Newark Charter expansion reviewed by Charter School Board

By MARK CORRIGAN

MCORRIGAN@CHES PUB.COM

The Newark Charter School (NCS) faced another hurdle last Thursday when it presented its expansion proposal to the Delaware Charter Schools Accountability Board in Dover.

NCS is proposing to expand grades K-3 from 132 seats to 190, and to increase seats for grades 4 from 162 to 190. The first class for the high school component will be the addition of 190 seats for grade 9 in the fall of 2013 and an additional 9th grade class until the school has grades 9-12 in the 2016-2017 school year. Starting in 2014, 190 seats will be saved for students in each grade for grades 5-8. The school is expected to reach its full capacity of 2,470 students by 2017.

A crowd of over 150 supporters, wearing light blue t-shirts with the message "Newark Charter School: Our School, Our Choice," and opponents to the expansion made their way from Newark to the auditorium of the Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control (DNREC) to present public comments on the issue.

Representatives from NCS, including School Director Greg Meece, stated before the Board that this expansion is sorely needed and was initiated by NCS parents to allow their children to be able to continue the high quality education of the school at the high school level.

"Our expansion is in order to give our parents a choice," stated

Meece at a Newark Planning & Development Commission meeting in early February.

Since Newark has no charter high school, parents have been left with the option to either enroll in a private school, send their kids to one of the three public high school in the Christina School District (Newark High, Christiana High, or Glasgow High), or hope for inclusion into one of the charter high schools in nearby Wilmington, or elsewhere in the state.

Following comments made by NCS staff, Fred Polaski, Vice President of the Christina School Board, presented to the Accountability Board an impact study put together by the Christina School District (CSD), with assistance from the Delaware Department of Education and the University of Delaware's School of Education, that estimates that CSD will lose approximately 520 students when full expansion is achieved by NCS in 2017. The proposal was first presented

Council updates search for new City Manager

By DONNA C. GREGORY

NEWARK POST FREELANCE WRITER

Newark City Council members put together a wish list of characteristics they'd like to have in the future city manager during Monday night's council meeting.

Kyle R. Sonnenberg retired last month after serving as city manager since 2008. Georgia-based Slavin Management Consultants headed up the national search for Newark's city manager in 2008 and will also look for Sonnenberg's replacement.

Bob Slavin, SMC's president, asked council members to help update the city manager profile used during the 2008 search by providing a list of important qualities they'd like to see in the new city manager.

"We are a city who needs some creative thinking about future revenue sources," suggested Doug Tuttle, District 3 council member.

The city depends on revenues from the sale of electricity to cover about half of its annual budget.

Stu Markham, District 6 council member, said it's important for the new city manager to have the ability to build intergovernmental relationships and bring new businesses to Newark.

"Whoever comes in needs to push [information technology]," Markham added. "We're still behind."

Collaboration and partnering were common themes among several city leaders.

"I'd like someone with an engaging personality that is very comfortable in engaging all stakeholders, all citizens and all employees — having a true relationship where they have the avenues of open communication," said Jerry Clifton, deputy mayor and District 2 council member. "They, in a collaborative manner, want to move issues forward."

Ezra Temko said the new city manager needs to understand Newark has a "very personal government." The community expects the manager to be accessible.

"We're looking for a warmer, fuzzier personality,"

Car strikes restaurant, child seriously injured

The Newark Police are investigating a serious collision which occurred at 12:49 p.m. on Saturday, March 10 at the McDonald's restaurant located at 815 South College Avenue in Newark.

At the time of the collision a 17 year-old male from New Castle was attempting to pull a 2012 Dodge Caravan into a parking space on the west side of the restaurant, when, for an unknown reason, the vehicle accelerated, striking the west side of the building and partially intruding into the women's restroom.

At the time of the collision a 31 year-old Newark woman was inside the restroom with her 2 year-old daughter. The child was on a changing table mounted to the interior of the wall which was struck. The child sustained a head injury and the mother sustained a minor leg injury. Both were transported by Aetna Ambulance to Christiana Hospital. The child was later transferred to A.I. DuPont Hospital and is listed in serious condition. The mother has been released from the hospital.

The 17 year-old driver of the vehicle was not injured. No charges have been filed at this time and the investigation is ongoing.

MET investigation arrests two family members; drugs, ammo, and multiple firearms found

New Castle County Police, with assistance from a United States Postal Inspector, have arrested two family members and charged them with numerous criminal offenses after police discovered a package that was supposed to be delivered to another relative, which contained several different controlled substances. Police later discovered numerous weapons throughout their residence.

On November 17, 2011, members from the New Castle County Mobile Enforcement Team began an investigation into a package that was delivered by the United States Postal Service to a residence in the 100 block of Loretta Lane in Bear. Police were contacted by the homeowner and detectives learned that the package contained several controlled substances to include; 120 grams of Psilocybin mushrooms, 10 Ritalin pills, 30 Levothyroxine Sodium pills, 16 Soma pills, 6 Xanax pills and 30 Methadone pills, and was addressed to a female, later identified as the suspect's daughter, in Longmont, Colorado. The package had a return address of the aforementioned residence on Loretta Lane.

Detectives found the substances to be wrapped in plastic, bubble wrap and dryer sheets, and then put inside a T-shirt that was doused with perfume. The T-shirt was then placed inside a small box before being put into an express mail envelope. It was also discovered that the shipping on the package was not paid correctly at a self-serve kiosk, so the package was returned to the return address.

During the investigation, detectives were able to confirm that Marilyn Howell was the sender of the package. On Thursday, February 23, detectives responded to her home located in the 200 block of Beck's Woods Drive in the community of Beck's Woods in an attempted to contact the subject, but they were unsuccessful. Detective's then obtained an arrest warrant for Howell and a search warrant for the home.

The following day, they responded back to the residence in the hopes of finding Howell and executing the search warrant. When they arrived at the residence, Howell's son, Robert Howell, answered the door and was eager to come outside and speak with the officers. Moments later, his mother was located in the family room and taken into custody without incident.

During the execution of the search warrant, detective's observed suspected psilocybin mushrooms, drug paraphernalia and numerous firearms throughout the residence. Police learned that Marilyn Howell was a person prohibited from possessing weapons.

After obtaining a subsequent search warrant, police found drug paraphernalia including: pipes, scales, grinders and packaging materials inside the residence. Also located were marijuana, psilocybin mushrooms and five firearms, including; a .22 revolver, 9mm handgun, two .22 caliber rifles and a 7.62 caliber AK-47 rifle. The AK-47 rifle was found to be modified as fully automatic and had a 75 round drum attached. Inside Robert Howell's room detectives found a switchblade knife, multiple large ammunition crates filled with 7.62 caliber ammunition and several other boxes of ammunition (over 3,000 rounds) and loaded magazines.

