spruces. Florists and other outlets also have small container-grown spruces and pines. Many of these are already decorated with ornaments and a foil-wrapped pot.

Care for any of these live trees is very similar. Remember that these species are not adapted to indoor culture. Our homes are too dry and hot in the winter for them to tolerate for more than about two weeks. For a balled and burlapped tree, provide a large container that will allow you to display the tree standing in two inches of water. Do not allow a potted plant to stand in water, but be prepared to water it as soon as the soil surface feels dry.

Place the tree away from hot air registers, and limit the time decorative lights are turned on. Have the planting hole outdoors dug as soon as you know the size needed. Cover the excess dirt with a tarp to keep it from washing away.

Plant the tree as you would any other, but remember that frozen dirt will be difficult to distribute evenly and pack down. Air pockets in the planting can be deadly to a tree. Watering down the soil as several inches of dirt are layered in can help remove air and settle the soil. Stake the tree loosely to prevent major movement due to wind. Do not fertilize the tree until late in the following winter.

If inclement weather delays planting, hold the tree in an unheated building with the root ball standing in two inches of water. Heft the pot of a smaller tree to determine how heavy it feels. Water when the top of the soil is dry or the pot feels light.

Dancing to the music is worth it

KATHRYN E. TURNER of Newark is preparing for her ninth performance in The Nutcracker.

Ballet has been almost a lifelong pursuit for the senior at St. Mark's High School.

According to her mother, as a toddler Turner walked around the house on the balls of her feet, dancing to any and all music. "Her older brothers, Richard, Michael and Patrick, were often heard yelling 'Mom, make her stop!'" said an amused Jane Turner.

At the age of three, Turner saw her first Nutcracker ballet and said, "I want to do that."

The next year, she convinced her parents to allow her to enroll in classes at the Newark Ballet.

Jane Turner said there were often days the 4-year-old didn't want to go to class but she always chose to register for the next term.

In 1989, Turner auditioned and earned a part as a child in the opening party scene of Delaware Dance Company's Nutcracker.

Over the years, school and Girl Scouts became part of her life but her main focus remained on dance. With routine classes and master's classes, Turner continued her dance training. She made progress and was selected for more difficult roles.

PHOTOS SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Newark resident Kathryn Turner, now a senior at St. Mark's High School, knew she wanted to be a ballet dancer ever since she saw her first Nutcracker at age three.

At age 11, Turner was considerably taller than most of her peers and had difficulty controlling her growing body. Perseverance and determination kept her going through the next several years when she was often too tall for some parts but not advanced enough in training for others.

In 1994, Turner realized she needed additional training. After attending a performance by the Wilmington Ballet, she auditioned to become a student with Victor Wesley at the Academy of the Dance. Wesley challenged her regarding her height. "When you walk into a room, you will attract attention," he noted. "What will you do to keep it?"

Now a surprisingly graceful dancer at six feet, Turner will perform as the lead Arabian dancer and as a Dew Drop Fairy in the second act of the traditional holiday favorite. She will also have parts in the snow ballet scenes in the first act. "The leads are parts that eluded her in the past," said the proud Jane Turner.

In the future, Turner plans to seek a fine arts degree in dance to pursue a career in dance education and choreography.

The Wilmington Ballet's production of The Nutcracker will be held on Dec. 18, 19 and 20 at The Playhouse in Wilmington. For information, call 656-4401.

Morris house has holiday tours

The newly-renovated Judge Morris House on Polly Drummond Hill Road will be open for a special holiday celebration during December.

Those visiting the home in Newark will see the Morris family as they prepare for the holidays in 1939, the year after Morris purchased the property and renovated it in the Colonial Revival style.

Delaware State Parks is offering the special holiday presentation which freezes a moment in time when the visitor will witness an era through the eyes of those who were there.

Join Mary Smith Morris, the Judge's only daughter, as she takes guests on a tour of the house. The Morris family have been preparing their home for the holidays and are quite proud of it. Following a tour of the house guests will gather in the living room for the traditional singing, cider, and cookies.

As a result of painstaking research, the Morris House has been restored to the look that the Judge intended in 1938. Radios will be playing the news of the day while Mary Morris shows all the accomplishments of the past year.

