Truck Crops Burn As Drought Sticks; Corn Looks Good

Protracted Dry Spell Hard On Tender Crops In This Section; No Heavy Rain For Nearly A Month; Wheat Harvest On

RAIN MAY BREAK THIS WEEK

Farmers are frankly worried over the long drought which has caught Newark and immediate vicinity in its burning grip during the past month. This is particularly true of the lower White Clay valley in and around this town.

County Agent R. O. Bausman, in discussing the situation today, said that corn and wheat, two of the major crops of this section, have escaped serious damage, providing the dry spell is broken soon. Wheat is in shock on nearly every nearby farm, and looks to be a good crop. Corn is coming fast, and looks out of danger.

It is the so-called "tender crops" which are suffering, said Mr. Bausman. Tomato growers watch the skies daily, hoping for a respite from the blistering sun. The drought struck just as the tomatoes were being set out in the fields. The loss so far in the plants, it is reported, runs about ten per cent. With the United Packing Company's plant ready for a big crop, the list of farmer-growers has been boosted considerably. Rain and plenty of it is needed right now to save the crop.

Potatoes are burning up, according to reports from farmers near here. The early crop is very short and prospects look anything but bright.

Last Rain May 20th

The last heavy downpour in this section occurred on May 20th last. Since that time, two or three fleeting showers are all that have been felt by the parched soil.

"Newark is the driest section in the county," said Mr. Bausman today.

The county agent's office is in daily touch with the farmers of the county. It has been reported that several of the passing clouds have turned loose drenching rains as near as Cooch's Bridge, without a drop in Newark.

Gardeners and prideful home owners within town limits are at their wits' end and in an effort to keep their lawns from scorching. Some of the finest stretches of grass in the community are slowly being burned down to the roots. The earth is hard and resisting even to a hose. Reports from the farmers market in Wilmington indicate that the truck raisers throughout the county were almost empty handed.

The wind veered into the east this morning, and local goosebone prophets are insistent that rain is on its way and will strike tomorrow or Friday at the latest.

NEW FIBRE PRODUCT HERE

"Grade 25" Is Latest Achievement Of Continental Firm

The Continental Fibre Company formally introduced to the fibre trade a new product last week, called "Grade 25."

Said to be an entirely new type of fibre, capable of being "spun" and molded, indications point to a heavy sale. Prior to the introduction of "Grade 25," fibre could be cut, woven, threaded and bevelled. It is understood that this product can be put on a lathe and spun into a mold with desirable effect.

Thirty-Two Qualify For Presidents' Cup At Country Club

J. P. Armstrong led the field home Saturday in the qualifying round for the Presidents' cup at the Country Club. He turned in a splendid 81 for the eighteen holes. C. P. Moore and Harry Lawson tied for low net with 10 each, after their handicaps had been deducted from their gross scores. First round matches are being played off this week. Thirty-two players qualified in the first flight.

$11,000 Loss When Big R.R. Bridge Burns Down

Motorists Watch Firemen Battle Blaze Near Charlestown, Md., Sunday Afternoon

While motor traffic to and from Charlestown beaches was at its height Sunday afternoon, fire broke out in the timbers of the overhead bridge along the P. R. R. tracks just east of that village and the wooden structure was completely destroyed. The loss was placed by railroad officials at close to $11,000.

During the fire, the road into Charlestown from the Baltimore highway was literally jammed with motor cars. With the burning of the bridge, traffic will be forced to go west of the town over the "high grade" bridge to join the main road.

Elkton and North East fire companies responded to the alarm sent out and did valiant work in battling the flames. A wreck train with special fire fighting apparatus was also sent down by the railroad company, but did not get into action. The four tracks below the bridge were strewn with burning embers. They were cleared away, however, with but little delay in train schedules.

Motorists going and coming from Holloway Beach and Charlestown Manor, two popular river resorts, were blocked for several hours by the fire. The line of cars stretched for more than a mile in either direction. It was with some difficulty that the traffic jam was untangled.

Few Changes Seen In Staff Of Local School

All But Five Teachers Will Return, According To Report From Superintendent Owens; Athletes Get Letters

With but five resignations from the staff of 29 teachers in the Newark public schools, there is every reason to believe that another strong group will be ready for the opening of the 1925-26 term in September, according to a report from Superintendent J. H. Owens, received yesterday.

Three resignations in the High School, and two in the lower grades have been received so far. Miss Antoinette Eggen, director of girls' health work and instructor in history; Mrs. Edna G. Howard, mathematics, and Miss Georgianna Gittinger, science, are the High School teachers who will not be back. In the Primary School, Misses Thelma Hines and Irma Dickinson have resigned.

Miss Beatrice Grier, of Wilmington, has been appointed by the Board to replace Miss Dickinson. In the colored school, Miss Pauline Stricklin, who has been on a leave of absence, returns to teach the 1st and 2nd grades, vice Elizabeth Ryden, who has been substituting.

As far as is known the following teachers will return for the next semester:

The many friends of little "Jack" Daley of Depot road, are glad to see him out in the yard playing ball again. He was confined for over six months with two fractures of his thigh bone.

Hastings Named On State "Sesqui" Board

Delaware's Part In Exposition In Philadelphia In Charge Of Three Former Legislators

James C. Hastings of Newark, Representative from this district to the last session of the General Assembly, was last week appointed by Governor Robinson as a member of the Sesqui-Centennial Commission, created by an act of the Legislature last Spring.

Mr. Hastings has as his associates on the Commission, former State Senators Highfield of Claymont, and Hardesty, of Dover. The three men will have complete charge of Delaware's exhibit in the big exposition in Philadelphia in 1926. Appointment to the commission gives the three men an exceptional opportunity to acquaint the entire nation of the rapid progress made here in the past few years.

The Commission met in the office of Senator Highfield, in Wilmington, recently and organized by electing Mr. Highfield as chairman and Mr. Hastings as secretary.

The members of the Commission will go to Philadelphia early to confer with the exposition officials and ascertain what can be done toward securing suitable headquarters, and begin the formation of plans for Delaware's exhibit. The commission is planning to feature Delaware's exhibit with a display showing the State's commercial advantages; its modern highways and its progress in improved school facilities.

After visiting Philadelphia and meeting the officials there, the members of the Commission hope to be in a position to begin the formulation of definite plans for this State's participation in the exposition.

