PRICE TEN CENTS

Program Made For Dedication of New Building

Two-Day Conference Is Included; Scientists Are Scheduled; Dr. Stine To Open Friday's Ceremony

The University of Delaware will have officially added another building to its layout on October 16 when the new chemical laboratory is dedicated. No ordinary ceremony, the program will be augmented to include a special Conference of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering over October 15 and 16 with some of the world's most prominent scientists billed for discussions and addresses.

At the head of the speaker list will be The Svedberg, Professor of Chemistry, University of Upsala, who will come from Sweden to attend the session. Other notables on the program will be E. O. Kraemer, du Pont Experimental Station; Frank C. Whitmore, Pennsylvania State College; Warren K. Lewis, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Albert E. Marshall; Arthur M. Greene, Jr., Princeton University; James F. Norris, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; James G. Vaile, Philadelphia Quartz Company.

Presiding over Friday's conference in Mitchell Hall will be Charles M. A. Stine, of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company; on Saturday, Albert S. Eastman, of Delaware College.

The actual dedication is slated to begin at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, on the lower campus, with an Academic Procession, followed by the customary ceremonies, and conferring of honorary degrees.

Another feature of the program will be a dinner for official delegates in the Hotel DuPont on Friday night. The speaker at the dinner will be Harrison E. Howe, Editor of "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry"; his subject: "Chemistry and the Nation's Business."

The Conference will conclude on Saturday afternoon with a luncheon for delegates in Old College.

Program

Friday, October 15, 2:00 p. m., Mitchell Hall: Conference on Chemistry and Chemical Engineering. Charles M. A. Stine, E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, Presiding.

Address: "The Ultra-centrifuge and Its Field of Research," The Svedberg, Professor of Chemistry, University of Upsala, Sweden. Discussion: E. O. Kraemer, Colloid Group Leader, du Pont Experimental Station; Hugh S. Taylor, Professor of Chemistry, Princeton University.

Address: "Organic Chemistry as Affecting Various Aspects of Our Civilization," Frank C. Whitmore, Dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, Pennsylvania State College, General Discussion.

Seven-thirty p. m., Hotel DuPont: Dinner for Official Delegates. Address: "Chemistry and the Nation's Business," Harrison E. Howe, Editor, "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry."

Saturday, October 16, 9:30 a. m., Lower Campus: Dedication of Chemical Laboratory. Academic Procession; Ceremonies of Dedication; Conferring of Honorary Degrees.

Then-thirty a. m., Mitchell Hall: Conference on Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, Albert S. Eastman, Professor of Chemistry, Presiding.

Playwright

Senior Tom Warren entered a play, "It Happened On Deck," in the Dean Smith contest last year; it won second place. In true Broadway style he changed the name to "You Can't Win."

Season's Playbills Will Begin Tonight After Pep-fest Ends

"The Conflict," "You Can't Win," and Surprise Are Included on Program.

"The Conflict," "You Can't Win" and a surprise feature are the three one-act plays which will comprise the program for the first of the season's Playbill Productions to be presented at Mitchell Hall tonight at 8:15 p. m.

"You Can't Win," written by Tom Warren, will be the second original play this year that has been produced at Mitchell Hall. John Sweeney's "Small at Large," the winner of the Dean Smith contest last year was given in the spring by the E 52 Players; "You Can't Win" was awarded second place in the contest. Mr. Warren, the author, a senior at the University and a member of the Footlight Players, changed the name of his play in true Broadway style from "It Happened on Deck," to the present title.

Carroll Cox will direct the play, the cast of which has not been announced. Action in "You Can't Win" takes place on the sleeping deck of a fraternity house with a kidnapping scare and a sissified freshman main features of the plot.

Student Council Displeased With Freshman Rules

The Student Council once again showed its displeasure in the method of enforcing Rat Rules at its meeting on Monday night.

The discussion was opened when William Wells questioned the procedure used at a recent Sophomore meeting to punish disobedient Freshmen. Wells suggested that disobedient "Rats" be sent before the College authorities, to which Robert Morgan stated that there were 25 or 30 men for whom this would have been necessary if the plan was adopted.