The 9mm handgun was located in a tool bag that was found on the couch next to where both subjects were observed, when police arrived at the home. Inside the bag was an extended magazine for the handgun, along with gloves, a mask and burglar tools. They then located a large black bag in the living room, which contained multiple body armor vests, multiple face masks that included a ballistic face mask, a ballistic helmet, surgical gloves, throwing stars, two pairs of handcuffs and tactical clothing. Also found was a book that contained numerous assault type weapons, which he had hopes of acquiring.

Marilyn Howell, a 63 year-old female, was charged with the following crimes: Possession with intent to deliver a Controlled Substance (Six Counts), Possession of a Firearm by a Person Prohibited (Six Counts), Delivering a Prescription Drug to another person, and Drug Paraphernalia. She was arraigned and committed to the Delores J. Baylor Women's Correctional Institute after failing to post $76,500 secured bail.

Robert Howell, a 32 year-old male, was charged with the following crimes: Possessing a Destructive Weapon, Possession of Drug Paraphernalia, and Unlawfully Dealing with a Switchblade. He was arraigned and committed to the Howard Young Correctional Institute after failing to post $10,350 cash bail.

UD student arrested after bomb threat cleared dining hall and dorm

An 18-year-old University of Delaware freshman has been charged in connection with the bomb threat that forced the evacuation of the Russell Residence Hall Complex and Dining Hall on the evening of Saturday, March 10.

The suspect, who was not identified in a university release, has been charged with terroristic threatening and initiating a false report. He was arraigned March 11 through Justice of the Peace Court 11 and released on $4,000 unsecured bond. He has been banned from the university's campus pending a hearing with the Office of Student Conduct.

When an anonymous threatening phone call was received March 10, UD Police evacuated the Russell Dining Hall and secured the area. After a suspicious backpack was found in the dining hall, the perimeter of the evacuation area was extended to include all of the Russell Residence Hall Complex.

In addition to UD Police investigators and members of the K-9 unit, investigators from the Newark Police, the Wilmington Police and Delaware State Police Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit were called to the scene to assist.

Around 10 p.m., the area was declared safe, and students were allowed to return to their residence hall rooms.

Woman charged with leaving three kids at home while she went shopping

New Castle County Police have arrested Nia Rainey, 27, of the 2800 block of Northway Drive in the Carlton Court Apartment complex near Newark.

She has been charged with endangering the welfare of three children after police discovered that she left the kids unattended while going on a shopping trip.

On Saturday, March 10, at 1:44 p.m., police were called to the residence and discovered that three children had been left unattended. One of the children was a neighbor's child she was babysitting.

Police learned that Rainey had gone to the Family Dollar and Walgreen's convenience store with her two-year-old daughter while she left her eight-year-old daughter, one-year-old son and her neighbor's eight-year-old daughter, unattended.

Rainey returned home and

was immediately taken into custody without incident.

The Division of Family Services was notified and the children were temporarily placed in the custody of family members pending their investigation.

Rainey was arrested and charged with three counts of endangering the welfare of a child. She was arraigned and released on $1,500 unsecured bond and was ordered to have no unlawful contact with the children.

Landenberg resident sentenced to 80 months for child pornography charges

Jason Haldeman, 38, of Landenberg, PA, was sentenced to 80 months in federal prison for transportation of child pornography via an online peer-to-peer network. Haldeman also was sentenced to five years of supervised release following his prison sentence. He also will be required to register as a sex offender in any jurisdiction in which he lives, works, or attends school.

Haldeman, who is the owner and operator of Stat Care Ambulance Service, Inc., in West Grove, PA, was identified by agents from the United States Department of Homeland Security during an online investigation into a computer network devoted to trading images of child pornography. During that investigation, an undercover agent located in Delaware downloaded 74 files depicting child pornography that Haldeman had made available to network members.

Law enforcement agents arrested Haldeman and executed search warrants at his Landenberg residence and West Grove, Pennsylvania office on January 20, 2011. Upon entering Haldeman's private office at his business, agents found a computer logged into the computer network previously identified during the investigation. On this computer were approximately 16,000 files, including approximately 3,000 movies, depicting child pornography available for download by approximately 150 other network members. The vast majority of these images and movies depicted prepubescent and teenage boys and girls engaged in sex acts with other boys or adult males or posing lasciviously.

During the post-arrest investigation, federal agents learned that Haldeman had been accused of molesting two boys, one age eight and the other age twelve, when Haldeman was a teenager. The men had reported the abuse to the Pennsylvania State Police in 1998, but no charges resulted at that time. In sentencing Haldeman, United States District Judge Richard G. Andrews found the reports of Haldeman's physical sexual abuse suffered by these now adult men to be credible, and relied upon them in imposing sentence. In written submissions and statements made in court, the government also noted that over twenty years after his physical sexual abuse of these boys, Haldeman's child pornography collection and online conversations with other child sex offenders remained focused on images of the same types of sexual abuse and victims of the same age as the boys he abused.

Following the sentencing hearing, United States Attorney Charles M. Oberly, III stated, "This case is another example of the outstanding work being done by the Department of Homeland Security to identify and apprehend those who use the Internet to traffic in images of child sexual abuse and to network with other child sex offenders. I commend the agents for their excellent work in uncovering Mr. Haldeman's crimes against children – both past and present."

"All children have an absolute right to grow up free from the fear of being sexually exploited," said John P. Kelleghan, special agent in charge of HSI Philadelphia. "While this sentence cannot repair the permanent damage done to the children depicted in these images, it should serve as a warning to those who engage in this behavior: HSI and our partners will be relentless in our pursuit of online predators."

This case was investigated by U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Homeland Security Investigations, and was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Edward J. McAndrew.

Bear man arrested by State Fire Marshal's office

The Delaware State Fire Marshal's office has arrested a 47 year-old male for the manufacturing and possession of an explosive device and 1st-Degree Reckless Endangering.

Kevin Beal, of the unit block of Heron Ct., in Bear, was taken into custody by State Fire Marshal Deputies after turning himself in at Delaware State Police Troop 1 in Wilmington. Beal was charged with four counts of Possessing an Explosive Device and four counts of Reckless Endangering in the first degree. He was committed to Howard Young Correctional Facility in lieu of $8,000 secured bail.