2 Stanton Boys Named As Team For Camp Vail

Richard Poulney and Franklin Anderson Selected By Club Leader Willim To Carry County's Banner In Springfield Meet

BOTH HAVE SPLENDID RECORDS

Richard Poulney, age 17, and Franklin Anderson, 16, both of Stanton, Del., have been selected by County Club Agent Ed. Willim, Jr., as the 4-H club team to represent New Castle County at Camp Vail, which is to be held at Springfield, Mass., in conjunction with the Eastern States Exposition early in September. Both boys have won this exceptional honor through hard work in their poultry club projects for the past two years and should by all appearances make good names for themselves and the county at this boys' and girls' camp.

Richard is the son of Mr. George Poulney, a well-known farmer and milk retailer living near Stanton, and Franklin is the son of Mr. Lemuel E. Anderson, another prominent farmer of Stanton. Both boys are well known and liked in their community.

In the spring of 1924, when the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad wanted to establish a poultry club in New Castle County, in pursuing their commercial development policy, these two boys were among the first ones to undertake the work under the guidance of Mrs. Mary E. Dickey, of Stanton, as their local leader. They received from the railroad 50 eggs each from high egg producing flocks for which they exchanged a like number of market eggs. Poulney raised about half of the chicks which were hatched, while Anderson suffered a streak of bad luck and lost all of his baby chicks by drowning in one of the heavy rainstorms of that spring.

Poulney has kept his pullets and they have been laying consistently all of this spring. He sold all his excess cockerels last fall with the exception of one which he exchanged with a fellow club member for a breeder to head his flock this year. He now has about 110 baby chicks hatched from his club pullets.

Anderson secured some replacement pullets from Willard B. Jordan, of Newark, also a poultry club boy, early this spring and has been tending them (Continued on Page 8.)

Dr. Speer has been Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions since 1891 and in this capacity has traveled through the entire world visiting Christian missions in Persia, India, China, Korea, Japan and other countries. He has just returned from an extended trip to South America. He is also president of the Federal Council of Churches in America and has written scores of books on moral and religious subjects. The Summer School is particularly fortunate in securing Dr. Speer as he has been voted one of the twenty-five most popular preachers in this country and always brings a message of inspiration to his audiences.

Music for the service will be under the direction of John A. Thoms, Jr., of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, assisted by Ruth Wilson Sachs, contralto, of Wilmington, and Bertrand Austin, cellist, of Philadelphia.

The program follows: Invocation; Cello Solo, "Ballade," Friml; Bertrand Austin; Hymn, "How Firm a Foundation"; Scripture Reading; Prayer; Contralto Solo, "He that Dwelleth in a Secret Place," MacDermid; Ruth Wilson Sachs; Sermon; Hymn, "Saviour Again to Thy Dear Name We Raise"; Benediction.

Records Broken By Enrollment In Summer School

381 Admitted For Study At Close Of Registration Last Night; Classes Began Yesterday; Longwood Trip This Week.

SUSSEX COUNTY LEADS LIST

All records for attendance at University of Delaware summer sessions for teachers were broken yesterday, when it was reported from the office of Prof. W. A. Wilkinson, director, that 381 students had enrolled. This exceeds the mark of 371, set last year. It is altogether likely, according to Prof. Wilkinson, that several additional men and women will be enrolled before the end of the week.

In anticipation of the increased enrollment, more instructors were added to the staff for the current session. The classes therefore, will not be congested.

Students poured into town all day Monday and Tuesday, most of them coming by auto. Barely 150 made the trip from down state points on the trains. They were enrolled and assigned rooms at the Library Monday. Schedules were arranged and books procured through the well-ordered machinery of the Summer School department. The classes began at eight o'clock yesterday morning. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held.

Longwood Trip Friday

The first outing of the session takes place Friday when the entire school, including the staff of instructors, will be the guests of Pierre S. du Pont, at his mammoth Conservatory at Longwood. Unfortunately, Mr. du Pont will miss the party, as he is enroute to Europe. H. Rodney Sharp, a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, will act as host on the occasion. Following a supper on the grounds, the students will be guests at an organ recital by Firman Swinnen, of Philadelphia, in the Conservatory.

The trip will be made, as usual, in a fleet of motorbuses, leaving here shortly after noon Friday.

It is expected that about 425 people will make up the party.

Many From Newark

In the list of students so far enrolled in the Summer School, appear a number of Newark people. Sussex County, however, continues to lead the counties in this respect. It is interesting to note that a larger number of out-of-state students are enrolled this year.

Those from Newark and nearby communities who are attending the school are:

PENCADER CHURCH IS 222 YEARS OLD SUNDAY

Big Crowd Expected At Ninth Annual Reunion In Glasgow; All Day Services Planned.

One of the oldest churches in the State, Pencader Church at Glasgow, will celebrate its 222nd anniversary with an old-fashioned reunion on Sunday next in the church property. It will mark the ninth annual renewal of the meeting.

Rev. A. W. Sonne, of Wilmington, will preach in the afternoon, and Rev. Harvey W. Ewing, of Newark, in the morning. The choir from West Presbyterian Church in Wilmington will assist at both services with music.

The Glasgow reunion always attracts a great crowd of former residents and friends of those living in the village. Visitors come from three states to the affair. Weather permitting, it is expected the throng Sunday will break all records.

Luncheon will be brought by most of the visitors and will be eaten in the shade of the old trees on the church lawn. Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the church, will preside at the services.

Japanese Beetle Inspectors Appointed To Watch Interstate Traffic

Interstate Produce Carriers Must Be Screened For Beetles

Inspectors Appointed to Watch Trucks by Chief Inspector Cranston; Opens War on Bugs Here

On and after June 30, all trucks carrying produce of any kind in or out of the State will have to be screened, according to orders issued by W. E. Cranston, chief of the State Japanese Beetle forces, stationed in Wilmington. With a view to assisting the produce merchants of Wilmington, beetle inspectors will be stationed on Fourth street between King and French, which forms the general center of the wholesale market. These inspectors will examine all produce on the trucks and if no signs of beetles are found they will seal the trucks with State seals.

Trucks bearing such seals will be passed by inspectors guarding the roadways without further inspection. Without such seals, however, trucks will be liable to be stopped and searched anywhere they are found by inspectors in the quarantined area.

