PROFESSOR BYAM ELECTED TO HIGH OFFICE AT CONV.

The 45th Annual Convention of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle States and Maryland was held on Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28, at Haddon Hall, in Atlantic City.

The University of Delaware was represented at the convention by Dr. Sypherd and Professor Byam, while the Women's College was represented by Dean Robinson.

Professor Edwin C. Byam, who presented a paper to the Association of Modern Language Teachers on the topic: "The Foreign Study Plan," was elected vice-president of the group. Dean Robinson presided at the meeting of the Association of Science Teachers.

A great deal of interest was centered on Professor Byam's paper, as the Foreign Study Plan, which was originated here at the University of Delaware eight years ago by Professor Kirkbride, is fast gaining in popularity among American universities and colleges.

AMERICAN STUDENTS OFFERED UNUSUAL EDUCATIONAL TRIP

Group, Under Leadership Of Eminent American Educators, To See Russian 5 Year Plan In Operation

A limited group of American students will visit Russia next summer under unusual circumstances. Sailing late in June, under the leadership of eminent American educators, they will make a comprehensive twenty-three day trip through European Russia observing the efforts of the Five Year Plan in industry, agriculture and education, and seeing how the people live.

As guests of the students of Russia they will enjoy the status and privileges of a delegation which means that they will meet high officials, receive public hospitality and be afforded at nominal cost the usual services given to American tourists. The generosity of the Soviet authorities and the cooperation of the participating organizations make it possible to estimate the fixed expenses of the round trip from New York to New York at around $370.00.

ALL SEATS RESERVED

Molnar's Play Has Universal Appeal; Contains Joy, Pathos And Entertainment

John McVaugh, a senior at Delaware College, will take the role of one of the most daring characters on the contemporary stage when he appears as Liliom this Thursday evening at eight-fifteen o'clock in Mitchell Hall. The play "Liliom," an international stage and film success, was written by Ferenc Molnar, who has written also "The Play's the Thing," "Mima," "The Swan," and "The Guardsman." Two of the world's greatest thespians, Joseph Schildkraut and Eva le Gallienne, first became famous in "Liliom," the former taking the part of Liliom, and the latter taking the part of Julie. And many of Delaware's foremost actors and actresses, members of the E 51 Class in Play Production, will be in the excellent cast on Thursday.

Besides John McVaugh, who takes the lead, Catherine Broad, Sarah Downes, Mary Matlack, Marshall McCullough II, Stanley Salsburg, Alfred W. Josephs, Helen Eckert, and Samuel Silver have important roles. The entire production is under the personal direction of Mr. C. R. Kase, assisted by Stanley Salsburg.

Congratulations from members of the University and other friends have been showering upon Captain Charles M. Myers whose promotion to a captaincy was recently announced here.

In 1915 when the first rumblings of the Great War reached America, he was a student at George Washington University and the first member of a National Guard unit formed at that school in preparation for the growing war clouds. The call to active duty came in 1917, and leaving the University, he went into the war as a non-commissioned officer.

MORE THAN HALF OF DELAWARE'S ILLITERATES FOUND IN NEW CASTLE COUNTY

Delaware has 7,805 persons over ten years of age who are unable to read and write. An examination of the 1930 statistics shows that Dover has only about one-third of the illiterates that it had in 1920, while New Castle had an increase of over 100 in that decade.

New Castle County has more than half of the state's illiterates—4,423, and 3,034 of these are to be found in Wilmington. Sussex County shows the highest percentage of native white illiteracy and the highest percentage of Negro illiteracy disclosed at a conference of the Delaware Committee of the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy held at Wilmington, November 30.

While the number of illiterates in Delaware is not large, it is twice as many as are to be found in the State of Idaho and almost three times as many as are to be found in the State of Wyoming.

Delaware ranks 30th among the states of the Union in percentage of literacy, twenty-eight states and the District of Columbia ranking above her.

The above report is the finding of the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy disclosed at a conference of the Delaware Committee of the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy held at Wilmington, November 30.

SMOKING AT THE WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Our attention has repeatedly been drawn to an unwise ruling at the Women's College. This ruling states that none of the students at that College shall smoke on the University's campus. We say unwise ruling because of its effects. Across the street from the Women's College is the Red Men's Home; at any time of the day one may walk past the spacious lawn of that Lodge and see groups of girls sitting on the benches and smoking to their heart's content. We think that it is more sensible and that it would appear better for the University if the girls were permitted to smoke in their own rooms or in the lounge rooms. As matters now stand, the ruling is a joke and laughingly reflects back on the authorities at the Women's College. As long as the ruling will stand it will only be a laughing stock on both campuses. We are surprised that the authorities at the Women's College have not already removed the ruling, or at least, have modified it.