Community divided over proposed high school

on March 5 in a public workshop held at Sarah Pyle Academy in Wilmington.

Breakdowns supplied in the report show that 186 students will be removed from the elementary school level (grades K-5), 57 from the middle school level (grades 6-8), and 277 students from the high school level, with an estimated 244 students coming from Newark High School.

The District, accordingly, will lose 28 teaching units, with 12 units being removed at Newark High.

Funding will also be affected, with state funding being reduced by $1.9 million and federal funds reduced by $150 thousand. Overall, CSD could lose up to $3.3 million in funding, from the expansion. Robert Silber, Assistant Superintendent, Finance & Operations, stated at the workshop that $870 thousand of that money could be recovered by eliminating teachers' salaries for the lost units, dropping the total to $2.4 million.

One of the District's objections over the expansion is the provision in NCS' charter that limits it to only accepting students within a five-mile radius of the school.

According to the study, "This 5-mile radius is completely within the boundaries of the Christina School District. Unlike other charter schools in the state, the enrollment impact of the Newark Charter School affects, solely, the Christina School District. In effect, the state would allow the development of a 'district within a district' with the expansion of Newark Charter School to a K-12 school."

Polaski also asked the Accountability Board, due to the amount of information presented by both sides, to enter a "no acceptance" decision or to delay the ruling to allow both sides to enact a fuller study of the subject and to have a greater cooperation between the district and the school.

State Representative John Kowalko (District 25 - Newark South) expressed his concern over the proceedings, as a whole, and directed his comments to the Delaware Board of Education.

"I find it rather unsettling that the opportunity of the public to speak at a forum for or against any pending policy decisions is only allowed to occur after significant discussion by only one side has been heard and tacit approval has been granted on the matter," said Kowalko. He continued, "This process, currently set by DOE regulations, is an indefensible abridgment of the rights of the public to effectively participate in a contested discussion."

Kowalko continued by demanding the State Board of Education members and Education Secretary Dr. Lillian Lowery to "very seriously consider the difference between the 'letter of the law' and the 'spirit of the law.'"

Though the expansion's impact will be felt at all educational levels in the District, it will be felt the greatest at Newark High School, where many residents believe the school will be stripped of its best and brightest students, which will diminish the school's Advanced Placement classes and its prestigious Cambridge Program, the first and only program of its kind to be offered in Delaware.

Reactions from both sides have been varied and many. Charter School Board Officer John Carwell stated at the meeting that over 550 e-mail comments had been received and would be reviewed.

Parents of both NHS and NCS students, by way of public comments, offered their opinions of each educational institution.

Supporters of Newark Charter stated their appreciation of the school's stellar performance and high ranking among schools in the country, while voicing their apprehension over the conditions at Newark High, calling the school "dangerous," "inferior," "out of control," and "falling apart."

Supporters for Newark High noted the school's wide-ranging and extensive AP program and its college-preparatory Cambridge Program, while calling Newark Charter School's admission policies "exclusionary," "geographically unfair," and "elitist."

Both sides agree that the addition of a high-quality high school will have benefits in attracting new businesses to the area, keeping residents happy, and improving education standards in Newark. While those benefits could help the City of Newark, as many parents stated, the costs to Newark High could be too great to bear.

Search anticipated to be a lengthy process added Mayor Vance A. Funk.

Slavin asked if the ideal candidate should have prior experience managing a college town, given the city's close relationship with the University of Delaware.

Council members seemed to agree that was less of a priority than other qualities.

"I think budgeting and experience in utilities are important," said Funk.

Slavin's firm will draft a new city manager profile, which will be reviewed by the council and mayor before the position is advertised nationally.

"I anticipate [SMC] narrowing the field down to less than 20 [candidates]," said Patricia Fogg, city secretary. "They will give those to the mayor and council to review and to rate, and then they will probably bring the top seven or eight candidates in for interviews. Following that, the council usually will narrow it down to four and then two. That's what they did in the past. It is assumed they will do it in the same manner."

In 2008, community members were able to meet and listen to presentations from the final candidates during a public meeting. The council then asked the public for feedback on the candidates.

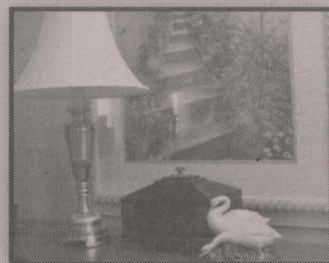

The national search is anticipated to be a lengthy process.

"Last time we had an interim city manager for eight months," Fogg said.

Assistant to the City Manager Carol Houck is serving as interim city manager while the search is conducted.

Time Well Spent.

Biden, 48 State Attorneys General & Federal Government move National Foreclosure Settlement forward

Attorney General Beau Biden, 48 state Attorneys General, and the United States Department of Justice moved to implement the settlement they reached last month with five of the nation's largest banks following a year-long investigation of mortgage servicing practices. The action, which included the filing of a civil complaint and proposed court orders that formalize the terms of the settlement announced February 9, paves the way for implementation of the settlement after they are approved by a U.S. District Court judge. The mortgage banks bound by the settlement include Ally, Bank of America, Citi, JPMorgan Chase and Wells Fargo.

"This settlement provides real relief for Delawareans who have suffered as a result of the housing crisis," said Biden, whose office secured more than $45 million for Delaware in the settlement. "In addition, it creates important new protections for our country's military men and women while not interfering with additional legal actions Delaware and other states are taking to hold banks accountable for their misconduct."

The joint state-federal investigation was initiated in October, 2010 amid widespread allegations of misconduct, including "robo-signing" of foreclosure documents by mortgage servicing banks. As detailed in today's complaint, the investigation found that bank misconduct "resulted in the issuance of improper mortgages, premature and unauthorized foreclosures, violation of service members' and other homeowners' rights and protections, the use of false and deceptive affidavits and other documents, and the waste and abuse of taxpayer funds."

The $45 million secured for Delaware by Biden's office under the settlement will be paid by banks to homeowners and the state in the following ways:

- More than $32 million to current and former homeowners to reduce principal mortgage loans, extinguish second lien mortgage loans and waive deficiencies in short sales, and to provide refinancing to homeowners who are current on their mortgages but are otherwise unable to obtain refinancing because they owe more than their homes are worth.

- Approximately $2,000 in payments to individual Delaware homeowners who have been foreclosed upon. Homeowners will be eligible to receive this money without having to release the banks from any liability for wrongful foreclosure.

- Approximately $10 million to Biden's office to fund homeowner assistance programs, educational outreach, support Delaware's new mortgage mediation program, and fund ongoing and new civil and criminal investigations and cases related to the foreclosure crisis.