A score or more of inspectors, to work under Mr. Cranston, have been appointed and will begin their duties the first of the month. Among them are listed the names of Rufus Roberts of Newark and John L. Deputy of Porters, in Pendered Hundred.

Crowd Thrills To Battle Royal In Tinsman's Court

Defendants in Trespass Case Go Out on Their Several Ears Following Rough and Tumble Fight Monday

COOCH'S BRIDGE CHURCH CAUSE

With judge, solicitors, constables and defendants hopelessly entangled in each others legs, the lid blew off Magistrate Tinsman's eminent courtroom Monday night when an innocent little trespass case involving six negro churchworkers from Cooch's Bridge, developed a terrific kick. The end came when the defendants were thrown to the howling crowd outside, and the disarranged palace of justice swept up for the night. It was a glorious melee, according to reports. The august honor of Tinsman's court was at stake. It was preserved, as the last defendant came to rest on his ear in the street.

Attorney Opens The Way

Attorney Julian C. Walker, of Wilmington, representing the prosecutors of Rev. Milton Jackson, et al., of Cooch's, took a poke at the Reverend's head during the heat of his closing argument. This blow really opened the festivities.

For several minutes thereafter, the big crowd attending the hearing, howled with glee as constables and defendants rolled over the floor. Blackjacks are reported to have been used before the belligerent churchmen could be induced to leave. They were then brought back and fined $5.00 and costs each on the trespass charge. Squire Tinsman suffered the indignity of having his glasses knocked off. His constables received sundry and numerous bruises and the condition of his office was indeed terrible after the fight. Old timers say it was the greatest excitement seen in Richardson Park since Benny McFall won the marble championship last spring.

Argue Over Church Property

The fight was witnessed by a large number of people who had gathered before the Magistrate's court to listen to the testimony in the case. The trespass charge was preferred against the six men by John W. Taylor, colored, whose lands adjoin those of the church at Cooch's Bridge. Taylor, who was represented by Mr. Walker, testified that a week ago Monday the Rev. Mr. Jackson and five of the church members invaded his lands and cut the grass. The preacher, according to Taylor, was the only one who talked when he remonstrated with them for trespassing on his property. Taylor testified he bought the farm he lives on five years ago and that the land trespassed on was his property.

The defense contended the land had been given to the church by the late William Walker in 1867 for church purposes and had been used as such since that time.

Prize Cow Goes To Apartment Dweller: Cash Relieves Him

The auction sale of building lots held at Marshallton Addition on Saturday proved a big success. The attendance was large and the bidding was spirited from the start, the lots sold ranging in price from $250 to $1000, for a double lot, which was considered reasonable for the location. A chest of silver was awarded to William Bodensadt, of 1304 West Second street, Wilmington; Horace B. Null of Newport, was awarded the pure bred Guernsey cow. As Mr. Null lived in an apartment he promptly turned the cow into cash, which netted him a good day's work. J. W. Hamilton was auctioneer, and conducted the sale for Irvin L. Ball, owner of the property.

church 30 years ago, said the land was used by the congregation in those days.

The trial lasted two hours during which time Magistrate Tinsman gave every one interested an opportunity to be heard. The defense had summed up its case without interruption and when Mr. Walker started to sum up his case, the Rev. Mr. Taylor insisted on talking. Finally, when he called Mr. Walker "dumb," he was warned by the attorney to cease talking. When he continued to talk, he was struck by the attorney and the fight followed.

The defendants in the case, all of whom were ejected into the street, were the Rev. Milton Jackson, Edward Green, Millard Taylor, Davis Smith, Oliver Smith and Edward Webster. Henry Cottman, another defendant, did not appear for trial, having been stricken while on the way to the hearing, he was allowed to return to his home.

One reason for encouraging railroad travel is to be found in the fact that it temporarily removes the passengers from the peril to life and limb encountered on the highways.—Boston Transcript.

CROSS-TOWN SERVICE, PLUS

WE ARE now operating twenty-five thousand telephones in Delaware. Outside there are fifteen million.

Our Delaware toll-service network totals 9,086 miles of wire—almost half of it in cables. Tying the cities and towns of the United States together, and with Canada and Cuba, are over five million miles of Bell System wire.

This vast telephone plant rounds out the true complement of your telephone service.

Important as is your cross-town communication, it is not all-important. Your million and a half toll calls over this company's lines last year, not including the more distant connections, is impressive evidence.

That this service should be kept reliable is of first importance. There are occasional storms, both winter and summer, which the best of telephone plant along the turnpikes cannot withstand. When it goes down, the whole Plant Department force goes into emergency action (by the hundreds, if need be). And their record is one of yeoman service.

Even if the trouble is north, south or west beyond our boundaries, the same force is ready. Only last winter a call for help came from the Middle West, and in twenty-four hours a battalion, with its equipment, was on the train.

All-around reliable telephone service, across the street or the State or the Nation, is the standard service of today.

THE RIGHTS OF CITIZENSHIP

Portion Of An Address By Judge Hugh M. Morris To Graduates Of The Americanization School

Judge Morris spoke in part as follows:

"The rights of American citizenship are now yours. Those rights are either worthless and your efforts spent in acquiring them have been lost, or those rights are priceless and by acquiring them you have gained that whose value cannot be measured. Before it can be determined with certainty and conviction whether those rights are worthless or whether they are priceless we must inquire what those rights are and how they are conferred. Both of these questions are answered by the Declaration of Independence, the very document which gave birth to the States. It proclaimed that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are the inalienable rights of man and, as well, that these are natural rights with which all men are endowed by their Creator.

"The written instrument by which the powers of the government were limited and the natural rights of men protected is the Constitution of the United States—the greatest charter of human liberty the world has yet known. Yet, time and again the question is asked—what is there sacred about the Constitution? Why should it not be amended by giving to Congress, for instance, increased power? Those who ask these questions have failed to realize or have forgotten that liberty, human liberty, is indispensable to human happiness and is the most precious asset of life. Those who make such inquiries accept the liberties they here enjoy as they accept the sunshine and the rain. They do not know or remember that human liberty as it has been enjoyed by America's citizens did not exist before this nation was born."