Tour dates and times are Dec. 11 to 13, and Dec. 19 and 20 at 3, 5, & 7 p.m. The cost is $10 per person. For reservations or information, call 836-7665.

THE SIDELINE

It all comes down to this weekend for area high school football teams and their fans. Middletown will face Archmere on Saturday night at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium for the Division II state title while Newark will take on Caesar Rodney at Middletown Friday night for the Division I crown. Both Newark and Middletown are seeking repeat championships and back-to-back undefeated seasons.

ALL THUMBS

UP: To the Newark High football team. The Yellowjackets just keep on winning. They don't get overconfident and they don't play down to the competition.

UP: To the William Penn High football team. The Colonials lost two of their first three games but did a great job of coming back to make the state tournament.

DOWN: To whomever scheduled the Division II state title game at Baynard Stadium. Newark High would've been the more appropriate place to play the contest.

GAMES OF THE WEEK

The state football tournament championship games will be played this weekend. The action gets underway with Friday night's game between Newark and William Penn (oops, I mean Caesar Rodney). It's, in fact, the first time in four years that the Jackets and Colonials have not squared off in the Division I final. The Division II championship game will be played Saturday night at Baynard Stadium in Wilmington. The game was originally scheduled for 12:30 at William Penn. However, the fact that SATs are being offered Saturday morning threw a wrench into those plans.

Newark seeks second straight title

Jackets blank Wm. Penn in semifinal

The three elements Newark used all season — the running of halfback Richie Parson, a strong defense and the ability to hit big offensive plays — were evident in the Yellowjackets' 14-0 playoff victory over William Penn.

The victory Saturday evening in front of an estimated 3,500 fans at Hoffman Stadium put Newark into the state championship game for a record fourth consecutive season.

Parson rushed for 146-yards on 17 carries. However, it was the Yellowjackets' dominant defense which again held the game scoreless until the offense could hit a big play.

Newark's defense held the Colonials to 108-total yards from scrimmage while recording four sacks and two interceptions. Yellowjacket senior linebacker Justin Caserta said the key was stopping William Penn quarterback B.J. Davis.

"Davis is their best player," said Caserta, who had 12 tackles. "He can throw the ball, he can run the ball. We know if we stopped him we stop the entire offense."

Davis accounted for 61-yards — 12-rushing and 49-passing.