In addition to securing payments for Delaware homeowners, Biden's office led the effort to include new protections for military personnel in the settlement. These provisions include:

- Protections for service members who are deployed to a new base, but are unable to sell a home near their former post because they owe more on the mortgage than the home is worth. Before the settlement, banks would not consider a service member's orders to move to a new base as a "hardship" that would allow them to be eligible for relief programs. The settlement terms now require the settling banks to make such personnel eligible for alternatives to foreclosure, such as loan modifications and short sales.

- An expansion of the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA), a set of legal protections for military personnel whose origins date back to the Civil War. Career military personnel will benefit from key foreclosure protections that were previously only available primarily to reservists or members of the National Guard. Now, a service member stationed in a hostile fire zone and facing foreclosure by one of the settling banks will receive the benefit of the SCRA's protections regardless of whether the mortgage loan was obtained before or after the beginning of the homeowner's active duty service.

- Payments, negotiated by the Civil Rights Division of the United States Department of Justice, of more than $115,000 each to any wrongfully foreclosed upon service member.

The mortgage servicing settlement does not affect separate actions Biden's office is taking to investigate the mortgage crisis, including its lawsuit filed this past October against MERS, the private mortgage registry that is at the heart of the foreclosure crisis. In that suit, Biden alleges that MERS has raised serious questions about who owns what in America and has sowed confusion among homeowners, investors, and other stakeholders in the mortgage finance system, seriously damaging the integrity of the land records that are central to Delaware's real property system, and leading to improper foreclosure practices. In addition, Biden is continuing his intervention in the proposed $8.5 billion settlement between the Bank of America and the Bank of New York Mellon to protect Delaware investors, an ongoing joint investigation with New York Attorney General into mortgage securitization practices, and he remains committed to sharing resources with other states to investigate possible misconduct.

Delawareans can obtain the latest information about the mortgage servicing settlement online at www.attorney-general.delaware.gov, www.NationalMortgageSettlement.com, and www.HUD.gov. Delaware homeowners can also call the Attorney General's Mortgage Hotline at 800-220-5424.

SPORTS

Newark sports teams see a spectacular end to the winter season

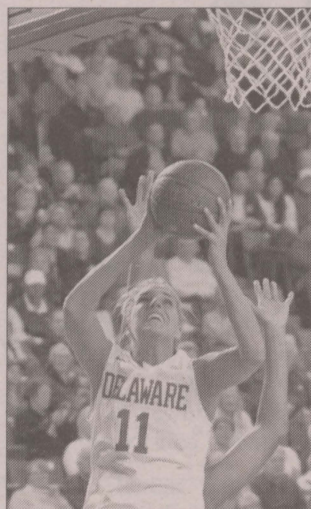

By JON BUZBY

JONBUZBY@HOTMAIL.COM

A national championship, an NCAA Tournament berth, and a heart-breaking end to a season highlighted the sports scene here locally last week.

It came as no surprise Monday night that the University of Delaware women's basketball team was selected for the NCAA Tournament. Even if Delaware (30-1) had not won the Colonial Athletic Association conference championship — UD defeated Drexel 59-43 — they were a lock to make the tournament. In fact, it was a foregone conclusion over a month ago.

And so the only suspense causing hearts to palpitate as the Delaware women gathered in front of the television at the Trabant Student

Elena Delle Donne

Center, was where the Hens would have to travel for the first two rounds.

The answer: Little Rock, Ark., where the No. 3 Blue Hens will face No. 14 University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

"We're all ready for it," Delle Donne said on ESPNU shortly after the announcement. "We're excited for people to see us play."

Coach Tina Martin didn't seem to care where the game is played.

"It's a very competitive matchup," she said. "I don't care if it's in Alaska. Let's play."

Should Delaware advance, they will face the winner of the Kansas-Nebraska game.

A parade down Main Street in the middle of winter? It must have been something special.

And it was.

The University of Delaware men's ice hockey team celebrated the club's first ACHA DI National Championship by strutting the Murdoch Cup down Main Street. The Blue Hens received a warm welcome home after returning from Strongsville, Ohio, following their 5-1 victory over Oakland University in the finals. It was the first national title in the 39-year history of the club program.

Delaware's road to the final included victories over three of the last four ACHA champions. The Hens defeated Oakland (2007 National Champion), Lindenwood (2008 and '09) and Davenport (2010).

"Tremendous accomplishment for these guys," head coach M.F. Schurman said. "We talked all year about winning the last game of the season. Once we got to the tournament everyone stepped up and contributed."

Freshman defenseman J.C. Brancaccio grew up playing ice hockey for the Junior Blue Hens, and so for him, winning the national title was something he had dreamed about since he first laced up his skates when he was 5 years old.

"It was the greatest feeling ever," Brancaccio said. "Having grown up in the area, I knew it would be a great program to play for. And then to make the team at the beginning of the year as a freshman and contributing all year, it was just a pretty cool feeling to be a part of that."

The Newark High basketball team put together one of the best offensive performances of the year on any court in the state of Delaware in the semifinals of the Delaware Interscholastic Athletic Association Boys Basketball Tournament. The Yellowjackets shot a blistering 55.6 percent from the field and converted over half its 3-pointers (8 of 15) to advance to the finals with a relatively easy 69-52 win over rival Hodgson Vo-Tech.

Unfortunately for Newark (18-6), waiting in the wings was two-time defending champion Sanford (23-1), and a staunch defense that held opponents to 40 points or less 10 times this season.

Newark managed to score more than 40 points in the title game, but it wasn't enough as the Blue Hen Conference champions fell to the Warriors 58-50. With the win, Sanford became the first boys' team to win three straight state championships, compiling a 68-4 record during their run.

For Newark, reaching the title game was an unexpected ending to a season that started with four losses in its first five games.

"I will always remember this group for the way they bounced back from a rough start to reach the finals," head coach Shannon McCants said.

The loss marked the end of Andre Horne's high school career. The 1290 The Ticket Player of the year enrolled at Newark after playing his three previous seasons at three different schools.

"I'm still upset that we lost," Horne said the day after the game. "We gave them all we had. We played smart and together as a team. I just wish there was a little bit more time on the clock. But today is a new day and it's time to get ready for the next level."

Horne has received scholarship offers from Iona, Quinnipiac, High Point and Drexel.

It was also the second straight loss in a title game this year for Taylor Reynolds, who quarterbacked the football squad to the brink of a state championship in the fall. Despite his prowess on the football field, the senior's contributions to the basketball program won't soon be forgotten.