Coolidge, In Speech, Sees Further Tax Cut

In Address Monday, President Assures Business Men Of More Reductions

The address delivered by President Coolidge, Monday, at the meeting of the business organization of the government, (The Budget), is one that will interest and please every citizen of the country, for the President made it most plain to the officers of the government that he intends for them to carry out his program of constructive economy to the letter in order that there may be a further reduction of the burden of taxation now borne by the American people.

The President said, "The object sought is not merely a cutting down of public expenditures. That is only the means. Tax reduction is the end. The direct beneficiaries are composed of those who file the Federal tax returns. The indirect beneficiaries are all the rest of the American people, who must and do make an indirect contribution to the payment of the enormous sum of more than $10,000,000 every day in the year which goes out from the National Treasury. This is not more or less than a restriction upon the freedom of the people. This money has to be earned. Those who have earned it, instead of being able to retain it for their own benefit, must necessarily turn it over to the Government."

The President, in disclosing the fact that he desires tax reduction so that the people may have more money for themselves, said, "We are seeking to let those who earn money keep less of it to the Government. This more of it for themselves and give less of it to the Government. This means better business, more of the comforts of life, general economic improvement, larger opportunity for education, and a greater freedom for all the people. * * * It is the high privilege of the people of this country to spend their own money."

President Coolidge pointed out that, in the four years the budget system has been in operation, annual expenditures have been reduced $2,081,333,000, and the public debt decreased $3,426,000,000. He stated that the history of public affairs will hardly show a parallel case of retrenchment in the cost of government, nor does history show a more worthy motive. He said, "Back of this tireless, persistent, and drastic campaign for constructive economy in Federal expenditure has been the relief of the people of this Nation from a great burden of taxation. It has been successful. Taxes have been reduced."

At a meeting of the baseball letter men immediately after the party, Ralph Buckingham was elected Captain of next year's team.

The action passes in Wellwyn's Studio and the street outside. Act I, Christmas Eve; Act II, New Year's Day; Act III, The First of April.

The play will be directed by Miss Dorothy Hawkins of the Aircastle Players, and Paul Rosenbaum from the Hedgerow Theatre. Miss Edith Betts, prompter.

Bud Gregg's Two Homers Carry Continental To Victory Saturday

Yorklyn Bows To Newark Club In Ten Hard Innings

"Griff" Moore Saves Game in Tenth With Sensational Catch; Heavy Hitting Marks 13-11 Victory

PLAY MARSHALLTON SATURDAY

In one of the most sensational games seen thus far in the Fibre League, Continental downed National at Yorklyn Saturday in the tenth inning for the seventh win of the season, score 13-11.

Bud Gregg, Newark third baseman, cut loose in the dying stages of the game and practically brought home the bacon singlehanded. His long homer in the eighth with one pal on the bases broke a brief tie score. With Yorklyn up and going and all tied up again in the ninth, Gregg personally won the game in the next inning with his second home run. His torrid blows came at critical moments and saved Newark a very probable defeat.

Chalmers with three sturdy singles, tied with Gregg for the day's honors.

Heavy hitting marked the matinee. After pitching good ball in the early frames, Lefty Smith lost his cunning and the savage hitting of the Yorklyn boys got too hot for him. Lee finished the game and was also hit hard. James, for Yorklyn, was battered for 14 safeties by the Newarkers. He continued through the game, taking his punishment. His greatest mistake was grooving one for Gregg in the tenth.

Griff To the Rescue

Hardly had the excitement incident to the second Gregg wallop died down and the fans gathered together remnants of their dignity, when another sensation was sprung on them.

The National club are hard fighters and they threatened dire results in their last stand. McGovern picked out one at his last turn at bat and lined it a mile to deep center. Little Griff Moore played the ball nicely and legged it for the open spaces. Griff and the ball arrived at the same moment. A leaping one-hand stab brought it down and the game ended. It was one of the finest catches seen in Yorklyn in many a day.

Colmery with a double and a single and six chances afield was a steady help to the local cause Saturday. The entire team played good ball, and for thrills, the game was hard to beat.

Continental plays at Marshallton next Saturday and hopes to put the first half banner beyond reach of its rivals. Saturday's score:

We would feel a little surer of proposed British-German-French-Belgian security pact if it didn't leave so much for the league of nations to do.

The way that expected surplus in the United States Treasury is growing indicates that we have a tariff for revenue anyhow.

The Japs, on account of our exclusion law, are going to have a "Humiliation Day" and if California hears about this in time the legislature out there is liable to make it a legal holiday.

Local Ball Tossers Find Things

To Their Liking In Saturday's Game. Chalmers Fans Eight.

With Chalmers pitching great ball in the pinches and his teammates delivering resounding blows to all corners of the field, a team of Newark ball players, traveling under no particular banner, walloped the Five Points club Saturday afternoon, score 8-5.

Two High School boys, Chalmers and Malone, were noticed in the lineup; the Fibre League team contributed a few and the balance were volunteers and unattached. They played good ball and had the game well in hand after a three-run rally in the third. "Shorty" Chalmers was the siege gun of the outfit and tore off three safe blows.

The Newark pitcher fanned the last two batters to wash up the game for the home folks, when Five Points was in the midst of a promising rally in the ninth. The score:

"HOME RUN" BAKER LEAVES EASTON CLUB

Easton, Md.—J. Franklin Baker, manager of the Easton club in the Eastern Shore League, resigned suddenly last week following a sudden flareup with the directors of the club. The move followed close on the heels of persistent rumors to that effect. The Easton team has, it is reported, made a discouraging showing so far this season.

Klemmick, last year's pitching star, it is said, has been the chief bone of contention. The directors of the club and fans in general have not considered his work this season good enough for him to have been kept on the payroll. Baker, however, thought differently.

Improvements

Painters have been renewing portions of the Alfred Curtis residence on east Main street.

Mrs. Angie B. Perkins is making extensive improvements to her apartment house here, including new plumbing, fixtures, a new heating plant, complete rewiring and the addition of a new wing on the west side of the house.

Divorces In State Growing In Favor

Successful marriages in Delaware were fewer in 1924, according to the Federal government's statistics of marriages and divorces for 1923 and 1924. There were a total of 176 divorces in the State last year as compared with 157 in 1923. There was also a decrease in the number of marriages in 1924 as compared with 1923. The total number of marriages last year was 1236 as against 1339 in 1923.