Richard Scott (Sen. T. C.) commented that the Council is not an organ "to scare Freshmen." Suggestions were made that an editorial be written on the subject, that a Sophomore organization meeting be called, and that arrangements be made for a tug-of-war between the two lower classes. Morgan asked the questions as to who was allowed at Rat Court and how many times "wall" is compulsory. He was told that as president of the Sophomore class both decisions were in his hands.

Harry Stutman, Editor of "The Humanist," was present at the meeting and requested an appropriation to the magazine which he represented (through a misunderstanding THE REVIEW stated that appropriations had been made to the "Blue Hen" and "Humanist" in last week's edition). Stutman requested that the magazine be taken from his hands and be managed by a professor; stating that he believed the last edition was a failure, that the magazine was not enjoyed on the campus and suggested that he be relieved of his responsibility. After a discussion as to the way the Councilmen thought the magazine had been accepted last year Stutman consented to go ahead with the Fall-Winter edition and the $200 appropriation was voted.

Johnnie Bennett's Orchestra Will Open Student Council Social Swing Season

Johnnie Bennett and his ten tender tempo tinkers will usher in the Student Council social swing season in Old College Hall on October 16. Bennett's bandmen have played on previous occasions for the Council and have earned the right for a return engagement from their past performances in Old College. This aggregation of music mongers can play anything from sweet soothing music to pulsating polkas.

The Welcome Dance is held every year to welcome people. All students and outsiders are welcome for the nominal sum of one and one half dollars (American money). Football players who manage to get in the Lebanon Valley game are welcome free of charge, gratis, "on the house."

Tickets for this welcoming ceremony may be purchased from any member of the Council. The lads who will run this affair comprise Bill Wells, Johnnie Healey, Ralph Groves, and Tommie Ryan.

Special attractions and side-show (correction—Floor show) numbers will be announced later. So help both teams! Buy your tickets early! Don't be a social misfit! Remember what your best friends are all saying. "Welcome! Welcome! Welcome to the Welcome Dance!"

Women's College to Hold Founders' Day Celebration Dance Tomorrow Night

Astronomer

Dr. Annie J. Cannon, former resident of Delaware, is associated with the Harvard Observatory, will be speaker at Founder's Day. Subject: "The Adventures of an Astronomer."

Dramatic Center Is Planned for U. of D.

In response to many requests in the last few years that the University give assistance to dramatic groups engaged in the production of plays, announcement has just been made of the establishment of a University Dramatic Center, the object of which will be to serve the dramatic interests of the entire State.

The Center will operate through a state-wide dramatic organization to be formed with the assistance of the Adult Education, the high school, and the Agriculture Extension Division of the University. The organization will therefore consist of dramatic groups in schools, in communities, and in such active organizations under the direction of the Agriculture Extension as the 4-H Clubs. Cooperation in getting such an organization under way has already been offered by Miss Marguerite Burnett, Director of Adult Education, Mr. John Schilling, State Superintendent in charge of High Schools, and Mr. Alexander Cobb, Director of Agriculture Extension.

Under the present plan, membership in the organization will be granted to any group engaged in the production of plays. The organization will be formed at the first of a series of Dramatic Institutes to be held at the University in the near future. These Institutes will be featured by addresses by authorities in the field of dramatic production and by conferences of the members on problems connected with their work.

In the Spring a dramatic festival will be held at the University at which time representative members of the organization will present their productions. The length and nature of the festival will be determined by the organization.

Another service to be provided by the University Dramatic Center will be bulletins containing technical information of value to groups producing plays. These

Dr. A. Cannon Will Speak; Program Starts At 7.30; Class Spade, Color Will Be Given By Presidents

One of Delaware's most outstanding women, Dr. Annie J. Cannon, noted astronomer and scientist at the Harvard Observatory, will be the guest speaker at the Women's College Founder's Day exercises, tomorrow evening at 7.30 in Mitchell Hall.

"Adventures of an Astronomer" will be the topic of Dr. Cannon's talk. Holding degrees from Wellesley College, Radcliffe College, U. of Delaware, Groninger University in Holland, Oxford University, and Oglethorpe College, she has also been awarded the Henry Draper medal for investigation in Astronomy and the Ellen Richard's Research prize. Dr. Cannon will be introduced to the assembly by Dean Winifred J. Robinson who will preside during the program.