"What I will really remember most about this team is my guy, Taylor Reynolds, who has been starting for me since he was a sophomore and led the team in assists all three years," McCants said. "He is one of the most competitive game-day players I ever coached."

State grant brings hybrid vehicles to Newark

By DONNA C. GREGORY

NEWARK POST FREELANCE WRITER

Newark's city government is becoming greener with the addition of three new hybrid vehicles.

The City Council approved the purchase of the city's first hybrids at their February 27 council meeting. The Toyota Camry sedans will cost $24,718 each, partially funded by a grant from the Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control. They will replace traditional gas-fueled vehicles being used by the city's electric and parks departments.

"We've been trying to add hybrids to our fleet for several years," said Carol S. Houck, interim city manager. "The problem is they were always cost prohibitive, and we just couldn't make the numbers work with the funding we had."

That changed when the city was awarded the $50,000 Delaware Greenhouse Gas Grant from the state. About $25,500 will be applied toward the vehicles' purchase.

In addition to the hybrids, the city also will purchase three Chevrolet Caprices ($26,883/each), an Impala ($19,465) and a four-wheel drive Tahoe ($29,140) to replace aging vehicles in the police department. Two Ford F250s ($26,245 and $37,999) and two F350s ($30,764 and $74,095) will replace vehicles in the parks, public works and water/sewer departments.

Altogether, the city will spend $372,511 (including the $25,500 in grant funding) on routine vehicle replacements this year.

The vehicles are being purchased from Mall Chevrolet, Winner Ford and Hudson Motors — all New Jersey dealerships.

Council member Stu Markham questioned why the vehicles are being bought out of state.

"The state of Delaware puts out the contract, and the Delaware dealerships are not bidding on it," Houck explained. "For whatever reason, they don't see it as valuable to them. For a couple of years now, it seems there's been more New Jersey car dealers that have been involved. Certainly it seems that they are just more apt to dedicate someone to do all the bidding."

"I think it's unfortunate," said Markham during last week's meeting. "It would be nice if we could buy in the state."

Council member Ezra Temko publicly thanked the state for awarding the greenhouse gas grant to the city.

"I'm excited we will have hybrids," Temko said. "This has been an issue we've talked about for many years."

The vehicles that are being replaced will be sold at auction this fall.

The hybrids and other new vehicles should be added to the fleet by June.

The remainder of the greenhouse gas grant will be used to install irrigation systems on three landscaped islands in the median of Elkton Road.

The roadway is currently under construction, and several islands are being replaced.

"The irrigation allows us to not be visiting the sites as much to water and to put in some more attractive, colorful plants in the summer months," Houck said.

Irrigation systems will be installed on the islands at Thorn Lane and O'Daniel and Amstel avenues.

Newark firm wins improvement contract

The Department of Transportation (DelDOT) announces that Newark-based contractor A-Del Construction Co., Inc. has been awarded a $5.9 million contract to widen Route 7 from Newtown Road to Route 273.

The project improvements include: the construction of a storm water management pond; the relocation of water, gas and sewer lines; the placing of drainage pipes, inlets and under drain pipe systems; and the construction of curb, gutter, and sidewalk. There will also be the construction of a mechanically stabilized earth wall, and the milling and reconstruction of roadway.

Construction for this project will start in April, and is anticipated to be completed within 607 calendar days. The contractor must adhere to plan notes that stipulate a 9 a.m. through 3 p.m. workday restriction. Specifically, two lanes of traffic must be maintained between the hours of 7 a.m. through 9 a.m., and from 3 p.m. through 5 p.m. During construction, there will be intermittent lane closures, however, no detours are anticipated at this time.

Variable Message Boards notifying the traveling public will be set up two weeks prior to the start of construction.

Details on this project can be found online at: http://deldot.gov/information/projects/sr7_sr273/;

Wawa celebrates grand opening of Newark store

Wawa, Inc. announced the celebration of the grand opening of their brand new store located at 601 Ogletown Road, Newark. To commemorate the opening of the store, Wawa hosted a Hoagies for Heroes hoagie building competition between the Aetna Hose Hook & ladder Company and the University of Delaware Athletics Department.

On Friday, March 9, Wawa officially commenced the grand opening ceremony, with the help of the Honorable Jack Markell, Governor of Delaware; Lieutenant Governor Matthew Denn; Alan Levin, Director of Delaware Economic Development; and Vance Funk, Mayor of Newark.

During the event, members of the community, state and local officials, Wawa executives, store associates and Wawa's mascot, Wally Goose, were on hand to share in and celebrate the grand opening festivities and ribbon cutting ceremony. As part of the event, Wawa's CEO Howard Stoeckel, gave brief remarks about the history of Wawa and, along with state and local officials, cut the ceremonial ribbon, signifying the store's official grand opening.

Immediately following the ribbon cutting ceremony, the hoagie building contest began. The contest pitted the two teams against each other in a hoagie building contest for the charities of their choice just after the ribbon cutting. During the contest, both teams were challenged to build as many hoagies as they can in the traditional Wawa way in three minutes. Both teams were awarded checks for $1,000 to donate to the charities of their choice.

Though the police department did not field a team for the event,

"I know I speak for Wawa and the community when I say that we all recognize the great importance of fire fighters and police who work tirelessly every day to keep our communities safe," said Stoeckel. "Our grand opening celebration is a wonderful way to bring the community and our local heroes together as well as our neighbors at the University of Delaware to celebrate our commitment to expanding in Delaware and New Castle County."

The new Newark store features Wawa's new design prototype, including 5,200 square feet of retail space and an additional gasoline facility that can fuel 12 cars simultaneously, as well as new in-store graphics, colors, restroom design, and merchandising features. Tony Davis will serve as General Manager of the store, leading a team of 35 associates, which are new jobs made possible through the building of the new store.

"We're happy – and we know Newark residents are happy – to have a new Wawa in the community," said Governor Jack Markell. "We appreciate Wawa's investment in Delaware, creating new jobs at this location and keeping people working at the many Wawa stores throughout the state."

The Post's Palate: Burger fare with Mexican flair at Santa Fe

By BECKY MCKINNEY

THEPOSTPALATE@GMAIL.COM

Have you been to Santa Fe lately? Go. Now.

I may be the tiniest bit biased, because Mexican food is my favorite, but regardless, you won't be disappointed. If the new sit-down bar and house-infused tequila flavors aren't enough to get you in the door, just wait until you hear about the meal I had there.