The marriages in New Castle county in 1924 numbered 840 as compared with 950 in 1923. The divorces totaled 125 last year as against 113 in the preceding year.

JUVENILE GRANCES

More than a score of new Juvenile Granges have been organized in the United States since January 1st, and several states which had no Juveniles before have entered the organization or have plans for same within the next few months. Ohio continues to lead in the Grange work of the country among the children, but several of the states further west are taking up this branch of it in active fashion, and the interest is also showing itself in the eastern states as well. Many wide-awake community projects and other branches of practical endeavor are carried out by the Juvenile Granges and often times the youngsters put to shame the adults in a locality by their fine progressive undertakings.

Sixth Annual Event Expected to Break
All Records for Attendance; Opens
July 28th

Extensive improvements are being made to the fair grounds at Harrington in preparation for the sixth annual Kent-Sussex fair which opens Tuesday, July 28 and continues through to Saturday evening, August 1. The Kent-Sussex exposition will be the only one held in Delaware this year.

More than a thousand awards have been listed in the various sections, the prize money running close to $10,000. Special consideration has been given the work of the boys' and girls' clubs. Seventy-nine classes of exhibits have been opened to them and for the first time their handiwork will be displayed in a separate building.

DR. TIPPLE SPEAKS HERE

Opera House Crowded Last Night To Hear Orator

Rev. B. M. Tipple, formerly president of the Monte Mario College, Rome, spoke to a large audience in the Opera House last night. He is on tour in the interests of the Protestant Guards. His address for the most part was a "challenge," as he called it, to the alleged political advancement of Romanism in America.

Rev. Tipple was introduced by Dr. McCullough, secretary of the Southern Co-operative League, who is managing the tour. The Continental Band layed during the evening, and the audience joined in patriotic airs. The stage was decorated with American flags.

Following the address an offering was collected to help defray the expenses of the visit.

Rev. Harvey W. Ewing and Rev. John McMurray were seated on the platform when the meeting opened. Rev. Herson and Rev. Haliman were not present. Invitations to the speech were accorded the Protestant religious congregations of the town.

The French government has expelled an American reporter for sending out dispatches which were tending to be harmful to French credit. Wonder what they would do to Senator Borah if they go him over there?

NOTICE

Dr. Harvey W. Ewing had nothing whatever to do with Dr. Tipple coming to Newark to lecture last night. He was invited to preside in an emergency. Although a classmate of Dr. Tipple's brother, Dr. Tipple's coming to Newark was a surprise to Dr. Ewing.—Adv.

FARM BULLETINS ARE OFFERED BY SENATOR

Two bulletins recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture which should prove helpful to farmers and those dwelling in the suburbs who like to make their own repairs, are "Painting on the Farm" and "Farm Plumbing." The first bulletin describes various kinds of paint and how to select the right kind for any purpose, gives directions for preparing the surface, for mixing the paint on the job and applying same. It also gives directions for making and applying several kinds of whitewash. The bulletin on farm plumbing treats the subject in a thoroughly practical way, is replete with detailed directions and suggestions, and is profusely illustrated. Senator du Pont has procured a supply of each of these bulletins and will be glad to mail a copy to any one interested in the subjects referred to.

New Ferry Line Soon Ready Is Report

With work under way on the ferry slip at New Castle, officials of the New Castle-Pennsville Ferries, Inc., hope to be able to start ferry service across the Delaware between New Castle and Pennsville, in the near future.

Favored with good weather, the contractors who are also building the pier at Pennsville, have made unusual progress and the slip at Pennsville will be completed ahead of the scheduled time, judging from present indications.

Upon the completion of this line, it will be possible for people from the Delmarvia peninsula to make a short trip to the many seashore resorts along the New Jersey Coast.

Old St. Anne's Is Mecca For Throng At Anniversary

Bishop Cook's Prayer for Rain Brings Mourned Amens from Farmers Gathered at Services Sunday at Middletown

CHURCH FOUNDED 220 YEARS AGO

Hundreds of people from all parts of Delaware and scores from neighboring states made the annual pilgrimage to old St. Anne's Episcopal church, just south of Middletown, on Sunday last, where an all-day religious service was held in the historic grove surrounding the buildings.

It was the 220th anniversary of the church built in honor of Queen Anne of England. The people came in automobiles, unlike the early worshippers, but in the church, the old fashioned family pews were used and after the services, the humdrum of the modern day was forgotten as the men and women strolled about reading the half effaced inscriptions on the grave stones, wondering at the immensity of several oak trees and eating again stories connected with the church and its founders.

Bishop Philip Cook preached the sermon at the morning services. He took no text, but examined the chief contributions Jesus Christ has made to the thought and belief of mankind, with as little references as possible to the New Testament. He declared emphatically that the greatest miracle in history is that such a personage as Jesus, who never held any sort of prominent position, never amassed a fortune, never wrote a book nor added to the written literature of the world, never won a battle nor led an army, should become the best known and most enduring of all names; that such a life should wield the most profound influence over the thought of the world and effect fundamentally all subsequent generations.

Prayer for Rain

At the conclusion of the afternoon services, after Rev. G. Warfield Bokhs, of New York, had delivered the sermon, Bishop Cook delivered a prayer for rain and a successful harvest. The church was filled at that time, the majority of those attending being farmers. There was a reverent silence after the prayer, followed by sincere amens.

NEWARK, PAST AND PRESENT

Some time ago, through the kindness of G. D. Scull, of Oxford, England, the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography was furnished with the diary or journal of Captain John Montresor, kept during the Revolutionary war. Captain Montresor was chief of engineers in Howe's army. He was with that army from the time it left New York, in July, 1777, until it reached Philadelphia, September 26th of the same year, during the whole of the campaign, which may properly be called the campaign of the Brandywine. He was present at that battle. We give some extracts of that diary relative to the experiences of the British army whilst in this neighborhood. It was no doubt hastily written, for we notice many omissions of words and hastily constructed or incomplete sentences, but it appears to us exceedingly interesting. We gather from it that the whole British army passed through Newark, on their way to Chadd's Ford, where the battle of Brandywine was fought:—

"Aug. 28th. The army moved between three and four this morning. The weather extremely fine, which dried the roads, which would otherwise been impassable, the medium twelve pounders proved to be most difficult to pass through the sloughs. * * * About nine o'clock this morning our army at the town of Elk (Elkton), consisting of about forty well built brick and stone houses; our march hitherto about seven and a half miles. Very few shots exchanged this day with the enemy. One thousand men under a Colonel Paterson and the Philadelphia Light Horse fled from this town on our approach, part to Gray's hill, two and a half miles beyond the town, which the rebels likewise quitted; as we reached the summit we could observe them, but not within cannon shot. Several of our men very irregular in pursuit of fresh provisions, so as to fall into the enemy's hands. * * * Twenty-three of our troops, three of which Hessians, missing, supposed to be taken by the enemy plundering. The rebels were so precipitate this day as to leave some of their storehouses full, consisting of molasses, Indian corn, tobacco, pitch, tar, and some cordage and flour. The cattle was drove off, except a few. Found fifteen of the rebel sloops and schooners at Elk.