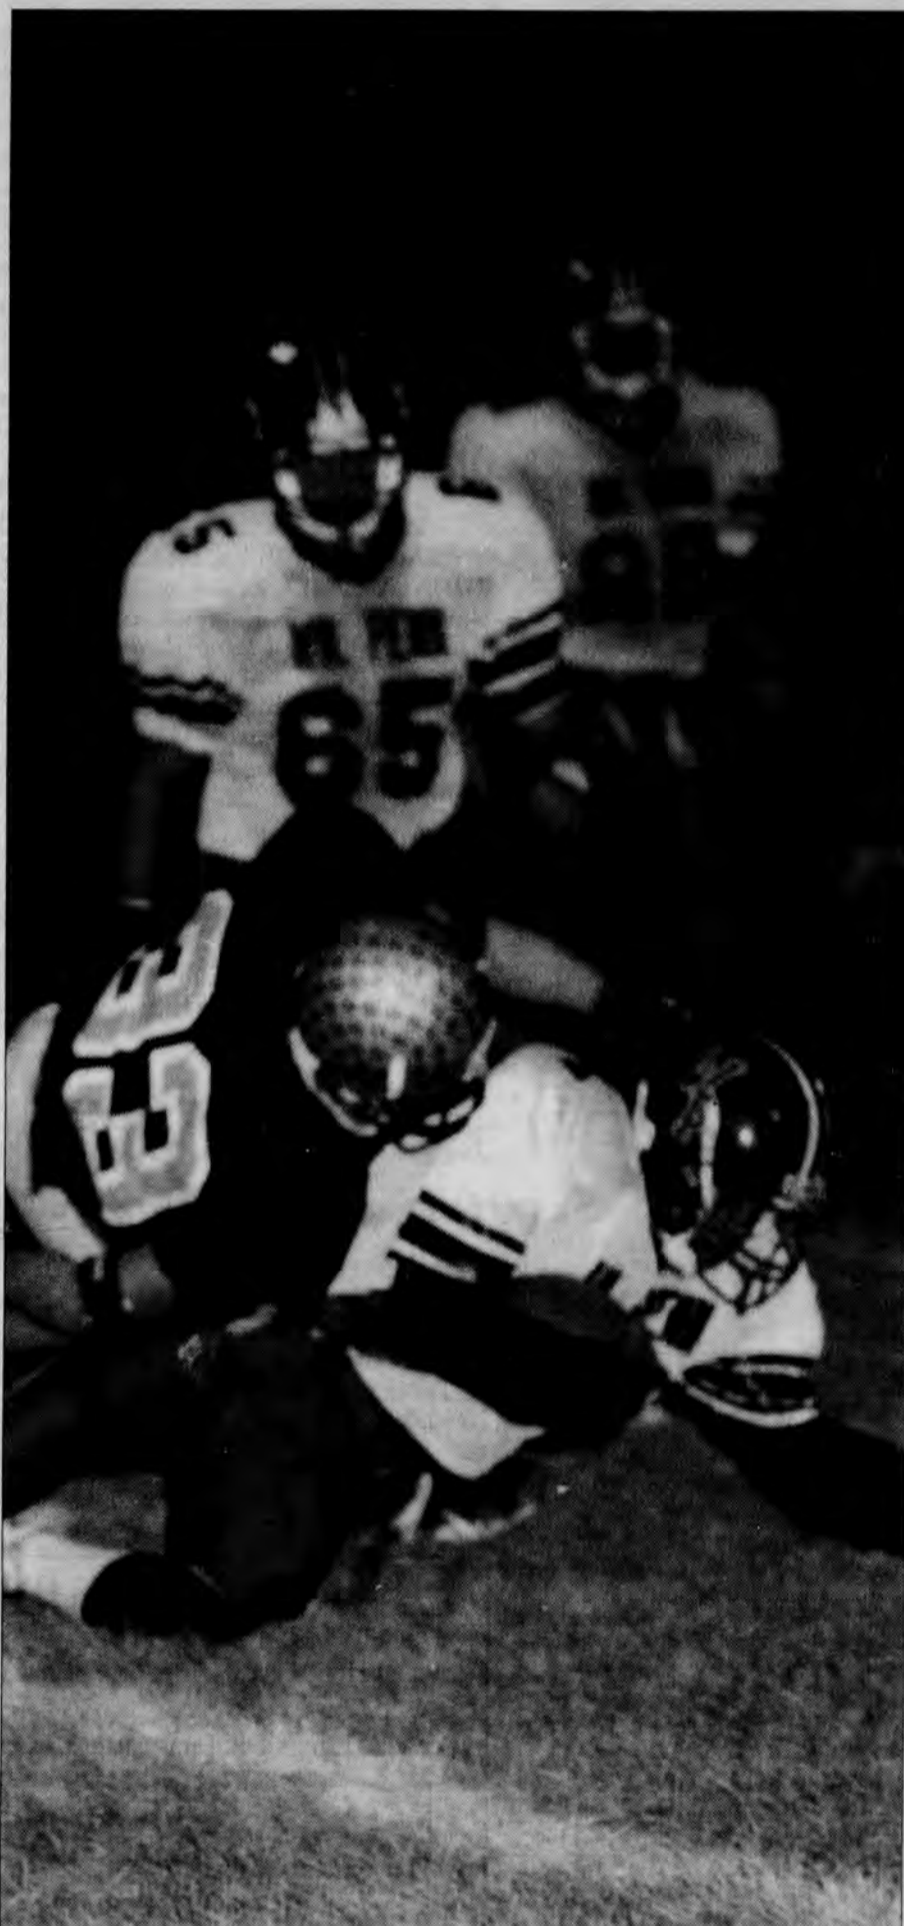

Linebacker Danny Strengari also had 12 tackles.