About a month ago, owner Javier Acuna made some changes to the menu. I started with the gorditas, homemade corn masa filled with carnitas, lettuce, tomatoes, green tomatillo sauce (my personal favorite) and queso fresco. Now, I eat at Santa Fe pretty often and usually order nachos to start, but after trying these, it's going to be a tough call from now on. It's too soon to say whether these will become Newark favorites, but I'm willing to bet on it.

It was hard to get an answer out of Acuna when I asked him what his favorite item on the menu was, and I'm not surprised. Everything sounds fantastic. We talked for a while about their famous fish tacos, which I didn't need to try because I've had them about a thousand times. Filled with fresh grilled tilapia, romaine lettuce, jalapenos and, here's the twist, cucumbers, you really can't go wrong. There isn't much that can beat a good taco.

I also had a taste of Santa Fe's "Raised from the Dead" soup. Definitely worth trying, especially if you've had a little too much to drink the night before. Apparently it's a miracle hangover cure. It's a seafood broth with tons of fresh muscles, shrimp, salmon and scallops. The secret? The soup is fortified with coconut milk. Very different. Very tasty.

McKinney

We were in the middle of discussing the dessert menu, when all of a sudden, the owner's eyes lit up and he almost jumped from his seat and exclaimed, "The burger!"

One doesn't necessarily expect to see a burger on the menu at a Mexican restaurant, but this one is on an entirely different level. First of all, it's made with sirloin beef mixed with chorizo. Chorizo is a spicy Mexican sausage and in my opinion, goes well with everything. Anyway, the burger is topped with chipotle mayo, coated and fried jalapenos and a fried egg (Oh. My. God.). I wasn't the only one awe struck either.

"When we first added it to the menu, I had one every day for a week," Acuna admitted. He went further to explain that he initially wasn't too keen on the idea of adding a burger to the menu. But with the right quality and the right twist, it couldn't be more perfect.

He described the burger as a blend between a classic American burger and a Mexican torta, or sandwich. "It's the best of both worlds," he said. Maybe that's what he should name it.

The burger is definitely messy. I went through quite a few napkins eating it, but it is so worth it.

I want one right now. Maybe I'll go back there tonight.

Kale Chips Rock! Eating and Growing Healthy Every Day

By CARRIE MURPHY

UD COOPERATIVE EXTENSION

We're cooking up a buzz about kale chips!

Hold on — what are kale chips anyway? Kale is a leafy, green vegetable that's related to cauliflower, broccoli, and head cabbage. It can be grown locally, and it is rich in vitamins, minerals, and anti-oxidants. So kale chips are really kale leaves, chopped and briefly baked with a bit of olive oil and a sprinkle of salt. MMMM! These easy-to-make chips taste amazingly like deep-fried potato chips!

So why the buzz about kale chips? Because they are so MUCH better for us than potato chips! What an intriguing alternative when over-indulgence is oh-so-easy. The Delaware Urban Farm Coalition advocates for healthy and tasty options every day, and we're working hard to create a buzz for kale chips that'll be serious competition for the latest junk food fad.

So why doesn't everyone just buy some kale and cook it? The Delaware Urban Farm Coalition is wrestling with this dilemma: kale and other fresh produce that is relatively easy to grow, store, and prepare is not readily available to many residents in and near Wilmington.

What are we doing to solve this dilemma?

Since its formation in 2008, The Delaware Urban Farm Coalition, facilitated by the Delaware Center for Horticulture, has sought to expand the growing of fruits and vegetables in and near Wilmington; improve access to a variety of healthy foods for those who currently don't have wide access; and, provide information regarding healthy eating.

The work of the Coalition is well known in Wilmington, but what about Newark, New Castle, and greater New Castle County? As interim chair of the Delaware Urban Farm Coalition, I'd like to tell you more about this energetic and motivated coalition. The Delaware Urban Farm Coalition jump-started Delaware's first urban farm at 12th and Brandywine Streets in Wilmington as their flagship effort. Comprising 1,600 square feet of three-season raised beds, the Urban Farm is situated in the 11th Street Bridge Neighborhood where the nearest grocery store is two miles away. Crops grown at the Farm, and sold to residents through a weekly farmer's market include kale (yes!), collards, tomatoes, chard, onions, and blackberries, amongst many others. The Farm also includes another 1,200 square feet of raised beds for community members to grow their own vegetables, fruits, and flowers.

But there's still so much more to be done! That's why the Delaware Urban Farm Coalition organized the Wilmington area's first annual "Growing Local, Staying Local, Eating Local" urban agriculture summit in October, 2011. Almost 100 persons attended the summit; they represented farmers, children's health advocates, and community gardeners, among many others. Summarizing their discussions through the kale chips lens puts it all into perspective: "How do we create buzz about kale, kale chips, and other healthy vegetables and fruit?" Their ideas and suggestions fell into these three main categories:

1. Grow more kale. Establish more school and community gardens in our neighborhoods that allow adults and children alike to learn how easy it is to grow kale, and to see how kale looks, feels, and tastes.

2. Make more kale available. Transport even more kale from nearby urban and rural farms into our neighborhood corner stores; fresh kale can be stored for a week or so at cool temperatures.

3. Eat more kale. Educate city residents about the nutritional value of kale, and spread the word about how to make those tasty and nutritious kale chips.

Members of the Delaware Urban Farm Coalition are deeply committed to implementing the summit attendees' recommendations in practical, creative, and collaborative ways.

The Delaware Center for Horticulture, which hosts the Delaware Urban Farm Coalition, cultivates a greener community; inspiring appreciation and improvement of our environment through horticulture, education and conservation. To learn more about the DCH, contact Tara Tracy, Urban Agriculture Manager at: ttracy@thedch.org. The Delaware Urban Farm Coalition is on Facebook- "LIKE" us to keep learning about the Coalition and the issues we're addressing. Requests for additional information can be directed to cjmurphy@udel.edu, Delaware Urban Farm Coalition, Interim Chair, and Extension Educator for Horticulture, New Castle County Master Gardener Coordinator, with the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension.

BAKED KALE CHIPS

These are healthy and low calorie, and you cannot stop, at just eating one! Kale chips are a great party or movie night snack. Try different seasoning combinations, too.

1 bunch kale (4-5 cups)
1 TBS olive oil (olive oil spray works especially well!)
1 TSP sea salt or seasoned salt
1 TSP vinegar

1. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Line a non-insulated cookie sheet with parchment paper.