"29th. * * * This country abounding in forage, pasture and vegetables, but the inhabitants fleeing. * * * Thirteen of our men deserted from us or were taken by the enemy when marauding. A man came in from Philadelphia that passed through the rebel country, who assured us that they are posted at Brandywine with a considerable body at White Clay creek. About 400 men advanced to Iron hill, about five and a half miles from hence.

"Sunday, 31st. Lieut. General Kniphuysen marched easterly on the neck into the country, together with Generals Gray and Agnew and Sir William Erskine, in order to secure cattle, wagons and horses, etc. * * * Weather very fine but intensely hot in the middle of the day, mornings and evenings rather cool. A skirmish this morning—a body of rebels having appeared, which the 23rd Regiment attacked and pushed, taking three prisoners, they having one killed and five wounded. Two deserters came in from the Rebel army. The command with General Kniphuysen taken 261 head of horned cattle, 568 sheep and 100 horses. Picket of fifth Regiment took thirty-six head horned cattle. A light horse deserter came in Lost five more Royal Artillerys.

"Sept. 1st. At daybreak this morning an out-post of the rebels was attacked by 200 rangers of the Wemy's corps, they took the commanding officer, a Saxon Baron, one Ionitz, and his lieutenant and three prisoners—killed two and wounded one—the rest consisting of 100 fled. This was effected without any accident on our side.

"Sept. 3d. Weather fine but cool early. At daybreak the whole under march, except two brigades with Major General Grant, took the lower road to Christeen, by way of Aikens tavern (now Glasgow), "in order to avoid Iron Hill. At this tavern we were to be joined by the troops under General Kniphuysen, but did not perceive them; about a mile beyond, the country is close, the woods within shot of the road frequently in front and flank and in projecting points towards the road, here the rebels began to attack us about nine o'clock with a continued, smart, irregular fire for nearly two miles. The body of the rebels consisted of 129 men from six brigades, making 720 men of what they call their regulars, together with 1,000 militia and Philadelphia Light Horse; but the 720 men who were principally engaged, they were opposed by the Chasseurs and one battalion of Light Infantry, only the other battalion of Light Infantry, which was sent to surround the rebels, through some mistake was led so far to our right as to find an impassable swamp between them and the army, which prevented this little spirited affair becoming so decisive. The rebels left about twenty dead, among which was a captain of Lord Sterling's Regiment. We had three men killed and twenty wounded amongst whom was Lt. Haldane, engineer, and three more officers. The rebel deserters since come in, say they lost five Captains. This body was commanded by General Maxwell. From the Iron Hill the waters of the Chesapeake and Delaware are seen. At two the whole encamped. Headquarters, Aikens' tavern. Lord Cornwallis to Cooch's Mill, on the little Christiana, where the rebels had a post this morning which we drove them from. The guards on Iron Hill, Dunlop, the Hessian Grenadiers, together with the British and all the light troops, on the opposite side of the creek about one mile. The middle of the day excessively hot. Accounts just after this skirmishing was over that Lieut. Kruphuysen's body was arrived at Aikens' tavern. This spot is the Wesh tract, we called Penn-Cadder. * * * Two or three shots exchanged in the night.

"Sept. 4th. * * * Pioneers employed in burying the rebels, more being found in the woods. Two of them, captains Dallas and Cummings, lay just beyond the bridge at Cooch's Mill. The rebels in general yesterday to Christiana and White Clay creek.

"Inhabitants drove in by oppression of the rebels. People from our camp daily on the "deconvert." Soil here not extraordinary. A few hopping shots in the night.

"Sept. 6th. * * * We learn that General Sullivan, with 1,000 men, but no cannon, were at Newark.

"Sept. 8th. The whole moved two hours before daylight. A remarkable borealis. An amazing strong ground marched this day about twelve miles to head-quarters. A very strong country. But three or four shots fired during the march. A great deal of rebel cattle collected. At a quarter past nine, three alarm guns were fired from the rebel camp, conjectured to be at Newport, one minute between each. * * * at quarter past seven this morning marching through Newark; the weather was very cold indeed. Encamped this day at Niblas' house, which is from Aiken's tavern to Cooch's Mill round Iron Hill by way of Newark and so into the road from Newport to Lancaster in the way to New Garden. Heard the rebel morning gun."

The rest of the diary, although very interesting, has but little reference to this neighborhood.

(To Be Continued Next Week.)

BOY SCOUT CAMP IS NEARLY COMPLETED

Camp Caesar Rodney On the Chesapeake Will Be Full This Summer.

Construction work at Camp Caesar Rodney, on the shores of Chesapeake Bay, the summer camp of Wilmington Boy Scouts, will be hastened, beginning today, under the direction of G. Park Weaver, of Springfield College, Mass., who will be in charge of Scout Craft at the camp. Mr. Weaver will camp at the site and will push the work of building the bungalows and see that other important details such as the improvements to the water system, the repair to the motor boats and the construction of the wharf are attended to.

As matters look now it is doubtful if there will be any chance for a Scout to register for a stay at camp after the camp opens. Seven of the troops have already made good by registering 50 per cent of their members. The registrations from down State have not arrived yet but reports coming from there are that more Scouts will attend this summer than last year.

Newark will likely be represented by several members of the local troop at the camp this year. Prof. T. A. Baker, new scoutmaster, will likely attend to their registration.