OUR SHORT THANKS-GIVING LEAVE

Many students have expressed their dissatisfaction with the brevity of the Thanksgiving vacation. It is a matter of their own doing. Three years ago, the school authorities offered the students a choice of either a short Thanksgiving vacation and a long Christmas one, or a longer Thanksgiving vacation and a shorter Christmas leave. The students accepted the former offer. It is disappointing that a group of college students cannot foresee consequences more intelligently. It seems that their thinking lies more along the lines of a mob. One student rises and airs his choice; the rest fall in line, seemingly without independent thinking on their part. Must we dispairingly exclaim that all learning is for naught? Matters point to that conclusion. If students do not better their minds by learning then their time in school has been wasted. As much as we were in favor of a longer leave after Thanksgiving, we made no stand for it in the hopes that the present consequences of the students' choice might bear down on their minds and insure more intelligent and thoughtful decisions on future occasions.

Today we have a fairy story for our readers (): Once upon a time there was a college that spent thousands of dollars to install an automatic clocking system in all its buildings so students would not resort to that age-old excuse for tardiness—"My watch is slow." So they installed the system and ordered all students to set their watches accordingly. After a while, however, the machine which controlled all the clocks began to wear down and miss a cog and needed correction. So it was that those who set their watches with the school time found that in a couple of days, their watches did not tally. Furthermore, the town clocks were different than the school clock—so everything was topsy-turvy. Thus it happened that more students came late to classes than ever before, more professors came to class only to find the students had left than ever before, and the people who installed the clocking system went off with the students' good cash and the authorities began to think of other ways of spending the students' Equipment Fees. Sounds unbelievable, doesn't it?

Apparently Delaware students take Eddie Cantor seriously. In the past few weeks, three students have decided that now's the time to fall for a loop. Joe Vaughn, Vic Graham, and Bryan Ferris are the three most recent newly weds. Ferris has decided that two can live cheaper than one—if one doesn't bother with college; he was last seen trying to see his Auburn to a second-hand dealer. We understand Bill Lane, Raymond Sharp, Harry Parker, and ye ed are on the precipice. If this keeps up, we'll have to have wedding and birth notices added to the paper.

Left-overs from the Thanksgiving Banquet: If Miss Ehart sings at the next banquet, we move Bill Lane be kept out. . . . The name of the orchestra that supplied the turmoil during the banquet is Waddington and His Parisians.

Apparently, they had to make the last train for Paris, for they had disappeared when we were supposed to sing the Alma Mater. . . . In giving thanks for the football team, the speakers forgot to mention our alumni. . . . What about cigarettes at the banquet? . . . Do after-dinner speakers have to tell "jokes"? . . . Did you know that the Women's College banquet was formal. . . . and that there was no charge to students? . . . And they don't even have a football team?

Ah yes, but the girls have various other sports. Have you ever seen the young ladies arch in their bloomers? Er, that is, practice archery in their gym togs? 'Tis a sight worth sighting—or a scene worth seeing! The girls also indulge in soccer, hockey, and volleyball. Another sport engaged in by the ladies in a big way is cigarette-smoking. Of course, smoking on the campus is sinful. So the young ladies are forced to cross College Avenue, where the sin is removed. And they loll around in the Red Men's grove smoking cigarettes while people pass by and stare at them like they do in the zoo. The excuses given by the enlightened authorities at W. C. D. for not permitting smoking on the campus are: (1) Liberties should be bestowed piecemeal; (2) the high price of ash-trays—and . . . aw nuts!

Questions we want answered: How much money does a team have to make to earn the ranking of a major sport? . . . Why can't the Review Room be installed with a telephone, a new typewriter, and a dictionary (how we need the dictionary!). . . . Why is "Liliom" McVaugh letting his side-boards grow? . . . Why do professors pretend to be broadminded and then enforce that idiotic three-cut system before and after holidays? . . . Will fencing matches be held before basketball games this season? . . . What happened to the Rogers-Curtin radio program last Friday?

Here and there on the campus Jim Hoopes should be heard and not seen in his military uniform. . . . Stan Wilson tells us that members of the W. C. D. could take lessons in the technique of cigarette-smoking from Miss Louise Hullihen. . . . Notre Dame lost two games and tied one; Delaware lost one and tied two. Which is the better team? . . . A Philly paper spelled Kemske's name Kemskie, Kimskie, and Komskey and recorded him as a Haverford sub. . . . Poor Kroah was named Kreah and Kroak in the same article. . . . Kauffman and Ott are busy men, but they always have time to read de Maupassant—for its literary qualities. . . . Dr. Crooks proved that there was a God in one minute in class last week. We can now burn up half of our library. . . . A Haverford write-up says "The overwhelming Mud Hen total (of '31) does not indicate the relative strength of the team." . . . Certainly, Coach Rogers might have used his regulars during the entire game and might have permitted aerial tactics. Then we would have seen the relative strength of the teams? —Essemess.