Louise Stayton, president of the Junior class will present the Color to the Freshman class; the acceptance of the Class Color will be made by Jean M. Pratt, newly-elected captain of the Freshman class.

The traditional presentation of the spade will be made by Pauline A. Panti, president of the Sophomore Class, and in behalf of the Freshmen Edith M. Counahan, sub-captain of the Freshman class, will accept it.

College Singing is to be led by Amelia Kozinski, a senior and Student Song Leader.

Jessalyn Gordy, president of the Student Self-Government Association, will explain briefly the purposes of the Association.

In the absence of President Walter Hulihan, Hon. William H. Heald, president of the University Board of Trustees, will take charge of the investment of the Senior Cap and Gown. The Seniors will be assisted by their "little sisters" of the Sophomore class in the donning of their caps and gowns.

The singing of the Alma Mater will close the evening's exercises. Miss Elizabeth R. M. McNeal will play several organ selections for the Processional and Recessional.

An informal reception for Dr. Cannon will be held at Residence Hall following the program in Mitchell Hall.

From 9:30 to 12 o'clock dancing for students and alumnae of the Women's College will be at Kent Hall.

Debating Society Meets Doctor Able

The organization meeting of the Debating Society was held last Tuesday. Clarence D. Taylor, captain of the Varsity Debating Team, presided and introduced Dr. A. H. Able the new faculty advisor to the society.

Although the Debating Society has had capable sponsors in the past, this is the first year in which an instructor who has specialized in public speaking has been available. Dr. Able offered many suggestions concerning the schedule and also pointed out that there are many Pre-Legal students who should come out for debating.

Rat Rules . . .

THE REVIEW believes in the rules governing the Freshman class if these rules are used in a sensible manner. As has been said many times in the past, we believe the rules are valuable in developing class and school spirit among the members of the new class and in introducing them to college. We do not, however, approve of the manner in which the Spartans are administering these rules.

We object principally to the absurd apparel which some of the Freshmen have been wearing by the order of the Spartans. We admire the Spartans' spirit and their attempt to enforce rat rules, but we do not like to see Freshmen on the campus wearing men's or women's underwear over their clothes. To anyone outside of the University it must appear that the intelligence of the upper classmen and Sophomores is not very high, if they force Freshmen to wear such apparel.

Our second objection to the administration of rat rules concerns the laxity of Freshmen in speaking as they salute or do not salute, as is often the case. We have always been proud of the habit, which is becoming a Delaware tradition, of everyone on the campus speaking to each other. It is up to the Freshmen to give this rule their attention and obedience. It, certainly, is no hardship for them to speak a word of greeting. In connection with this, it may also be said that the majority of the students at Delaware usually know each other. We would like to become acquainted with these new men. In order that we may do this more easily, we suggest that Freshmen write their names legibly on the name cards and that the Spartans see to it that they do so.

Although the Spartans have the responsibility of enforcing rat rules, the success of these rules depends to a large degree upon the attitude of the upper classmen. If upper classmen did not intend to support the Sophomores, they should have abolished rat rules last year when they had the opportunity.

We, therefore, say again that we believe in rat rules by sensible penalties and urge the upper classmen to support the Spartans or to abolish rat rules.

Dramatic Center . . .

In addition to the new dramatic "Playbill" program, which receives its first test this evening in Mitchell Hall, there is another innovation which promises to give Delaware dramatics a more important position. Dr. Kase, with the assistance of Howard Dunlap, is planning to make the University an important dramatic center for Delaware schools and societies by offering them advice and assistance in dramatic productions.

We feel that this program will not only give Delaware a reputation in dramatics but will also give the student dramatists of the University valuable experience. In helping and advising other people, the students will gain a better understanding of their work and will learn to express their knowledge and ideas.

These new program certainly deserve our support. We wish the Delaware dramatic group success in their work for the coming year.—Arthur Huston.

Publicity . . .

Mr. Gorman Walsh, of the WDEL broadcasting station has courteously offered the University of Delaware a chance to broadcast student activity each Wednesday evening for a ten-minute program. We should like to express our gratitude to station WDEL and wish all possible success to Clarence W. Taylor, prominent member of the Senior Class who will conduct this weekly broadcast.