The big offensive play came with just 46-seconds left in the first half. After forcing William Penn to punt deep within its own territory, the Yellowjackets took possession at the Colonials' 44-yard line. On the possession's first play, Brandon McClennon split two William Penn defenders down the field and caught a Charlie Porter pass for the touchdown.

"That play was huge," William Penn coach Bruce Reynolds said. "[McClennon] got behind the coverage. That should never happen, but they capitalized on it and broke open what was a 0-0 game. I thought the game was pretty even up to that point."

With 1:38 left in the third quarter, Newark finalized the scoring when Ty Broomer's one-yard touchdown run capped off an 80-yard drive. All eight

Will face C. Rodney in championship

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Surprise, surprise. Newark High will play for the Division I state football championship.

In fact, the Yellowjackets will be making an unprecedented fourth straight appearance in the final game of the Delaware High School Division I Football Tournament. The three previous trips saw Newark face William Penn. The Jackets lost the first two but prevailed 7-0 last season.

After dispatching of William Penn 14-0 in the semifinals last Saturday night, the top-seeded and undefeated Jackets (11-0) will return to Middletown (site of last year's game) Friday night to take on Caesar Rodney. The team will not only be seeking its second straight state title, but its 24th straight victory as well.

The third-seeded Riders, who knocked off second-seeded Cape Henlopen 27-26 last week, enter the game with a 9-2 record. CR lost to both Cape (25-6) and Newark (33-17) during the regular season.

"I believe Caesar Rodney has panicked us probably even more than William Penn," said Newark coach Butch Simpson, who is seeking his fourth state championship. "Their diversity on offense will be even more of a challenge for us."

"Their passing game is better than it was earlier in the season. Their running game is better. Historically, they are the foremost executors of the sophisticated Wing-T offense."

After an early season loss to Newark and a mid-season setback to Cape, the Riders have had an impressive run. They scored over 50 points twice, blew out archrival Dover 35-3 and scored four touchdowns on a Cape Henlopen defense that gave up only four touchdowns during the entire regular season.

"Here we go again," Simpson said. "We're asking 11 guys to be in the right place on every play. If not, we'll be susceptible to the big play."

While CR will, obviously, be a handful for the Jackets, the vice versa

Blue Hen players honored by A-10

The University of Delaware football team landed 10 players on the All-Atlantic-10 football team including first-team selections Eddie Conti at spread end and Brian Cook on the offensive line.

In addition to Cook and Conti, three Blue Hens earned second team honors and five earned third team status.

New Hampshire halfback Jerry Azumah was named the conference's Offensive Player of the Year while Richmond defensive tackle Marc Megna earned Defensive Player of the Year honors. League champion Richmond head coach Jim Reid was named Coach of the Year and Massachusetts receiver and kick returner Adrian Zullo was named Rookie of the Year.

Named to the second team for Delaware were Conti at kick returner and sophomore Brian McKenna and senior Lamont Watson at linebacker.

Named to the third team were senior Dale Koscielski at defensive back, sophomore Matt Nagy at quarterback, sophomore Mike Cecere at defensive line, senior captain Bryan Soltes at defensive line and senior Keith Cregan at offensive line.

Conti, who set 40 school, conference and NCAA records during his career, caught 91 passes for an NCAA I-AA record 1,712 yards and 10 touchdowns this season. He also averaged 20.9 yards on 24 kickoff returns with one touchdown. He caught 192 career passes for an Atlantic-10 record 3,737 yards.

Cook, a first-team All-East selection last season, was a third-year starter on the offensive line, playing center and guard. Nagy, who took over the starting quarterback position in the fourth game of the season, completed 181-of-298 passes for a school record 2,916 yards and 20 touchdowns. He also ranked second in the NCAA I-AA in passing rating (157.0).

The Blue Hens, ranked No. 23 in the final regular season Sports Network poll, posted their 11th straight winning season with a 7-4 record.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

RICHIE PARSON — NEWARK HIGH

Newark High running back Richie Parson has had one good game after another in helping the Yellowjackets to an 11-0 record.

None, however, was any more important than last week's 17-carry, 146-yard effort against William Penn in the semifinals of the Delaware High School Division I Football Tournament at Hoffman Stadium.