2. With a knife or kitchen shears, carefully remove the leaves from the thick stems and tear into bite size pieces. Wash and thoroughly dry kale pieces with a salad spinner. Drizzle chips with olive oil or spray with olive oil and sprinkle with seasoning. Feel free to experiment with various seasonings that you and your family like.

3. Bake until the edges brown but are not burnt, between 10 to 20 minutes. Gently stir leaves halfway through baking.

Treasure Hunters Come to Newark Next Week!

By Jason Delong
THR's Treasure Hunters Roadshow
STAFF WRITER

Got Gold? Next week, visitors can cash in on antiques, collectibles, gold, silver, coins or just about anything that is old.

THR's Treasure Hunters Roadshow is not affiliated with or related to the Antiques Roadshow television series, PBS or WGBH

Clean out your attics, closets and lock boxes because Treasure Hunters are coming to Newark. Event specialists will be in town examining antiques, collectibles, gold and silver.

While they will accept anything that's old, they will be focusing on gold and silver coins made before 1970, military items, toys and trains, musical instruments, pocket and wrist watches. Scrap gold is expected to be a popular category this week due to soaring

"U.S. coins made before 1970 are most sought after by collectors. Coins made before 1970 are 90% silver and valuable because of the silver content or could be worth even more if one happens to be a rare date."

gold prices.

Buyers for the event have noticed a tremendous increase in the amount of gold coming to the event and for good reason. Record gold prices have event guests cashing in on broken jewelry or jewelry they don't wear anymore with our "fair and honest" purchase offers.

Treasure Hunters encourage anyone planning a visit to take a minute and examine their jewelry box or their lock box at the bank and gather anything that's gold. If a guest is not sure if something is gold, bring it anyway and the event staff will test it for free. Other gold items of interest include gold coins, gold ounces, gold proof sets and dental gold.

Other types of items event specialists hope to see include old toys and train sets. Archie Davis, THR's toy specialist spoke about some of the top toys getting great offers. "Old tin windup toys from the late 1800's through the 1960's are in great demand now," said Davis, "Especially those that are character related. Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, the Flintstones or any character toys are sought. Old Buddy L toys from the 1920's to 1960's are in demand." Basically any toys made before 1970 are wanted. Train sets made by Lionel, American Flyer, Marklin and others have the potential to fetch a large sum. Davis also stressed, "Toys with boxes and in mint condition bring sensational prices. Most of the toys that come to the event are not in perfect shape but can still bring good prices from collectors."

was asked what he enjoyed most about working at the event, he was quick to answer, "Old coins and paper currency. For as long as I can remember I have been fascinated with collecting coins. I would go through the change in my parents grocery store looking for rare dates and errors. Once, I found a silver quarter that I sold for $300.00. Not bad for an 8 year old."

Fuller went on to explain that any U.S. coins made before 1970 are most sought after by collectors. Coins made before 1970 are 90% silver and valuable because of the silver content or could be worth even more if one happens to be a rare date. "We help people sort through their coins for unique dates. We buy all types of coins at the event from wheat pennies to buffalo nickels, which are valuable from one coin to an entire truckload. See you at THR's Treasure Hunters Roadshow," said Fuller.

Nardo honored at Council meeting

The late Val Nardo was honored by the Newark Mayor and Council at their meeting on Monday night. Nardo, a retired barber who passed away early last week, was well known for his community service that included a holiday food program for Newark-area residents. On hand were members of Nardo's family to receive the honors from Mayor Vance Funk.

Out of the Attic

This week's Out of the Attic item is an undated photograph of the Deer Park Farm House located at the northwest corner of the intersection of West Park Place and Depot Road. (Depot Road was later renamed South College Avenue). The house was built for James S. Martin, a fur trader, who moved from Philadelphia about 1850 and bought farmland west of Depot Road. The house and farm were named "Deer Park" for the herd of deer that grazed the grounds and trees. Martin bought and demolished the century old St. Patrick's Inn at the intersection of Main Street and new London Road. He then built a new structure on the site and named it the Deer Park Hotel. He is also credited with hard surfacing Depot Road that ran the one mile from Main Street to the Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore Railroad (today's Amtrak Northeast Corridor line). As quickly as he came to Newark, Martin left town.

Circa 1875 the Deer Park Farm House became the residence of the Justin J. Pie family whose descendants still live in Newark. Later the house was acquired by the Fraternal Order of Red Men to be the State Rest Home for lodge members. After that the varied uses included being the fraternity house for several University of Delaware fraternities before its purchase by a developer who planned to convert it to condominiums. Following a long delay, the building was razed. The Christian Science Church now occupies the site.

Visit the Newark History Museum located at the historic 1877 passenger train station on South College Avenue beside the bridge on the town side of the tracks. The museum is now observing winter hours through March with visits by appointment only. Individuals, groups, clubs, or organizations are welcome to call 368-9845 for arrangements. The Newark Historical Society invites donations or loans of objects, stories, pictures, and other artifacts of places, activities, people, and life styles in the Greater Newark Area for its permanent collections and display. UDance marathon tops $450,000 for Children with Cancer

University of Delaware students and community members united this past Sunday to raise over $450,000 for children battling pediatric cancers. All donations benefited The B+ Foundation, which provides financial support for families of critically ill children and sponsors research to find cures for pediatric cancers and advancements in chemotherapy.

More than 2,500 students and community members participated in the 12-hour dance marathon. Notable participants who spoke during the event included UD head football coach K.C. Keeler, Governor Jack Markell, and B+ founder, Joe McDonough. The UD women's varsity basketball team, which had defeated Drexel University to become CAA Champions earlier that afternoon, also made a surprise appearance.

The B+ Heroes Ceremony, which honors children who have been diagnosed with cancer and have been "adopted" by larger UD student organizations, was an especially emotional moment during the event. Sixteen-year-old Miranda Ram-Nolte, Sigma Kappa sorority's B+ Hero, left A.I. DuPont Hospital where she had been receiving chemotherapy treatment that day, in order to attend the ceremony.

The moment was also special for UDance Chair and senior Ali McDonough. Ali's brother, Andrew McDonough, who passed away at age 14 due to Leukemia complications, inspired the McDonough family to start The B+ Foundation in 2007.

When the grand total was shown on stage at the end of the event, students were ecstatic to learn their year-long efforts had raised $455,982.16. The grand total exceeded the cumulative amount UDance had raised over the past four years.

Student plans fundraising bike trip in Woody Guthrie's memory

By JENNIFER KESSMAN

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

When your average University of Delaware senior considers the summer after graduation, there may be thoughts of spending hours in the sun, seeing friends and finding the perfect job.