We feel that a program of this scope, comprising student, faculty, and alumni talks, general news items and interesting bits of information pertinent to college affairs, will mark a real step forward in the progress of the University. But the co-operation of everyone connected with Delaware College in any way at all is essential.

We have here a splendid opportunity to accomplish something. Let's not bungle it!

Quotable Quotes

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"The chief hope of America's escaping the rising tides of Communism and Fascism rests on our public schools," Carl Wilde, vice-president of the Indianapolis school board has the same idea as the American Legion when he scores the "isms" as un-American. "Our schools . . . must be free . . . of political control and party propaganda."

"There are numerous forms of sloppiness which have been incident to the buoyant easy-going spirit of America . . . democracy cannot afford to be sloppy." So insists Pres. Dixon Ryan Fox of Union College hitting at the collegiate cult of sloppiness which, he says, settles habits which may bring discharges later on.

"No mere cleverness can take the place of the painful processes of hard and unremitting work." Ralph H. Tapscott, president of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, returns to his Alma Mater to further depress the newest crop of freshmen.

Incinerator

By Jake Kreshtool

Diplomat . . .

When the Junior Varsity football team played Newark High School the other afternoon, three very young gentlemen were the last to leave the bleachers. Two of them were sitting in their places discussing the justification of a certain play. The third was pacing up and down waiting for one of the arguers to join him.

Disgusted at the incompetency of his friend, and alarmed at the lateness of the hour, he stopped pacing and turned his head. "C'mon Joe," he pleaded. "Sack him in the jaw and let's get goin'." Oh, Our Delaware!

We believe that the longest Paramount newsreel we have ever watched is the one showing the American Legion parade (interspersed with remarkable shots of the Times Square Paramount Theatre).

Delegations from the states are introduced individually by the narrator. After three states had been introduced, a young girl sitting directly in front of us turned to her mother. "Where's Delaware?" she whispered. The mother rounded her lips and shushed past her vertical forefinger. Three more states went by. The young girl could no longer restrain herself. She stood up in her chair. "Where's Delaware?" she demanded of the unseen narrator. Everyone turned around and stared disapprovingly.

The narrator did not answer until Mississippi had paraded past. Then in a spine-tingling voice he shouted, "And now . . . Delaware!"

The audience clapped patriotically, the little girl screamed hysterically, and the narrator continued, dramatically announcing the rest of the states.

It Is?

A friend of ours jotted down a fragment of conversation he swears he overheard at Ursinus. Two women were sitting in front of him in the stands, and at one stage of the game it was quiet enough to hear one say to the other: "I understand their campus is larger than ours and their English department is so prosaic . . ."

Half Pint . . .

A group in the lounge of Old College were discussing the amounts of mileage their various cars were able to get on a gallon of gas. Fords were leading the field until somebody told them about Sophomore Warner's Austin. It seems that this midget car averages 45 miles to a gallon.

We went around to see Warner about this, and it all turns out to be true enough. When he isn't using the car very much, he has the gas changed every week. "Keeps it from getting stale," he told us.

Review Notice . . .

We have always been interested in regular meetings and you can bet we'll be on hand bright and ergly.

Incredible . . .

A Freshman reporter walked into THE REVIEW office the other afternoon holding his first story in his hand.

"Are you Mr. Wells?"

"No."

"Is he here?"

"No."

"Well, will you put this in the waste basket for me?"

Bon Voyage . . .

Walking through the lobby of the Delaware Trust Building Monday morning, a friend of ours noticed a crowd of young men milling about a smartly dressed, smiling graduate. It seems the graduate had gotten a position in an upstairs office, and his well-wishers were seeing him off to the twelfth floor.

He stepped majestically into the elevator. "Aloha," he called to his followers. They fluttered their handkerchiefs. "Aloha," they answered softly. And the elevator doors slammed shut.