Parson's effort, combined with the stingy Yellowjackets' defense, helped keep the Colonials off balance most of the night.

Parson, who signed to play at the University of Maryland next fall, has now gained 1,238 yards on the season. The senior back committed to Maryland over the summer.

"We've never experienced anybody that committed early before," said Newark coach Butch Simpson. "But we've heard from other coaches that have gone through it that individuals react differently. Some back off and try to protect themselves. Some are more worried about themselves than the team. That hasn't been close to the case with Richie. If everyone could handle this experience like he has, there would be no negatives to the process at all.

"Every part of his game — blocking, catching the ball, playing defense — has lifted its level over the course of the year. In addition, he's been an outstanding captain. His focus has been on the team and what's best for it. And that's on a team that has had very high expectations from everyone."

Simpson went on to say that Parson is one of the toughest 170-pound running backs that has ever played at Newark High.

"Richie entered high school as a Little League star," Simpson said. "He's leaving as a high school star."

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

After beating himself up throughout the course of the year for some occasional losses, it's time for a pat on the back for being the only state prognosticator to correctly predict all four state tournament football games last weekend.

OK, so three were easy. Yet, it was that Cape-CR game that separated us from the pack. Everybody picked Cape based on its 25-6 beating of Caesar Rodney earlier in the season. It's hard to argue with their logic. Whatever hunch we used, (we're still not sure why), worked and we'll take it.

This week's Division I and II championship games should be good ones. But we won't be going out on any limb. Newark and Middletown will each go after second straight state championships and undefeated seasons. They will each be tough to stop.

DIVISION I

NEWARK (11-0) VS. CAESAR RODNEY (9-2) — Friday night at Middletown's Bill Billings Alumni Stadium, 7:30. It all comes down to this for the Yellowjackets. They are defending state champions. They're undefeated this season. They've won 23 straight games over the past two years. They've also played this entire season with the great burden of exceedingly high expectations. Wins weren't enough. Each game had to be a blowout or there was something wrong.

Despite the pressure, only one of its 11 games have been decided by less than two touchdowns. None of that matters now, however. A win Friday will stamp this team as one of the best in school history and among the best ever in the state.

Caesar Rodney, on the other hand, entered the season with relatively low expectations for one of the state's premier programs. Before September was over, though, the Riders were among the top five teams in the state. Their only two losses have come to Newark and Cape Henlopen. CR avenged the loss to Cape in the semifinals and will try to do the same to Newark in the championship game. CR is clearly playing its best football of the year right now.

CR is playing with house money. It wasn't suppose to get this far and most of its team is back next year. The Riders will be dangerous — especially on offense.

The Jackets, though, has too much to lose. They've gone through a lot this season and have come away with victories each time out. They're also playing better than they have all season. It will be a good game for a half, but Newark will pull away in the second half. The Pick: Newark 28, Caesar Rodney 15.

DIVISION II

MIDDLETOWN (11-0) VS. ARCHMERE (11-0) — Saturday night at Baynard Stadium, 7:30. It doesn't get much better than having two undefeated teams play for a championship. Like the Division I matchup, this contest is also a battle between two of the state's best coaches in Bill DiNardo (Middletown) and Bill Doyle. In fact, DiNardo played and coached at Archmere.

The only problem is that one of the unbeaten enters the game with a lot more fire power and a lot more attention. Middletown is defending Division II champions. The Cavs have been impressive (more than impressive) all season. They killed Delmar 55-6 in their semifinal. They scored over 40 points in six of their games.

Middletown is a Division II team that could play with the best Division I teams in the state. It ripped Salesianum 49-6 earlier in the season.

Archmere, on the other hand, upended Concord 14-7 on a last minute touchdown in its semifinal game.

The Auks do have some quality wins over St. Elizabeth, Caravel, Tatnall, Howard and Concord (twice). In fact, the Auks beat Howard by a very similar score to that of the Middletown-Howard game.

But when you start looking for reasons that a game could be close, you know you're dealing with two teams that aren't quite even.

Archmere will play a lot tougher than Delmar did. The Auks may even have a chance to win in the second half.

The Cavs, though, have too much speed and big-play capability. They'll prevail in the end (if not the beginning). The Pick: Middletown 34, Archmere 19.