But senior Mike Fink is planning the opposite kind of summer—one spent biking across the country to help fight Huntington's disease.

Huntington's disease is a neurodegenerative disorder that causes certain parts of the brain to deteriorate, resulting in loss of motor function and coordination. Fink's inspiration for the trip is Woody Guthrie, an American folk singer who passed away from complications of Huntington's disease in 1967.

As a history major with an American history concentration, Fink said he admires Guthrie because of his impact in the music world and on labor history. Probably best known today for writing and singing "This Land is Your Land," Guthrie wrote songs about his experiences, including travels with migrant workers in the Dust Bowl era, and was an activist for such causes as labor unions as a member of the folk-protest group, the Almanac Singers.

Fink thought that there was no better way to honor Guthrie than to dedicate his next bike trip in his name.

"There are so many things that I admire about [Guthrie] and can commiserate with," Fink said. "His itinerant lifestyle, his penchant to wander, is something I inherited, as well."

Fink's love for cycling began in 2007 when he went on his first bike trip—a lengthy round trip in South Carolina and Georgia. He continued with rides to Maine in 2008, Charleston, S.C. in 2009, and New Orleans in 2010.

Fink hopes to begin his trip during the first week of April—he is now finishing the final credits needed for his degree—and plans on arriving in Oklahoma by mid-July for a celebration marking Guthrie's 100th birthday. Along the way, he plans on making a few stops to give back to charity.

"I plan to stop at Centers of Excellence run by the Huntington Disease Society of America and to meet with individuals and families who live with the realities of Huntington's disease," Fink said. "I've been waiting for this for a very long time."

Please visit <http://www.firstgiving.com/fundraiser/bike-mike/2012> to find out more information about the trip and how to donate to the cause of Huntington's disease.

Newark skate spots Public Workshop

The City of Newark will be holding a public workshop at the Municipal Building, Council Chamber, 220 Elkton Road, Newark, DE 19711, on Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. to discuss possible locations for skate spots in the area.

It is estimated that there are more than 1,300 skateboarders in Newark and there are no skateboard facilities in the City. Newark has secured funding through a private donation, a Delaware Land and Water Conservation Trust Fund grant and City funds to build skate spots in two or three of its parks in order to provide properly designed and constructed skateboarding facilities. These facilities are safer for skateboarders to use because they are away from roads, parking lots and other areas not designed for such use. The skate spots will provide a new outdoor recreation opportunity that will encourage youth to be more physically active.

A few of the parks being considered for the skate spots are Handloff Park, Kells Park, Phillips Park, Lumbrook Park, and Fairfield Park. Newark plans to secure the services of a professional design and construction firm to help design and build the skate spots.

The Parks and Recreation Department staff and the Newark Skate Spot Committee are hosting a public workshop to discuss what a skate spot is and how it differs from a skate park, present site options, provide pictorial samples of skate spots, and other information about the project.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Central High School in North Sydney, Nova Scotia, Canada in 1948. She studied accounting at a French Canadian Catholic

Olsen

School in New Brunswick and continued in that line of work while following after her husband who worked his way across Canada in a variety of energy fields. She moved to the U.S. in 1967 when her husband was transferred to Delaware by Hercules Inc.

She was a member of Ebenezer United Methodist Church where she worked in a variety of areas including decorating committees and Coordinator of Meals on Wheels for several years. She later worked for Chem-Sol Inc., as Secretary assisting her husband who started Chem-Sol Inc., an Engineering Consulting firm.

A memorial service will be held on Saturday, March 17, at 11 a.m. at Ebenezer United Methodist Church, in Newark, followed by a lunch in the Church Christian Dining Room. Burial will be private with family and close friends at the Smith gravesite next to the EUMC Church.

In lieu of flowers the family suggest contributions to Ebenezer United Methodist Church, 525 Polly Drummond Road, Newark, DE 19711.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Mocha, Music & More celebrates Spring on Main Street

This Friday, March 16 from 7 to 9 p.m., Mocha, Music & More celebrates Spring at Central Perk at 42 E. Main Street. Friends of Newark, a community organization dedicated to building community, continues to promote local creativity with its monthly coffee-house of live entertainment.

The first performances of the evening are spoken word performances starting with Steven Leach, poet, radio host, editor, and publisher, who has been active in the Delaware literary scene since the early 70's. Steven is the author of several books and has also researched and published Delaware historical literary figures. Franetta McMillian, poet, prose writer and 'zine' publisher, will follow. Franetta has been published in "Perspectives of New Music", "Taproot" and "Jittering Microscope". She has also won 'zine' awards and been published in numerous 'zines'.

The next performer of the evening is comedian Bradford Paik. Brad, a University of Delaware graduate student, hails from the West Coast. He did his undergraduate studies in the Midwest where he performed with an award-winning comedy ensemble. Having migrated eastwards, currently he is now focused on his graduate studies and honing his solo comedy routine.

The last act of the evening, Scrapple Creek Runners, is an American roots group that plays traditional American songs and their own material based on blues and folk and rock influences. The band includes Paddy- vocals, guitar; J. C.- bass, tenor bass; Dave- snare drum; bohdran; John- mandolin; Jim- five-string banjo and Paul- five-string banjo.

Mocha, Music & More offers opportunities for artists to perform original or non-copy-right material live in an intimate and friendly setting. Those who are interested in performing, please contact Friends of Newark at davidr41@hotmail.com.

Exotic House Plant Show and Sale in Christiana

The Delaware African Violet and Gesneriad Society will present its 46th Annual Free Houseplant Show and Sale at Boscov's Christiana Town Center store off Route 273 in Christiana, Delaware on Saturday, March 31, from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and the public is invited to attend. There is plenty of free parking, and the store is accessible to persons with special needs.

The theme of this year's show is "African Violet Go to the Races" and will display exotic prize winning houseplants from Tropical Africa and the Rain Forests of the Amazon. The show also features floral design classes interpreting the main theme for the show. Classes interpreting Winterthur's Point-to Point, Dover's NASCAR, Delaware Park's thoroughbred and Harrington's harness races. The show includes design classes for arrangements of growing plants, terrariums and dish gardens.

The Society will be creating an educational exhibit on growing houseplants under lights and will have knowledgeable members on hand to answer questions about houseplants and how to grown them.

A very special class will have plants grown by children from the Richardson Park Learning Center in Wilmington, which educates children in an environment where developmental abilities and skills are recognized and valued.

For more information, phone 302-653-6449 or visit the Chapter's website at <http://gesneriad-society.org/chapters/DAVS/>.