WITH THE BLUE ★ AND GOLD ★

By Steve Saltzman

We made a remark in last week's column to the effect that Coach Clark did not have a good, reliable kicker on his squad. May we go on record this week with an apology? Apparently we completely forgot Howie Viden's sterling performances of last year. Perhaps it was his poor kicking in pre-season sessions that influenced our decision. However, Howie certainly blasted our contention to the winds last Saturday with his outstanding exhibition of "coffin-corner" kicking. We remember now that in the 1937-38 issue of the "Blue Hen" we predicted a brilliant future for Viden as a "coffin-corner" kicker. (This term, for the edification of those of our readers who are not posted on the peculiar jargon of the sport world, is applied to the practice of punting the ball out of bounds deep in enemy territory.) Viden's well-placed kicks were a great aid in keeping Ursinus on the defensive most of the game. Keep up the good work, fella.

Concerning the Ursinus game—Delaware, in our opinion, made a darned good showing. . . . Ursinus had the advantage of having already seen opposition—strong opposition. . . . Dick Robert's punt returns were a thrill to watch. . . . Viden's kicking cannot be overpraised. . . . The line functioned well. . . . Unfortunately, that pass offense and defense was poor, Delaware completing only one pass, and allowing Ursinus to slip through several times. . . . Only gripe coming is that the boys took a while to get started. . . . Seems they have to score before they get going.

We have heard a lot of fans comment that it was Coach Clark's fault alone that we lost the Ursinus game. They claim he never should have taken Ken Lockwood out of action in the third quarter. Surprised, we hustled around and managed to get the following inside information for our grandstand "strategy men." It seems that when a center has his arm hurt—badly—it's rather tough to pass a ball. Of course, this is only what we've been told, we really don't know. However, to get on with our story, the backs began to complain that the passes from center were not satisfactory. This state of affairs, gentlemen, explains why Lockwood was pulled. Need we go on?

Delaware's hopes for a strong line were bolstered when Charlie Schwartz, veteran guard, was added to the squad. Schwartz tips the scales at about 200 pounds and stands over six feet. He was put out of action last year by an injury to his ankle, but, apparently, the injury has healed sufficiently to allow for his playing. According to all reports, he will be alternated at the inside guard post with Charlie Allen.

Fent Carey, the only Mud Hen to receive an injury in the Ursinus game, is expected to be in shape in time for tomorrow's game.

The Rutgers eleven has yet to taste defeat this season. However, we think that, with the proper breaks, Delaware can come out on top in tomorrow's contest. Gentlemen of the student body, in case you are still in the dark, let us tell you that we have a great little team this year; we are looking forward to a bang-up season.

Rutgers Presents Strong Eleven In Tomorrow's Tilt

Coach Lyal Clark has refused to make any prediction as to the outcome of the game with Rutgers this Saturday. He merely stated that he was pleased with the way the team played last week, and that he will use the same starting lineup.

Rutgers boasts a stronger team this season than they have had in the past few years. This is indicated by the fact that they scored as many points in one quarter of their game last week as they made the whole of last season. Last week they met a fighting outfit from Hampden-Sydney which for three quarters battled them on even terms. They weakened in the last quarter, however, and Rutgers scored three times.

Coach Tasker, of Rutgers, has a fine array of backs, and a big line. The line, however, is lacking in experience as six of the men have played only one game of varsity football. Coach Tasker also has a host of able subs. This is the main reason for their good showing against Hampden-Sydney.

Delaware's starting line-up will be as follows: Sheats and Daley, ends; Ware and Drozdov, tackles; Glasbey and Allen, guards; and Lockwood at center. The backfield will consist of: Lew Carey, quarterback; Captain Roberts and Viden, halfbacks, and Ernie George at fullback.

According to a release by the Rutgers News Service, we find that they consider Delaware little more than a pushover. They seem to be looking at the game with the Blue and Gold only as a warm-up for the tougher ones later on. From this release we quote, "The Blue and Gold boast no exceptional team this year, but Coach Tasker plans to steer clear of an upset."

Notice

Mr. Joseph Shields, director of intramural athletics, requests that all who are interested should form swimming and basketball teams and report at a day, October 13, at 1.00 p. m., in the gymnasium. At that time, student coaches will be given to the teams, and the lists will be checked to make sure that they have been made up according to intramural standards.