THE LATEST THING IN PICNICS

"The passing of the old-fashioned basket picnic is viewed by old-timers with regret," says a writer in the July number of the Outdoors Pictorial (Washington). "Time was when the picnic was the favorite means of celebrating family reunions and of providing an outing for the office force, the club or any other organization with which one was affiliated. The annual Sunday school picnic was, of course, inevitable, as were innumerable other picnics for special occasions. The picnic was the 'get-together' meeting par excellence of two decades ago.

"But the basket picnic is becoming as rare as the horse and buggy—no longer to be found except in rural districts—and even there with less and less frequency.

"Yet the waning popularity of this mode of entertainment is not regarded as an unmitigated calamity by the mother who spent the preceding day in the kitchen. The untold quantities of sandwiches or salad which she made usually turned out to be inadequate for the unpredictably large gathering and caused whispers among the neighbor women as to her stinginess. Or her estimate would prove to be too great and the food would either be wasted with many twinges of the thrifty housewife's conscience or would be brought home to be consumed. Then no one ever wanted to look at another sandwich or plate of salad so long as he lived. The once popular saying 'more fun than a picnic' was never originated by the woman who spent a hot summer morning tending an oven full of cakes which didn't turn out as well as those of Mrs. B., who, after all, was supposed to have brought fried chicken. Mother usually started on the outing exhausted. There was difficulty in getting the crowd to agree on the ideal picnic spot and always some misunderstanding as to how to get there in which part of the crowd arrived just in time for the ice cream. No picnic was complete without a few minor casualties, such as lost children, a fall in the creek, chiggers, snagged silk stockings and grass stains. Then, there was an unbelievable amount of litter to be cleared up by the conscientious. And on the way home most of the party suffered from acute indigestion.

"Still, with all its imperfections, the picnic had its points, chief of which was that it got people out of doors. True, the accompanying bedlam left little of the peace dear to the true nature lover.

"The modern successor to the old-fashioned picnic embodies all the advantages with practically none of the disadvantages. The family simply decides at any time to take its supper out of doors and, without any great to do or very special preparation, piles whatever would ordinarily have been served at home into a basket and piles itself into the flivver and betakes itself to the nearest park or stretch of open country. No extra work, no waste, no indigestion, no confusion."

R. O. T. C. MEN PLAN

STATE DAY AT CAMP

University Officials Will Likely Be Present At Plattsburg On July 14th.

Delaware Day will be observed at the R. O. T. C. Camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., on July 14. On this day all the officers of the camp will be Delaware men. One day will be set aside for each college and university represented in the camp and the above date has been selected for Delaware Day.

As Delaware has the largest contingent in camp of any one college every effort will be made by the 62 University of Delaware students in camp to make this day a great success. The Delaware colors will be used in the parade and review. Major Arthur Underwood, commandant of the University of Delaware R. O. T. C., and executive officer of the camp, is also keenly interested in the Delaware Day arrangements.

The faculty of the University of Delaware has been invited to attend camp on Delaware Day and it is reported that a number are planning for the trip. Dr. Walter Hüllihen, president of the University; Dean George E. Dutton, and A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator, are among the university officials who will likely go to Plattsburg on that day.

County Farmers On Lookout For Army Worm Evil

Lower End of County Reported Suffering from Serious Invasion; Dean McCue Outlines Best Combative Methods

EXPECT TO CHECK INVASION

Farmers through the lower section of the county from Middletown over towards the Maryland line are battling for the first time in many years an invasion of the dread army worm.

That the situation is well in hand was expressed yesterday by Dean McCue from his office here. He said that from reports gathered over the weekend, the threatened invasion has been checked. First news of the activity of the worms came to Newark about the 15th, he said. County Agent Bausman has also been in touch by telephone with several farmers in the lower hundreds, advising them what to do to prevent the spread of the plague.

J. D. Reynolds, of Middletown, on whose farm the worms were last seen, reported Sunday night to Dean McCue that the spread had been checked. Officials here are of the opinion that there is no cause for serious alarm over the situation.

Many motorists on the State Highway near Middletown are reported to have seen droves of the worms crossing the road into the farm of W. Scott Rheims, near the Reynolds place. The trooping worms reached as far north as Mt. Pleasant, it is reported.

Methods For Destruction

Dean McCue pointed out that the standard method for combating the worms is to plow a furrow around the field and have a huge log, pulled by a horse or a tractor, follow the plow, the log in the center of the furrow crushing them as they fall into the pit. He also declared another method which has met with excellent results is to make a mixture of bran, arsenic and molasses, the first and last ingredients being to attract the worms, the arsenic poisoning them. This concoction is poured freely before the line of march and usually tumbles the annulid soldiers much the same as machine gun fire does in human combat.

The worm is described as about an inch and a half in length and to have stripes, lengthwise, down its back. It rarely ever travels alone, multitudes banding together and traveling across a field, this habit having been responsible for its common name. The technical name is given as "Leucania Unipuncta," and its moth may be distinguished by two white spots on the disk of the front wings. The (Continued on Page 12.)

Milk "Don't" For Hot Summer Days

Don't fail to keep the milk in the ice box when not being used. Don't pour out more milk than you expect to use, as milk should not be poured back into the bottle.

Don't pour milk out of a bottle before washing off the neck of the bottle.

Don't put dirty milk bottles out on the steps for your dealer to collect.

Don't put milk bottles out for the dealer if there is a case of communicable disease in the house. The bottle may carry the infection to others.

Don't use milk bottles as containers for vinegar, or gasoline, or for any other purpose.

Don't continue to buy milk from a dealer who sells dirty milk. You only encourage the traffic. Hold the bottle up and examine the bottom for sediment.

Don't keep on taking milk that does not suit you. Ask the milk inspector for the names of dealers who sell high grade milk.

Speaking of Eggs
(By National Press)

Few people who keep hens or eat eggs realize what a big thing the egg industry is. The United States produces about 2,000,000,000 dozen eggs annually; but China, the largest producer in the world, produces more than 3,000,000,000 dozen. Before the world war Russia was the largest egg-producing country in the world. Russia has dropped below China and the United States.

In 1923 China exported more than 91,745,000 dozen eggs, either in the shell or preserved in some form. Of this total 24,000,000 pounds (preserved) representing about 12,000,000 dozen in the shell, went to the United States.