UPHOLDS MILITARY TRAINING IN COLLEGE

Military training in American land grant colleges and universities should be continued as a defense against the open antagonism of radicalism to democratic government, in the opinion of Dr. Raymond G. FRESHNESS — that's the thing!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes? — freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with — blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted — and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back — if you can.

CAMELS
Made FRESH — Kept FRESH

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked.

COLLEGE TRAINING VALUED AT $65,000

The college graduate may expect to earn $175,000 during his life span, whereas the high school graduate will earn only $110,000, according to William Atherton Du Puy, executive assistant at the Department of the Interior, who has just completed a statistical study of the earning power of education. This sets the value of a college education at $65,000.

In sharp contrast to the boy with but grade school training, the high school graduate at 18 earns $800. At 22 he nets annually $1,500, the maximum of the average income of a man with grade school education.

The college graduate begins to earn at the age of 22. He starts off at about $1,400, but this is less than the high school graduate makes at that age, because the latter has been at work four years. By the time the college graduate reaches 26 years of age his income goes up rapidly while that of the high school graduate mounts more slowly. Between 43 and 48, the college man's earnings usually reach a point of rapid increase, while the high school trained man's income is stationary and his momentum slackens. At 60 the college man is earning $4,000 a year, and at 70, his income drops to $3,500.

A DISARMAMENT
EDITORIAL CONTEST

The International Disarmament Council is sponsoring an editorial contest on Disarmament. The first prize is $40, the second, $25, and the third, $10, for the best editorial written by an enrolled undergraduate and published in a college newspaper or magazine. Editorials must be limited to 500 words and must be in the office of the Council at 129 East 52nd Street, New York City by December 21st. The judges for the contest are: John Finley, Associate Editor of the New York Times, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of New York City, and Mrs. Florence Brewer Brockel, of the National Council for the Prevention of War.

BOOKS AND BOMBS

"While the undergraduates of America plot their spring proms and winter carnivals, or ecstatically shout, 'Hurray for Our Side,' at the autumnal pigskin frolics, their contemporaries in Europe are polishing rebellious sabres and hatching up man-sized revolutions all the year round" according to Henry Morton Robinson in an article "Students See Red," published in the January issue of College Humor.

"The university student is the living spark in the powder barrel of European politics. In his ink stained hands he carries the torch of Republicanism, and once that torch is ablaze no reactionary government is worth insuring for a brass guilder.

"The student in politics is feared and dreaded by all conservative ministers; there is no handling or calculating him. Like a true 'enfant terrible' he bursts onto the scene with a Republican whoop just at the time when everyone else has been lulled to sleep. And usually an election or abdication comes trailing in his wake."

It is Mr. Robinson's contention that the majority of political upheavals in Europe can be laid at the entrances to campuses, in direct contrast to the situation in America.

On the other hand, he says, "we can be certain that the same throats that yell themselves hoarse at the annual game with Harwash, would effectively clamor for the head of a dictator if such an animal should unwarily seize the reins of the American government.

"When," concludes Mr. Robinson, "I'm tempted to think that the undergraduates of American colleges have abandoned themselves to rhumba, football and gin, I call to mind the picture of young Alexander Hamilton mustering his Columbia classmates against the Hessian lobsterbacks at the Battle of University Heights—of the epic courage of those Virginia Military Institute lads who died to protect their state from the Yank invaders in the Civil War."

Where Turkish tobacco grows

Eastward ho! Four thousand miles nearer the rising sun—let's go! To the land of mosques and minarets—so different from our skyscrapers, stacks and steeples.

Let's see this strange, strange country. Let's see the land where the tobacco* grows in small leaves on slender stalks—to be tenderly picked, leaf by leaf, hung in long fragrant strings, shelter-dried and blanket-cured. Precious stuff!

Let's taste that delicate aromatic flavor—that subtle difference that makes a cigarette!

In every important tobacco-growing center Chesterfield has its own tobacco buyers

XANTHI . . . CAVALLA . . . SMYRNA

. . . SAMSOUN . . . famous tobaccos!

*Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the "spice," the "sauce"—or what rich, sweet cream is to coffee!

You can taste the Turkish in Chesterfield—there's enough of it, that's why. Chesterfield has not been stingy with this important addition to good taste and aroma; four famous kinds of Turkish leaf—Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna—go into the smooth, "spicy" Chesterfield blend.

This is just one more reason for Chesterfield's better taste. Tobaccos from far and near, the best of their several kinds—and the right kinds. And pure, tasteless cigarette paper, the purest made. The many requisites of a milder, better smoke, complete!

That's why they're GOOD—they've got to be and they are.