Booters Oppose Temple Today At Philadelphia

Delaware College's soccer aggregation will make its debut of the current season by opposing the Temple Owls today, October 8, at Philadelphia.

According to reliable sources, Coach Pete Leness expects to turn out a Cherry and White juggernaut which will have a banner year. The Temple booters boast several good Sophomores reinforced by two All-American players of last year. Therefore, though Delaware has defeated Temple many times in the past, prospects are slightly dubious for this year. Both teams will use the same offensive style of play, so that the game should prove interesting from the standpoint of which team has the most effective scoring punch.

Coach Andy Bowdle says that he believes that the statement a famous football mentor once made coincides exactly with his sentiments. The statement was to the effect that "every team will have a good season by our team." However, the Blue and Gold coach is probably just being his pessimistic self.

Coach Bowdle refused to reveal his starting lineup. However, the line has been rearranged to provide the very necessary scoring punch which is essential for victory. The defensive play of the squad has shaped up better than was expected but, no matter who wins, both teams will know they have encountered persistent rivals. Eighteen players is the number elected to make the trip, along with Captain Whitey Bant, Coach Bowdle, and Manager Stuart.

Delaware Bows To Ursinus Foe In Season Opener

Breaks were evenly divided as the 1937 edition of the Blue and Gold was downed 11-6 by Ursinus in a hard-fought game at Collegeville on Saturday, October 2.

In the closing minutes of the first quarter, Ursinus made its first tally, a field goal. After three attempts to gain through the line failed to bring any yardage, half-back Roy Dawson dropkicked one through the uprights from the 20 yard stripe. Undaunted, the Blue Hens came back in the second canto to chalk up their initial six-pointer by virtue of a blocked kick which Earl Sheats recovered on the 14 yard line. Captain Roberts, who played brilliantly all afternoon, scored on a short end run from the three yard mark. George's try for extra point was wide.

Throughout the third and beginning of the fourth periods, the Clarkmen were able to keep their slim 3 point margin intact. However, when Viden attempted to kick from his own 20, it was blocked and recovered by the Bears. Several subsequent line bucks brought the ball to the three yard line where Jack Taxi, speedy Ursinus back, scored through the line. Dawson's attempt for the conversion failed. The final score of the game came when Captain Roberts was tackled behind the goal line for a safety.

Karney's Point Team Defeats J. V.'s, 6 To 0

The University of Delaware junior varsity football team journeyed to Karney's Point, New Jersey, on Wednesday, October 6, where they were defeated by the Y. M. C. A. team of that town, 6-0, in a night game.

The "Y" boys scored the only six pointer of the game on the end of a 40 yard drive in the first quarter.

Only once during the game was Delaware in enemy territory. This was in the third period when Willy Waldron, center, intercepted a pass near midfield and raced to the Pointers' 22 yard line before being brought down. However, the Kar-ney's Point safety man intercepted a pass on his own 12 and the threat ended.

lems of a young woman and her mother who are constantly groping to reach a sympathetic understanding of each other, "The Conflict" is a tense drama with a highly emotional climax. Two other members of the family, a younger sister and brother, add additional support to the plot. Elizabeth MacFarland is directing the play, the cast for which is: Mother, Betty Jane Brown; Bess, Blanche Lee; Emilie, Mina Press; and Bob, Joseph Holzman.

Mystery surrounds the third number of the program, replacing "The Farewell Supper" which the University Drama Group was forced to cancel because of casting difficulties. All that can be learned is that anything of its nature has never before been attempted on the Mitchell Hall stage.

Playbill staff heads have been appointed as follows: Director for Puppets, Elizabeth MacFarland; director for Footlight Players, Carroll Cox; business manager, Jack Hearn; publicity, Virginia Rupert; make-up, Betty Grimm; scenery painting, Janet Grubb; costumes, Phyllis McClain; properties, Betty Jane Brown; lighting, Ken Steelman; and stage manager, Harold Tiffany.

Did this ever happen to you?

You might be standing right next to the most attractive person you ever met, but you don't know it until you are introduced... until you get acquainted.

And you don't know how much pleasure a cigarette can give until somebody offers you a Chesterfield.

Certainly this is true: Chesterfields are refreshingly milder... they've got a taste that smokers like.