The United States exports only about 30,700,000 dozen eggs, and imports from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 dozen, in preserved form. These large importations tend to depress the price of American eggs in the American market; Congress placed an import duty of 8 cents per dozen on eggs in the shell, and 6 cents per pound on preserved eggs. The tariff of 1913 admitted eggs in the shell per pound of 1 per cent ad valorem.

The Declaration of Independence

Constitution of the United States of America

These are the greatest documents in civic and political history. Upon them rest the Idea and Ideals of Liberty and the Future of Christian Civilization.

Have you a copy?

Listen to what Lincoln said:

THE CONSTITUTION

LET EVERY AMERICAN, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of "seventy-six" did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and the Laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor; let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling-books, and in almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation.

Early Delaware Churches Theme Of New Booklet

Historical Society Publishes Thesis By Elizabeth Watterson; Presbyterian Churches Numerous In Revolutionary Times

GIVES STORY OF SETTLEMENTS

Added to the growing interesting works on Delaware and Delawareans is a thesis on "Churches in Delaware During the Revolution," by Elizabeth Watterson and published by the Historical Society of Delaware. The work is in book form and presents a brief account of the settlement and growth of churches in this State.

The author sets forth that the work is an attempt to show the influence of religious forces in Delaware during the Revolution. The author began the work as a seminar under Professor M. W. Jernegan, of the University of Chicago, the preface sets forth, and subsequently revised under the professor's supervision, and presented by the author as a master's thesis.

Those who gave directions in the course of the writer's researches are: Colonel George A. Elliott, president of the Delaware Historical Society, who made provision for its publication; Dean H. V. Ames, of the University of Pennsylvania; Walter G. Tatnall, formerly State archivist for Delaware; Judge Richard S. Rodney; former Judge David T. Marvel and Robert H. Richards, attorney of Wilmington.

In compiling this thesis the author had access to the libraries of the University of Chicago; the Library of Congress; University of Pennsylvania; the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the Wilmington Library.

"The desire for freedom in the days before independence was marked with every successive wave of immigration and this situation was particularly true of Delaware," the author points out in her introduction of her thesis.

At the outbreak of the Revolution the Episcopalians and Presbyterians were still contending for supremacy, with more vigor than they had shown in their early years of existence, the writer says. The Quakers and Baptist, who managed to stay on the stage from the time their existence in America, were of little moment in Delaware at the time, the author believes. The Swedes, and the Dutch, who represented the Lutherans, had been absorbed by the English colonists, the introduction states.

In an interesting manner and with strict observance of historical facts, Elizabeth Watterson tells of the work accomplished by the denominations in the case of education for the welfare of the Negroes and Indians, and also the general attitude of the churches towards the Revolution.

Some excellent plates of Old Swedes Church, Old Drawyers' Church, and Barratt's Chapel, the "Cradle of Methodism" in the year 1780, are contained in the book.

A table printed shows the comparison of the number of churches in each denomination in 1776. At that time in Delaware there was one Baptist; 2 Roman Catholic; 1 Lutheran; 12 Quaker; 12 Episcopalian and 29 Presbyterian churches here.—Evening Journal.

COMPLETING HUGE AUTO SPEEDWAY

Track At Laurel, Md., Will Be Opened July 11, According To Plans

What racing stars and fans declare will be the world's greatest speedway and motor racing center—the Baltimore-Washington speedway—is nearing completion at Laurel, Md., halfway between the National Capital and the Monumental City.

The Baltimore-Washington speedway, half-million dollar enterprise, is the project of business men, capitalists and sportsmen of the two cities who have evidenced their faith in what they believe is destined to become the mecca of motor racing enthusiasts of the entire eastern section of the country.

The track, designed to be the fastest in the country, is being constructed under the experienced direction of Jack Prince, famous bicycle champion of former days, who for many years has been engaged in supervising the erection of automobile race tracks in all parts of the Nation.

Already the army of 500 carpenters have encircled an arena of 80 acres of level Maryland farm land with the track. In this enclosure it is estimated 10,000 cars can be parked conveniently while their occupants thrill to the daredevilry of the kings of speed. The grandstand, the largest single structure of its kind ever created, towers more than 75 feet above the track and will seat 25,000 spectators comfortably.

Outside the structure there is unlimited space for parking automobiles. This land is owned by the speedway corporation and cars will be safeguarded by uniformed employees.

Construction is being rushed in preparation for the 250-mile dedication race July 11.

The Grange Corner

Especially encouraging orange reports come from West Virginia and Wisconsin, both states witnessing extensive revival work, with several new subordinates organized and various lagging ones pulled into line again. The farmers in both these states are calling for the Grange in fields where it has not heretofore existed and competent organizers are being sent out in response to the call.

A recent meeting of York County Pomona in Maine had a welcome address given by a member more than 90 years old. Rather strengthening the contention that "the Grange is the place where the old get young and the young keep young."

Granges in all parts of the country are backing up the 4H Club work, having exceptional opportunity to do so because of the large number of young people included in their membership and the fact that this organization is in a real sense a "family institution, with the interests of the boys and girls always carefully considered.

A subordinate Grange in the state of Washington, which functions actively and does beneficial work in its community, has but 13 members on its roll and they are all included in three families. Yet a regular program schedule is carried out and the organization is a prosperous one.

In Connecticut the Grange is paying tribute to the treasurer of one of the large Pomona organizations who has just rounded out 38 years of continuous service in that position. He was the first treasurer elected by this Pomona, is the only one it has ever had and his record of attendance at meetings is almost perfect.

In the Upper Peninsula in Michigan the Grange is forging ahead rapidly and the organization in that part of the state has never been so prosperous before. Among the young men in these Granges base ball teams and other athletic activities are featuring large and greatly increased interest.

An excellent example of practical community service work has just been furnished by Amesbury Grange in Massachusetts, where a mammoth flagpole was erected and with two beautiful flags was presented to the town, accompanied by impressive dedication exercises in which the entire community heartily joined.

COUNTY FARMERS ON LOOKOUT

transformation from the larvae stage is made in the ground.

The last serious invasion made by the worms in Delaware occurred during the Civil War. During one summer, the entire State was reported to be a tramping ground for the pests. Literally millions of worms squirmed over the fields and highways, destroying thousands of dollars worth of crops and forage.