Line paves way for Newark

► NEWARK, from 19

plays of the drive were rushes, including carries of 26 and 16-yards by Parson, and a carry covering 16-yards by Broomer.

Throughout the second half, Newark backs found lanes as the massive offensive line consistently won the battle for the line of scrimmage.

Earlier in the week, the Newark coaching staff adjusted the setup of the offensive line. Micah German (6'5, 254), usually plays center with Orien Harris (6'3, 252) and Kwame Harris (6'6, 315), playing right and left tackle respectively. However, during selected plays against William Penn, German moved to right tackle and was flanked by Kwame Harris at right guard and Orien Harris at tight end. Newark used this alignment during its 80-yard touchdown drive.

"We made that adjustment to put me with the two Harris brothers," German said. "It worked well. We worked well as a unit."

German felt the victory was a sign of how the team is now peaking.

"Our team is starting to play with emotion," he said. "You can feel it in the locker-room, we're starting to get the character of last year's team."

Parson credited the blocking as the reason for the team's offensive success.

"[The offensive line] just took over and were just smashing through," he said. "But I also have to tribute Dan Stengari, our full-back. He was just clearing linebackers out all night. I just followed his blocks all night."

The Colonials had a chance to climb back into the game in the fourth quarter. However, after driving from their own 37, to the Newark 11-yard line, Davis was sacked by John Brennan for a 11-yard loss. Davis then threw two incomplete passes, the second of which was dropped by running back Von Homer, as Newark took over on downs.

In the first half, both teams missed early scoring opportunities. Midway through the first quarter, Newark drove from its own 44 to the William Penn 22-yard line. Facing a third-and-three, Parson lost a yard tip the middle. Porter then threw an incomplete pass on fourth down.

William Penn got new life on a drive in the second quarter. Facing a fourth-and-eight from just inside mid-field, the Colonials opted to punt the ball. On the punt, Newark was called for holding giving William Penn a first down. The Colonials then drove to the Yellow-jacket 34-yard line but was held on

Newark seeks a repeat

► TITLE, from 19

is most definitely true also.

"They've played Newark, so they know what's waiting for them," said Caesar Rodney coach John Covaleski. "There's light at the end of the tunnel. The only problem is, there's a train connected to it."

Newark has won 23 straight games over the past two seasons. It has played this entire season under the burden of being defending champions and the favorite to repeat.

"I love being the underdog," said Simpson. "I have a lot of words of inspiration and motivation for that situation. And under most circumstances, most years, that is what we are. This case is different. I'm not sure I like it at all."

Including the upcoming state championship game, eight of the Jackets' 12 opponents have been ranked among the state's Top 10. Only the first William Penn game (a 7-6 victory) was closer than two touchdowns.

Yet, repeatedly, Newark has had to defend the way it has played games. It hasn't won by enough points for some people, it hasn't been explosive enough on offense for others. No matter that it didn't give up a first down against a Christiana team that was one game from making the tournament. No matter that it has won every time out against, clearly, the toughest schedule among any of the state tournament teams (Division I or II).

Early in the season, even some of its own players appeared dissatisfied with the way the games were being won.

"Not only is it a tribute to our players, but it's a tribute to our opponents," Simpson said of the opposition's play throughout the year. "They weren't intimidated by our size or our returning players or preseason expectations. They rallied around that to play us hard."

"But we found a way to win under those circumstances against some very good teams."

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. at Middletown's Bill Billings Alumni Stadium. Tickets are $5 and available at the gate.

ILLITERACY

The number of lives affected by illiteracy is staggering. One out of every five Americans has difficulty reading and writing.* For them, life can feel like an endless series of obstacles.

But these people can learn—all they need is someone who can give them the confidence to take the first step.

That's why Philip Morris Companies Inc. developed a learning program called Gateway: Paths to Adult Learning. By making the Gateway materials available at no cost to community organizations, Philip Morris provides an easy way for adult learners to take the first step to literacy—and the first step to a better life.

If you would like to volunteer to help someone, or if you know of someone who needs help, call 1-800-671-6200 for more information about Gateway, or contact your local literacy coalition.
